His laughter was silence as Katherine switched off and turned her back on Bladefeather, standing guard before his cell and making sure that nobody dared to come near the cell. Bladefeather just slumped down against the wall, his back turned on Katherine. He thought desperately for a way out of the cell. To his annoyance, he couldn't see anyway out of the cell. He would just have to wait and hope his fiancée would come and rescue him. But how would Matilda save him if Katherine was here to damage the glass before she could get near to him? It seemed like a hopeless situation for the falcon now but he refused to give up hope. Hope was a valuable ally and it can save your life no matter what situation you're in...

Meanwhile, the Royal Fighters had found Mushu the Iguana at last and were now on their way to the refuelling station. Mushu was Bladefeather's silent companion and the two had been best friends since the day they first trained to be kung-fu warriors. After hearing that Bladefeather wasn't back from his mission yet, Mushu had been all too happy to come along and aid the Royal Fighters and Matilda in their mission. He had been pleasantly surprised to see that Li Moon was coming too and was curious to see how well she'd do on her first mission. The Mobians came to the Bamboo Forests and Matilda led the way, pushing through thickly grown bamboo trees and trying to move as fast as she can. The others followed as much as they possibly could despite the thickness of the bamboo trees. Blaze had been severely tempted to just burn down the trees and make their path a whole lot clearer but she knew better than to just burn down trees in somebody else's country. Matilda wouldn't approve of this at all so she kept her fire to herself. Silver began wishing he'd just flown everybody over but he didn't complain. It took a good few minutes before the trek through the jungle finally came to a close and Matilda held up a hand that signalled everybody to stop. She'd clearly spotted something and she was observing the scenery before her before making a move. The Mobians hesitated.

"Sssh, there it is." she whispered, pointing ahead of herself "And it's heavily guarded. Keep quiet."

She signalled everybody to come to her. The Mobians crept up behind Matilda as quietly as possible and they knelt down beside her. It was lucky that Matilda had chosen a thick bush to hide behind otherwise at least one Egg-Pawn would have noticed them already. Sonic couldn't resist peeking over the bush and getting a look at the refuelling station that he, Silver and Blaze had come to destroy. His jaw dropped at the sheer size of the station. It was bigger than the first two stations that had been destroyed. He dreaded to think how big the other stations that his friends had split up to destroy were. He began to wonder if the Death Egg's actual size was as big as this station. Silver and Blaze risked a glance too and found themselves gaping at what stood before them.

"Holy heck...that's one big station!" gasped Silver, trying his best to keep his voice down and still sound surprised at the same time.

"That's ridiculously big!" piped Ruben quietly "Bigger than anything I've ever seen!"

"The Death Egg must be enormous if that's how big its refuelling station is!" whispered Blaze "We'll certainly be a while destroying that!"

"With me on the case? Not likely. We'll be done by dinner." crowed Sonic "So, has anyone got a plan at all? Mine is "Smash everything in sight and see where Bladefeather is" but I'm up for any other suggestions."

"I have one." said Matilda "Everybody will distract the guards while I go in to find Bladefeather. He's nowhere to be seen around here so he must be inside."

"What about those gun turrets?" asked Li Moon, pointing at the gun turrets "Won't they shoot us if we get near the station?"

"I'll take them out." said Silver "My psychokinesis will bring those turrets down easily. In fact, everybody wait here and I'll deal with the turrets now."

"OK." said Matilda, a little unsurely "You be careful out there."

"I'm always careful your majesty." boasted Silver.

He emerged from his hiding place and he ran forward towards the station. The moment he stepped within five metres of the station, the gun turrets were all aimed at him and they began to fire. Silver held up his hands and caught the shots with his psychic grasp. The shots slowed down to a stop just inches in front of him and Silver lifted up his hand to turn the shots around. He aimed them at the turrets and he swiped his arms aside. The shots rocketed towards the gun turrets and destroyed them instantly. With no turrets left, the station could only rely on the Egg-Pawns for protection and at the moment, they were too shocked to take action against Silver. Matilda, Li Moon and Mushu were gobsmacked. They had never seen power like this before so to see something so magical looking was enough to make them stare in amazement.

"W-w-wow...th-that's incredible!" whispered Matilda.

"What kind of power is that? Ancient Chi-Magic or something?" asked Li Moon inquisitively "That's not possible!"

"When you're a Mobian Li Moon, nothing's impossible." said Sonic with a wink "Now let's bring down that station!"

If there was anything that Sonic thoroughly enjoyed, it was smashing Dr. Eggman's robots and foiling whatever hair-brained scheme he was concocting. He'd been doing it for two years going on three now and he still never tired of it, though he did look forward greatly to the day Dr. Eggman's tyranny was finally over. And hopefully with the inevitable destruction of the Death Egg, this year would be Eggman's last. Sonic leapt into action immediately and hurtled towards some of the Egg-Pawns in a killer spin-dash that would reduce them to smithereens. That was exactly why the Egg-Pawns had been equipped with shields in the first place. An Egg-Pawn raised his shield and despite the shield sparing it the horror of being eviscerated by a spin-dash, Sonic knocked it clean off its feet and onto its back. The shield did little more than delay the inevitable for the Egg-Pawn. Sonic snatched the shield off the Egg-Pawn and he threw it like a Frisbee at the other Egg-Pawns. The shield pinged off of one Egg-Pawn's head and hit another, knocking them down as if they were nothing. The Egg-Pawn that Sonic had knocked over swung its lance at Sonic but Sonic grabbed the lance, snatched it off the Egg-Pawn and stabbed it through the chest. The Egg-Pawn twitched helplessly as its own lance penetrated its body and killed it instantly. Two Egg-Pawns ran up towards Sonic with their lances aimed directly at him but Blaze rocketed out towards them and struck them down in a fiery spin that reduced them to smithereens. Sonic gave Blaze the thumbs up, impressed with her attack. Ruben drenched the Egg-Pawns with a jet of water and made them short-circuit. Ruben watched gleefully as the Egg-Pawns blew up in unison due to his water mixing terribly with the Egg-Pawns. Matilda, Mushu and Li Moon decided to help out by emerging from behind the bush and cutting lose on the Egg-Pawns. This was an interesting experience for them for they were not used to dealing with robots. They usually fought organic enemies but their kung-fu would aid them well in the fight. Mushu chomped on an Egg-Pawn's arm and made it drop its lance. Mushu picked up the lance and decided to use it against the Egg-Pawns. He clashed lances with one Egg-Pawn before stabbing it in the head with the sharp tip of the lance and killing it instantly. Matilda saw that Mushu had a good idea since fists and feet weren't the best weapons against something made of metal. She kicked an Egg-Pawn's arm and knocked its shield off. She grabbed the shield and walloped the Egg-Pawn with it. A shield was one of Matilda's favourite weapons to fight with. She swung the shield directly down on top of the Egg-Pawn's head and crushed it to pieces. The shield was designed to withstand a sonic spin-dash so it was hardly surprising that swinging it down on an Egg-Pawn's head was enough to flatten it. Matilda then threw the shield at an Egg-Pawn and knocked it clean off its feet. She was quick to pick it back up after it landed on the ground and she ran towards the refuelling station. Silver used his psychokinesis to force the door open for Matilda, allowing her a clean entry into the building. Matilda waved to Silver as she entered the station and Silver waved back. He looked down and saw Li Moon putting up a rather mediocre performance against an Egg-Pawn. She wasn't doing terribly but it was clear that she needed more practice. She kept kicking the Egg-Pawn but she couldn't quite get it to lose any weapons. It swung its lance at her but Li Moon's reflexes were faster than the earlier training session implied for she leaped over the lance. The Egg-Pawn tried to whack her with its shield but Li Moon grabbed it and kicked the Egg-Pawn in the gut to make it let go of the shield. Unfortunately, it was slightly too heavy for her to lift and she struggled to swing it at the Egg-Pawn. She managed a limp smack at the most and all that did was knock the lance out of the Egg-Pawn's hand. The Egg-Pawn threw a punch at Li Moon but the vixen blocked the attack with the shield, straining to keep it lifted as the punch smacked against it. Li Moon was so startled by the punch that she fell over from the force of the hit. Silver could see Li Moon needed help so he flew down and grabbed the Egg-Pawn with his psychokinesis. Li Moon wasn't too pleased at this.

"Hey thanks for the help but I was doing pretty well thank you." said Li Moon, trying not to sound rude.

"Sorry but you weren't, you needed help Li Moon." said Silver sadly "You did much better than one might have thought though. When Matilda trains you more, you'll be amazing."

That made Li Moon feel much better. Silver clenched his fists and upon doing so, he caused the Egg-Pawn to crumble up into a tangled mess of metal and limbs. He then tossed the Egg-Pawn over his shoulder. Li Moon kept hold of the shield and she picked up the Egg-Pawn's lance so she had an offensive weapon to match the defensive weaponry. Sonic spin-dashed one last Egg-Pawn to pieces before dusting his hands off and admiring the scene of carnage all around him. The Egg-Pawns were all defeated and useless to Eggman's cause. No surprises there since they did not present much of a threat. Sonic wondered why Eggman even bothered making these Egg-Pawns since they were so useless.

"Well what a surprise, we beat all the pawns." laughed Sonic "I do wish Eggman would make something challenging for once. Well he did, several times before but now he's just using these pathetic pawns over and over. Maybe he just can't be bothered to make an effort anymore. Just makes our job so much easier."

"I'll say." said Silver "If those pawns were actually useful, we'd be in one heck of a pickle and given how we wanna stop the Death Egg, we can't afford to be in one now."

"Well our plan has worked." noted Blaze "Matilda got inside the station safely and will hopefully come out with Bladefeather safe and sound and we've rendered the station defenceless. Once Matilda and Bladefeather come out of the station, we'll destroy it while it's weak."

"I bet you'd be the one to destroy the station given your fire powers Blaze." said Li Moon supportively "You'd fry that building to a crisp and bring it down."

"Woe betide Eggman if it's heat proof…" muttered Blaze "Either way, Silver could help destroy it too. He could take it apart piece by piece with his psychic powers."

"That could take a while given how extreme usage of my psychic powers gives me a migraine." said Silver uneasily "It would have to be a joint effort. I destroy some parts, you destroy some parts and even Sonic can destroy some parts. Ruben's water powers will do us some good too. He could short circuit some circuitry in the building and cause an explosion. The four of us together will reduce that thing to scrap."

"You bet, and Chun-Nan won't have the dishonour of having that hideous thing staining its beauty!" declared Ruben happily.

"And I bet Eggman will be yanking on his moustache in rage when he finds out we've destroyed one of his precious refuelling stations!" crowed Sonic "I wonder how the others are doing with their stations?"

"I'm sure they're doing as well as we are." said Blaze "We'll find out when we get back to NewMobotropolis…"

"Blaze, LOOK OUT!" screamed Silver, jumping forward and pushing Blaze down onto the ground for seemingly no reason.

The reason for that action came shortly afterwards as a deadly laser blast shot over Silver's back and missed him and Blaze by inches. Sonic jumped back and watched as the laser hit a dead Egg-Pawn and threw its remains up into the air. Mushu and Li Moon were on the alert and waiting to attack. Mushu had the lance he'd stolen from the Egg-Pawns ready and Li Moon had her shield and lance poised and ready for an attack. Sonic clenched his fists and stood his ground.

"Hey! Come out and show yourself sniper!" he yelled angrily "I'd like to show you what happens to those who attack my friends like this!"

The mystery attacker seemed willing to oblige to Sonic's order for the bushes parted and the attacked stood forward to reveal himself. Blaze picked herself up to see who the attacker was…and gasped.

The attacker was a robot who looked like somebody had tossed Metal Sonic and a robot pirate into a blender. Blaze knew who it was instantly. Ruben, Li Moon and Mushu stared in disbelief at what they were looking at.

"CAPTAIN METAL?!" she screamed in shock.

"Yaaargh lassie, it be me once again!" crowed Captain Metal "And to think ye thought ye'd seen tharr last of me!"

"So that's Captain Metal?" asked Ruben "Puh, he looks sillier than I imagined he would…" he added, not impressed at all with Captain Metal's appearance.

"But…but…but how?!" shrieked Blaze "I…I…I killed you! I impaled you with your own sword! I destroyed the Egg O' War! You should be dead and at the bottom of the ocean back on Solbius!"

"Yeah! And speaking of Solbius, how the heck did you get here?!" blurted Sonic "Or are you an Eggman robot and it's just coincidental that you look like Captain Metal?"

"Be ready me hearties, for I have a sea tale to share with ye all." said Captain Metal in his usual over-bearing pirate accent "When Blaze impaled me with me own sword, I downloaded me memory into another body that I had on standby. After me near-death experience with Blaze I decided to have another contingency plan on me. I built a bunch of spare bodies that would remain on standby until I uploaded me memory into them. What ye see before ye is one of me spare bodies. Sadly, tharr rest of me spares be at tharr bottom of ye ocean with me doomed Egg O' War. But while I'm here, I'll build myself some spare bodies. As fer how I got to Mobius Prime, a twin-tailed fox came to Solbius with a Chaos Emerald in hand. He be looking for you the poor lad and just as he was about to go home, I grabbed onto him so he Chaos Controlled back home with me in tow. I took tharr Chaos Emerald off of him too."

Sonic could only gasp in horror at Captain Metal's story.

"You…stole a Chaos Emerald from Tails?!" gasped Sonic "You better not have hurt my buddy or so help me I'll stomp on you until we can't recognize you anymore!"

"I only knocked the lad out, I'm sure he'll be fine once he wakes up." sneered Captain Metal "As fer the Chaos Emerald, it be out of yer reach for I don't have it on me now. I left it in a secret place I've decided to call me own while I come here to kill Blaze and put an end to her interfering ways once and fer all!"

"How did you know I would be here?" asked Blaze.

"Mind yer own business ye nosey parker!" snapped Captain Metal "Just know that this country shall be yer grave Blaze!"

"Dare harm Blaze and you'll suffer MY wrath!" snarled Silver.

"Oh I know how to deal with you me psychic powered landlubber…" purred Captain Metal.

Using the warp ring that Finitevus had given him, Captain Metal opened up a portal beneath Silver's feet. The hedgehog screamed as he fell through the warp ring and disappeared from view. Blaze watched in shock as her boyfriend was swallowed up whole by the warp ring and she was helpless to do anything about it as the warp ring vanished into thin air. Sonic was more shocked at the fact Captain Metal had a warp ring than anything.

"Whoa, since when did you have a warp ring?!" gasped Sonic.

"What can I say laddie? I be full of surprises indeed." gloated Captain Metal.

Blaze looked at Captain Metal and growled menacingly at him.

"You monster! Where did you send him?!" she growled furiously.

"I tossed him back onto Solbius." sneered Captain Metal "I know how dangerous psychic powered beings can be and I bet he could crush me with a simple wave of his hand so to make this fight fairer, I was forced to get rid of him. If ye can beat me…I'll bring him back for ye."

"Deal." muttered Blaze "And I'm gonna send YOU back to Solbius…

IN PIECES!"

She set her hands alight and she rocketed towards Captain Metal, screaming fiercely as she prepared to destroy him. Captain Metal cackled at Blaze and he lunged forward, ready to slice her to ribbons. Sonic, Ruben, Li Moon and Mushu stood by, waiting for the right moment to strike and help Blaze defeat Captain Metal. It seemed their mission suddenly got more intense now Captain Metal was here…

Meanwhile inside the station, Princess Matilda had run up to the second floor of the station and had come across a door with a button beside it. She'd searched the entire first floor of the station and had come up empty so now she was trying the second floor to see if Bladefeather was here instead. She was quite surprised at the fact the door had a simple button beside it. She may not be very familiar with technology due to Chun-Nan's vintage and traditional style of life but she had expected something a bit more advanced than a simple button to open the door. It looked almost too easy. Matilda swallowed nervously and she pressed the button to open the door. The door opened up and Matilda saw that she was looking inside a large room with a glass capsule standing at the edge of a metal bridge that stretched out far from the door. Matilda gasped in surprise as she saw that the capsule contained Bladefeather. There was a female robot standing beside the capsule but Matilda didn't notice it, she was too focused on Bladefeather. Bladefeather pressed his hands against the glass and stared ahead as he saw Matilda standing at the beginning of the bridge.

"Matilda!" he cried.

"Bladefeather!" gasped Matilda "Oh thank goodness I've found you! Don't worry, I'll get you outta there in a hurry!"

"No Matilda, you mustn't!" protested Bladefeather "If the glass on my cell gets damaged in anyway, the cell will fall down onto a giant fan and take me with it!"

Right on cue, Katherine raised her hand and she placed the tips of her claws against the glass, threatening to scratch it or crack it. Matilda's heart raced as she saw Katherine threatening to damage the glass.

"NO! Oh god please no, don't do that!" shrieked Matilda "Please, I don't want to lose my fiancé!"

"Then you must surrender to me now otherwise Bladefeather is going to take a BIG PLUNGE! " Katherine droned out in a montage of voice clips.

"I-I can't do that!" protested Matilda "I can't dishonour my country by surrendering! Please, I can't!"

Katherine pressed on harder with her claws. Bladefeather shuddered in horror, expecting cracks to appear in the glass any moment now. Diamond Glass was hard but he had a feeling Katherine's claws were enough to penetrate the glass since she was threatening to damage it. Matilda fell to her knees and began to feel tears coming to her eyes.

"NO, NO DON'T DO IT!" she screamed "I'll surrender, I'll surrender! Just please don't kill Bladefeather!"

Katherine took her hand away from the glass and glared at Matilda with her black visor. If she had a face, she'd likely be grinning triumphantly at Matilda now. Katherine strode towards Matilda, the princess looking very sad and defeated before her. She looked up and saw Katherine coming towards her and offered no resistance as Katherine grabbed her by the arms and hauled her onto her feet.

"I'm sorry Bladefeather…" Matilda sobbed pathetically.

"It's alright my love, you couldn't let me die could you?" said Bladefeather sadly "I doubt your heart would ever recover from the pain my loss would bring to it."

Matilda nodded as Katherine pulled her towards the cell and pressed a button that opened up the glass so she could put Matilda into the cell. However, just as the glass retracted to allow Katherine to put Matilda inside, the mongoose grabbed Katherine's arms and wrestled her around to the front. She kicked Katherine into the cell and past Bladefeather. Katherine was down on her hands and knees as Bladefeather ran past her and the moment he was out of the cell, Matilda closed it, sealing Katherine inside. Katherine walked up to the glass and glared at Matilda as the mongoose smiled triumphantly at her.

"Ha. Looks like I win." gloated Matilda "I guess Eggman didn't teach you to be unpredictable too."

"Ah, unpredictability, such a meritorious tactic to use in battle." said Bladefeather happily "My love, you continue to amaze me."

"Well I am soon to be your wife so I seek to amaze you my handsome falcon." said Matilda kindly "Now quick, let's get outta here. Sonic is here and he's going to destroy the station once we're out."

"In a moment. I'd like to send Katherine here to her doom." said Bladefeather, drawing out a dagger and holding it before the glass, ready to scratch it and bring Katherine down onto the fan below.

But Katherine had a contingency plan that she was activating now. She had a manual override code installed in her body and she could use it to make the cell's controls do what she wanted without needing to press anything. She commanded the cell to open for her and the moment the cell opened up, she leaped out and pounced on Bladefeather…

A refuelling station, waiting to be destroyed! Captain Metal, hungry for revenge! Bladefeather and Matilda, at Katherine's mercy! All this and more next time in the exciting second part of "Trouble in Chun-Nan"...

Trouble in Chun-Nan Part 2

Story 193: Trouble for Chun-Nan Part 2

Countdown to Death Egg: 2

"Come on, come on, come on! Work faster you pathetic excuses for worker bots!" yelled Dr. Eggman furiously "The Death Egg's nearly complete! I can't wait any longer for it to launch! Hurry up and finish the work!"

It was no surprise that the villainous Dr. Eggman was getting edgy right now. His glorious vessel, the Death Egg, was nearing completion and he was too impatient to wait for it to be completed. He wanted it done and he wanted it done NOW. The Death Egg had been a month's worth of hard work and only just now was it nearing completion. The Death Egg itself was located under the Egg-Bunker and in order to make room for the enormous vessel, Eggman had tunnelled a big hole under the Egg-Bunker to make room for the ship and the crew that were working on it. Even then, the ship was still too big to fit under the Egg-Bunker so Eggman had decided to have the very top of the Death Egg built around the Egg-Bunker. When the ship took off, the Egg-Bunker would be taken with it and would be part of the Death Egg itself. Eggman rather liked that idea since it meant less work had to be done on the interior of the ship. Eggman was sitting in the Egg-Bunker and watching the progress of the Death Egg's construction from a computer monitor. While he was pleased to see the work was going on as planned, he still wanted it to speed up a little for he was practically itching with excitement to see his glorious ship in the sky at last. His latest and greatest plan was ready to begin but he still had to wait until the ship was fully operational. He turned away from his computer monitor and began pacing around the room. It never ceased to amaze him just how loud his footsteps were in this life-support mech suit he was permanently housed in. He just reasoned that the heavyweight meant he was a powerful opponent and that E-123 Omega had been a brilliant design when he'd come up with it. He never would have anticipated that the design would end up being what's keeping him alive now.

Not that he minded. His machines hadn't been very successful in terminating Sonic so he much liked the idea of terminating Sonic himself with this very life-support mech. Eggman stopped pacing around and stood before a door that he then opened. The door opened up and revealed that the Master Emerald that he'd stolen from Angel Island was contained behind it. The glorious green emerald was still glowing marvellously and Eggman could hardly keep himself from marvelling at the sight of the beautiful gem. A giant green powerhouse that had the power to keep an island afloat. And it was all his to use for his own nefarious plans. The Death Egg would be even more powerful with the Master Emerald being used to aggrandize the vessel. It was powerful enough on its own but with the Master Emerald, it would be even more powerful. And with the Master Emerald, he'd be able to teleport to other worlds and maybe enslave them too. Most particularly, Earth, the very planet he came from. Earth would bear the wrath of the Death Egg once he'd finished with Mobius. He'd make Earth a robot utopia for himself to rule over as well as Mobius. The very image was enough to make Eggman the happiest man in the world.

"All this Chaos Energy at my disposal…and it'll make me the most powerful man the universe has ever known." purred Eggman delightedly "First Mobius shall be roboticized…then I'll use the emerald to take me to Earth and I shall roboticize Earth too. Those ingrates will be sorry they messed with me! I, Dr. Ivo Eggman shall reign supreme over two different worlds and NOBODY will stand up to me! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

His gloating was interrupted by a sudden beeping noise on his computer monitor. The screen was flashing with the words "Warning: Death Egg Stations Compromised". Eggman ran clumsily over to the computer and he stared at the screen. He pressed a button and saw something that made him gasp in surprise. The screen was displaying the Death Egg refuelling stations and the images were obscured by a huge circle with the word "Offline" in the middle. Eggman couldn't believe his eyes. With the exception of the Chun-Nan refuelling station, all the Death Egg refuelling stations had been destroyed! But how was this possible? The Royal Fighters couldn't possibly have known where they all were! How had they managed to find out?! Eggman had a nasty feeling that the Chun-

Nan station wouldn't be online for very long either, even with Katherine defending it. He grumbled to himself.

"Curses, those Royal Fighters have destroyed my stations already and there's only one left!" he growled "I expected them to be taking MUCH longer than that! And I bet that Queen Sally's used her precious Nicole to find out where the Death Egg is too! They'll be on to me in no time! The Death Egg's launch MUST happen at once! But I can't take off if the ship's not complete yet…I'll just have to hope that the Royal Fighters take a while to come running to me. It's just fortunate that I don't need those refuelling stations. The Death Egg doesn't even NEED fuel! And with the Master Emerald onboard, it'll go on forever…those Royal Fighters have no idea what they're up against!"

He cackled to himself and he switched the monitor back to the work on the Death Egg outside of the Egg-Bunker. For too long he'd been hiding in this miserable bunker, soon he'd be housed inside a giant vessel that would be the flagship of his empire and the very appearance of the Death Egg would have everybody paralyzed with fear before him…

"Yikes! Watch it, you could hurt somebody with that!" yelped Sonic the Hedgehog as he cart wheeled out of the way of Captain Metal's deadly blade.

"Did ye not think fer a minute that I be intendin' to do just that?" sneered Captain Metal, swinging his blade at Sonic again and missing him by inches.

A mission in Chun-Nan to destroy the Chun-Nan Death Egg refuelling station had turned into a fight to the death. The robotic rapscallion Captain Metal had come to Chun-Nan via a warp ring given to him by Dr. Finitevus and he was here with one goal in mind, to kill Blaze the Cat and put an end to her fire throwing ways at last. He'd been on the verge of death for a second time but had saved himself thanks to a very clever back-up plan and thanks to Tails the Fox, he'd managed to come to Mobius Prime by grabbing Tails as he used a Chaos Control to warp back to Mobius. Now Captain Metal was out of Solbius and on Mobius Prime and he'd found his target. He didn't care who he was up against or who got in his way as long as he had Blaze's head on the edge of his sword. He'd gotten rid of Silver the Hedgehog by using a warp ring to send him to Solbius so they couldn't just rely on him to use his psychokinesis to crush Captain Metal and put a swift end to the battle. In order to get Silver back, Blaze would have to destroy Captain Metal and take the warp ring from him. Captain Metal swung his blade at Sonic but Sonic managed to avoid the attack by leaping out of the way. He spin-dashed Captain Metal in the gut and sent him hurling into a pile of dead Egg-Pawns. Sonic stood before Captain Metal and smiled mockingly at him.

"Just a head's up Captain Metal, I've stomped on Metal Sonics before and despite the fact they can match up to me, I still come out on top." gloated Sonic "And considering you're built with parts that make you the robot pirate that you are now, I bet you're not as resilient as a standard Metal Sonic."

"Yarrgh, I be just as resilient as I was as Metal Sonic!" snapped Captain Metal "When I had me new bodies built, I built them in tharr same way that I had been built when I was Metal Sonic! I may not look like Metal Sonic anymore but I have the endurance and hardiness that made ye Metal Sonic model a force to be reckoned with! Not to mention I be much stronger since I be fireproof and waterproof too so he will not smash me to pieces anytime soon!"

"Puh, I think I preferred the usual Metal Sonic over you." sighed Sonic "Your pirate accent's REALLY annoying and you talk way too darn much!"

"Then maybe I should cut yer ears off so ye don't have to listen to me anymore?" snorted Captain Metal.

Ironically enough, pirates had been known to cut people's ears off so this just showed how pirate-like Captain Metal really was. Captain Metal leaped back onto his feet and he slugged Sonic in the gut with his one hand. Sonic fell to his knees, coughing and spluttering and Captain Metal proceeded to try and do exactly what he'd suggested, cut Sonic's ears off. He would force them down Blaze's throat just to add insult to injury. But just as he pinched Sonic's left ear and prepared to cut it off, Blaze knocked him down with spinning, fiery kick that threw Captain Metal across the battlefield and sent him crashing into yet another pile of dead Egg-Pawns. Captain Metal however considered that a blessing for he grabbed one of the nearby shields that the Egg-Pawns had been equipped with and he threw it at Blaze. Blaze kicked it away but the shield had just been to throw her off while Captain Metal lunged at her. Blaze only just had enough time to hold her arms up defensively as Captain Metal slashed at her. She ended up with a nasty cut across her arms and she winced in pain. Blaze punched Captain Metal in the face and then grabbed him by the cloak. She spun around and tossed him into the refuelling station. Just as Captain Metal was getting up, Blaze pinned him to the wall with her foot. The heel of her shoe stabbed at Captain Metal's neck as she pressed her foot on him.

"Why do you persist in this mindless gambit?!" snarled Blaze "All your desire for revenge is going to do is get you killed, this time for good!"

"Nay lassie, me desire fer revenge is what keeps me alive!" gloated Captain Metal, grabbing Blaze's leg and tripping her up "Do ye think that I'd still be alive now if I didn't desire revenge on ye? Would I have built me self some spare bodies if I didn't desire to see ye dead? Would I even have come to Mobius Prime if I didn't want revenge on ye? I don't think so. Face it Blaze, until you're dead ye will NEVER be rid of me!"

"Allow me to contradict that statement!"

Blaze yanked her foot out of Captain Metal's hand and slammed it into the middle of Captain Metal's torso. The metal mutineer buckled over but felt no pain for just like his original body, he had no pain receptors so he couldn't feel any pain. The kick was still enough to make Captain Metal buckle over regardless if he felt any pain or not. Blaze leapt back onto her feet and she slammed a fire enhanced fist into the middle of Captain Metal's face. Captain Metal uppercut Blaze in the face and threw her off her feet. She was saved from a nasty thump on the ground by Mushu the Iguana. He caught Blaze and helped her get steady as Captain Metal aimed his gun arm at her. Li Moon, friend of Princess Matilda and novice-in-training, ran towards Captain Metal and grabbed hold of his arm. She yanked it aside, causing the shot to aim directly at the ground instead. Captain Metal wrenched his arm free, the blade cutting Li Moon viciously as he did so and he aimed his blade at Li Moon's neck. The vixen stared at the blade in fear and she reacted much faster than she thought she ever would. She leapt aside and left Captain Metal to strike at the ground. She picked up the lance and shield that she'd taken from an Egg-Pawn's remains and she ran towards Captain Metal. She swung the shield at him as hard as she could but she wasn't very strong and the shield was a little too heavy for her. She managed a limp smack that made Captain Metal lean aside more than anything. Captain Metal laughed at Li Moon and he shot at her. Li Moon blocked the attack with the shield but Captain Metal stood forward and smacked it out of her hand. Before he could harm her, Ruben the Water Panther blasted Captain Metal with a jet of water from the palm of his hands. It wouldn't kill Captain Metal since he was waterproof but it did throw him away from Li Moon and send him crashing into some bamboo trees. Captain Metal picked himself up, water dripping down his body and he glowered at Ruben with his singular optic.

"Did ye seriously think waterrr could stop me?" he gloated "I be a robot pirate! I sail on tharr seas just like what pirates do! Where would tharr logic be in me goin' on tharr seas and not be waterproof?"

"I knew you'd be waterproof, you already said to Sonic that you were." retorted Ruben "But that doesn't mean my water won't be a nuisance to you. And let me tell you something Captain Metal, you made a big mistake coming to Chun-Nan. This country is precious to me and Chun-Nan does not accept scum like you. I'm gonna personally kick you outta Chun-Nan myself!"

"So this be yer country is it little water panther?" said Captain Metal, feigning sympathy "Well then, how fitting it shall be yer grave!"

He aimed his gun arm at Ruben and he blasted him off of his feet with a powerful laser blast. Ruben screamed as he was hit and he hurtled into Li Moon, knocking the vixen off her feet. With the two down, Captain Metal charged towards Li Moon and Ruben with murder in his optic but Sonic and Blaze both hit him at once, knocking him down onto his side and sending him skidding across the ground. Captain Metal growled as he stood back up and he waited for Sonic to come at him. The hedgehog was curled up into a spin-dash and he was hurling towards Captain Metal. He picked up a shield that was lying near a dead Egg-Pawn and he held it up in front of himself. Sonic hit the shield and ricocheted off of it. He hit the shield at such an angle that he ricocheted straight into the ground and found himself with his face buried in a mound of dirt. Sonic was about to pick himself up but Captain Metal smacked him in the head with the shield. Sonic was still conscious but one more hit like that and his head could be damaged very badly indeed. He was rubbing his head and wondering which way was up. Captain Metal had his blade jabbed into his back and he drew his arm back, ready to finish him off. He heard Blaze coming towards him so he quickly spun around and held up the shield to block Blaze's attack. Blaze winced as her fire-enhanced fist slammed hard against solid metal but she ignored the pain in her knuckles. Captain Metal tried to whack her with the shield but Blaze caught his wrist and held the shield firmly above her head. Captain Metal attempted to stab her but Blaze caught his gun arm and held it back. The metal pirate pushed on Blaze's arms and tried as much as he could to force Blaze down onto the ground. Blaze fought back, using up every muscle in her arms to keep Captain Metal from pushing her down. Her muscles strained with the effort but Blaze was not going to listen to their protests. She willed herself to win this struggle.

"Make this easy on yourself! Surrender now! You're outnumbered!" grunted Blaze "You can't possibly win!"

"Perhaps...so I may have to cheat in order to win." gloated Captain Metal "Something that we pirates just love to do..."

Blaze had a feeling that she knew what Captain Metal was going to do. She leapt back just as Captain Metal prepared to head butt her so Captain Metal ended up throwing himself onto the ground. But that hadn't been what Captain Metal's plan was. The head butt was just meant to disorientate Blaze until he put his plan into action. It seemed her would have to do it regardless of Blaze's status. Captain Metal waited for Blaze to come at him and then just as Blaze prepared to punch him, he summoned the warp ring that he'd used to get to Chun-Nan and left Blaze to hurtle through it. The warp ring reopened behind him and Blaze came hurling out of it like water through a drain pipe. She landed down with a thud on the ground and before she could pick herself up, Captain Metal opened up the warp ring under Sonic's feet and brought him falling down through it. It closed up afterwards and Captain Metal proceeded to do the same to Ruben, Mushu and Li Moon. Like Silver, he'd sent them all to Solbius so that they couldn't get in his way. The battle was now between Blaze and Captain Metal once again. Blaze picked herself up and growled furiously.

"You...bring them back!" she ordered.

"Make me lassie!" sneered Captain Metal "Ye have to beat me first if ye want this warp ring to bring yer friends back remember?"

"If you won't bring them back than I will..." said Blaze with a smirk on her face.

Before Captain Metal could work out what Blaze was talking about, she whipped out one of her Sol Emeralds and proceeded to warp away in a whoosh of flames. She had used the Sol Emeralds to warp everybody to Chun-Nan and now she was using it to bring the Royal Fighters back to Mobius. The robot pirate cursed violently as Blaze disappeared into thin air.

"CURSES!" he yelled angrily "I should have suspected that tharr lass had her bloody emeralds on her! Now she be bringing her pesky friends back to Mobius Prime! No matter, this warp ring will give me an edge over tharr Mobians easily."

He looked at the warp ring he held delicately between his finger and thumb delightedly. It didn't matter if all the Mobians were brought back to the battle, he'd use his warp ring to get rid of them again and this time, he'd steal the Sol Emeralds from Blaze so she couldn't get them back. If he couldn't do that then he'd just use the warp ring to make things harder for the Royal Fighters. He would have to thank Dr. Finitevus for letting him use the warp ring otherwise this battle would be so much harder for him. Captain Metal waited for a little while until a whoosh of flames suddenly appeared from nowhere. The flames parted, unveiling the Royal Fighters in their place. They were all back together, Sonic, Ruben, Mushu, Li Moon and even Silver who looked keen to tear Captain Metal apart. Blaze smiled triumphantly at Captain Metal as if mocking him over the fact his plan had gone pear-shaped.

"Look at that...I've got everybody back." she sneered "You thought you could get rid of everybody that easily?"

"It appears I made a drastic error in making tharr battle plan." said Captain Metal smoothly "But with tharr warp ring, I be untouchable!"

"You'll change that tune of yours when I snatch it outta your hand!" crowed Silver with a cocky grin on his face.

He activated his psychokinesis and focused solely on the warp ring in Captain Metal's hand. But focusing solely on the warp ring meant that Captain Metal could attack him and he wouldn't be able to defend himself. Captain Metal felt the warp ring pull in his claws as if trying to escape from his grip. Captain Metal held on tight and to make Silver let go, he shot him directly in the chest. Silver cried out in pain as he was hit and his psychic powers released the warp ring. Then Captain Metal used the warp ring to send Silver up into the sky. He reopened the warp ring from the height of the Death Egg refuelling station and Silver plummeted straight down from the station's massive height. Blaze ran forward to catch Silver but Captain Metal used the warp ring to send her up in the sky directly beside him. Now Silver and Blaze were plummeting from a massive height and the fall would surely finish them off. But Silver recovered in time to save himself and Blaze from a nasty crash onto the ground below. He surrounded himself and Blaze in a psychic bubble and let the bubble cushion the impact of their fall. As they landed, the psychic bubble punched a little crater beneath them into the ground they landed upon. Captain Metal was none too pleased that they had survived the fall but he decided to hold back on the warp ring for a bit. He didn't want to become too predictable. He took aim at Silver and Blaze and he fired at them. Silver used his psychokinesis to stop the blast but the blast was merely meant to distract him. Captain Metal warped away through the warp ring and left Silver to throw the blast back at empty air. He reappeared beside Silver and Blaze and he kicked them both onto their sides. However, upon exiting he found himself getting slammed against the wall by Mushu and Li Moon. Mushu picked up Captain Metal, causing him to drop the warp ring and he tossed him into the air towards Ruben. Ruben squirted water at him and sent him flying up into the tower of the refuelling station. Now the warp ring was out of Captain Metal's grasp, Sonic zipped over and grabbed it.

"Now I think it's time we sent Captain Metal back home to Solbius!" he declared.

But as he flicked open the warp ring, Captain Metal shot him and sent him flying backwards. The warp ring clattered down onto the ground being that it had failed to activate properly due to Captain Metal's intervention. Captain Metal leaped down onto the ground and he scooped up the warp ring quickly.

"Ye think ye can get rid of me that easily?" he snorted "Not a chance. I am not going back to Solbius. Not till I've got Blaze dead and I've conquered this world too."

"Mobius Prime has done nothing to you Captain Metal! Why would you want to take it over as well as Solbius?!" demanded Blaze furiously.

"Let's just say that I fancy adding Mobius Prime to me robot pirate army too." purred Captain Metal "Remember, I did plan on roboticizing tharr entire multi-verse too. That was what me Egg O' War was for lassie."

"I know...and I got rid of that abomination. Pity I didn't get rid of you as well!" growled Blaze "Well after this battle, you'll be dead and you'll stay that way since you don't have any spare bodies to activate this time!"

"If yer so eager to finish me off then come at me..." dared Captain Metal.

Blaze was all too happy to do just that. She summoned fire to her hands and charged towards Captain Metal, murder in her eyes and her teeth bared like a tiger pouncing on a deer...

Bladefeather the Falcon cried out as Katherine pounced on him and knocked him down onto the bridge with grievous intentions in mind for the falcon. Bladefeather swung his legs up and threw Katherine over himself and further across the bridge to which she landed with a heavy clang. The fem-bot made a little whirr of annoyance as she stood back up. Sonic and friends weren't the only ones having a fight to the death. Princess Matilda had broken into the refuelling station to save Bladefeather and although Katherine had managed to get her to surrender, it turned out to be a trick and Matilda had managed to get Katherine inside the cell and Bladefeather out of it. But Katherine managed to open the cell with merely a thought and now she was trying to kill the two soon-to-be-wed kung-fu warriors. As Katherine stood up, Matilda leapt over Bladefeather for the bridge was too narrow for her to simply run around past him and she socked Katherine directly in the lower section of her face, where the mouth would likely be if she had one. Katherine reeled backwards and struggled to keep herself standing. Matilda then kicked Katherine in the shins and knocked the fem-bot down onto her stomach. Katherine was just getting up when Matilda kicked Katherine into the air and sent her crashing into the wall just above the open door. As Katherine landed onto the bridge, Matilda rubbed her foot slightly.

"Mmm…I can honestly say that kicking metal isn't the same as kicking flesh and bone." she muttered "I hope I never have to fight a robot again."

"To save myself pained appendages, I'll just rely on my weaponry." decided Bladefeather "And you yourself have brought a shield into the room so you could fight Katherine with that instead Matilda.

Matilda had forgotten about the shield. She'd grabbed it from an Egg-Pawn earlier and had taken it in with her when she searched for Bladefeather. She had put it down when pretending to surrender to Katherine and it was still lying upside down with the handle facing up on the bridge. Matilda picked it up and held it defensively in front of herself.

"Oh yes, this'll be better than using my fists and feet." said Matilda "Katherine will be in for the fight of her life now."

"Indeed so." said Bladefeather deviously "So, you tell me Sonic and friends are here too?"

"Yes. Sonic is here with Ruben, Mushu and Li Moon plus two new faces." explained Matilda "They're waiting for me to come out of the station so that they may destroy it."

"That's good to know." said Bladefeather brightly "In that case, let's forget about the heathen machine and let Sonic know that he is OK to destroy this hideous facility of Eggman's."

"Yes, let's." said Matilda grimly "Especially since it's a refuelling station for an upcoming ship that Eggman's building. He's calling in the "Death Egg" apparently."

"That information was already bestowed upon me." said Bladefeather "By Katherine herself. No way is our country going to contribute to Eggman's evil in anyway…"

Matilda nodded agreeably. What made it even worse was that as Blaze had explained to her earlier, the Death Egg presumably caused the end of the world and the fact this station was meant to refuel such a vessel made Matilda sick with anger. Nobody used her country as a refuelling port for a doomsday machine! She would see to it that Eggman got a personal beating from her, even if she wasn't very keen on senseless violence. Bladefeather and Matilda were just about to leave the room until Katherine stood back up and blocked the way. Matilda kept the shield raised in case Katherine attacked.

"Katherine. I will request ONLY once, that you stand down and save yourself a needless beating." said Matilda coldly "Make this easy on yourself."

Katherine refused to move. She stood in front of the door, silent as a statue and as sinister looking as a gargoyle. Bladefeather drew a dagger out of thin air and twirled it around in his hand.

"If you won't accept Matilda's armistice then I shall make you move." growled Bladefeather.

He threw the dagger straight at Katherine's head. It was a perfectly aimed shot. The dagger sailed towards Katherine, its sharp point aimed straight in the middle of her visor. Katherine would be too slow to react. The dagger would impale her through the visor and kill her instantly. But Katherine didn't need to react, she had the perfect shield. Her barrier activated and surrounded her in a red transparent bubble that protected her from anything around her. The dagger hit the barrier and bounced away harmlessly off the surface of the barrier. Bladefeather's beak dropped open in shock.

"I...i...impossible...the...the charlatan...has a magical shield of some kind!" blurted Bladefeather.

"We can't touch her now!" wailed Matilda "We'll have to push her out of the way or we won't be getting out of here!"

She ran towards Katherine with her shield in hand, hoping to ram Katherine backwards by banging against the barrier hard enough. But Katherine's barrier had expanded about ten inches in front of her. Matilda banging against it wouldn't do anything. Matilda charged into the barrier with the shield raised and just found herself being thrown backwards onto the floor by the barrier. Matilda picked herself up and held up the shield as Katherine held up her hands and began shooting bladed discs at Matilda. The discs deflected off the shield, their blades breaking as they hit the tough steel. The Egg-Pawn shield had been built to withstand a spin-dash so Katherine had no chance of breaking through that shield. Katherine didn't seem to care though, she kept firing the discs with every intention of dissecting Matilda piece by piece. She did notice that the shield didn't protect all of Matilda's body and tried aiming at her feet but Matilda's reflexes were much too fast for Katherine. She moved the shield up and down at an alarming speed, blocking all of her attacks and sending every bladed disc flying away. Bladefeather provided more defence by drawing out a dagger and twirling it around in front of Matilda, deflecting any disc that came her way. Katherine fumed angrily to herself. It seemed she would have to change tactis for this one. Katherine shrunk down her barrier so it was just a red outline all around her body and she ran towards Matilda and Bladefeather. She leaped into the air and spun in a drill-like fashion towards the two. Bladefeather threw himself down onto the bridge whereas Matilda held up the shield and timed her attack. Katherine was within two inches of her before Matilda reacted. She angled the shield slightly and swung it upwards. She struck Katherine and threw her off target, sending her hurling over onto her back and crashing down in front of the cell. Now Katherine was out of the way, Matilda and Bladefeather ran for their lives. Katherine however pressed a button on the control panel next to the cell and closed the door, trapping Matilda and Bladefeather in the room with her. Matilda and Bladefeather turned around and glowered at Katherine.

"It appears the abhorrent little vermin does not acquiesce to our wanting to leave this room." murmured Bladefeather crossly.

"We'll make her wish she'd just let us go already." declared Matilda, her voice harder than steel as she glared at Katherine.

After hearing that Eggman had a potential doomsday machine, Matilda had become a bit more hardcore in this battle with Katherine. The main reason being that this was a fight to the death in more ways than one. If they failed to stop the Death Egg then Mobius would be doomed and Matilda couldn't bear the thought of the world being destroyed. She loved her life and the lives of all her faithful subjects too much to just let them be wasted like this. Despite her hatred of violence and preference to use more peaceful methods to resolve a conflict, Matilda no longer cared about using violence to beat Katherine. She would be all too happy to smash her to pieces at this point in time. Matilda charged towards Katherine, her shield raised and ready to smash Katherine to pieces. Katherine extended her barrier and Matilda ground to a halt before she could bump into the barrier. Matidla stood her ground and thought quickly. How could she get Katherine into the cell with her barrier up like this? She pressed the shield against the barrier and pushed on it, hoping she would push Katherine back as well. The barrier didn't even budge. Matilda pushed with all her might but she couldn't get Katherine to budge at all. Katherine just watched Matilda's pitiful attempts to push her and she decided to launch an attack on her. She held her hands together and began to build up a powerful laser blast. She would blast Matilda away and hopefully take her out. Bladefeather noticed this and he quickly flew over to Matilda. He grabbed her by the arms with his talons and lifted her out of the way, leaving Katherine to blast at empty space that had been occupied just seconds ago. Katherine looked up and saw Bladefeather carrying Matilda to the end of the bridge. She held her hands out and began blasting at them with smaller laser blasts. Matilda held up the shield to block the blasts as Bladefeather put her down and took cover behind her. Seeing that this wouldn't work, Katherine shrunk down her barrier again, preparing to try another drill attack. And that was when Matilda struck. She threw the shield at Katherine's head and struck her, knocking her down onto her back and into the cell. Before she could react, Matilda picked up the shield again and slammed it against Katherine, throwing her backwards into the back of the cell. Then she closed the cell by pushing a button on the control panel that closed the glass together and Bladefeather threw a dagger at the glass. Diamond Glass maybe tough but Bladefeather's daggers were sharp enough to penetrate it. The dagger embedded itself into the glass and formed a web of cracks around the hilt and the base of the blade. Katherine didn't even have time to so much as raise a finger. The damaged glass deactivated the supporting rods and the cell plummeted straight down onto the giant fan waiting for Katherine down below. Not a sound came out of Katherine as she plummeted to her death. Not even a pre-recorded sound. The cell crashed down ontop of the fan and the fan tore the cell to shreds, ripping apart the metal bottom and shattering the glass as if it was the fragile kind of glass that would break if you so much as stepped on it. Katherine was torn apart limb from limb by the fan and reduced to tiny fragments along with the cell. Her head displayed a face on the visor that looked like the face of agony as she was chopped to pieces by the spinning blades of the fan. Bladefeather had watched every second of Katherine's destruction and relished everything he'd just witnessed.

"Goodbye you filthy little servant bot." he purred to himself.

"Whew...I thought we weren't going to win this battle." puffed Matilda, wiping sweat off of her head "I really should know better than to doubt myself in these situations."

"I firmly believe that nothing's impossible if you set your mind to the task at hand." said Bladefeather "Now then my love, shall we?" he beckoned towards the door at the beginning of the bridge.

"Be my guest my dashing falcon." said Matilda sweetly.

Bladefeather nodded and he pressed a button on the control panel. That had not gone down with the cell for it was a separate piece to the cell. It would only be able to open and close the door now though. The cell's destruction had severely limited its purposes in this room. The door opened up upon the press of the button and Bladefeather and Matilda ran out of the room. They couldn't wait to see Sonic and his friends tear apart the refuelling station and remove its disgusting presence from their wonderful country...

Outside the station, Captain Metal found himself being spin-dashed by Sonic and sent hurling towards Blaze. Blaze leapt up into the air and dropkicked her down into the ground as hard as she could swing her leg down. Captain Metal hit the ground but he wasn't down for long as Silver grabbed him with his psychokinesis and threw him across the battlefield and into the refuelling station. The fight with Captain Metal was slowly but surely swinging in the Mobian's favour. Captain Metal was putting up a great fight but he was beginning to get overwhelmed by the sheer numbers that the Mobians had. He was outnumbered six-one and despite having a warp ring, he was still getting overwhelmed. It also didn't help that Silver was here and kept using his psychokinesis to stop Captain Metal whenever he tried to attack somebody. The Metal Sonic turned robot pirate picked himself up, growling furiously as the Mobians stood around him, ready to attack him all at once. He managed to save himself a beating from all six Mobians at once by activating the warp ring and disappearing down through it. But the Mobians were getting wise to his tactics now and Blaze was already waiting for him to show up again. Captain Metal reappeared behind Blaze but Blaze swung around and punched him, sending him back through the warp ring and shooting up into the air. As Captain Metal hurtled down to the ground, he fired his gun as frantically as possible, forcing his enemies to scatter to avoid getting hit. He managed to hit Silver and bring him down onto his stomach. Silver winced in pain as his back began to sting from the shot. Captain Metal seized his chance. He ran over to Silver and slammed his fist on top of his head, knocking him out and taking him out of the fight. The knockout was for more than just that though. He yanked Silver onto his feet by his quills and held his sword to Silver's throat.

"Everybody, stand down and surrender to me or Silver will never wake up again!" he barked.

"Let go of Silver right now Captain Metal or you'll be sorry!" snarled Blaze.

"Can ye launch a successful attack on me before I cut Silver's throat?" snorted Captain Metal "Or will ye just end up causing great harm to Silver yerself? Maybe even accidentally help him on his way to Davy Jones's locker?"

Blaze could feel beads of sweat trickling down her head as she tried to work out how to stop Captain Metal from killing Silver. She could just throw fire at him but fire didn't hurt Captain Metal anymore. He was heatproof now. Not to mention she'd just burn Silver if she threw fire at Captain Metal. She wondered if Ruben would be able to take him down with a jet of water. He probably could but the water could accidentally cause Captain Metal to injure Silver, maybe fatally injure him if the water hit Captain Metal wrong. And Sonic would likely cause Captain Metal to fatally injure Silver too. And even if they could launch an attack on Captain Metal, he had a warp ring. He'd just warp away from the Mobians and maybe kill Silver just because they'd refused to obey his orders. Blaze had no choice but to cede to Captain Metal's demands. She raised her hands and stepped forward slowly.

"Fine, I surrender." she said "But don't think I'm happy about it."

"Very good lassie." purred Captain Metal "How about yer friends?"

"They surrender too." said Blaze grimly.

"And we're just as happy about it as Blaze is." muttered Sonic.

"Even better." sneered Captain Metal "Now then Blaze, I want ye to come to me and give me tharr Sol Emeralds. Once you give me tharr emeralds, I want ye to kneel down and make no attempt to attack me as I disembowel you piece by piece."

"Whatever you say Captain Metal..." muttered Blaze despairingly.

Blaze could not believe it. She had beaten Captain Metal, TWICE and yet now she was surrendering to him and letting him kill her just like that. Captain Metal had won. She had lost. She could imagine how devastated Silver would be when he heard of her death. Silver loved her and his poor heart wouldn't take the news very well at all. But then suddenly, Li Moon reacted at a speed so quick that it was unnatural even to somebody at her level of kung-fu. Captain Metal had been so focused on Blaze that he had forgotten about the others so he didn't even see Li Moon act until it was too late. She threw her lance like a javelin directly at Captain Metal's optic. The lance hurled through the air and impaled itself directly into Captain Metal's optic. The furious robot growled in rage and yanked the lance out of his optic. He threw Silver on the ground and began ranting like a whiny little kid.

"GAAAARRRRRRRGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGHHHHHHHHHHH! CURSE YE LANDLUBBERS!" he roared "NOW I CAN'T SEE!"

As he ranted and raved blindly and angrily, Sonic turned to Li Moon and stared at her.

"Li...Li Moon...that...that was well thrown!" gasped Sonic "How did you do that?"

"I'm a champion javelin thrower." explained Li Moon "There's not a target in the world I can't hit with a javelin, or in this case a lance."

"That's very well done Li Moon." said Blaze gratefully "You saved my life and Silver's life too. Thank you."

"No problem." said Li Moon sweetly "And I think I successfully carried out one of Matilda's tips she gave me, be unpredictable."

"You certainly WERE unpredictable!" gasped Ruben "Even I didn't see that coming!"

"I don't think any of us did." laughed Sonic "Matilda will be VERY proud Li Moon."

Li Moon smiled with pleasure. She couldn't wait to tell Matilda how well she'd done in this match. As for Captain Metal, he stopped raving and he held up the warp ring. He couldn't see anybody so he pointed at whom he thought was Blaze but actually, was just the scenery around him.

"This isn't over Blaze! This sea tale of ours will continue and next time, it'll conclude with YOUR death!" he swore.

Captain Metal flicked the warp ring over his shoulder and followed the sound it made so he would be able to find it again and walk through it. Blaze ran towards the warp ring, hoping to catch Captain Metal. She failed. The warp ring began closing as soon as Captain Metal stepped through it. But while Blaze was too late to catch Captain Metal, she wasn't too late to catch the warp ring. She grabbed the warp ring and skidded to a halt before she could fall over. Pleased she'd gotten the warp ring, Blaze tucked it away under her coat.

"Captain Metal won't be using that anymore…" she muttered to herself "Not to mention Silver lost his super warp ring when we were sent to Solbius so this is a good substitute."

"Yeah and now you have a super warp ring, you can send Captain Metal back to Solbius next time we see him." said Ruben brightly "Though I'd much rather send him into a zone with no life on it whatsoever if such a thing exists…"

"Well Captain Metal's run away with his tail between his legs so we don't need to worry about him now." said Sonic "Now he's gone, we can focus on destroying that station."

"Wait, Matilda hasn't returned yet." noted Ruben "Wait a minute, she might come back anytime…"

Right on cue, the door to the refuelling station opened up and Matilda and Bladefeather emerged from within the building. Ruben sighed with relief, pleased to see they were OK and he ran over to greet them. Mushu was pleased to see Bladefeather was OK and he ran over to greet him. Ruben and Matilda hugged while Mushu and Bladefeather shook hands.

"You're back, thank goodness!" cried Ruben happily "How did it go in there?"

"We had to deal with a robot named "Katherine" but we managed to defeat it." said Matilda brightly "I had to get Bladefeather out of a cell he was trapped in though so I guess Bladefeather was a bit in over his head when he thought he could handle this alone." she glanced at him cheekily and smirked at him.

Mushu folded his arms and smirked back at Bladefeather as if to say "I told you so". Like Matilda, he'd wanted Bladefeather to go with back up too instead of going it alone. Bladefeather fumed at Mushu, his face a mix of annoyance and maybe even embarrassment at the fact he'd been wrong again. Bladefeather could already imagine what Mushu would be saying if he could still talk now. Bladefeather sighed.

"OK, I admit that I made a grave error and got myself into a very onerous situation that required the assistance of my fiancée and my friend. I deeply apologize for not taking you with me when I went to spy on this station. Will that satisfy your needs to humiliate me?!" he snapped.

"Now, now Bladefeather, let's not be rude please." said Matilda sternly "We all make mistakes remember?"

"My deepest apologies." said Bladefeather guiltily "Please excuse my unnecessary ranting."

"It's OK dear, I understand that you don't like to be made fun of." said Matilda softly, embracing her fiancé and resting her head against his chest.

"Thank you my flower." said Bladefeather, hugging Matilda back "Well, are we going to destroy that hideous building then?"

"Leave it to me, Silver, Blaze and Ruben." said Sonic with a wink "We'll destroy it together."

Matilda and Bladefeather nodded approvingly and the two along with Mushu and Li Moon stepped back as Sonic and Ruben walked up towards the building. Blaze remained where she was and she shook Silver lightly to wake him up from Captain Metal's knockout. Silver woke up and he rubbed his head to ease the pain that had flared up in it.

"Huh…what?" murmured Silver.

"Captain Metal's run away so we can destroy the station now." said Blaze softly "Are you up for destroying the station Silver?"

"My head hurts a little bit but I'll be OK." said Silver "Let's bring that thing down!"

Happy to hear this, Blaze and Silver walked up towards the station to join Sonic and Ruben. The destruction process was very swift. Sonic unleashed a heavy round of spin-dashes that punched holes into the metal and damaged the interior of the station most callously, leaving the station completely useless since it wouldn't work properly with most of its interior destroyed. Sonic had done most of his work on the first two floors and had done a lot of damage. Blaze did even more damage by setting herself alight and smashing through the wall of the station and razing through the interior in a fiery tornado that nothing would be able to stop. Blaze destroyed much of the upper floors as well as more of the first two floors and she even proceeded to set fire to some of the exposed circuitry that her attacks had caused to be exposed. Ruben squirted water onto some of the machinery and ended up causing electrical fires to go with Blaze's fire. The combining fires spread rapidly through the station and began to engulf it in flames and smoke. Ruben and Blaze had luckily bailed out of the station before they could be caught up in the fire. Now all that was left was for Silver to focus on the top half of the tower and use his psychokinesis to crush the middle part of the tower and cause it to bend and buckle over. Silver used his psychic powers to make sure the tower fell away from the Mobians down below. The tower came down with a crash onto the landing pad, smashing it to pieces and the tower ended up breaking up into sections along with the landing pad as it was destroyed. The fire inside the other half of the station ended up igniting some fuel inside the station and some explosions began to tear through the station. The Mobians all ran for cover as one final explosion tore apart the station and blew debris all across the area. A huge fireball raged in place of the destroyed building and smoke billowed out as if climbing up into the sky in a desperate attempt to escape from the raging inferno beneath it. The Royal Fighters whooped with joy over their combined efforts destroying the station.

"Whoo Hoo! We did it!" cried Sonic "Bye, bye ugly Eggman-made refuelling station!"

"Our combined efforts sure did make short work of that thing." said Blaze, satisfied with the team's handiwork "I bet the others have had as easy a time as we have."

"Others…that reminds me. Where's the rest of your team?" asked Matilda "Why did just you, Ruben, Silver and Blaze come Sonic?"

"My friends have split up all over the world to deal with other refuelling stations around the world." explained Sonic "Chun-Nan wasn't the only one who had the dishonour of having one built in it."

"Others? I guess it makes sense that Eggman would have more than one station." deduced Bladefeather "Why have one stop when you can have several?"

"Indeed." agreed Sonic "So now my team's done, we can go home and see if the others have done their missions yet."

"I'd like to come too." said Matilda "I want to be there when the Death Egg is stopped. That way I'll sleep happily with the knowledge that the world won't end."

"Pardon?" asked Bladefeather curiously "What did you mean Matilda?"

"We'll explain everything when we get home Bladefeather." said Sonic quickly "Anyway, you're free to come with us Matilda. And you can bring Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon too. They deserve to see Eggman's latest scheme go up in flames too."

"Thank you Sonic." said Matilda gratefully "As for Li Moon…how did she do?"

"Let me just say that she's pretty good at throwing sharp things at bad guys." said Sonic, winking at Li Moon "You're training a promising student Tilly."

Matilda beamed. It seemed Li Moon would be a fine student indeed. She felt bad about ever doubting her in the first place. As for Li Moon, she was pleased to see that Matilda was pleased with her. She felt very honoured indeed and couldn't wait to complete her training. She wondered if she'd be as good as Matilda when Matilda had finished training her. The Royal Fighters gathered around Blaze and Sonic instructed the Chun-Nan fighters to gather around her too. Blaze took out her Sol Emeralds and used a Sol Control to warp everybody out of Chun-Nan and back over to New Mobotropolis. Their mission had been a success…but it wouldn't change a thing about the fore coming events.

The Death Egg was nearing completion. It was nearly ready to launch. In half an hour it would be up in the sky and ready to reek havoc all over the world. Even as Sonic and friends were on their way home…it was already…too…late…

A mission succeeded! Captain Metal, sent scurrying home! But does that mean we'll get a happy ending? Doesn't seem like it.

The Countdown to the Death Egg nears its final number as we prepare for the launch of the Death Egg next time...be there to read it!

Countdown to Roboticization Part 1

Story 194: Countdown to Roboticization Part 1: The Launch

Countdown to Death Egg: 1

The Royal Fighters had been busy lately. VERY busy. So busy that one couldn't just put it into words and do it justice.

After hearing about Dr. Eggman's planned new ship "The Death Egg", the Royal Fighters had vowed to make sure that the Death Egg never saw the light of day and after hearing from Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat that the Death Egg seems to end Mobius, they were more determined than ever to stop the ship dead in its tracks and make sure it never took off. After infiltrating the Egg-Bunker, Queen Sally Acorn had managed to find out the locations of the Death Egg's refuelling stations which had been completed after she, Sonic the Hedgehog, Silver and Blaze had been sent to Solbius and ended up missing a week of Mobius Prime's time in the process. The Royal Fighters had split up all over the world to destroy the refuelling stations. As of this moment, Sally and the Royal Fighter she'd taken with her, Bunnie Rabbot, had been the first to return home from their mission. They'd come home with more than they'd bargained for. Mace the Elephant had come home with them after hearing what their mission was about and he vowed to help prevent the end of the world. His family life was just starting to look up after years of poverty and he wasn't going to let it end now. More still, they had come home with Sally's long lost cousin, Abby the Squirrel*. Abby had been lost in the Lost Jungle for over four years due to an unfortunate turn of events but now she was happily reunited with Sally and had come home to New Mobotropolis…not in the best condition for she'd sustained a few injuries from the battle with Mecha Sally in the Lost Jungle. Upon arrival, she'd been taken to Royal HQ and Sally and Bunnie had seen to giving her medical treatment immediately. Her torso was now completely bandaged and the wound had been given antiseptic to prevent it becoming infected and to ease the pain. Now that had been done, Abby had requested to be given a change of clothes since her current attire of a tiger fur skirt and nothing more was hardly an appropriate way to dress in society like New Mobotropolis. Sally had given Abby one of her best dresses to wear. The dress had no sleeves and was dark purple on the torso section with a lighter purple skirt section and it fit Abby perfectly. Abby had been given a matching pair of purple slippers to go with the dress. Abby had even combed her hair and untied it from around her head so it now hung loose over her shoulders and looked very neat and tidy. Gone was the jungle girl that Abby had been for four years. The Abby that Sally remembered very fondly was back again. Abby even had to admit she looked a lot better like this and was already accustomed to her new outfit and appearance. Now Abby was bandaged up and neatly dressed and tidied up, Sally and Bunnie had seen to explaining what she had missed out on for four years and why Mobotropolis was now "New Mobotropolis" and why it looked so different. They were sitting in the rec room of Royal HQ, the best place to hang out when you want to chill and relax for a bit and Abby found the room to be most comforting to be in. Once she was comfortable, Sally and Bunnie started explaining everything. Abby had been utterly amazed at what she'd heard. She had missed out on more than she could have possibly realized from Eggman's debut to Mobius to the war that had been going on for two years, going on three now, to the countless amount of evil schemes they've foiled and the three alien invasions they'd fought against and nearly died in the process. Even the multiverse crisis had been mentioned in the story to which Abby had admitted she'd seen streaks of light in the sky over the Lost Jungle on occasion but never lost anybody due to their uncertainty of the light and unwillingness to go near it. Sally even told Abby on how she had come to ascend from princess to queen and how she was now a queen who fought for her city as well as ruled over it and most importantly, how Mobotropolis became New Mobotropolis. It had been a lot to take in for Abby but she'd followed Sally and Bunnie without a single interruption. After the story had been finished, Abby spoke her thoughts on the whole thing.

"Whoa...four years pass by and everything changes...gasped Abby "Mobotropolis is now "New Mobotropolis", there's an army known as the Royal Fighters Service and it's fighting against a man named Dr. Eggman, whom I already know about, you're now a queen after an alien killed Alicia and Max and you now have the ability to fight, you're dating a boy named Sonic the Hedgehog who is also the biggest hero of Mobius and now currently, you're all fighting against Dr. Eggman and hoping to stop him from launching a ship called the Death Egg?"

"Yes cousin, that's correct." said Sally "And if all of what I've told you sounds a bit far-fetched, Nicole can vouch for everything."

"It's true." a feminine voice said as a cloud of pixels came from nowhere and formed the image of Nicole the Lynx, former Mobian and best friend of Sally Acorn, in front of Abby and Sally "I can show you news reports and images to back-up everything that's been said so please, don't dismiss everything as nonsense. We assure you it isn't." she said bluntly.

"Why would I disbelieve my own cousin?" snorted Abby "Sally never lied to me whenever we were together so I believe everything she's said. I'm sorry that you're just a computer programme now Nicole...it must be sad to no longer be Mobian again eh?"

Abby had met Nicole during the times she'd met Sally so she knew Nicole very well and was sad to see that she wasn't flesh and blood anymore, just a computer programme and a digital but realistic looking avatar that could stimulate emotions and realistic features to feel more Mobian.

"It was sad for a time but I've come to accept the changes to the status quo." said Nicole brightly "What's happened as happened and we can't change it. But it's not a bad thing, I've been quite useful to my friends since my turn to computer programme. Just a pity Eggman tried to turn me against my friends at one point..." her face fell as a terrible memory began to haunt her mind and she had to pause for a minute to compose herself.

"Don't worry Nicole, we're making sure it won't ever happen again." said Sally quickly, hoping to stop Nicole before she got emotional "You've done way more good things for us as you are, don't let what Eggman tried to d to you get to you."

"I won't, thank you Sally." said Nicole with a smile "Now then Abby, would you like to be a part of the Royal Fighters Service?" she asked, addressing Abby directly much to the squirrel's surprise.

"Oh no, I don't think I could be a Royal Fighter." said Abby sadly "I mean, I CAN fight but I was trained by Kay and his gorillas to fight jungle animals, not Eggman robots. And I'm certainly not used to being shot at either. I'd be dead on the battlefield..."

"We could train ya'll Abby, shape ya'll up into a nice, capable fighter." offered Bunnie "You maybe outta the jungle now but we can get ya'll used to fightin' outside of it too sugah."

"That's very nice of you but I still don't think I'd be very good at being a Royal Fighter." said Abby, shaking her head "You saw how badly I got hurt by Mecha Sally, I was nearly killed back there! I'd just be a boon to you all and I'd slow you down. I'm much safer here in New Mobotropolis I think. If anybody tries to take over Castle Acorn or anything then I will at least put up a fight and protect the city."

"If that's yer choice than we'll accept it hon." said Bunnie kindly "Besides, ah think ya'll could fill in nicely for Sally-girl when she's away."

"Yes, that would be a good idea." said Sally happily "You could be my substitute ruler and take care of the city while I'm fighting against Eggman! You were good at politics when you were a teen Abby and you ruled over a gorilla tribe very well, I'm sure you'll take good care of New Mobotropolis too."

"I've got some catching up to do since I've been away for so long but I think this is a task I'll be well-suited for." said Abby softly "I'll give it a shot. Guess I'm not done being "queen" yet."

Sally and Abby chuckled and hugged each other.

"OK, so, when do we go and find the Death Egg?" asked Mace "Didn't Nicole here find out where it was?"

"She did but we have to wait until the other Royal Fighters return sugah." said Bunnie "We can't go without em ya know, we'll need the whole team in on this. This isn't a task for just four of us."

"Let's hope they come back soon, some bad feeling in my gut's telling me we're running out of time and I'm not sure why." muttered Mace "I feel like the Death Egg's going to launch any moment now."

"I have that feeling too..." Sally's face was graver than a lonely ghoul wondering the haunted streets alone at night.

"If only I could have found any files on the Death Egg whilst we were in the Egg-Bunker." murmured Nicole sadly "We could have found out how close the Death Egg is to being completed and if we have the time to stop it."

"I bet if we weren't stuck on Solbius for a week, our time that is, we would likelier have had a chance to stop the Death Egg." moaned Sally "But we lost five precious days to find the Death Egg and destroy it. If we hadn't been stuck on Solbius for a week then we would have found the Death Egg already."

"Ah'll say. Ah mean all ya had to do was plug Nicole into that station in the jungle and she found out where the durn thing was." said Bunnie, her face darker than a thundercloud "We know where it is but given how long it took us to find that information...we might be too late."

"If this had happened a week ago, we'd definitely be in time to stop the Death Egg." murmured Sally "We'll just have to hope the Death Egg's still not finished yet but given that Eggman's been putting a month and a few weeks worth of effort into building that ship...it must be close to finished now. It's only an estimation but it could well be correct."

Mace, Nicole, Bunnie and Abby all nodded agreeably.

"I kinda feel like I've slowed you down even more." muttered Abby "If I didn't try doing that horrible thing I did to you, you would have found the station quicker. Heck, I should have taken you straight to it in the first place! That would have sped things up a little!"

"Yes it would but it wouldn't make the other Royal Fighters get home faster." said Sally, shaking her head "You've done nothing to hinder anything Abby, please don't blame yourself. You helped us more than anything. You and your gorillas led us right to that station. We would have taken much longer on our own."

"Aw thanks cousin." said Abby, hugging Sally gratefully "Let it never be said that I've missed your kind heart during my four years in the jungle. Then again, I had amnesia so I wouldn't have remembered anyway."

Sally knew what Abby meant and she hugged her cousin back. She'd missed hugs with her cousin too so hugging Abby was a great comfort to her in this worrying time. The calm before the storm one could say. It wasn't going to remain calm for very long though. Sally heard the sound of approaching footsteps from outside of Royal HQ and the sound was soon replaced by the sound of a door opening and footsteps entering Royal HQ. The door to the rec room opened and in walked Sonic the Hedgehog, accompanied by Silver the Hedgehog, Blaze the Cat, Ruben the Water Panther, Princess Matilda, Bladefeather the Falcon, Mushu the Iguana and Li Moon the Fox. Sonic, Ruben, Silver and Blaze had gone to Chun-Nan to destroy a Death Egg refuelling station and had only just recently completed the mission. They'd returned a few seconds ago thanks to Blaze using her Sol Emeralds to warp everybody home. Sally wondered why Matilda and the others were with the four Mobotropolis Royal Fighters but she pushed that aside for a minute to greet her comrades home.

"Sonic, Ruben, Silver, Blaze! You're all back!" cried Sally, hugging each of them with Sonic being saved for last and also hugged for the longest.

"And so are you my lovely queen." said Sonic, winking at Sally "How did it go with you and Bunnie then?"

"It went well." said Sally happily "How about you?"

"We ran into Captain Metal again but we fought him off and destroyed the refuelling station." explained Sonic "And before you ask, Captain Metal got to Mobius Prime by following Tails home when he used a Chaos Control and he managed to steal the Chaos Emerald Tails had used to look for us when we got thrown onto Solbius."

Sally and Bunnie were horrified to hear this, even though Bunnie didn't really know Captain Metal and was more horrified about the fact Tails had lost a Chaos Emerald to him.

"No…Captain Metal's got the Chaos Emerald from Tails?!" shrieked Sally "That's terrible! Did you get it back?!"

"No, he didn't bring it with him I'm sorry to say." said Blaze, shaking her head sadly "But we DID get a super warp ring from him. How he got it is beyond me though."

She showed the warp ring that she had managed to retrieve from Captain Metal to Sally. Sally took the warp ring and looked at it in wonder.

"You say this is a super warp ring…maybe Captain Metal found the one Silver had and lost when we got thrown onto Solbius?" she suggested.

"I wouldn't be surprised if he somehow got into the Egg-Bunker and found it." said Sonic, shrugging "Never mind, we WILL get that emerald back Sally, I promise you. Plus, Captain Metal deserves a beating for stealing that emerald from my best friend too! I hope Tails is OK…wherever he is."

"If he's not with any of the other Royal Fighter groups, we'll look for him." offered Sally "He might have been found by one of the other groups and taken with them."

"Hopefully." said Sonic, clearly looking worried about Tails as he thought about him at this moment.

"For now though, care to explain why Matilda, Bladefeather, Mushu and…whoever that vixen girl is are here too?" asked Sally.

"Same reason you brought Mace home I'd wager." replied Sonic, glancing at Mace "They want to help destroy the Death Egg too. Matilda in particular's keen to stop the Death Egg since she doesn't want the world to end as much as we do."

"It'd be my utmost honour to aid you all in the destruction of the Death Egg." said Matilda politely, bowing before Sally "We'd love to join you in your mission Sally."

"I'm very happy to hear that Matilda." said Sally happily "Extra support never hurts. Now then, I've got some good news to deliver but I'm going to save it until the rest of the Royal Fighters return."

"Sounds good to me." said Silver with a smile "So who's the cute squirrel with you? A friend of yours?" he asked, looking over at the quiet and polite Abby who was keeping to herself at this moment.

"I'm her cousin sir." said Abby "My name's Abby and I've been lost in the jungle for four years thanks to amnesia I received from getting hit on the head. I managed to get my memory back after Sally found me in her mission to destroy the station that had been built in the jungle and now she's been getting me up to date with everything I've missed out on. You must be Sonic." she added, looking over at Sonic "Sally described you as being blue, spiky and astonishingly handsome and you match that description perfectly. I can see why Sally's dating you Sonic." she winked cheekily at the hedgehog, making Sonic blush red.

"S-Sally r-really describes me that way?" he chuckled nervously "Heh, heh…I knew I was good looking but…wow. Ha, ha…ahem…" he coughed "It's nice to meet you Abby, especially since you're back with your cousin now. Are you joining the Royal Fighters?"

"No but I'm going to have an important job still." said Abby "I'm going to act as a stand-in for Sally when she's unable to run the city. I'm her "substitute queen" really now."

"Sounds good, very honourable of you to take such a big responsibility miss." said Ruben kindly "I'm sure you'll be a very good substitute for Sally."

"Thanks little guy." said Abby sweetly "Sally tells me your name's Ruben. It's nice to meet you."

Her excitement was well-deserved for the footsteps entered Royal HQ and soon the entire rec room was flooded with a barrage of Royal Fighters all filing in single file and waving hello to Sally and Sonic's teams. Abby gasped in amazement at the sight of the Royal Fighters and how many there were. They matched Sally's descriptions of them to a tee but she could see that these Royal Fighters also had some extra people that Sally hadn't described to her among them. This was definitely going to be quite enjoyable. All the rest of the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were here, Tails the Fox, Amy Rose, Cosmo the Seedrian, Cream the Rabbit, Knuckles the Echidna, Shade the Echidna, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Geoffrey St. John the Skunk, Sora Prower, Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon and Charmy Bee but more Royal Fighters had come home with them. Teams Adabat and Nekronopolis had come to NewMobotropolis too. Sonic was hardly surprised considering his team had come home with some extra Mobians so it made sense that the other teams had come home with some extra Royal Fighters too. It really was a case of "everybody was getting involved in this fight" and that feeling made Sonic feel like he was ready to take on anything, including the Death Egg. The Royal Fighters gathered around inside the rec room and Sally waited for them to start speaking, eager to hear what they had to tell her. She noticed that Amy seemed to be hurt though. On her mission in Megapolis, she'd been shot in the shoulder by Lennox Meers and she needed serious medical attention. The bullet was still in her shoulder even.

"Amy, you're hurt!" cried Sally "Nicole, get the first aid kit, that wound looks pretty serious!

"It is serious." muttered Amy as Nicole materialized out of the room to get the first aid kit "I got shot in the shoulder! By Lennox Meers no less!"

"We ran into Team Diamond in our mission." explained Sora "They gave us a tough time but we still managed to destroy the station."

"That's good." said Sally as Nicole re-entered the room with the medical kit in her hands. Due to Nicole's avatar being solid and realistic, she was able to pick up objects as if she was solid flesh and bone. Another genius feature of Tails's upgrades that made everything so much easier for her.

As Sally opened up the medical kit and prepared to work on Amy's wound, Tails ran over to Sonic and embraced his friend. Sonic hugged him back, pleased to see he was OK.

"Sonic, it's good to see you again!" cried Tails "I'm sorry I missed you before you left, I…"

"I know Tails, Captain Metal got the drop on you and stole your Chaos Emerald." said Sonic "I'm just glad you're OK Tails, I worried that Captain Metal had hurt you really badly or something. Thank goodness you're OK."

"Thank goodness indeed." agreed Cosmo "Me, Sora, Amy and Cream prepared to go to Megapolis and destroy the Death Egg station that had been built there and we found him lying unconscious on the ground so we woke him up, briefed him in on what's happening and we took him on our mission with us. We succeeded in destroying the station but…I'm afraid we failed to get the Chaos Emerald back."

"I'm not surprised, when my team ran into Captain Metal, he told us he didn't bring it with him so you were pretty much on a wild goose chase guys." said Sonic sadly.

"No, it's even worse than that." said Tails, his face grave and full of horror "You see…Finitevus has the Chaos Emerald now."

"WHAT?!" shrieked Knuckles, his dread locks flailing around wildly in alarm "Finitevus has the Chaos Emerald?! How can that be?!"

"I guess he found Captain Metal and stole the emerald from him." murmured Tails "I'm sorry Knuckles, I really am but we couldn't get it back from him. He stopped me with a Chaos Control and got away with one of his warp rings."

"So if Finitevus got a Chaos Emerald…that might explain how Captain Metal got this warp ring." murmured Blaze, glancing at the super warp ring in her hand "He maybe got it from Finitevus after losing the emerald to him."

"And if Finitevus has a Chaos Emerald then…oh no…oh no! Angel Island!" shrieked Shade "Knuckles, we've gotta get over there now! Finitevus might be stealing the Chaos Emeralds!"

"Blaze, warp ring now!" cried Knuckles desperately.

Blaze tossed the warp ring over to Knuckles to which the echidna quickly activated and opened up a portal to Angel Island. He looked through the portal…and held on tightly as he nearly fell out of it. He looked down and saw the most horrifying sight he would ever see in his life. Angel Island had fallen to the ground and smashed to pieces. There was nothing left but a pile of rocks that had once been an island. Even the Master Emerald shrine was destroyed, a sorry wreckage of rocks and rubble that lay spread out over Angel Island's remains. Knuckles nearly lost his grip on the open warp ring and fell out of it as his body began to go numb with shock. Shade pulled him back and the warp ring closed, falling to the floor with a clatter. Shade could feel Knuckles's pulse racing as she put a hand on his chest. His face was ashen and his mouth was dropped open as if he was possessed.

"Knuckles…what's wrong?" asked Shade.

"AngelIsland…it's destroyed!" croaked Knuckles "He did it…the bastard did it! He used the Chaos Emerald to find the other seven Chaos Emeralds and has taken the Master Emerald too! My home… our home Shade…it's no more!"

"NO!" wailed Shade "No it can't be! Angel Island's destroyed?!"

"But…that's impossible! It's still intact in the future, just floating in the ocean rather than floating in the sky!" protested Silver "I should know, Blaze keeps her Sol Emeralds there!"

Blaze quickly picked up the warp ring and flicked it into the air, opening up a portal to the future, most particularly where Angel Island was. Blaze looked through the open warp ring and saw that the future had changed. Angel Island was gone, no longer floating in the ocean where it should be. History had been changed but not in the way Silver and Blaze had anticipated. Blaze took her head out of the warp ring and stared at Silver.

"Angel Island's gone in the future too! History's been changed!" she gasped.

"But how? We didn't do anything to change history did we?" asked Silver "If Finitevus didn't cause Angel Island to be destroyed in the previous timeline, why has it happened now?"

"It's all my fault!" wailed Tails "If I didn't come looking for you, Blaze, Sonic and Sally with that Chaos Emerald, I wouldn't have brought Captain Metal back to Mobius Prime and cause this to happen! It's all my fault this has happened!"

"No Tails…I think it might be a bit more than that." thought Sally as she started bandaging up Amy's wounded shoulder after getting the bullet out for her "You see, Silver and Blaze wouldn't have been thrown onto Solbius along with me and Sonic originally right? I bet in the original timeline, it was just me and Sonic that ended up on Solbius and because me and Sonic didn't have a way home…we would have been roboticized when Captain Metal used the Egg O' War. Tails here would have come to Solbius, seen that it's been roboticized and fled immediately. Because Blaze was there to foil his plans, it gave him reason to flee and seek revenge on her, thus leading him to Tails and coming home with him to Mobius Prime."

"So technically…it's YOUR fault Blaze!" declared Amy "Obviously, it's not your fault intentionally, you did something good but sadly, something bad came out of it too."

"I'm dreadfully sorry that this happened Knuckles." said Blaze sadly "I did not mean for this to happen."

"Blaze, don't be sorry about saving another version of Mobius." said Knuckles softly "And besides, you didn't know that was going to happen did you? It was just bad luck that this Captain Metal guy happened to come across Tails as he was looking for you on Solbius. As my dad would have said "It just ended up being a series of unfortunate events"."

"Very unfortunate events indeed." murmured Silver "Although…if me and Blaze weren't there to get Sonic and Sally out of Solbius in the original timeline then maybe that's why the Death Egg ended up succeeding. Sonic wasn't very to destroy it originally so me and Blaze bringing Sonic back to Mobius Prime might end up leading to the Death Egg's downfall!"

"So despite losing Angel Island, we might well have saved Mobius as a whole." said Blaze with a dry smile "Much better than losing the entire world."

"Indeed. Which brings me to some good news I have for you all." said Sally, the squirrel now finished with Amy and getting up to speak "I got into a refuelling station and found out where the Death Egg was with help from my good friend Nicole. It's underneath the Egg Bunker apparently so we know where to find it now."

Sonic almost wanted to laugh out loud in amazement at this.

"You mean to tell me the Death Egg was in the most OBVIOUS place in the world and we missed it?!" he gasped.

"It's so obvious, it's overlooked." said Tails, shrugging and chuckling half embarrassedly.

"Instead of wasting time with those damn refuelling stations, we should have just gone straight to the Egg-Bunker in the first place and destroyed the Death Egg!" moaned Knuckles "We could have saved ourselves a lot of bother and we'd have this crisis averted already!"

"Like Tails said, it was so obvious that we didn't think Eggman would build it there." said Sonic casually "And it seems Silver and Blaze did some more good. If me and Sally were still on Solbius, Sally couldn't have found out where the Death Egg was could she?"

"Indeed not." said Nicole agreeably "Silver and Blaze have changed a lot more than they realize just by being sent to Solbius with you and Sally it seems."

"So it seems we might succeed in our mission after all Blaze." said Silver excitedly "We might well have helped to prevent the Death Egg's rising after what we've done!"

"That more than makes up for losing Angel Island." said Blaze grimly "Well, we know where the Death Egg is so let's go to the Egg-Bunker and destroy it before it can take flight."

"I'm not entirely sure if I should come guys." said Amy disappointedly "My shoulder wound might hinder my fighting a little bit."

"If you feel like you shouldn't come Amy then you can stay here with my cousin Abby." said Sally kindly "Abby, take care of Amy while we're gone if you please."

"Anything for you cousin." said Abby brightly "So you're Amy Rose I guess? Sally described you to me and how you're a bit of a mean streak in the battlefield."

"When I haven't got a shoulder wound that is." laughed Amy "See you later everybody. Good luck out there and make sure you save some of Eggman's ugly backside for me when you bring that ship down!"

"We'll bring him straight to you so you can hammer him if you like." chuckled Sonic "See ya Amy. We'll be back before you can say "chilli-dogs"."

No more words needed to be spoken after that. The Royal Fighters all filed out of Royal HQ in single file and ran outside to go off to the Egg-Bunker. Blaze handed Sonic the warp ring and Sonic flicked it ahead of the crowd of Mobians he was now leading. The warp ring opened up a portal that led to Megapolis and they crowd filed through it in single file, disappearing one by one through the warp ring. The Death Egg was the main priority for Sonic and the Royal Fighters at this point in time. Once the Death Egg had been dealt with, they would see to finding Dr. Finitevus and getting the Chaos Emeralds back from them. It disappointed Sonic to think that even after taking down the Death Egg, they still wouldn't be entirely victorious but taking down the Death Egg would be a victory worth celebrating, that much was certain…

Meanwhile in the Egg-Bunker, Dr. Eggman was waiting patiently for the Death Egg to finally be completed so that he could launch his enormous vessel into the sky and roboticize all of Mobius at last. It had been a while in the making but the Death Egg was nearing completion. In a couple of minutes time, the Death Egg would be completed and it would be ready to launch. The only thing that really needed doing right now was to put the stolen Master Emerald into place and then prepare the launch sequence. It made Dr. Eggman tingle with excitement to think that he would finally be victorious and his goal of ruling an entirely robotic empire would be achieved at last. He'd been fighting for two whole years against the Mobians and now this war would come to an end. He would win, the Mobians would lose and history would forever remember this day as the day Dr. Eggman triumphed. And his home planet, Earth, would join Mobius too. Thanks to the Master Emerald, he would just Chaos Control the Death Egg to Earth and then roboticize Earth. Two robotic worlds to rule. It certainly had a glorious image indeed and Eggman could hardly wait to see it come true. He cackled to himself.

"I can't believe it…the glorious day is coming at last…the day Dr. Eggman wins!" he crowed "I've waited too long and dreamt endlessly about this day…and it's finally coming! The Death Egg will rise and nobody will be able to stop me! My glorious vessel is unstoppable, I've made very sure of that and if those pesky Royal Fighters think Chaos Emeralds will save them this time…oh, ho, ho…they're dead wrong!"

Eggman had put a lot of thought into the building of the Death Egg and had taken some features from previous projects that he thought would make the Death Egg an even greater vessel then it already was. One of those features had been taken from the time he'd made Robotropolis fly, the Chaos Magnet. If the heroes dared to use the Chaos Emeralds and turn super at all, he would just use the Chaos Magnet to swipe the emeralds from them and add them to the Master Emerald down in the power core chamber. Eggman had even tested it on the Master Emerald to see if it worked and to his delight, it did. It helped how he had data files on Chaos Energy so making the Chaos Magnet a second time would be possible. It had been a success when Robotropolis had taken flight and it was going to be very helpful when the Death Egg took to the skies. Eggman really was confident that the Death Egg was well and truly unstoppable and given the thought process and the careful construction of the Death Egg, it seemed he was right. Eggman clasped the metal hands of his mech suit together and he smiled to himself.

"Pity Katherine's been destroyed along with the Chun-Nan station so she can't join me for my final victory but who cares?" he sighed "I have two much better henchbots to have at my side. Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally will make a fine duo indeed. I'm surprised my first model ended up getting destroyed but she performed admirably from what I can gather. The second Mecha Sally model will be an improvement and not even Sonic will match up to her..."

He was smiling so much to himself that it was a miracle his face wasn't hurting yet, or that his face could even contain his smile in the first place. You could almost see the corners of his smile protruding from his cheeks.

"And to think that all it took was for me to be exiled from Earth to come this far." mused Eggman "Yes...I remember my time on that wretched planet that I had the dishonour of calling "home". I knew I was gifted since the day I was born. Arithmetics were child's play for me, algorithms were no problem and I could understand science equations as if it were as easy as counting. The simple fact was that I was exceptionally gifted. I was...a genius. Pity those ungrateful science teachers at school didn't appreciate the fact that I knew better than they did and spent most of my time correcting them whenever they were wrong!"

Eggman stomped the floor with the mech suit's left foot in rage. His origin story truly did leave him fuming whenever he thought about it. Things like this were things he'd rather forget about.

"They just dismissed me as a "show-off" and a "stuck-up little boy" and kicked me out of any science lesson the school had! Well I showed them when I moved onto college and got my science degree that showed how much of a genius I really was! Boy it was fun rubbing it in their faces that I got a higher degree in science then any of those squares! Ho, ho, ho! And then came the day I invented roboticization...the most amazing feat anybody has ever accomplished! The idea was sound, to heal injuries and any kind of disease by making the patient a robot. We'd never need to worry about dying from illness or injuries ever again! My science buddies liked it so much that they suggested that I go to G.U.N. and work for them! I presented my idea to G.U.N. and they thought that it would be a great asset to their military department! But when I started trying it in innocent people, they declared me insane and fired me! I tried to exact my revenge and instead, I ended up being exiled in a miserable, humiliating defeat! And now here I am, on another world and trying to achieve the task that I sought to achieve on Earth...make a robot utopia just for me to rule over! I'll prove to Earth that a roboticized world is a MUCH better place, I'll prove it! Crime and warfare would be a thing of the past, we'd never need useless doctors and pointless hospitals since medical problems wouldn't ever be a problem again and we'd be in a world of peace and tranquility with me, the glorious Dr. Ivo "Eggman" Robotnik would be the perfect ruler!"

He threw his arms into the air and roared with laughter as if he was doing some kind of hammy performance in a bad stage show before an uninterested audience. Only...there was no audience, he was just making a scene for himself. Eggman stopped laughing and tapped his claws together.

"Mobius is just merely a test for how my robot utopia will look! And once Mobius is mine, Earth will fall victim to the Death Egg too and for once, my genius will be appreciated!" declared Eggman "For too long I have been wronged, unappreciated and sneered at! Now people will respect me and worship me! If not then too bad, they'll have to do it anyway!"

His pontificating was brought to an ubrupt halt by a beeping sound on the main computer screen. An Egg-Pawn's face appeared on the screen and waited for Eggman to respond. Eggman pointed at the screen as if it was doing something wrong and he was calling it out.

"What is it?! Can't you see I'm busy idolizing myself?!" snapped Eggman.

"The-Death-Egg-is-rea-dy-for-launch. A-wait-ing-your-com-mand." droned the Egg-Pawn.

Eggman tried to skip for joy but the mech suit was much too top heavy for him to do so without toppling over so instead, he threw the metal arms up and whooped from inside the mech.

"YES! It's ready at last!" chortled Eggman "Oh boy, oh boy, oh boy!

It's ready, it's finally ready! Countdown to Extinction for the Mobians and Countdown to Genesis will for the Robians will now begin! Launch the Death Egg!"

"Yes-sir." said the Egg-Pawn.

The screen switched off and Eggman waited by, trembling with excitement as the Death Egg prepared for launch. Outside, he could hear a loud alarm wailing throughout the underground cave that had been dug to house the Death Egg during construction.

"Attention all Egg-Pawns, Death Egg is ready to launch. Repeat. Death Egg is ready to launch. Board the ship immediately and prepare for take-off."

The working Egg-Pawns were quick to respond. They put away all their tools and carried them into the Death Egg as they boarded the ship. Dr. Eggman left the Egg-Bunker, which was now the top floor of the Death Egg, and he flew down to the centre floor which housed the control room for the Death Egg. He sat down in a large metal seat and watched as the Death Egg's crew began to prepare the ship for launch. Buttons were pressed and levers were pulled during the whole process and the room was alive with blinking lights and whirring sounds as if some creature was finally waking up after being asleep for several years. The Egg-Pawns primed the ship and began the launch sequence.

"Ocular shutters...opening..." droned a computerized voice as two huge circular shapes on the Death Egg opened up in a manner of eyes opening. The shapes themselves clearly resembled eyes.

"Nasal sensory array deploying..." the voice droned again as a metal slab opened down from the middle of the Death Egg's face and formed what looked like a nose.

"Ventral engines beginning preliminary burn..." the voice droned one last time "Prepare for take-off in ten...nine...eight...seven..."

The Death Egg rumbled as its engines began burning away, roaring gleefully as they prepared to push the great vessel they were attached to into the sky above. To Eggman, this rumble was one of the best feelings he would ever experience. He laughed with joy as the Death Egg slowly began to ascend. Sonic and friends were too late...the Death Egg was launching and nothing could stop it...

Up above, a warp ring opened up in mid-air and out of it poured all the Royal Fighters from Team Mobotropolis to Team Nekronopolis and even Team Adabat. If Dr. Eggman thought he dealt with enough Royal Fighters already then he would certainly go ballistic over the large amount of Royal Fighters here to fight him now. The Royal Fighters all spread out and Blaze grabbed the warp ring before it could close up behind her. The Northern Border of Megapolis needed no introduction to the Royal Fighters. Ever since the time Sonic and Knuckles had first met each other, this had been Eggman's primary base of refuge. Once had a robotic city stood in this very place and now it was currently housing Eggman in an underground bunker that was now part of Eggman's new ship, his new place of refuge. Sonic looked around and was rather surprised to see that there was nobody around. Considering the Death Egg was located underneath the Egg-Bunker, Sonic at least expected some security around but there was none. Almost as if Eggman thought they would never guess the Death Egg was here. They hadn't been able to guess at first though so Sonic could hardly blame Eggman for his lapse in security.

"Huh, coast is clear. That's unexpected." mused Sonic "Guess Eggman's not expecting company."

"Lucky for us." said Tails "We'll be able to stop that Death Egg easily since he has no idea we're coming after him!"

"I dunno Tails, Eggman's not that stupid." murmured Sally uneasily "I'm sure he would have at least made sure that we couldn't get to the Death Egg in case we did manage to find out where it is, in which case we have now. It's like he doesn't care about security anymore..."

"Doesn't matter, Eggman's inviting us to destroy his new toy so let's be polite and accept his invitation." said Sonic impatiently "Has anybody got any ideas how to destroy the Death Egg?"

"Given I have the Sol Emeralds on me, I could just as easily turn super and destroy that thing myself." suggested Blaze "Easy as that."

"Bet Eggman won't expect that to happen now will he?" laughed Sonic "You know, we didn't even need everybody here. Just let Blaze do it all and we're good to go!"

"A little anti-climactic some might think but not that it's a bad thing." said Tails casually "Although something tells me it won't be as easy as that..."

"I know the feeling buddy." said Sonic, nodding his head "Sometimes something looks easy and it ends up being much harder than you think. And in Eggman's case, he's definitely proved that statement correct multiple times before. Oh well, we have something that will destroy that Death Egg easily and Eggman won't be able to do anything about it."

"Yeah, yeah, we get it, now can we get into the Egg-Bunker and destroy the darn thing already?!" yelled Knuckles "We're wasting time here!"

"Hold on Knuckles, I can feel something beneath my feet." said Cosmo worriedly "It feels like...rumbling."

The Royal Fighters waited for a moment and fell silent as they listened for a sound of any kind. They could feel the rumbling too. And as they waited, it began to get much worse. The rumbling increased to the point where the Royal Fighters felt like they were going to fall over like skittles in a bowling game. Sonic had a feeling that standing around wasn't a good idea at this moment. He turned to the Royal Fighters, his face full of panic.

"RUN FOR IT!" yelled Sonic frantically.

He knew what the rumbling meant. They were too late. The Death Egg was launching and they were standing right above it! The Royal Fighters ran for their lives as the ground shook even more violently and large cracks began to spread out across the ground beneath their feet. They ran until they couldn't feel the rumbling under their feet as much as before and watched with utter dismay as the ground opened up in an enormous crack and a huge metal shape began to ascend from underneath. Rocks showered down the sides of the shape and into the cracks and the cracks only expanded as the shape continued to plough its way up through the ground. It was like watching a tank plough through a brick wall only the shape was going up and was going to be airborne momentarily. Sonic could only stare incredulously as the enormous shape of the Death Egg began to rise from the ground and loom over them all. He could only imagine what the Death Egg looked like and now he finally knew. He never would have imagined anything like this. The Death Egg was an enormous egg-shaped machine with eyes, nose and a moustache on it. The best way to describe it was that it looked like a giant flying egg with Eggman's face on it. Yet the somewhat silly image managed to look very intimidating because of its enormous size. A ship this big likely contained great power. Power...enough to end the world Sonic thought immediately. He could see why Silver and Blaze thought this behemoth of a ship was responsible for Mobius's doom and 200 years of decay and dwindling life, it could easily destroy a planet depending on what weaponry it had. Silver and Blaze were more horrified at the sight of the Death Egg than anybody. They'd tried to prevent it from coming and yet it was here, looming above them and glaring at them with its huge, ominous orange "eyes. Not for long though. Blaze summoned the Sol Emeralds and prepared to become Burning Blaze...only to regret trying this action. The Chaos Magnet that Eggman had installed into the Death Egg acted the moment the Sol Emeralds appeared. The magnet was a small circular disc with a very powerful force that could attract anything with Chaos Energy in them no matter how far away they were and it was located under the Death Egg's moustache. Eggman had specially programmed it to activate the moment anything Chaos related was detected. The Death Egg could be in space and the magnet still would have activated. Blaze watched with horror as the Sol Emeralds were whisked away from her and taken up to the Death Egg. The magnet retreated back into the Death Egg now it had the Sol Emeralds. The Mobian's best plan was utterly crushed. Blaze could not turn super without her emeralds and they didn't know where the Chaos or Master Emeralds were given Finitevus had the former and Eggman had the latter (unbeknownst to them). Blaze could only watch in defeat as the Death Egg continued to rise.

"No..." she gasped. It was all she could do at this moment.

"We...we failed...the Death Egg's rising...and we can't stop it!" cried Silver in anguish.

He and Blaze embraced as if it was the last thing they were ever going to do. Sally and Tails were both clutching onto Sonic as if their life depended solely on him and him only. Sonic put his arms around them both, hoping to find some comfort in this horrible time.

"Sonic..." whispered Tails hoarsely.

"It's launching...the Death Egg's launching!" blustered Sally.

"We were too late...and now the Death Egg's going to unleash hell on us all!" exclaimed Sonic, clutching Sally and Tails even tighter.

The Death Egg began to ascend, climbing slowly up into the sky and leaving the ground down below. It would ascend into space and once up there...the end of the Mobians would commence. The age of Robians was about to begin...

Footnotes:

See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 26: Welcome to the Jungle Sally Acorn to find out how she got here!

* It happened in *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Raccoon on the Run

NOOOOOOOOOO! THE DEATH EGG'S RISING! OH NOES! HOW WILL SONIC AND FRIENDS STOP IT NOW?! D: :0

Tune in next time for the second part of one of the most colossal Sonic stories you'll ever read!

Before that, join Tales from Mobius for its FINAL chapter when Dr. Finitevus begins "The Formulation of the Dark Armada"...

Countdown to Roboticization Part 2

Story 195: Countdown to Roboticization Part 2: The Death Egg

Countdown to Death Egg: 0 Death Egg Launched

For days on end, the Royal Fighters had been dreading the launch of the Death Egg. Now that nightmare was coming true. Despite all their best efforts in trying to find the Death Egg and hinder it, it had launched and it was ascending up high into the sky with no way of stopping it.

After the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses had been brought to a cataclysmic but epic end by Sonic and friends, Dr. Eggman had been working hard on building himself a new ship to which he christened the Death Egg. He'd managed to keep it hidden from the Royal Fighters for a long time and had built a bunch of refuelling stations that the Death Egg actually didn't need in order to slow the Royal Fighters down and buy himself some more time to finish the ship. It had worked better than he ever could have realized. The heroes had been slowed down most beautifully by his stations although really, Raphael the Cyber Husky sending Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze to Solbius had been the true thing that had slowed them down for they had been gone for a week whilst on Solbius. had that not happened then the Death Egg wouldn't be flying right now. But that critical event had paved the way for the Death Egg's launch. The heroes had been too slow to find it and stop it, now it was launching and preparing to cause chaos for everybody. The heroes had no Chaos Emeralds to use on the Death Egg for Dr. Finitevus had stolen them all and the Master Emerald was onboard the Death Egg itself. Blaze the Cat had attempted to use her Sol Emeralds to turn super and destroy the Death Egg but she had just ended up losing them to the Death Egg's Chaos Magnet. Now the heroes had nothing to stop the enormous ship. The Royal Fighters stared and watched as the ship began to rise up from the ground, its ascent slow but steady for the time being. It was heading up into space where it would unleash its world roboticizer and turn Mobius into a robot utopia for Dr. Eggman himself to rule over and enjoy for years to come. After watching it for a minute, Sonic the Hedgehog turned to face Queen Sally Acorn, who was holding onto his arm in fear. Tails the Fox was holding his other arm and looking equally as frightened.

"So…what do we do now?" asked Sonic desperately. It wasn't often that Sonic ever got worried about something but right now, he really was terrified more than he ever had been in his life.

"We're going to have to fly up after that Death Egg and shoot it down!" blustered Sally, "But how? We can't get up there and we won't be able to take it down ourselves!"

"We'll need flying vehicles!" declared Tails, "I've still got the Tornado ready for use back at home! Funny I haven't used it since the day I rebuilt it though*. Now I get to use it at long last."

"Not all of us will fit in the Tornado Tails." noted Sonic, "We need more than that if we're all gonna get up there."

"We could get the R.F.S. Jet too but even then, we won't all fit into that jet." said Sally despairingly.

"If it helps your majesty, my team has a flying vehicle of our own." said the leader of Team Nekronopolis, Miranda Mongoose, "For a while now, me, Kari and the boys have been building ourselves a ship so that should anyone far away be in danger, we can fly to their aid and not be a second too late. We also built it to tackle large Eggman robots should he ever unleash any. We called it the Sky Patrol and Kari's been quite eager to fly it at last. Well now we get to show it off, see if our hard work has paid off."

"That's great Miranda!" exclaimed Sally, "You will take Team Adabat and Team Chun-Nan on the Sky Patrol with you while me and my team go in the Tornado and the R.F.S. Jet. Blaze, warp ring please."

Blaze tossed Sally the super warp ring that she had managed to swipe from Captain Metal during her time in Chun-Nan earlier. It seemed like a good idea at the time and right now was just proving how good an idea it had been. Sally flicked the warp ring into the air and opened up a portal back home to New Mobotropolis.

"All New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, Silver and Blaze, with me now!" Sally cried frantically, "After we've gone through Miranda, you will use the warp ring to warp yourself and the remaining Royal Fighters to the Sky Patrol."

"Got it." said Miranda, "I've always wanted to use one of those warp rings."

"And now you'll get the chance." said Sonic with a wink "Come on ladies and gentleman, boys and girls, let's bring death to that Death Egg!" he declared ecstatically, leaping into the air like somebody who's won a noble prize.

"Only you could ever be in such an intense situation and still say something that cheesy Sonic." laughed Tails, playfully nudging Sonic with his elbow.

Sonic just grinned casually. He maybe scared over what the Death Egg can do but he believed in remaining optimistic in the heat of a battle since remaining good-willed and hopeful in situations like this can often be very helpful. A wise man once said that fear can hold you prisoner but hope can set you free. In Sonic's case, fear would hold him back but hope would help him win. Sally flicked the warp ring into the air and opened up a portal back to New Mobotropolis. The New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters all ran through the warp ring with Silver and Blaze following them. The moment they disappeared through the warp ring, Miranda grabbed it just as it closed up and she activated it, opening up a portal to the R.F.S. base back in Nekronopolis. Team Nekronopolis, Team Adabat and Team Chun-Nan all ran through the warp ring and found themselves transported over to the R.F.S. base. Soon the Royal Fighters would all be flying up after the Death Egg, keen to bring it down before it could cause any harm. But would they succeed? That was a question that had even Sonic nervous at this pressing hour…

A few minutes later…

Up on the Death Egg itself, it was pretty smooth sailing for Dr. Eggman. The egomaniacal mad-scientist now caged inside a life support machine modelled after the E-123 Omega design was sitting back and relaxing as the Death Egg continued its ascent up into the sky. The Death Egg had already climbed fairly high up into the sky, about the height of the world's tallest mountain, and it was still heading on up. Eggman was intending to go into space so the Death Egg would carry on flying until the skies turned black and the clouds became swarms of stars. It was kind of funny to Eggman that he hadn't really been up in space for three years. He'd cruised through eons of space and past many planets and stars searching for a place to build the Eggman Empire after being exiled from Earth and yet after landing on Mobius, he hadn't been up in space since then. Memories of the cruise to Mobius came back to Eggman's head as the Death Egg continued ascending. He had travelled through space in his battleship, the prototype Egg Carrier, when searching for Mobius. Now he was heading up into space with by fair his greatest ship ever, the Death Egg. Bigger than the Egg-Carrier, stronger and more heavily armed to, the Death Egg put the Egg Carrier to shame. And it had the greatest weapon of all…a worldwide roboticizer. He'd used it once when Robotropolis still existed and had succeeded in roboticizing all but five Mobians. This in turn led to his defeat, his brief snap into insanity and Robotropolis being destroyed for good. He wouldn't miss a single Mobian this time around though. He was going to be up in space when he fired the blast and the blast would bathe Mobius in its dazzling light as everything was converted into a robot. Best of all, Sonic the Hedgehog wouldn't be able to stop him now. The Death Egg would be impossible for him to break in and even if he had a ship of any kind, the Death Egg would just shoot it down. Even if Sonic managed to get onboard, he still had some surprises for the hedgehog that he knew would keep him at bay long enough for him to fire the roboticizer beam. This really was going to be Dr. Eggman's perfect day.

"Death-Egg-as-cend-ing. Est-i-mat-ed a-rri-val-time-fif-teen-min-utes-and-coun-ting." droned an Egg-Pawn on duty monotonously, "En-gines-are-at-opt-i-mal-burn, the-world-wide-ro-bot-i-ci-zer-is-char-ging-and-all-sys-tems-are-green."

"Excellent, excellent! Everything's running like clockwork." purred Dr. Eggman delightedly, "And best of all, the hedgehog doesn't seem to have anticipated my Death Egg's launch, even if he and his friends have destroyed all of my fake stations…"

He still couldn't resist the urge to preen and gloat over his clever plan to build fake stations in order to slow the Royal Fighters down and waste their time while his Death Egg neared completion. The plan seemed to have worked to perfection for the Royal Fighters still hadn't arrived to stop him yet. Not that they could even if they were here. Eggman eye the main computer monitor as it displayed the Death Egg's ascent. He had reached an altitude of 10,000 feet already and it was still climbing. Eggman wished he could have gone faster but he remembered an old saying from an old fable that he once heard on Earth. "Slow and steady wins the race". This wasn't a race, but slow and steady would help Eggman win this battle. Eggman leaned forward inquisitively in his seat.

"Egg-Pawn, any sign of Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends?" he asked.

"Neg-a-tive. No-sign-of-hedge-hog-currently-de-tec-ted." droned the Egg-Pawn.

"I guess I slowed them down more than I realized." chortled Eggman, "Ha, ha…I bet they're still trying to figure out where this ship is right about now! They'll find out alright…too late that is! Ho, ho, ho!"

"Hold-on-Doc-tor-Egg-man. Scan-ners-in-di-cate-that-there-are-three-ap-proach-ing-veh-icles-com-ing-to-wards-us." the Egg-Pawn quipped suddenly, straightening up and staring at the screen it was positioned in front of. Three dots had appeared on the Death Egg's radar and they were closing in on the Death Egg.

"Might be some aeroplanes taking people on holiday but let's see what they are." said Eggman casually, clearly not bothered about what the vehicles could be. He had an invincible ship with a worldwide roboticizer, he had nothing to fear pretty much.

The Egg-Pawn tapped away on the control panel's buttons to display a visual scene of what was going on outside on the computer monitor. Dr. Eggman stared at the screen as an image of outside the Death Egg filled the entire screen. He gaped at what he was seeing. He saw three flying vehicles coming towards the Death Egg. One was the Tornado, a blue and yellow bi-plane that Tails had built himself with Sonic the Hedgehog and Sally Acorn riding on the wings. Flying beside the Tornado was the R.F.S. jet, a silver jet with four engines and hovering abilities. The third ship was new to Eggman. This was the aforementioned Sky Patrol that Team Nekronopolis had built themselves. It was a round ship with white wings jutting out from the sides. The hull was a brilliant golden colour and the top of the ship was domed with a large golden star printed on the top. It was armed with gun turrets that were positioned all around the ship's hull, giving it the capability of firing in every direction possible. Team New Mobotropolis had been very impressed with the appearance of the Sky Patrol and looked forward immensely to seeing the ship in action. Team Nekronopolis themselves were very excited to see their new ship in action too. Dr. Eggman took in what he'd seen, his brow furrowed in thought.

"So it appears the Royal Fighters were prepared for me after all." he sighed, "Well, I guess launching into the sky without any problem was too much to ask for."

He stood up from his seat and barked as loudly as he could.

"Launch the distraction drones!" bellowed Eggman wildly, "Fire the Death Egg's weapons! Shoot those vehicles down! We cannot have the launch being interrupted at this delicate stage! Leave no Royal Fighter alive!"

"Sir-yes-sir." droned the Egg Pawn.

The Egg-Pawn pressed a button on the control panel. Outside on the Death Egg, the green bands that circled around the top and the bottom of the Death Egg began to glow with a light that would have been very bright but the day outside was already bright so the bands hardly looked like they were glowing. Then huge spears of lasers began to shoot out of the bands on the Death Egg and head straight towards the oncoming vehicles. The Royal Fighters were already anticipating an attack from the Death Egg so the moment the lasers fired, they were already manoeuvring their vehicles to dodge the attack. The lasers were just one of two distractions that the Death Egg had in store for the Royal Fighters. The deadly green laser shots surged towards the Tornado but Tails performed a slick, evasive barrel roll to dodge the shot. Sonic and Sally held on for dear life as the plane spun around in a neat circle to avoid the laser shots. It amazed even Tails how fast his plane could really move but even more amazing was the fact Sonic and Sally had been able to hold onto the wings during that roll. Tails zoomed closed towards the Death Egg, the Tornado's propeller spinning at top speed and scything through the air as it edged closer to the egg-shaped ship. The Death Egg just seemed to increase in size as Tails drove closer and closer. It was big enough already but getting closer to it by the second, it just seemed to get bigger. But Tails wasn't somebody who got intimidated by mere size, he'd seen enough big things in his life to get used to them. The Death Egg's lasers fired towards the Tornado again but Tails weaved the plane up and around the lasers as if he was on a battlefield dodging bullets every yard he ran. He fired back at the Death Egg with a hail fire of blasters that barely did anything against the hull of the Death Egg. They just bounced off as if they were merely stones against a brick wall. The R.F.S. Jet edged closer towards the Death Egg and launched an attack of its own. Wilson the Dog was in the pilot's seat of the jet and he fired the jet's lasers at the Death Egg. The Sky Patrol, flying close behind, fired its own lasers alongside the R.F.S. jet. The sky was now filled with a hailstorm of lasers from four different ships all shooting at each other, three against one, Mobians vs. Human, no holds barred. The heavy laser fire was useful to the Royal Fighters though. As the Sky Patrol and the R.F.S. Jet hammered feebly against the Death Egg's impenetrable hull, the Tornado began flying around the side of the ship. Tails kept a keen eye out for anything resembling a weak spot on the ship. Every ship, even ones as big as this, had their weak spots.

"Come on...there must be a vulnerable area on that thing..." murmured Tails.

"That Death Egg's strong but I bet on the inside, it's not so tough." crowed Sonic, "Once we get inside, we destroy its power core and bring it down!"

"I hope it's as straight forward as that..." said Sally, trying her best to be heard over the wind as it snatched away her words.

"You know Dr. Eggman, nothing's EVER straight forward with him." Sonic murmured more to himself than anybody, the wind drowning out his words to the point where even he only just managed to hear himself speak.

Sonic knew all too well that Eggman was a master planner and that he always had some kind of surprise in store for him and his friends. This time would be no different, especially with a ship as large as the Death Egg. Sonic dreaded to think what Eggman had in store for him and his friends in the Death Egg, especially since it seemed that the Death Egg was the very thing that ended the world according to Silver and Blaze. Sonic couldn't bear to think about it, all the more reason he had to succeed in stopping the Death Egg. Tails suddenly cried out in alarm, pointing ahead of himself at something up ahead.

"Sonic, Sally, heads up! There's something coming towards us!" he blurted.

Sonic and Sally stared ahead and saw that something was indeed coming towards them. There was a trio of Egg-Pawns with jetpacks attached to their backs flying towards the Tornado with one intention in their computerized minds: to kill Sonic and friends. These were the distraction drones that Dr. Eggman had sent out to slow down Sonic and friends. The Egg-Pawns were armed with huge laser cannons that looked like they could do a lot of damage. Tails registered the size of the cannons and knew instantly that he didn't want to get hit by them. The Egg-Pawns, flying backwards as the Tornado flew forwards, fired at the plane. Sonic and Sally held on tightly as Tails banked sharply to the right to avoid the blasts. Tails was right on not wanting to be hit by the blasts, they were large and looked extremely powerful. They could have punched the Tornado's wings clean off if they had hit it. The Egg-Pawns analyzed the situation and realized that if Tails banked to the left, he would likely collide with the Death Egg and get himself killed. If they could force him to do that then it would be mission accomplished. The Egg-Pawns fired at Tails again, this time from the right side so surely he'd be forced to bank to the left in order to dodge. But Tails thrust the levers forward and the Tornado rose upwards instead, the shots missing the undercarriage by millimetres as they seared past underneath the plane. The Egg-Pawns tried a different tactic to get Tails to crash into the Death Egg. One Egg-Pawn flew up a little higher than the Tornado was currently flying. The second Egg-Pawn remained below the first and the third Egg-Pawn took the right side. They would be firing from the top, the bottom and the right sides of the Tornado. Tails would surely have to bank to the right in order to dodge their attacks. The top and bottom Egg-Pawns started shooting rapidly, a hail fire of laser blasts searing over the Tornado and preventing it from going up top or down below in order to dodge. The Egg-Pawn on the right aimed at the Tornado and prepared to shoot at it. But despite how analytical the Egg-Pawns were, they had failed to notice one fundamental fact of the scene before them. Sonic the Hedgehog was riding on the wing of the Tornado. Sonic leaped off of the Tornado's wing and spin-dashed into the two Egg-Pawns firing above and below the Tornado. The Egg-Pawn on the right turned to see what was happening, a very big mistake for it ended up getting walloped and smashed to pieces by the Tornado's wing as it zoomed straight into the Egg-Pawn. Sonic landed back on the Tornado's wing as it passed under him, the Egg-Pawn's remains falling down to the ever shrinking ground down below.

"Whew, that was tight!" puffed Sonic, wiping his forehead, "Eggman's not pulling his punches is he?"

"He's got a big ship called the Death Egg, of course he's not pulling his punches!" Sally called over to Sonic, "He'll be doing whatever it takes to make sure his flight doesn't go uninterrupted! We have to bring the Death Egg down now before it fires that beam Silver and Blaze told us about!"

"Yeah…and wipe out Mobius as we know it." murmured Sonic, thinking back to what Silver and Blaze had told the Royal Fighters after the Solaris incident had been ceased the other day, "No way is Eggman destroying our world! We've been fighting for years to prevent him from conquering it, no way is he undermining our efforts like this!"

He looked over to Tails and could evidently see that the yellow-furred fox was as nervous looking as he was.

"You see a weak spot on that thing?" asked Sonic, motioning towards the Death Egg.

"Negative, I don't see anything that looks like a weak spot." said Tails, shaking his head disappointedly, "I'm not sure how we'll get inside."

"We have to get in somehow!" yelled Sonic desperately, "Try firing a missile at the hull and see if that'll punch a hole in it or something!"

"We may as well give it a go." said Tails "There's no other way inside otherwise."

Sonic and Sally nodded uneasily. Tails nodded back, willing to try this plan as much as they were. He was equally as desperate to save Mobius from destruction as Sonic and Sally were. He'd seen a dystopian Mobius himself, Mobius Beta, one of infinite different versions of Mobius in the multi-verse. Mobius Beta was a wreck and barely had any life on it. Tails did not want this to happen to Mobius, HIS Mobius. He couldn't bear the idea of his world being a wreck. The Death Egg would be stopped no matter the cost. Tails closed his hands around the joysticks and he thumbed a button on the top of the left joystick. A huge homing missile fired out from underneath the Tornado, emitting an ear-splitting scream as it roared towards it target. Tails swerved away from the Death Egg so he wouldn't get hit by flying debris when the missile hit. The missile slammed against the wall of the ship directly around the back. Despite the power of the missile, it didn't seem to do an awful lot of damage, only a big dent at the most. Tails tried launching another missile. Sadly, that was the only one he had left. The Tornado didn't have much room for more missiles than two for it wasn't really a military plane. It could only fit two and they were meant to be used on special occasions. Tails launched the second missile, aiming directly at where the first missile had hit. The missile struck home and this time, it managed to punch a hole into the Death Egg. Not a very big hole though, only enough for Sonic or anybody smaller than him. Tails edged the plane towards the hole in the wall.

"We've managed to breach the hull!" cried Tails, "Sonic, Sally, you two get inside and fast! We'll do what we can out here!"

"Will do Tails!" Sonic called over to his best friend, "You ready for this Sal?"

"Definitely." said Sally determinedly, "Let's go my handsome hedgehog."

Sonic winked at his girlfriend before he leapt off the Tornado's wing and spin-dashed directly towards the hole in the wall, passing straight through it effortlessly. Sally jumped off after him and she deployed her energy blades. As she headed towards the Death Egg, she swung the blades forward and allowed them to plunge straight into the hull. Sally hit the wall just above the hole and let herself slide down towards the hole where Sonic was waiting for her, hands outstretched so he could catch her. Sally slid down until she was dangling above Sonic and the hedgehog put his hands around her hips. He carried Sally inside through the hole and set her down on the floor. Sally dusted herself off and watched as Tails banked the Tornado away from the Death Egg and flew off.

"I hope our friends will survive out there." said Sally worriedly.

"They'll be fine, don't sweat it Sally." said Sonic casually, "Now then, we're inside the Death Egg and by golly, it's as hideous as all the other places Eggman hangs out in." he muttered in disgust, taking in their surroundings.

Sally observed their surroundings too, only just taking in the fact she was now inside the Death Egg. They were in a metal corridor that had light blue rectangular lights running across each individual section of the wall. The floor seemed to curl further down the corridor, matching the relatively round shape of the Death Egg itself. The vapid colours did nothing to help make the corridor look anymore interesting. Sally screwed her face up. Was Eggman always this plain and boring when it came to interiors of his design? She'd never really been in any of his bases before the Egg-Bunker so she wouldn't know. Sonic however was reminded heavily of Robotropolis and most other bases Eggman had built before. The Death Egg was no more inviting than the other bases, cold, metallic and just screaming with death. Sonic would be all too happy to smash this ship to pieces.

"Any ideas where to find the power core chamber?" asked Sonic impatiently.

"I'll see if Nicole can find that out for us." said Sally, taking Nicole off of her boot and opening her up, "I must say though, Eggman's going awfully high up. Wonder why that is."

Sonic glanced outside along with Sally to see that the Death Egg was pretty high up now. So high that the ground looked like a nasty stain on a vast blue surface down below. Sonic could see the surrounding oceans and some of the other islands. Was Eggman heading into space or something? If so then it wouldn't be that surprising. Eggman would need to be in space if he was to destroy Mobius and not get caught up in the blast himself. The height didn't bother Sonic much, he'd been high up before and he'd been in space before. The only thing to worry about was what Eggman was going so high up for. Sonic looked away from the hole and back over to Sally.

"He is going up high. Bet the Death Egg's going into space." muttered Sonic.

"I'm willing to bet that too." mused Sally, "Why else would he be going up so high? Nicole, where's the Death Egg's power core chamber?"

"I'm afraid I cannot pinpoint its location." said Nicole sadly, her digitized voice still having some kind of emotion to her words as she spoke, "With no proper schematics of the Death Egg, I cannot simply pinpoint where it is. I would need to hack into the Death Egg's mainframe and download its schematics so I can find it."

"Something we don't have time to do…" said Sally grimly, "OK new plan, we find Dr. Eggman and we take him out. Once he's down, we hack into the Death Egg and maybe get Nicole to shut it down so it'll fall down to the ground."

"Not a good idea Sal, it'll take us with it." noted Sonic, "And we don't have the warp ring to get us outta here and the others won't be able to warp in here with it, they can't visualize the Death Egg since they don't know what it looks like inside."

"Then we ask Eggman nicely to help us off the Death Egg before it crashes." said Sally cheekily, sticking her tongue out at Sonic playfully, "Now if Eggman's on the ship, he'll likely…"

Her words died down in her throat as she heard the sound of a door opening. Further down the corridor, a metal door had opened up to reveal an elevator that would take them goodness knows where. Sonic saw the elevator and he ran over towards it. He was surprised to find it empty, as if the lift had just come up here specifically for them. The hedgehog shook his head. He didn't like this at all. It had to be a trap, he couldn't risk getting inside the elevator. For all he knew, the moment he stepped in, it would plummet down and take him and Sally to their deaths. He observed the elevator carefully. To him, it felt like checking a room to see if there was a bomb inside. As far as Eggman was concerned, there may as well have been a bomb inside this elevator.

"OK, so an elevator door just randomly opens up and invites us inside? That doesn't sound suspicious in the slightest." snorted Sonic, "Does Eggman SERIOUSLY think we're gonna fall for that?" he could hardly resist the urge to keep the smirk off of his face.

"Maybe he does but that elevator can take us where we need to be taken." noted Sally, "It's worth trying to use it for our own needs. First things first, Nicole, is the elevator safe?" she asked, glancing down at Nicole.

The handheld computer displayed a digital image of Nicole's face that had an expression that was the living picture of concentration. Sally held Nicole in front of the elevator and Nicole started running a quick scan to see if there was anything to worry about in this elevator. Several tense seconds passed by before the scan completed and Nicole's face opened its eye. The mouth moved as she spoke to Sally.

Surprisingly enough Sally, the elevator is clean." she reported, the tone of surprise evident in her voice, "There is no booby trap or explosive device or anything that suggests it's out of the ordinary."

Sally and Sonic stared at each other as if they'd just heard that the sky was hailing meatballs and raining tomato sauce.

"So Dr. Eggman invites us into an obvious trap that turns out not to be an obvious trap?" blurted Sonic in surprise, "Guess it wasn't an obvious trap then…"

"The elevator could well take us to an obvious trap." murmured Sally, "But if we're to find Dr. Eggman, we need to use it. I'll see if Nicole can override its controls and bring us straight to him."

With that plan in mind, Sonic and Sally stepped into the elevator. The moment they were inside though, the door slammed shut and the elevator began to go straight down. Sonic and Sally held on tight as the elevator began to take them down, surprisingly fast for an elevator. Sally looked around for a place to plug Nicole in so she could try and override the elevator and use it to go up instead of down. Eggman would likely be on the upper floors of the Death Egg and the elevator going down just took them away from him. But to Sally's dismay, there was nowhere in the elevator that said "Plug Nicole right here". Eggman clearly had that in mind when he was building the Death Egg, making sure that Nicole couldn't hack into it and do her magic. That alone made Sally frown with annoyance.

"OK…looks like our plan won't work." said Sally disappointedly, "There's nowhere to plug Nicole in this elevator."

"So it's down for us I suppose." muttered Sonic. "Let's just hope it's taking us straight to Dr. Eggman…although that might be too much to ask for."

Sally nodded, agreeing that it would indeed be too much to ask for the elevator to just bring them straight to Eggman. It was taking them somewhere and it was likely to be somewhere full of killer robots or a death trap of some kind…

Meanwhile outside, the Death Egg was nearing the planet's atmosphere and was just about ready to plough through it. The ascent was nearly complete. A few more minutes and the Death Egg would be flying above Mobius like a satellite monitoring the Earth. Tails followed the Death Egg as best as he could but he could see that the Death Egg was getting a little too high for the Tornado to carry on like this. It wasn't designed to go into space so Tails would have to bail out of the mission or abandon the Tornado and get into another ship. The R.F.S. Jet and the Sky Patrol were two available options and both of them were designed to go into space. The R.F.S. Jet had been designed to go into space for incase the Royal Fighters ever needed to go that high. The Sky Patrol had been designed with the exact same contingency plan in mind. That and Kari the Rat, the ship's designer, had always fancied the idea of going into space one day, something Miranda could hardly say no to. The Tornado was strictly planet-bound so Tails would have to abandon his plane if he was to get into space along with the Death Egg. It was a good thing that Tails had designed a special feature for the Tornado should he need to abandon the plane for any reason. He pressed on the little screen on the control panel in front of him and activated a little command.

"Tornado, commence autopilot feature and return to base." he commanded.

The Tornado obeyed that command like a dog that's been told to sit and beg. The Tornado banked around sharply and flew off away from the battle. Tails flew out of the Tornado's cockpit and he flew over to the R.F.S. Jet. Wilson saw him coming and he pressed a button on the control panel that opened the side door. It wasn't really safe to open it at such a high altitude but Tails had no other way inside the jet so he opened the door for him. Tails flew inside the jet and landed down in before the other Royal Fighters, who were securely fastened in their seats as the jet climbed after the Death Egg. Tails sat himself in an empty seat next to Cosmo the Seedrian and he fastened himself in.

"Stage One is complete, Sonic and Sally are safely aboard the Death Egg." Tails reported.

"That's good to hear Tails." said Cosmo brightly, "Just a pity we can't get in the Death Egg with them ourselves."

"I know Cosmo but I'm sure Sonic and Sally will be alright." said Tails, clinging onto any last bit of hope he possibly could. Hope was the one thing he could do about this situation right now.

"I hope so otherwise Mobius will be doomed." said Silver sadly,

"We're nearing that time now...the time the Death Egg fires its beam on Mobius."

"I bet that's why it's going so high." thought Blaze aloud, "It needs to be in outer space in order to fire the beam and not destroy itself with the planet."

"But why would Eggman want to destroy the world after trying to conquer it for so long?" asked Knuckles the Echidna, "It just doesn't make any sense! It's a weird change of tone if you ask me!"

"Maybe Eggman's going the old "If I can't have it, no one can" route." muttered Tails bitterly, "It would be just like him to be so selfish."

"You got that right kiddo." said Mandy Mouse with an exasperated sigh, "I just wish we could shoot him down already! We and Miranda's Sky Patrol ship hit it with everything we've got and it still won't go down!"

"It took me two homing missiles just to punch even a small hole into that thing!" cried Tails, "The lasers have no chance and I don't think the jet's missiles will bring it down in time!"

"It's pointless trying to fire missiles any Tails, the Death Egg's blinkin' lasers will just stop them before they get anywhere near." said Geoffrey St. John with a sigh, "We'll just have to hope Sonic and her majesty can sabotage the ship from within and bring it down."

"If we fail then we lose Mobius...just like how I lost my planet to the Martians..." Cosmo mumbled to herself, terrible memories flooding through her brain and making her cringe in despair.

Tails put a comforting arm around his girlfriend, sharing her thoughts. It would be terrible for Cosmo to lose Mobius for she'd already lost Greengate, her home planet, she couldn't do with losing another home planet. Tails thought about Sonic and Sally onboard the Death Egg. He could imagine them doing whatever it takes to stop the ship before it can fire its beam. They must be trying whatever they can at this point...and he hoped they would succeed in what they were trying to do...

Back on the Death Egg, which was now beginning to rise up through the planet's atmosphere, the elevator that Sonic and Sally had taken reached its destination and the door opened with a little "ding" noise as if to try and assure the occupants inside that it was just an ordinary elevator. Sonic and Sally had no idea that the Death Egg was breaching the planet's atmosphere due to how surprisingly smooth the process was. It was almost like nothing was happening at all. But the hedgehog and squirrel knew that the Death Egg would be close to exiting Mobius and reaching outer space soon enough and they even wondered if it was happening right now. They stepped out of the elevator and into the room that it had taken them too. They had expected an army of killer robots or some kind of death trap. Instead, they were finding themselves looking at a huge metal interior that had a lot of pumping machinery at work and a glass tube expanding down from the ceiling and into the centre of the floor. The room was round and there was a circular grate around the tube. There was a lift that lifted up to a metal platform on one side of the room and the metal platform had two doors, one above and one below. The doors would lead to two different floors of the Death Egg. Sonic and Sally's attention was fixed squarely on the glass tube in front of them. The tube had a metal egg-shaped object encased inside and the egg was connected to a pole that could retract and extend. There was a zig-zag seam all around the egg, presumably meaning it could open and close for whatever reason. Sonic scratched his head in thought.

"Wonder what that thing does?" Sonic asked.

"I'm willing to bet it's some kind of machine. But what it does, I really don't wanna know." said Sally, shuddering, "I don't think Eggman's here, nor do I think this is the power core chamber. That elevator's just taken us to some random room that'll serve no purpose to us."

"We can't go back in the elevator, it'll just take us somewhere we don't wanna be in again." said Sonic grimly "What do we do now?"

"You do nothing while I have my ultimate victory!" boomed a terrible voice that made Sonic's skin crawl and his quills stand up on end.

Sonic and Sally's heads snapped upwards as the voice of Dr. Eggman boomed from the ceiling above them. There were intercom systems built into the ceiling and they were proudly emitting Eggman's voice as clear as if he was standing right next to them. He was still stationed up in the control room but he was using the communications systems to talk to Sonic and Sally. He knew they had managed to board the Death Egg before they even ended up in the elevator. He was the one who'd even used the elevator to bring Sonic and Sally to this room. Now they were here, he could do what he wanted with them and prevent them from getting in his way as Operation: World Roboticizer was about to begin.

"Eggman!" growled Sonic furiously, teeth clench and fists shaking in rage "I was wondering when we'd hear your annoying, grating voice again! Where are you? I've got something big and shiny for you and it's called a kick in the rear!"

"Where I am is none of you buisness hedgehog!" snorted Dr. Eggman, "You will just have to find me won't you? Ho, ho ho! And you never will find me for my Death Egg will do whatever it can to keep you away from me!"

"Try all you can Egg-Brains, we'll find you and we'll bring this ugly vessel down!" declared Sonic, pointing up at the ceiling as if hoping Eggman would see him.

"I'd like to see you try Sonic." purred Eggman confidently. If there was one thing he loved, it was teasing Sonic with his overbearing ego. He knew that his arrogance would get on Sonic's nerves and make him mad. All the more fun for him.

"Eggman, you've been trying to conquer our world for two years, going on three now! What do you want to destroy it?" asked Sally.

"I beg your pardon?" blustered Eggman, "You think that I, Dr. Eggman, am using this Death Egg...to destroy the world?!"

With that said, Dr. Eggman let fly a colossal laugh that suggested to Sally he thought she was bluffing or that she'd said something incredibly stupid. Sonic just frowned even harder as Eggman's laughter boomed in his ears, almost like a mockery to him and Sally.

"You stupid woman, you honestly think I spent all my precious time and two precious years trying to make this world the perfect robot-utopia for me to rule only to suddenly turn around and destroy it?!" sneered Eggman, "You're out of your mind! How can I build my Eggman Empire if there IS no world to build it on?! If I wanted it destroyed, I would have helped The Eraser wipe it out when that multi-verse crisis happened! No, I don't want to destroy the world at all! This vessel is for a completely different purpose. Heck, I didn't even give it the POWER to destroy the world! Goodness me, why would I do something so mindless and idiotic?!"

Sonic's face fell so much that he thought it would drop off onto the floor.

"So...the Death Egg ISN'T the missing link Silver and Blaze are looking for after all..." he muttered, "Boy are they gonna be disappointed."

"The Death Egg isn't meant to destroy the world...so what IS it meant to do?" asked Sally curiously.

"You mind your own business you foolish female, you'll see what it's about to do momentarily." crowed Dr. Eggman, "The Death Egg is passing through Mobius's atmosphere as we speak. In a couple of minutes, it'll be in position and I'll unleash the Death Egg's ultimate weapon on the world...and assure a victory for myself at long last."

"Wait a minute..." mused Sally as her brain started whirring with all the information it had taken in. "You have an ultimate weapon...but the Death Egg isn't meant to destroy the world...then what is it..."

Her eyes opened wide. Her mouth dropped open and her face went pale. Sonic shared her reaction. He realized what Eggman had been talking about too.

"No...oh god...no..." Sally whispered hoarsely.

"He...he's talking about...a world roboticizer isn't he?" stammered

Sonic worriedly.

"And you win the grand prize!" annouced Dr. Eggman "You have guessed correctly! The Death Egg is going to roboticize all of Mobius!"

"But you already tried that Egghead and look what happened! You still lost!" protested Sonic, "Why are you trying it again?"

"Because you would never expect me to try a scheme like that again and I'm much better prepared for you this time." sneered Eggman, "Up in space, I won't miss a single Mobian and now you two are here, I can just get rid of you before you can reverse what I've done! I missed five of you last time. This time, only two of you will be spared roboticization and you two won't survive long enough to prevent Operation: World Roboticizer from happening!"

"You can't do this!" screamed Sally, "You can't enslave us all like this! Have you no decency anymore?!"

"I never had any to begin with." crooned Dr. Eggman coldly, "I am going to prove to those morons back on my world that a world of robots is better than a world of pathetic meatbags like us humans or even you Mobians! They'll be sorry they kicked me out of my world and branded me a lunatic! And you two pests will not stop me now!"

With that said, the two doors with the metal platform separating them above and below respectively opened up and in flew two different robots that were going to keep Sonic and Sally on their toes while the Death Egg prepared to launch its World Roboticizer. Sonic and Sally frowned angrily at what they were up against. Dr. Eggman had sent in Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally to fight them. Sonic hoped he would never again fight Metal Sonic and Sally had hoped Mecha Sally wouldn't be coming back after it had given her a tough time and injured Abby the Squirrel, her beloved cousin horribly. And yet here they both were, standing before them with a look of death in their optics. Metal Sonic had his claws bared and Mecha Sally had her blades deployed. They would take no prisoners. They would kill Sonic and Sally and they wouldn't be lenient on them. Sonic dropped into a battle-ready stance while Sally deployed her blades and prepared to attack. Sonic already hated Mecha Sally for it was a shameless knock off of his beloved Sally and the fact she was with Metal Sonic felt like Eggman was trying to mock their status as a couple. Utterly disgusting he thought. Sally pretty much had the same thoughts as they prepared to fight their metal duplicates.

"Oh great, Metal Sonic! Just what I needed!" groaned Sonic furiously, "And he seriously made a metal you Sally? It's like Eggman's mocking us with these two together!"

"I can definitely say that Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally won't live to replace us." growled Sally, "We'll switch opponents. We might have a chance at defeating them. Metal Sonic's meant to best you, Mecha Sally's meant to best me so swapping will likely result in them being destroyed."

"I sure hope this works Sal." said Sonic, "The final countdown's ticking away and I'd much rather stop it before it reaches the final second!"

"You'll never defeat them in time you pair of brats!" sneered Dr. Eggman, "Metal Sonic, Mecha Sally, ATTACK!"

The two robots leapt into action immediately. Metal Sonic activated his jet pack and he boosted towards Sonic, clearly intending to take him down himself. But Sonic zoomed out of the way and left Sally to attack Metal Sonic. Sonic spin-dashed towards Mecha Sally, the metal squirrel robot swinging its blades madly at him as he closed in on her. Mecha Sally however stepped side and elbowed Sonic as he spin-dashed past, throwing him onto the floor and sending him skidding across it like an ice skater that's fallen over onto the ice. Sally swung her blades at Metal Sonic but it was very clear that Metal Sonic had been built with her blades in mind for his arms coated themselves in an electrical shield that blocked Sally's attack. The barriers sparked and flashed as Sally's energy blades clashed against them. Sally was instantly reminded of Mordred the Robo-Mole from Mobius 3000 and how he was able to block her attacks with barriers around his arms. Now Metal Sonic was doing it, not very good for her at all. Sally didn't let this deter her at all though. She swiped at Metal Sonic, her blade clashing against his arm but the attack did little more than make Sally's arm tingle from the impact. Metal Sonic retaliated with a punch to the gut that felt more painful than it would have done had his arm not been shielded. Sally wasn't sure if she'd be able to breathe again after that punch. Metal Sonic then proceeded to uppercut Sally into the air and send her flying across the room in a perfect rainbow arch. Sally crashed down by the elevator door. Sally forced herself back onto her feet, her belly still aching from the earlier attack. She didn't have time to react before Metal Sonic spin-dashed into her, slamming her against the elevator door. Metal Sonic then grabbed Sally by the neck and hoisted her up off of her feet. Sally scrambled furiously, trying to break free of Metal Sonic's grip. Then she realized that Metal Sonic's arms were shielded...but the rest of his body wasn't. She lifted her arm and swung her blade down at Metal Sonic's head. Metal Sonic, holding onto Sally's neck with one hand, blocked the attack with his other hand. But he wouldn't be able to block both of Sally's blades while strangling her, giving Sally the opportunity to lunge forward with her other blade and stab him in the torso section. Metal Sonic threw Sally across the room and winced in pain. Sally was back on her feet in seconds and she lunged at Metal Sonic again, her blades scything through the air towards Metal Sonic's head. Metal Sonic spun around on the balls of his feet and he blocked her attack.

Over to Sonic and Mecha Sally, Sonic narrowly dodged as Mecha Sally aimed for his arm, intending to cut it off. He managed to save himself a severed limb just in time. Mecha Sally sheathed her blades and instead, opted for a sharp vicious jab to the gut. Sonic leap-frogged over her to dodge her attack and he kicked her in the back of her head. Mecha Sally was thrown forward onto the floor by the kick and just as she picked herself up, Sonic spin-dashed her back down onto the floor. Mecha Sally rolled out of the way as Sonic spin-dashed towards her again, leaving him to slam down into the floor. Sonic unrolled from the spin-dash and found himself being walloped in the cheek by a savage backhand from Mecha Sally. To Sonic, it felt like being slammed by a sack of rocks. The hedgehog shook off the impact of the attack and he charged towards Mecha Sally. Mecha Sally kneed Sonic in the gut, making him gasp as the wind was slammed out of him, and Sonic doubled over as pain flooded through his stomach. Not even the worst stomach cramp felt as bad as this. Mecha Sally deployed her blades and aimed for Sonic's head, hoping to cut it off. Sonic yelped in fright and he rolled backwards as Mecha Sally cleaved at the floor beneath him. Sonic leaped up onto his feet and he homing-attacked Mecha Sally in the head, nearly tearing it clean off in the process. Mecha Sally staggered backwards but she regained her balance and she deployed the gun in her "hair". The gun aimed at Sonic and fired at him, nearly singing his arm off as he leaped aside. Sonic didn't think that Mecha Sally would be such a tough opponent. That deadly underestimation was going to cost him dearly unless he thought of something and quick. Mecha Sally shot at him again, aiming directly at his head. Sonic threw himself down on the ground as the shot surged straight over him. Sonic jumped into the air as high as he could and he stomp-kicked Mecha Sally down into the floor However, Metal Sonic noticed that his partner was in need of help and frotuitously enough for him, he and Sally were positioned in a way that he had his back turned on Sonic. He fired the laser from his back and hit Sonic, throwing him clean off of Mecha Sally and into the wall. Mecha Sally returned the favour by zapping Sally in the legs and tripping her up. Metal Sonic grabbed Sally by the vest and he threw her into the air. He spin-dashed up after her and bashed against her, throwing her down onto the floor. Sonic tried to help Sally but Mecha Sally zapped him in the gut and brought him down onto his knees. Sonic sprang back up and he spin-dashed against both Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally, knocking them both down onto the floor. Sonic knelt down beside Sally and he tried to help her up.

"You OK Sal?" he asked worriedly.

"Ungh, I'm fine Sonic." grunted Sally, her voice betraying any indication in her words that she was OK, "We can't keep fighting against these two. They're slowing us down...while Eggman prepares the world roboticizer."

"We can't do anything about it." said Sonic sadly, "They're too tough for us and we can't just run away, they'll chase us down and attack us. We have to get rid of them here and now."

"If only it was that simple..." sighed Sally.

Sonic and Sally charged towards Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally, ready to resume the battle that would ultimately decide the outcome of Oepration: World Roboticizer. But no matter what happened now, if Sonic and Sally won or lost the battle, nothing could stop Operation: World Roboticizer. The Death Egg had now exited Mobius and entered space. Hovering just a few hundred metres above Mobius from the north position, it was in position to fire the World Roboticizer beam. The Death Egg's engines died down and it loomed ominously above Mobius like an egg-shaped meteor waiting to crash into it. Perfect. Everything was in position. Dr. Eggman had been watching the battle via the main computer screen but he had been interrupted by a beeping sound and the words "Death Egg In Position" flashing over and over on the screen. Dr. Eggman didn't need to watch the battle anymore. It was time. His ultimate victory was here at last. Dr. Eggman glanced away from the screen and held his metal hand over the activate button. This button would fire the World Roboticizer. Eggman allowed himself a few seconds to relish the victory and how he'd done such a marvellous job at keeping his enemies at bay. Everything had worked better than he ever could have hoped or even anticipated they would. Just perfect for this glorious moment of triumph. Eggman raised his hand, extended the mech suit's clawed finger and stabbed down on the activate button...

Footnotes:

See the DeviantArt exclusive chapter "The Sword of Elemental Po wer"

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 26: Welcome to the Jungle Sally Acorn

Oh no...it looks like...this is the end...Eggman...is going to win! He's activating his World Roboticizer! Will...will our heroes...stop it...before it's too late?! 0_0

Tune in next time for the beginning of the end...

Eggman Empire Part 1

Story 196: Victory for Eggman Part 1

Sonic the Hedgehog cried out as he was slammed against the glass tube by Metal Sonic, the tough, thick glass withstanding the impact of the slam despite the sheer force that Metal Sonic had applied into the slam. Sonic could only wonder what it would be like if Metal Sonic had slammed him against something harder.

The Royal Fighters were facing one of their most intense and gripping battles they had ever faced. Dr. Eggman's greatest battleship ever, the Death Egg, had finally launched and had taken off into space to fire its greatest weapon, the World Roboticizer, on Mobius and roboticize the entire planet so his Eggman Empire would rise and he would be the one ruling over it all. It had been a steady launch and the Royal Fighters had done whatever they could have done in order to stop the Death Egg but their attempts had ultimately been futile. At the most, Tails the Fox had managed to blow a hole into the Death Egg, a small hole that is and Sonic and his girlfriend Queen Sally Acorn had been the ones to get inside through the hole. They were intending to sabotage the Death Egg from within before it completed its launch but they were currently being distracted by Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally, two of Eggman's strongest creations ever.

The two robot-copies had the two Mobians matched blow for blow and even swapping opponents didn't make the battle any easier. Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally still proved to be troublesome for the two Mobians. And of course, it had all been part of Dr. Eggman's plan to keep them all at bay while the Death Egg's launch completed. As the fight went on, the Death Egg was now in position. Looming above Mobius like a moon at night time, the Death Egg was in the right position to fire its terrible weapon. Dr. Eggman, gleefully and eagerly anticipating this moment, raised his hand and he stabbed down on the activation button with the mech suit's metal claw. The World Roboticizer had activated and the Royal Fighters were powerless to stop it. Sonic and Sally were occupied and the rest the Royal Fighters were still trying to get to the Death Egg. The R.F.S. Jet and the Sky Patrol were exiting Mobius's atmosphere and coming towards the Death Egg but they were too late to stop it. The World Roboticizer was firing and they were just underneath the Death Egg. They would be caught in the blast if they didn't move out of the way. The underside of the ship was glowing a dazzling white colour as the ebam powered up. In the Death Egg itself, Sonic and Sally could see that the glass tube was glowing brightly and the machinery inside was beginning to move up and down, the egg-shaped structure opening and closing back and forth.

"Hey, that tube's doing something!" exclaimed Sonic, his hands closed around Metal Sonic as he tried to push him away.

"That must be the World Roboticizer!" cried Sally, "Eggman's activating it! We've gotta stop it and fast!"

She ran towards the tube, hoping to slice it open and hack at the machinery inside but Mecha Sally pile-dived her in the back and knocked her down onto the floor. It irked Sally to no end that Mecha Sally and Metal Sonic were being so problematic. What made it worse was her blades had no effect on them for Mecha Sally had blades of her own and Metal Sonic was designed specifically to be able to counter her blades with barriers around his arms. Mecha Sally plunged her blade into the floor, her actual target being Sally's arm but the queen had already moved it out of the way before she could stab her. Sally could almost imagine how the Eggman robots she had dissected felt when she sliced them to pieces with her blades. She was not going to share their fate though. Sally raised her leg and booted Mecha Sally in the back with her heel, the robot clone falling forward onto her face after the impact. Sally quickly picked herself up and lunged at the glowing tube but the squirrel never got the chance to stick her blades through the glass for Metal Sonic shot her away with his torso laser. Sonic kicked Metal Sonic in the back and knocked him down onto the floor and seized the opportunity to spin-dash at the tube. But the hedgehog bounced off of it, not leaving so much as a scratch on the tube. Sonic landed back on the floor, skidding to a halt and growling furiously in annoyance.

"Damn, it's Diamond Glass! I can't shatter it!" cursed Sonic.

"And with Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally getting in the way, I can't get near it!" Sally grunted irritably, "We can't stop it Sonic!"

"We'll see about that!" retorted Sonic.

But Sally was right. They couldn't stop the World Roboticizer. It had activated and now it fired down towards Mobius down below, the black starry void of space turning a dazzling white as a huge blast surged towards the planet. The R.F.S. Jet saw the wave coming and it flew quickly to the right. The Sky Patrol wasn't so lucky. The blast hit the Sky Patrol and immediately roboticized the occupants. Teams Nekronopolis, Adabat and Chun-Nan were transformed from flesh and blood to metal and oil in seconds. Neither Mobian felt pain for very long for the process was much too fast for them to register any as the roboticizer wave transformed them. The blast continued on down towards Mobius, striking the planet and then spreading all over in a huge white wave that seemed to bathe the planet in a white glow that made Mobius look like it was completely snowed over. The idea of a planet full of snow was much more pleasent than what was actually happening right now. All innocent, unknowing Mobians were stricken as the roboticizer wave swept over them, their skin becoming metal, their eyes becoming visors with glowing optics in them, their organs becoming circuitry and their blood becoming oil as the transformation took hold. The wave swept over the entire planet and the entire process took little more than two minutes. No Mobian on Mobius was spared the horror. Only the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were still organic but they wouldn't be for long. Dr. Eggman would see to it that they wouldn't himself. Mobius was now a robot utopia again with Robians as the occupants and Dr. Eggman as the ruler. The tube stopped glowing and the machinary came to a stand still. Sonic and Sally stared at it in dismay, knowing immediately what that meant.

"It's stopped...that means..." Sonic murmured, his voice tense and his body tingling with shock.

"We were too late..." Sally added, her voice low and solemn as the feeling of failure came crashing down on her like a falling weight, "Eggman's done it. He's fired the World Roboticizer...we failed..."

"You certainly did you hapless fools!" crowed Dr. Eggman, "Mobius has now been fully roboticized! I have my Robian utopia once again and you two are the only ones who had the misfortune of missing the roboticization process! I can fix that easily though, ho, ho, ho, ho!"

"In case you haven't realized fatty, we're in here so your World Roboticizer won't touch me and Sally." snorted Sonic, "You won't turn us into robots!"

"You may have roboticized everything Eggman but we'll reverse what you've done!" declared Sally, "This battle isn't over by a long shot, we will still beat you!"

"Your hubris never ceases to amaze me..." purred Eggman darkly, "We'll see how much you have left when you end up joining my Robian army..."

With that said, a door in one side of the room opened up and something hovered through the door and into the room. The design of the robot instantly struck Sonic as familiar and in a very terrifying way. He hadn't seen this machine for a long time and to see it again was still as shocking as it was since the day he'd first seen it. Eggman had rebuilt the portable roboticizer robot, which he "creatively" nicknamed Port. Port was a dome shaped robot that had the ability to hover and it had multiple cannons around the body of the machine. The colours of the machine were red, black and gold, matching Eggman's trademark colours flawlessly. It had the words "Mk III" printed on both sides of the robot, meaning this was the third model of Port that had been made. Port had been used to roboticize people on the move and it hadn't been used since the last time it had been destroyed which was a long, long time ago now. Now Eggman had rebuilt it and Sonic and Sally found themselves staring in horror at the roboticizer robot that loomed before them, its many cannons itching to blast them.

"Oh man, as if things couldn't get any damn worse! He's rebuilt the portable roboticizer!" exclaimed Sonic.

"If that thing shoots us, we'll be joining the Mobians down on Mobius in Eggman's Empire!" shrieked Sally.

"No chance of that, I'm gonna smash it to pieces!" declared Sonic.

He spin-dashed towards Port Mk III but he was knocked down by Metal Sonic before he could get anywhere near the robot. Sonic grunted as once again, he was slammed down on the floor. He was getting slammed down by Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally so much that he was amazed he hadn't become a new tile for the floor yet. Port Mk III rotated around and pointed one of its cannons at Sonic, the inside of the cannon glowing sinisterly as it prepared to shoot Sonic and turn him into a Robian. Sonic was instantly reminded of the terrible time that he had once been roboticized and turned into Mecha Sonic. During that time, he'd had no control over his actions and had attacked and almost killed some of his friends. He even came close to slaughtering the Acorn Family, something that he would forever be haunted by for had that happened, he wouldn't have found love in Sally otherwise. He was not going to let that happen again. Sonic rolled out of the way, leaving Port Mk III to just shoot at the spot he had been lying on just seconds ago. Sonic spin-dashed Port Mk III but to his surprise, all he did was send the robot flying across the room and crashing into the wall. Port Mk III had been built to withstand his attacks. Hopefully Sally's blades would work on the robot. As Port Mk III spun around dizzily from the impact of Sonic's attack, Sally ran towards the robot with her blades ready to slice it to pieces. Because Port was disoriented, it didn't register the fact Sally was coming towards it. Sally plunged her blades towards Port...and found her arms bouncing off of a transparent surface. Port Mk III had been built with a barrier in mind. Eggman had decided to make it so that it would be impossible to destroy the machine. It could withstand Sonic's attacks and it could block Sally's energy blades. The two had no chance of destroying it. Port Mk III regained focus and its sensory arrays picked up its assailant standing before it. Port fired a roboticizer beam at Sally, the squirrel narrowly dodging it by throwing herself backwards to allow the blast to surge through the air above her. The blast hit the World Roboticizer tube but nothing happened for the glass wasn't organic or something that could be roboticized. Sally took to her heels and darted for the elevator.

"Sonic, we have to retreat!" cried Sally, "We've lost this battle!"

"No way, I'm not leaving here until we've undone Eggman's evil!" retorted Sonic, making another attempt to destroy Port only to be pile-dived by both Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally.

"Sonic please, there's nothing more we can do!" yelled Sally desperately, "We've lost! We need to get outta here before we end up becoming robots ourselves!"

Sonic was about to argue some more but something in his mind made him hesitate. As desperate as he was to save Mobius and reverse the effects of the World Roboticizer, he knew that he couldn't do anything about it now. Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally were in the way and Port Mk III just complicated things further. Stay any longer and Sonic and Sally risked becoming robots and joining Eggman's insidious empire. Gritting his teeth, Sonic picked himself up and ran over to the elevator. Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally chased after them just as the elevator door opened up and Sonic and Sally ran inside. Dr. Eggman had the feeling that Sonic and Sally would use the elevator to try and get out of the room and out of the Death Egg so he let Sonic and Sally inside so he could make the elevator plunge down to the bottom and take the two to their deaths. But Eggman should have known better than to think Sonic and Sally would be so stupid. Sally already knew what Eggman was planning so upon entering the elevator, she cut a hole in the ceiling and jumped through it with Sonic jumping up afterwards, leaving Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally to collide in the back of the elevator. Sonic picked up Sally bridal style and he revved up his fast-moving, sneakered feet as fast as he could. Just as the elevator prepared to plunge down, Sonic ran up the wall and headed towards the top of the shaft, leaving the elevator to plunge down to the bottom of the shaft with Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally still inside. However, the two robots had noticed the hole in the elevator ceiling and they flew through it before the elevator could take them to their deaths. They were miles behind Sonic and Sally though and would take a while to catch up to them. Further up the elevator shaft, Sonic kept on running and made sure his feet never paused even for a moment as he ran up the wall. Sally held on tight, both enjoying the thrill of the ride and being scared of the angle Sonic was running at. A ninety degree angle was pretty scary to be travelling at and to Sally, it felt like being on some kind of demented rollercoaster. Luckily, they didn't have to travel for very long. Sonic eyed a metal door at the top of the shaft. It was closed but Sonic would see to that without a problem. He threw Sally ahead of him, the squirrel using her blades to cling onto the wall before she could fall back down the shaft and Sonic spin-dashed through the door. Sally climbed up the wall with her blades and crawled through the broken door after Sonic. Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally flew straight past them, going much too fast to slow down and stop or even notice where Sonic and Sally had gone. Sonic picked himself up and observed his surroundings. They were back in the corridor that they had been in before they'd gone down the elevator. He knew this because he saw a metal square that looked like it had been newly added to the wall. It had been welded over the hole that Tails had caused earlier. The square was meant to keep the air in as the Death Egg entered space and it had been applied there while Sonic and Sally had been heading down the elevator. Sonic was kind of glad it was there, otherwise they would have been sucked out into space but on the other hand, it meant he and Sally were trapped on the Death Egg. As for Sally, she gasped for breath, her heart pounding furiously as she lay on the floor in shock. Sonic helped her back up, concerned for the squirrel given how hectic she looked.

"You OK Sal?" asked Sonic worriedly.

"That was the scariest yet most exciting thing I've ever experienced!" shrieked Sally, "Wouldn't want to do it again though..."

"I'll take that as a "yes"." said Sonic, pleased that Sally was OK, "Well, we lost the metal copies. Now we can get off of this ship."

"I just hope our team and the Sky Patrol managed to avoid the World Roboticizer's beam..." said Sally, her voice the definition of worried.

Sonic shared her concern. He had the nasty image of the rest of the Royal Fighters all roboticized and waiting to kill them at any moment. He couldn't bear the scary image, it was too horrible to think about. He prayed that his friends were alright. His prayers were soon answered for he could see a dent forming in the metal square that blocked their only way out of the ship. The metal buckled as it tried to hold against whatever was punching it from outside. Then the square gave up the fight as it was torn out of its place by another terrific punch that through the chunk into the wall. The square was now a crumpled metal heap that barely resembled a square anymore. The puncher had been the Royal Fighter tomboy and heavy hitter Mandy Mouse. The R.F.S. Jet had caught up to the Death Egg after avoiding the Roboticizer Beam and had docked aside Sonic and Sally's entry point with a metal tunnel that connected the jet to the Death Egg. Mandy had been the one sent to punch through the blocked up hole. Sonic and Sally's faces lit up with joy. If Mandy was here, all flesh and bone, than that meant the best thing possible. Mandy saw Sonic and Sally and she called over to them.

"Blue dude, your majesty, come on! We're getting you out of here!" she yelled.

"We were already planning on leaving anyway!" Sonic called back, dashing over to her.

"Thank goodness you weren't roboticized!" gasped Sally happily.

"Roboticized...is that what that weird white beam was supposed to do?" asked Mandy with concern in her voice, "We were nearly hit but my darling husband managed to manoeuvre the jet out of the way. We thought we were going to be vaporized by it."

"Well luckily, that's not what the beam was meant to do. Unluckily, it was meant to roboticize us." said Sonic, the tone of his voice heavier than a sack of cement as he and Sally followed Mandy through the docking tunnel and into the jet, "The Death Egg wasn't meant to destroy the world, it was meant to roboticize it."

"Well thank god it wasn't meant to destroy the world." said Mandy with relief "But...that beam was supposed to roboticize the world? Oh no...that means..."

Mandy's face went pale as she realized what Eggman had really done to Mobius. He hadn't destroyed it, he'd roboticized it instead. Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat had gotten it wrong. They'd been so worried about Eggman destroying the world that they had been blind to his true intentions, which were to roboticize the world and not destroy it. Mandy wasn't sure what to say about this. She knew that Mobius had been roboticized before but she had never expected Dr. Eggman to do it again. Sonic and Sally read her expression and understood what Mandy was feeling. They hadn't expected Eggman to do it again either. It was just as shocking to them as it was to Mandy. They dreaded having to deliver the news to the rest of the team. Sonic, Sally and Mandy boarded the R.F.S. Jet and the jet pulled away from the Death Egg, flying as far away as possible from the huge egg-shaped ship. Sonic could hardly blame his friends for being so keen to get away. He didn't want to be anywhere near the ship that roboticized his entire world either. Even more so, he wished he could just wake up and find out all of this had been a bad dream. To his disappointment, it wasn't a dream, bad or good. It was reality and a very terrifying one at that. As the jet cruised slowly through space, Wilson the Dog put the jet on autopilot and got up from the pilot's seat to join everybody in the back of the jet. The atmosphere was tense, made even more so by the news that Sonic and Sally would deliver to the rest of the team. Once Sonic and Sally had gotten inside and the jet had flown away from the Death Egg, the team expressed their joy at the fact they were safe. Tails ran over to Sonic and embraced him.

"Oh thank goodness you made it out alive!" cried Tails, "We wondered what was going on in there when that beam fired."

"We were very worried about you two." said Cosmo the Seedrian softly, embracing Sally for comfort, "Especially since you didn't succeed in stopping the Death Egg before it fired its beam. We feared…that you'd both been killed."

"We came pretty close to that Cosmo." said Sally, patting Cosmo tenderly on the back, "But we survived…and we have terrible news to deliver to you all."

"It's about that beam the Death Egg fired isn't it?" asked Knuckles the Echidna.

"You were too late to stop it. Mobius is a wreck now." said Silver sadly, "Me and Blaze have failed to save our future…again."

"No Silver, Mobius isn't destroyed." corrected Sonic, "Eggman told us that the Death Egg WAS NOT meant to do that. It was built to roboticize the entire planet. And that's what happened. He's roboticized the entire planet!"

The reaction to this horrible news was exactly what Sonic and Sally had expected. The horror in everybody's faces was something to remember and the chorus of gasping matched their horrified reactions faultlessly. It would be impossible to separate the two. Silver and Blaze had a mixture of relief and horror in their faces. Relief over the fact the Death Egg WASN'T the cause of the end of the world but horror over what it really did.

"NO!" shrieked Tails, clutching Sonic as if his life depended on him, "No, no, no! It can't be! Please tell me this isn't true Sonic!"

"Ask Eggman yourself Tails, he'll tell you the same thing." said Sonic, shaking his head sadly at Tails's desperate pleas for this to be a lie, "He told us in his own words that the Death Egg had a World Roboticizer and that it was built to roboticize the entire planet. And what's exactly what he's done."

"And that means me and Blaze were wrong AGAIN!" moaned Silver, stomping the floor in rage, "How many damn times are we gonna have to go back in time to try and find out what caused the end of the world already?!"

"Well at least we can eliminate the theory that Eggman did it." said Blaze, her appearance stoic but deep inside, she was upset, angry and horrified over the news, "Even though we should have known from the start that it wasn't Eggman. As Sonic once said, he wants to conquer the world, not destroy it."

"Indeed." said Mandy with a slow nod of her head. She was disturbed most horribly at the fact Mobius had been roboticized once again. It wasn't easy to disturb Mandy so the fact she was disturbed now meant the situation really was intense, "And yet we still thought Eggman would seriously do it." she muttered bitterly as if the very fact irritated her.

"He still kinda did the unthinkable though." said Wilson, putting an arm around his wife's shoulder and holding her close, hoping to ease her emotions for he didn't like seeing Mandy upset and frightened. "We never would have expected him to roboticize the planet again. He already tried that last year and he's not one to try the same scheme twice."

"Nah, Eggman likes to mix it up. Keep us on our toes." agreed Espio the Chameleon, "So the fact he did the last thing we would have expected him to do…it shows he truly is a genius."

"You got that right Espio." said Vector the Crocodile, "Man…all of Mobius has been roboticized again. And to think we very nearly got roboticized ourselves…"

"It was thanks to Wilson that we managed to avoid that!" exclaimed Charmy, "Thank you Wilson, you're a great doggy you are!"

"Heh, thanks." said Wilson casually, "Although I fear the other Royal Fighter teams weren't so fortunate…"

"Yeah, we're not sure if the Sky Patrol got outta the way when the beam fired." said Bunnie Rabbot worriedly.

"Let's try to contact them." suggested Sally, "If they respond, we'll see what's become of them."

Wilson and Mandy left the seating area arm in arm and went into the cockpit to try and contact the Sky Patrol. As they left, the Royal Fighters continued talking, sharing their dismay and horror over the outcome of the battle.

"I can't believe that Eggman's roboticized our home again!" wailed Cream, her eyes streaming with tears "I bet my poor parents are both evil robots working for Eggman now! And even Miss Rose!" she exclaimed suddenly.

Amy had been forced to drop out of the mission thanks to a wounded shoulder courtesy of Lennox Meers the Meerkat*. The fact she was still down on Mobius and not up here with the Royal Fighters made Cream realize that Amy would have been roboticized too. That very image just made Cream cry even harder. The thought of her parents and her best friend being robots working for Eggman was enough to scar the poor girl for life.

"Everybody down below will be a robot Cream." said Tails's sister, Sora Prower, solemnly. "We're possibly the only ones who are still organic."

"I just hope that the other teams were spared too." said Ruben the Water Panther, hugging Sora to ease his tense nerves, "I can't bear the thought of Matilda, Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon as robots…nor can I bear the idea of everybody in Chun-Nan being robots too."

"If there's one thing to be concerned about, it's the fact Shadow and Rouge were still down on Mobius so they'll have been roboticized too." said Sonic, his face ashen as the terrible image of Mecha Shadow and Mecha Rouge came into his head, "I bet Eggman will send those two after us at some point! And even though I don't know what happened to Scourge after the multi-verse crisis, I bet he's been roboticized too! I'm gonna have my work cut out for me at this rate!"

"Thinking about your brother Sonic, I bet Uncle Finitevus has been roboticized too." sighed Knuckles, "Not even that scoundrel deserves a fate like that. He deserved a lot worse."

"Indeed." said his girlfriend Shade the Echidna, "One has to wonder how we'll save Mobius this time? We can't go back down on the planet. The Robians will ambush us the moment we touch down."

"I'll tell ya what we do." said Sonic matter-of-factly, "We get back on the Death Egg and we reverse the World Roboticizer's effects! That's what we do!"

"You sure about that Sonic?" asked Tails doubtfully, "I mean, you two had to retreat for some reason so it's pretty obvious it's not that easy."

"We were unprepared that time." protested Sonic, "Plus, it was just me and Sally that time. If we all go together, we'll stand more of a chance!"

"Indeed we might Sonic." said Sally agreeably, "Once we get inside the Death Egg everybody, you are to be extremely careful." she addressed the team with a tone that was matter-of-fact, stern and deathly serious, a tone she was very comfortable with using, "There's a Metal Sonic and a metal version of me inside there, PLUS Eggman has rebuilt the portable roboticizer. If that thing zaps you, you're an instant robot so look out."

"The blighter just had to rebuild Port didn't he?!" moaned Geoffrey St. John furiously, "That makes things all the more harder for us now! Made even worse at the fact Metal Sonic's here again and there's a robot version of you to go with him!"

"I know, Eggman's been very thorough with his planning." said Sally grimly, "He continues to throw stuff we'd never expect him to throw at us again…"

"Yeah, and to think we actually believed he was losing his touch too." sighed Sonic, "We shouldn't be been so cocky and arrogant. We might have avoided all of this otherwise…"

"Well hopefully we'll rectify that mistake." said Sally, putting a hand on Sonic's shoulder affectionately, something that Sonic would never get tired of due to how lovely her hand felt on him.

"I'm sure we will." said Sonic, smiling, "I mean, Silver and Blaze have mentioned that Mobius is a wreck in the future with MOBIANS clinging onto life. So Eggman's dirty work must be undone at some point."

"Sonic's right, Mobius isn't a Robian utopia in the future and Eggman's not around anymore so the Death Egg's roboticizer wave must be undone or something." added Silver, "So that at least means we win at some point. Win so we can then move onto the thing that really ends the world I guess…"

"And at this point I can't possibly guess what it is." sighed Blaze, "I'm actually wondering if there's any point to this anymore since me and Silver keep being wrong…"

Silver stared at Blaze in disbelief. Never in his life would he have expected to hear Blaze actually considering if his and her goal had any point to it anymore. He began wondering if this wasn't really Blaze and instead it was a fake Blaze talking to him. Silver put his hands on Blaze's shoulders and stared hard into her eyes, startling the cat. Silver looked more serious now than he ever had done before.

"Blaze, I can't believe you just said that!" snapped Silver, his voice so heavy that Blaze could feel the words weighing down on her, "Me and you have strived for a years to see our future improved from the apocalyptic wreck that is now and you think there's no point to it anymore just because we're having a tough time finding the cause of it? My father once said that "Nothing in life is easy but challenges in life are worth overcoming". This is a challenge worth overcoming Blaze! You've seen for yourself how beautiful Mobius is in this time! Do you think it's not worth preventing the end of the world to maintain the beauty of the planet? There IS a point to this Blaze...and it's to make Mobius's future brighter and better so that the Mobian race will survive for many more centuries to come. And now, we can help by saving Mobius from being a Robian utopia for Eggman."

Blaze now felt extremely guilty for saying something so heartless earlier. Her face fell into a mask of guilt and she looked down at her feet in shame.

"You're right Silver..." murmured Blaze, wrapping her arms around Silver and resting her head against his chest, "What was I thinking? I'm so sorry I said that...mother taught me better than this."

"It's alright Blaze." said Silver kindly, embracing her back and stroking her back, "Sometimes we say something wrong when things are looking bad. Just remember Blaze, things look bad now...but they will get better eventually."

Blaze nodded and she and Silver kissed tenderly for comfort. The other Royal Fighters were touched by this lovely scene before them and they could hardly resist the urge to say "aww" in unison.

"That was lovely Silver." said Sally, "Very well said and well-handled. It's good to know that in the future, Mobius still has goodhearted people like you."

"Thanks Sally." said Silver appreciatively, "Now then, let's stop Dr. Eggman shall we?"

"Now that's MY kind of talk!" chuckled Sonic, "So who's up for a little breaking and entering the Death Egg?"

Sonic could see from the look on everybody's faces that they were all about to say "yes" to that. But no chances to respond to his question could be given for Wilson and Mandy burst into the room, looking like a hurricane was coming straight towards them. The atmosphere changed from hopeful to concern as Sonic registered Wilson and Mandy's expressions. He could tell that they didn't have good news to give.

"Everybody, you're not gonna like the sound of this!" shrieked Mandy frantically, "We contacted the Sky Patrol and Miranda responded...but she spoke in monotone and her voice was robotical!"

"We think the Sky Patrol was hit by the roboticizer wave!" blustered Wilson, "Everybody on board's been roboticized and the Sky Patrol's coming to get us!"

The chorus of shocked gasps that exploded around the room was exactly what Wilson and Mandy had expected to happen. The Royal Fighters stared at each other as if hoping their staring would magically solve the problem. That was just wishful thinking though. Ruben looked pretty shocked more than anybody because it meant that Princess Matilda and her team were robots now and he was very close to the princess and her friends. Wilson and Mandy felt for Team Adabat in particular considering the good times they'd had together on the battlefield and Sonic took a moment to mourn for Miranda and her team for he was good friends with them before saying something.

"Well…I guess we're on our own…" murmured Sonic, "And you have no idea how much it pains me to say that."

"It pains us to hear you say that Sonic." said Tails, the shock in his face having a hard time subsiding due to how horrible the news was, "Our own friends will be after us now and will do what it takes to keep us away from the Death Egg!"

"Or worse my sweet little fox…try and drive us TOWARDS Eggman so he can roboticize us too." Cosmo said shakily, putting her arm around Tails for comfort but still shaking a little uncontrollably.

"We've gotta lose the Sky Patrol, otherwise Eggman will see us coming!" declared Sonic, "If they follow us while we go to the Death Egg, Eggman will pick us up straight away! We'll try and lose them before we go for the Death Egg!"

"But then once we reverse what Eggman's done, they might not get hit by the wave if we just lose them." noted Sally, "I suggest we bring them onto Mobius, do some damage to them so they end up stuck on Mobius and then we go back to the Death Egg and commence with our plan."

"That could work." said Sonic happily, "Though I'm a little worried that we might accidentally kill them if we do that…"

"Miranda had the Super Warp Ring in order to warp her team, Team Adabat and Team Chun-Nan onto the Sky Patrol. We could break into the ship and just use that to warp them out of the Sky Patrol and onto the ground so they can't fly after us." suggested Sora, "Plus, we end up with the warp ring and Sonic and Sally can warp us onto the Death Egg with it. That plan's bound to work."

"Let's try it!" said Tails excitedly, "It's a good plan!"

"Very good indeed." said Sally agreeably, "Wilson, take us to Mobius. Once we're back on Mobius, me and Sonic will break into the Sky Patrol and use the warp ring to relocate our friends so they can't chase after us."

Wilson didn't wait to be asked twice. He left the seating area quickly and he sat down in the pilots seat, adrenaline rushing through his veins as he prepared to try out Sora's plan. He started up the jet's dormant engines and the R.F.S. Jet cruised forwards from its stationary position. Wilson turned the jet around and he headed back towards Mobius. Just as he and Mandy had reported, the Sky Patrol was coming towards them and now the R.F.S. Jet was flying directly past the jet, heading towards Mobius which loomed behind them like a giant blue and green ball in the endless black, starry sky all around. Mecha Miranda registered this through her optics and began to wonder why the jet was heading back towards Mobius. Mecha Miranda turned the Sky Patrol around and flew off after the R.F.S. Jet. Mecha Kari stood beside Mecha Miranda and glared at their fleeing prey. They would not let the R.F.S. Jet go so easily. Dr. Eggman had realized that the R.F.S. Jet had been spared being hit by the roboticizer wave and he wanted them to chase down the ship, capture the occupants and bring them straight to the Death Egg. Eggman wanted them all alive so the roboticized Royal Fighters aboard the Sky Patrol would not be so lethal in its pursuit of the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters.

"R.F.S.-jet-sight-ed. We-must-bring-it-down-and-cap-ture-the-occ-u-pants." droned Mecha Miranda.

"Do-not-let-them-es-cape." droned Mecha Matilda, the Robian who had decided to elect herself as leader of this group due to arguably being the most powerful Robian on the ship given how she was a powerful kung-fu mistress and even as a Robian, she still possessed that power. "Chase-them-down. But-bring-them-in-alive."

"We-o-bey." replied Mecha Miranda.

The Sky Patrol's engines flared brilliantly as the ship picked up speed and began to chase after the R.F.S. Jet. The Sky Patrol was steadily but surely enough closing the distance between itself and the R.F.S. Jet. The Sky Patrol was fast but the R.F.S. Jet was faster and Wilson showed this by picking up speed and making the R.F.S Jet go faster. The R.F.S Jet's engines burned and flared frantically as they pushed the ship through space as much as possible. Mecha Matilda's optics flared angrily as she watched the R.F.S. Jet pull away from them, heading closer towards Mobius and going faster than their ship ever could go. This was a chase that they couldn't win and Mecha Matilda didn't like that at all. But she wasn't going to give up so easily, especially in the name of her master, Dr. Eggman. Mecha Matilda pointed at Mecha Miranda and Mecha Kari.

"Fire-the-ship's-weap-ons." droned Mecha Matilda, "Aim-for-the-engines. Ren-der-them-help-less-so-we-can-cap-ture-them."

Mecha Miranda and Mecha Kari gave a thumbs up to Mecha Matilda and they saw to it that they carried that order out to the letter. That was what happened when you got roboticized, you were loyal to pretty much anybody in charge be it Eggman or a higher ranking Robian. And Robians also obey orders without question, meaning that they operate at a speed that few people in the world could ever hope to achieve. Eggman truly had the perfect army to use against the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters. The Sky Patrol's gun turrets aimed at the R.F.S. Jet, which was speeding towards Mobius's surface, almost entering the atmosphere as it cruised the last few miles towards the planet. But it would be forced to abandon its route for the Sky Patrol began shooting at it. The R.F.S. Jet pulled up away from Mobius and started flying over the planet to try and avoid the shots of the Sky Patrol. If the jet got hit, it wouldn't be able to pass through the atmosphere without sustaining even more damage. When a rocket or a shuttle passes through the atmosphere, it heats up to an astonishing level. If the rocket was damaged in anyway, bet it a hole or a missing part, it would break up in the atmosphere from the heat. Such a fate had befallen a shuttle known as the Columbia . The R.F.S. Jet would definitely break up in the atmosphere if it suffered any damage so like it or not, the Mobians had to keep away from Mobius and stay in space until the Sky Patrol stopped shooting at them, which was very unlikely, or they evaded the ship long enough to enter the atmosphere. The Sky Patrol's lasers hammered through the sky, chasing after the R.F.S. Jet and either missing it or hitting a strong spot that would take more than a measly laser to take down. The jet's hull was designed to withstand many attacks, including laser fire. But the engines were vulnerable and Wilson knew this very well. He'd been given a tutorial on all the facts he needed on the jet before learning how to fly it. The Royal Fighters in the back were thankful they had fastened themselves back into their seats otherwise with the jet flying around and weaving through the laser blasts in a desperate bid to avoid them, they would be bouncing around like peas being shaken inside a pan. Even then, the Royal Fighters could hardly resist the urge to cling onto their seats as the jet did a barrel roll out of the Sky Patrol's way. Wilson's heart was hammering as he steered the jet as crazily as he could. He hadn't really done much of this, even in practice runs so this was nerve-racking for him. So much so he could feel his nerves rapping against each other. He thumbed a button on the control panel and fired some rear-mounted lasers out of the back of the jet. The lasers blasted into the Sky Patrol's lasers, stopping them from getting anywhere near the jet. But Mecha Matilda registered this little feature and she ordered Mecha Miranda to change her target. The Sky Patrol's gun turrets aimed at the R.F.S. Jet's lasers and fired at them. The lasers slammed into each other, exploding marvellously as one laser hit another in the distance between the pursuing and the pursued. It was a fantastic hail fire of lasers that the two ships were displaying between them but only one would win the battle. And sadly, it was the Sky Patrol. The Sky Patrol had more guns and thus, it had more places to aim at. This allowed it to shoot under the R.F.S. Jet's lasers and hit the bases that were firing the lasers. The R.F.S Jet now had no rear mounted weaponry to defend itself with. Wilson was thinking about steering the jet around and shooting at the Sky Patrol from the front but before he could try that manoeuvre, the Sky Patrol shot at its engines and destroyed them instantly. Without engines, the jet was a sitting duck. The Royal Fighters felt it coming to an abrupt halt and feared the worst. They couldn't go anywhere, the engines were destroyed. They were trapped. In the Sky Patrol, the Robians laughed robotical laughs of triumph as they closed in on their prey. They had caught the Royal Fighters. They could take them home to Dr. Eggman and have them roboticized! The Sky Patrol positioned itself above the R.F.S. Jet and the Robians deployed some cables with harpoons on the end of them to impale the ship and anchor it to the Sky Patrol. The Royal Fighters watched as the tips of the harpoons pierced effortlessly through the jet's tough fuselage. They couldn't do anything about it now. In space, there's no air and you will suffocate so they couldn't just break the jet free of the harpoons. And the jet couldn't move without engines anyway so there would be no point. They'd be sitting ducks nevertheless. The Royal Fighters made no attempt to resist as the Sky Patrol dragged it away to the Death Egg. Sonic kicked against the floor furiously.

"Damn! More crud keeps coming our way!" he moaned, "We're being towed back to the Death Egg!"

"Our engines have been shot and we can't get outside to break free, we're stuck like a rat in a cage!" whined Tails.

"And we're all going to be roboticized once we're onboard the Death Egg!" cried Cosmo fearfully.

"We'll just have to make sure that we don't get roboticized once we arrive." said Sally, a heavy tone of defeat dominating her voice, "Be prepared for the worst Royal Fighters, it's coming to us right now…"

The Royal Fighters nodded agreeably. They maybe caught but they're not necessarily defeated yet. They could still make it out alive and avoid being roboticized. It was going to be risky but the Royal Fighters knew that if they lost now, Mobius would never be saved and it would be a Robian planet for all eternity. A future that Silver and Blaze thought was actually worse than their current one…

Every Mobian on Mobius had been roboticized. Only the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had been spared the horror thanks to evasive actions taken at a critical moment. But another group of Mobians had actually managed to avoid being roboticized too. This group of Mobians resided in a ship called The Nefarious . This group of Mobians also had dark desires, black hearts and evil ambitions in mind for the planet the evil ship cruised over. These Mobians were known together as…

The Dark Armada

The Dark Armada was an insidious group of villains founded by the maniacal Dr. Finitevus, a madman who's only desire was to see Mobius purged with fire for he grew to see the planet as out of control and in need of a rehash. Plus he relished the thought on becoming the most powerful Mobian ever and was formulating an ambitious project known only as "Operation: Enerjak Reborn". He'd kept the project's name secret but he let his team now that the plan was to make them the most powerful Mobians ever to have existed. Finitevus had just recently finished formulating the teamand had taken The Nefarious to deal with the Death Egg. The whole time it had been cruising invisibly behind the R.F.S. Jet and Sky Patrol when they had been chasing the Death Egg up into space. The cloaking technology of The Nefarious meant that it was impossible for anybody to tell it had been flying after them, let alone been behind them in the first place. Finitevus could see that the Death Egg was too far ahead and to avoid being roboticized, he had used the Chaos Emeralds he'd stolen from the now destroyed Angel Island to Chaos Control up into space and out of the way of the blast. Unfortunately, The Nefarious 's cloaking tech had run out of power and Finitevus had been forced to warp the ship away from the Death Egg to avoid being detected. He had the plans for the Death Egg and he knew that the Death Egg would pick up the ship and if he got caught, the Death Egg would roboticize him and his armada, something he couldn't afford to have happen to him right now. So on the other side of Mobius, The Nefarious stayed stationary while its cloaking technology recharged. Finitevus waited patiently whereas the other members were keen to get going already. Scourge the Hedgehog paced back and forth impatiently.

"Yo doc, when's this joint gonna be fully charged?!" whined Scourge, "I want to take down Dr. Eggman already!"

"It'll be fully charged when it's fully charged." snapped Finitevus, "It takes time depending on how much power we've used up and we've used up quite a considerable amount just following the Royal Fighters. It'll take a long time."

"Well this bites!" growled Scourge in annoyance, "Oh well, at least we didn't get roboticized by the Death Egg. Speaking of which, I bet Mobius is a robot planet now. I hope my dweeby brother got roboticized."

"Well do not hope such a thing for Mobius will not be roboticized for long." said Finitevus crossly, "We need to de-roboticize Mobius don't we? How can we accomplish our goals if that fool Eggman is ruling the planet?!"

He stood up on tip-toe so he ended up baring over Scourge and glaring at him with his golden eyes. Scourge stepped back hesitantly.

"Uh, good point." said Scourge with a nervous smile, "So what's the plan?"

"I already have the bombs ready to blow up the Death Egg's power core chamber and bring the ship down." explained Finitevus, "But there's no logic behind destroying the only thing that can de-roboticize the entire world right now. Once The Nefarious 's cloaking device is fully charged, we sneak up on the Death Egg whilst invisible and we get onboard the ship. Once onboard, I will locate the World Roboticizer and set it in reverse. I shall also find the Master Emerald and steal it back from Eggman since I was the one to have it first. Then I will fire it and de-roboticize all of Mobius. Once that's done, THEN we destroy the Death Egg."

"Do you think we could let Sonic get onboard the ship so he can fight with Eggman to the death?" Scourge suggested, "We could take him along with Eggman when we blow up the Death Egg!"

"That…is a brilliant idea Scourge." purred Finitevus, smiling approvingly at his idea, "We will do just that. Wait until Sonic and his Royal Fighters board the Death Egg so they can fight Eggman and then we set the Death Egg to blow. We'll take them and Dr. Eggman to their graves. And when they're gone…our plans will have no obstacles to get in their way…"

Scourge laughed menacingly at that idea. The Dark Armada was certainly on top of all of this. Dr. Eggman was doomed and the Royal Fighters would be taken with him. The Dark Armada would then rise up and commence with its evil plans. Mobius was doomed no matter what happened. Eggman was already dooming the world to an eternity of slavery. The tides would soon change and Finitevus would end up dooming the world to a dark, dystopian future with him as the ruler of it all…

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Raccoon on the Run

 See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius: Formulation of

the Dark Armada

Things just keep getting worse and worse don't they?! Now what's going to happen?!

Tune in next time as this thrilling saga continues with Part 2...

Eggman Empire Part 2

Story 197: Eggman Empire Part 2: The Darkest Hour

The Royal Fighters had been through many dark times, times that they could consider their darkest hour. And somehow even when they have a moment they consider to be their darkest hour, they go through something else that manages to be an even darker hour than the previous darkest hour. And right now, they were well and truly in their darkest hour yet…

And it had all started after the multi-verse crisis had ended. The insidious, obese, maniacal, loony but frightening and menacing Dr. Eggman had come up with his most diabolical scheme yet. He had been spending weeks on end building his ultimate weapon, which he collectively named the "Death Egg". The name wasn't the most intimidating in the world but the ship itself was something to fear. The ship was enormous in size and bore the facial features of Dr. Eggman such as his rather sizeable nose and his ridiculously big moustache. But the eyes on the Death Egg was what made the ship look frightening. They were like huge, orange, staring eyes that stared into your very soul and haunted your nightmares. Because of the eyes, the ship always had the appearance that it was staring at you as if watching your every move and preparing to strike. But what made the Death Egg so fearsome was its ultimate weapon, the World Roboticizer. Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends had tried their best to stop the Death Egg from firing the weapon, to which they had thought was actually going to destroy the world at first, but their efforts had ultimately ended in disaster. Given how Eggman did the last thing they had ever expected, roboticizing the entire planet again, they weren't prepared for a worldwide roboticization beam and had been focused on stopping the Death Egg from destroying the world. Sonic the Hedgehog himself and his girlfriend Sally Acorn had managed to get on the ship but before they could even destroy the World Roboticizer, Eggman had distracted them with Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally respectively. The fight was nothing more than a distraction to keep them at bay while Eggman fired the weapon. The World Roboticizer had fired on Mobius and roboticized every single citizen on the planet. Only the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had evaded the beam and saved themselves being roboticized by the blast. Dr. Finitevus and his Dark Armada had evaded the blast too but nobody knew about them so as far as the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were concerned, everybody but them was now a mindless robot working for Dr. Eggman. It had happened before and now it had happened again, but this time with Dr. Eggman piloting a big ship which housed the World Roboticizer. Nobody could stop him now, not even Sonic and his team…

And that statement couldn't be more true then how the events of today were panning out. Despite Sonic and Sally escaping the Death Egg and avoiding being roboticized by Port Mk III, a portable roboticizer robot that Dr. Eggman had built as a back-up plan, things hadn't gone well upon getting back to the R.F.S. Jet. The jet had been pursued by the Sky Patrol, a ship built by Team Nekronopolis. The team itself was onboard the ship with Team Chun-Nan and Team Adabat and much to Sonic and his team's misfortune, the Sky Patrol had not been so lucky in evading the blast. All the occupants aboard the ship had been roboticized and they had turned on the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters in an instant. After a tense chase just above Mobius's atmosphere, the Sky Patrol had successfully managed to destroy the jet's engines and render it incapable of travelling any farther. Completely stuck and unable to do anything about their situation, the Royal Fighters had no choice but to let their roboticized friends take them away to the Death Egg where surely enough, Dr. Eggman would be ready to roboticize them all. Once that happened, all the Royal Fighters in the R.F.S. (Royal Fighters Service) would be no more, doomed to a life of robotic slavery for the maniacal mad doctor. Sonic knew too well what that felt like since he himself had once been roboticized. The time of Mecha Sonic was a time that even to this day still haunted him and he could just see himself becoming Mecha Sonic once again. It would be the worst day of his life, especially since nobody would be able to undo what Eggman had done to Mobius once he'd been roboticized. All of his friends were very nervous about the roboticization too. They had experienced roboticization and oppression at Eggman's hand. Bunnie Rabbot was the exception and so far the only Mobian on Mobius that hadn't been roboticized already although she was partially roboticized so Bunnie could still imagine what it would be like to be fully roboticized. It was an image she did not like at all and an image she didn't want to see come true. But as the Sky Patrol towed the dormant, battered R.F.S. Jet to the Death Egg, the Royal Fighters couldn't do anything about it. Being in space, they couldn't just get out of the jet and ambush the Sky Patrol for they would suffocate. It was hopeless. They would have to wait until they were on the Death Egg itself before they could do anything. They would have to act fast too. Sonic could already see Eggman bringing Port Mk III with him to greet the approaching Sky Patrol and he'd have them all roboticized the moment they stepped out of the jet. The Royal Fighters had been silent for quite a while for they didn't really know what to talk about. There was nothing much to say as the Sky Patrol began nearing the Death Egg. The chase had taken it considerably far from the Death Egg so it was taking a while for the ship to return to it. Thus the heroes had sat through a very long silence indeed. So long that they were startled the moment any noise was heard or made. After a while, the Sky Patrol was finally nearing the Death Egg. Just five more minutes and they would be on the ship itself. Mecha Miranda, a roboticized Miranda Mongoose, switched on the communications systems so she could give Dr. Eggman a message. She waited for a moment as static crackling hissed through the system. The crackling cleared up and Eggman's hammy, obnoxious, grating voice boomed over the speakers.

"Yes? Who is this?" he asked.

"Dr.-Egg-Man. This-is-Mecha-Miranda." droned Mecha Miranda in her robotical, emotionless voice that contained just traces of Miranda's original voice, "We-have-cap-tured-Sonic-the-Hedge-hog-and-his-team-of-Royal-Fight-ers. We-are-return-ing-to-you-with-them-in-tow."

If Mecha Miranda could see what was going on, on the other side of the speaker then she would have bore witness to a very comical scene for Dr. Eggman literally stepped back from the speaker to do a rather strange, comedic dance of joy to himself. Being how he was inside the body of E-123 Omega, a robot with rather large arms and small legs, the dance looked even sillier and at times, even dangerous for Eggman came rather close to falling over a couple of times. He cackled and whooped like a kid who's just played the prank of the century as he danced for joy. His roboticized minions had actually managed to capture Sonic and his team! What joy for him to hear about this! He was even more pleased at the fact his roboticizer wave had actually hit the Sky Patrol. Thus the fact the Royal Fighters onboard the Sky Patrol were the ones to be bringing the captive Sonic and friends to him so he could roboticize them. That made him dance even more with joy. So much so that Mecha Miranda was almost tempted to ask Dr. Eggman if he was OK but Eggman quickly regained himself and he returned to the speaker.

"That's excellent news my dear!" cried Eggman, "Bring them to the nose of the Death Egg, I shall welcome you aboard with Sonic and friends immediately."

"We-o-bey." droned Mecha Miranda.

It never ceased to please Dr. Eggman how well his roboticization technology worked. When he roboticized somebody, that robot was fiercely loyal to him and it never failed to work whatsoever. He got loyal robots every time they were roboticized. So pleasing and still so amazing at the same time for Dr. Eggman. Science truly was a wonder to behold and it made Eggman feel grand to be part of the scientist world. Dr. Eggman left the control room of the Death Egg and ran straight towards the nose section of the Death Egg, which as you already know is LITERALLY a nose that protruded from between the "eyes" of the Death Egg and sat above the "moustache" that just showed clearly where the Death Egg's "face" got its design from. Outside, the Sky Patrol turned slightly to the left and started cruising towards the Death Egg head on. In the R.F.S. Jet, Sonic finally broke the long silence that the Royal Fighters had been sitting in. A gut instinct was telling him they were nearly there. Now was the time to start planning.

"I think we're nearly there guys." said Sonic gravely, "We're nearing the Death Egg. I'm not sure why I feel that way, I just…do. Gut instinct if you will."

"I have that exact same feeling." murmured Sally, her face devoid of any emotion other than despair, "Our end is near…or so Eggman thinks."

"You bet your majesty." said Tails, nodding his head slowly, "We are not going to go down without a fight. If Eggman thinks we're defeated and helpless before him, he can think again!"

"I assume that you, Sonic or Sally has a plan?" sniffed Knuckles the Echidna doubtfully.

"Well to be honest, I'm just remaining hopeful in this dark situation." said Sonic admittedly.

"I however have a plan." said Tails eagerly, "The moment we step out of the R.F.S. Jet, Sonic can leap out and spin-dash the portable roboticizer to pieces so Eggman can't roboticize us…"

"Sorry, already tried that." said Sonic sadly, "Port's immune to my attacks and it even has a barrier to block Sally's energy blades. We can't just destroy that thing."

"Oh." said Tails disappointedly, "Well then, change of plan. Silver could use his psychokinesis to grab Port and throw it away from us so it can't roboticize us."

"I could do that easily." claimed Silver the Hedgehog enthusiastically, "And I could also be of good help against Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally too. Keep them off your back while the rest of you try to find the World Roboticizer and set it in reverse so we can de-roboticize all of Mobius."

"But then that leaves the others on the Sky Patrol." noted Blaze the Cat grimly, "If they're inside the Death Egg with us, they won't get de-roboticized."

"I could always try hacking into Port and see if I can set him in reverse and use him on the other R.F. teams." suggested Tails, "Though we'll have to do something about the supposed barrier it has, I won't be able to touch it otherwise."

"I could probably crush its circuitry." suggested Silver, "Once I have him in my psychic hold, I could focus the energy on its insides and crumple them like paper. Port's barrier will easily switch off then. But then you will have to fix it in order to set it in reverse…" he realized, his quills drooping against his head in despair.

"I won't mind having to do that, it just means the other teams will have to wait a little longer before they're returned to normal." noted Tails.

"So it seems we have a plan." said Ruben the Water Panther solemnly, not daring to cling onto too much hope before leaping into action, "I hope with all the heart and soul of my deceased clan that it works…"

"I do too Ruben." said his girlfriend Sora Prower, putting her hands around Ruben's arm and tenderly stroking it to comfort him, "There's nothing else we can do but hope this plan works. If it fails…then that's it. The end of all Mobians forever…"

The Royal Fighters couldn't agree more with that statement. Everybody on the R.F.S. Jet were the only Mobians left. If they were roboticized now then there would be no hope for Mobius at all. They may as well just rename it "Robius" if they ended up failing and falling victim to Eggman's evil technology. And yet Sonic still remembered something that Silver had said earlier. The Mobians were still around in the future and Mobius has a dystopian future, nothing to do with Eggman at all so that made Sonic feel very hopeful. Eggman's plan must be undone at some point if it's not roboticized in the future and there are Mobians still around. If the world was still roboticized in the future then Silver and Blaze technically shouldn't exist for Robians wouldn't be able to reproduce like Mobians could. And yet Silver and Blaze were born at some point in Mobius's future so that told Sonic one thing: Eggman doesn't stay victorious for long. And right now, they could see to it that Eggman's scheme is undone at their hands. They wouldn't have to wait for much longer though. The Sky Patrol had reached the Death Egg and it was now stationary directly underneath the Death Egg's "nose". The ship waited until a hole opened up in the Death Egg's nose, now giving it the image of having a nostril, and the Sky Patrol ascended up into the Death Egg's nose. It was like watching it sniff something straight up into its nose, only it didn't look gross. Once the Sky Patrol was up in the Death Egg's nose, the hole closed up and the Sky Patrol settled down onto the floor, first putting down the R.F.S. Jet and detaching itself from it and then landing down beside the jet. As the Sky Patrol touched down, the occupants inside all exited the Sky Patrol and stood before Dr. Eggman, who was already waiting for them with Metal Sonic, Mecha Sally and Port Mk III by his side. Mecha Matilda stood before Eggman and bowed down in respect with Mecha Miranda, Mecha Kari, Mecha Thunder, Mecha Bolt, Mecha Scott, Mecha Jessica, Mecha Taran, Mecha Felix, Mecha Bladefeather, Mecha Mushu and Mecha Li Moon bowing down behind her. Dr. Eggman smiled widely though being inside a mech suit, his Robian minions couldn't see him smiling.

"We-bring-you-Sonic-the-Hedge-hog-and-his-team." droned Mecha Matilda.

"Thank you my darling Matilda." purred Eggman, "You may all stand aside now."

The Robians all stood to the side as instructed as Dr. Eggman proudly strode towards the R.F.S. Jet with the mech suit's enormous arms behind his back. He had Pork Mk III hovering ahead of him and Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally following him like they were his loyal bodyguards and were constantly on their toes for any sign of danger that could befall Eggman. Eggman stopped outside the jet and he cleared his throat, purposefully loudly for presumably no reason other than to annoy Sonic and friends.

"Sonic the Hedgehog! You and your friends come out of that jet and face roboticization or I will drag all of you out, one at a time and kicking and screaming if I have to!" he bellowed "I will not warn you again! Do you understand?"

"We do understand Egg-head and I say this…" Sonic's voice yelled from inside the jet.

He then proceeded to yell an ugly curse word at Eggman with the word "off" added at the end that surprised the scientist and made Sally frown at him since he'd just sworn in the presence of young children as well as adults. But Sonic didn't really care. He'd always wanted to swear at Eggman, especially in a time like this so to have that satisfaction made him feel proud and like he hadn't lost his valorous streak. Dr. Eggman was so furious at that fact Sonic had sworn at him that he started hopping up and down like a flea on a hot cooker.

"Let's see if that foul mouth of yours will survive the roboticization process!" screamed Eggman angrily "Metal Sonic, get on that jet and drag Sonic out before me! He can be roboticized first!"

Metal Sonic obeyed and he strode towards the R.F.S. Jet. Eggman was tingling with excitement as he waited for Metal Sonic to come out with Sonic in his metal claws. He'd roboticized Sonic before and he couldn't wait to do it again, this time without Sonic still having his freewill thanks to a power ring like last time he had been roboticized. Mecha Sonic would make a fine second-in-command for him and his Robian army. It would also be cool to have Metal Sonic AND Mecha Sonic both together. He could imagine them getting along just nicely, or so he hoped they would. He could also see them being bitter rivals but he'd make sure that didn't happen. Then suddenly, Metal Sonic came launching out of the R.F.S. Jet, surrounded by a teal aura and he skidded across the floor. Eggman didn't know what happened but he soon found out as Silver the Hedgehog stepped out of the jet and grabbed him with a psychokinetic hold. His face was the mask of triumph.

"Bet you didn't see THAT coming did ya?!" chortled Silver.

"You…the psychic one! Release me at once!" ordered Dr. Eggman, trying to move as much as he could.

The psychic energy around him held firm. Eggman was so immobile that he himself from inside the life-support mech couldn't even move! Silver laughed mockingly at Eggman and he tossed him into the air, sending him hurling into a wall at the end of the room. Eggman picked himself and he barked furiously.

"Port, roboticize them all NOW!" he thundered.

The hovering, dome-shaped robot sprang into action. It aimed one of its many turrets at Silver and fired a roboticizer beam. Silver used his psychokinesis to catch the blast and he threw the blast up into the cieling. He had a feeling that redirecting it at Port wouldn't be a good idea. Roboticizing something that's already a robot causes it to explode. They wanted Port mostly intact so they could use him for their own needs so destroying him was out of the question. Silver used his psychic powers to grab hold of Port and he began focusing on his insides so he could disable Port and render it helpless so Tails could do what he could and make the machine a de-roboticizing machine. While Silver was focusing on disabling Port, the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters darted out of the jet, ready to make their move and find the World Roboticizer so they could use it to de-roboticize Mobius. Port tried to fire at them but Silver's hold on it was unbreakable. It couldn't shoot them as long as Silver had hold of it. Silver was about to disable Port but before he could do so, he was taken directly off of his feet by a terrific punch that could have shattered his cheek had his psychic aura not cushioned most of the punch for him. Mecha Sally had done that and she waited until Silver came down on the floor before attacking him again. Silver picked himself up just in time to get another punch from Mecha Sally, this one right in the face. Silver thought his head was going to come off after that punch. Mecha Sally then dropkicked Silver in the head, knocking him clean out with that blow. Livid, Blaze turned around and charged towards Mecha Sally in a fiery tornado. She socked Mecha Sally in the face with a fire enhanced punch. Mecha Sally seemed more effected by the punch than the fire though. Mecha Sally punched Blaze back, slamming her fist squarely into the cat's stomach and bringing her down onto her knees. Blaze coughed loudly and just as she stood back up, Port Mk III turned in her direction and blasted her with a roboticization beam! Blaze screamed in agony as her flesh and blood was converted painfully into metal and oil and her bones became pistons and supporting rods that formed the exoskeleton of her Robian body. Sonic and the other Royal Fighters stopped running towards the exit and turned to see Silver knocked out and Blaze being roboticized. Sonic cried out in despair as Mecha Blaze stood up on her metallic feet and glared at the Royal Fighters with cold, golden optics that dripped with evil.

"NO!" cried Sonic, "The plan's going wrong! Silver's out cold and Blaze is now a robot!"

"We've gotta wake Silver up now so he can disable Port!" exclaimed Tails, "We'll do that first and then get on with our mission!"

"Be careful everybody!" yelled Sally, "Do NOT let Port hit you! Take evasive action!"

The Royal Fighters were all too happy to be as evasive as possible. Mecha Blaze, a metallic prison for the original Blaze the Cat, set her hands alight with fire and she charged towards the Royal Fighters. Sonic spin-dashed her, being as gentle as possible for he didn't want to hurt her too much. He knocked Mecha Blaze down but Mecha Blaze picked herself up again and the roboticized fire cat slammed a sharp, metal heel into Sonic's arm. Getting kicked by a high-heeled shoe was painful enough but being kicked by a METAL high-heeled shoe was even worse. Sonic felt like he'd been slashed and slammed both at the same time given how sharp the heel of Mecha Blaze's foot was. Knuckles and his girlfriend Shade the Echidna pounced on Mecha Blaze and pinned her down to the floor by her arms, regretful of having to do so to their former friend. Tails ran over to Silver while Mecha Blaze was occupied. The other Royal Fighters ran after him but they ended up getting into a battle with the other Robians for they stood in their way, obviously intending to defend Port from them. Only Tails managed to get past the Robians while the others fought them to keep them away from Tails so he could get to Silver. He had to wake him up so Silver could disable Port Mk III but unfortunately, he didn't get the chance for Mecha Matilda, who had managed to fight off Geoffrey St. John and Bunnie Rabbot, rushed in and rammed him aside with her shoulder. Tails fell onto the floor, directly in Port's path. Port fired a roboticizer beam at Tails but before the beam could hit him, Sora ran in and stood in the way. She was helping Tails up and had thought she would have enough time to save him and herself both at the same time. She was terribly wrong. Sora was hit by the roboticizer beam and Tails watched with a mixture of horror, grief and anger as his own sister was roboticized in front of his very eyes. It would go down as one of the most horrifying things he had ever seen in his life. Tails could feel his heart aching as Sora was transformed into a metal minion for Dr. Eggman. Tails burst into tears of anguish as Mecha Sora rose and bared her sharp claws and glared at Tails with emotionless green optics. It was like a nightmare come true for Tails. Tails backed against the wall as Mecha Sora came close to him, a killer look in her optics.

"No Sora, please, don't!" whimpered Tails, "I-I'm y-your brother!

Tails! You'd never hurt me! Fight Eggman's control! I know you can do...AHK!"

He was rudely cut off as Mecha Sora grabbed him by the throat and picked him up off the floor. She then turned around and held Tails in front of Port. The domed- multi-cannoned machine was just itching to roboticize him next. But Tails was saved at the last minute by Vector lumbering towards the machine and ramming Port aside like a charging rhinoceros. Port may have a barrier but it didn't stop people from knocking it aside. Port spiralled rather crazily across the room and crashed into the wall. The crash caused it to accidentally fire another beam and it was heading towards Mecha Matilda. Ruben scampered towards Mecha Matilda and pushed her out of the way so she wouldn't blow up when the blast hit her. The blast hit him instead, converting him into a Robian within seconds. Ruben had been roboticized before only when it happened to him, he had a power ring to restore his freewill. This time, there was no power ring so Ruben would be stuck as an Eggman minion for now. Mecha Ruben turned around and squirted a jet of water at Vector for knocking Port aside earlier. Vector was swept off of his feet by the water and sent skidding across the floor like a stone being carried through a ranging river. Back over to Mecha Sora, she seemed pleased that Ruben had been roboticized and decided to share Tails with him. It seemed Sora and Ruben's love still existed in their Robian forms only they were both on Eggman's side now. Mecha Sora threw Tails at Mecha Ruben to which Mecha Ruben squirted water at him. Tails was hit by the icy cold water, which seemed colder than usual for some reason, and sent slamming into the wall. Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse tackled Mecha Ruben and Mecha Sora, bringing them down onto the floor. Mandy had obligated against using her knuckle attachments in this battle for she would just end up destroying the Robians if she punched them, leaving her at a severe disadvantage. Wilson still had his weapons on him but he was going to be careful on how he used them since he could easily damage them accidentally if he wasn't careful. Mecha Ruben and Mecha Sora fought against Wilson and Mandy but the dog and mouse fought back hard, keeping them down on the floor as best as they could. As they were doing this, Tails seized the perfect chance to wake up Silver. All the other Robians were fighting the Royal Fighters, there was nobody to try and stop him. Tails ran over to Silver, knelt down by his side and started shaking him, hoping to wake him up. Unfortunately for Tails, Port had regained itself and it was hovering menacingly towards Tails with its cannons ready to roboticize him. Tails yelped in fright and he picked the unconscious Silver up off the floor, flying into the air with him in his hands as quickly as he could. Port fired at him and missed him by millimetres. The whole commotion seemed to wake Silver up though for he started stirring and moaning sleepily. Tails beamed happily, glad to see that Silver was coming around at last. But then Metal Sonic spin-dash up into the air and hit both Tails and Silver, bringing them both down onto the floor. Port hovered towards the two, hoping to roboticize them both. Bunnie flew in and punched Port away from Tails and Silver but she ended up getting dropkicked in the back by Mecha Bladefeather. Silver picked himself up and shook his head groggily, trying to make out what was going on. He was still amazed that Mecha Sally had managed to get the drop on him like this and knock him out so swiftly. He began to wonder if he was in a nightmare though for the first thing he noticed was that Blaze was now a robot and she was fighting an intense battle with Sonic. Silver watched with horror as his roboticized girlfriend threw a kick at Sonic, aiming directly his chest in the hopes that her sharp heel would do a lot of damage to his heart. Sonic dodged the kick and he kicked upwards, throwing Blaze's leg upwards and knocking her off balance. If Mecha Blaze was still organic, she might have felt a sharp surge of pain from the thud down onto the floor. Silver couldn't believe that Blaze was really a robot though. He rubbed his eyes, hoping this would turn out to be a nightmare. It didn't work. Blaze was still a robot. He wasn't dreaming.

"No...Blaze has been roboticized!" wailed Silver, "I'm gonna get her outta that robot prison though!"

"Indeed you can Silver." said Tails, "Disable Port while you still can!"

Silver was all too happy to oblige. He got up onto his feet and prepared to use his psychokinesis. Unfortunately, the blow to the head Mecha Sally had given him was beginning to throb and Silver winced as he tried using his psychokinesis. It was never a good idea to use psychic powers when you have a headache. To Silver, it felt like somebody had reached into his head, grabbed his brain and started squeezing it like a sponge in a bath. Silver couldn't try and disable Port, his head was aching too much. He cringed in agonizing pain as his head started throbbing in a way that words couldn't describe. Tails sensed that something was wrong and he put his hands on Silver's shoulders.

"What's wrong?" he asked worriedly.

"My head's killing...hurts too much to use my powers!" moaned Silver, "I can't disable Port for the moment!"

"Well rest your head for a minute, I'll try and keep him at bay before he can roboticize anyone else." said Tails.

Silver nodded and watched as Tails flew into the air, keeping well out of Port's way and flying nowhere in particular to keep the robot distracted. But Tails needed to remember that Port could aim in any direction at once. It didn't have a blind spot or a place that it couldn't aim at. It could try shooting at Tails with one cannon and still have some left to shoot at any others. And that's exactly what Port ended up doing. It started shooting wildly at all the Royal Fighters in the room, hoping to snag them all one at a time. Much to the bad luck of the Royal Fighters, that's exactly what ended up happening. Geoffrey, Wilson, Mandy, Knuckles, Shade, Cream, Cosmo, Espio, Vector, Charmy and Mace all ended up getting hit by the roboticizer beams and turned into Robians faster than anybody could say "Divorced, beheaded, died, divorced, beheaded, survived" three times. Port's aim had been really good, not once missing its targets and actually avoiding hitting any of the Robians, Metal Sonic or Mecha Sally as it had been shooting. Sonic, Sally, Tails, Bunnie and Silver were the only ones who hadn't been hit yet although Sonic had a terrible feeling that they weren't going to be organic for long. In order to prevent Port from attempting to roboticize anybody else, Sonic zoomed up towards Port and spin-dashed him, sending the machine hurling through the room and crashing into the R.F.S. Jet. Now Port was momentarily stunned, Silver used his psychokinesis to try and disable him but once again, he got tackled by a robot, this one being Mecha Knuckles. Silver cried out in alarm as Mecha Knuckles lunged at him with his metal, spiked fists and attempted to severely injure him. Silver saved himself with a psychokinetic grasp that stopped Mecha Knuckles dead in his tracks. As he did that,

Sonic, Sally, Tails and Bunnie gathered around together.

"The plan's gone seriously wrong! There's only five of us left!" shrieked Sonic, "We have to disable Port and set him in reverse NOW!"

"Silver keeps trying but the poor guy keeps getting distracted!" yelped Tails, "What are we gonna do now?"

"Ya'll just asked the million dollar question sugah!" blurted Bunnie "What ARE we gonna do Sally-girl?" she asked, looking directly at Sally as if the whole thing depended on her now, a feeling Sally wasn't always that keen about having.

"We stay on our toes and keep ourselves from being roboticized!" declared Sally, "We'll try and keep the rabble off Silver's back so he can disable Port in peace! Once he's disabled, we take him on the Sky Patrol and break out of this Death Egg so we can set him in reverse without a problem. We then come back and de-roboticize our friends and then go for the World Roboticizer and set that in reverse so we can de-roboticize Mobius."

"And after that, we destroy this damn Death Egg!" growled Sonic, "This ship deserves to be destroyed and hopefully with Eggman still on it!"

"Now, now Sonic, we're not stooping to his level." said Sally firmly, "We will arrest Eggman and make him pay, not kill him and let him have the easy way out."

Sonic rolled his eyes, clearly wishing he could go with the former option. Sonic was so angry with Eggman roboticizing his world for the second time ever in this war and also for now roboticizing his friends that Sonic was actually wanting to send Eggman to his grave. He thought Eggman deserved to die, especially after the fact he said earlier that he had no decency and thought a robotical world was better than an organic world. That evil mindset and kind of dictatorship deserved nothing more than death but Sonic was not going to dishonour the Royal Fighters Service by killing Eggman in cold blood. He was better than this and he would prove it by taking Eggman to justice, not Death's door. Sonic shook off the rather dark thoughts that had been entering his head and he charged back into battle with Sally, Tails and Bunnie right behind him. Mecha Wilson and Mecha Mandy charged towards Sonic and Sally with Wilson aiming for Sonic and Sally being targeted by Mandy. Sonic and Sally dodged their attacks and kicked the Robian dog and mouse down onto the floor. They picked themselves up shortly after and Mecha Wilson launched his spinning blade at Sonic. Sonic threw himself flat on the floor back first, the blade missing him by centimetres as it hurled over him. He leaped back up and he stomp-kicked Mecha Wilson in the chest. He regretted this very much for he felt like he was attacking his friend and despite him launching an attack on Mecha Wilson, it still hurt him as much as it hurt Mecha Wilson. That is...it hurt him emotionally. Sonic was looking forward all the more to de-roboticizing all of Mobius now. Mecha Mandy slugged Sally in the gut and elbowed her onto the floor, the blow feeling as heavy as somebody swinging a baseball bat at you and Sally cried out as Mecha Mandy prepared to attack her again. Not wanting to use her blades so as not to damage Mandy herself in anyway, Sally booted Mecha Mandy in the torso and knocked her off her feet. Sally rubbed her leg better as she felt a tingle of pain flood through her veins. The Robians had strong armour that's for sure. Stronger than most Eggman robots maybe. Tails was in the worst possible situation ever. He was being attacked not only by Mecha Sora, but by Mecha Cosmo too! The two most special girls in his life were now roboticized and trying to attack him. Tails literally decided that this was the worst moment of his life. Only thing that could make it worse was if Ginger was roboticized and trying to attack him. Mecha Cosmo lunged at Tails with her sharp metallic skirt spinning around like a deadly saw blade. Tails threw himself down onto the floor in order to dodge her deadly attack. Mecha Cosmo landed on her feet and she spun around on her heel, catching Tails with a vicious kick to the head just as he got back to his feet. Tails was sent hurling off his feet and flying into Mecha Sora. Mecha Sora swung her leg up and walloped Tails in the face, throwing him straight up into the air. As Tails fell back down towards the ground, screaming at the top of his voice as he fell, Mecha Cosmo and Mecha Sora positioned themselves underneath where Tails was going to land so they could grab him and let Port roboticize him. Bunnie saw this and she flew over to Tails as quickly as possible, catching him before he could land into Mecha Cosmo and Mecha Sora's hands. Bunnie landed down on the floor and put Tails down before flying off into battle again. Port tried to shoot at her but Bunnie shot back and stopped its blast before it could hit anyone. Eggman yelled furiously at Port for this.

"No you dumb robot, don't shoot Bunnie!" he yelled, "You'll blow up her limbs! Wait until you've roboticized everybody else and then de-roboticize her so you can roboticize her without damaging her!"

"No point telling the ugly robot that because that ain't happening gruesome!" declared Bunnie, flying directly in front of Eggman and upper cutting him directly into the air as callously as she could with her robotic arm.

Dr. Eggman screamed like a child being freaked out on a rollercoaster ride as he sailed through the air and landed slap-bang into the wall. He slid down onto the ground, moaning dizzily and trying to recognize left from right as he picked himself up. Over to Sonic and Sally, they were once again in battle with Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally. Not the best idea but they couldn't really help that since Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally picked them themselves and the two robots were the only robots that Sonic and Sally could fight without feeling bad about hurting them or worrying about killing the Mobian inside the Robian. Sonic and Sally had nothing but the intention to kill in mind for Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally as they fought against them, especially as together, the two were a mockery to them and their status as a couple and that was not acceptable in their eyes. Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally had the same intentions in mind for their organic counterparts too. Metal Sonic clawed at Sonic, nearly catching the hedgehog across the chest. Sonic jumped back to avoid the attack, amazed at how narrowly he'd actually managed to dodge the attack. Sonic socked Metal Sonic in the cheek, gritting his teeth callously so that he could hold in the pain that surged through his fist after he punched Metal Sonic. Sonic then drew his leg back and kicked Metal Sonic in the chest, throwing him across the room and directly into Port. Port fired a roboticizer beam as an act of warning after being hit and much to Sonic's bad luck…the blast hit him! Sally screamed in terror as Sonic was swiftly converted into a Robian, his screams dying down into silence as Mecha Sonic stood before Sally with his red optics burning brilliantly and malevolently and his claws bared and ready to tear her apart. Tails, Bunnie and Silver watched with horror as this happened and Sally collapsed backwards onto the floor, unable to stand up anymore given how shocking this was. Sonic was now a Robian once again. Mecha Sonic had returned and he had a cold look in his optics.

"NOOOOOOO!" wailed Sally, clutching her chest as if her heart was going to burst its way out suddenly, "Sonic! No…NOOOOOO! Please, not you!"

"Sonic!" screamed Tails in terror.

"Sugah-hog!" howled Bunnie, "He's Mecha Sonic again!"

"That's it Port, you're not roboticizing anybody else today!" declared Silver angrily.

He used his psychokinesis to hold Port in place and he clenched his fists, crumpling Port's insides like paper and ruining the machine completely. Unfortunately for Silver, the moment he let go of Port, the machine suddenly fired one last desperate shot at Silver and roboticized him too! Port literally only had enough life left in it to fire that one last shot. Now power-drained, Port switched off and stopped hovering, coming down onto the floor with a thud. Silver, now Mecha Silver, picked himself up and he grabbed Sally, Tails and Bunnie with a psychic hold before they could attempt to escape or do anything else. Sally, Tails and Bunnie were completely immobilized, unable to do anything else now. They were the last Mobians in existence and they were helpless before the Robian army Dr. Eggman had on the Death Egg now. They stared despairingly as Mecha Sonic stood before them with the rest of the Robians behind him. Dr. Eggman ran over to Sally, Tails and Bunnie and he began laughing uncontrollable fits of maniacal laughter over his victory. Port maybe disabled but what could Sally, Tails and Bunnie do about their situation now? They couldn't de-roboticize anybody and they were all captured by Mecha Silver, they couldn't do anything to help their friends. Eggman stopped laughing long enough to gloat at his captured and defeated enemies.

"What a brilliant turnout!" cried Eggman excitedly, "What a BRILLIANT turnout! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha! Everybody but you three has been roboticized now and you three can't do anything about it! I win, I win! AH, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA!"

The laughter that Eggman bellowed out was enough to make the entire room echo as if laughing along with him over his triumph. This day was easily the best day of Eggman's life, mostly since he now had a roboticized Sonic on his side once again and he wouldn't be able to help the last three Mobians in anyway. Eggman stopped laughing and continued to pontificate to his captives.

"How does it feel Sally Acorn, to be one of the last Mobians in existence?" sneered Eggman, "You, Bunnie and Tails cling onto your organic lives while the rest of Mobius's population now falls under my command and my vision of a perfect world! Once Port's fixed though you will be roboticized and then the Robian race will be complete and Mobius will be mine at last!"

"You will never win Eggman." said Sally coldly, "We'll reverse what you've done, make no mistake on that. You will not remain victorious for long."

"Yeah! You roboticized the entire world and only a handful of us avoided being roboticized that time!" yelled Tails, "And guess what? We beat you! We'll bet you again!"

"As long as we're not Robians, there's still a chance Mobius will be saved doc…and once it is, you will be defeated and arrested for yer crimes once and for all!" declared Bunnie, "Mark our words Eggman, ya'll haven't won yet!"

"Your hubris fails to do anything except bore me." sneered Eggman, "So don't try and fill yourself with false hope, you're only embarrassing yourselves. Now then, I can't roboticize you three since Port's broken and I can't use the World Roboticizer INSIDE the Death Egg, it wasn't built for that. So I'm afraid I need to lock you up somewhere while I get Port fixed. And I know just the place…Mecha Silver, keep hold of the three until the Death Egg touches back down on Mobius!" he ordered, pointing at Mecha Silver.

"I-o-bey." droned Mecha Silver.

"Don't any of you three attempt to break free of Mecha Silver's psychic hold or Mecha Sonic will rip you three apart." threatened Dr. Eggman, "And I'd much rather roboticize you with your limbs intact if you don't mind."

"You could just stick a new bunch of limbs on us once we're roboticized." snorted Tails.

Dr. Eggman ignored him and he left the room to go to the main control room on the upper floors of the ship. The room itself was located just behind the Death Egg's eyes so Dr. Eggman didn't have long to go at all. He was in the main control room in a matter of seconds and he instantly leaped into his seat, laughing excitedly as he set the Death Egg into motion. He had the perfect place to lock up his captives until Port was fixed and he could hardly wait to get everybody introduced there back down on Mobius. The Death Egg's engines roared into life and the enormous vessel began heading towards the planet. This did not go unnoticed however. The Nefarious had fully charged up its cloaking device in all the time the battle had been going on and it was spying on the Death Egg, completely invisible to the naked eye and watching the Death Egg like an eagle watching a rabbit. The Death Egg hadn't detected it at all. It just flew on down towards Mobius without any concerns or other thoughts. Dr. Finitevus watched through the window of the ship and he narrowed his eyes. The Bride of the Conquering Storm stood beside him, her pose rigid and to attention like a loyal soldier to her commander. The coolie-hat wearing lynx had recently been broken out of prison by Scourge the Hedgehog and Fiona the Fox* and she was now a member of the Dark Armada and working for Dr. Finitevus. She turned to face her leader, her expression as stoic as ever. This was a trademark for Conquering Storm and any other emotion she emoted were considered unusual for many people were used to seeing her emotionless and blunt.

"The Death Egg appears to be moving Finitevus." said Conquering Storm, "What should we do?"

"Follow it." said Finitevus bluntly, "I want to know what the Death Egg's moving down onto Mobius for. And maybe…have the opportunity to begin the sabotage."

"A wise move indeed my dark commander." said Conquering Storm bluntly, "Shall I inform the others Finitevus?"

"Yes my dear, please inform the other members that we're mobilizing." said Finitevus politely, "It could well be time to put the plan into action…"

He smiled wickedly as he pictured himself setting up the bombs inside the Death Egg and then setting the World Roboticizer in reverse so that Mobius would be de-roboticized and ripe for the picking once he disposed of Dr. Eggman. Dr. Finitevus ordered The Nefarious to follow the Death Egg with a simple voice command that registered at the speed of a super fast computer. The Nefarious began to activate its engines and fly slowly but silently after the Death Egg. The Death Egg would nave no idea that it was being followed, no idea whatsoever. It would touch down on Mobius and The Nefarious would not be noticed. Its stealth technology was that sophisticated and brilliant. Finitevus was very pleased at how well the cloaking device worked. He could fly directly over New Mobotropolis and not be noticed for all he knew. The two ships re-entered Mobius's atmosphere and the occupants of both ships held on as they began to shudder under the pressure of the atmosphere burning all around them. In a matter of moments, the Death Egg and The Nefarious were back on Mobius and the Death Egg headed down towards Megapolis, most noticeably a part of Megapolis that was very far away from the Egg-Bunker's original location before the Death Egg had launched. Eggman was heading towards the eastern part of Megapolis for the place he was taking the captive Sally, Tails and Bunnie was located in this part of the country. The Nefarious cruised silently after the Death Egg. Megapolis was a dark shadow of a country now for it was roofed by a ceiling of dark, grey clouds that looked like they were ready to throw it down any moment now. Finitevus didn't mind since the rain wouldn't effect The Nefarious 's stealth technology in anyway. It would still appear invisible and even if anybody could see actual raindrops pitter-pattering over the invisible shape of the evil ship, it wouldn't be very easy to notice since there were raindrops by the millions. The Nefarious would still be invisible. The Death Egg cruised over Megapolis for a couple of minutes before finally touching down onto a landing pad that had been built especially for the insidious, world-roboticizing ship. The Nefarious stayed airborne but Finitevus watched the Death Egg from the window of his ship as Eggman exited with all the Robians onboard following him. He noticed that they had Sally, Tails and Bunnie with them and they were not roboticized yet. Finitevus shook his head, a mocking smirk on his face as he eyed Mecha Sonic holding Sally tightly by her arms and leading her along with the other Robians. Sonic was a Robian, this could work to Finitevus's favour easily. Once he'd de-roboticized the world, Sonic would have more reason to go into the Death Egg and pursue Dr. Eggman giving Finitevus the perfect opportunity to kill Sonic as well as Dr. Eggman. Finitevus could easily just walk up to Mecha Sonic and destroy him now if he wanted but that would attract attention and Finitevus was being very vigilant in his plans this time. He hadn't been so in his previous plans and they had cost him dearly. He would not make that mistake again. He continued watching out the window, taking note that the clouds had been very good on their threat of rain. Fat raindrops dripped onto the windows and trickled down the glass. Finitevus could imagine everybody down below getting soaking wet as the rain began to hammer down onto the ground and drench everything in sight. Down below and getting soaked by the rain, Dr. Eggman led his Robians and prisoners to a huge steel building that seemed out of place in the middle of nowhere. Eggman had easily just built it himself and the building was not a natural part of the scenery. Sally picked up on that rather bitterly and she screwed her face up at the building. The building was enormous, spanning the size of two tennis courts and exceeding the height of a five-storey building with ease. It had every little features aside from Dr. Eggman's hideous logo on the top of the building and a door that seemed to be the only way in or out of the building. Sally had a nasty feeling that she knew what this building was. It was a prison and it was easily meant for her, Tails and Bunnie to stay in while Eggman fixed Port. Eggman threw his arms up and announced rather obnoxiously:

"Welcome to the newly rebuilt Sentinel Blockade!"

He looked very pleased with himself over the fact he'd just announced that the heroes were being welcomed to a prison. The Sentinel Blockade was a prison that Eggman had built long ago in Nekronopolis to house people he wanted to roboticize. Shadow the Hedgehog had destroyed it but Dr. Eggman had rebuilt it before the Death Egg had been launched. The Sentinel Blockade would be useless of course since Eggman intended to roboticize everybody but the prison had been built as a back-up plan incase Eggman missed any Mobians and had to contain them for the time being. Plus if any Robians suddenly went rogue, he could throw them into the prison for punishment. Neither Sally, Tails or Bunnie had been in the Sentinel Blockade when it had first been built but they didn't like the sound of the prison at all from what Miranda and her team had described about it. Now they would see for themselves what the prison was like. Dr. Eggman stood to the side but he announced something else about his prison.

"The Sentinel Blockade will be your home until Port is fixed and you three can be roboticized." crowed Dr. Eggman, "Do NOT try to escape the prison. I assure you it is inescapable and even if you succeed, you won't get far. Metal Sonic, Mecha Sonic, Mecha Sally, Mecha Shadow and Mecha Silver are the guards and you will NEVER get past either of those! Enjoy your stay Mobians, it'll be the last thing you do before you get roboticized!"

He began laughing as Mecha Sonic, Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally took the three Mobians inside the Sentinel Blockade. As soon as they were inside, the trio began wishing that they were still out in the rain. It would be much better than being in this place. The Sentinel Blockade was featureless on the inside save for a lot of prison cells as far as the eye could see. None of the doors had any windows and all the locks were keypads, meaning that a code was required in order to open them. There were many floors, all with more prison cells on them. Eggman could house over 200 Mobians here Tails calculated in his head. It would only have three occupants tonight. Sally was taken by Mecha Sonic down the corridor of the first floor of the prison while Mecha Sally and Metal Sonic flew Bunnie and Tails onto the second and third floors respectively. Sally could hardly blame the robots for wanting to keep her and her friend separated. They would be less deadly when they were separated. As soon as Sally was taken to a cell, Mecha Sonic held his hands out.

"Hand-over-your-en-er-gy-blades-and-Ni-cole." he demanded.

Had it been METAL Sonic ordering her, Sally would have just turned around and chopped him to pieces. But this was Mecha Sonic, her boyfriend Sonic as a robot. She couldn't chop him up for it would mean killing her boyfriend. Sally couldn't live with herself if she killed Sonic so she did as she was told. She gave Mecha Sonic her wristbands and Nicole, the little computer that housed Nicole's consciousness after what General Rakutan had done to her on Mobius 3000. Now Sally was deprived of anything useful, Mecha Sonic opened up a cell and shoved Sally inside. Her cell was marked with the number 8643. Sally remained on her knees as Mecha Sonic slammed the door shut behind her, the door locking the moment it was closed. Sally lifted her head and she saw that the cell was just as she'd expected, completely featureless save for four walls and a floor and with no way of escape. There wasn't even a bench for her to sit on. Sally sat herself against the wall and did the only thing she could in this cell. Overwhelmed with grief, horror, heartbreak and despair, the poor queen cried a heart-wrenching sob that seemed to be full of all the emotion she had inside of her. All but three Mobians were now Robians and she was locked in a prison with no way of escape. Mobius was in its darkest hour and would never lighten up again. Sally could hardly help but cry in this situation. And she felt like she'd never be able to stop…no matter how hard she cried…

Footnotes:

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius: Formulation of the Dark Armada

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius: Arc 8: The Sentinel Blockade

Man things just keep getting worse and worse...:(

How the fridge will Sally, Tails and Bunnie get out of this one?! I think...I think...this is...gulp...THE END!

Or maybe the Dark Armada can help them out? Tune in next time as our heroes attempt the impossible...to escape The Sentinel Blockade.

Eggman Empire Part 3

Story 198: Eggman Empire Part 3: Escape from Sentinel

The rain continued to hammer down onto the ground below as the dark clouds loomed over Mobius, casting the world in a dark, grey shadow that seemed to set an appropriate mood for the current events that had been going on lately. The mood was made even more appropriate with the occasional flash of lightening and deafening bang of a thunderclap.

Mobius, once a world that was peaceful and beautiful, now a world run by Dr. Eggman with the entire population sans three Royal Fighters and the entire Dark Armada and the last three Royal Fighters currently un-roboticized were locked up in a secure prison called The Sentinel Blockade, described by Eggman himself as being inescapable. Being inside the cells, Sally Acorn, Tails the Fox and Bunnie Rabbot could actually agree that it did seem inescapable. The cells had no features save for a door that could only be opened by code on the outside and four walls, nothing else. They would definitely be kept captive for quite a while inside the prison. It seemed pretty helpless for the trio now…

The Dark Armada on the other hand were still roaming freely and were overlooking things from up inside their insidious flagship The Nefarious . The Dark Armada was an army of villains ranging from many of Sonic's old enemies or enemies of Sonic's friends and led by Dr. Finitevus himself, the evil, treacherous uncle of Knuckles the Echidna and one of Sonic's most deadliest enemies. Able to fight Sonic's entire team at once without breaking a sweat and having sheer intelligence, manipulation skills and the strategy planning of a chess player, Finitevus truly cemented himself as the only threat on Mobius that could potentially take over from Dr. Eggman and be equally as, if not more, successful than he was. Dr. Finitevus already had big plans in mind for Mobius such as his precious "Operation: Enerjak Reborn" stratagem but he couldn't put it into action yet. Not while Mobius was roboticized and being ruled by Dr. Eggman. His plan wasn't to rule a roboticized world and with everybody in the world working for Dr. Eggman, his plan would go belly-up easily. He was sure to get spotted by at least one Robian and there would be nowhere on Mobius to hide for they'd all come looking for him. So Finitevus planned to get rid of Dr. Eggman. He had to wait for the right moment though and the right moment presented itself. The Death Egg had come back down to Mobius so Eggman could put Sally, Tails and Bunnie in the Sentinel Blockade and keep them contained whilst he fixed Port Mk III, his portable roboticizer robot. Silver the Hedgehog had managed to disable Port thanks to his psychokinesis but sadly, had ended up being roboticized himself after he'd done so. Eggman couldn't use his World Roboticizer to roboticize Sally, Bunnie and Tails otherwise he'd blow up all his Robians so he needed Port so he could roboticize the three. He didn't want to just use the Death Egg to de-roboticize everybody and then roboticize them again as that would take up too much energy and the World Roboticizer needed charging up after use, which would give Sonic and friends the chance to attack him and then it would be back to square one. Unfortunately for Eggman, no matter what he did he would end up losing since Finitevus was using Eggman's current time fixing Port to his advantage. Advantage was something Finitevus loved to exploit. Finitevus turned away from the window and he wandered through the corridors of The Nefarious . He walked down into the meeting room to greet his glorious armada members. The meeting room was a room that like most of the ship, was bathed in a malevolent purple glow that suited the evil atmosphere of the ship perfectly. There was a huge round table that had enough seats for all the main members and a white light hung over the table, the light seeming to make the table glow for the table was also white. Finitevus sat down at the main seat and clasped his hands together. He eyed all of his members, Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox, Captain Metal, Cutthroat Jim, Lord Sycorax, Ravage Bloodfang, Raphael the Cyber Husky, all four members of Team Diamond, Zira the Ruthless and Conquering Storm all sitting patiently around the table and waiting for him to speak.

"Well my glorious armada, it appears Dr. Eggman has landed back down on Mobius." purred Finitevus, "This is the perfect time for us to sneak aboard the Death Egg and set up the bombs that will claim Dr. Eggman's useless, pathetic life."

"Very good to hear my good man." said Ravage politely, his smooth gentlemanly voice as rich and sophisticated as ever as he spoke.

"But of course, it's not quite the right time to blow the egg-headed geezer to kingdom come." said Raphael, "We need to de-roboticize all of Mobius first. If we just kill Eggman now, all his minions will kill us in revenge."

"Indeed Raphael, which is why I will also see to it that the Death Egg de-roboticizes Mobius BEFORE we blow it up." noted Finitevus, "Our good friend Fiona Fox got me the Death Egg's schematics a few weeks ago and studying them closely, it annoys me to no end that the Death Egg cannot simply just fire the roboticizer, it has to be a certain height before it can fire. So we may well have to wait until Eggman takes flight again before we fire the World Roboticizer in reverse."

"Won't it be awfully risky to go in there and fly the ship yourself?" asked Fiona worriedly, "I mean, Eggman's bound to notice and he'll likely fly after you and stop you dead in your tracks."

"Eggman will not be able to best me in a battle but our entire plan hinges on the element of surprise." said Finitevus, nodding in Fiona's direction, "So no, I will not simply just go into the Death Egg and fly it myself. Rather once I've set up the bombs and set the World Roboticizer in reverse, I'll return to The Nefarious and expose us to Eggman…"

"Are you out of your %$£*ing mind?!" shrieked Scourge furiously, "I thought you said the element of surprise was what our plan hinged on! You're NOT exposing us to Eggman!"

"When you're quite finished interrupting me you flaccid minded fool, I was GOING to say that we go up into the sky a long distance away from the Death Egg and then de-cloak the ship. The Death Egg will then follow us into space and once it's there, we will wait for Eggman to fire the roboticizer wave at us. We'll use a Chaos Control to get out of the way and Eggman will de-roboticize the entire planet for us. He'll blame the entire thing on a glitch in the systems, caused by me that is." explained Finitevus, "Then we cloak ourselves again so Eggman won't find us and once Sonic gets onboard the Death Egg to fight Eggman to the death, we will blow up the Death Egg and kill Sonic and Eggman both together. As a back-up, if I'm not out of the Death Egg in twenty minutes then you may take off without me. Anything can happen and I do not want to delay The Nefarious's take off for any reason at all."

"Great idea Finny me hearty!" exclaimed Cutthroat Jim enthusiastically.

"My name is Finitevus, NOT Finny thank you very much." said Finitevus coldly, glaring at Cutthroat Jim angrily.

Cutthroat Jim shifted in his seat nervously. Captain Metal, who was sitting beside him, rolled his optic and then turned to Finitevus.

"Does it really matter if we kill Eggman AND Sonic together matey?" he asked, "Mayhap it doesn't matter that much if we kill one now and the other later?"

"I agree with you Captain Metal." said Conquering Storm bluntly, "Doctor, we shouldn't hinge the plan so much on just trying to take down Eggman and Sonic both at the same time." she said, turning to Finitevus.

"You make very good points you two and yes, it does not entirely matter if Sonic does not perish along with Dr. Eggman." said Finitevus with a nod, "But it would be more pleasant if we actually killed him too wouldn't it? The plan is mostly to get rid of Dr. Eggman with the possibility of getting rid of Sonic too."

"Seems like a logical course of action honourable leader." mused Zira, nodding slowly although her face didn't really suggest she thought much to the idea, "I hope we get rid of Sonic as well as Eggman. He owes me much for my humiliation since it was he who brought Conquering Storm to me and foiled my first attempt at taking over Chun-Nan…"

Conquering Storm resisted the urge to sneer at Zira although she hid her face behind her hands so she could smirk at Zira without her realizing it. Zira did not seem to notice much to the lynx's delight.

"I sure hope we get rid of Sonic too. The meddling brat's been messing in my affairs for long enough!" moaned Lord Sycorax, "I, the great Lord Sycorax, would have been successful already if it wasn't for Sonic being such a…"

"We get it, we get it you conceited nut job now shut your pie hole!" bellowed Scourge angrily "Nobody wants to hear you idolize yourself and rant at the same time!"

"Try saying that to me when we're in a fighting arena!" growled Lord Sycorax, batting his fists together threateningly.

"Oh please, Scourge could take you any day Sycorax." snorted Fiona, "You don't have a chance against him."

"LORD! IT'S LORD SYCORAX!" thundered Sycorax in rage, "And I could take Scourge on any day you slut in vixen's clothing!"

"You three, stop this inane bickering!" snarled Conquering Storm, "The doctor did not gather us all together to argue like bratty little children!"

"Yes indeed my dear." said Finitevus coldly, "If you bicker any longer than I shall see to it that you're thrown into a cell between now and Eggman's defeat!"

"Why don't you just do it now and save us all a load of bother?" sighed the reluctant Dark Armada member Roxy the Raccoon.

She was only in the armada because Finitevus had stitched a bomb inside her head to force her to comply. Had she not had this happen to her, she would happily be somewhere else now. Fiona glared at Roxy for suggesting that Finitevus lock her, Scourge and Sycorax up now, mostly her and Scourge though.

"Watch your tone with me Roxy!" growled Fiona threateningly, "Or I'll ask Finitevus to put you back into the cell in the laboratory!"

"Easy Fiona, Roxy will mind her manners in the future." said Lennox Meers the Meerkat, glaring angrily at Roxy for her unwarranted and really cheeky remark.

Roxy just ignored Lennox, not regretting what she'd said in the slightest. Finitevus glared at the armada as if daring anybody to make another comment. When nobody said anything for a minute, he relaxed his face and sat back in his seat, pleased that the tone had calmed down now.

"Now that we're settled, is everybody in favour of the plan or do you all have a suggestion of your own?" he asked inquisitively, "Put your hands up if you're in favour of the plan to kill Dr. Eggman."

The armada members rose their hands immediately, all twelve members. There was no reason to doubt the plan at all since it was so brilliant. It was bound to work so they were all in favour of it. Finitevus smiled at the twelve raised hands all around the table.

"Very well, we have ourselves a stratagem." purred Finitevus darkly, "I'll give Dr. Eggman five minutes and then I shall put the plan into action…"

He cackled to himself as he pictured the Death Egg exploding into fragments and killing Dr. Eggman as it was destroyed by the bombs he would plant in there. It pleased Finitevus to think that he would be the one to end Dr. Eggman's life and not Sonic the Hedgehog. Sonic had had many chances to do it already and he had not taken advantage of the situation at all. As a wise man once said, if you want something done right, do it yourself. Finitevus was taking that to the extreme once his plan was ready to begin…

Queen Sally Acorn had gotten used to her new surroundings very quickly. It had been an hour since the Death Egg had landed back on Mobius and she, Bunnie and Tails had been locked up in the Sentinel Blockade so she had nothing to do but observe her surroundings and get used to the fact she was locked in a cell with no way out. Had she still had her energy blades on her than this would be easy but Mecha Sonic, a roboticized Sonic the Hedgehog, had confiscated them so Sally had no way out. Upon being locked in the cell, the heartbroken and defeated queen could do nothing but cry to herself as if hoping her tears would magically solve everything. But life was not full of miracles like that as much as Sally hated to admit it. Crying never solver anybody's problems but Sally couldn't really help herself in this depressing situation. She had to let it all out otherwise she could go mad and she would much rather keep her sanity than lose it right about now. Sanity was the only thing that would be of any use to Sally now, going insane would solve nothing and just mean that Dr. Eggman had won already. Sally would much sooner have her heart torn out of her chest and then stomped on as she died than show Eggman that he'd broken her in anyway.

As long as she was still alive and still organic, that gave her some ray of hope. There was a small chance that she could still save the day and de-roboticize all of Mobius. All she had to do was escape, get Tails and Bunnie out too and get onboard the Death Egg so they could set the World Roboticizer in reverse and save everybody. The only trouble was…how could they escape? The cell had nothing that offered an escape route of any kind and Sally was not strong enough to break down the door. Bunnie could probably break down the door but surely Eggman would have a contingency plan in mind to counter that? And Eggman said the Sentinel Blockade was inescapable, he probably means it in the worst possible way. He could be bluffing but Sally wasn't sure if she wanted to risk finding out if it really was inescapable or not. She would have to see if she would have the opportunity to explore the prison some more and find a way of escaping. She began wondering if waiting until Port was fixed might be a good idea since they could maybe avoid being roboticized and make a break for it before Port could snag them. Much too risky but Sally couldn't think of anything better to try out at this moment in time. She was willing to try out whatever she could now, no matter the risk factor. In this dark time, anything was worth trying, even if it meant putting yourself at Death's feet and begging him to take you to the afterlife. Sally hoped it wouldn't actually come to that.

Sally was suddenly snapped out of her thoughts by the sound of a keypad's buttons being pressed outside her door. Was somebody letting her out of the cell? It turned out that somebody was indeed letting her out of the cell. The cell door opened up and Mecha Sonic walked into the cell. Sally wasn't too pleased to see him for she'd much rather be seeing Sonic the Hedgehog standing before her, not a roboticized Sonic the Hedgehog. Her heart ached as she thought about how horrible it must be for poor Sonic to be trapped in this metal cage that would be a permanent prison for the hedgehog until he was de-roboticized. What made it worse was that this had happened before and now it was happening again. It must be even worse for poor Sonic in that case. Mecha Sonic stood before Sally, glaring at her sinisterly before closing the door behind him. Sally didn't even look at him.

"What do you want?" she muttered.

"Doc-tor-Egg-Man-would-like-to-see-you." droned Mecha Sonic in his heavy monotone voice. The voice just made Sally cringe for it was merely a robotical version of Sonic's normal voice, a voice she never wanted to hear again.

As the two talked, there was a slight echo resonating around the blockade. The high ceiling and narrow cell rows made the echo all the more easier to happen and the echo increased once a voice was raised

"Well tell the fat bastard that I'm not interested." said Sally coldly "I'd rather rot in this cell than see him right about now."

It would normally be considered suicide to insult a minion's master in a case like this but Sally didn't care. She'd rather show Eggman that she still had some spunk left in her than admit defeat to him. Mecha Sonic ignored Sally and he grabbed her by the arms, hauling her directly onto her feet at an unnecessarily rough force that nearly tore Sally's arms out of their sockets. Sally's shoulders screamed at the strain the yank had put on them. The squirrel was amazed that her arms were still attached to her shoulders. Sally gritted her teeth furiously and she kicked Mecha Sonic in the shin, hoping that the real Sonic wouldn't feel that too much.

"Oy, I said I'm not interested!" yelled Sally "Don't you dare yank my arms like that! I'm not coming to see him and you can't make me!"

"You-should-have-com-plied-you-ig-no-rant-wo-man." said Mecha Sonic coldly.

With that said, he picked Sally up off the floor by her neck, the squirrel squirming madly and choking for air as Mecha Sonic strangled her. Being strangled is bad enough but being strangled whilst being held off the floor made it even worse. It was like being squeezed by a pair of plies only much tougher given this was a whole metal hand clamped firmly around the squirrel's throat now. Sally tried desperately to get free but Mecha Sonic's grip was absolute. He wouldn't let go no matter what and Sally couldn't do anything about it.

"Ack…gack…let me…go…!" croaked Sally feebly, kicking Mecha Sonic as hard as she could in the stomach. The Robian didn't even flinch. It was like Sally wasn't even doing anything to her.

"You-will-come-with-me-quiet-ly-or-else-the-blood-of-Bun-nie-and-Tails-will-be-on-your-hands." threatened Mecha Sonic, tightening his grip on Sally's neck.

Sally knew full well what Mecha Sonic was talking about and that made her tremble with fear. Mecha Sonic was going to kill Bunnie and Tails if she didn't do as she was told. She couldn't sacrifice their lives like this, that would go against everything she believed in. Plus, they were her friends and she couldn't bear to lose them. Also Sonic would be devastated if he got de-roboticized and saw that he had killed Tails while he was under Dr. Eggman's control. He'd never be the same again and Sally couldn't bear to see that come to reality. She had no choice but to comply. Sally loosened her grip on Mecha Sonic's wrists.

"Fine…take me to Dr. Eggman…" she croaked.

Sally could already imagine what Eggman would do the moment she showed herself. He would likely gloat, something he did so often that he may as well have practiced it to himself in-between take-over attempts and would go out of his way to humiliate her in anyway possible. It would be a complete waste of her time and Eggman's and Sally couldn't understand why Eggman felt the need to idolize himself. It was annoying and obnoxious and a complete waste of time and effort. But Sally couldn't refuse his invitation to see him for Mecha Sonic had just threatened to kill Bunnie and Tails and Sally would sooner have Mecha Sonic kill her than sacrifice her friends' lives in a stupid act of defiance. Pleased that the squirrel had succumbed, the enslaved Robian-hedgehog put Sally back down onto the floor and released her neck. Sally let fly a violent coughing fit as she fought to get the air back into her lungs. Never again did she want Mecha Sonic to throttle her again. The moment Sally stopped coughing, she looked at Mecha Sonic.

"So what does…cough…Eggman want with me?" she asked.

"You-will-find-out-soon-en-ough." droned Mecha Sonic.

With that said, he took Sally out of her cell and led her up the corridor to see Dr. Eggman. On the second floor of the prison, Tails could hear the footsteps of Sally and Mecha Sonic echoing ominously through the high-ceiling, multi-storey blockade that housed him and Bunnie along with her from outside his cell-door. He was in cell number 5295 and was positioned about three cells on the left side of where Sally's cell was on the floor below him. He could easily distinguish the footsteps and given how much noise echoed in the blockade, he'd even been able to hear Sally and Mecha Sonic's voices although the thick cell door did muffle their voices a bit so he'd only been able to hear their voices rather than what was actually being said. But Tails didn't care about what was being said, he could work out from the fact there were metal footsteps and booted footsteps echoing through the blockade that Mecha Sonic was taking Sally somewhere and wherever it was, he didn't like to think where it could be. It was somewhere horrible no doubt, maybe even straight to Eggman so he could use Port Mk II to roboticize her! He doubted Eggman would have fixed Port in an hour but then again, he didn't know how much Silver had damaged the machine. For all he knew, Silver probably just knocked a few wires loose. Tails knew that Sally was being taken into danger and all it took really was for Mecha Sonic to just show up and take her away. He began frantically scrambling around his cell, hoping to find a way out.

"Oh no, Sally's in danger, I just know it!" he fretted, his heart racing like crazy and his breathing going rapid very quickly, "And it's Sonic who's going to be the one doing it! I can't let Eggman make Sonic hurt Sally! He'll never forgive himself for this! I've gotta get outta here and help her fast!"

He searched every inch of his featureless cell, hoping to find something, anything that could be use to get him out of the cell. Unfortunately, he couldn't find anything at all. The walls had nothing that could come loose or anything. The ceiling had no ventilation systems that he could use to crawl out of. The floor was completely smooth with nothing that could come loose either. Tails began to panic. He was hyperventilating and he couldn't control himself. He tried to force himself to calm down but he was having no such luck.

"No…no…no…there's no way out! I can't help Sally!" whimpered Tails, "Oh no…she's definitely in trouble now! Eggman's going to make Sonic hurt her or even worse, roboticize her and me and Bunnie can't do anything about it!"

He curled his legs up against his torso and wrapped his arms around them, pressing his knees against his chest and resting his head against them. Tails never usually panicked in a situation like this but he really did feel like he couldn't help himself at this time. It was mostly the fear on what was going to happen to Sally and if it would happen to him and Bunnie too. He was downright terrified and Tails couldn't control himself. He was shaking like pennies being rattled in a money box he was so frightened.

As for Bunnie, she was on the third floor and was positioned five cells on the right side of Sally's cell on the bottom floor and seven cells away from Tails who was just on the floor below her. She had heard the same things Tails had heard only because of the echo and the fact she was higher up than Tails, it had sounded louder to her. Plus, her hearing was better than Tails's was. She had actually managed to make out some words that were being said and she didn't like what she'd heard. Mecha Sonic had come for Sally and he was taking her to meet Dr. Eggman. Bunnie knew instantly that meant something terrible and that Sally needed help and she needed it fast. Bunnie got up onto her feet and pressed her hands against the door. She'd already searched her cell multiple times and found no way out of the cell so she was going to try and break the door down.

"Hold on Sally-girl, ya'll ain't gonna be harmed by Dr. Eggman on mah watch!" she declared.

Bunnie pushed on the door with both hands, using all the strength she had in her arms to push on the door. She was hoping her strength would be enough to force the door open. Bunnie gritted her teeth tensely and grunted with effort as her organic right arm and her metal left arm both worked in unison to apply heavy pressure on the door. But despite the Rabbot's strength, she couldn't make the door budge. Bunnie reasoned with herself that maybe she would eventually break the door down if she kept on pushing and didn't relent. Bunnie continued what she was doing, hoping to eventually push the door of its hinges and free herself. She daren't imagine what Sally must be going through right now as she was trying to break out…

As for Sally, she had been taken to another room in the Sentinel Blockade. This room was not another blockade of cells but rather a huge, darkly lit room with a single white light in the ceiling. There were metal spheres that lay on the floor and they looked like they could open and close. They were meant to do that for a reason and Sally would soon find out what that reason was. There were laser generators protruding from the ceiling like telescopes extending out to get a close look at what was below them. Sally thought of this place being more like a dungeon than a prison cell compared to the cell blockade and immediately she was wanting to go back to her cell. She didn't like it here at all, something about the room gave her bad nerves. Why had Mecha Sonic taken her here? And where was Dr. Eggman? Mecha Sonic said Dr. Eggman wanted to see her so… where was he? Sally couldn't see him anyway and that obfuscated her to no end.

"Where's Dr. Eggman? I thought he wanted to see me?" asked Sally curiously.

"He-will-be-here-short-ly." droned Mecha Sonic, "In-the-mean-time, I-need-to-pre-pare-you-for-his-meet-ing-with-him."

"What, does he expect me to put on a fancy dress as if I'm out to dinner with him or something?" snorted Sally.

The answer was more shocking than she possibly could have anticipated. Mecha Sonic didn't even answer her with words, more with actions. He reached out to Sally and he proceeded to rip her vest clean off. Sally was a little surprised but she assumed Mecha Sonic was maybe going to dress her up in something of Eggman's choice. The actual intention of Mecha Sonic was quite the opposite. After taking her vest off, Mecha Sonic proceeded to take Sally's blue and white sports bra off and just carelessly dump it on the floor as if it was litter. Sally felt a little embarrassed but not as embarrassed as one would normally feel since she wore very little when she was younger and when she was an early teen. But Mecha Sonic didn't stop. He then proceeded to grab Sally's shorts and undo her belt. He took the belt off and then proceeded to pull the shorts down her slender, smooth legs. Once he reached the feet, he made Sally raise them up one at a time as he took the shorts off. Then finally, he took Sally's boots off and lay them down on their sides beside her discarded clothes. Sally blushed bright red. Mecha Sonic had stripped her naked. Mobians tended to have a dress code consisting of little clothing, lots of clothing or even no clothing so this was not inappropriate or unusual for a Mobian to be nude. But Sally had been used to being clothed the way she was for so long that to be suddenly undressed felt a bit uncomfortable for her, even if she used to wear very little. What was worse was that Mecha Sonic didn't even offer any new clothes for her to wear, he just led her over to the metal spheres on the floor. Mecha Sonic didn't even seem to show any remorse for his actions. Sally began to wonder what the real Sonic would think to the fact he'd just stripped her naked against his own will. He wouldn't be pleased at all if he had his freewill on him. Mecha Sonic stood Sally under the laser generators and he clamped a sphere each around her hands. They felt a little heavy and Sally fought to keep them from pulling her down onto the floor. Mecha Sonic the walked over to the left wall and pressed a red button that activated the laser generators. The generators emitted blue, lightening shaped lasers that attached to the spheres around Sally's hands and pulled them up, raising Sally's arms up and out to the side. Sally's arms were now in a "two o'clock" position but it didn't stop there. The lasers lifted Sally up off her feet, causing a massive strain to floor through her arms and make Sally wince in terrible pain. Her arms were closer to a "one o'clock" position now. Sally grimaced, fighting off the strain that her arms were going through in order to carry her weight. She was restrained, obviously for some purpose and she was also nude. Eggman was obviously intending to humiliate her. Sally glared at Mecha Sonic, her cheeks red with a mixture of embarrassment and anger.

"OK Sonic, what's the big idea?" asked Sally crossly "Why has Eggman ordered you to do this to me?"

She grunted as she struggled in her binds. Mecha Sonic just watched her. If he had emotions, he'd probably be enjoying watching Sally struggle helplessly in her binds for reasons one might not really understand.

"Dr.-Egg-Man-will-ex-plain-every-thing-to-you." answered Mecha Sonic flatly.

Sally was still very confused. Dr. Eggman wasn't here so how could he explain everything to her? Then she found out what Mecha Sonic was on about. Dr. Eggman wasn't here in person but he was here in a different way. Mecha Sonic stood to the side as a television screen began to descend from up in the cieling and lower down just in front of Sally, switching on and bathing her body in a white glow that dazzled her for a moment. As her eyes adjusted to the glow, the face of Dr. Eggman appeared on the screen before her. His face looked almost like somebody had painted it red but Sally had to remember that he was housed inside a life-support mech that was mostly red in colour so that's why his face looked red. Somehow the red glow made Eggman look even uglier although as far as Sally was concerned, no colour in the world could make Eggman look any less ugly. She screwed her face up as Eggman began chortling at her.

"Hello Sally, are you comfortable at all?" sneered Dr. Eggman.

"Do I LOOK comfortable?!" snapped Sally, looking up at the lasers that were holding her firmly off the floor, "Nobody could possibly be comfortable in this position!"

"In other words "No I'm not"." sniffed Eggman mockingly, "Anyway, I bet you're wondering why I've asked Mecha Sonic to bring you here now aren't you?"

"You might say I wondered." sighed Sally, rolling her eyes.

"Well now you don't have to wonder anymore." purred Eggman sinisterly, a dark look in his spectacled eyes as he prepared to speak again, "If you're wondering, it has nothing to do with Port. He's still being fixed at the moment. And besides, I want to roboticize you so why would I ask Mecha Sonic to remove your attire?" he added, taking note of Sally's nude body, "No, this is for something else entirely. I know very well that you and Sonic have an…attraction to each other."

The tone of his voice as he delivered those words made Sally shudder uncomfortably. She didn't like where this was going at all and it made her want to get free of her binds and run away as fast as possible. But that couldn't happen so Sally had to keep listening and see if the conversation would get as bad as she was dreading it would.

"So I thought why not take advantage of that attraction you two have…by having the man of your dreams break you in two?" said Dr. Eggman darkly, "Yes Sally, as you've probably guessed, I'm going to make Mecha Sonic torture you. It'll be entertaining for me to watch Sonic the Hedgehog torture his own girlfriend and it'll make your last day as a Mobian all the more horrible! You'll be BEGGING for me to roboticize you so I can put you out of your misery once Mecha Sonic's finished with you! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Sally froze in utter horror. She couldn't breathe, she couldn't even feel her own heart pounding in fear. She felt numb all over. So numb in fact that she didn't even feel the tears coming to her eyes. She couldn't believe how sick and demented Dr. Eggman was being right now. He was going to have Mecha Sonic TORTURE her for his own amusement?! Sally began to struggle furiously in her binds, trying desperately to break free so she could save herself the worst torture session of her life.

"You can't do this Eggman, please, I beg of you! Don't do it!" cried Sally frantically between struggles, "You'll regret this, I promise you that you will! Don't do it, don't do it!"

"Mecha Sonic, torture her!" ordered Eggman, "But don't kill her! I want her alive so she can be roboticized!"

"Why are you so damn evil Eggman?!" Sally screamed at the top of her voice.

"I do not have to explain myself to an impudent rodent like you." said Dr. Eggman coldly.

He remained silent but still had his trademark toothy grin on his face as Mecha Sonic strode forward with his hands crackling menacingly with brilliant but deadly blue electricity. Sally cringed in fright. Mecha Sonic was going to be very brutal in his torture, she just knew it. And the worst part was, it was Sonic himself doing this to her and he had no control over this robot body that he was trapped in. If Sonic ever got de-roboticized, he would never forgive himself for this horror. He would be torturing his own girlfriend and he was helpless to stop himself. Sally's eyes streamed with tears of fright as Mecha Sonic raised his hands and prepared to plant themselves on her body. The squirrel squirmed like a dog in a cage.

"No Sonic, please, no!" she whimpered, "Don't hurt me, please! You would never hurt me Sonic! You're not Eggman's mindless lackey! You're Sonic the Hedgehog, my hero and my boyfriend! You're the hero of Mobius! Please don't do this! You're not Eggman's minion! Fight his control! FIGHT IT!"

Her pleas were ultimately futile for Mecha Sonic didn't show a shred of emotion towards Sally. Sonic was not here. It was Mecha Sonic and he was programmed to blindly follow orders no matter what the order was. Sally gave up her pitiful struggling as Mecha Sonic approached her and places his hands on her sides, electricity crackling between his claws as they were placed on them. The squirrel screeched a blood-curdling howl of agony as Mecha Sonic let her have it with a terrible electrical shock that surged up her body, attacking every inch of her skin and fur and causing horrific pain that the squirrel would never be able to forget no matter how hard she tried. Sally was being brutally electrocuted but this torture hurt her in more ways than one. It was physical torture and also emotional torture. Sally was physically tortured by the electrical surge Mecha Sonic was giving her but the emotional torture came from the anguish Sally was feeling from being tortured so brutally, emotionlessly and ruthlessly by the hero of Mobius himself. Eggman couldn't possibly have made it any worse than it was now. Sally screamed and howled in pain but Mecha Sonic didn't relent, he kept his hands on her sides and continued to electrocute her. Dr. Eggman watched the entire session with a mixture of sadistic pleasure and evil joy. Sally would be broken after this and then he'd have the pleasure of roboticizing her with no resistance. Truly this was the perfect way to end Sally's Mobian life in his eyes. She would be happy to be a robot so that she could forget all about her traumatizing experience as a prisoner of the Sentinel Blockade. And Eggman would be all too happy to grant her wish…

Back in the cell blockade, Bunnie was still trying to break her cell door down. She'd been pushing on the door as hard as she could for a good few minutes now and all she'd ended up doing is making her right arm and back ache from the pressure she'd been applying on the door. Bunnie came to the conclusion that pushing the door down wouldn't work so she decided to give up and try something else. First though she sat down against the wall of her cell and waited for her breath to come back to her. Pushing on something you can't move out of the way was hot, heavy work after all and Bunnie couldn't keep trying to break out while she was worn out. Luckily, Bunnie's tremendous stamina meant that she wasn't down on her bum resting for long. Bunnie considered it most fortuitous that she had good stamina for every minute that passed meant more time for Mecha Sonic to take Sally to Eggman and presumably do something terrible to her. Bunnie only rested for a couple of minutes and she was suddenly back on her feet in no time. Bunnie knew her strength wasn't enough for the door, so she instead decided to use something else.

"Alright little cell door…let's see ya'll fight against mah cannon…" said Bunnie, a devious, confident smile spreading out across her face.

Bunnie stood at the back of the cell so her cannon blast would have more time to build up to its full power. Pressing her back firmly against the wall, she pointed the cannon at the cell door and charged up a shot. She then closed her eyes and fired a terrific cannon blast at the door. The blast punched into the door and tore it straight out of its sockets. The door was thrown straight across the room and crashing into another cell on the opposite side. Tails heard the commotion outside and he leaped up into the air in alarm. What was going on out there? Was somebody banging against the doors for no reason? He soon found out for Bunnie flew out of her cell, relieved to be free at last and she hovered down to Tails's cell and punched the keypad beside the door to pieces. With the keypad broken, there was nothing that could lock the door anymore. Bunnie slid her fingers in the gap between the door and wall and she pulled it open with all her might. She grunted loudly as she pulled the door open. Tails leaped up into the air with joy as he saw the beautiful Southern Belle pulling open his cell door. He hadn't expected this at all but he was by no means disappointed that this was how he was going to get out of his cell. He'd been panicking because he couldn't find a way out but now Bunnie had freed him, he didn't need to panic anymore.

"Yay! We're free!" squealed Tails delightedly, "Oh Bunnie, well done! How did you manage to escape your cell?"

"Let's just say Eggman needs to build a door that can withstand mah laser cannon." gloated Bunnie, "Now then Tails, we need to get goin'! Ah heard Mecha Sonic and Sally-girl talkin' together outside mah cell! Ah think Mecha Sonic's takin' Sally-girl to be tortured or somethin'!"

"I began dreading that thought too!" exclaimed Tails, "We need to find her and now! Come on, let's go!"

"Ah'm way ahead of ya sugah!" yelled Bunnie.

She flew down onto the floor and ran to the blockade entrance with Tails flying after her. Unfortunately just as it seemed things were looking up for the two…they didn't get very far. Bunnie and Tails screeched to a halt as a group of Robians suddenly leaped out of nowhere and blocked the entrance, standing before Bunnie and Tails menacingly. There were all the roboticized Royal Fighters from Team New Mobotropolis to Team Chun-Nan to Team Adabat and Team Nekronopolis and they even had Team Megapolis joining them too. Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx and Kiara the Cheetah were amongst the roboticized victims too and they stood before Bunnie and Tails as Mecha Dark and Mecha Kiara. There was also Mecha Shadow and Mecha Rouge to boost up their numbers. Mecha Shadow looked the scariest of all the roboticized Mobians in the room right now and that might mostly be because of his prodigious power and the fact Shadow looked scary anyway so a Robian Shadow was bound to look equally as frightening. All the Mecha-Royal Fighters stood before Bunnie and Tails, their claws bared and their optics staring darkly at them. Bunnie and Tails stood back nervously as Mecha Matilda pointed at them.

"Did-you-real-ly-think-your-es-cape-would-be-that-easy?" she droned in a voice that somehow managed to make an emotional tone sounding almost like a sneer despite how emotionless the Robians were.

"It's all our friends!" shrieked Tails, "They must have been lying in wait for us!"

"Ah had a nasty feelin' our escape was too easy sugah…" muttered Bunnie, "Eggman ain't kiddin' when he says this place is inescapable. Ah think it might just be!"

"This-place-is-in-es-cape-able." droned Mecha Shadow confidently, "And-we-are-here-to-prove-that."

"The-mo-ment-you-broke-your-door-down-we-were-alert-ed-by-an-a-larm-sys-tem-that-our-mas-ter-in-stalled-to-en-sure-that-we-would-get-there-in-time-to-pre-vent-you-from-es-cap-ing." added Mecha Blaze, "Get-back-in-your-cells-and-make-this-easy-on-your-selves." she ordered menacingly.

"No chance of that!" growled Bunnie, "Ah'm not gettin' back in mah cell, no dang way! Ah'm gettin' outta here and ah'm gonna save Sally-girl from Mecha Sonic and then ah'm gonna help save Mobius from Eggman's tyranny!"

"Eggman's reign of terror is over! Stand aside and we won't have to hurt you!" yelled Tails bravely.

The Robians instead charged towards Bunnie and Tails, their intentions nothing more than to beat them to a pulp and force them back into their cells. Bunnie and Tails reacted instantly and they charged towards the Robians. This was a battle that they had to win. Otherwise things would be getting much, MUCH worse for them and they couldn't afford that. Tails and Bunnie were frightened but they knew that they had to do this for their own good. Yelling loudly, the Rabbot and fox threw their first attacks at the Robian army…

Meanwhile on the Death Egg, a warp ring opened up in the Egg-Bunker section of the Death Egg. When the Death Egg had been built, the top of the ship had been built around the Egg-Bunker so when the ship took off, the Egg-Bunker was taken with it. That ended up being costly on Eggman's part though for Dr. Finitevus had managed to get onboard the Death Egg thanks to this. He'd been in the Egg-Bunker with Dr. Eggman on many occasions and thus, he could visualize the Egg-Bunker and warp onto the Death Egg with his golden warp rings. Finitevus had known the Egg-Bunker would be in the Death Egg thanks to the plans Fiona had stolen for him long ago. The plans clearly showed the Egg-Bunker being part of the Death Egg so he knew how he would get onto the Death Egg without having to try and visualize it without knowing what it's like on the inside. It was amazing how such a tiny detail would end up being so costly for Dr. Eggman right now. Had the Egg-Bunker not been on the Death Egg then Finitevus wouldn't be onboard right now.

Finitevus looked around cautiously to make sure he wasn't seen or anything. There was nobody around. Dr. Finitevus was all alone in this room. Finitevus screwed his face up, not at all pleased to be back in the Egg-Bunker for he considered it to be a hideous environment and a terrible environment for science. He considered The Nefarious a much better place to be based in. But Finitevus didn't keep his disgust up for long for he knew he wouldn't see it for much longer. He'd destroy this room along with the rest of the Death Egg when he set the ship to blow. Finitevus could already see the explosion tearing its way through the Death Egg and ripping it apart from the inside out. Finitevus looked into his cloak pocket to have another glance at the bombs he had taken with him to blow up the Death Egg. He had four bombs the size of a rugby ball, all steel-cased and extremely powerful. One bomb could blow up half the Death Egg alone so four would be more than enough to destroy it. But Finitevus wasn't going to destroy it yet. He had other things to do. Since the coast was clear, Finitevus ran over to a nearby elevator and he opened it up. The doors slid open and Finitevus walked inside. The elevator closed and it took him down deeper into the Death Egg. Finitevus had remembered how he needed to retrieve the Master Emerald from Dr. Eggman. He had come to Angel Island hoping to steal it with Team Diamond helping him but instead, Team Diamond had failed and Dr. Eggman had gotten away with the Master Emerald. Finitevus had managed to get the Chaos Emeralds at least, meaning that with no Chaos Emeralds of any kind to keep the island afloat, Angel Island had fallen to the ground and broken to pieces. Finitevus didn't want the Master Emerald remaining in Eggman's care since Eggman didn't really need it (or at least in his eyes he didn't). He needed it more than Eggman did and he was going to take care of that now. The elevator finished descending down into the Death Egg and Finitevus exited the elevator the moment the doors opened up. The evil albino echidna grinned happily at what he had stepped into. He was in the Death Egg's power core chamber. The power core chamber was huge and it was holding the Master Emerald in the centre of the room with two metallic structures holding it in place. Noticeably, the Master Emerald's energy wasn't really feeding into the Death Egg or anything, it was just standing there and looking grand. The power core chamber was unguarded. Finitevus was baffled at this but he squared his shoulders casually and strolled up to the Master Emerald.

"All too easy…" he mused to himself, "And now the Master Emerald ends up in my care…ha, ha, ha…with your help Master Emerald, Operation: Enerjak Reborn will not fail…"

Finitevus rubbed his hands together greedily and then summoned a warp ring to his hand. He flicked it over his shoulder and the caped scientist grabbed the Master Emerald as a huge portal opened up in the middle of the warp ring. Finitevus strained as he picked up the Master Emerald and pushed it through the warp ring. He had warped it from the Death Egg and into the cargo hold of The Nefarious . He then proceeded to close up the warp ring behind him, preventing any chance of the Master Emerald returning to the Death Egg. Finitevus now had all the Chaos Emeralds on Mobius. All eight currently existing Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald. His plan was on the verge of beginning now and he hadn't even started it yet. Grinning excitedly, Finitevus then reached into his cape and took out the bombs. The bombs had strong magnets on them so they could attach to the metal surface of the Death Egg's interior. Finitevus attached all four bombs to where the Master Emerald had been moments before. Satisfied, he switched them on so that once he got back on The Nefarious , he could press the detonator button he had back on the ship and set them off. The bombs weren't timed or anything, giving Finitevus all the time in the world to activate them. Now the bombs were set and ready to explode, Finitevus had one more thing to do. He warped himself back up into the Egg-Bunker to save himself an unnecessary elevator ride since he didn't need one again. The insidious scientist stepped out of his warp ring and put it back onto his arm, fuming as he found himself in the Egg-Bunker once again. But he had every reason to be here right now, it was for the next part of this plan. Finitevus ran over to the main computer of the Egg-Bunker and he began taping on the keys.

"Now then to set the World Roboticizer in reverse…" he mused to himself, "This should be a snap. Ha, ha, ha…Eggman won't know what's hit him…"

The cloaked villain glanced at the screen as he began to access the Death Egg's hard drives and began searching for the World Roboticizer's programming. All he had to do was change the programming to de-roboticize and then he could lure the Death Egg into space and have it fire down onto Mobius. But then Finitevus had a terrible thought. What if Dr. Eggman used a smaller wave so he would only roboticize The Nefarious and his armada if he hit it? He needed the big colossal wave that Eggman had used to roboticize Mobius in order to de-roboticize the entire world. Maybe he could make sure that Eggman used the right size of wave. Finitevus could see to it that when Eggman fired the roboticizer wave, it would be the size he needed it to be in order to de-roboticize the entire planet. Finitevus began working away as fast as he could on the computer, his fingers dancing around the keyboard as if his hands were doing some kind of tap dance from one key to another. His scientific and very prodigious brain was working at maximum speed and deciphering the right actions that Finitevus needed to take in order to get the setting she needed. It surprised the nefarious doctor that he could understand human science so well. It was so very similar to his own scientific skills. Maybe human science and Mobians science were very similar if not the same. Finitevus sure found himself being interested in studying human science if he ever got the chance. But not right now since he was focusing on getting rid of this one human now and he doubted that Mobius would receive another human visitor after Eggman. Shaking his head, Finitevus focused back onto his work. He'd nearly done with his settings. He'd set the roboticizer in reverse and he was now setting the wave at the right size. It was at the worldwide size of wave at the moment but Finitevus was setting the wave so that it couldn't change size no matter what. He was deleting certain files that made the action possible. After doing that, the wave would be stuck at the one size it was on and never be able to alter again. Finitevus really was pleased to see that everything was going so well for him so far. Dr. Eggman was as good as dead now. Finitevus finished what he was doing and he grinned like a fiend to himself.

"That's that done. Now Eggman's precious Death Egg will undo everything he built it to do and then go up in flames…" purred Finitevus darkly.

He turned away from the computer…and found himself staring directly into the eyes of Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally! They were on patrol in the Death Egg to make sure there were no security breaches and they had come up into the Egg-Bunker to see if everything was alright. To their surprise, Dr. Finitevus was here in the Egg-Bunker and presumably snooping around in a place where he didn't belong. Metal Sonic had his claws bared and Mecha Sally deployed her arm blades. The two were ready to dissect Dr. Finitevus piece by piece just for trespassing here. Finitevus showed no signs of being frightened by the two robots. His face remained straight as the two prepared to attack him.

"Oh dear, I'm sorry. Did I miss my roboticization appointment?" said Finitevus innocently, putting on the most obviously fake sweet voice ever put on by anybody, "I guess I should allow myself to be taken to Dr. Eggman to be roboticized…"

He then proceeded to lunge at the two robots with a blinding speed and fury beyond anything remotely possibly for any Mobian. Finitevus had no desire to be taken alive by the two robots and he would happily fight them to the death if he had to. Like Bunnie and Tails, Finitevus was now fighting for his life and it was going to be a tough fight indeed…

The escape from the Sentinel Blockade isn't going awfully well...will the heroes win? Or are they just delaying the inevitable?

Tune into the next chapter as we set up the final stage for Chapter 200 next time with Eggman Empire Part 4...

As for you R4L1K, I don't know how the private messaging thing works so I'm answering your question here. Who'd win between Sonic and Mecha Sonic? Nobody, because it can't happen. Mecha Sonic is a roboticized Sonic so how can Sonic fight Mecha Sonic since in a way, he IS Mecha Sonic?

Eggman Empire Part 4

Story 199: Eggman Empire Part 4: End of the Empire

It is a common occurrence in life for somebody to "have the time of their life". Many people would say "I've had the time of my life" after experiencing something so magical, so amazing and so unforgettable that it truly does feel like the time of their life in their eyes.

Dr. Ivo "Eggman" Robotnik, enemy of Mobius and human exile was one of those people. He was definitely having what many would consider to be the "time of his life". And given the current events that had been unfolding as time went by, it wasn't hard to see why he was having the time of his life. He'd managed to build himself the ultimate weapon, the Death Egg after a long hard month of planning and construction work and thanks to building fake refuelling stations to slow the Royal Fighters down, he'd launched it without them trying to stop him from doing so. Once the Death Egg had launched, he'd taken it up into space and proceeded to do the unthinkable… roboticize all of Mobius. Since he'd done it once before, Sonic the Hedgehog and friends didn't suspect that he would do it again. A costly oversight on their part indeed. Eggman had initially missed the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters but he'd quickly remedied that by roboticizing them one by one with his portable roboticizer robot Port Mk III. He sadly failed to roboticize all of them though, Silver the Hedgehog had broken Port before he could roboticize Sally Acorn, Tails the Fox and Bunnie Rabbot so there were only three Mobians left. But Eggman didn't need to worry about that at all. He'd put Sally, Bunnie and Tails into the Sentinel Blockade, a prison that was solely built for the purpose of holding any Mobians in case he failed to roboticize them and needed to contain them for the time being. The prison was said to be inescapable and Eggman was very confident in that belief which is why he showed no concerns for Sally, Bunnie or Tails escaping from the prison.

And as of this moment, he was having fun with one of his prisoners and that was Queen Sally Acorn herself. Because he had Mecha Sonic on his side once again, he wanted to take advantage of that little turnabout by having Mecha Sonic strip Sally completely nude and then torture her. Sally was hanging off the floor by metal spheres clamped around her wrists and held aloft by laser generators in the ceiling. Now Mecha Sonic had his hands on Sally's sides and he was electrocuting her as violently as he possibly could. Eggman had been marvelling in the time he'd spent watching Sally get electrocuted and hearing her scream in agony. This was his idea of fun and he was enjoying every minute of it. He could watch this all day if he wanted to but he knew it had to end soon. He wanted to roboticize Sally so he didn't want Mecha Sonic to kill her, just torture her very badly. Still, this bit of horror was very enjoyable for him. Eggman had been savouring every moment of his worldwide victory and he hoped that it would never end. He'd finally conquered Mobius, he'd won the war that he'd been fighting for two years going on three now and most of all, nobody in the world had a chance against him. Soon after the last three Mobians were made part of his Robian army, he would then take the Death Egg to his home planet, Earth, and then roboticize that world too. Mobius and Earth would be the perfect robot paradises for him to rule over. He'd made it his life's ambition to prove that robots were superior to people and Mobius and Earth would be his two examples. And no matter what happened now, nobody would be able to undo his hard work. The Death Egg truly was his greatest weapon ever and it had given him the ultimate victory…

Eggman laughed delightedly as Mecha Sonic gave Sally another painful round of electrocution. Eggman himself was inside the Death Egg and watching the whole thing via a big computer monitor in the main control room. It was like being at a cinema for Eggman only there was one big seat for him to sit him and only he was watching. All the worker robots were just keeping the ship running and ready for when it took off again. As for the torture session, Mecha Sonic had placed one hand on Sally's belly and another on her back this time, giving Sally an excruciating amount of pain on both front and back. Sally howled even louder in pain as Mecha Sonic let her have it, not once relenting or showing any signs of mercy. The squirrel writhed around as her body was attacked by the electricity and every surge that went up and down her body made the pain worse and worse. If Sonic was himself now, he'd likely be crying at what Eggman had forced him to do. Mecha Sonic kept up the horrible torture for a couple of minutes before stopping and giving Sally a moment to catch her breath. The squirrel's head flopped down, her eyes streaming with tears of pain and anguish and her mouth dropped open as he gasped and panted for breath. Every pause between shocks was relief for her but she knew that it would continue again shortly so she couldn't enjoy the relief of not being shocked for long. However, this could be the end of the torture for Mecha Sonic suddenly stared at Sally's pained body and started analyzing her. He ran a quick scan over Sally's body and came to a quick conclusion, a conclusion that Eggman was already expecting.

"Read-ings-in-di-cate-that-the-wo-man-is-in-crit-i-cal-con-dit-ion." reported Mecha Sonic, "Heart-beat-sig-na-ture-is-very-weak. Not-rec-om-men-ded-to-con-tin-ue-tor-tur-ing-sess-ion-un-less-you-want-the-squirrel-wo-man-dead-Doc-tor-Egg-man."

"Yes…please…no…more…" croaked Sally weakly, "Please… don't…shock…me….again…"

She followed her sentence with a violent, throaty cough that made it sound like she was trying to hack her own lungs up. Dr. Eggman could see that Sally was clinging onto whatever life she had left and he didn't want to kill Sally so he agreed with Mecha Sonic that it was best not to give her another round. As the saying goes "All good things must come to an end". It was fun while it lasted as far as Eggman was concerned. Shrugging the chunky metal shoulders of his mech suit, Eggman sighed and gave his verdict.

"I agree Mecha Sonic, I think Sally's had enough now." he said casually, "Just leave her hanging around if you will." he added with a childish snicker.

Making puns can sometimes make people groan but using a pun to make fun of somebody's current position made it even worse. Sally mustered up whatever strength she had left in her body to glare at Eggman for his bad joke. Even then, it took great effort to make the muscles in her face perform such a function. Eggman ignored her.

"Look at you now Sally, so broken and so defeated…and all it took was your own boyfriend being turned into a robot and made to torture you under my own orders." crooned Eggman, "How does it feel?"

Sally refused to answer the question. She wanted to show Eggman that she still wasn't quite broken yet even though she felt that way. She just glared at Eggman as if trying to say everything she could to him in one facial expression. That face she had now clearly said "Get stuffed" to him. Eggman was a little disappointed that the tortured queen wasn't answering him but he didn't let it bother him.

"I bet it feels awful, you don't need to answer." he said casually, "Now then, you'll stay as you are until Port Mk III is fixed. Then you will be the first out of the three of you to be roboticized. You know since there's a while left until Port Mk III is fixed, maybe I could let Mecha Sonic torture Tails and Bunnie too…"

That little suggestion made Sally gasp in horror. As if making Sonic torture her was bad enough, he was suggesting the possibility of letting him torture Tails and Bunnie too?! Sally knew Eggman was sick and twisted but she had no idea the rotund scientist was THAT demented!

"N-no…please…don't…hurt them…!" pleaded Sally, "You've… done….enough...please…leave…them…alone!"

"They're my prisoners along with you Sally so I decide what I do with them." growled Eggman menacingly, "And I say…"

His voice was rudely cut off by a loud blaring alarm that made him leap about a foot out of his seat in surprise. Sally began to wonder what was happening. Had the twin-tailed fox cub and the cyborg rabbit broken out of their cells? The squirrel queen would soon find out for Eggman pressed a button on the side of his chair and barked furiously.

"What was that alarm about?!" he demanded.

"We have an intruder in the top floor of the Death Egg." reported an Egg-Pawn who was on duty at one of the computer monitors, "Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally are engaging the intruder now."

"I'll be up there to deal with it immediately!" barked Dr. Eggman, "So sorry Sally, it appears my ship has an intruder. I'll be back soon, don't worry."

Sally just frowned. The alarm wasn't about Tails and Bunnie escaping after all. But then she began to wonder. How could there be an intruder onboard the ship if all of Mobius except her, Tails and Bunnie was roboticized? Maybe Tails and Bunnie HAD escaped their cells and were on the Death Egg right now? But the Egg-Pawn had said intruder, NOT intruders so there could only be one intruder in there. Who was it? And who could it be? Maybe somebody else had avoided being roboticized after all? That gave Sally some hope. MaybeMobius would be saved after all. Sally watched as the screen in front of her went static and then switched off. It ascended back up into the ceiling, leaving Sally alone with her roboticized boyfriend and unable to do anything about her current situation. Mecha Sonic stood beside Sally and he placed his metal claws over the heart side of her chest.

"Do-not-try-any-thing-fool-ish-or-I-shall-tear-out-your-heart. Do-you-com-pre-hend?" he droned menacingly.

"Sonic…I can't…do…anything…about…my current…situation…" grunted Sally "I'm…too…weak…to…do…anything…"

She coughed again. The torture had been so horrible and so life-draining that just talking was a challenge for her now. Mecha Sonic believed Sally for his scans registered that Sally was indeed very weak. He had no reason to worry about her. But just for the fun of it, he placed his claws on Sally's belly and slashed it, leaving four bloody cuts across her belly. Sally cried out in pain and tried to hold it in as the cuts began to sting. It looked like somebody had painted four blood-red stripes across her stomach only it was a lot more painful and unpleasant than that. Sally allowed her head to droop down and stare at the floor. There was no reason to keep it up any longer. She closed her eyes and began praying that the Death Egg's mysterious intruder would save her and all of Mobius. The intruder on the Death Egg was literally Mobius's only hope now…

…but if Sally knew who the intruder really was, she'd really doubt if this Mobian being her only hope was a good thing or not. The intruder was in fact Dr. Finitevus, Knuckles's treacherous uncle and a scheming chessmaster of a villain who's scientific knowledge and insane battle prowess made him one of Sonic's deadliest enemies to date. Dr. Finitevus had been plotting to kill Dr. Eggman for a long time now and after gathering together his own army of mercenaries known as "The Dark Armada", the albino echidna had snuck aboard the Death Egg to take care of Dr. Eggman at long last. He'd planted bombs into the Death Egg and had set Dr. Eggman's World Roboticizer in reverse so that when Eggman fired it again, it would de-roboticize all of Mobius and return it to normal, just right for Finitevus's perfect vision for Mobius. He couldn't execute his grand plan Operation: Enerjak Reborn if Eggman was in charge so he had to go. But unfortunately for the caped villain, Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally had picked the rather inconvenient moment to show up and make his escape all the more difficult. They were two of Eggman's strongest enemies and even though Finitevus could easily best Sonic and Sally in a fight, he knew that these two robots would give him a hard time. Another worrying factor was stamina. Finitevus had good stamina but Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally would be able to last longer than him easily. Robots don't get tired so Finitevus knew he couldn't let this go on for too long. If it did, Finitevus would likely tire out and Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally would take him down. So Finitevus was focused solely on one thing…make it out alive in this battle.

Finitevus struck the first blow, catching Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally completely off guard with a surprising agility that they assumed only a machine could ever manage successfully. He grabbed both robots by their neck sockets and he tossed him across the room with a strength that couldn't be natural for a Mobian. That's because Finitevus wasn't all natural. He'd aggrandized himself with Chaos Energy and strict training over the years, hench why he could take on the Royal Fighters without breaking much of a sweat. They had been getting wise to his tactics though and Finitevus had ended up getting hit more often but Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally had never met Finitevus before so they had no idea what they were up against. Finitevus had fought against both Sonic and Sally so he was already familiar with his opponents. Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally both crashed into the wall after being thrown into it by Finitevus. They were back on their feet no sooner had they fallen down to the floor and the two robot copies braced themselves for another attack. Finitevus lunged at Metal Sonic once again at an alarming speed. Despite not being in a battle for a long time, Finitevus had been training vigorously in his spare time so he was still the deadly fighter he always was. The albino scientist grabbed Metal Sonic in a chokehold and the robot Sonic clone had to fight hard against Finitevus to keep his head from being torn out of its socket. Mecha Sally lunged at Finitevus with her energy blades but Finitevus spun around and held Metal Sonic in place, leaving him in the line of the robot squirrel's attack. Metal Sonic however activated the defence barriers in his arms and blocked Mecha Sally's attack, saving his female accomplice from chopping him up by accident. Furious that his plan didn't work, the warp-ring wielding echidna kicked Metal Sonic directly into Mecha Sally, the metal robot knocking Mecha Sally off her feet and slamming her down against the floor. Metal Sonic stood back up and he spun around to face Finitevus. He spin-dashed Finitevus and slammed him against the wall. The golden-eyed menace coughed loudly as he was slammed but he didn't take very long to recover. Aside from rubbing his stomach better and fighting off the pain, he was back on his feet in no time and he put his hands on Metal Sonic's shoulders. Pushing himself up into the air with his feet, he flipped over Metal Sonic's head whilst still holding his shoulders and as he landed behind Metal Sonic, he picked him up and through him across the room, his muscles working effortlessly against the weight of his opponent as he performed that motion. Metal Sonic hurled into the main computer and he crashed into the screen, the metal marauder making a mechanical noise of pain as he hit the screen. A web of cracks spread across the screen, a sign of just how hard Metal Sonic was. The cracks became so bad that the screen shattered to pieces. Finitevus could imagine Eggman wouldn't be using that anymore. Mecha Sally crept up behind Finitevus and she lunged at him with her energy blades. Finitevus spun around and dodged the attack. He was totally confident in this battle, not the least bit worried or scared. He could match Sonic's entire team so this was nothing to him. After dodging the attack, he manoeuvred himself behind Mecha Sally and he grabbed her by the arms. He yanked on her arms, pulling her towards himself and Finitevus slammed his foot into Mecha Sally's back. The Chaos Energy in his body cushioned much of the pain he should have been feeling from kicking so vigorously against solid metal. The kick threw Mecha Sally forward but her arms didn't tear out of their sockets. Finitevus would succeed if he kept at it though.

"Let's see how useful you are with no arms…" purred Finitevus sinisterly.

He kicked against Mecha Sally again, the robot Sally clone's optics screwing up in pain as her arms were yanked backwards and her body was kicked forwards. But Finitevus didn't get the chance to render Mecha Sally with no arms for Metal Sonic rushed in and spin-dashed Finitevus in the side, throwing him across the room and into a control panel. Finitevus took a moment out of the battle to ease the pain in his body that had flared up from the impact and he pulled himself back onto his feet. Metal Sonic ran towards Finitevus but the echidna moved out of the way, leaving Metal Sonic to crash into the control panel. Finitevus stood behind Metal Sonic and pressed his hand against Metal Sonic's head. He slammed it against the control panel as hard as he possibly could, bending Metal Sonic's nose in the impact so now Metal Sonic looked like his nose had been flattened against his face with a sledgehammer. Metal Sonic pushed Finitevus away and he spun around on his heel hoping to claw him across the face. Finitevus dodged and he used a warp ring to send Metal Sonic flying directly into Mecha Sally. The two robots were sent sprawling across the floor. Finitevus was about to use a warp ring to get away until suddenly, the door opened up and in burst Dr. Eggman, all his weapons primed and ready to fire. He was not at all pleased to see he had an intruder onboard his Death Egg and he was even less pleased to see that it was Dr. Finitevus who was the intruder. He hadn't seen Dr. Finitevus since the Day of Solaris and he hoped that he would do again since he still owed Finitevus that punishment for unleashing Mephiles on the world and nearly dooming it as a result. Finitevus glowered at Dr. Eggman. He'd hoped dearly that Eggman wouldn't show up and make things harder for him. Just his bad luck he supposed.

"Dr. Finitevus?!" blurted Dr. Eggman, "What in the name of Robotropolis?! How did YOU manage to avoid being roboticized?!"

"You mind your own business." snapped Finitevus, "A good villain doesn't reveal his secrets. And if you don't mind, I was just leaving."

"You're not going anywhere!" growled Dr. Eggman, keeping his weapons handy for in case Finitevus did anything that looked like an attempt to escape, "You're trespassing in my ship and you must be punished for it! I'm going to beat you black and blue and then I'm going to roboticize you! That'll more than make-up for you dodging your punishment I was going to give you for unleashing Mephiles on the world!"

"You'll have to catch me first." sneered Finitevus.

Finitevus was just about to summon a warp ring until Dr. Eggman suddenly launched a missile at him and the albino echidna was forced to run for it before the missile punched into the ground. He was amazed he actually managed to dodge the missile as he stared incredulously at the charred spot on the ground where the missile had once been. Finitevus then realized he now had a new problem. Dr. Eggman was loaded with weaponry. Not that that was a problem since he could dodge them all with ease. But the problem was if he tried to open up a warp ring. Eggman could fire at him and since he was going to warp back onto The Nefarious , he could potentially do terrible damage to the ship and maybe hurt or kill one of his Dark Armada members. Finitevus just couldn't use a warp ring with Eggman shooting at him like this. He had to distract him and he had to do it fast. Finitevus ran towards Eggman and he prepared to attack as the mad scientist began shooting at him with blazing Gatling guns that spat out bullets by the hundreds at him…

Finitevus wasn't the only one who was fighting for his life against a bunch of killer robots.

The Sentinel Blockade's two other inmates Tails the Fox and Bunnie Rabbot had broken out of their cells thanks to Bunnie's powerful weaponry but it turned out that their escape had been anticipated. An alarm system had been installed in the prison so that once the cell doors were broken down, the Robians would be alerted immediately and they could all come over to the prison and stop anybody from escaping. It had been very clever of Dr. Eggman to install that little contingency plan and it was certainly working so far. Bunnie and Tails had no choice but to fight off their roboticized fiends if they had any chance whatsoever of getting out of the Sentinel Blockade alive. It was going to be a tough one for Tails and Bunnie for they were being forced to fight their own friends. And it wasn't just the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters who were fighting against Tails and Bunnie. There were all the other Royal Fighter teams as well as Mecha Shadow and Mecha Rouge to deal with too. This was a battle that Tails and Bunnie were very sure that they couldn't possibly win and yet they knew better than to give up since there was much at stake such as their lives and Mobius's only hope for being restored to normal. Give up now and they lose everything and Tails and Bunnie couldn't possibly let that happen…

So despite knowing they couldn't possibly win this battle, Tails and Bunnie were in combat with the Robian army that blocked their only path to freedom. Tails made doubly sure that he wasn't against Mecha Cosmo or Mecha Sora. They were the last Robians he wanted to fight since he couldn't bear to fight the two most special girls in his life again. But in all honesty, none of the other Robians Tails could fight instead were really that much better than fighting Mecha Cosmo and Mecha Sora. After all, Cosmo and Sora weren't exactly the strongest Mobians around. If anything, Tails was just picking himself far worse opponents. And one of those opponents was Mecha Amy. Amy had been absent in the attempt to stop the Death Egg thanks to a wounded shoulder and thus was the first New Mobotropolis Royal Fighter to be roboticized. She had been brought here to join the rest of her roboticized friends in the battle to keep Tails and Bunnie imprisoned. Tails screamed in terror as Mecha Amy's metallic Piko-Piko hammer swung through the air and threatened to smash him to pieces. The frightened fox narrowly managed to dodge her attack by weaving to the side. Mecha Amy ended up swinging her hammer down into the floor, leaving a huge dent in it. Tails couldn't bear to imagine what it would be like if that had been his head instead of the floor. He was thankful that it hadn't been that instead. Tails swiped his tails at Mecha Amy, walloping the Robian hedgehog in the head and knocking her onto her side. At least Amy wasn't that strong when she didn't have her hammer on her. But then a much stronger opponent came in to attack Tails. The fox screamed as Mecha Rouge charged up from the ground and flew straight into him, knocking him down onto the floor vigorously. Tails began to wonder if he'd hit the floor harder than he thought he did as his body began to flare with pain. Fighting the pain in his body and gritting his teeth, Tails forced himself back onto his feet and he jumped out of the way as Mecha Rouge flew down towards him in a screw-kick attack. Her attack left another massive dent in the floor that looked like somebody had just tried to punch that particular piece of the floor in on itself. Once again, Tails was relieved that it was the floor instead of him that got the attack.

"Man, I'd be one sorry mess on the floor if those attacks got me!" shrieked Tails, "I'd better be extra careful or I will be toast!"

He then turned his head to one side and watched as Bunnie got into a wrestling match with Mecha Knuckles. The Rabbot's head was raining with sweat and her teeth were clenched so hard that Tails was amazed they were still intact. They must surely be coming close to cracking by now! Bunnie was finding Mecha Knuckles surprisingly difficult to deal with. She knew Knuckles was strong but she didn't think he was THAT strong. But this was a roboticized Knuckles so he was likely going to be stronger than the original Knuckles. Bunnie pushed back on Mecha Knuckles as hard as she could, grunting heavily with effort. She was making her throat hoarse as she growled but she still pressed on.

"Grrr…ya'll…always…wanted to…have a strength…test…with me sugah…!" she grunted with the huge amount of effort she was putting into her push, "Well…now…let's see…who's REALLY…the strongest…out of us!"

Then suddenly, Bunnie swung her arms up and threw Mecha Knuckles's arms up into the air. This gave her the perfect opportunity to slug him in the gut with her metal arm while Mecha Knuckles's arms were out of the way. Mecha Knuckles doubled over in pain, his optics a tiny dot of surprise swimming in the black of his visor as he was punched. He was amazed how much strength Bunnie had despite being only partially a robot. Bunnie then drew her metal arm backwards and she swung it straight up into Mecha Knuckles's chin, throwing his head backwards and nearly taking it clean off his body. That made Bunnie worry for a moment since she didn't want to do that. That would kill Knuckles for good if she took his head off. But to her relief, Mecha Knuckles's head held. She didn't give him a chance to retaliate though. Bunnie drew her arm back and punched Mecha Knuckles in the gut as hard as she could. The punch was like throwing a rock at somebody's belly only much harder. Mecha Knuckles was thrown across the room by the punch and he ended up crashing into a door, causing it to buckle over and underneath him and tear straight off its hinges. Both Mecha Knuckles and the door fell backwards into the cell. Unfortunately for Bunnie, that ended up giving the Robians a hand. Mecha Matilda ran into the cell and picked up the broken down door from Mecha Knuckles's laid down body and she ran towards Bunnie with it. Bunnie frantically deployed her arm cannon but she was too late to shoot the door out of Mecha Matilda's hands. Mecha Matilda threw it at Bunnie and the Rabbot had to jump out of the way at a speed she didn't think she was capable of until now. She was a little too slow though. The door slammed against her legs just as her body sailed out of the door's way. This threw Bunnie grossly off balance and sent her skidding across the floor like a skater that's fallen onto the ice. Tails put his hands to his face in shock and he flew down beside Bunnie to see if she was alright. Bunnie was mostly unhurt. Even her legs didn't really hurt all that much thanks to them being robotic although Bunnie still felt the impact of the door from when it had hit her.

"You OK Bunnie? Can you stand up?" asked Tails worriedly.

"Ah'm fine, ah can stand sugah." said Bunnie kindly, "That might dang hurt that did! Could' a been worse ah suppose…" she murmured as she imagined what it would have been like if she'd been hit be the door while her legs were organic.

"You would likely have had your legs broken." said Tails, cringing in disgust over the horrible thought, "It's a good thing you're OK Bunnie. I won't be able to manage against all the Robians without you."

"Ah know little guy, ya'll wouldn't have a ghost of a chance against these critters." agreed Bunnie, hoping that she didn't offend Tails by saying that, "It would be like trying to wrangle a whole herd of cows with one lasso. Impossible to do and very dangerous…"

Tails knew exactly what Bunnie meant. Although in this situation, Tails thought he'd rather take the cows. The Robians all surrounded Tails and Bunnie and they began to close in on them, rounding the two together like sheep in a pen. Tails and Bunnie got up onto their feet and prepared to fight again. They knew it was suicide but they were going to do whatever it took to get away from the group. Mecha Shadow stood forward, his dark and evil looking optics glowering ominously at the two Mobians and his metal claws bared and ready to slaughter them.

"Stand-down-now." he droned in his dark, robotical voice, "Or-suff-er-the-con-se-quen-ces."

"We've worked too hard to escape sugah and we're not having ya'll undermine our efforts like this!" barked Bunnie furiously.

"We're going to save you all from being robots whether you like it or not!" screeched Tails determinedly.

He and Bunnie both flew up into the air and out of the ring of Robians that rounded them up. The Robians watched as their prey escaped their grasp and flew over them, heading towards the blockade exit. They very nearly made it but Mecha Shadow ended up teleporting directly in front of the entrance and he threw a bunch of Chaos Spears at Bunnie and Tails to make them stay back. The two Mobians flew away, dodging the Chaos Spears frantically as they came flying towards them. Bunnie deployed her force field generator and she turned around and activated it. The pink barrier that her arm emitted around her deflected all of Mecha Shadow's Chaos Spears. Delighted, Bunnie started flying towards the entrance again. Just through the door and she and Tails would be free at last. But just as Bunnie flew towards the entrance, Mecha Shadow spin-dashed straight up into her. The barrier protected Bunnie from the attack but Mecha Shadow's attack was so vigorous that the force of the attack caused Bunnie to shoot straight up into the ceiling. The barrier cushioned the impact for her but it caused a huge dent to form in the ceiling. The dent was so deep that you could fill it up with ten inches of dirt and make it into a flower bed. Bunnie switched off her force field generator and she bounded off the ceiling, flying down towards Mecha Shadow. Mecha Shadow prepared to attack but because he was looking directly up at Bunnie, he failed to notice that Tails was coming towards him. The fox flew straight into his mid-section and he slammed both feet into it. Mecha Shadow buckled over from the impact and he was whisked off his feet. Tails punched the air triumphantly, pleased and also amazed that he'd even succeeded in taking down Mecha Shadow in the first place. But his triumph was short-lived for the last two Robians he wanted to fight piled on him and pinned him down. Mecha Cosmo and Mecha Sora held Tails's arms out and they held them down with one leg each. Their other legs pinned him down by his back. Tails squirmed frantically in their grasp as Bunnie flew towards the entrance.

"Urgh! Let me go Cosmo and Sora!" cried Tails desperately, trying to get free but to no avail, "Let go of me! Bunnie help!"

Bunnie stopped dead in her tracks and she flew back towards Tails to help him out. She landed in front of the fox and she grabbed Mecha Cosmo by the arm. She hoisted Mecha Cosmo off of Tails and casually tossed her aside. Mecha Sora attempted to attack Bunnie but Bunnie delivered a callous roundhouse kick to the gut that threw her into a cell door. The cell door actually held unlike when Mecha Knuckles had crashed into one earlier although Mecha Sora did leave a noticeable dent in it. Tails got back to his feet but then he and Bunnie saw that they had something else to deal with now. Mecha Ruben had come up towards them and he had his hands aimed at them, ready to drench them with water. Bunnie was very frightened. Her robotic limbs weren't waterproof. If Ruben squirted her, her robot parts would malfunction and she'd likely be killed when they exploded. Mecha Ruben was the one Robian she couldn't get into a battle with. She deployed her force field generator quickly as Mecha Ruben squirted water at her. The water hit the barrier but did no harm to the Rabbot. But Bunnie knew she couldn't keep this up forever. Prolonged use of her robot parts tired her out and if she kept her force field generator up for too long, she would weaken and shut it off, leaving herself vulnerable to Mecha Ruben's water. But she wouldn't have to worry about that for Tails flew towards Mecha Ruben and booted him in the head, knocking him over and saving Bunnie an inevitable drenching. Bunnie once again made it for the entrance But then suddenly she was taken off her feet by something. Mecha Scott had fired an energy spear at her and it had knocked her down onto her stomach. Bunnie picked herself up and deployed her arm cannon. Mecha Scott and Mecha Jessica shot at Bunnie but Bunnie blasted their shots with her own cannon blasts. But as she fired, Bunnie could feel herself panting and sweating. She was wearing out. She needed a moment to rest. Bunnie fired a shot at the floor just before Scott and Jessica's feet and sent them flying through the air and then she dropped down on one knee, gasping for breath.

"Gasp…Tails, ah'm beginning to wear down!" panted Bunnie, "Please…cover for me…while ah catch mah breath!"

"I'll protect you as best as I can Bunnie!" yelled Tails.

The fox knew that on his own he would be hopeless but he couldn't make Bunnie go on and on otherwise she would pass out from over-use. Gulping in fear but putting on a brave face, Tails flew towards the Robian army and prepared to fight again. He hoped dearly that he would make it out alive as he tried to keep Bunnie safe until she recovered…

Meanwhile, up in the Death Egg, Dr. Finitevus was still fighting for his life against Dr. Eggman, Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally. The battle with Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally had been no problem so far but Eggman and his multiple weaponry just complicated things further. Finitevus wasn't used to fighting against multiple opponents WHILE being shot at in the midst of the battle at the same time. In a fist fight he was just fine but he couldn't really throw punches at Metal Sonic or Mecha Sally while Eggman was shooting at him too. One example came just a couple of minutes ago when Finitevus cart wheeled across the room and threw a punch at Metal Sonic but Dr. Eggman had aimed his Gatling guns at Finitevus and started shooting at him, forcing the echidna to back away and take over before he was hit. Eggman very nearly got him but Finitevus had managed to dodge all the bullets. The scientist knew that he couldn't chance another moment of dodging rapid fire bullets though, his luck would run out eventually and he was not at all interested in being killed right about now. He'd been working too hard and too long on his plans and recruiting the Dark Armada. Dr. Eggman was not about to undermine all of that for him now.

Eggman took aim at Finitevus, the crippled scientist preparing to take his head off with a missile but Finitevus summoned one of his warp rings to his hands and he used it to warp himself behind Dr. Eggman. He reappeared behind Dr. Eggman and he dropkicked the maniacal, rotund villain in the back. The life support mech that housed Eggman crashed down heavily onto the floor. Finitevus bounded off of Eggman and kicked his way through Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally as they tried to aid their master. Eggman picked himself up and he deployed his Gatling guns, pointing them directly at the caped echidna. Finitevus dived behind a computer monitor as a shower of bullets came hammering his way and he began thinking fast. He couldn't warp away from the battle in fear of Eggman shooting at the warp ring and damaging The Nefarious in the process. But he could use his warp rings in an entirely different way. Maybe he didn't have to leave the Death Egg yet…but he could make Eggman leave the Death Egg. Finitevus took a warp ring off of his wrist and he twirled it between his fingers. He waited for Eggman to come stomping his way. Eggman's heavy metal feet came clanking towards Finitevus's hiding place. Finitevus sprang into action so fast that you'd think his legs were actually springs themselves. He leaped out of his hiding place and he flicked the warp ring straight towards Dr. Eggman. The robot-craving human was so surprised at that motion that he didn't even have time to stop himself. He tumbled straight through the warp ring and found himself warped straight out of the Death Egg and outside in the thundering rain. He went from dry to wet in mere seconds and it was made even worse for Eggman when the only way back into the Death Egg quickly was sealed up behind him. Eggman fumed, water dripping down every inch of his life-support mech as the rain hammered down all over him. He ran back towards the Death Egg and began shouting for the docking ramp to be lowered so he could get back inside.

As for Finitevus, now Eggman was out of the way at last he could make a clean getaway. Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally lunged towards Finitevus like a pair of ravenous wolves leaping on an antelope but Finitevus summoned a warp ring underneath his feet, waving a mocking farewell to the two robots as they came towards him. Finitevus disappeared through the warp ring and left the two Eggman robots to just crash into the wall as they missed him. The two robots frowned at each other, not at all pleased that they'd failed to catch Dr. Finitevus. Dr. Eggman would not be very pleased with them at all…

Over onto The Nefarious , the Dark Armada was preparing to get the ship uncloaked and ready to launch for it had been twenty minutes since Finitevus had been on the Death Egg to begin his sabotage mission and he had explicitly told them that they could take off without him if they had to. But they wouldn't have to take off without Dr. Finitevus after all for the armada leader reappeared before them all in the meeting room much to their surprise. All the members of the armada were still together so Finitevus had the honour of greeting them all at once.

"Yo Finny, you're back!" cried Scourge the Hedgehog in surprise and delight, "We were just getting ready to take off without you!"

"Good timing I must say." said Fiona Fox, Royal Fighter traitor and Scourge's shameless girlfriend, "So how did the mission go? You ran into trouble I presume?"

"I ran into…some inevitable difficulties." said Finitevus casually, straightening his cape as if the fact it looked a little untidy was an insult to his pride, "But I've managed to escape in time. I guess I've been twenty minutes since you were just preparing to take off without me?"

"Oh yes, bang on twenty minutes doc." said Raphael the Cyber-Husky with a nod.

"Then I guess it's time to put the next phase of the plan into action." said Finitevus darkly, "Nefarious de-cloak and then fly up into space!" he ordered.

The Nefarious responded immediately. The sophisticated machinery which made up the ship's cockpit registered Finitevus's order and acted upon it, turning off its cloaking device and activating its engines for the big push up into space. The Nefarious was now visible for anybody around to see but they wouldn't be seeing it for long as the ship began to ascend upwards and head towards the grey, rainy sky up above. Water streamed down the fuselage of The Nefarious as it began to climb upwards, ploughing through the clouds as it headed towards the surface of Mobius. As planned, the Death Egg started to take off and climb after it. The Death Egg's scanners had picked up The Nefarious the moment it de-cloaked and Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally started manually controlling the ship from the Egg Bunker's main computer monitor. Eggman had installed that as a back-up featured in case the control room in the centre of the Death Egg was compromised. It could be controlled from the top floor as well as the centre floor. Eggman was just arriving in the centre room as the Death Egg was chasing The Nefarious. He sat down in his seat and watched on the main computer screen as The Nefarious rose up and began quickly jetting up into the sky. The scans registered that there were Mobian life forms aboard, thirty-six in total, sixteen members of the Dark Armada plus Conquering Storm's twenty ninjas. Eggman was livid. He'd missed thirty-nine Mobians, the thirty-six Mobians on The Nefarious plus the three Mobians he had locked up in the Sentinel Blockade! This was a major embarrassment on his account for he'd done EVEN WORSE than he had the first time he roboticized Mobius! That time he'd only missed five, this time he missed thirty-six! Eggman's life support mech shuddered in rage as if reacting with him. Eggman would rectify that embarrassment easily. He'd catch The Nefarious and roboticize all its occupants! The Nefarious was quite fast, way faster than the Death Egg was. Dr. Eggman knew it wouldn't be able to catch up to the evil looking ship at all. But Eggman had the perfect way to get ahead of it.

"Death Egg, activate Chaos Control!" he barked furiously.

This was his chance to use the Master Emerald's power and see just how well it did at transporting the Death Egg from place to place. Eggman cackled as he sat back and waited for the Chaos Control to activate. He waited…and waited…and waited. Eggman just assumed that it was taking a while to power up so he waited some more. But as he continued to wait, he began to wonder if anything was even happening. Eggman sat up straight and pressed a button on the arm of his chair. The screen showed him an image of the power core chamber and to his horror, he saw that the Master Emerald wasn't there! It was gone, completely! Vanished off the face of Mobius! Dr. Eggman began to go wild with rage, banging the arms of his chair in rage and shaking furiously. He couldn't believe it, he'd finally achieved his ultimate victory and yet a conga of humiliation seemed to be coming his way. First he finds out Finitevus isn't a Robian and gets outfoxed by him, then he finds out that he's missed another thirty-five Mobians in his attempt to roboticize the entire planet and now he finds out that the Master Emerald is gone! Eggman dared to think what would happen next as the conga went along. Would it take another step of humiliation for him? Eggman threw his arms up and roared furiously.

"THE MASTER EMERALD'S GONE! GONE, GONE, GOOOOOOOONE! " he roared "I bet that scoundrel Dr. Finitevus took it while he was onboard my ship! Well I'm so going to kill him when I get my hands on him! I'm going to roboticize him and then I'm going to tear him to pieces! And then…"

"Sir, I think you should look closely at this." droned an Egg-Pawn on duty.

Eggman was surprised. One of his lowly Egg-Pawns had spotted something he hadn't? That was surprising considering the Egg-Pawns weren't really built with a keen sense of detail like he had. Eggman leaned forward in his seat and he noticed on the computer screen the thing that the Egg-Pawn had noticed. There were four rugby-sized objects all attached around the power core base, the machine that had been holding the Master Emerald before Dr. Finitevus had stolen it. Eggman was very suspicious about the objects and he had a feeling he knew what they were. And the realization over what they were made his blood run cold.

"Those things must be bombs!" he cried out in alarm, "Egg-Pawns, get down to the power core chamber and dispose of those metal objects in there! I'm not going to let Finitevus blow up my Death Egg!"

Two Egg-Pawns got to work immediately. They ran over to the nearby elevator and they took it straight down to the power core chamber to dispose of the bombs. Given how high the Death Egg was already climbing, they could easily toss the bombs overboard and let them drop down onto the ground. As the Egg-Pawns were coming down to the power core chamber, Eggman switched the screen back to what was going on outside. The Death Egg and The Nefarious had cleared through the stormy, rainy clouds that shrouded Mobius in a dark, gloomy shadow of despair and they were now cruising through a clear blue sky with a bright sunshine gleaming from the side. They were very high up now if that was the case. Just a few more minutes and they would be up in space. Eggman was rather surprised at the fact The Nefarious was so obviously faster than the Death Egg and yet the Death Egg seemed to be catching up to it. Was it letting him catch up or was the ship running out of fuel? Either way, Eggman hoped that the Death Egg would be fast enough to catch up to The Nefarious so he could roboticize all its occupants and add them to his Robian army. The Death Egg thrust its engines up to maximum power and the speed of the ship dramatically increased to the point that it was beginning to overtake The Nefarious . Finitevus had been intending to go up into space so that he could let Eggman fire the World Roboticizer at the ship and then he could blow up the Death Egg in space so that if Eggman somehow survived the blast, he'd die out in space too. But unfortunately, the cloaking device had drained a lot of power from The Nefarious and slowed it down considerably. It could only manage a cruising speed now and Finitevus was getting increasingly mad and anxious at this. He knew that the Death Egg had to be at a certain height before it could fire the roboticizer wave. Were they high enough for Eggman to fire the wave? Then again, Finitevus assumed that Eggman wouldn't care how high he was as long as he fired the wave. The Death Egg climbed up above The Nefarious and the huge egg-shaped vessel positioned itself directly above the ship, ready to fire the roboticizer wave. Finitevus smiled wickedly. Eggman was going to do it regardless of height, perfect for him. And he could set the bombs off after the wave fired and give Eggman a nasty fall to deal with as well as his ship being destroyed. The Death Egg fired the roboticizer wave at The Nefarious , a huge beam of white light sailing out from underneath the ship and heading towards the malevolent Dark Armada flagship. But Finitevus was ready for it, he had already planned for how he would avoid it.

"Nefarious, Chaos Control." he ordered quietly.

The eight Chaos Emeralds were linked to The Nefarious 's main computer so that Finitevus could activate their power with a simple voice command. The eight Chaos Emeralds worked in unison as they bathed the evil ship in a glorious glow that took them away from their current position. Even though Finitevus had set the roboticizer wave in reverse, he didn't fancy the idea of The Nefarious being hit by the wave. It could destroy his most important systems and the main computer of The Nefarious since it was technically a robot of some kind. Plus Captain Metal would be destroyed if the wave hit so he had to move out of the way for the armada's own good. The Nefarious reappeared above the Death Egg in a bright flash of light. The scanners of the Death Egg displayed this to Eggman so he found out that he was going to in fact, miss his target completely.

"Huh?! W-w-wait! Abort launch!" squealed Dr. Eggman desperately.

Too late. The World Roboticizer fired its de-roboticizing wave down onto Mobius and as the beam hit, it spread out in a giant white wave that swept over the world like a giant ocean wave, covering over every inch of Mobius. Eggman was not at all pleased at this for he didn't even want to fire the wave at that size. But Finitevus's meddling had obviously seen to that. Finitevus had tampered with the World Roboticizer so that when it fired, it would ONLY fire at the world wide size it had fired at earlier. Eggman watched as his World Roboticizer wave swept all over Mobius in a matter of seconds. He began to feel himself panicking. The wave would wipe out every one of his Robian army and he only survivors would be the Mobians on The Nefarious and also the trio of captives in the Sentinel Blockade. Some army if he were to roboticize them! But then Eggman noticed something strange. As the wave swept over Mobius, the Death Egg was no longer displaying the Robians on the screen. The screen had been littered with red dots that indicated where Robians were. They were all disappearing and being replaced with green dots. Red meant the subject had been roboticized. Green meant the subject WASN'T roboticized. Eggman knew what that meant and it made him go berserk with rage. He leapt out of his seat and began peppering the ceiling with an angry array of bullets from his Gatling guns. He stamped his feet so hard that he wondered if he was going to break through the floor. The rage he had was so uncontrollable that you wouldn't be able to sedate him with tranquilizer dart. Eggman stopped shooting at the ceiling and he punched his seat so hard that he began to break it to pieces and litter the floor with the remains of the seat. He then let out a horrible bellow that sounded like a realize of all the anger in his body. Never in Eggman's life had he been so angry. He was in such a rage that anybody in his position would likely make themselves pass out. But not Eggman, he was too angry to even pass out.

"NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!" bellowed Dr. Eggman in an uncontrollable roar of thunderous fury, "NO, NO, NO, NO, NOOOOOOOO! THE WORLD ROBOTICIZIER'S BEEN TAMPERE D WITH! DR. FINITEVUS RUINED EVERYTHING! HOW DARE HE! HOW DARE HE! EVERYTHING'S RUINED! MOBIUS IS BEING DE-ROBOTICIZED! SONIC AND FRIENDS WILL BE BACK FOR ME! IT'S BACK TO SQUARE ONE AGAIN! MY GLORIOUS EMPIRE IS NO MORE! IT'S…IT'S…RRR

RRRRRRRRRAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAARR

Eggman was so furious that something happened to him. Something snapped inside of him and he ended up having a different view on the world. With his limbs shaking in rage, Eggman fell silent for a moment while he caught his breath back. He then ended up speaking again but this time, his voice was much darker and more threatening than ever before.

"Well…I guess that does it…" he murmured in a strange manner of speech that sounded like something from a horror movie, "I've been fighting for two years…to take over Mobius. And I just can't win…so if I can't have Mobius…THEN NOBODY CAN!"

He pointed sharply at his terrified Egg-Pawns. They thought Eggman was going to destroy them in anger but Eggman didn't even so much as point a gun at them. Only his metal claw was pointing at them.

"Prepare the Egg Annihilator Beam!" he ordered, "Set it to fire as soon as possible! We are going to destroy Mobius once and for all! This planet doesn't deserve to live if it won't accept my generous offer of a better way of life!"

The Egg-Pawns saluted and they began preparing the Egg Annihilator Beam for activation. Dr. Eggman didn't just have a roboticizer wave that made the Death Egg so formidable. He had a weapon that could destroy the entire world. The Egg Annihilator Beam was a beam that could fire down onto a planet. Once it struck the ground, it would plough its way down into the ground and reach the planet's core. Once he reached the planet's core…it would be the end of the world forever…

Down on the ground below, all of Mobius had been de-roboticized at long last. All the Robians were now back to being flesh and blood Mobians with not a hint of metal on them anywhere. The Robian nightmare was at an end, Mobius was back to its former glory. Eggman's rule was at an end.

In the Sentinel Blockade, the wave had swept through the building and hit the roboticized Royal Fighters. Tails and Bunnie had flown out of the way of the wave, presuming that it was going to roboticize them the moment it hit them but they were surprised to see that it had actually de-roboticized them. The New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were overjoyed to be back to normal and of course, were quick to apologize to Tails and Bunnie for attacking them while they were Robians. The other Royal Fighters teams were back to normal and were very quick to comment on how unpleasant it had been to be a Robian. They sadly remembered everything they did as Robians and they felt ashamed at what they had been doing whilst under Eggman's control. But Tails and Bunnie forgave them for they knew that they couldn't have done anything about it. The celebration had to be cut short though for Tails and Bunnie remembered about Sally and what Mecha Sonic had been doing to her. So they left the cell blockade to find Sally and see if she was alright.

As for Sally, she had passed out from her injuries at the time the roboticizer wave had hit and was just hanging by her bonds with her head dropped down, her body a little slumped and her arms fully stretched. Mecha Sonic had been standing beside her patiently, waiting for further orders but then the roboticizer wave had hit him. Much to his surprise, it had de-roboticized him instead and now Mecha Sonic was back to normal once again. Sonic admired himself all over to see that he was no longer a robot but he didn't have time to celebrate for terrible memories came back to his head and he found himself turning to his right to see a tortured and unconscious Sally Acorn naked and chained beside him. Sonic's face was the definition of horror. He couldn't speak for a moment and at first, he felt like he was going to pass out.

"SALLY!" he shrieked in terror, "Oh…my…gosh! What did that sick bastard make me do to you?!"

He sadly remembered it all, every little bit of what he'd done to Sally as Mecha Sally. He remembered throttling her as he was trying to make her come with him, he remembered how embarrassed and frightened Sally was as he took off her clothes, and he especially remembered Sally's pained howls as he placed his hands on her body and electrocuted her brutally. He remembered all that but the thing he remembered the most was how helpless he had been at the time. How he couldn't do anything to stop himself from torturing his beloved Sally. Eggman had made him torture his own girlfriend. Sonic now knew what was the worst thing Eggman had ever done to him. Nothing Eggman did now would ever top this. With his eyes welling up and his heart aching, Sonic ran over to the wall and he pressed a button that shut off the laser generators and dropped Sally down onto the floor. The squirrel was still unconscious as she lay down on the floor with her hands bound in the metal spheres. Sonic ran back over to Sally and he pressed a button that opened up the spheres. Sally's hands were now free and Sonic held one of them as he rolled his girlfriend onto her back. Sally's hands were cold and Sonic knew why. The hedgehog could feel the tears rolling down his cheeks like rain on a window. He felt terrible. Worse than he'd ever felt before. He knew that he couldn't have done anything about it at the time but it still didn't change the fact that he'd been made to torture his own girlfriend by Dr. Eggman and he'd been helpless to stop that from happening. Sonic squeezed Sally's hand tightly, hoping that it would revive her.

"Sally! Oh man…Sally I'm so sorry that I did all that to you! I'm so sorry that I tortured you and I couldn't stop myself!" wailed Sonic, the tears coming down his cheeks even faster now, "I'm sorry that I got roboticized and Eggman made me do this to you! I'm so sorry…I'm so sorry!"

He wrapped his arms around the squirrel's unconscious body and began to weep uncontrollably. Sonic was not usually the crying type but he couldn't help himself. This was the worst thing that had ever happened to him and he would never be able to forget about it. He was still crying as Tails and the rest of the Royal Fighters ran into the room to see if he and Sally were in there. To Tails's relief, he saw that they were in the room but he was distraught to see that Sally was in a terrible state. She had burn marks all over her body, she had no clothes on she had slash marks on her belly. Tails picked up Sally's discarded clothes and he ran over to Sonic, the hedgehog still sobbing loudly over what he'd done to Sally. Tails felt like crying with Sonic. He could imagine what had happened and how horrible Sonic must be feeling right now.

"Sonic! What happened? Did Eggman make you…do that to our queen?" asked Tails, his voice a hoarse whisper of shock.

"Yes! Eggman made me torture Sally!" yelled Sonic, his voice a mixture of sadness and anger, "He made me do this to her…and I couldn't stop myself! Oh Tails…I'll never forgive myself for this!"

"Sonic, Sonic! Please don't beat yourself up!" cried Tails, putting his hands comfortingly on Sonic's back, "It wasn't your fault! Don't be like that! Eggman roboticized you! He made you do this! It's his fault! Don't you dare blame yourself Sonic! Otherwise you're giving Eggman the satisfaction of seeing you broken and distraught Sonic!"

That seemed to have an effect on Sonic for his sobbing became more controlled and his face suddenly became a dark thundercloud of an expression. Something had clearly snapped in him, something that should never have snapped in his life. Sonic was now a completely different person as a result of this snapping.

"No…Eggman's not getting that satisfaction…" said Sonic, wiping his eyes dry and gently lying Sally back down on the floor, "Eggman is going to PAY. And I do mean PAY! Get Sally's clothes back on and then get her to a hospital Tails! I'm going after Dr. Eggman! And I'm going to put him down… for good!"

Tails did as he was told and Sonic got up onto his feet, heading out of the door and leaving Tails to dress Sally back up and then get her back to New Mobotropolis and to a hospital along with the rest of the Royal Fighters. Sonic walked past the rest of the Royal Fighters, taking no notice of any of them as he walked by. It was like he didn't even know they were there. They all watched him leave, wondering what he was doing as he walked out of the Sentinel Blockade. Sonic then realized that he would need something and so he came back over to the Royal Fighters, acknowledging them for the first time. He didn't say much. He just looked at Miranda Mongoose and he held out his hand.

"Warp ring please." he said in a voice of steel.

Miranda still had the warp ring on her after she'd used it to warp herself and the other teams onto the Sky Patrol in the mission to stop the Death Egg from rising. Miranda handed it over to Sonic and the hedgehog stormed off with the warp ring in his hand without saying another word. The Royal Fighters looked worried, something was clearly different about Sonic. He seemed a lot more serious and emotional now. He wasn't even making any wise cracks! Something had happened and they soon found out what it was as Tails called for them to help him with the comatose Sally. They all ran into the room to help him get Sally dressed up again and get her back to New Mobotropolis so she could heal.

As for Sonic, he was full of rage and anger. He'd never been this angry in his life. He was well and truly enraged and he had snapped harder than a twig as a result of what Eggman had done to him. This was a side of Sonic that nobody in the world would ever want to meet again. As Sonic stormed outside in a huff, he found himself walking outside into a shower of rain. The stormy weather hadn't subsided at all, it was still raining. Sonic ignored the trickling water that streamed down his body and soaked his fur. The rain was nonexistent as far as he was concerned. Sonic spun the warp ring around his finger, his face darker than the thunderclouds in the sky above him. He knew the Death Egg was up in the sky since it wasn't here currently and he had the perfect way onboard the Death Egg. He stopped twirling the warp ring and he clenched his fists so hard that his fingers were close to penetrating the flesh of his hands. Before he did anything, the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters ran outside to join him. Sonic turned around and saw that Tails was running towards him and Knuckles and Shade were carrying Sally between them. She had her clothes back on but she was still unconscious. Sonic was glad to see her fully clothed again. He opened up the warp ring for Tails and the others so they could warp back over to New Mobotropolis.

"All of you, go back to New Mobotropolis." ordered Sonic, "I'm going to take care of Dr. Eggman. Do NOT try to stop me, I'm going alone and if you try to stop me then you're just wasting your time. You can't change my mind."

"But Sonic, you can't stop Eggman alone!" protested Tails, "Please, let us help Sonic!"

"Sally needs you all right now." said Sonic tersely, "You're all going home with her and I'm going after Eggman alone. And that is final. Do as you're told, please. For Sally."

"OK Sonic…I hope you're not making a big mistake." said Tails worriedly.

The worried fox cub embraced his big brother figure tenderly and Sonic patted him on the back. Then Sonic walked over to Knuckles and Shade and leant over Sally's body. He put his mouth near to her ear and whispered.

"I love you Sal…that's why I have to make Eggman pay for this. Please hold on for me…my love."

He then kissed Sally tenderly on the cheek before letting Knuckles and Shade carry her through the warp ring to New Mobotropolis. The rest of the team followed through the warp ring and so did all the other Royal Fighter teams. Tails was the last to go. He took one last look over at Sonic as the hedgehog stared at him emotionlessly. The fox cub was very frightened for Sonic now. He was sure Sonic was making a big mistake. Sonic couldn't fight Eggman alone. And yet…Sonic seemed so sure and so confident that he could. And he even seemed so…distant and determined. Tails hoped dearly that Sonic would be alright after this was over. The fox turned away and then walked through the warp ring. Sonic grabbed it and he held it above his head, ready to open it up again.

"Eggman has done it…he's crossed the line…he doesn't deserve to live. He deserves to die…and I'm the one who's going to kill him!" growled Sonic, "Eggman's tyranny is over!"

Flicking the warp ring into the air, he opened up a portal that lead from the ground to the Death Egg. Sonic put one foot inside, allowing the golden gleam of the warp ring to shine over him for a minute before saying one last cryptic sentence as he prepared to step into what could be the most fierce and epic battle of his life.

"This will be…our last stand…"

This is it ladies and gentleman...the final battle is here...Sonic the Hedgehog vs. Dr. Eggman...for the fate of the world...and for everybody on it...

Join me next time for my 200th chapter...for the FINAL battle between Sonic and Eggman...their war is about to end...and only one will be victorious...

Eggman's Last Stand

Story 200: Eggman's Last Stand

KRA-KOW!

The thunder boomed through the dull, grey skies that shrouded New Mobotropolis in a sinister shadow of gloom and despair. Rain hammered down in fat, wet drops that drenched whatever they fell down upon. The rain had soaked New Mobotropolis completely on the outside, leaving only the inside of the city dry. Lightening sliced through the grey skies, flashing as it crackled on the heels of the thunderclap and briefly lightening up the dark void of grey that loomed over the grandiose city that was home to Mobius's most special team of heroes ever. Once the lightening had disappeared, everything became dark once again.

The stormy weather outside wasn't a bother to anybody living in New Mobotropolis though for they were all inside their nice warm houses, making the most of the comfort and warmth they had now they were out of the rain. They had to make the most of it too for Mobius wasn't going to last for much longer. The villainous Dr. Eggman had come to Mobius a couple of years ago with nothing but enslavement on his mind for the animal-populated world he had come across. He had been exiled from his own world after trying to roboticize it all and make everybody a mindless machine that's only purpose was to serve him. He'd actually managed to succeed in roboticizing the whole of Mobius for a second time. He'd achieved this thanks to a giant ship that he called the Death Egg. The Death Egg was equipped with a World Roboticizer, a roboticizer machine capable of roboticizing an entire planet with one blast. And yet despite having the Death Egg and using it to roboticize the entire planet, he still ended up being ridiculously humiliated for Dr. Finitevus, an evil scientist and the uncle of Knuckles the Echidna, had set Eggman's own weapon in reverse and had tricked Eggman into de-roboticizing the entire planet. Mobius was now back to normal and the Mobians were beginning to get accustomed to being back to normal and hoping dearly to forget what had happened to them moments ago. Dr. Eggman had well and truly snapped at this and he had suddenly decided that he was going to destroy Mobius since he wasn't content with the Mobians having it while he couldn't. After Mobius was destroyed, he'd simply take the Death Egg and fly off somewhere else with the ship. Maybe go back to Earth and use it to roboticize Earth or try another planet before he went back to Earth. And at this moment, he was preparing the Death Egg to destroy Mobius, setting up a weapon known as the Egg Annihilator. When the weapon fired...Mobius would be space debris.

Such terrifying thoughts were not on the minds of the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters as they re-entered New Mobotropolis via warp ring and fought there way through the pouring rain and the howling winds. Nor was that information even known to them. The Death Egg wasn't even on their minds as they found the New Mobotropolis Hospital Centre and quickly filed in through the door, clearly desperate to get in out of the rain. The team consisted of Sonic the Hedgehog, Queen Sally Acorn, Tails the Fox, Knuckles the Echidna, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Shade the Echidna, Geoffrey St. John the Skunk, Bunnie Rabbot, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Ruben the Water Panther. Sora Prower, Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon, Charmy Bee and Mace the Elephant. The other Royal Fighter teams, Team Chun-Nan, Team Nekronopolis, Team Megapolis and Team Adabat were just behind them and so were the future Mobians Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat. Even Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat were there too and they followed the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters as they filed into the hospital, hoping to find a room spare. Sally was in a terrible state right now. While Sonic had been roboticized, Eggman had made him torture Sally near to death just for his own amusement. Sally had burns all over her body from the electrocution inflicted on her by Mecha Sonic and she had four bloody cuts across her belly. She had been stripped naked by Mecha Sonic before he tortured her, making the whole thing even worse for Sonic to take in after he had been de-roboticized thanks to Dr. Finitevus's meddling. Sonic had snapped even harder than Eggman had upon realizing what he'd done to his beloved girlfriend. Gone was his snarky, light-hearted and jokey personality. In its place was something considerably more serious and dark. Sonic wanted Eggman dead and he wanted to personally kill Eggman himself. So he had sent everybody to New Mobotropolis so Sally could be taken to hospital and he could go after Dr. Eggman himself. So the team was one short of being complete at this moment. While they were taking Sally into hospital, Sonic would be warping onto the Death Egg and having his final showdown with Dr. Eggman. It would be a battle to end all battles. A battle that would end the war once and for all. The conflict that Sonic and Eggman had been having for two whole years, going on three now, would be over. And only one would emerge victorious.

Who would emerge victorious was the one question that was bugging Tails's mind. The fox cub was very frightened and worried about his best friend and he could hardly keep himself from wondering what was going to happen as he and Eggman had a fight to the death. He forced himself to focus on their current task. Thankfully, they had managed to find a spare room to put Sally in for the time being. The hospital staff lead the Royal Fighters to room number 8643 and Knuckles and Shade were quick to lay the comatose Sally down on a bed so that she could rest and recover from her injuries. The miracle woman Mariah the Medicine Cat arrived in Sally's room moments after she'd been settled down and Mariah had seen to giving the queen one of her amazing medicines. It always amazed the Royal Fighters how Mariah seemed to have a medicine for any kind of illness, injury or any kind of medical problem. Maybe Mariah was some kind of witch. Justified given how her house was somewhat like a witch's hat. Mariah put some of the medicine into a syringe and she injected it into Sally's arm. As she did this, a holographic figure materialized out of thin air and stood beside Sally, looking very worried for her best friend. This was Nicole, formerly a Mobian and currently a computer programme that had all of Nicole's personality and memories and the holographic avatar even resembled what she had once been. Nicole approached Sally and put a hand on Sally's arm, her hand solid and real thanks to a hi-tech generator Tails had installed in the city to make her more realistic and more like a Mobian than a computer. The avatar's eyes even welled up with real tears and felt emotional pain like a real person does when seeing their friend comatose and lying on a bed waiting to recover or get mailed to Death's door depending on their situation.

"Oh Sally...my dear friend!" sobbed Nicole, "Wh...what happened to you?!"

"Eggman made Sonic torture her while he was a robot." said Tails grimly, "He took advantage of his status as Mecha Sonic and made him do this to Sally for his own amusement."

"Why that monster!" shrieked Nicole, "How could he?! He made Sonic torture Sally?! I never thought Eggman could be so evil!"

"Neither did we Nicole." said Amy, shaking her head sadly in agreement, "Eggman's done some pretty twisted things but this is the most evil and twisted thing he's ever done."

"Believe me, had we known this had happened, we would have warned Sally about it so that if could have been prevented." said Silver solemnly.

"At least Sally will survive." said Blaze gently, patting Silver affectionately on the back, "And we won't be spending our lives as robots working for Eggman anymore. We were right to think that this got undone considering in our future, Mobius isn't roboticized."

"Too right luv." said Geoffrey, "As for our beloved queen, it's so horrible to think that poor Sonic was forced to do this to her while he was a robot..." his face fell as he looked over at the unconscious Sally as she lay peacefully on her bed with Nicole sobbing uncontrollably over her as if the worst was coming for Sally.

"And it seems to have had a bad effect on the blue dude for he's going after Eggman alone." said Mandy, her voice nothing more than a theme tune for the word "concerned", "I think he wants to make the fat bastard pay for it."

"But will he be able to stop Eggman alone?" asked Wilson, giving his wife's hand a worried squeeze as if hoping it would somehow make him feel braver, "I mean he's in the body of Omega, a robot who managed to match Sonic, Shadow, Bunnie and Rouge all at once! He can't fight that alone!"

"He should have let me fight Eggman with him!" growled Shadow furiously, punching the wall in fury, "He'd have a bigger chance with me helping him! I'd just Chaos Blast him to pieces and leave nothing left of him!"

"I'd be equally as happy to help too Shadow but I think there's a reason Sonic wants to do this alone." said Rouge, putting her hands on Shadow's shoulders, "You see, he wants to be the one that puts all this to rest since the battle's always been between him and Eggman. After all, the war started with Eggman trying to enslave us and Sonic getting in the way, it's always been between Sonic and Eggman. Eggman started it, Sonic wants to end it."

"But why does he have to do it alone?" asked Cosmo worriedly, "We'd be much likelier to stop Eggman if we did it together."

"I think Sonic wants to do it alone...because he feels like it's deathly personal on his behalf." murmured Tails, embracing his girlfriend warmly to try and comfort her jumpy nerves, "You see, Eggman's roboticized all of Mobius twice before and Sonic's been dedicating his life to saving Mobius. And now Eggman makes him torture his own girlfriend. He hasn't made any of us do that, only him so in his eyes...it must be personal between him and Eggman now. That's why he must do it alone."

"But is Sonic going to beat Eggman as usual?" asked Ruben in a voice that carried all the concern he had in his body, "Or...is he going...to...to..." his voice quavered as if he couldn't quite make himself say the last two words though everybody in the room knew exactly what he was trying to say.

"You're worried if Sonic's going to kill Eggman Ruben." said Sora, stroking his back softly with her gentle, tender fingertips, "I had the same feeling too. I heard Tails and Sonic talking in the room and Sonic said something about putting Eggman down for good. He clearly intends to kill the evil man."

"Given what he made poor Sonic do, I really don't blame the poor boy." said Princess Matilda sadly, cringing in disgust over what had happened, "How could somebody be so evil as to make somebody torture their own partner?! It'd be like if Eggman made me torture Bladefeather, I'd never be able to forgive myself for that!"

"Nor I if he made me torture you my sweet flower." said Bladefeather softly, embracing his soon-to-be-wife warmly to try and dampen her fears, "And I know it's not honourable to wish death upon others Matilda...but I hope Sonic does kill Eggman. That insidious, baneful demon doesn't deserve to live."

"I think everybody agrees with you Bladefeather...but killing Eggman won't make Sonic any better than he is." said Tails with a shudder, "I hope Sonic realizes this. I don't want him to...go off the deep end and become something I can't recognize anymore."

"Ah don't think Sally-girl wants that either little guy." said a very sympathetic and caring Bunnie Rabbot as she stroked Tails's head tenderly to make him feel better, "Ah guess we'll just have to wait and see what happens now. We'll hear everything from sugah-hog when he comes back."

"IF he comes back..." noted Tails tensely.

That suddenly made all the Royal Fighters feel nervous. Would Sonic come back in one piece? Would he come back at all? Or was he going to perish in his final battle with Dr. Eggman? The Royal Fighters began to feel very worried for their supersonic friend as the terrible thought crept into their minds. Sonic might not make it back from this battle. It was very likely that he wasn't going to make it. Everybody began to pray that Sonic would come back and that he would be OK when he returned. It was going to be the most intense wait of anybody's lives. And it was a wait that the Royal Fighters wanted to be over as soon as possible. Nicole knelt by Sally's bed and began stroking her hair, hoping that Sally could still feel that despite being unconscious.

"Oh Sally...I hope Sonic comes back alive..." Nicole whispered softly to her friend, "Your heart will never recover if he doesn't...and I don't think you can bear to live without your beloved Sonic..."

If Sally was awake, she'd be nodding agreeably to Nicole's statement. If Sonic died then Sally would surely die with him, of a very broken heart. The torture didn't kill her but Sonic's death surely would finish the job and two important losses like that would be too big a loss for New Mobotropolis. Sonic had to come back or the city would never be the same again...

Meanwhile on the Death Egg, Dr. Eggman was standing by in the control room of the ship and waiting patiently for the Egg Annihilator to fire and destroy all of Mobius. He would be sitting down and watching the whole process but earlier he had destroyed his own seat in a blind fit of uncontrollable rage so he was forced to stand. Not that it mattered to Eggman since he was too grumpy to care. The fact that Mobius had been roboticized for a SECOND time and then been de-roboticized before a day had even passed for a second time had made him snap very violently. No longer did he desire to roboticize all of Mobius and make it a heaven for robots everywhere with him as the leader. He only wanted to destroy Mobius. He considered it a punishment the planet deserved for constantly refusing his generous offer for a better world and to embrace his beautiful technology. If Mobius wouldn't accept him then why let it live? He'd been over forwards and backwards for two years trying to conquer Mobius and show the universe that a world of robots was the way to live. And this was the thanks he got: constantly being made a fool of, constantly having his plans ruined because the selfish Mobians didn't appreciate his lovely technology and how much it could improve life and also being battered and beaten to the point he was now on life support in a mech suit modelled after E-123 Omega, one of his best robots ever. Well Eggman was going to return the favour, by destroying Mobius and showing them what happens to those who deny him. This pointless war that had been going on for way too long was coming to an end and Eggman was going to be the one who ended it. He felt like he'd wasted so much precious time over the past two years that destroying Mobius was going to be reliving to him in too many ways to count. And yet Eggman wouldn't forget his time on Mobius. He'd learned many valuable lessons during his time on the baneful planet and also got the chance to see how many of his inventions worked and which ideas were the best. He'd certainly improved with his technology on Mobius. He'd even once built a robot that could manipulate time and reshape the world how he saw fit! And now thanks to the lessons he'd learnt on Mobius, he would return to Earth as a wiser scientist and he'd know how to take care of the idiotic humans who dared to exile him in the first place. And yet in a way...being exiled had led to this war and had even led to Eggman learning from his mistakes in the first place. So maybe the exile had actually done him some good. In a way, Eggman could easily make the humans feel sorry they had even exiled him in the first place. His exile would inadvertently lead him to their doom. Eggman smiled wickedly to himself as he pictured the Death Egg flying over Earth and activating the World Roboticizer down on the planet. Earth would be his Eggman Empire and he knew for certain the humans would have no chance of reversing what he'd done considering that humans didn't have super powers like Mobians did. The image of his Earth-bound Eggman Empire was glorious and Eggman felt like bursting with excitement just thinking about it. As he waited for the Egg Annihilator beam to fire, an Egg-Pawn came up beside him. Eggman did not seem to notice it was there.

"Sir." droned the Egg-Pawn, "The Death Egg is nearing Mobius's atmosphere. Soon we will be out of the planet and thus, clear to fire the Egg Annihilator beam on the planet. Plus, we have successfully disposed of the bombs that you spotted in the power core chamber."

"Very good, very good." said Dr. Eggman gleefully, "Nobody's blowing up my ship today! Nice try Finitevus but you're not getting away with murder! You can keep the Master Emerald for all I care since you won't live to enjoy its power and you won't be able to destroy my Death Egg! So I win! Ha, ha, ha!"

He could just imagine how cross Dr. Finitevus would be once he found out that the Death Egg was bomb-free. It disgusted Eggman that Finitevus thought for a minute that he could kill him so easily. Eggman cheated death on a regular basis. He was much too afraid to die. He was so afraid of dying that he always had a way of escaping death at the last possible second anything went wrong. The fact he was in a life support machine made him even more desperate to avoid death now. Eggman focused back on the Egg Annihilator's progress. The beam was very nearly ready to fire and the Death Egg was nearly out of Mobius and into orbit. Once in orbit, he'd be safely out of the way and Mobius would be dead. Eggman could already hear the Mobian's final screams as the Egg Annihilator tore Mobius apart, vaporising all life forms on the planet into atoms and reducing the planet itself to nothing more than rubble and debris floating around aimlessly in the void of space for all eternity. It was the most beautiful image that Eggman could ever picture in his foul and evil mind. He eyed the computer screen just as it was saying the Egg Annihilator had five more minutes to go and then it was ready to fire. Five minutes still felt like a long wait for Dr. Eggman, he wanted to fire it now. But he knew that the beam would only fire when it was ready to fire and he also knew he couldn't fire while the Death Egg was still on Mobius otherwise he would take himself with the planet. Aching with excitement and tingling with joy, Eggman forced himself to be patient as the seconds ticked by ominously on the screen.

"I could have saved myself SO MUCH bother if I'd just destroyed Mobius in the first damn place!" griped Eggman, "Oh well, better late than never as they say. At least I've learned some valuable lessons in my two wasted years of trying to conquer the planet. Lessons that will earn me an easy conquest of my home planet. Those fools will finally get to appreciate my technology for what it is, the next evolutionary step in mankind's circle of life! The Eggman Empire will be born and I will rule over it all! And since I'm destroying Mobius, Sonic won't be a pest for me anymore! Earth will be mine and NOBODY WILL BE ABLE TO STOP ME!"

"Don't count your chickens before they hatch Eggman, or in this case, don't claim victory when you haven't won yet."

Eggman couldn't believe what he was hearing. He was hearing a voice, but not just any voice, a teenage voice, an annoying voice, an annoying teenage voice. The worst voice that he had ever heard in his life and the one voice he wasn't expecting to hear anytime soon. He turned around and got the shock of his life. Standing in the doorway to the main control room, arms down to the sides, fists clenched and teeth gritted along with eyes narrowed down into the most hardcore scowl ever known to Mobian-kind...was Sonic the Hedgehog! Thanks to a warp ring, Sonic had managed to get onboard the Death Egg for he memorized the interior of the roboticizer chamber, which was one of the rooms on the Death Egg. Upon getting onboard, all he had to do was find his way up to Dr. Eggman and that hadn't taken him long at all thanks to his super speed. Now he was here, standing in the doorway to the one room Eggman was in. Sonic was full of rage and his face was as dark as the rainy, stormy atmosphere outside the Death Egg. He strode up to Eggman in a manner that crept the scientist out and that was saying a heck of a lot considering Eggman wasn't easily disturbed by anything. Eggman however remained cool and utterly confident. He stood his ground and he bared his claws, waiting to tear Sonic to pieces. The Egg-Pawns in the room prepared to shoot at Sonic but in the blink of an eye, Sonic took them all out with a spin-dash that could have easily punched a hole through a tower and bring it down into a pile of rubble with little prompting. Sonic returned to his original spot and strode up towards Eggman again. Eggman began to realize what it was that Sonic seemed so angry about. He was incredibly distant and very serious looking. There was only one reason why he would be feeling this way. Eggman began to chortle at his lifelong nemesis.

"Ho, ho, ho Sonic!" crowed Eggman, "What a surprise this is! What's the matter? Still mad at me for making you torture your own girlfriend? You should be thankful Sonic! I could have ordered you to kill her instead but because I'm generous, I didn't do so! How about I take back my generosity and instead roboticize you again so I can make you kill that wretched queen of yours?"

"You will never roboticize me again you fat, tubby little demon spawn!" snarled Sonic, "I'm gonna tear this stupid ship apart! And then after that...I'm going to kill you! You've gone way too far now Egg Brains! You've roboticized my world for a second time and you made me strip and torture Sally! And you even threatened to make me torture Tails and Bunnie too! You're sick and you're mine! This will be our final battle you monster! And I will emerge victorious whilst standing over your twisted, mangled, bloody corpse!"

Eggman was so shocked at what he heard that he almost fainted. Sonic the Hedgehog, the one guy who loved justice more than anything else, was actually threatening to KILL him?! Eggman began to wonder if he'd pushed Sonic's buttons a little too hard now. He actually had Sonic wanting to kill him! Then again, the fat scientist thought for a moment, he could probably use this to his advantage. Sonic would be very angry at this moment now. He could easily use Sonic's emotions against him and emerge victorious. Sonic would be the one reduced to a twisted, mangled, bloody corpse and not him. Eggman stood his ground and took up a battle ready stance.

"Oh Sonic, YOU think you can kill ME do you?!" Eggman snorted as if the whole thing was just a sick little joke on Sonic's part, "You seriously think you can kill me huh? Well that's not going to happen! I'm in a mech suit that will easily shield me from your attacks! Omega was able to fend off you, Shadow, Bunnie AND Rouge all together!"

"And yet he was still destroyed." sniffed Sonic coldly.

"That impudent, purple rat Mandy blew him up that's why!" protested Eggman, "Well she's not here to sneak a bomb on me this time is she? No, it's just me and you now!"

"Yes it is ugly mug." muttered Sonic, his face more stoic than even the biggest of sourpusses, "Just you and me. Nobody getting in the way, nobody holding me back, nobody to worry about getting hurt. Just me vs. you and only one of us is going to emerge victorious. And it'll be me!"

He cupped his hand around his fist.

"For my world, for my people, for my friends and especially for Sally, you are gonna die today Eggman! I won't rest until you're dead and believe me, you'll be wishing you'd never messed with me Eggman!" snarled Sonic, looking as wild and savage as a wolf that hasn't eaten for days and is just about ready to make its first kill in a while.

"Oh Sonic, you are such a child." sneered Eggman, "You're throwing a little temper tantrum because I made you strip and torture your stupid girlfriend! Get over it! I could have made you do worse to her!"

Eggman was pretty much begging for Sonic to kill him now and Sonic was all too happy to accept his invitation. To Sonic, Eggman was pretty much saying "Please kill me now, you know you want to and I want you to do it!" so he was going to oblige. Sonic spin-dashed directly into Eggman, aiming directly for the head of his mech-suit. Eggman cried out as the attack threw him off his feet and sent him bouncing across the floor and into the wall with a crash. Eggman picked himself up, clearly a little fazed from the attack but otherwise unhurt. He clenched the metal fists of his mech suit as Sonic prepared to attack again.

"Alright Sonic, you're asking for it!" roared Eggman, "You dare threaten my life and strike me in my own ship! Now you'll pay for it! I'm going to kill YOU Sonic and I'll make sure it's a beautifully gruesome death too!"

"Puh, and here I thought you was going to beat me into chilli-sauce and then roboticize me afterwards." scoffed Sonic "Why don't you just do that then fat head?"

Eggman tensed up for a minute before bellowing a long-winded rant out at Sonic.

"I remember one time I roboticized you!" he shouted, "And what happened after that?! You were saved and ended up being a problem for me still! I've come up with brilliant devices and robots to finish you off, and you just destroyed them all! I even managed to roboticize the planet again and roboticize you again too, and yet you STILL managed to come back from that! Well now you face me and me alone and I will not allow you to walk out of this room alive! No more mistakes, in this battle, there will be ONE survivor and it'll be ME Sonic the Hedgehog!"

"No, it'll be me you fat bastard!" declared Sonic, "For Mobius, you are DEAD!"

"For the Eggman Empire, YOU are dead!" thundered Eggman.

With a blood-curdling roar each that sounded as over-the-top as a hero and a villain's battle cry from a cheesy cartoon would sound, Sonic and Eggman ran towards each other and threw their first attacks...

Meanwhile, The Nefarious was following the Death Egg up into space. Dr. Finitevus had attempted to set off the bombs just moments after Mobius had been de-roboticized but much to the echidna's dismay, the bombs didn't go off as they should have done. It hadn't taken him long to work out that Eggman had discovered the bombs and had gotten rid of them. So it seemed that his plan was going south for the moment. But the Death Egg appeared to be going up into space and that had Finitevus's interest piqued. What was it doing now? Was it going to try and roboticize Mobius again? Impossible, Finitevus had made it impossible to set the World Roboticizer back to normal. But then Finitevus had noticed that the underside of the Death Egg was glowing ominously and he knew what that meant. When Fiona Fox had stolen the Death Egg's plans for him the other week or so, he'd studied the plans from top to bottom, meaning that he knew what there was to know about his foe's evil ship of mass destruction. He knew about the Egg Annihilator beam and was sure that Eggman was about to fire it. Finitevus was not going to let him fire that beam for he too knew that the Egg Annihilator was going to destroy Mobius once it fired. If Mobius was destroyed, the Dark Armada would have been all for nothing. No Enerjak: Reborn being put into action, no Dark Armada taking over the world, nothing. He couldn't let Eggman undermine all of that so he was chasing after the Death Egg in The Nefarious . Once he was in space, he'd sneak onboard the Death Egg and sabotage the weapon. It irked Finitevus to no end that he needed to do the dirty work himself now but he supposed it was his own fault for drawing attention to himself. Had he simply placed the bombs in the power core chamber and fled for it once he'd sabotaged the World Roboticizer, he wouldn't have fought Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally and thus, give Eggman a reason to come to him and then find out about the bombs. Finitevus had tried so hard to be careful and stealthy but he supposed that no matter how careful you are, your plan can still hit a bump in the road. That's why Finitevus ALWAYS had a back-up plan. As he waited for the right moment to warp himself onto the Death Egg, he was approached from behind by one of his Dark Armada members. It was Ravage Bloodfang, a childhood friend of Bunnie Rabbot's who had good intentions for the world but sadly turned to a life of evil after being banished from Adabat for breaking a very important rule. He was now part of Finitevus's Dark Armada. The skull masked-wolf stood beside Finitevus, wondering what was going on inside the echidna's head at this moment. He considered Finitevus to be a Mobian that was both fascinating and scary at the same time. Fascinating in how smart he was and yet also scary in how smart he was at the same time.

"Finitevus? It's such a shame that the bombs didn't work." said Ravage softly, "I don't suppose you have a contingency plan at all?"

"I do Ravage." said Finitevus, his voice smooth and surprisingly void of any emotion that could hint at anger or disappointment, "Once we're in orbit, I'm going to warp onto the Death Egg again and I'm going to sabotage the Egg Annihilator."

"I believe that's some kind of weapon is it not?" asked Ravage curiously.

"It's the Death Egg's strongest and most powerful weapon in its arsenal." Finitevus spoke matter-of-factly as he explained to Ravage, "It can destroy an entire planet and given how...insane Dr. Eggman is, I wouldn't be too surprise if that is what he's planning on doing now."

"Why would he change his mind and destroy Mobius?" questioned Ravage, "He's been trying to conquer it for two whole years! Why would he change his motives so suddenly?"

"Simple...because he's had his master plan ruined." purred Finitevus, "I had a feeling that after sabotaging his ship and tricking him into undoing his own plan that he would snap and go crazy. And given how he's planning to fire the Egg Annihilator. That alone proves that I was indeed correct. He's grown tired of fighting a battle that he cannot win so he's going the cowardly route in order to win."

"Well we're going to put a stop to that!" declared Ravage fiercely, "How can the Dark Armada get what it wants if Eggman destroys Mobius?!"

"Exactly my skull-masked mercenary." agreed Finitevus, nodding his head slowly and yet somehow managing to look creepy while doing it, "So that's why I MUST do what has to be done."

"Be careful of Metal Sonic and Mecha Sally though, they gave you a tough time last time you were on the Death Egg." warned Ravage, a twinge of concern evident in his voice.

"They won't expect me to come on again." crowed Finitevus, "Eggman will be thinking about destroying us all, he'll think I'm here on The Nefarious waiting to be vaporized."

"In that case, good luck on there." said Ravage, still sounding very concerned despite Finitevus's unnatural confidence.

"I do not believe in luck." said Finitevus sinisterly, summoning a warp ring to his hand with a snap of his fingers.

The Death Egg was now in space according to The Nefarious's central computer. Finitevus could make his move and do what he had to do in order to finish off Eggman at last.

"Very well. You know what Finitevus...isn't it ironic that this armada's meant to be a group of villains and its purpose is to fulfil the dreams of all the villains and yet...what we're going to do now...will pretty much...make us heroes?" noted Ravage, his voice matching the surprised expression on his face.

"Hardly considering we're doing this for our own needs." sneered Finitevus.

He flicked the warp ring into the air and quickly darted through it. The warp ring closed up behind him as if being sucked away through an invisible sinkhole in the air and Ravage was left alone on The Nefarious to do nothing more than to report to the Dark Armada what was going on now. Finitevus would succeed in bringing down Eggman but Ravage couldn't help but having the very human factor of doubt nagging at his mind. Would Finitevus succeed? Even if he did would he be fast enough? Or was Mobius's destruction inevitable? It seemed unusual for a villain to worry about the end of the world considering villains would often try to end it themselves. But Ravage merely wanted justice over Adabat's unnecessarily cruel treatment towards him, not the world to explode and he hoped dearly that Finitevus would be the drop of water that put out the bomb's fuse. Otherwise the Dark Armada would be gone before it could put its plans into action...

A punch that could break bones sent Sonic whizzing through the air at the speed of baseball that's been struck by the player's bat. Sonic slammed against the wall and yet despite the force of the attack, it didn't shatter any bones. Sonic withstood most of the impact to be precise. This was because of the power ring energy that had been inherited to him at birth thanks to a very desperate father that wanted to save his mother before she could die and take him to her grave as well. He was also full of Chaos Energy from the amount of times he'd used the Chaos Emeralds in battle so it was going to take a lot of pounding to actually make much of an impression on Sonic. Sonic fell down onto the floor after the slam into the wall but he forced himself back onto his feet with a heavy strain in his arms. Dr. Eggman ran towards Sonic with his claws bared and a murderous look in the optics of his mech-suit. Amazing how despite being encased inside a robot, Eggman still managed to make all his rage and hate apparent. Sonic leaped out of the way and left Eggman to crash into the wall. Sonic didn't even so much as smile at Eggman's misfortune. He was so over the edge now that he didn't even find Eggman's pain funny anymore. Eggman twirled around on the heel of the mech-suit's foot and he glowered at Sonic.

"You know what Sonic? I'm actually beginning to miss your annoying one-liners and corny jokes!" gloated Eggman, "What's the matter? Not feeling funny at all?"

"There's no reason to feel funny." said Sonic coldly, "This isn't a game Eggman, this is the fight of our lives! We'll see if you can crack a joke after I tear out your heart and stomp on it as you die!"

"My, my Sonic! You're talking like a villain now!" sneered Eggman mockingly, "Sally will be ashamed of you once she hears about you talking to me like this! Oh wait, she'll be dead once the Egg Annihilator fires!"

"Don't you dare bring up Sally!" snarled Sonic, "This is between us, leave her out of this! And she won't be dead because your stupid beam isn't going to fire you fat barrel of *&^%!"

"Wow, you're even cussing more than usual! You really have gone over the edge haven't you?" crowed Eggman pitifully.

Sonic roared furiously and he spin-dashed Eggman in the head as hard as he could, hoping to tear it clean off so he could attack Eggman from inside. This spin-dash didn't quite take Eggman's head off unfortunately but Sonic hadn't really expected it to. Omega was a tough robot and had been able to fend off even Shadow so Sonic knew he'd need a lot of good hits on Eggman if he had any hope of doing some damage to him. The attack did however make Eggman overbalance and fall onto his back. Eggman tried to pull himself back up onto his feet but Sonic stomp-kicked him back down onto the floor. Then with a surprising amount of force and power, Sonic proceeded to kick Eggman with one foot and actually send him flying over onto his front as if he weighed nothing and was merely a football being kicked by the star player of the team! Eggman came down with a crash so heavy that he actually felt himself being thrown around inside the machine under the impact. Eggman picked himself up and began to chortle although his voice sounded a little pained, meaning Sonic had done some kind of damage to him at least. Sonic stood his ground and prepared to fight again.

"Well done Sonic, I'm very impressed indeed!" laughed Eggman, "You're getting some very good hits on me indeed!"

"You act like this is a rare occurrence." sniffed Sonic, "I ALWAYS get a good hit on you! Why do you think I always smash your stupid robots to pieces?"

"Not every robot of mine has been smashed to pieces Sonic!" noted Eggman, "You never could beat Metal Sonic and I distinctly remember big robots such as my Egg Beater and the Egg-Dragon actually being able to beat you!"

"And guess what? I'm STILL alive and I'm still standing before you!" scoffed Sonic, "Even your best robots haven't finished me off Eggman! And why? Because I have friends who will back me up at any available opportunity! Friends who care about each other and the world they live on! What do you have you disgusting sack of fat? NOTHING! Just a bunch of useless robots who you can't possibly call "friends" because they're inventions meant to do nothing but make people miserable for YOUR amusement!"

"Pah, I don't need friends anyway!" proclaimed Eggman in a manner that suggested he was utterly confident in that belief, "My robot army is all I need!"

"And what happens when your robot army's gone after I've destroyed it all?" retorted Sonic, "Who will you have to back you up then? Nobody! Especially since when I'm through with you, you'll never build another disgusting robot again!"

He launched himself at Eggman like a missile being fired at an enemy aircraft and he swung both of his feet up in an upwards kick attack. Both of Sonic's feet slammed against the head section of Eggman's mech suit and threw him off his feet and into the control panel of the Death Egg. The panel bent and buckled under the force of the crash and the weight of the mech-suit. Eggman deployed his Gatling guns and thrust his arms forward, the weight of his arms and the deployed weapons pulling him back onto his feet. Eggman roared as his Gatling guns began to spit a shower of bullets at Sonic. The barrels spun at an incredible speed and the flashes of the firing bullets began to blink almost as fast as the barrels were spinning. The bullets pepper-potted the floor as Eggman tried to hit Sonic but the hedgehog once again used his trademark super speed to do what he did best. He dodged all of the bullets and even ran up the wall as Eggman tried to shoot at him. He bounded off the wall, sailing straight over Eggman and landing directly behind him. He turned to his side and zoomed into Eggman, slamming him in the back and whisking him off as his feet. He crashed Eggman into the wall, feeling the impact shuddering through his side as Eggman and the wall met each other. Eggman however twisted around and walloped Sonic with his arm, sending the hedgehog hurling across the room and into a wall. Sonic didn't even have time to fall down onto the floor. Eggman flew over to Sonic with a burst of his rockets and he caught the hedgehog in his hands. As far as Sonic was concerned, he'd have taken the floor. The maniacal scientist cackled as he raised his arm and then slammed Sonic down into the floor. The hedgehog cried out in anguish as he was slammed. It fly like being a fly on the wall that's just inches away from being hit by the swatter. Eggman picked Sonic up again and the evil robot lover took up a pose that looked like he was about to pitch a baseball. He then swung his arm as hard as he possibly could and threw Sonic across the room at a speed and force that would make any baseball pitcher proud. Eggman threw Sonic so hard that the crippled scientist had to check the mech-suit's arm to make sure he hadn't dislocated anything. He was so busy checking himself that he didn't see Sonic crash face first into the wall. Eggman stopped checking his arm and turned around just in time to see Sonic fall down to the floor, groaning in pain and grimacing tensely. The obese dictator of a scientist knew that he would have to try that again. It seemed to have an effect on his primary nemesis and to his delight, he a very big effect on him. Sonic pushed himself onto his feet but he clearly seemed to be having trouble just doing so. The pained hedgehog forced an eye open as Eggman deployed his Gatling guns again and prepared to shoot at him.

"Any last words Sonic?" sneered Eggman.

"Yes, do you ever stop talking and just shoot for once?" retorted Sonic.

He ducked down just as Eggman unleashed an arsenal of bullets towards him, the killer shots just punching holes into the wall inches above his body. Sonic rolled across the floor and out of harm's way so now he had the opportunity to pick himself up and attack Eggman again. The determined Mobian revved up his feet as fast and as furiously as the most powerful of motorbikes and he launched himself towards Eggman. Eggman knew Sonic was fast but the mustachioed villain still couldn't keep the surprise off of his face as Sonic moved at a speed that was just plain unnatural for a hedgehog, even of this kind. Sonic rammed into Eggman at the speed and force of three charging rhinoceroses and Eggman yelled out in surprise as he was taken off his feet and slammed back first into the wall again. Sonic seemed to be hitting much harder than usual ever since he'd snapped. Were the negative emotions really improving Sonic's battle prowess all that much? Eggman began to grow worried now. Sonic could easily kill him now if he wanted to. If he kept hitting him at the kind of force he was hitting him at now, his life support mech would be destroyed...and he would be dead. He needed to keep the mech intact in order to stay alive. With beads of sweat running down his head, the determined human deployed another set of weapons his heavy mech suit contained. The arms and the back of the mech deployed a bunch of rocket launchers and Eggman aimed them all at Sonic as he bounced back and prepared to attack him again. Eggman fired the rockets at Sonic desperately, hoping to hit him with at least one rocket. The rockets screamed as they launched out of their sockets and roared towards Sonic. Sonic jumped into the air and tapped down on one of them with his foot. That caused the rocket to careen to the left and then collide with another rocket. That in turn set off a huge chain reaction that caused a terrific explosion that tore through the control room and threw Sonic and Eggman into the wall. Eggman crashed straight through the wall given how hard the impact was and how weak the wall had gotten since the battle had started. Sonic fell through the hole with him for he was on top of Eggman as he crashed through the wall. A fist of flame and smoke punched through the wall after them as if trying to grab Sonic and Eggman and pull them back into the blazing inferno that was quickly engulfing the entire room. It missed and the two rivals found themselves plunging down a very long drop that ended with Eggman crashing down onto the floor with Sonic on top of him, feeling very little of the impact for Eggman had cushioned most of it for him. The evil man threw Sonic off of himself and picked himself up, feeling the mech suit all over for any signs of damage with the arms of the mech. He felt a couple of dents in the back and front but nothing too serious. He was OK...for now. Sonic however was burnt in a few places and clearly in pain. He seemed to be having great trouble just standing up now. Although he looked determined and like he was ready to carry on, his legs were bent as if they couldn't support his weight anymore. He wasn't meant to be in a stance but at the most, it was all he could manage. Eggman and Sonic took their positions and prepared to carry on the battle. They had fallen out of the control room and were on a lower floor of the Death Egg. Luckily, they were in a large steel room that had plenty of room for them to fight. This arena would suffice just nicely. Sonic raised his fists, his face still stoic and serious despite what had happened.

"It's over Eggman. Your control room's destroyed." he muttered, "You can't fire your Egg Annihilator beam."

"Fie, I had a contingency for that!" gloated Eggman, "The Egg Annihilator can be activated by control, OR by my voice! All I need now is an Egg-Pawn to announce to me on the intercom system that the weapon's ready to fire and I'll give the simple voice command that will spell doom on you all!"

"Let's see if you can say anything before I break your mouth!" growled Sonic, "You're not destroying my world and considering that Silver and Blaze are from Mobius's future, it means that your plan doesn't work! Mobius won't get destroyed and Silver and Blaze are proof of that!"

"But I recall Silver looking through a warp ring and moaning over how the world's a wreck." noted Eggman, "So even if I don't wreck Mobius today, who's to say that I won't do it later on? The Egg Annihilator may not destroy Mobius but who cares? Mobius is a wreck in your future it seems and I bet I'm the one responsible! So I will win no matter the outcome!"

"IN YOUR DREAMS YOU MONSTER!" bellowed Sonic.

He proceeded to roll up into a ball and spin-dash Dr. Eggman as callously as he possibly could. Eggman felt like that he'd been hit by a rampaging elephant and for a moment, he began to wonder if a rampaging elephant would actually match up to Sonic's attack or not. As Sonic watched Eggman crash down onto the floor he began to wonder about something in his mind. The Egg Annihilator must have been the beam that Silver and Blaze had been worried about for they had read a history book that explained that the Death Egg fired a beam at Mobius. Sonic knew that the Egg Annihilator wouldn't destroy Mobius since it was intact enough for their to still be Mobians in the future. But Mobius was a post apocalyptic wreck in the future with few Mobians still living. Would Eggman somehow cause that to happen? Maybe the Egg Annihilator wasn't strong enough to destroy the planet but at the very most cause unimaginable amounts of damage? Sonic knew that even if the beam didn't destroy Mobius, he couldn't let it fire down on the planet. Sonic waited for Eggman to stand back up before snarling like a wild dog and zooming towards Eggman. He had one intention on his mind now. Kill Eggman and do it as quickly as possible before disaster struck...

Somewhere on the Death Egg, a large golden glow filled the entire room as a warp ring opened up from thin air. Out of the warp ring stepped Dr. Finitevus. The albino echidna looked both ways before fully emerging from the warp ring. The coast was clear so he had nothing to worry about. He had warped himself into the elevator that he had taken earlier to go down to the Death Egg's power core chamber and steal the Master Emerald from him. He figured that the quickest way to get to where he needed to go was just to warp himself onto the elevator already. Now on the elevator, he simply thumbed a button and ordered the elevator to take him down the furthest it could take him. Upon studying the Death Egg's schematics that he'd been given by Fiona, he knew what was at the very bottom floor of the Death Egg. The Egg Annihilator itself. It took a couple of precious minutes for the elevator to take Finitevus down to the bottom floor and upon arrival, Finitevus darted out of the elevator before the doors had fully opened. The Dark Chaos Energy powered Mobian took a glimpse at what he'd just stepped into.

He was in the Egg Annihilator's power chamber. It was a huge room that filled the entire bottom floor of the Death Egg. There was a huge amount of machinery that was working in unison to activate the weapon. Finitevus had to shield his eyes from an exceptionally bright object that threw light all around the room. This was the beam powering up, a huge concentrated ball of energy contained only in a huge glass tube that was just waiting to be fired. Staring at that for more than even a few seconds would instantly blind a person. Finitevus's glasses darkened the glow for him a little but he still had to shield his eyes from the light before he could be blinded. The tube had an opening bottom and once that was open, the beam could fire upon Eggman's command. It amazed Finitevus to think that he was staring at the one weapon onboard the Death Egg that could actually bring the whole world to an end. It made him think of the kind of energy he would have when Operation: Enerjak Reborn was completed. But now was not the time to think about that, the scientist knew that he was working against the clock and that the weapon could fire at any point now.

Shielding his eyes from the glow of the beam's energy but still keeping them open so he could see where he was going, Finitevus edged his way around the room until he found something that he desperately needed. A computer screen. This screen was used primarily for altering the Egg Annihilator. If Eggman needed to stop the beam from firing then the computer would instantly stop the beam once Eggman gave the order. It could also be used to change the amount of power it would fire. If Eggman wanted a smaller blast than the computer would take away some of the beam's power so the Egg Annihilator would be less powerful. It wasn't operated by anybody, it worked by itself but it was able to be manually operated should the computer require manual operation. Finitevus rubbed his hands together gleefully. This was just too easy for him now. He ducked down behind the wall of metal the computer was attached too so the glow of the beam's energy wouldn't bother him anymore and he crept towards the computer. He activated it and he stared at the screen. The screen was responding to his fingertips, very fortuitous for him. Smiling wickedly, the evil scientist began typing away on the computer. In a few minutes, maybe more or maybe less, he would reset the Egg Annihilator and cause it to destroy not Mobius, but the Death Egg itself. Finitevus stared at the screen as his dancing fingers flew over the keys and began altering the beam. This was mere child's play for him, nothing he couldn't handle. How simple human technology was to hack! Finitevus could imagine hacking into technology from Eggman's world as if it was nothing should he ever visit Eggman's world. It proved one thing that was for sure, Mobian technology was superior in everyway. No wonder Eggman couldn't beat the Mobians, they were just too advanced for him. Finitevus felt very grand indeed to think that his race as truly superior and because of this, Eggman was going to die today...

Eggman let out a cry of amazement and horror as he was tossed into the air like a basketball being thrown at the hoop. He had just been callously kicked into the air by a furious and savage Sonic the Hedgehog and despite Sonic being smaller and lighter than Eggman was, the kick had somehow managed to send him flying. Sonic clearly was stronger than what his size implied, something that Eggman had found out a long time ago given how he always seemed to be able to destroy his ingenious inventions. Eggman crashed down onto the floor with a force that actually left a small dent in it! The dent in the floor was big enough for Eggman to fill with just the fist of his mech-suit. Eggman stood back up, not looking very fazed by the attack and still looking as persistent as ever. Sonic zoomed up towards Eggman at top speed but the scientist held up his arms to block Sonic's attack. Sonic slammed against Eggman's arms in a spin-dash that was still powerful enough to knock him over. But the attack did no damage to the mech suit's arms. Before Eggman could stand back up, the blue-furred hedgehog zoomed up to him and once again, kicked him into the air. Eggman however manoeuvred himself as he was spiralling through the air and he did it in such a way that he landed back down on his own feet. Eggman deployed one of his rocket launchers and instead of launching several missiles for he didn't want a repeat of what happened earlier in his control room, he launched just one this time. The missile whooshed towards his nemesis but despite the speed of the missile, Sonic's speed was greater. Sonic ran out of the missile's way and left it to just punch through the wall. He would have been killed had the missile hit him square on. But Sonic had been just the tiniest of a fraction too slow. The missile had missed him but the force of the explosion just managed to catch him and trip him up. Sonic felt it on his feet and he cried out in shock as he was whisked onto his back and sent skidding across the floor for a couple of metres. The wall had a hole where the missile had just hit it but the hole didn't seem to lead to anywhere important so there was little reason to go through it. Dr. Eggman clapped his metal hands together in a faux display of applause as the hedgehog forced himself back onto his feet.

"You never cease to amaze me Sonic! You're so fast that you can dodge just about anything I throw at you, even if it's at a speed on par with yours!" cackled Eggman delightedly.

"Well I AM the fastest thing alive." sniffed Sonic.

"You maybe so but even that won't save you in this battle." declared Eggman, "You will not survive Sonic and neither will your pathetic friends! Why do you fight Sonic? You know that you're going to fail to save Mobius! Your "Silver and Blaze" have pretty much said so themselves! Mobius is a wreck in the future! Is this what you're destined to Sonic? To fight for a world that's going to die anyway despite your best efforts to save it?"

Sonic's face was already furious looking but somehow, as Eggman observed his nemesis, he managed to look even more furious as he was taunting the hedgehog mercilessly.

"I'll tell you why I fight Eggman, because I have something you NEVER could have!" retorted Sonic, "I have many things to fight for! And I fight for those many things...because I love them! I love my friends, I love my world and most of all...I love my life and I'm not going to let you take ANY of that away! Mobius may well end in the future but I have two very caring and loyal friends from the future who will find out why Mobius ends in the future and warn me and my friends so that we can prevent it from happening! I always win Eggman and I'm going to win today and in the battle to keep Mobius from ending, I'll win that one too!"

Sonic then proceeded to run around Dr. Eggman at a blinding speed. The hedgehog was nothing more than a blue blur that seemed to circle around the life-support bound villain. Eggman began to wonder what Sonic was doing but he quickly found out. Sonic was attempting to use his Sonic Tornado move, a move he only used on special occasions given how dizzying it was. Sonic ran around and around in the circle faster and faster with every passing second until he was at top speed. From up above, it would just look like Eggman was standing in the middle of a blue ring painted on the floor. Eggman tried to fly out of the building up tornado but something was keeping him from flying anywhere. The spiralling wind that Sonic was building up as he carried on running and running was too strong for Eggman to escape from. The fat, bald human screamed a terrified scream as he was suddenly whisked off his feet and spun around in the centre of the Sonic Tornado. The tornado got bigger and bigger as Sonic continued to run and Eggman was spun around more and more until he reached the top of the funnel of wind he was swept up in. Upon reaching the top, Eggman was hurled out of the tornado like disposed junk and he screamed as he spiralled out of control through the air and crashed head first into the wall. The impact crushed the entire head section of his mech-suit. It was now flattened like a pancake and completely useless to Eggman. The damaged suit came free from the wall and fall down onto the ground with a crash that shook Eggman from inside and made the mech-suit shudder. Sonic began to pant, pleased that his attack had worked but tired from the Sonic Tornado. It was a very tiring move after all but it had been totally worth it to do this much to Eggman. The head section was smashed and flattened against the top of Eggman's mech suit, he wouldn't be able to see with it since the optics would be crushed too. Eggman somehow managed to force himself onto his feet but he clearly seemed to hae trouble doing so. He swayed alarmingly as he got onto his own two feet and he fought to keep himself balanced. He then looked around wildly, clearly panicked over the fact he couldn't see anymore.

"GAH! CURSE YOU SONIC! I CANNOT SEE!" he roared furiously, "YOU'VE CRUSHED THE MECH'S HEAD!"

"Good, so now you can't see me as I beat the crap outta ya!" snarled Sonic, his face twisted into a fierce expression that would make any predator of the animal kingdom proud.

Sonic zoomed towards Eggman in a charge that could rival a Triceratops and he spin-dashed Eggman as hard as he could in the mid-section. The attack caught the blinded Eggman completely off-guard and as he was sent hurling into the floor, his reaction was more a mixture of surprise and fear than one of pain. Eggman picked himself up only to get another spin-dash that knocked him down onto the floor. Sonic then proceeded to stomp-kick Eggman in the back while he was down, his attack very nearly denting the back of the mech-suit. Eggman desperately activated the jets in his back in order to escape from Sonic. He zoomed across the floor...and crashed straight into the wall again for he couldn't see where he was going at all. Eggman however had enough time to feel around for the mech's head section and then rip it clean off so he could now see properly. To see even better, he tore a piece of the mech's chest section off so now he could see straight ahead and up above. The trouble with that was he was now exposed. Sonic could aim directly at his head and maybe kill him. A spin-dash to the head would easily finish him off, he was already crippled and on life-support, he couldn't possibly take a blow to the head. Eggman knew he had to stay on his toes and rely heavily on defence if he was to stay alive. Sonic gave Eggman the first smile he'd ever managed during the entire battle but this was a smile of sheer triumph and deviousness. He knew that Eggman had pretty much invited him to kill him now. All he had to do was hit Eggman directly in the head and that would be the end of it. He spin-dashed, aiming directly at Eggman's head just as predicted. Eggman shielded his face with the mech's arms and blocked Sonic's attack. Sonic ricocheted off of the mech's arms and the cobalt coloured hero found himself careening into the floor. Sonic grimaced as he tried to fight off the stinging pain in his side but he sound found himself having to deal with more pain. The desperate scientist grabbed Sonic by the legs and picked him clean up off the floor. Eggman hoisted Sonic above his head and then slammed him down into the floor as hard as he could. Sonic let out a terrible yell of pain as he was slammed. This was among some of the worst pain he'd ever felt and he had a feeling Eggman wasn't going to relent. Eggman smacked Sonic into the floor again and again, slamming him harder and harder every time he swung him and then he proceeded to throw him into the wall. Sonic hit the wall at a force that should have fractured at least something in his body but surprisingly enough, didn't do so. Sonic felt like his bones were all broken though as he fell down onto to the floor in pain. Eggman thundered towards Sonic like a lumbering troll waiting to hammer its prey into the ground and just as Sonic picked himself up, Eggman grabbed Sonic and hammered him against the wall. Then he held Sonic directly in front of himself, sneering at his battered nemesis triumphantly. Sonic had a few bruises on his body and he appeared to be having trouble keeping his eyes open. The bruised hedgehog struggled in Eggman's grasp, trying desperately to get free. Try as he might though, he couldn't do it. Eggman tightened his metallic grip around Sonic, squeezing him even harder and making him cry out as the air was squeezed out of him like water being squeezed out of a sponge. Eggman's hideous face grinned at him. Sonic could hardly say he missed seeing Eggman's horrible face ever since he'd been put in the mech suit and seeing it now for the first time in forever, he wished he still couldn't see it.

"How about that Sonic? I win!" crowed Eggman, "Now I have you in my hands, I can crush you like a bug and put an end to this stupid rivalry at last! Two whole years we've been fighting this forlorn war of ours! And now it ends with you crushed in my metal hands!"

"It...isn't...over...until the hedgehog...stops running!" yelled Sonic.

He then proceeded to start moving his legs back and forth simultaneously and he edged them close to Eggman's mid-section. His fast moving feet walloped Eggman just below where his face was and he cried out in alarm. Eggman dropped Sonic as he was hit, giving Sonic the perfect opportunity to kick the mech-suit in the groin section and send him tumbling over. Eggman picked himself up and deployed every weapon his mech suit contained save for the chest mounted weaponry as the chest section was gone. He fired a montage of bullets, missiles and lasers at Sonic, hoping to kill him in the most ridiculously brutal and over-the-top way as possible. But Sonic had expected him to try that so he proceeded to dodge all of the attacks, not once getting hit by a single bullet, missile or laser. Eggman grew increasingly desperate as Sonic kept dodging his attacks. The vulnerable scientist knew that Sonic was going to get him so he tried as hard as he could to kill him now. But he just couldn't hit his nemesis, he was much too fast. Sonic was actually going a little bit slower than usual thanks to the pain Eggman had given him but he still pressed on, forcing every muscle in his body to work as hard as they could. He finally ran around behind Eggman and spin-dashed him in the back, throwing him down onto the floor. He was still firing as he fell onto the floor and he sent himself shooting up into the air at the height of London's CanaryWharfTower. Eggman yelled a crazed, frantic, terrified yell as he fell down heavily towards the floor, Sonic just down below waiting for him to land so he could pummel him some more. The moment Eggman was in reach, Sonic jumped straight up into the air and walloped Eggman directly in the torso, throwing him up into the air again. The Mobian hedgehog waited for Eggman to come falling down again before jumping up into the air and stomp-kicking him in the side. That threw Eggman into a wall and Eggman hit the wall so hard that not only did he dent the wall but he crushed the jet boosters on the mech's back, rendering him incapable of flight for the remainder of the battle. Eggman crashed down onto the floor, the impact feeling much harder than it would have been given he was exposed and he let out a loud, groaning moan of defeat. He couldn't possibly continue this battle now. He was exposed, dented, beaten and incapable of flying anymore. The mad scientist was dead meat now and his blue-furred arch-enemy was going to see to it that the meaning of the term "dead-meat" became literal in every possible way. Sonic advanced menacingly towards Dr. Eggman in a manner that would make a demon nervous. His face was devoid of even the faintest hint of emotion. Eggman couldn't possibly tell what Sonic was feeling like at this moment but he had a nasty feeling that he could guess. Sonic kicked Eggman upright and left him leaning pathetically against the wall like a hobo on the side of the street. The evil man's face was nothing short of fear and horror as Sonic placed his foot against the pelvis section of the mech suit and glowered directly into his eyes. His teeth were gritted and his fists were clenched together so hard that you'd be lucky if you could pry them open with a crowbar.

"I win Eggman, as usual." said Sonic coldly, "Now then, it's time to deliver what I promised. Your death..."

"No Sonic, please, I beg of you! Don't do it!" whimpered Eggman, feebly hoping that he could coax Sonic out of his killer intent despite knowing that he would fail miserably, "You're a hero! You cannot kill me! Think of what that'll do to your reputation!"

"Nobody will know that I killed you Eggman because when I come back to Mobius, I'll say that you died when the Death Egg exploded." snapped Sonic, "Your death will be nothing more than an accident as far as anybody's concerned."

"And what if they find out the truth?" purred Eggman wickedly, "They'll all scorn your name, disgusted to think that you of all people has stooped down to MY level! You're supposed to be better than me and yet you're going to kill me like a bloodthirsty villain? You're not the big Hero of Mobius everybody thinks you are Sonic! You're just as bad as I am! And just imagine what your precious Sally's going to think when she learns about what you did..."

"NOBODY is going to find out I killed you Eggman!" bellowed Sonic, "Nobody CAN find out! Once you're dead, I'm going to destroy this goddamn ship and leave your body to roast along with it and when everybody sees its remains burning up in the atmosphere, they'll see that the Death Egg's destroyed and you were taken with it! And they'll believe me because as you know, I'm not the lying type! I'll just say you tried to fight me off but I got past you and destroyed your ship and got away whereas you did not! They'll never know that you died at my hands and not because you couldn't escape from the Death Egg before it blew up."

"You say you're not the lying type and yet you're going to tell a lie like that just to keep your image, thus making you the world's biggest hypocrite and liar?" snorted Eggman, "I was wrong about you Sonic, you really ARE a villain aren't you?"

"DON'T YOU DARE LABEL ME AS A VILLAIN!" snarled Sonic, "I'm nothing like you and I never will be! Killing you is for a good cause and nothing's gonna stop me from finishing you off!"

He then proceeded to lash out with his hands and grab Eggman by the neck. The terrified dictator gagged in fear as Sonic strangled him, hoping to kill him at last. Eggman couldn't do anything about the enraged hedgehog now. He was too weak to try and stop Sonic from killing him and he was already rapidly losing air. Being on life-support, he was weaker than he normally would have been so something like a strangle was enough to have him panicked and pretty much on the verge of death. But Sonic wasn't going to strangle Eggman to death, he was going to snap his neck like a twig and finish him off as swiftly as that. Sonic's hands gripped even tighter on the soft, fleshy neck of his nemesis and he prepared to make the killer blow. But something began nagging in the back of his mind. Sonic's hands started screaming at him, begging for his brain to give them the order to finish the job. But at the same time, Sonic began to second-guess his motives. Could he kill Eggman? If so then would it be worth it? So many good things would come out of Eggman's death, it had to be done! But what would Sonic achieve from killing Eggman? Many good things but at the same time...he would have crossed a line that nobody wanted to cross. For the entire war he had strived to prove that he was better than Dr. Eggman. He was not a cold-blooded killer, he was a fighter for justice and killing Eggman so mercilessly like that was NOT justice, it was revenge. His entire motivation was based on revenge and Sonic began to feel ashamed of himself for doing so. He was not evil, he wasn't a killer and today was not the day he'd go back on his word. Sonic also thought of Sally, the woman he loved with all his heart. Sally wouldn't want him to do this. She would want Eggman to be brought to justice. Sonic loved Sally very much and considered it abominable for him to betray her like this. She formed the Royal Fighters Service for a good cause and to bring peace back to Mobius. She did not form the Royal Fighters for this at all. Sonic's hands loosened from around Eggman's neck and his expression relaxed. He let out a heavy sigh before glaring at Eggman again, the scientist worrying over what Sonic was going to do next. The hedgehog just grabbed the side of his face and jammed his own into it.

"You're right...I am no killer." said Sonic dryly, "That's why I'm not going to kill you after all. But you are going to pay for your crimes. I have a warp ring on me and I'm going to take you straight to a prison cell. Then you'll rot in that cell and be gone forever. And we will all dance on your grave you sorry excuse for an actual being."

"Oh Sonic...you really should have killed me when you had the chance." crowed Eggman.

Before Sonic could ask Eggman what he was on about, an announcement boomed over the intercom system all over the Death Egg. It said:

"Egg-Annihilator ready to fire, awaiting further orders."

Reacting quickly, Eggman thundered at the top of his voice "Egg Annihilator FIIIIIIRRRRRE!" Sonic now began to feel like an idiot. How could he have dared to hesitate even for a minute?! He could have killed Eggman when he had the chance and yet he blew it and now because of his blunder, Eggman was going to destroy his planet! Why did he be so stupid?! Why didn't he finish off Eggman already?! Sonic was going to rectify that mistake though. He lunged for Eggman's throat again but Eggman swatted him away with his arm, throwing him directly into the wall. Eggman got back to his feet and he laughed like a maniac.

"You had the chance, YOU HAD THE CHANCE! And yet you was stupid enough to spare me Sonic!" gloated Eggman, his every expression and quote a mockery of Sonic's inability to finish the job "You could have killed me, you really could have! But you didn't! And now Mobius is going to be destroyed! And it's all your fault Sonic!

You'd doomed your own planet! How does that feel Mr. Big Hero of Mobius?!"

Sonic growled like a wild tiger as he got back up off the floor.

"I don't know why I did something so stupid Eggman, but I'm going to make up for it!" yelled Sonic, "I'll destroy your Death Egg before the beam can fire and THEN I'm going to leave you to die with it!"

"Just try it hedgehog, you're much too late!" sneered Eggman.

Sonic knew that deep inside, he really was too late. The beam was firing as they spoke and Mobius was going to be reduced to fragments. But he wasn't going to let Eggman stand victorious before him. Sonic spin-dashed straight into Eggman and slammed him straight through the wall, sending him plummeting down a huge drop that led to another floor lower down in the ship.

And that was when it happened.

The entire bottom section of the Death Egg suddenly exploded into a colossal cloud of flames and smoke that surged up the ship like it was a giant chimney. The Egg Annihilator had indeed fired, but directly inside the Death Egg itself. The beam had never left the ship, it was still in the power chamber when it fired. The resulting energy colliding against itself ended in disaster and now a giant explosion was tearing the Death Egg apart. The huge fireball soared up the Death Egg and Eggman rather unfortunately seemed to be falling down towards it. Eggman screamed his final scream as the flames rushed up to snatch him down into its deadly grasp. Eggman was mincemeat, more than that he was toast, completely roasted alive in a huge fiery inferno that incinerated him in seconds, mech-suit and all. He never stood a chance, his final screams dying away as the fire claimed his life forever. He didn't even know what had happened as he was toasted by the flames. Eggman was gone, dead at last and a thing of the past for the Mobian race. Sonic gasped in shock as he watched his lifelong enemy burn to death in a pool of fire that was rushing up to meet him. Now Sonic was pleased Eggman was dead...but he knew that he wasn't safe yet. Far from it. The explosion was ripping apart the Death Egg, punching holes through walls, burning through floors and tearing pieces apart from the inside out. The entire bottom section and the first few floors of the Death Egg were gone, now the rest of the ship was being claimed along with it. Sonic could feel the floor getting hotter and hotter as the explosion climbed up after him. It had claimed many victims already, Egg-Pawns on every floor, Metal Sonic, Mecha Sally and now Dr. Eggman himself. But it was hungry for me and it wanted to take Sonic's life along with all the others it had taken to their graves. Sonic screamed in terror as the floor began to break apart, jets of flames breaking through the tiles and sending them hurling into the air. He could feel the section of floor he was standing on getting ready to take-off with him on it. The explosion then blasted its way through the floor, sending Sonic hurling into the air higher than he could have expected to be thrown. But Sonic knew that there was only one way left for him to go and that was down. He could already see himself falling back down into the blazing inferno that was chasing him up through the Death Egg, desperate to catch him and burn him alive. He would be incinerated in seconds along with Eggman and unlike Eggman, he didn't deserve to die like this, he had to save himself and fast.

Sonic felt a twinge of despair as he suddenly stopped soaring upwards and found himself plummeting back down towards the ground. The flames were waiting for him. Sonic screamed in terror as his death was coming to meet him. He could imagine the horror on his friend's faces once they found out he was dead. They would never be able to live without him, especially Tails or Sally. The hedgehog could just see how destroyed his little brother figure and girlfriend would be when they found out he was dead. And it seemed that was just what was going to happen now. But then the doomed hedgehog remembered what he'd said to Eggman earlier. He had a warp ring! He'd used it to get onto the ship in the first place! But could he use it in time to get off of the Death Egg? It was the only chance Sonic had of survival and he had to take it. Sonic fished out the warp ring and flicked it ahead of himself, praying the explosion wouldn't reach the warp ring and take away his only chance of survival. The ring opened up just metres above the onslaught of flames and smoke down below. Sonic put his arms to the sides to increase the speed of his descent as he headed straight for the warp ring. His position was perfect, he plunged straight through the middle of the ring. He disappeared through the portal and the ring closed up behind him as if as desperate to escape as he was. The flames rushed up the corridor, passing through where the warp ring had just been. They had failed to catch Sonic but they still had the rest of the ship to destroy. And that was exactly what happened. The explosion continued to tear the Death Egg apart until finally, the ship exploded into fragments, scattering itself across the void of space just above Mobius's atmosphere. The Death Egg was no more, never to roboticize another Mobian or attempt to destroy Mobius ever again. Only chunks of metal remained of the deadly vessel, nothing more. Some of the debris began falling towards Mobius. They would burn up in the atmosphere and never be seen again. The rest would just float around in space forever. All of this had been observed by The Nefarious , the only other ship in space along with the Death Egg. And on The Nefarious stood a very triumphant Dr. Finitevus. He of course had been the one who caused Eggman's ultimate demise. He'd sabotaged the Egg Annihilator and had been off the Death Egg minutes before Eggman ordered it to fire. All he did after that was stand and watch and the entire scene before him had been glorious. His plan had worked, Eggman was dead and the Dark Armada was victorious. Finitevus smiled wickedly as he said a couple of words that meant a whole lot and summed up everything that had happened to himself.

"Mission...accomplished..."

The warp ring opened up in the middle of New Mobotropolis where the rain continued to pour and the thunder continued to boom with the occasional flash of lightening to accompany it. Out of the warp ring plunged Sonic the Hedgehog. He crashed face-first into a puddle of water as he fell out of the warp ring. Sonic began to cough and splutter as he found himself in a puddle of cold, freshly fallen rain water. He sat up straight and realized that he was back in New Mobotropolis and was getting soaked by the rain. Given his disdain for water, he wasn't at all pleased to be coming back to his home city while it was hammering it down with rain. But Sonic didn't care, all he cared about was that he was back home at last. He managed to crack a smile as he looked all around the city and saw that it was intact and just how he'd left it. He was home and he couldn't possibly be happier about that fact then he ever had been before. He'd been in a tough battle with Dr. Eggman and was still feeling bruised and battered, as well as shaken from his near death experience so home was where he wanted to be more than anything else. He stood up from the puddle and he ran over to the New Mobotropolis Hospital. There was one person he wanted to see right now and he knew where he'd find her. He entered the hospital, paused for a moment so he could shake himself dry and then he ran over to the counter where an antelope in a nurse's outfit was sitting.

"Hi there, which room is Queen Sally Acorn in right now?" asked Sonic quickly.

"Room number 8643 sir." said the antelope.

"Thank you." said Sonic, quickly running off to find the room.

He didn't bother taking any of the elevators since they would just be slow and take forever. He took the stairs and after running up a few flights, he found the room he was looking for. A sign pointed down a corridor and it said "Rooms 8640-8650". Sonic ran down the corridor until he found Room 8643 and he walked inside. Not surprisingly, he found himself looking into a room that was full of all the Royal Fighters in the R.F.S. They had stayed by Sally's side the entire time, hoping to keep her comfortable and waiting anxiously for Sonic to return. The moment Sonic opened up the door, the Royal Fighters looked in his direction and erupted into ecstatic cheering. Sonic's presence alone had been enough to make them feel so much happier. Tails in particular threw himself into Sonic's arms and hugged him as tightly as he possibly could.

"SONIC!" squealed Tails excitedly, "You're back! We were all so worried about you! We feared you weren't going to come back!"

"What happened between you and Eggman?" asked Amy, "You look pretty banged up! Did he hurt you too much?"

"Is the Death Egg destroyed? Where's Eggman? What's happened to him?" asked Knuckles.

"Guys, guys, please! I'll explain everything!" chuckled Sonic, suddenly feeling a lot more like his old self now that he was back with his friends, "First things first, how are you all?"

"Much better now you're back." said Matilda softly, "How are you?"

"A little bruised but I'll live." said Sonic casually, "Now then, prepare for the news of a lifetime everybody, you're not going to believe what I'm going to tell you."

"It's good news I hope." said Vector.

"It is." replied Sonic, "Dr. Eggman...is dead. He's actually, totally, for real...dead. I saw it with my own eyes. I spin-dashed him down a long drop and then for some reason...the Death Egg exploded. The entire bottom section erupted into flames and Eggman fell into the flames. I watched him burn alive as he fell into the flames. He won't have survived that one, especially since his mech-suit was damaged and he was exposed. Not to mention the Death Egg was exploding so even if he survived that he's definitely dead now. Eggman is no more my friends. We've won, the war is over. Mobius is free at long, LONG last!"

The Royal Fighters could only stare in silence at Sonic as if he'd just told them a story that was impossible to believe. The seconds ticked slowly by before the Royal Fighters erupted into a tumultuous cheer of happiness. There was much cheering, yelling delightedly and hugging going on for several moments before the atmosphere calmed down enough for anybody to speak.

"Eggman's dead at last! YAHOOOOOO!" squealed Amy, punching the air excitedly, "Finally, the fat guy's gone for good! All of my YES!"

"It's amazing! Eggman's dead and Mobius is free from his tyranny at long last!" cried Cosmo, hugging Tails with glee.

"I know, it's incredible Cosmo!" agreed Tails, hugging the delighted Seedrian back "Finally, Mobius is free from that maniac! We never have to worry about him again!"

"Ah never thought ah'd see the day when Eggman finally died and we emerged victorious! And yet it's happened!" shrieked Bunnie delightedly, "Ah sure hope ah ain't dreamin'!"

"It's no dream luv, it's all too real." said Geoffrey happily, embracing his cyborg girlfriend with joy, "The blighter's gone for good."

"Pity Sonic didn't save some for the rest of us." muttered Shadow grumpily, "But I suppose I can let it slide since Eggman's dead for real at last."

"Indeed he is Shadow." purred Rouge, wrapping her arms around Shadow's arm and making the hedgehog stare at her in surprise, "Now we can all live without having to worry about the fat man anymore."

Shadow nodded agreeably and smiled at the beautiful bat. He'd wanted Eggman dead since the day he found out he'd lied to him about being Eggman's creation and now he'd gotten his wish. With Eggman dead alongside Black Doom, Shadow could fully enjoy his life on Mobius and also enjoy his time with his friend Rouge.

"Though one has to wonder why the Death Egg suddenly exploded." mused Silver, "Did the Death Egg malfunction or something?"

"Eggman tried to fire some kind of weapon known as the Egg Annihilator at Mobius." explained Sonic, "He was trying to destroy the world but...I guess the weapon malfunctioned and blew up the Death Egg. I'm not sure why that would happen but I'm glad it did. Otherwise we'd all be dead."

"Eggman attempted to destroy Mobius?" gasped Blaze, "And the weapon he was using...maybe THAT was the beam me and Silver were worried about when we read about the Death Egg firing one at Mobius!"

"But the Death Egg blew up so that won't have been responsible for the destruction of our future." murmured Silver "So while it's great to know Eggman didn't do it...we're now left wondering who or what did."

"Let's also consider the fact Finitevus now has the Chaos Emeralds too." noted Knuckles, remembering Angel Island's unfortunate destruction and how Tails losing the green Chaos Emerald to Finitevus had led to it, "So Mobius isn't quite safe yet. Who knows what that maniac's doing with the emeralds now!"

"We'll deal with Finitevus another time." said Sonic, "Right now, we should just celebrate Eggman's demise and after that workout, I'm pooped. We all deserve a rest after what's happened lately."

"I agree." said Tails, "We'll rest up for now and then see to finding Finitevus and getting the emeralds back."

"Me and Blaze will return to our timeline for now." said Silver, "See if we can find out what REALLY causes the end of the world this time. We will be back to warn you about it, that much we can promise."

"Before we go Silver...did you retrieve the Sol Emeralds?" asked Blaze curiously. She remembered that Eggman had used a Chaos Magnet to snatch away the Sol Emeralds from her, preventing her from using them to destroy the Death Egg in the first place.

"I'm afraid not Blaze." said Sonic grimly, "Like I said, the Death Egg blew up. They're likely completely destroyed now. But that shouldn't be a problem, I mean the Chaos Emeralds still exist now so the Sol Emeralds shouldn't be gone since they're the future Chaos Emeralds right?"

"Depends if history's been changed in a way that alters that or not." said Silver, "We'll have a look and see."

Sonic handed Silver the warp ring he'd used to get onboard the Death Egg and Silver opened it up. The warp ring opened up a portal that led back to Mobius 200 years in the future. As predicted, Mobius was still a wreck since Eggman wasn't the one responsible for Mobius's destruction. Silver remembered that Angel Island no longer existed thanks to history getting changed so he didn't bother warping over to it. He did however look in the apartment that he and Blaze lived in now and to his surprise, he saw all seven Sol Emeralds safely displayed in Blaze's room. Since Angel Island was gone, it as very likely that in the new timeline, Blaze simply displayed the emeralds in her room for safe-keeping. That indicated to Silver that the Chaos Emeralds must get retrieved from Finitevus at some point for the Sol Emeralds still exist in the future. Silver took his head out of the warp ring and smiled at Blaze.

"The Sol Emeralds are in your room now Blaze." he explained, "The Chaos Emeralds still become the Sol Emeralds in the future and given there's no Angel Island to keep the emeralds on, you obviously kept them in your room in this new timeline."

"Thank goodness." said Blaze with a sigh, "I don't want to disappoint my mother by losing the emeralds like that. I promised her I'd take good care of them no matter what."

"And you can still keep that promise." said Silver with a wink, "Well Sonic, we'll be going now. We'll see you again when we've actually worked out what dooms Mobius in the future."

"I know you will guys, see you around and thanks for helping as best as you could." said Sonic happily, waving goodbye to his future friends.

Silver and Blaze waved goodbye and then walked through the warp ring hand-in-hand, transporting themselves from Mobius in the past back to Mobius in the future. It made Sonic sad to think that while the happiest day of their lives was going on, Silver and Blaze still had a wreck of a world to live in. Why must the day always end happily for him and his friends but not Silver and Blaze? Did fate just really hate them or something? Sonic hoped that they'd find out what doomed Mobius eventually so they could get their well-deserved happy ending too. The moment Silver and Blaze left, Sonic turned to all the Royal Fighters.

"Well then, I guess there's nothing to do now other than prepare ourselves a celebration to celebrate Eggman's demise. And this time, it'll be a REAL celebration." said Sonic casually.

"I'm certainly up for it blue dude!" cried Mandy happily, "Hell yeah, we can party all night and have as much fun as possible!"

"Before we do so though can you give me a private moment or two?" asked Sonic, "You know, with Sally? OK?"

"Sure pal." said Tails, "We'll go to Royal HQ and wait for you Sonic. I bet Sally will be happy to hear the good news."

"I know she will." said Sonic happily.

With that said, the Mobians left the room to give Sonic a moment with Sally. They all understood more than he realized how much this moment would mean for him. As the Royal Fighters all left the room and Nicole teleported back to Royal HQ to meet them there, Sonic knelt down beside Sally's bed. Surprisingly enough and at the same time scarily enough, Sally had slept through the whole thing. Her coma must have been deeper than Sonic possibly could have predicted. He knew that Sally wasn't dead though for there was a heart monitor recording her pulse next to her bed and it was picking up a heartbeat. It had actually grown a little stronger over the time she'd been in the room so that meant Sally was recovering to some degree. Maybe all the noise in the room had actually started waking her up and she needed just a little more prompting. Sonic looked at his pained, tortured girlfriend with an overwhelming sadness. He'd done this to her and it was all Eggman's fault for roboticizing him and forcing him to do this to her. Sonic put a tender hand on Sally and he shook her lightly.

"Sally? It's me, Sonic. I'm not a robot anymore." whispered Sonic, "Please wake up Sally, I've got some good news for you."

Sally didn't respond. She still lay on the bed, still and unconscious like she had for the past few minutes. Sonic shook her again, hoping that Sally would finally wake up. He shook Sally for a couple of minutes before suddenly, Sally began to stir in her bed. She was mumbling sleepily as she was coming to. Sonic's heart leapt, Sally was going to wake up at last! That alone made him feel so much happier. Sally stopped stirring and she began to open her eyes. How Sonic had missed those beautiful blue eyes while she'd been out. He felt very happy to see them open again. Sally's eyes fully opened and her vision began to clear up.

"Oooooh...where am I?" mumbled Sally, "Wait a minute...my clothes are back on..." she slurred as she realized that she could feel her clothes on her body, "I'm not naked anymore..."

She turned to one side and realized that she wasn't alone in the room. She was lying on a bed and somebody was kneeling beside her. It was Sonic the Hedgehog. The squirrel's eyes widened in surprise as she saw Sonic kneeling beside her. He wasn't a robot anymore! Was she dead and this was heaven? Or...

"Hi Sally." said Sonic softly, "It's so good to see you awake again."

"S-S-Sonic?" stammered Sally, "Wha...what? Am...Am I dead?" she asked worriedly, "Is this heaven?"

"No Sal, you're alive." said Sonic, taking her hand into his own and stroking it with his thumbs tenderly, "You're not dead although you were pretty close to it. I'm not a robot anymore and neither is anybody else. Mobius has been de-roboticized and Eggman is dead."

"I really must be in heaven then." said Sally with a slight smirk on her face, "Are you sure I'm not dead Sonic?"

"Sally, I PROMISE you, you're not dead!" exclaimed Sonic, feeling a little pained to hear Sally thinking that about herself, "You're not dead, honest! You're alive, I'll prove it to you if I have to!"

Sally stared at Sonic and she realized something about his body language and facial features. He was being deathly serious with her. He clearly wasn't joking and if Sally was indeed dead, this was way too realistic and convincing for it to just be a figment of her imagination. Sonic was telling the truth, she was alive after all. Sally sat up in her bed and put her other hand around Sonic's as he continued stroking her right hand. She felt bad for making that joke now.

"Oh Sonic, I'm sorry I said that." said Sally softly, "Please forgive me. I really was feeling like that I was dead and..."

"Sal, I understand." said Sonic gently, taking both Sally's hands into his own this time, "Like I said, you were very close to death after I tortured you as Mecha Sonic."

"Oh Sonic...you remember that?" gasped Sally, putting her hand over her heart in shock, "Oh my gosh...that must feel so horrible Sonic!"

"It did Sal, I remembered everything I did as Mecha Sonic from strangling you to taking your clothes off and finally...torturing you." said Sonic sadly, tears welling up in his eyes again, "I'm so sorry I did all that to you Sally, I really am! I tried to stop myself but I was helpless! I couldn't do anything to stop Eggman from making me hurt you like that! I'm so sorry I couldn't stop myself! Please forgive me Sally!"

"Sonic, I do forgive you." said Sally softly, tracing her fingers gently around Sonic's face, "It was not your fault and it never was. Don't EVER think it was. I tried to help you fight Eggman's control but even that didn't work. There was nothing we could have done I'm afraid."

"I know...and that's what really scares me the most." said Sonic, fighting back the tears "Oh Sally...I could have killed you if I didn't stop and scan you! I never would have forgiven myself if that had happened!"

Sally could see that her boyfriend as very troubled from the horrific experience he'd gone through in being forced against his will to torture her near to death so she decided to give him a hug. She wrapped her arms warmly around Sonic and patted his back softly as the hedgehog cried into her shoulder.

"I understand what you're feeling Sonic and I'm very sorry that you had to go through that." she said warmly, "But it's over now Sonic, you're not a robot anymore and I'm still alive. You don't ever have to worry about that again."

Sonic wiped away his tears and he lifted his head so he could look into his beautiful girlfriend's loving eyes. He smiled at the queen and put his hands on her shoulders.

"Indeed Sally." he said agreeably, "It's over now and it'll never happen again. Especially since Eggman's dead at last."

"He...he's dead?" asked Sally in surprise, "Are...are you quite sure Sonic?"

"Cross my heart, hope to die." said Sonic reassuringly, "I even watched it happen. The Death Egg blew itself up for some reason and as me and Eggman thought, he fell into a blazing inferno and was incinerated instantly. The Death Egg was completely destroyed afterwards too. Eggman's definitely gone for good now."

Sally was so shocked to hear this that she began to wonder if she was going to pass out again. She was too shocked and relieved to do that luckily. Sally's eyes streamed with tears of joy and she hugged Sonic as tightly as she could.

"Oh yes...he's dead! Eggman's actually gone for good!" she exclaimed, "At last, we can be free and happy like we have been for years! At long, long last...we won! The war is over and we're finally free again!"

"I know Sally and I'm so happy that we lived so we could see that dream come true." said Sonic, stroking Sally's back tenderly as they embraced, "So...what now? Will the R.F.S. have to disband now since Eggman's gone?"

"Nonsense my handsome hero, we may still need the R.F.S. for any other threats that could happen." noted Sally, "Remember, Finitevus is still on the loose and we have other villains currently incarcerated that could break out at any point. The R.F.S. will be far from obsolete. But at the same time, we will be living a much more peaceful time now Eggman's gone forever."

"You bet." said Sonic gleefully, "And because of this, we can now have a happy relationship with nothing to ruin it. With Eggman gone, our love and grow with no hindrances Sally."

"Indeed it can Sonic." said Sally happily, "After all, I really do love you Sonic."

"And I really love you too Sally." said Sonic happily.

The two leaned forward towards each other until their lips met and they kissed as lovingly and as passionately as they possibly could.

As they kissed, Sally pulled Sonic onto the bed with her so they could have extra comfort. Sonic was now lying on top of Sally and kissing her as affectionately as he always wanted to. They formed an embrace that they never wanted to break out of and their lips locked. This kiss was the most loving and affectionate kiss the pair had ever shared and they would never forget about it. The war was over, Eggman was gone and Mobius was free. Sonic and Sally could hardly wait to see how their beautiful relationship would blossom now they were at peace again. It was going to become something beautiful and it would be the most beautiful thing of their lives...

Up in space, The Nefarious loomed over Mobius as if glaring down at the planet below and waiting excitedly to dive down into the planet and unleash all hell on it. Hovering through the debris field that was the remains of the Death Egg, The Nefarious cruised peacefully as it headed down towards Mobius. It didn't need to be in space anymore so the ship was getting ready to go back down. Among the debris field it flew through were tiny chunks of Eggman's mech-suit, completely singed and nearly unrecognizable. Eggman's trademark goggles were among the rubble too, singed nearly to the point of falling apart. That was all the proof anybody needed that Eggman was dead. The fat villain of scientific intellect was nothing more than a terrible memory. The humans on Earth would be left wondering whatever happened to him and never once be any the wiser of Eggman's death. Such a thing was a delight to Dr. Finitevus as The Nefarious left the Death Egg's remains behind and headed on to Mobius. As the ship approached Mobius, Finitevus smiled to himself.

"I've done it...I've killed the moron at last." purred Finitevus, "Now Mobius is free from his filth. It better not celebrate though. Eggman maybe gone but now it's MY turn. I have my army, I have the Chaos Emeralds and most of all...I have my plans. And nobody, not even Sonic the Hedgehog will be able to stop me..."

He finished his sentence with a devious cackle that echoed throughout the entire ship...

Dark Armada Part 1: Never Lasting Peace

Story 201: Never Lasting Peace

The Dark Armada Chapter 1 of 25

A year had passed since the death of Dr. Eggman. A whole single year. A whole, single peaceful, wondrous year. To the citizens of Mobius, it felt like a lifetime ago rather than a year. And as every day and every month passed by, the Mobians still felt like they couldn't believe that Eggman was actually dead. It had been so sudden and unexpected that the fact Eggman was dead still continued to surprise everybody on Mobius.

It had all happened when Sonic the Hedgehog had gone up to the Death Egg to fight Eggman for the last time. Dr. Eggman had built the Death Egg to roboticize all of Mobius, an ambition that he had longed to achieve since he believed that a world of robots was all for a good cause and that it would be a major improvement over the organic life. He had actually managed to succeed in doing so but thanks to the meddling of Dr. Finitevus, his reign had been short-lived and Mobius had been de-roboticized yet again. Sonic and Eggman ended up fighting for the last time after that had happened and the overall fight had been finished by Dr. Finitevus blowing up the Death Egg. The ship was still in pieces, floating around aimlessly in the void of space just above Mobius's atmosphere. The fragments would likely be there forever. Once Sonic had escaped from the Death Egg, cheating death at the very last second in the process, he'd returned to Mobius and let everybody know about Eggman's death. Finitevus had been quite happy to just let Sonic take the credit for Eggman's downfall even though the hedgehog had made it known to his friends that the Death Egg had just blown up and taken Eggman with it. Once Eggman's death had become public knowledge, all of Mobius had celebrated this delightful turn of events, happy that Eggman's tyranny was over for good and they could return to their peaceful, happy lives without any fear of being turned into a robot ever again. Nobody was happier about this turnout than Sonic and his beloved girlfriend Queen Sally Acorn.

They'd been over the moon about Eggman's death and even as a year passed, they were still joyful and happy about it. Now they were nearing July the 12th 2144, the first anniversary of Eggman's passing. Something special was going to happen on this day and it was more than just celebrating Eggman's passing.

But as the heroes were preparing for this special day, a sinister group of villains were preparing for something much more malevolent than a special day to celebrate. This was the Dark Armada, Finitevus's insidious group of villains that he had gathered together in order to orchestrate his master plans. He had promised the villains glory and their desires to be fulfilled upon formulating the armada but he'd kept most of the plan's details secret. Nobody but him knew that the plan was called "Operation: Enerjak Reborn" and they didn't know that the plan was all about bringing back Enerjak in all his evil glory. What they did know was that the plan involved a lot of Chaos Emeralds and the Royal Fighters would be powerless to stop them since they had no idea of what the armada was planning. They didn't even know that the armada existed. Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas had been on the lookout for Finitevus though since AngelIsland had crashed down onto the ground and the Master and Chaos Emeralds were all gone but they hadn't been successful. Finitevus was still in hiding and he still had the eight Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald in his grasp. Finitevus had been so successful in his hiding thanks to his marvellous ship The Nefarious . Its cloaking technology made it impossible to find him so it was no wonder that a year later, he still hadn't been found. Finitevus had waited a year since he wanted to unleash his plan when the heroes least expected it. Being absent for a year would make the heroes unprepared for his attack and Finitevus reasoned that by now, they would have forgotten about him mostly and that nobody would be on the lookout for him. Now he felt was the time to unleash his plan, especially since today was the first anniversary of Eggman's death. What an appropriate time to carry out Operation: Enerjak Reborn! The first move was about to begin. Finitevus could feel excitement coursing through his bloodstream as the armada gathered together into the meeting room to hear the glorious news he was going to deliver them. It had taken an insane amount of patience and a lot of careful thinking and planning but Finitevus was now officially ready to carry out his master plan. He smiled wickedly as the armada sat down around the meeting room table and faced him. The group consisted of Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox, Lord Sycorax, Zira the Ruthless, Bride of the Conquering Storm, Captain Metal, Cutthroat Jim, Raphael the Cyber-Husky, Ravage Bloodfang and Team Diamond. Only three members of Team Diamond were here though, Lennox Meers, Owen Pounder and Alistair Drakken. Roxy the Raccoon was nowhere to be seen but Finitevus didn't seem bothered about that. Lord Sycorax had Romeo and Vladek on his side and Conquering Storm had her entire clan but they weren't in the room with the leaders since they were lower ranking members of the armada and this was a meeting between the leaders only. Finitevus clasped his hands together and he spoke in his usual sinister, smooth, chilling voice.

"Good morning my glorious armada." purred Finitevus darkly, "You will be glad you're all here right now for I have some very good news for you all."

"Please tell me we're carrying out the plan Finny because all this waiting's been boring me to death!" whined Scourge.

He was clearly running out of patience what with being out of action for so long and he was more keen than anybody for the plan to begin. Finitevus shot Scourge a death glare before continuing.

"Before Scourge rudely interrupted, I was going to announce that the wait is over my friends." Finitevus announced, "Oh yes, we've waited long enough now. Operation: Villains Rising will now begin at last."

Finitevus had given his big plan a false name since he didn't want anybody to have any ideas on what his plan was about. He wanted them to remain thinking it was about making their wishes come true and not about Enerjak in any shape or form. To the armada, it was "Operation: Villains Rising". In reality, it was "Operation: Enerjak Reborn". The entire armada cried out for joy upon Finitevus announcing that the plan was ready to begin. They were very excited now. The waiting had been agonizing but they'd forced themselves to put up with it until the plan was ready to begin. The relief that the waiting would now finally cease was enough to make the entire armada explode into pieces of happiness.

"HELL YEAH! Finally, the party's about to get started baby!" cried Scourge in an exaggerated display of ecstasy and joy.

"So tell me doc, what's the first step of the plan?" asked Fiona coyly, "You've kept us in the dark about the plan other than it involves lots of Chaos Emeralds and it's going to fulfil our desires."

"Well you're now being led into the light my child." said Finitevus sinisterly, his smile managing to make even Fiona feel nervous despite the fact she was on his side, "For the first step involves hurting Sonic in the worst possible way. I'm going over to New Mobotropolis and I'm going to capture his little friend Tails."

Fiona raised an eyebrow with interest. Scourge however looked like he'd just been told something stupid.

"Say what? Why are you kidnapping Tails?!" demanded Scourge wildly, "What the hell's that lame ass kid gotta do with all this?"

"Tails is many things Scourge but "lame" is not one of them." said Finitevus firmly, "He is a child prodigy with a rather skilled level of intelligence and a close bond to Sonic the Hedgehog. Capture him, Sonic will be hurt in many ways that will benefit us and cripple his team."

"Oooh, I like the sound of that Dr. Brainiac!" cackled Scourge, "So we kidnap Tails just to hurt Sonic right?"

"We do a bit more than that Scourge." said Finitevus sinisterly, "We turn Tails onto our side. We make him one of us. THAT will hurt Sonic deeply, VERY deeply indeed."

"How will we turn the child evil?" asked Sycorax curiously, the father of the Chaotix leader Vector the crocodile raising his eyebrows and putting a finger to his jaws in thought. He was very much interested in hearing how Finitevus planned to turn such a noble, heroic and spirited child like Tails into a villain.

"That's a surprise." explained Finitevus, "And you'll all very much enjoy it when I spring the surprise. That is all. I shall be back shortly. You may return to your rooms and rest until I get back."

"Yes Finitevus." said the armada.

Finitevus got up from his seat and he left the room, leaving the rest of the armada to file out of the meeting room themselves in a quiet, steady huddle that caused no pushing, shoving or arguing, something Finitevus approved very much of. Now the speech was over, the Dark Armada members were given the luxury of returning to their rooms. The Nefarious had been built with dorm rooms for the members to sleep and rest in after a long hard day of doing villainous things and commencing with Operation: Enerjak Reborn. Every member had their own room, including every single member of the Raiju Clan. An entire row of rooms had been built especially for each of them. All of the Dark Armada members entered their rooms, waving to each other as they retreated into their space of living and peace. Lennox went into his room after waving goodbye to Owen and Alistair, whom had rooms of their own on either side of his room. The dorm rooms were small rooms but not too small. They were as big as a standard sized living room with a bed, a toilet cubicle, a sink and a desk. The ceilings were flat with a singular bright light to lighten everything up. Every room was like this in terms of design. Lennox closed his door and smiled as he turned around to look ahead of himself. He had something special in his room, something that none of the other members had. A prisoner. And the prisoner was a member of the Dark Armada who had not been present at the meeting. Lennox had taken it upon himself to kidnap the treacherous Roxy the Raccoon and imprison her into his own room to which Finitevus approved of as that would keep her in place and stop her from trying to escape or betray the armada. True Roxy had a bomb stitched in her brain to prevent such an occasion but Finitevus didn't want any of his members dying anytime soon so he went with Lennox's idea as it would tempt him not to blow Roxy's head off for punishment if she tried to betray the armada. Finitevus had said that Lennox needed to let Roxy out if he felt she would be needed to though but for most of the armada's time, Roxy was all his and it made Lennox lick his slimy lips with delight. He loved Roxy despite the fact she had betrayed him once and he was glad to have her prisoner in his room. Lennox walked up to Roxy, the raccoon shaking with terror at the sight of him. Lennox had done worse than keep her prisoner in his own room, he'd stripped her to her underwear and tied her up. She was wearing nothing more than a black bikini that barely covered her breasts and a pair of black pants that looked too short for her. Roxy almost felt naked because of this. Her arms were raised above her head, exposing her armpits and stretching her body a little. Her hands had been fastened to an overhead rail with a red zip-tie tightly bound around her wrists. Her ankles were bound together with a zip-tie too so she couldn't kick Lennox and was forced to stand firmly on her own two feet in order to keep the zip-tie from biting further into her wrists. Her mouth was taped firmly shut with a huge, silver square of duct-tape. Roxy was very embarrassed, frightened and humiliated. Not only was she standing before Lennox tied up and in her underwear but she was completely helpless to do anything about her situation. She'd struggled many times but she'd never been able to get free. Roxy's heart was thumping as Lennox stood before her and started to trace his fingers down the raccoon's slim, flat belly. Roxy felt very uncomfortable as Lennox began stroking her. No woman wants a man to do that to them if they don't want them to but Roxy was unable to stop Lennox. The meerkat looked shameless as he placed both hands on Roxy's exposed belly and stared into her frightened eyes. The fact he could do this to her and not show any remorse for doing so just sickened Roxy and made her desperate to get away from this sick, perverted meerkat. Being as she couldn't though, Roxy just allowed Lennox to groom her like he was now.

"Hello Roxy, I just thought I'd give you some news." purred Lennox, putting his hands on Roxy's hips and putting his face much too close into Roxy's face, "Our plan's getting ready to commence now. Very soon, we will be commencing with Finitevus's big plan and I thought you'd be interested in hearing this because Tails is involved in it."

Roxy stared at Lennox in horror. She was so horrified that she didn't even realize he was now tracing his gloved fingers up and down her thighs. Tails was involved in the plan somehow. That could NOT be good. Roxy dared to think what Lennox meant by Tails being involved in the plan but she knew that Lennox would surely tell her anyway.

"I know, it's shocking isn't it?" sneered Lennox, moving his hands up Roxy's thighs and onto her ribs, "Tails tried to save you from us I remember. And now he's involved in our plan. How? You shall see soon for Finitevus is preparing to make his first move now."

Roxy began to feel afraid for the twin-tailed fox now. Lennox could see it in the captive raccoon's eyes that she was frightened not just of him fondling her like he was now but frightened for Tails. It made the meerkat smile with delight over this. Lennox then decided to shock Roxy by moving his hands across from her ribs and onto her breasts. The raccoon let out a muffled shriek of horror behind her gag as Lennox's hands cupped around her breasts. The meerkat again looked shameless as he was doing this. How anybody could do this to a woman and look shameless made Roxy feel sick to her stomach.

"While we wait for Finitevus to make the first move...how's about we have a bit of love Roxy?" purred Lennox sinisterly.

He then proceeded to remove Roxy's gag and stick the tape on the wall beside her with the ends sticking up so he could easily peel it off again and put it back on her mouth. He had peeled the tape off gently, something that Roxy hadn't been expecting since she was waiting for him to just rip it off. After the tape had been removed, Lennox placed his hands on Roxy's arms, pressed his body up against hers and forced the raccoon into a kiss. Sandwiched between Lennox and the wall and with her hands and feet bound together, Roxy was completely helpless. She moaned and squealed defiantly as Lennox's lips forcefully locked with hers. Lennox was enjoying himself very much but Roxy just wanted to get her hands free so she could beat him to death already. As Lennox kissed Roxy, he ran his hands up and down her sides and her back, feeling as much of her as possible. The more he did this, the more desperately Roxy wanted to smack him already. This was a moment she would never forget but would long to do so...

The first anniversary of the death of Dr. Eggman and yet there was something else to celebrate on this notorious day. And this celebration had nothing to do with death of any kind. Dusk was approaching and as the skies were turning dark, the celebration was about to begin.

It had been a long time since Bladefeather the Falcon had proposed to the beautiful and powerful Princess Matilda on her last birthday and now the glorious day was finally here. The kung-fu, dagger-wielding falcon and the strong-willed, honourable mongoose were finally getting married. Chun-Nan was ecstatic about the wedding and one could easily expect the entire village to be baring witness to this grand event. A wedding in Chun-Nan was not something to be missed and no one in Chun-Nan would dare miss such an event, especially since it was the princess getting married to somebody. It had been a while since there had been a marriage between royals in Chun-Nan and that had been when Emperor Tai had married Empress Tiana. Now for the first time in years, a royal was getting married.

This event was such an exciting event that people outside of Chun-Nan were coming to see the wedding too. These were people who had ties with Chun-Nan and especially with Matilda and the emperor. These were the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, a team of brave heroes all ranging in abilities, age, size and species. This very team had been the team to influence many other Royal Fighter teams the world over and was still the one team that everybody looked up to and admired. The team consisted of Sonic the Hedgehog, Tails the Fox, Knuckles the Echidna, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Geoffrey St. John, Bunnie Rabbot, Wilson the Dog, Mandy the Mouse, Shade the Echidna, Ruben the Water Panther, Sora Prower, Mace the Elephant, Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon and Charmy Bee. The group had been formulated by Queen Sally Acorn, former princess of the Kingdom of Acorn who had been forced to take the role prematurely thanks to Marik the Martian killing her parents. Her lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx remained by her side and despite no longer being a Mobian thanks to General Rakutan of Mobius 3000, Nicole forever remained loyal to Sally and had gotten used to being a computer programme who's physical form was merely a hologram that was able to solidify at will. Together, this team had protected many people from harm, saved lives from danger and even saved not only their world, but the entire multi-verse too. They were heroes in more ways than one and their heroism had made it possible to see another year on Mobius unfold before them. As of now, they were preparing to celebrate the marriage of two very close comrades to the team. Sally and Tai had made an alliance between kingdoms so that it would be possible to remain in contact with each other and provide either party the help they need should New Mobotropolis or Chun-Nan require immediate aid. So it made perfect sense for Sally to want to see the marriage of Bladefeather and Matilda. She was currently getting ready for the event with Nicole and her cousin Abby the Squirrel helping her. Abby had once been a jungle girl who ruled over a tribe of gorillas. Now she'd returned home to New Mobotropolis to be with her cousin again after regaining her lost memories and she had been enjoying her life back with Sally and even with the Royal Fighters for getting to know them had been very pleasant and exciting for her. Abby was already dressed for the wedding, wearing a very lovely golden dress that sparkled in the light. The dress came down to her knees and she wore gold coloured high heels to accompany the dress. Her blonde hair was plaited and hung over her shoulder and down her left breast. If her gorilla friends in the Lost Jungle could see her now, they would be thrilled to see how beautiful their former queen looked. As for Nicole, she didn't need to change since her holographic form couldn't exist outside of New Mobotropolis. Sally was just going to bring the handheld computer she was housed in and let Nicole see the wedding for herself through the eyes of the computer. Sally herself was wearing a beautiful purple dress with a singular shoulder strap that came down to the floor. She wore purple slippers to match the dress but given how far her dress came down, people wouldn't really notice until she started walking. She wore a lovely golden necklace around her neck, the kind that her mother used to wear when she was alive. It made Sally proud to be wearing her mother's necklace and she took a moment to pray for her deceased mother, wishing she could see her now but at the same time, hoping she's having a nice time in heaven along with her father. Her hair had been styled in a way that looked a bit neater and tidier looking than the usual tomboy look she had when on the battlefield. Abby and Nicole smiled brightly at their queen.

"You look gorgeous cousin!" squealed Abby excitedly, "I bet Sonic's gonna be surprised when he sees you!"

"Ha, ha, thanks Abby." said Sally with a modest smile, "I can hardly wait to see what Sonic thinks to my appearance too."

"He'll like it very much my friend." said Nicole matter-of-factly as if she knew for certain that Sonic would indeed like Sally's appearance, "And I bet Sonic himself will look very handsome once he's all dressed up for this wedding."

"Is it funny how I can never imagine Sonic in a tux?" Sally chuckled.

Nicole and Abby chuckled along with Sally. It was indeed quite difficult to imagine somebody as impetuous as Sonic dressing up so smartly, even for an occasion like this. The idea was humorous and yet Sally very much longed to see how Sonic would look in smart clothing. He'd look very handsome indeed.

"Not really all that funny Sally." giggled Nicole, her grin almost as wide as her face, "I couldn't either. But you'll have to imagine Sonic in a tux for he may well be wearing one when you two tie the knot at last."

"Not so fast Nicole, me and Sonic are still dating at this moment." said Sally sternly, her face not really matching her tone which suggested she was likely joking for the most part, "We're not thinking about getting married yet."

"Sure you're not cousin." sneered Abby teasingly, nudging Sally playfully with her elbow.

Sally couldn't help but laugh along with Abby's teasing. She playfully nudged Abby back with her elbow.

"I'm serious Abby!" she laughed, "Although if me and Sonic ever do get married, I'm not sure when that'll happen. Or if Sonic will even want to marry me for that matter…"

Her face fell as a sudden thought crept over her mind. Sally remembered how Sonic often didn't think he'd be cut out for life as a king. If she and Sonic were to marry, Sonic would be a king, ruling alongside her and living a life of royalty in Castle Acorn. Would Sonic want that? Would he cope with that? Sally wasn't sure but she knew one thing about Sonic, she wanted him to be happy and she'd do whatever it took to make him happy. Especially if they were to be wed at some point. Nicole and Abby both put a hand on Sally's shoulders.

"I'm sure Sonic will want to marry you Sally." said Nicole softly, "After all, you ARE the girl he fell for aren't you? I think you two would make a great couple. And I'm even sure that Sonic will be OK with being a king if it means making you happy Sally."

It was as if Nicole had read her thoughts. Sally looked at her friend and smiled at her.

"I'm not sure what the future holds for us Nicole, but I'm sure that me and Sonic will be very happy together regardless of whether we get married or not." she said brightly.

"That's a good mindset." said Nicole, grinning approvingly at Sally's statement, "So, shall we see how everybody else is doing?"

Sally nodded agreeably. She and Abby left the room to head out into the city and meet the other Royal Fighters while Nicole simply materialized out of the room to appear somewhere else in New Mobotropolis. Sally was excited to see how the other Royal Fighters were going to look for the wedding. She could already imagine how smart the men would look and how beautiful the women would look. It would certainly make the bride and groom glad to have invited them to their wedding. But things weren't going to go as well as anybody hoped they would…

The other Royal Fighters were all busily preparing themselves for the wedding in their individual houses all around New Mobotropolis. Some Royal Fighters were getting ready by themselves but some such as Tails, Cosmo, Ruben and Sora were helping each other get ready. To give Knuckles and Shade a new place to live after the destruction of AngelIsland, a house had been built for them both to live in for they didn't have anywhere else to live. The echidnas accepted this generous gift from the Royal Fighters and had spent the past year getting used to living in an actual house for the first time in their lives, and also getting used to living in a city that wasn't on a floating island. They missed AngelIsland terribly but they had accepted the fact the island was gone and they couldn't do anything about it. Although Knuckles had found it hard to relax with the knowledge that his evil uncle Dr. Finitevus was still on the loose and he had the Chaos Emeralds and even the Master Emerald in his possession. Of all the Royal Fighters, Knuckles had been the most determined to find Finitevus and over the past year, he'd turned the world upside down hoping to find the caped scientist and take back the emeralds. To his annoyance, he hadn't been able to find him at all. He was beginning to have the dreadful feeling of whether Finitevus was even ON Mobius Prime anymore due to his inability to find the mad doctor. Had Finitevus escaped into another dimension forever so that he could continue his evil life somewhere else? It was driving Knuckles insane just thinking about how he couldn't find Finitevus or the Chaos Emeralds. His strong attachment to the Chaos Force hadn't been of much help to him either, not once giving him any helpful hints on where Finitevus could be. So after a year of searching, Knuckles and Shade had decided to just give up the search and accept the fact that Finitevus was nowhere in sight and the Chaos Emeralds were lost though Knuckles was still holding onto the possibility of finding his evil uncle again someday.

For now, Finitevus and the Chaos Emeralds were not on anybody's mind except Knuckles. They were thinking about the wedding of Matilda and Bladefeather and how special it was going to be to watch. The Royal Fighters were very pleased and honoured to have been invited to the wedding and they all knew it was something that they just couldn't miss under any circumstances. Over in Tails's house, the young fox was currently getting his outfit on. He was wearing the same clothes he had worn for Wilson and Mandy's wedding last year, a black tuxedo with a rose in the breast pocket and a red bow tie. Flashbacks of Wilson and Mandy's wedding poured into the fox's head as he buttoned up the tuxedo. It seemed like a long time since that day had happened. He was only eight at the time, the wedding taking place before his ninth birthday. Come this year, he was now ten years old and dressing up for another wedding. Tails didn't look much different despite being ten years old now but he was certain he was getting a little taller and that his voice was dropping down a pitch. Not that it mattered to him, he was still very much pleased with his appearance. More pleasing still was the outfit he was putting on now. It made him look very handsome, even for somebody his age and he felt proud to be wearing the tuxedo.

He needed his girlfriend Cosmo to help him put on the tie though Cosmo was just as clueless as Tails was about putting on a tie and the hapless Seedrian ended up nearly choking Tails a couple of times. This had worried Cosmo but much to her relief, Tails was OK and the bow tie wasn't too tight around him now, it was just right after a good few minutes of trying to get it right. Cosmo herself was showing signs of growing up too. She was a couple of inches taller than she was last year and her leafy hair was beginning to grow longer. Her rosebud ears hadn't bloomed yet but Cosmo had plenty more years yet before that would happen. At this moment, she was in her smart clothes, which were the same as the ones she'd worn for Wilson and Mandy's wedding. Said outfit was a white dress that was made of the finest satin in New Mobotropolis and had pink ribbons and bows around torso and skirt sections of the dress. Tails was still amazed at how beautiful Cosmo looked, especially in a dress like this. Like a radiant sunflower was what he thought to her beauty. Tails smiled dreamily at Cosmo, feeling very lucky to have her as his girlfriend. He also began thinking about the future. Would he and Cosmo get married? Maybe so but not at this time. They were too young for that yet but he was sure that Cosmo would willingly accept his proposal once he deemed himself old enough to pop the question. For now, he and Cosmo could both enjoy seeing two good friends of theirs getting married. Cosmo was still going nuts with excitement.

"Isn't this thrilling Tails? We're going to see Matilda and Bladefeather get married!" squealed Cosmo, "It'll be as exciting as when Wilson and Mandy got married!"

"It sure will be Cosmo." said Tails happily, embracing his girlfriend tenderly with his loving arms, "And I bet Bladefeather's really excited about today. He really loves Matilda and now he's going to become her husband…and a prince too."

"Yes, he'll be Prince Bladefeather, ruling over Chun-Nan alongside Princess Matilda and Emperor Tai." said Cosmo with a nod, "I bet the emperor's going to be very happy to have Bladefeather as the Prince of Chun-Nan."

"Yeah and to think he used to be rude and pompous a long time ago…" mused Tails, remembering how Bladefeather used to act until his love for Matilda changed his attitude for the better, "…but he's much better now and he can thank Matilda for that. As for this very day…well, it's still amazing to think that just a year ago today, we finally beat Eggman."

"I know, I thought I'd never see the end of him." said Cosmo, lightly putting her hand over the rose on Tails's tuxedo and fingering the fake petals around the plastic stem, "And yet he died, this time for real. It's horrible to celebrate somebody's death…but I'm still very happy that Mobius never has to worry about Eggman again."

"Indeed my sweet little flower." agreed Tails, stroking a lock of Cosmo's leafy hair tenderly with his index finger and thumb, "But today, we're not celebrating Eggman's death. We're celebrating something much better and much more worth celebrating, the wedding of two very good friends of the R.F.S."

"Indeed and I'm much happier about the idea of celebrating a marriage then a death." beamed Cosmo, wrapping her arms around Tails's shoulders and neck and pulling him close to her face, "And I'm equally as happy that we're all alive in time to celebrate this marriage."

"Me too." Tails said with a very wide but pleasing smile on his cutesy little face.

He and Cosmo then pulled each other into a kiss, a kiss that contained all their love and made them feel happier than they could possibly hope to feel. No matter how many times they did this, Tails and Cosmo still enjoyed the kisses they shared with each other. After the kiss was over, they retracted their heads slightly but still kept their loving gazes fixed on each other.

"You really do look very handsome Tails." said Cosmo sweetly.

"And you look very beautiful Cosmo." Tails replied, "Especially with your hair growing a little longer. It looks very cute at the length it is now."

"I can grow it even longer if you like." said Cosmo with a wink, "When you're a Seedrian, your hair grows as long as you wish it to.

I'm thinking of letting mine grown down to my…um…behind if you know what I mean."

"That sounds nice." said Tails, "Your hair will look VERY lovely at that length."

Cosmo giggled with pleasure.

"Thanks Tails." she said brightly, "Please excuse me for a minute, I need to put on some perfume. I want to smell very nice when we go to Chun-Nan."

"You do that, I'll just get my hair combed." replied Tails, "I'll wait right down here for you."

Cosmo toddled off to the stairs to go up to her room where all her perfume was kept. Tails watched as Cosmo climbed up the stairs and ran off towards her room. He couldn't blame her for hurrying, it was clear that she was hoping to be in time for the wedding. Tails checked the clock that hung on the wall by the stairs. The time was 6:00. The wedding would begin at 8:30, a late time for children like him and Cosmo to be staying up but Tails didn't mind. Some things were worth losing sleep over. Tails walked over to the mirror and grabbed a comb. He caught sight of his reflection as he faced the mirror. A smartly dressed fox with sky blue eyes, twin-tails and a very happy smile on his face stared at him as if complimenting its solid counterpart on its appearance. Tails couldn't believe how smart he looked and yet he was about to make himself look even smarter. He started to comb down his trademark three strands of hair that protruded proudly above his head. They had grown a little longer but not too long and Tails found it easy to make them look neat. He wasn't sure which side to comb his hair over. He combed all three strands together and held them over to the right. He thought it looked OK over the right side of his face but he thought he'd be fair and try the left side. But just as he combed his hair over the left side of his face, the mirror started showing him something different from his own reflection. Tails diverted his attention from his hair to the corner of his reflection where he could see a golden portal opening up behind him. The portal was contained in a large ring and something stepped out of the ring. Something white and shrouded in a black cape. Something with a very evil expression on its face that smiled wickedly at him like a ghost in the mirror. Tails dropped his comb in complete shock. He was frozen with fear, unable to move for a minute. It was like seeing the Bloody Mary curse only Tails hadn't said "Bloody Mary" in front of the mirror so he knew it wasn't that. His heart pounding, Tails forced himself to look over his shoulder, moving very slowly and shaking vigorously with fear. To his horror, the thing in the mirror wasn't just a thing in the mirror, it was a real person and it was directly behind him! And the person was none other than Dr. Finitevus! Tails was about to let out a scream of terror but Finitevus lashed out at a blinding speed, clasping his hand around the frightened fox's mouth and causing whatever Tails was building up in his throat to die into silence. Tails tried to get his mouth free so he could scream for help but Finitevus was too strong for him. His grip was like iron on the helpless fox. Tails was more frightened now than he ever had been in his life. Finitevus was in his own house and was presumably going to kidnap him. Finitevus gave Tails probably the creepiest smile the fox had ever seen in his life. A smile that would haunt his nightmares for weeks to come.

"Hello Tails." purred Finitevus, "I do hope I'm not interrupting anything important…" he added cruelly, taking note of Tails's smart attire.

"Mmmet mmmo mmmf mmme!" whimpered Tails feebly behind Finitevus's hand.

"I'd rather you not try and speak little boy, I do not want any attention being brought towards me." purred Finitevus sinisterly, "Now, you're coming with me. I have big plans for you…"

He then proceed to turn around and shove Tails through the warp ring as hard as he could. Tails cried out as he disappeared into the warp ring, his screams silencing as the warp ring closed shut behind him. Tails would be over on The Nefarious now, waiting for Finitevus to come and prepare him for whatever it was the evil echidna had planned for him. Laughing sadistically with pleasure, the cruel, nihilistic scientist took out a small, metallic orb and he set it down on a nearby coffee table. The orb was also part of his big plan and he smiled with pleasure just thinking about what an important part that tiny device would play. He then summoned another warp ring to his hand and he warped himself over onto The Nefarious , leaving nothing but the orb behind on the table. Just as he left, Cosmo ran back down the stairs and into the living room to see what was going on. She'd heard the sound of Finitevus's warp rings opening up and Finitevus's deep, sinister voice so she came to see what was happening. She was horrified to see that Tails was gone and Finitevus was nowhere around. The Seedrian went pale with shock. Hearing Finitevus's voice and coming down to see him and Tails gone meant one thing and she did not like it at all. Her boyfriend had been kidnapped and Finitevus was the kidnapper. Cosmo was about to call Sonic for help until she spotted the orb on the table. She curiously wandered over to examine it.

"What on Mobius is this?" she asked, picking up the orb and examining it curiously…

Outside, completely unaware of what had happened to Tails or even anything going on inside his house, Sonic the Hedgehog and the Royal Fighters were gathered around and waiting to set off to Chun-Nan to see Bladefeather and Matilda's marriage come to fruition. Sonic had spent most of the day enjoying himself and celebrating the death of Dr. Eggman. Eggman's death was more special to him than anybody on Mobius given Eggman was Sonic's lifelong enemy and he was now finally dead, never to terrorize Mobius ever again or threaten the lives of his friends and especially…never to roboticize anybody and make them his slaves for the rest of their lives. Sonic still cringed over the horrible memories that plagued his mind, memories of when he'd been roboticized and forced to strip and torture Sally. He'd gone further off the deep end than he'd ever gone before. After Eggman had made him torture Sally, he went so mad with grief and rage that he wanted Eggman dead. He certainly got his wish but Sonic hadn't been the one who killed Eggman. The Death Egg had exploded and killed Eggman and even to this day, Sonic was still wondering why the Death Egg had exploded. He had nothing to do with it so who was really responsible for Eggman's death? He kind of felt glad it wasn't him since thinking back on the day, he really didn't think he'd be able to cope with the guilt of going against his moral code and making himself a hypocrite. He was glad somebody else had done the dirt work for him and whoever it was that destroyed the Death Egg, Sonic would happily thank him for doing Mobius a big favour.

For now, he was thinking about the wedding of two very good friends of his taking place in Chun-Nan, no thoughts of Eggman hanging over his mind as he and his friends prepared to go. Sonic was dressed in the same clothes he'd worn when Wilson and Mandy had gotten married. So did everybody else for that matter. They somehow even managed to find a tuxedo large enough for Mace to wear! The only differences were the fact Wilson and Mandy weren't dressed as the bride and groom since they weren't the ones getting married. Wilson wore a tuxedo that didn't have tails this time, black trousers and smart black shoes. His cufflinks were silver this time and he wore a red tie. His breast pocket was empty. Mandy was wearing a ravishing dress with a colour that looked somewhere between dark blue and dark purple with a flowing skirt section and shoulder straps atop the torso section. Her arms and chest were bare and just like at her wedding, Mandy had no shoes on. She preferred to wear dresses without shoes, an odd preference to many but to her, it suited her just fine and she wouldn't have it any other way. Ruben, who had missed Wilson and Mandy's wedding and had never gotten the chance to get any smart clothes, had put on a traditional Chinese robe that was designed to be worn at special events. It was made of silk, red in colour and decorated with lively golden patterns that made him look very fancy and smart. Sora, who was now going to witness her first wedding as a Royal Fighter, was wearing a black mini-dress that stopped above her knees. The dress was tight fitting and had shoulder straps, leaving her chest, arms and shoulders bare. Sora was beginning to shows signs of aging just like her brother was. Now thirteen years old, her body was beginning to show some curves and her height had increased by a few inches. Her hair was a little longer too and she currently had it styled in a longer ponytail with her fringe slipped neatly back. Ruben, who like Tails, Sora and Cosmo had also grown a little and was beginning to show signs of maturity in terms of his body, thought Sora looked adorable in the black dress and that as she was getting older, she was looking more beautiful. He was twelve years old now, just a year away from being a teenager like Sora. Sora thought Ruben was going to be a very handsome man when he became an adult at last as she admired him. She also very much liked his robe, finding it very striking and a perfect match for someone of his character. Sonic was pleased to see his friends looking so smart for this very special occasion. Bladefeather and Matilda would be pleased to see them all that much was certain.

"It's not everyday we all get to dress up nicely like this is it?" asked Sonic cheerfully.

"Certainly not, that's what makes it all the more special for us when it does happen." said Wilson agreeably, "And to think just last year we were all getting dressed up nicely to see me and Mandy get married!" he chuckled.

"Indeed and now me and you are going to watch two other people get married along with the blue-dude and everybody else." said Mandy with a nod, "I bet Bladefeather and Matilda will look amazing when we see them."

"I can't wait to see them!" squeaked Ruben, jumping up and down in excitement, "I bet Matilda will look very beautiful in a wedding dress!"

"She sure will." said Amy, nodding in agreement at Ruben, "I bet Bladefeather will be wearing something that will make Matilda proud to be his bride. I just hope that Bladefeather doesn't get too in over his head when he becomes a prince…"

"Now, now Amy, you know as well as I do that Bladefeather isn't an arrogant jerk anymore." said Sonic sternly, "Though one has to wonder if he'll enjoy his position as prince more than he should be doing. If so, I'm sure Tilly will keep him under control." he added with a reassuring wink.

"Well falling for Matilda did change Bladefeather's personality so I don't think anyone needs to worry about Bladefeather abusing his power." laughed Knuckles, "I bet the two will be very happy together. And to think when we first met him, he was fighting against us…"

"But that was because that mean Zira the Ruthless woman forced him to." noted Cream, "Thankfully, he's back on the side of good and now he and Matilda are going to be married. I'm so happy for them I am!"

"We all are sugah." said Bunnie Rabbot, smiling brightly at the little rabbit's excitement, "Though ah don't mean to dampen the mood or anything but…it's a darn pity we haven't found Finitevus and gotten the Chaos Emeralds back from him yet."

"I know, I keep feeling like he's gonna show up from nowhere and attack when we least expect it!" grumbled Knuckles, "I sure as hell wish we'd been able to find him but the bastard's playing hard to find! For all we know, he might be on another version of Mobius and causing chaos and we can't stop him because we have no way of getting to another version of Mobius without a warp ring or a Chaos Emerald!"

"Knux! Chill, breathe!" cried Sonic, holding the furious echidna back before he could fly into a rage, "We'll find him eventually! I'm sure we will!"

"For now, we should be focusing on something much more pleasant then that evil echidna." said Shade softly, "We can focus on Finitevus later Knuckles. Please calm down and forget about him for now."

"I wish I could hon…but given he's my uncle and he's an evil scientist and he has the Chaos Emeralds and also is the cause of Angel Island's destruction, it's hard to forget about him." muttered Knuckles bitterly.

"We all understand Knuckles." said Sonic reassuringly, "But we will find him and get the emeralds back eventually. I just hope he's…"

He was cut off by the sound of somebody screaming for help. The scream sounded all too familiar to Sonic and as he turned into the direction of the scream, he knew who he was going to see straight away. A very worried Cosmo the Seedrian threw herself straight into his arms, wailing uncontrollably and clutching Sonic as tightly as she could. Sonic could instantly tell that something was wrong and he put his hands on Cosmo's shoulders.

"Hey, hey Cosmo! Settle down! What's wrong?" he asked in a voice full of concern.

"It's Tails! Dr. Finitevus has kidnapped him!" sobbed Cosmo, "I was upstairs and I heard a warp ring open up and then I heard his voice and when I ran down to see what was happening…he was gone and so was Tails! Finitevus has got him and he's going to do something horrible to him, I just know it!"

Sonic's blood ran colder than a winter storm in White Acropolis. The Royal Fighters all gasped in horror and Sora began to cry over hearing this news. Tears poured down her face and she put her hands to her mouth as if trying to contain herself.

"NO!" wailed Sora, "Not…not my little brother! We've gotta save him, we've just gotta! That monster's going to do terrible things to Tails!" she sobbed, clutching Ruben very tightly as if Tails's life counted on him in some way. Ruben hugged his distressed girlfriend back, feeling very afraid for the poor vixen since her little brother was in dire peril.

"I'll say I mean remember what he tried to do to me, Knuckles and Shadow?" exclaimed Sonic, "You guys let Sally know what's happened, I'll go and find Tails! I'm afraid Bladefeather and Matilda will have to get married without me being there to watch it." he added grimly, feeling a little bad that he would be missing yet another wedding.

"We'll let her know why that is mate." said Geoffrey, "Just please find Tails and save him from that maniac!"

"I'm gonna come too Sonic." offered Knuckles, "I owe Finitevus many knuckle sandwiches for what he's done!"

"But how will we find Finitevus?" asked Sonic helplessly, "He could have taken Tails anywhere!"

"Believe it or not, Finitevus left me this little ball that tells us where he is." explained Cosmo, showing Sonic the sphere the doctor had left on the table back in Tails's house, "According to the coordinates on the device…they're in Megapolis. They were displayed in a hologram that emitted from the top after I picked it up."

Sonic and Knuckles both looked dumbfounded to hear this.

"Well that's stupid, why did Finitevus literally tell you where he is?!" exclaimed Sonic in surprise and confusion, "I thought Finitevus was smarter than that!"

"It's obviously a trap." muttered Knuckles, "Well we ain't falling for it! We're gonna sneak up to Megapolis, find Finitevus and ambush him! We know all his tricks so we'll bring him down before he knows what's happened!"

"I hope so Knuckie." said Sonic, "Over to Megapolis we go!"

Sonic and Knuckles both quickly changed out of their smart clothes and then proceeded to run towards the city gates. The Royal Fighters watched the two leave for Megapolis with one emotion on their minds: fear. Fear that Tails could be in serious danger now Finitevus had the fox in his grasp and fear over whether Sonic and Knuckles would get him back or not. And whether they'd get him back in one piece. It was amazing as to how quickly the mood had changed from happy and excited to worry and concern, a pity for everybody in the R.F.S. for they'd been looking forward to this day for a long time. Now it was here it was going terribly wrong and would likely get worse from there…

Tails swore that if his heart started pounding any faster it would leap out of his chest and start sprinting around the room like an Olympic athlete.

Never in his life had he been so frightened. He'd been through many situations of life and death and had seen many things that would scar a kid for life and yet he'd survived them all, even witnessing an alternate counterpart of his get violently slaughtered by Devion the Devatron leader right in front of his eyes. Yet this was what terrified him more than anything he'd ever seen or been through in his life. The fox had been fastened down to a bed with thick metal clamps around his wrists and ankles. Even his trademark twin tails were clamped down to the bed as if the kidnapper worried he'd use them to escape somehow. He'd been stripped off his tuxedo and bowtie, leaving him in just his trademark gloves and shoes again. The reason for this was beyond Tails's realm of comprehension but he was sure that Finitevus had a reason for it. The bed was horizontal so Tails was lying on his back and looking up at the ceiling. There was a glass tube suspended from the ceiling and looming above him as if waiting to close down on him and trap him even more. He was in a room onboard the insidious vessel The Nefarious but he didn't know that he was onboard a vessel. All he knew was that he was in a room and he had been restrained. His head was soaked with sweat and his heart was pounding so much that his chest was aching. Why had Finitevus brought him here? What was going to happen to him? Was Finitevus going to dissect him piece by piece and use him in some kind of sadistic experiment? The fox felt more and more scared just thinking about it. The frightened cub pulled on his limbs, trying desperately to break free of his restraints. Dr. Finitevus stood by menacingly, watching him with sick, sadistic pleasure as the fox tried to get free from this nightmare.

"I take it you're making yourself comfortable Tails?" sneered Finitevus softly.

"Let me go!" screamed Tails in terror, "Please, just please let me go! I don't know what you want me for but I won't let you do anything terrible to me!"

"Why so frightened little boy?" snorted Finitevus with a dark smirk curling up on his face, "You don't even know what I'm going to do to you yet."

"That's the scary part!" shrieked Tails, "You're gonna do something terrible to me, I just know it! I won't let you do anything to me you fiend in echidna's clothing!"

"And how do you intend to do that then you simple-minded child?" crowed Finitevus, "These restraints are 100% titanium, you'll never get loose. Even Knuckles wouldn't get out of those, you're not going anywhere."

"What do you want me for?!" cried Tails, "Why have you kidnapped me? And why did you take my smart clothes off?"

"Because you'd look rather ridiculous if I roboticized you whilst you were wearing a tuxedo…" purred Finitevus, answering Tails's last question and ignoring the others.

Tails thought for a moment that his heart had stopped beating.

"R-r-r-roboticize m-m-me?!" squeaked Tails nervously, "Oh no…oh please no! Please, not that! Anything but that! Please don't roboticize me!" he whimpered, struggling frantically in his restraints.

"I'm afraid that your pleas do not sway my decisions in the slightest." said Finitevus sinisterly, "You see, I have grand plans in mind and YOU are a part of my scheme. But you need to be roboticized so that you'll play your part without trying to betray me behind my back."

"What's your "grand plan" then?" asked Tails, almost afraid that he'd even done so.

"You'll find out for you'll be a part of it…" purred Finitevus.

He then walked over to a control panel that was sitting nearby Tails's bed and he pressed a red button on the panel. The glass tube above Tails descended down from the ceiling and closed around him, sealing him inside and making any hope of escape impossible. If he somehow managed to get out of the clamps then he'd have a glass tube to keep him contained and he'd never break out of the tube since it was Diamond Glass. Finitevus had literally thought of every possibly contingency he could think of. Now Tails was sealed inside, Finitevus pressed another button on the control panel. The ceiling of the tube, which was metal and had a round circle in the middle began to glow a bright, luminous blue colour. Tails struggled frantically in his restraints, desperate to escape but going nowhere very fast. Finitevus smiled wickedly at his prisoner.

"Isn't it clever of me to have studied the plans for Eggman's roboticizer so that I could recreate it myself?" he gloated, "I may not approve of Dr. Eggman's plans to take over the world but he has an ingenious way of making sure that somebody stays loyal to you when you want them to do so. I'm only going to roboticize you though Tails so don't think I'm going to copy Eggman's scheme. My plans are far greater than a mere roboticizer."

"You can't do this! Sonic will stop you Finitevus and you'll be sorry that you kidnapped me!" screamed Tails, hoping that his last words as an organic being would have some kind of effect on the albino villain.

"No…Sonic will be sorry that he ever met me." sneered Finitevus, "I've left a device for your precious girl Cosmo to come across. The device contains our coordinates. Sonic will be coming to save you any moment now and when Sonic comes to me…he'll be dead!"

"Don't bet on it freak!" yelled Tails defiantly.

"We shall see about that…" sneered Finitevus darkly, "Oh and just one more thing…I killed Dr. Eggman." he said to Tails, hoping to shock him one last time before he was roboticized "How ironic hmm? I killed Eggman and brought you a year of peace. Now I'm taking it away from you all and putting my plans into action! AH, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA!"

Tails was too busy staring at the roboticizer to care about what Finitevus had told him. He was petrified with fear. He was going to be a Robian and he'd be forced to work for Finitevus. Tails couldn't let this happen, no matter what Finitevus's plan was about and how he was going to achieve it. He tried as hard as he could to get free but try as he might, he couldn't do it. He was securely fastened, he had no chance of escape. The roboticizer was now getting ready to fire upon him. The blue light was glowing brightly, so brightly that it looked too big to be contained in the centre of the metal ceiling of the tube any longer. It was going to expand down and strike Tails and then it was going to transform him. Unable to escape, Tails could do nothing more than scream for help, his eyes streaming with tears of fright and despair as he screamed.

"NO! NOOOO! PLEASE, DON'T! SONIC, HELP ME!"

Sonic was much too far away from Tails to help him now. He was currently running towards Megapolis in hopes of finding Tails in time to save him from Finitevus. But not even Sonic's speed would get him there in time, it was much too late. Tails let out his final scream as the roboticizer beam struck him. His scream was louder and more pained than any scream he'd emitted before. Finitevus showed no remorse for the fox as the wave struck him and began to convert him from a Mobian into a Robian. Tails's skin and fur was transformed into metal, his eyes became optics, his mouth became a metallic muzzle with no mouth at all, his organs became circuitry and even his gloves and shoes became metal. His tails even transformed into metallic, bladed tails that were razor sharp and would be effective weapons in combat. The transformation lasted for a couple of minutes. After two minutes, the beam died down and Tails lay still on the bed. He was no longer Miles "Tails" Prower. He was now Mecha Tails, loyal robotic servant to Dr. Finitevus and another pawn in Finitevus's sinister game. Finitevus admired his new mechanical servant with delight. Mecha Tails would indeed make a fine addition to his armada. Mecha Tails's cold, emotionless optics light up with an icy blue light that looked as cold as actual ice and he turned his head to one side. He saw Finitevus and spoke to him, his voice a mixture of Tails's voice and a robotical voice.

"Mecha Tails online and ready for duty master." he droned in a monotone voice that wasn't as pronounced as most Robians.

Finitevus laughed delightedly and he released Mecha Tails from his restraints so the robot fox could stand up. The clamps were opened and Mecha Tails hopped off the bed, bowing down before his insidious master graciously.

"Rise Mecha Tails, my glorious robotic servant!" Finitevus cried with delight…

. . .

I...I...I've got nothing...just...just tune into the next chapter!

Dark Armada Part 2: Dangerous Territory

Story 202: Dangerous Territory

The Dark Armada Chapter 2 of 25

Sonic the Hedgehog thought that his troubles were finally over. Last year on this very day, the July the 12th 2144, Dr. Eggman had finally been killed in what was possibly the most intense fight of Sonic's life and Mobius had been rewarded with a year's worth of peace and tranquillity for the death of the one man that had put it through oppression for two years straight with other villains causing trouble along the way. Eggman had been killed by his Death Egg, a powerful egg-shaped ship that could roboticize the entire world or destroy it. The Death Egg had exploded when trying to destroy the planet and Sonic still had no idea what had caused the Death Egg to explode. He didn't care though for it meant he never had to see Dr. Eggman ever again and he and his friends could have a peaceful life from now on. Today he was supposed to be attending the wedding of Princess Matilda and Bladefeather the Falcon, an event he'd been looking forward to for a long time. Bladefeather had proposed marriage to Matilda on her birthday and they had decided to get married next July. Next July was here and they were now getting married on this very day, coincidentally enough the same day Dr. Eggman had died. The wedding was more worth celebrating than the death of Dr. Eggman though so Sonic and his friends were eager to celebrate it.

And yet…the peace and tranquillity had been ruined. Tails the Fox, Sonic's best friend, had been kidnapped by Dr. Finitevus. Such a thought was causing Sonic to lose his mind with worry and as he sped off to Megapolis to confront Finitevus along with his friend Knuckles the Echidna, he had one thought on his mind, to save Tails and beat Finitevus to a pulp. He'd worked too hard and for too long in bringing peace back to Mobius and he refused to let Finitevus ruin it for him now. He was very scared for his best friend as he ran to Megapolis. What was Finitevus going to do to the poor cub? Sonic couldn't bear to think about it. He was going to save Tails and he'd break every bone in Finitevus's body for kidnapping him and spoiling what was supposed to be a lovely day for him and his friends to enjoy in Chun-Nan. Also Finitevus had the Chaos Emeralds and Sonic would see to it that they were retrieved from the mad doctor. Eight previous gems like the Chaos Emeralds were too valuable to leave in Finitevus's possession. It still puzzled Sonic as to why Finitevus was being so unsubtle. He kidnaps Tails and then tells Cosmo where he is. That seemed unusual for the albino scientist and Sonic didn't like it. This was very suspicious and he had a nasty feeling Finitevus had set up a trap for him and Knuckles. But if springing the trap meant saving Tails then Sonic would happily let a cage fall on him. Provided that said cage didn't also contain something that was meant to kill him while he was trapped in it.

It had been a long run but at long last, Sonic and Knuckles arrived in Megapolis, the very place that Finitevus had apparently informed Cosmo that he was hiding in. Many memories came back to Sonic as he ran through Megapolis. Dr. Eggman used to keep his base here in Megapolis, most notably the Northern Border. First there had been a simple base, than came Robotropolis and then came the Egg-Bunker, which then in turn became the Death Egg. It baffled Sonic as to how his enemies seemed to like hiding out in Megapolis. Eggman had done it when he was alive and now Finitevus was doing it. Was Finitevus seriously trying to become the next Dr. Eggman, only a lot more sinister given his reliance on his smarts and battle prowess than robots that couldn't even do one simple thing and kill Sonic? Sonic hoped this wouldn't be the case. One Eggman was bad enough, he didn't need another. As Sonic and Knuckles ran through Megapolis, they looked around and noticed that they couldn't really see anything around. There was nobody running through the plains but them. Even the local Royal Fighters Dark Cat, Kiara the Cheetah and Thomas Tiger were nowhere to be seen. They were likely in the city of Megapolis celebrating the anniversary of Eggman's death than camping out in the plains like they usually did. Why would they need to campout when there was nothing to worry about in their case? That was what Sonic thought when he noted their lack of presences around the plains. Sonic stopped running after a while and he paused to take in his surroundings. The clouds were grey over the plains and it looked as if it were going to rain at any moment. A clap of thunder boomed through the sky as if warning Sonic and Knuckles about the bad weather that was coming to them. Knuckles frowned for there was nobody around and he and Sonic were alone together in the plains with nothing but themselves around.

"This is odd, Uncle Finitevus specifically told Cosmo that he was here!" blurted Knuckles wildly, "Where in the name of Locke is he?!"

"I'm beginning to think that he was lying to Cosmo the whole time and just planned to get me out of the way so he can kidnap my friends just like he kidnapped Tails!" growled Sonic, a slight edge to his voice that seemed to match his mood, "Well once we get back to New Mobotropolis, mark my words I'm gonna kick his ass until my foot feels numb!"

"I bet Finitevus's ass will be even number." snickered Knuckles.

"Maybe so." said Sonic casually, "So since Finitevus isn't here, let's go home. I don't like the look of those clouds up there."

Sonic wasn't one who liked to get wet, especially when it rained, so he was keen to get home before it rained.

"Be my guest." said Knuckles, shrugging, "Though I still can't work out why Finitevus kidnapped Tails specifically? Why didn't he kidnap you? Wouldn't you make a more…valuable hostage given your heroic status and all?"

"Don't ever imply I'm more valuable than my friends!" growled Sonic, "While technically I AM the most valuable person to hold hostage, Tails is as valuable as I am, not just to me but to everybody! Especially Cosmo! Tails is plenty valuable enough a hostage for Finitevus! But what does he want him for? And what is he doing to my best buddy?"

"If he harms one hair on his head, I'll show no mercy!" shouted Knuckles, "He better hope we don't find him for real because when we do, he'll never see the light of day again!"

"He'll join Eggman in the afterlife if he dares harm Tails!" yelled Sonic agreeably.

It surprised Knuckles that Sonic literally just announced that Finitevus could join Eggman in the afterlife like that. Knuckles began to wonder if Sonic was taking Tails's kidnapping more seriously than he possibly could have imagined. It didn't bother him too much though since he thought Finitevus was deserving of death. After all, he had nearly killed him, Sonic and Shadow all at once just to get some Chaos Energy from them and had nearly doomed the entire world by unleashing Mephiles the Dark upon it. That was pretty deserving of death in Knuckles's eyes. So Sonic and Knuckles were just about to leave until suddenly, a very strange thing happened. They stayed where they were, frozen to the spot in surprise as the sand and dust just a few meters ahead of them suddenly began to kick up and blow aside as if some giant invisible fan was blowing down onto the ground and sending the dust sweeping away. Small pebbles were being blown away too. The hedgehog and echidna were speechless. What on Mobius were they watching? Why was the dust on the ground sweeping away to the side like it was doing now? Sonic was ready to dismiss at as mere wind kicking up the dust and run away but he stayed to see something that he could not have anticipated. The hedgehog and echidna's eyes both widened together in absolute shock as something landed down on the ground, the noise of the thing landing being the one thing that told them there was even anything there at all, and then de-materialized. Straight ahead of them, an enormous ship materialized into view. The ship was huge and looked vaguely familiar. Sonic was instantly reminded of the Egg-Carrier, a powerful ship of Dr. Eggman's that he'd used before. But this ship looked like a more evil version of the Egg Carrier with a dominantly black colour scheme with traces of red and huge spikes protruding from the sides and top of the fuselage. The bow even had evil looking "eyes" on either side, the "eyes" being red lights with a shape to them that made them look like eyes. Sonic and Knuckles couldn't believe what they were looking at. The sight of the ship was truly one to behold and the very design even made Knuckles and Sonic feel a little intimidated.

"Holy galoshes!" blurted Sonic in amazement.

"It's a demonic looking Egg Carrier!" cried Knuckles, "But who's piloting that ship? It can't be Eggman! He's dead!"

"I think I can take a wild guess…" mused Sonic as a beady little thought began to creep into his head.

He had a feeling that he was going to see the very echidna he and Knuckles had come here to see and rescue Tails from. The docking ramp of the ship before them extended out from the side of the ship and lowered down onto the ground. A docking door opened up at the base of the ramp and something began to walk down the ramp in a rather slow, sinister manner. Sonic and Knuckles's surprise quickly turned into anger greater than they had ever felt in their lives. Strolling casually down the boarding ramp, radiating confidence of the highest calibre with every step taken down the ramp and smiling a smile more wicked than even the most evil of Satan's offspring was Dr. Finitevus. The wind blew around his cape and started blowing it around behind him, giving him the appearance of having huge black wings waving behind him as he walked. Knuckles was ready to launch himself at Finitevus but the doctor had clearly been anticipating that move for he held up a warp ring as if to say "Move one finger and you get the warp ring!" without needing to say the words himself. Knuckles hesitated for his own good for he knew too well how powerful his uncle was and his warp rings were one of the things that made him very dangerous. Finitevus continued his walk down the ramp, pleased to see that Knuckles was hesitating. It disgusted Sonic to see how confident and laid back Finitevus looked. How could somebody possibly have such an attitude after kidnapping an innocent little boy? Sonic vowed to wipe that horrid smirk off of the mad echidna's face. Finitevus finally stepped off of the ramp and onto the solid rocky ground beneath his feet, his arms folded in front of him as his cape blew around behind his shoulders and neck.

"Hello there Sonic the Hedgehog." purred Finitevus sinisterly, his chilling voice somehow making Sonic feel colder than he already was feeling, "So nice to see you again my simple-minded, fast-moving hero of the world. And you've brought my pathetic excuse for a nephew Knuckles the Echidna with you! Even better! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

The insult made Knuckles itch to punch Finitevus in the mouth but he forced himself to keep his cool and not let Finitevus irritate him.

That would be the wrong thing to do for it would give Finitevus the advantage and even do what the echidna expected him to do. Sonic managed to keep his cool though but he looked deathly serious.

"Alright Finitevus you albino-freak, where's Tails!" snarled Sonic, "You better not have harmed him or so help me…"

"Silence yourself before you bore me to death with your generic quotes of heroism and idiocy, I don't have time for that right now." sighed Finitevus, waving his hand dismissively, "So, what do you think to my ship?" he asked, gesturing to the ship that loomed behind him menacingly, "I call it The Nefarious . It's amazing isn't it?"

"It's hideous just like you are." growled Sonic, "Now where's Tails?!"

"You shall see him when I deem necessary hedgehog." said Finitevus coldly, "Now then, I assume you've been wondering where I've been this whole time yes?"

"We have." said Knuckles grimly, "Where have you been this whole time and why have you been hiding?"

"Simple: to make my return less predictable." replied Finitevus, "And I've been hiding in my ship. It's camouflage abilities make it impossible to detect and since it's mostly invisible, you had no chance of finding me. Even when the power ran out I just hid the ship in the clouds so you'd never spot it. Now I've deemed my time of patience to be over so now I'm here to make your lives miserable once again. And it'll be very easy to do since I have the eight Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald."

"That brings me onto something, you're gonna pay for destroying my home Finitevus!" roared Knuckles, "Thanks to you, Angel Island is now a pile of rubble on the ground! Do you have any remorse for what you've done?! That island used to be YOUR home too remember?!"

"I have a saying: I. Don't. Care." growled Finitevus, "Angel Island is dead to me so it deserved to be destroyed. The island was an illogical hiding place for such powerful gems so it was begging to be destroyed. You should be thanking me Knuckles for I've given the emeralds a MUCH better hiding place."

"More like I'll be THRASHING you!" bellowed Knuckles, his anger very much reaching its boiling point. Sonic could swear that he was looking even redder than before he was that angry!

"So ungrateful." sighed Finitevus, rolling his eyes and sighing nonchalantly "I give the emeralds a better hiding place and this is the thanks I get? There's no pleasing some people."

"That isn't your intention at all Finitevus!" snapped Sonic, "You just want to use them all for your own nefarious deeds! Now one last time, Where. Is. Tails?!" he yelled, spitting out the words viciously as if trying to make them sound as angry as he was right now.

"You'll wish you hadn't asked." sneered Finitevus.

With that said, the echidna pulled out a remote device from within his abnormally large cape and he pressed a button on it. At first nothing seemed to happen but then Sonic began to hear the sound of clanking feet. Did Finitevus have a robot in The Nefarious or something? Sonic soon found that out for at the entrance to the ship just at the start of the boarding ramp appeared a small robot that looked like a twin-tailed fox with cold blue optics. The robot walked down the boarding ramp with heavy metal feet that sounded much heavier than the body they belonged to. The ramp clanged loudly with every footstep the robot took across it. Its walking was very slow but sinister, like a killer android advancing slowly towards its target. Sonic thought he was going to faint at the sight of the robot. It looked too familiar for his liking. The yellow colour scheme, the blue optics, the red and white feet, the twin-tails, the white muzzle with sharp metallic whiskers and the small black nose that the robot displayed proudly for him to see were very much like Tails himself. Even the body size and proportions were the same. That could mean only one thing and as the robot stood beside Finitevus like a loyal second-hand-man would do to his master, Sonic knew what that thing was. Knuckles was equally as speechless but he thought he'd let Sonic unleash his horror first.

"TAILS!" screamed Sonic in more anguish than he had screamed since the time he'd been forced to torture Sally while he was a robot, "You…you bastard! You roboticized him! How could you?!"

"Why to keep him on my side Sonic." purred Finitevus smoothly, patting Mecha Tails on the head, "You see, I have grand plans in mind and Tails here is going to be a part of it. His scientific and technical mind will suit my most demanding and particular needs perfectly. And because he's been roboticized and programmed to be loyal only to me, he will be the PERFECT minion for me! How does it feel Sonic to have your best friend turned traitor and working for me now? Does it make you…angry? Horrified? Disgusted? Does it make you bay for my blood? Does it make you want to…kill me?" his sentence was tail-ended by a demonic grin that seemed to sum up his character as a whole.

"Oh it makes me feel many things Finitevus and they all hinge on anger, shock and disgust!" snarled Sonic, "How dare you roboticize my best friend! How dare you!"

"You've gone too far now Finitevus, kidnapping my buddy's best buddy and turning him evil!" growled Knuckles viciously, punching his fists together so hard that it seemed like he was trying to break his own knuckles in rage for reasons no more than mere stress relief, "You're going to pay for this! I am gonna break every bone in your body for this Finitevus! You're a disgrace to echidna kind and I'm gonna see to it that you'll never conduct another evil scheme again!"

"Why do you heroes never just attack already?" sighed Finitevus, "Would it honestly kill you morons to just attack me already instead of wasting your breath spewing out empty words that fail to do yourselves any favours?"

"Well since you so kindly asked, we'll fight!" growled Sonic, "And don't think I'm gonna fight my own friend because it's you I'm after!"

"Well tough luck Sonic because Mecha Tails is dying to battle you." sneered Finitevus menacingly, "And so are my other friends."

He stepped casually to the side as the sound of footsteps from inside The Nefarious began to boom out through the open door.

Sonic and Knuckles grew nervous. Finitevus had friends?! How was that possible?! Given how evil and insane Finitevus was, how did he manage to convince anybody to work for him?! This obfuscating revelation was baffling to Sonic and Knuckles and they dreaded to think who Finitevus's supposed "friends" were. They found out shortly after the noise had begun and the shock they felt upon seeing Finitevus's friends was impossible for even themselves to describe. Out through the entrance and down the docking ramp of The Nefarious strode Finitevus's comrades, the very people he'd gathered together to formulate his evil army, the Dark Armada. There was Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox, Captain Metal, Ravage Bloodfang, Bride of the Conquering Storm and her Raiju Clan ninjas, Lord Sycorax and his henchmen Vladek the Frill-Necked Lizard and Romeo the Chameleon, all four members of Team Diamond (Lennox Meers, Owen Pounder, Alistair Drakken and the reluctant Roxy the Raccoon whom had been untied and freed for this occasion), Cutthroat Jim, Zira the Ruthless and Raphael the Cyber Husky. Sonic recognized them all except for Raphael as he'd not met him before whereas Knuckles seemed unfamiliar with not just Raphael, but Captain Metal too. Sonic was shocked to see so many villains he knew but he was more shocked at the fact Roxy the Raccoon was among the villains too. She had turned on Team Diamond and wanted to redeem herself. Had she been forced into working for Finitevus against her will like poor Tails? If so then why wasn't she a robot? Sonic assumed Finitevus didn't have a roboticizer on him at the time Roxy had joined his army and thus, had been unable to roboticize her. At least she had more of a chance of turning on Finitevus than Tails did. As the Dark Armada gathered behind Finitevus, the echidna gave off a triumphant laugh that radiated with confidence and certainty, certainty of victory that is.

"I've been quite busy while you and your idiotic friends have been trying and failing to defeat Dr. Eggman." crowed Finitevus, "I've gathered up all of Mobius's most notorious villains and formulated my own army that has one purpose in mind, to rule all of Mobius and destroy all who stand in our way! I call it the Dark Armada! My armada will be the slayer of heroes, destroyer of cities and the rulers of Mobius and you and your friends have no chance against us! Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"That's right doc, Sonic and his wimpy friends can't beat us!" sneered the always arrogant and conceited Scourge, "All of us together will be too strong for you to defeat!" he declared, pointing at Sonic as if his finger was a pistol with a bullet waiting to be shot into Sonic's head, "Alone we villains were strong, united we're INVINCIBLE!"

"You both made a grave mistake coming here." sneered Fiona, her voice seductive but her tone arrogant and wicked, "You've signed your death warrants coming to challenge the Dark Armada and now you'll suffer the consequences."

"Ye think that ye landlubbers were finally free and happy now Eggman's been killed?" snorted Captain Metal mockingly, "Nay lads, yer not free at all and ye never will be! Not while this ship crew be around ta make yer lives miserable fer years ta come!"

"You will not stop us." gloated Ravage, "You couldn't even defeat that lunatic Dr. Eggman. No, you needed our very own Dr. Finitevus to do that for you. He's the one who killed Dr. Eggman and did you all a favour. But now he's going to take back that favour and do what Eggman never could, destroy you all and conquer this miserable excuse for a world!"

Sonic was angry and insulted at the Dark Armada's comments but he staved off his anger for long enough to take in and be surprised at the fact Finitevus had been the one responsible for Eggman's death. He'd always wondered what had caused the Death Egg to explode and now he knew. Finitevus had done it. But Sonic wasn't going to congratulate Finitevus. He'd only done it for his own nefarious needs and so he and his armada would have no competition for the ruler of Mobius. Though with mercenaries like Scourge, Fiona, Conquering Storm, Zira and Lord Sycorax on the team, Sonic predicted that the armada members would turn on each other like a pack of wolves and fight over the spoils once the world was conquered. Sonic clenched his fists and scowled at the armada.

"So Finitevus has recruited you all has he?" he growled fiercely, "That explains why he's been absent for so long. Well I'm gonna kick all of your butts and tear apart this stupid armada! And I'll also save Tails and Roxy from your control Finitevus!" he added angrily.

"Oh I'm not under control or anything." lied Roxy, her face cold and emotionless as she spoke, "I willingly joined this armada. You see, I was lying about my heel-turn all along. I never really turned good. I just said that to get rid of you so me and my boys could get all of the golden nuggets without you and your friends interfering. Finitevus offered us a great reward for our cooperation in his schemes too, the Chaos Emeralds. Such a fine treasure is worth joining the armada for. Sorry hedgehog but you've been played for a sap the whole time."

"Indeed he has my dear." purred Lennox, putting a hand around the raccoon's waist and grinning wickedly at Sonic.

Roxy felt nothing but disgust at having to tell that lie to Sonic. The words were not her own and it felt like she'd been speaking with somebody else's mouth instead of her own. She hoped that when the time was right for the truth to come out, Sonic would believe her. She looked at him with disguised despair as Sonic glared at her.

"I knew I shouldn't have trusted you!" snarled Sonic, "But no, I allowed myself to be fooled by your obvious act! In that case Roxy, I'm gonna kick your ass as well as the others!"

"Oh you won't get near my Roxy." said Lennox coldly.

"We're gonna tear you and the red idiot apart!" declared Zira, cracking her knuckles and baring her teeth, "We all have scores to settle with you and your Royal Fighters and once you're all dead, we'll be victorious and Mobius will be ours!"

"Not on my watch!" shouted Sonic defiantly, "Knuckles, let's take them down, get Tails back and also get the Chaos Emeralds back!"

"You got it buddy!" yelled Knuckles "For the sake of Mobius, we will destroy this armada!"

"Dark Armada, ATTACK!" roared Finitevus just a loud, tumultuous roar of thunder boomed through the sky and hordes of rain drops whooshed down from the clouds and splashed loudly on the ground.

The hammering rain and the booming thunder seemed to further set the tone of the fore-coming battle, gloomy, intense and callous. It was going to turn out that way as Sonic and Knuckles charged into battle with loud, vicious battle cries that would make any army soldier proud. The Dark Armada reacted too, all the members rushing in to engage in battle with their two foolish opponents. Sonic knew that it was a mistake to fight so many villains at once, especially since most of them were organic and fighting organic people weren't the same as fighting against robots. Mainly because organic people don't smash like robots do. But he had to rescue Tails, retrieve the Chaos Emeralds and stop the armada before they could commence with any evil scheme they likely had in mind for Mobius. It pained Sonic to think that just when it looked like Mobius was at peace at last, he was now being thrown into another war, this one likely to be worse than the Eggman war.

The hedgehog's first target was Finitevus himself, already a grave mistake to make in this battle for Finitevus was predicting that Sonic would target him first. The albino echidna summoned a warp ring to his hand and he tossed it in front of the spin-dashing blue hedgehog. Sonic dived straight into the warp ring and reappeared just above Scourge. Scourge spin-dashed into Sonic and walloped him back through the warp ring, throwing him backwards and shooting out of the warp ring like a cannonball out of a cannon. Fiona ran just behind Sonic as he came out of the warp ring and she pounded him into the ground with a callous roundhouse kick that made Sonic feel like his spine had been kicked out of place as he was hit. Sonic picked himself up just as Scourge and Fiona came running towards him, their evil eyes gleaming with delight as they prepared to tear him apart limb from limb. Thinking fast and reacting even faster, Sonic leaped out of their way, leaving his evil brother and the Royal Fighter traitor to collide into each other like cars in a head-on collision. Scourge bellowed furiously as his head began to ache. Fiona seemed to have come off worse though for she was on her bottom and clutching her forehead and nose, the latter trickling with blood from the impact. Scourge stomped towards Sonic and threw a roundhouse punch at Sonic, focusing all his raw power and strength into his right arm to make the punch really powerful. Sonic reacted at a speed so fast that even he was surprised he'd managed it, dodging the punch and giving himself the opportunity to attack. He charged into Scourge's torso, wrapping his arms around him and he tackled him to the ground. As they rolled down onto the ground, Sonic drove his fist into Scourge's mouth, hoping to make his punch hurt as much as possible. The punch made Scourge yell but that was about as much as he'd achieved. They continued rolling until Scourge managed to pick himself up and get onto his feet. Sonic picked himself up too and uppercut Scourge in the face. His evil relative cried out as his head was snapped backwards by the power of the punch but he wasn't hurt for long. Scourge's stamina was as great as Sonic's, maybe even greater. Scourge leaped onto Sonic and he pinned him down, intending to break him in as many places as possible. The hedgehogs sprawled on the ground but Sonic swung his legs up, driving them into Scourge's abdomen and he threw him off. The green villain swore violently as he crashed chin first onto the ground. Sonic stood back up only to be caught off guard as something hard and metal slammed into the small of his back. It was Mecha Tails swinging his metal tails at Sonic. The roboticized fox was not meant to be doing much fighting as Finitevus risked losing him so he'd come out in a surprise attack on Sonic. That was as much as he was allowed. Sonic stumbled forward, just managing to keep his balance before he could fall over. He turned around and felt his heart weep as he saw Mecha Tails was now attacking him.

"Tails! Fight it big guy!" yelled Sonic desperately, "You can't let Finitevus control you! You're not Finitevus's mindless servant! You're Miles "Tails" Prower and you're a Royal Fighter! But you're also my best friend! Please, don't make me fight you!"

"My allegiance is only to Finitevus." droned Mecha Tails, "I am his servant, I am programmed to destroy you and aid my master in his plans."

"Sorry Tails but I can't let that happen!" Sonic said in a tone of voice that sounded almost like heartbreak.

He spin-dashed towards Mecha Tails, deliberately keeping his momentum low so he wouldn't strike Mecha Tails too hard. But the roboticized fox was anticipating the move. He'd positioned his metal tails in front of himself so he could block the attack. Sonic hit his tails and ricocheted off of them, hurling straight towards Captain Metal. The Metal Sonic/robot pirate cackled maniacally as he aimed his gun arm at Sonic and blasted him down onto the ground. He wished he was fighting against Blaze the Cat at this very moment but he supposed Sonic would suffice. Sonic crashed down into the ground, getting a face full of wet sand and gravel from the rain soaked surface beneath him. He picked himself up and reacted quickly as Scourge, Fiona, Mecha Tails and Captain Metal all charged at him. Sonic spun around on the ball of his right foot and he drew his left leg back as Scourge lunged at him. Sonic sprang his foot forward and kicked Scourge, sending him stumbling away. Mecha Tails pounced towards Sonic like a wild cat and he clawed at him, the hedgehog turning to the side Just as Mecha Tails's clawed hand sliced through the air towards him. His hand lightly scratched Sonic across his shoulder and the side of his face, thin cuts spreading across them and stinging in protest against the rain slamming onto his body and the water soaking the cuts. Sonic had dealt with worse pain before so this was hardly going to slow him down. Then Captain Metal seized Sonic by the arm and yanked him up close. Sonic elbowed him in the face, quickly regretting doing so for he just ended up numbing his arm and Captain Metal, being unable to feel pain, was unaffected by the blow. Captain Metal struck Sonic in the rib with his blade and tore a gash through his skin with the sharp edge. Sonic screamed in anguish as a red, bloody gash opened up on his side and stung extremely furiously as the rain water streamed down his body and over his gash. Sonic wrestled himself free from Captain Metal's grasp and slammed the heel of his foot into Captain Metal's single optic. Captain Metal was unhurt but he was momentarily blinded for the kick had splattered wet dirt over his optic, rendering him unable to see properly. Sonic liked it when the environment played into his favour, something Finitevus was renowned for in his fights. Fiona ran towards Sonic and lashed out with a powerful kick. Her foot slammed vigorously into the side of Sonic's face and the blue hero of Mobius found himself dazed as head started swimming from the impact. Sonic retaliated with a punch to Fiona's exposed belly, the vixen gasping in surprise and doubling over as the wind was knocked out of her.

But just as Sonic kicked Fiona down onto the ground, Scourge ran up behind him and grabbed him by the shoulders. He yanked Sonic off of his feet with seemingly little effort and he hurled him over onto his back. Sonic hit the ground hard, crying out in pain and just as he began to pick himself up, Scourge spun on his heel and swung his foot into the super speedy hedgehog's face. Sonic felt like his face was going to shatter as Scourge's foot slammed into it and his head snapped backwards, throwing him off balance and bringing him down onto his side. Refusing to give up, Sonic forced himself onto his feet. He felt like he was wearing down though, his muscles screaming protest as he forced them to function. Fiona elbowed him in the back, then Mecha Tails slashed him across the belly with the sharp tips of his metal tails and Scourge slammed his fist atop his cranium. That dazed Sonic long enough for Captain Metal to blast him in the torso with his laser cannon. The yellow laser smashed itself against Sonic's torso and threw him backwards as if he'd been punched really hard. Sonic came down on the ground with a heavy crash and he rolled to a stop just inches away from his adversaries. The impact had been so callous that he'd chipped one of his own teeth and he spat out the chipped off half. He was feeling hurt all over his body, even his mouth. Sonic winced and groaned as he tried to get back up, Scourge cackling maniacally as he advanced towards him.

"See loser? We told you we're too tough for ya!" he gloated, "And you're not even fighting the entire armada! Just four of us are enough to bring you down! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"We'll…see about that…Scourge!" growled Sonic, new strength coming back to him as the hedgehog threw his usual taunts at him.

The blue-furred Mobian was back on his feet and charging towards Scourge, Fiona, Captain Metal and Mecha Tails before they could even blink. Scourge lashed forward and he and Sonic soon found themselves tumbling over each other once again.

Meanwhile, Knuckles seemed to be dealing with most of the Dark Armada's heavyweight. He was currently up against Zira the Ruthless and he was beginning to wish he'd had a weaker opponent. Zira was a master of kung-fu, the only one in Chun-Nan who had a chance of matching the mighty Princess Matilda. Knuckles had fought her during her attempts at taking over Chun-Nan and she'd been a proper beast to fight. She was a little weaker due to being out of action for so long as a result of having her limbs infused with concrete and immobilizing her for as long as she had been in jail but still she was too tough for Knuckles. The echidna slugged the leopard in the gut and bashed his fists against her head in an attempt to daze her. Zira tried to shake off the pain in her head for long enough to focus properly but then Knuckles put his hands on Zira's shoulders and sprung off the ground with his feet. His weight pressing down on Zira's shoulders caused the kung-fu feline to topple backwards like a falling skyscraper. Zira however pushed Knuckles off of herself and she leaped back onto her feet. Knuckles bounded back up onto his feet and cried out as Zira lashed out with an acerbic punch to the chest, the heel of her hand and all four of her fingers curled inwards as she threw the punch. Knuckles staggered backwards and found himself being callously pounded in the back by Conquering Storm's foot. Her iron-toed boot made the lynx's kicks very powerful and very hard. Knuckles felt more like he'd been hit by a bat then kicked by a ninja lynx. Knuckles was thrown forward by Conquering Storm's kick and he found himself receiving another punch to the chest from Zira. This threw him down to the ground and just as he picked himself up, Zira and Conquering Storm both kicked him into the air together. How weird it was for the two to be working together considering the fierce rivalry they'd built up between them after two encounters and the fact Conquering Storm had once succeeded where Zira had failed. They wouldn't make a habit out of teaming up in these battles though, that much was certain between them both.

Knuckles crashed down hard onto the ground, the impact sending surges of pain through his shoulders and back but he forced himself up onto his feet. Lord Sycorax came lumbering towards Knuckles now and he seemed just as keen to get rid of the red-furred Mobian as he was Vector the Crocodile, his own son. Knuckles leaped out of Sycorax's way and he grabbed the crocodile's arm. He forced it behind his back and then wheeled him around so he was facing Zira and Conquering Storm. He kicked Sycorax towards the two ninja ladies and laughed as the crocodile bowled the two over. His laughter was off by Ravage Bloodfang suddenly running up behind him and chomping down onto his shoulder with his terrible jaws. Knuckles screamed in agony as he felt the sharp teeth of the wolf penetrate through his skin and dig into his flesh. His entire left arm felt numb from the pain in his shoulder and as Ravage let go, blood oozed out of the teeth marks the vicious, cannibalistic wolf had left in it. Ravage licked his lips, clearly seeming to like the taste of Knuckles's blood on his tongue. He now wanted to eat him alive. Ravage was about to bite Knuckles again but Knuckles clamped his mouth shut, fighting the pain his shoulder, and he swung Ravage onto his back. He picked up the wolf and threw him at Lord Sycorax just as the egotistical reptile picked himself. Knuckles laughed at that but he then winced as rain splashed down onto his wound, causing a terrible stinging pain to flare through his shoulder. He was so busy rubbing his wound better that he didn't realize that Finitevus was charging towards him. He soon found out that he was going to be against his uncle as Finitevus chopped him across the face with the side of his hand. Knuckles was thrown aside but he didn't fall over, he managed to keep his balance though he began to wonder how he'd been able to do so. Finitevus then gripped the edges of his cape and swung them at Knuckles as if he was wielding twin swords. To Knuckles's surprise, the tips of Finitevus's cape actually slashed him across the face! Two horrible cuts spread out across his cheeks and blood trickled down them. Knuckles bellowed in anguish but his cries were silenced by Finitevus balancing backwards on his left foot and launching his right foot straight into the echidna's gut. Knuckles was thrown backwards and he landed with a splash in a muddy puddle that had formed from the heavy rain that just seemed to get heavier by the second. Knuckles was lying on the ground, wet, dirty and bloody and his body was screaming in pain. Finitevus added a terrible insult to a very horrible injury as he walked up to Knuckles and pressed the heel of his foot down on Knuckles's shoulder wound. This made Knuckles shout a bloodcurdling shout of indescribable agony.

"Impressive isn't it?" sneered Finitevus as the rain trickled down the bridge of his nose and off his glasses, "I inserted two sharp blades beneath the fabric of each side of my cape so now my cape can be even more of a weapon that it already was. It's like I have swords hidden in my cape. And look at yourself, you're a soggy, bloody, muddy mess and the armada hasn't even used all of its members. You're pathetic Knuckles and you're a disgrace to our bloodline. Locke must be so ashamed of you right now."

"No…you're a disgrace…to our bloodline! And dad…is ashamed of YOU!" thundered Knuckles.

He punched Finitevus in the leg and made his evil uncle get off of him. Knuckles picked himself up and socked Finitevus in the mouth, causing the evil armada leader to spit out blood as he staggered backwards. Finitevus spun around on the heel of his foot, his cape swishing out behind him and smacking Knuckles in the face. Due to the cape getting heavier as a result of being drenched by the rain, the cape wrapped around Knuckles's head and pulled him onto the ground. Finitevus took off his cape so that Knuckles's added weight wouldn't yank on the cape and choke him. He swung his cape around and sent Knuckles hurling through the air. Owen Pounder was just ahead of Knuckles, waiting for him to be in range. As Knuckles entered within a metre of Owen, the rabbit lashed out and grabbed him with his hands. Then he tossed Knuckles into the air like a baseball and held back as the echidna hurled down towards the ground. Owen punched Knuckles, his punch radiating power and strength that even Knuckles was astounded by and the purple-eyed emerald guardian was hurled through the air and into the ground like a football coming down to earth after being kicked. Knuckles lay down on the grounding, groaning loudly as his body surged with pain and he found he had no strength left in him to get back up.

Sonic himself was faring no better. Scourge, Fiona, Captain Metal and Mecha Tails were beginning to overwhelm the poor hedgehog but what made it even worse was the fact that Raphael had stormed onto the scene. His personal grudges were with Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx and Kiara the Cheetah but he was all too happy to pound Sonic into the dirt after what he'd heard about him. Plus, he'd once sent Sonic to the alternate dimension of Solbius and Sonic had somehow gotten back to Mobius Prime so he was going to make Sonic pay for coming back. Raphael blasted Sonic off of his feet with his sonic waves and Sonic found himself in more pain than he'd ever felt in his life for he was already pretty battered and beaten and had a gash in his side but now he was being pummelled by sonic waves that hurt in more ways than one. Sonic came down onto the ground with a sickening crunch on his side. He'd landed awkwardly on his arm and had just ended up breaking it. Sonic howled in agonizing pain as he clutched his broken arm. What made it even worse was that Cutthroat Jim ended up running onto the scene and he slashed Sonic's broken arm with his cutlass.

"That be fer marooning me on Cocoa Island and causing me to eat me own crew just ta stay alive ya devilish dog!" snarled Cutthroat Jim.

Sonic at this moment was wishing he was still stuck on Cocoa Island. Sonic picked himself up and spin-dashed Cutthroat Jim in the gut, throwing him down onto his back. But that was just a last, pathetic attempt at getting the last punch and Sonic knew he couldn't win now. His side was throbbing, his body was aching, his arm was beyond any use in this battle and his strength was gone. He couldn't make himself go on any longer. He was too battered, too beaten and much too weak to continue fighting. So weak that he didn't even resist when Scourge spin-dashed towards him and sent him flying into a muddy puddle. Sonic sent water sloshing everywhere as he crashed into the puddle. He tried to pick himself up but he couldn't. He was just too weak to do anything. He lay forlornly in the puddle, defeated and depressed for he knew he'd let his best friend down. He'd been unable to save Tails and now he was likely going to be killed by the Dark Armada before he could cause them anymore trouble. The beaten hedgehog could also that Knuckles was just as defeated as well, lying beside him and straining to get back up. Sonic watched feebly as Finitevus strode up towards him with the tips of his cape in his hands and ready for a slash attack. Sonic never thought he'd feel more hate and anger towards anybody other than Dr. Eggman. Now he'd found his most hated Mobian of all time and he'd found it in the form of Dr. Finitevus. If he somehow managed to crawl out of this alive, he would make sure Finitevus suffered even more than Eggman did when he was roasted alive by the explosion that destroyed his Death Egg. Finitevus stood before Sonic, his toes just under the puddle of water that Sonic was lying in. Finitevus held the blade hidden in within the tip of his cape at Sonic's throat.

"A valiant effort my ridiculous, feeble-minded simpleton but I'm afraid we were right, you ARE no match for the Dark Armada." sneered Finitevus with a tone of triumph in his voice and a triumphant expression on his face, "You were fools to fall for my obvious trap. I suppose Cosmo informed you of the coordinates I left for her to give to you? Well you can thank her for sending you and Knuckles to your graves!"

"You…won't win…Finitevus!" growled Sonic, hoping he still sounded as defiant and confident as either despite the pain in his body and the apparent strain in his voice, "Not…by a long shot! There are others…who will fight you! And you…and your armada…will be disbanded!"

"I sincerely doubt that will happen." purred Finitevus confidently, "I have gathered the best villains Mobius has to offer and I myself am a powerful adversary. What chance do you have of stopping me and my armada? And once we commence with our plans, Mobius will be ours and you and your pathetic team will be buried underground and pushing up the flowers."

He then raised the blade up high, his blade positioned in a way that would ensure he would slash Sonic's throat once he swung it. Sonic knew he was too weak to continue fighting but as he stared death right in the face, he knew he couldn't let Finitevus kill him here and now. Reacting fast, Sonic kicked Finitevus in the shin and took the echidna's leg out from underneath him. Finitevus yelped in surprise as he suddenly toppled over and landed with a splash in the puddle just in front of Sonic. Sonic, straining and fighting the pain his body, then quickly grabbed Finitevus's wrist and yanked a warp ring off of it. He flicked it into the air and opened up a portal back to NewMobotropolis. Knuckles pushed himself back onto his feet and he summoned all the strength he needed to walk over to the warp ring. Sonic helped him through and he followed his guardian friend through the warp ring. Finitevus reached out to grab Sonic but he was a fraction too slow. The warp ring closed up but Finitevus did manage to grab it before it could disappear, meaning that Sonic and Knuckles didn't end up having the warp ring. Finitevus had given one to Captain Metal to which he'd lost to Silver and Blaze, he was not going to lose another one. Finitevus surprisingly enough didn't seem to mad at the fact he'd just failed to kill Sonic and Knuckles. He kept his cool and even managed to smile about the whole thing. The rest of the armada didn't seem to share his enthusiasm.

"&%^! The runt got away!" moaned Scourge, "And we had him right there at our mercy! WE FREAKING HAD HIM!"

"And to think we could have finally killed Sonic the Hedgehog!" whined Fiona, "Finitevus, you should have just killed him already instead of boasting at him!"

"This is a stain on our honour that we must wipe clean." muttered a very stoic looking Conquering Storm, "We will kill the hedgehog next time we face him though, won't we Finitevus?"

"We shall indeed Conquering Storm." purred Finitevus smoothly, "We stand triumphant today and as the days go by, our triumphs will get greater and greater and we will have more and more victories until our plan is complete and Mobius is ours! Do not fear about Sonic's escaping my armada, this is merely the beginning of his downfall! AH, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HAAAAAAA!"

His laughter echoed all around the rain soaked plains as lightening flashed through the sky and thunder clapped as if in approval of Finitevus's maniacal laughter. The Dark Armada had made its first move and it had won its first battle. This was the beginning of many victories they were going to have in the future and the Royal Fighters would have no chance of stopping the insidious armada…

Back in New Mobotropolis, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were all gathered together in the centre of the city, anxiously awaiting the return of Sonic and Knuckles. After Queen Sally Acorn had been informed on Tails's kidnapping, the squirrel had decided to postpone their plans to see Matilda and Bladefeather's wedding. Sally had been quick to inform them on why they weren't coming and Matilda understood her. Sally could just imagine the mongoose and falcon being wed right now, wondering if things were OK right here at home and if Sonic and Knuckles would return home with Tails safe and sound. The news must have killed the mood a little between them but Sally assured herself that their marriage would still go well without them and they'd be very happy on this day. Just a pity they couldn't be happy themselves. The mood was tense and Sally could feel the tension surging through everybody around, including herself. Sora Prower and Cosmo the Seedrian looked the most worried of everybody since Tails was special to them in more ways than one. The two girls could hardly keep their anxiety under control as they waited for some hopefully good news to come to them. Sally sympathized with them dearly. Sora was Tails's sister and Cosmo was Tails's girlfriend. To have that kind of person abducted and leaving the girls with no idea on what was happening to him, she imagined it most be horrible for them to think about. Even worse in their case since Cosmo was still a child and Sora was now a teenager. The whole experience must be traumatizing for them and Sally hoped early that Tails would be saved and brought back home so their anxieties could be over.

"They've been gone for quite a while…do you think Sonic and Knuckles are OK?" asked Sora nervously.

"I should hope so." said Sally sadly, sharing the vixen's anxieties, "It's bad enough how we've had to miss what would have been a nice wedding to see and all because Finitevus decided to kidnap Tails. I sure hope Sonic brings him back here so I can give him a piece of my mind!" she growled furiously, not something she often did, even in cases like this.

"We all want to give him a piece of our minds sugah." said Bunnie Rabbot with a grim nod of her head, "Nobody kidnaps poor lil' Tails and gets away with it! And nobody tries to ruin the peace for us either! We've finally gotten what we've wanted now Eggman's dead and Finitevus is ruining it!"

"He's ruined a lot of things just by kidnapping Tails." murmured Cosmo, her eyes full of tears and her hands trembling, "And I hope he comes back safely. I can't possibly be at peace knowing that the one I love is in the hands of that…that…"

She failed to finish her sentence as she broke down into rainfalls of tears. Amy Rose and Cream the Rabbit gathered around Cosmo and hugged her to try and comfort the Seedrian. But she was so distraught it was like they weren't even there to her.

"There, there Cosmo. It'll be OK." Amy reassured her heartbroken friend, "Sonic will save Tails, he always saves people and he always makes it out victorious and alive! Just you wait and see!"

Amy would soon find out whether she was right or not. Much to the Royal Fighter's surprise, a warp ring opened up out of nowhere and out of the warp ring spilled a very battered and beaten Sonic the Hedgehog and an equally as battered and beaten Knuckles the Echidna. They both looked terrible, not only soaked from the rain and muddy from the puddles and dirt on the ground, but also they had wounds and cuts and bruises all over them. Sally was quick to notice the gash in Sonic's side and the bite wound on Knuckles's shoulder. The Royal Fighters all freaked out as Sonic and Knuckles collapsed onto the ground, the warp ring closing up behind them. Sally ran over to Sonic and Shade the Echidna immediately ran over to Knuckles. The rest of the team gathered around the pummelled Mobians worriedly, wondering what had happened. Cosmo and Sora noticed with dismay that they didn't have Tails with them, meaning they had failed to rescue him. That just made them even more worried now.

"Sonic! Knuckles!" yelled Sally in dismay as she cradled Sonic's head in her lap, "What the heck happened to you two?!"

"Who did this to you both?" asked Shade, her tone unusually hysterical for somebody as collected as herself, "Look at your shoulder Knuckles! Finitevus couldn't have done that!" she shrieked, taking note of the ugly wound in Knuckles's shoulder.

"My scans register that they've had a terrible beating." mused the former Mobian Nicole the A.I. Lynx, "Finitevus is a good fighter but some of their injuries don't look like they were his doing."

"They…weren't…" grunted Sonic, "Finitevus…is back…and he has…an army…of villains…at his side now!"

"No…no this can't be true Sonic!" shrieked Sally, her face the embodiment of horror, "Finitevus has an army of villains?! Who's in this army?"

"Many villains…we've fought…before Sal." spluttered Sonic as he forced the words out of his mouth, "We'll…give you the list later. I have…some more…bad news…though."

"Tails…has been…roboticized." Knuckles said with a strain in his voice, "Finitevus…did it…to force him…to be part…of his army. We're…sorry we…couldn't save him!"

The already nervous tone had exploded into a whole new tone of horror, shock and disbelief. The news was too much for Cosmo. The Seedrian began to feel numb all over with horror, her heart seized up, her head began to feel like it was spinning and then…she fainted. Her eyes closed and she collapsed onto the ground. Amy and Cream screamed with horror and they were quick to pick up Cosmo and carry her away so she could get some comfort. Sora was too shocked to do the same thing though. The vixen just broke down harder than she'd ever broken down before. Sora threw her arms around her boyfriend Ruben the Water Panther and wailed into his shoulder. She'd never been so heartbroken in her life. She'd vowed never to lose her little brother again and yet that was exactly what had happened. Tails was now Finitevus's loyal servant and Sora could feel nothing but despair over what had happened. Ruben embraced his distraught girlfriend back, feeling the pain Sora was going through. This was the worst thing that could ever happen to her. The rest of the Royal Fighters were all shocked and horrified to hear this. Finitevus had an army of villains and Tails had been forced into being part of the army, as a Robian no less. Mobius had finally broken free from Eggman's tyranny but it seemed a new darkest hour was coming. And it was here in the form of Dr. Finitevus and his new army. A new battle was beginning and it would be more intense than the war with Dr. Eggman ever was. This was going to be their most intense crusade in the history of the R.F.S. and maybe even all of Mobius…

Holy...fucking...shit! The Dark Armada has risen and made its move! Sonic and Knuckles are battered and beaten, Tails is still a robot and the armada's plans are about to commence! How will Sonic and friends stop this new enemy?! The heck I should know, just tune into the next episode to find out!

Dark Armada Part 3: Operation: Sabotage

Story 203: Operation: Sabotage

The Dark Armada Chapter 3 of 25

Mobius, Nekronopolis Library, 200 years in the future...

"Hey, hey Blaze! Come here! I think I've found something!" cried Silver the Hedgehog, his voice quivering with excitement along with his body.

"What is it Silver?" asked Blaze the Cat curiously. She had been sitting at a table reading a library book. The book was about the history of a country called Mercia, a country that had a medieval theme going on and a country that had a lot of history but not a lot of admirers. Mercia was no longer around in the future so Blaze had been intrigued to learn more about its history.

"Look my love, do you notice anything unusual about this bookcase?" asked Silver excitedly, pointing at the rather tatty looking bookcase that was nearly empty of all books and was in a state of decay. Any books it did have on the crumbling shelves were barely intact or in good condition.

Blaze walked towards the bookcase and looked at what Silver was pointing at. The cat's eagle eyes caught what he was pointing at almost immediately. She could see a gap behind the bookcase, a funny thing to see behind a bookcase for behind the case itself should be a wall, not a gap. The cat began to wonder about this gap behind the tattered bookcase. They'd missed it all the time they'd been coming to this library and yet now they'd finally noticed it.

"There's a gap behind that case!" blurted Blaze in surprise, "How did we miss that?"

"Beats me." said Silver with a shrug, "Oh well, let's see what it is. There must be a new room behind there! Maybe it's full of new books we can study!"

"Please don't get excited Silver." said Blaze with concern, putting her hands on her boyfriends arm, "I don't want you to die of disappointment if it turns out to be nothing."

"Don't worry Blaze, I'm being cautiously optimistic." said Silver reassuringly, stroking his beloved cat's hands softly, "Oh well, here goes."

Silver and Blaze held their breaths as Silver began to use his psychokinesis to push aside the bookcase. Silver was a psychokinetic hedgehog with five quills protruding between his eyes and over his forehead and two large quills protruding from behind his head. His girlfriend Blaze was a pyrokinetic cat who was formerly a princess but no longer took the title thanks to a tragedy that resulted in the extinction of her kingdom and her being the last fire cat alive. They were both Mobians from Mobius's future, and it was a terrible future to be in for them. Two-hundred years ago in their time, something had caused the end of the world. Cities were ruined, water and food was scarce, forests were bare and the sky was forever dull and grim with burning orange colours mixed with grey clouds. Silver and Blaze desired nothing more than to see Mobius's future improved and they had gone back in time to disprove any theories that they had gotten from their research of Mobius's past. They had been horribly unsuccessful in their attempts and the whole thing was beginning to frustrate the two. But they knew that Mobius wasn't going to fix itself so Silver and Blaze didn't give up. They were going to fix Mobius no matter what it took and seeing how beautiful Mobius was in the past, it would be totally worth it for them. The silver hedgehog and the lavender cat had been doing most of their research in Mobius's library, which was easily the best place to do their research in. But given the run down and ravaged appearance of the library and the tattered state of the books, that wasn't saying much. It was like saying a headless chicken was better than one that had just died. But Silver and Blaze had managed to disprove any theories they had read about so they had narrowed their choices down considerably. Mobius must end at least some time after the year 2143 but sadly, they couldn't find any books that documented Mobius's history after the year 2143. And now the psychokinetic hedgehog had just found out there was a gap behind a bookshelf. Using his powerful psychokinesis, the bookcase was effortlessly pushed aside by Silver and he and his pyrokinetic love interest were met with a surprising sight. A whole new room was hiding behind the bookcase and it was mostly intact! It was mostly dusty and some books had fallen onto the floor but otherwise, the room was in excellent condition. The apocalypse must have been unlucky enough to miss this particular room, luckily for the future Mobians. Silver fought to keep his excitement under control as he saw what was behind the case.

"YES! Another room!" yelled Silver excitedly, "And the books look intact too! We'll have a good chance of finding what we desire to find out!"

"Yes Silver but it's very likely there are no history books in this room so don't get too hopeful." said Blaze cautiously, "Don't build yourself up to disappointment please."

"OK Blaze, I won't." said Silver softly, "But still, this is a surprising find for us. Who'd have thought this forgotten room was there the whole time?"

"Who indeed?" agreed Blaze as she walked into the room, her high heels making a soft clunking noise as she walked across the wooden floor that two-hundred years ago would have been nicely polished and shiny.

Silver followed Blaze eagerly into the room and was marvelled at the sight of it. How could this one room be mostly intact in comparison to the rest of the library? It seemed like a miracle and Silver had to pinch himself several times to make sure he was still awake and this wasn't a dream. All that happened was that he sent a bit of pain surging up his arm, nothing more. He was still awake. That was good news already for the determined hedgehog. Maybe this whole new room would actually have the answers he needed at long last! Taking in Blaze's advice though, he forced himself to keep calm and not get too hopeful. This room could just have books that had no relevance to what he wanted. Silver and Blaze observed the bookshelves that were all around the room. They had the usual labels that told the visitors to the library what kind of books were on offer. Silver scanned the bookcases closely to see if there were any history books on the shelves. He didn't look for long though for Blaze seemed to have spotted the history section almost immediately. She was looking at another shelf on the other side of the room and her sharp eyesight had spotted what they were looking for straight away.

"Silver, here's the history section." Blaze called over to him, "And there's quite a lot in this section."

Silver ran over to Blaze and gaped at the miraculous sight that lay before him and his fiery partner. There was a shelf on the bookcase and it was labelled with a gold plate with the words "history books" carved on it. The shelf was completely full too, about twenty books in total on the shelf. All the books were in great condition and there wasn't a single gap between them, meaning no history books had fallen off the shelf during the apocalypse. That gave Silver even more excitement building up inside him. The books wouldn't be tattered or missing any pages! He could find just what he was looking for! Silver began to wonder if he was dreaming again so he pinched himself once again to double check. Again, he was still standing here and standing at this miracle sight before him. He wasn't dreaming. Silver just felt even more happy knowing that he wasn't dreaming.

"This is just what we've been looking for!" cried Silver, "A whole shelf of history books! This is just what we need!"

"Provided those books actually have the information we're looking for." said Blaze, her face stoic for she didn't want to get too excited yet.

"Oh come on Blaze, show some enthusiasm!" chuckled Silver, playfully nudging his feline companion with his elbow, "We're closer to finding the answers we need in order to prevent the end of the world than ever before!"

"You don't know that for sure Silver." said Blaze softly, "Those books may not far enough to the year the apocalypse began. I have every right to be sceptical, please understand that."

"I understand hon, I really do." said Silver, patting Blaze gently on the back, "Well, let's see if these books have the information we require."

He peered at the bookshelf and he scanned the titles on the spines of the enormous row of books carefully. He was surprised at how fast he ended up finding something promising. The tenth book in the row was a rather thin book with its title written in tiny letters on the spin. It said "Mobius 2144: The Final Year". Silver yanked it off the shelf immediately.

"Look at this!" he cried out joyfully, "This book is titled "Mobius 2144: The FINAL Year"! That means the world ends in 2144! We now know WHEN this disaster happens! This is just what we 've been looking for! Hallelujah Blaze we've finally found what we've been looking for!"

"Oh Silver, it's a miracle find!" gasped Blaze, her eyes brimming with happy tears, "The title of that book alone already helps us! We now know WHEN the world ends! 2144! That's the year we need to go back to in order to prevent this from happening!"

She and Silver embraced with delight over this information. They were finally getting somewhere at long last. It truly was a miracle indeed.

"Yes, but WHAT causes the apocalypse?" asked Silver, "Let's see if the book can tell us that."

Blaze, now feeling more optimistic, kept her fingers crossed as Silver blew dust off of the book and opened it up. He was already met with a wall of text on the inside of the cover page. Silver read it eagerly. The text had been hand-written by the original author of the book, who's name was "Yassen Romanoff". The name told Silver that the author was likely Russian in nature. The text said:

The apocalypse has happened and I'm one of the few Mobians to have survived the disaster. A thousand of us still live, maybe a few more than that but I wouldn't be too surprised if there's not a lot more. I am writing this book so that we Mobians will always remember what had caused this disaster. Maybe somebody in the future can work out how to prevent this from happening thanks to the information in this book. There will be no way of publishing this book so this singular copy is all that there is to tell of Mobius's final hours. Hopefully the Nekronopolis library will receive visitors that will come across this book and learn what caused the end of our great world.

Yassen Romanoff, one of the few apocalypse survivors.

Silver could feel nothing but despair and sorrow for the man who had written those words. He must have perished sometime after writing the book because it had been left in this very library to collect dust for all eternity. 200 years pass by and yet Silver was now the first person in 200 years to be even so much as looking at the book in his hands. He imagined that nobody knew about this book for it clearly hadn't been read since the day it had been written and nobody knew what had ended the world. The apocalypse survivors had obviously died out before they could share their information or at the least didn't even know what had ended the world in the first place, leaving a generation of Mobians completely in the dark about this catastrophic event for twenty whole decades. And now the answers were finally going to be revealed. With baited breath, Silver turned the page and began to read...

Mobius, New Mobotropolis City, present time...

It had been a day since it had happened.

The New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had enjoyed a year of peace and tranquillity after the death of Dr. Eggman last year. But just as they thought their worries were far behind for good at long last, a new dark hour had dawned over them all. Miles "Tails" Prower, the Royal Fighter inventor and technician had been kidnapped by Dr. Finitevus, the evil uncle of Knuckles the Echidna. But that wasn't all that had happened. Tails had not only been kidnapped by Dr. Finitevus, but he had been roboticized by the mad doctor and made into his loyal servant, the cold and emotionless Mecha Tails. He had also been recruited into Finitevus's deadly army, the Dark Armada. The Dark Armada was an evil army consisting of many of Sonic's deadliest enemies and led by the mad, nihilistic doctor himself. Sonic the Hedgehog and Knuckles the Echidna had fought this armada…and ended up coming home extremely battered, bruised, wounded and weak.

They were now lying in a bed each in the New Mobotropolis Hospital with Mariah the Medicine Cat tending to their wounds. She gave them some of her miracle medicines that would accelerate their recovery rate and ease the pain in their bodies. They weren't the only ones in the hospital though, Cosmo the Seedrian was in hospital with them too. She had fainted upon hearing the terrible news and was now recovering along with the hedgehog and echidna. She had come to and had been given some medicine to help her get better once she had been woken up. The rest of the Royal Fighters were in the room with the three patients, all of them exchanging sad and pained glances of sorrow and despair. Tails being kidnapped and made into Finitevus's loyal servant was the kick to the head but the fact Sonic and Knuckles had failed to rescue him and only had bad news to deliver was the kick that knocked the head out. Mariah looked sad as she observed her patients. She was used to seeing pained faces and she could see that her trio of patients were in a lot of pain indeed.

"It must have been a terrible fight my darlings." she said pityingly, lightly stroking Sonic's forehead to comfort him, "Look at that ghastly gash in your side! Who did that? Some maniac with a sword?"

"You…ungh…could say that!" grunted Sonic, pain evident in not just his body, but his voice too. Captain Metal had been the cause of the gash in his side and he'd done it with his own sword so Mariah's guess was spot on.

"And what in the world happened to your shoulder young man?" asked Mariah, looking shocked to see such a wound. It had been bandaged up but the size of the bandages still left the tell-tale signs of the size of the wound, "You look like you were bitten by a monster!"

"If you'd class a wolf who wears a skull mask and a cape "a monster" then yeah, you're pretty much bang on." Knuckles said with a winch, gritting his teeth as pain flared up his shoulder.

"You sure looked like you were up against some powerful, vicious people." said Mariah with a shudder, "I dread to think who in the world you were fighting against."

"Well dread no more for you're about to know who we were against." said Sonic, fighting off the pain in his side long enough to speak clearly, "Surely you've heard of Dr. Finitevus right?"

"I have. I was there when he ruined Sandy's concert and brought a floating island above our city!" exclaimed Mariah, "Did he do this to you both?"

"Not all of it." said Sonic truthfully, "He's gathered together some of our worst enemies ever from my evil brother Scourge to Chun-Nan's two evil ladies Zira and Conquering Storm to the Royal Fighter traitor Fiona and much more. And the worst part is he's kidnapped Tails, roboticized him and made him a member of his evil army!"

"And it makes my heart ache with worry to think what Finitevus is using my sweet, handsome fox for!" wailed Cosmo, her eyes raining with tears once again, "Oh why did Finitevus have to kidnap him?! Why couldn't he just leave us all alone and let us live in peace?!"

Mariah gave Cosmo a sympathetic gaze as the heartbroken Seedrian began to cry once again. Amy and Cream were once again on hand to sit by Cosmo's bed and comfort her as she sobbed into her hands. One had to wonder how Cosmo still had any tears left in her eyes to cry. Amy put her arms around the wailing Seedrian whereas Cream patted her softly on the back, shedding tears for her distraught friend.

"Oh poor Cosmo. She's never going to be happy until we save Tails!" wailed Cream, "It's making me sad to see how upset she is!"

"It saddens me too." said Amy grimly, stroking Cosmo's hair softly to ease her nerves, "And it angers me too! How dare Finitevus kidnap Tails! He's Sonic's best friend and Cosmo's boyfriend! He's hurt my idol and he's hurt my second best friend! I swear if I see that white-furred bastard again I'm going to break every bone in his body! For Sonic and for Cosmo!"

"I doubt you'll even get within five feet of him before he takes you out Amy." said Sonic with a sad but serious expression on his face, "He can take us all out and now he's got an army of Mobius's most notorious villains, he's even more untouchable."

"I agree and considering the list of villains he's recruited for his army, we're really in for a tough battle." said the Royal Fighter leader and queen Sally Acorn, "What an army of villains he has! Scourge, Fiona, Zira, Conquering Storm and her entire clan, Captain Metal, Ravage, all of Team Diamond, Lord Sycorax and his two henchmen all together! Cutthroat Jim, I don't really know much about but I assume he's not much of a threat. As for Raphael, Dark and Kiara told me about him a few months ago. Said he'd given them a hard time and tried to make them cyborgs* so I bet he's a liable threat."

"He is your majesty." put in Knuckles, "He took Sonic down with a tunnel of sonic waves from his forehead! It looked like a powerful attack too!"

"It was!" exclaimed Sonic, "Finitevus sure knew how to make an army, he really did! And he's also got my buddy Tails on his side, as Mecha Tails. It burns me to think of the fact he's done this, he's turned my best friend into a robot and is forcing him to do evil things for him! It's as bad as the time Eggman roboticized me and made me torture you Sally!" he blustered, thinking back to a time he longed to forget and a time he was sure Sally longed to forget too.

"Don't remind me." said Sally grimly, her mind fighting hard to keep the terrible memories away, "Finitevus has shown his hand and he has some kind of goal in mind. Why else would he gather together so many villains? We have to stop him and his armada and get Tails back before he can commence with his plans!"

"But how can we do that sugah?" asked Bunnie Rabbot worriedly, "Ah mean, look what they did to Sonic and Knuckles!" she exclaimed, gesturing wildly at the injured hedgehog and echidna lying on the beds before them.

"That was our first mistake." noted Sally, "We should have all gone together instead of just letting Sonic and Knuckles go alone. Next time we fight the Dark Armada, we will fight them all together. Only with our forces combined will we be able to bring the armada down."

"I agree Sally." said the A.I. Mobian Lynx Nicole, "Now then, I believe Sonic and Knuckles told us the Dark Armada has a ship called "The Nefarious"? If we find that ship, we find the armada."

"But the blokes told us it has cloaking technology." noted Geoffrey St. John, "The bloomin' thing will likely be invisible. We'll NEVER find it!"

"Wrong Geoffrey." said Nicole matter-of-factly, "I am linked to Mobius's satellites and the satellites have heat-vision technology. I just set the satellites to heat-sensor mode and we'll find the ship easily. It'll detect the ship's heat signature and show us exactly where it is. No cloaking technology in the world can hide a heat signature."

"Have I ever told you your lady-in-waiting's a genius cousin?" chuckled Abby the Squirrel, playfully nudging Sally with her shoulder.

"Yes Abby, you have." laughed Sally, "Well then Nicole, you go to Royal HQ and search for The Nefarious. We'll wait for you to return."

Nicole nodded and she materialized out of the room. This was something she was beginning to enjoy now, the ability to warp herself from room to room within any point of the city. It was quite fun for her and also meant she could never be late for anything, or take a long time to go to and fro. In a matter of seconds, she would be over in Royal HQ and Nicole would be searching for The Nefarious . The moment she left, Cosmo clasped her hands together, clearly concerned about something. Amy patted her back gently.

"You OK Cosmo?" she asked?

"I'm just holding back the bit of excitement that's building up in me now." she said quietly, "Excitement as in we'll find Finitevus's ship and get Tails back."

"Once we find that ship, we'll take the stealth approach before we all charge in together." explained Sally, "A direct attack would be suicide, especially as we have nothing that can combat an upgraded Egg-Carrier at the moment. The best option would be to sabotage the ship and bring it down. Ground the Dark Armada and take away the advantage they have over us."

"Great idea Sally-girl!" cheered Bunnie excitedly, "Say, can me and mah handsome skunk be the saboteurs? Ah'd love to have the opportunity to ground The Nefarious for ya'll!"

"I would too." said Geoffrey with a rather devious smirk on his face, "Please your majesty, allow me and my beautiful Bunnie take part in this mission. I can set up a bunch of darts around strategic areas of the ship and set them to blow! And Bunnie's strength and weapons will blow that blighter apart!"

Sally wasn't entirely sure about sending two Royal Fighters into The Nefarious like that, especially as it was a risky gambit to take but she couldn't see why she shouldn't send two very capable Royal Fighters like Bunnie and Geoffrey on a sabotage mission. They would likely make it out of the ship alive and be back in time to report to them so that they could launch the full frontal attack. She sighed but she smiled at Bunnie and Geoffrey.

"Well since you two plucky fighters so kindly volunteered, I think I'll accept your offer." said Sally brightly, "You two will be the saboteurs who will take down The Nefarious for us. Come back to us once the ship is down or at least come back to us if you're too overwhelmed and need to retreat. Overall though…come back to us ALIVE."

"We will yer highness, we will." said Bunnie with a wink, "We'll get goin' once Nicole gives us the low down on the durn ship's location."

The moment she finished that sentence, Nicole suddenly re-materialized into the room. It had only been about five minutes and she was already back.

The moment she finished that sentence, Nicole suddenly re-materialized into the room. It had only been about five minutes and she was already back. Everybody gathered around, eagerly awaiting for Nicole to give them the news.

"I've found the ship!" gasped Nicole, "It's flying over Nekronopolis!

It's flying away from the city though so no worries about Miranda and her team getting caught up in any destruction. We have to catch it now we know where it is!"

"Bunnie, Geoffrey, there's your cue." said Sally with a wink, "Fly over to Nekronopolis and bring that ship crashing down!"

"Will do sugah." declared Bunnie, "And me and Geoffrey will get ourselves some heat-vision goggles so we can see the ship as he enter Nekronopolis. Come on sugah, let's go and sabotage The Nefarious!"

"Right behind ya luv!" cried Geoffrey excitedly.

He and Bunnie proceeded to run out of the room as fast as they could to get the goggles they'd need for the mission. Upon acquiring the goggles, they would be up in the air together and flying off to Nekronopolis. With Bunnie's powerful jets, they would be over in Nekronopolis in a matter of minutes. As soon as they'd left, Cosmo climbed out of her bed and called over to Mariah.

"Please excuse me miss, but I need to use the bathroom." she said politely.

"Run along my darling." said Mariah sweetly, "You know where the bathrooms are. Come straight back once you're finished."

Cosmo nodded and then she left the room to go down to the toilets. As soon as she left, Sally knelt down beside Sonic's bed and tenderly took his hand into her own. Her soft, gentle and loving her hands felt around his own was all the hedgehog could think at this moment. He smiled at his beautiful girlfriend, her presence alone making him feel much better already.

"We'll get Tails back Sonic, I promise you we will." Sally said softly, "I know how much he means to you and we will not rest until he's back safe at home with us."

"I know Sal." said Sonic, "Believe me, if it was you in Tails's position, I would turn the world upside down if it meant saving you from Finitevus's control."

"Then let us turn the world upside down to bring Tails back." said the squirrel, kissing Sonic on the cheek while still stroking his hands.

Sonic gave Sally a grim smile. Finitevus would regret ever kidnapping Tails and formulating his insidious armada. But one question burned in Sonic's mind. Why did Finitevus formulate this army? What was he planning? And why did he need an army to commence with his plans…?

Meanwhile, The Nefarious was hovering over the Golden Hive Colony, having traversed all the way across Nekronopolis in order to reach the bee populated city. The Golden Hive Colony was a haven for bees all over Mobius and also the birthplace of Team Chaotix's Charmy Bee. It was ruled by King Stinger and Queen Bess and was a happy place for bees to live in and make honey like bees did. But the city was not in for a happy time. The city was being invaded by the Dark Armada. The Nefarious de-cloaked, revealing itself to the citizens in all its terrifying, malevolent, evil glory and the Dark Armada descended down from the ship and into the city below. Not all the armada was there though, only Finitevus and Ravage Bloodfang remained behind to run the ship. Mecha Tails had been put in charge of the invasion force and as the armada touched down into the city, he pointed ahead of himself to the city all around him. The bees panicked and began buzzing around in a frenzy that was unmatched by anything in the world.

"Storm the city, steal all their honey, kill anyone who tries to interfere." he ordered, "The master needs material to create Chaos Emeralds out of.

The Dark Armada obeyed his commands and they all ran rampant through the city, causing chaos and stealing whatever honey they could get their hands on. The panicked, frightened bees didn't dare get in their way and they began to fly away as fast as their wings would let them, allowing the evil group to commence with their nefarious mission. Finitevus was putting Stage One of Operation: Enerjak Reborn (Villains Rising to the Armada for they don't know his true intentions) into action. He was going to steal and mine whatever materials he could find in order to create hordes of Chaos

Emeralds. It was a curious truth in the world of science that Chaos Emeralds could be made out of just about anything as long as it's mixed with Chaos Energy and Finitevus, being a Chaos scientist, knew this very well. The Dark Armada would steal every last drop of honey and they would give it all to Finitevus to use for his evil experiment.

Up on the ship, Dr. Finitevus stood in the bridge, surrounded by computer monitors and he seemed to be listening intently to somebody, completely ignoring the carnage down on the ground that the ship's screens were showing him. Ravage was actually keeping an eye on the mission and was enjoying what he was seeing. They would hopefully storm Adabat and steal whatever they could for Finitevus to turn into Chaos Emeralds. He didn't understand the need for thousands of Chaos Emeralds but he supposed Finitevus had his reasons. Maybe he was increasing the number of Chaos Emeralds from nine (eight including the Master Emerald) to a thousand to make the Armada more powerful. Powerful enough to conquer the world and have no resistance. Ravage looked up from the screens and saw that Finitevus had his index and middle fingers pressed against his ear and he was nodding as if he was listening to a conversation. The wolf was confused and he waited until Finitevus took his fingers away from his ear before he asked.

"I beg your pardon Finitevus but what were you doing?" asked Ravage.

"Listening to a call. I've received a tip-off from my agent." explained Finitevus, "Apparently Bunnie Rabbot and Geoffrey St. John are coming to sabotage The Nefarious and make us easier targets for the Royal Fighters."

"How did they know about that?!" asked Ravage wildly.

"Nicole used Mobius's satellites to locate my ship via heat signature." explained Finitevus, "Not that it matters since I'll always know the Royal Fighter's moves before they make them."

"So tell me, who is this agent of yours?" asked Ravage curiously.

"That would be telling." said Finitevus, tapping his nose with his index finger, "Needless to say, it is somebody trustworthy and reliable and somebody who'd make a fine Dark Armada member. Now then, I trust you have scores to settle with the skunk and rabbit?"

"I do indeed." said Ravage grimly, "Geoffrey and Bunnie ruined my plans to destroy Adabat and Bunnie destroyed a powerful weapon that I could have used to destroy the country! They even ruined my killing streak on Victorbius, a Victorian themed Mobius too! I so want to eat them alive! Bunnie first since I hate her more!"

"Then prepare the dinner table my friend because dinner will be served." purred Finitevus sinisterly, "I have the perfect thing to deal with Bunnie Rabbot and Geoffrey will be taken out very easily."

"I can hardly wait!" cried Ravage gleefully, licking his lips wickedly over the thought of eating his former friend and her boyfriend.

Finitevus cackled at Ravage's delight and he led the wolf out of the room so they could prepare for Bunnie and Geoffrey's arrival…

It had been a long but peaceful flight over to Nekronopolis for Bunnie and Geoffrey but the two were finally arriving at the very location The Nefarious had been located in. Bunnie soared through the sky like a graceful bird with the rockets in her feet. She carried Geoffrey in her arms, holding on tightly to the skunk as they headed to Nekronopolis. The rabbit and skunk were wearing heat vision goggles so that they could locate The Nefarious should it turn invisible. Their goggles were silver rimmed with green lenses and they already had them on. Bunnie and Geoffrey flew through the sky and kept their eyes peeled for any sign of The Nefarious . They were quite surprised when they eventually came across it but not because they were surprised to have finally found it. They were surprised to see WHERE they had found it. That is to say it was looming above the Golden Hive Colony but it seemed to be packing up for they could see Dark Armada members waiting for the ship to take them back onboard. They watched as a large, silver and blue cylinder tunnel descended down from below the ship and closed over some of the Dark Armada members. Once the cylinder closed down around them, a force field emitted underneath their feet, forming a floor that would keep them in and the cylinder retracted back into the ship. Bunnie and Geoffrey were shocked and also puzzled. What was the Dark Armada attacking the Golden Hive Colony for? What could they possibly want to be here for? The colony surely didn't have anything of use for such an insidious army? Whatever the reason, it couldn't be good. Bunnie and Geoffrey lifted up their goggles and was straight away that they wouldn't need them. The Nefarious wasn't cloaked, it was visible for them. They kept hold of the goggles as a just in case though, leaving them perched above their eyes. Bunnie touched down behind a building and she lowered Geoffrey to the ground. They watched as some Raiju Clan ninjas lined up for The Nefarious to take them aboard. There wasn't enough room for all the clan to be taken on at once so they had to split into groups of ten. Twenty ninjas populated the clan so there were two groups, ten in each, waiting to be taken aboard.

"So the ugly ol' ship decided to attack this place huh?" mused Bunnie, "Ah can't for the life of me think why they would want a bee colony."

"Maybe Finitevus wants them to join his army?" asked Geoffrey.

"No sugah, ah doubt he'll be THAT desperate for more members." said Bunnie with a shake of her head, "And besides, the bees won't be of much use to him. All they do is fly around and make honey all day. What use would they be to him?"

"Good point babe." said Geoffrey, "So what do we do to get onboard that vessel?"

"We wait until that tunnel comes down again." deduced Bunnie, "And once we're on, it's time for Operation: Sabotage to commence. And maybe while we're at it, we can save Tails too."

"I like your thinking luv." said Geoffrey with a smile, "We move on your mark."

"Alright then. Ready to move in three…two…"

Bunnie paused for a tense moment as the first group of Raiju Ninjas were taken aboard The Nefarious . Once they had been taken aboard, the cylinder began to descend down to pick up the other Raiju Ninjas.

"One!" cried Bunnie.

Picking Geoffrey up bridal style once again, Bunnie activated the jets in her feet and rocketed towards the Raiju Ninjas. Flying faster than anybody could blink, she flew straight above them, startling all the ninjas. She ascended up through the cylinder, catching the attention of the Raiju Ninjas and leaving them behind to just gesture wildly at the surprising sight above them. Bunnie and Geoffrey ignored the ninjas as the cyborg rabbit flew up into The Nefarious . Once they were inside, Bunnie put Geoffrey down onto the floor and they ran down a darkly lit corridor before they could be seen. They darted around a corner and pressed themselves against the wall. This corridor led to a dead end on one side, which was the side they were hiding in, but the other side led to another stretch of corridor.

"OK, we don't really know the layout of this ship but I'm sure a lot of carefully placed exploding darts will take it down." whispered Geoffrey, "I'll go down there and set up as many darts as possible. You go down there and see what damage you can cause."

"Will do hon, ya'll be careful without me OK?" said Bunnie sternly.

"I will, and you too my darling Rabbot." said Geoffrey sweetly.

The two shared a quick embrace and a kiss before they separated and went down their own corridors to begin the sabotage. Bunnie watched as Geoffrey disappeared down the corridor and as she ran down the corridor to find a good spot on the ship to cause damage to, she couldn't help but let a nagging feeling in the back of her mind reach out to her. The mission seemed…too easy at the moment. Surely the Dark Armada would have spotted her and Geoffrey even if their entry was a little unexpected and swift? She was sure the last bunch of Raiju Ninjas that were waiting to get aboard the ship were running around The Nefarious and telling everybody that they had intruders onboard. Nevertheless, Bunnie supposed she shouldn't really complain about an easy mission. After the shock they had all received from Sonic and Knuckles's return home with nothing but bad news to deliver, an easy-going mission was just what they all needed, especially if they had any hopes of winning against the Dark Armada. Bunnie came to a corner and she poked her head around the side to see if there was anybody around. What she saw around the corner was the most shocking thing she could ever see. There, standing proudly and smiling wickedly at her just a few feet down the corridor was Ravage Bloodfang, her childhood friend and member of the Peace Gatherers group in Adabat before the group had disbanded. Bunnie's blood boiled and her teeth clenched at the sight of the wolf. Nobody in the world made her more angry then Ravage Bloodfang, especially given how much he'd hurt her not just physically, but emotionally too. Bunnie had fond memories of Ravage from her childhood and seeing him being as evil as he is now just broke her heart every time she thought about it. It was even worse considering that Ravage had become rather cannibalistic over the years, once even trying to eat her and Geoffrey before the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses happened. What really clinched it for her was what he did when he ended up on Victorbius during said crisis. He had slaughtered innocent people just to give himself something to eat. She had declared that Ravage was dead to her and now she wanted to make that statement quite literal in every sense of the word. Bunnie stood before Ravage, clearly ready to have a fight with her former friend. The wolf seemed eerily calm and confident though, clearly not intimidated in the slightest at the presence of the powerful cyborg rabbit standing before him. They had fought on several occasions and Ravage had given Bunnie a tough time but Bunnie always came out on top so it made the rabbit feel nervous that Ravage wasn't that bothered about the fact she was standing before him and ready to beat the tar out of him.

"Hello my dear child." purred Ravage, "Small world isn't it old friend?"

"Too small Ravage…" snarled Bunnie, "Ah can't tell ya'll how much it BURNS me to see ya'll standin' here before me! Your very presence makes me sick to mah stomach and ah'm gonna see to it that ya'll spend the rest of yer days rottin' away in a prison cell for all yer crimes!"

"Yes Bunnie, it's nice to see you too." purred Ravage, "Now I suppose you're wondering how I knew you'd be here?"

"Ah guess somebody spotted us and let ya'll know about it." said Bunnie coldly.

"In a way." replied Ravage, "And let me tell you something my darling, it was foolish of you and your foul-smelling boyfriend to come here and sabotage our ship. You've pretty much just come to the undertaker to have your graves sorted out for you!"

Bunnie's heart missed a beat.

"What?! How did you know me and Geoffrey are here to sabotage the ship?!" she shrieked in horror.

"A little bird told Finitevus." purred Ravage smugly, "And who this bird is you'll never find out because you'll be going to your grave!"

"Don't prepare mah tombstone yet, because this gal ain't going down anytime soon you ugly old cannibal!" growled Bunnie.

Ravage seemed to take offence to being referred to as a cannibal for he sprung into action at a speed that would make the average wolf proud. Ravage roared loudly as he ran towards Bunnie, the Southern Belle adopting a battle-ready stance and preparing to make her move. Ravage lunged at her with his powerful claws but Bunnie stepped to the side, leaving Ravage to claw at air that had previously been occupied. Bunnie socked him three times in the face with her cybernetic arm before the wolf could regain himself and attack again. But as Bunnie prepared to launch a fourth attack, Ravage grabbed her by the neck and slammed her against the wall as hard as she could. The Rabbot cried out in pain, feeling the wind being smacked out of her. Ravage then proceeded to toss Bunnie across the corridor as if she was nothing more than garbage waiting to be disposed of. Bunnie crashed down on to the floor and she landed on her stomach, skidding to a painful halt that left her stunned for the moment. Bunnie picked herself up and she glared as Ravage advanced on her menacingly.

"I will tear you apart!" roared Ravage, his face the mask of anger.

He ran towards Bunnie and let her have it in the face with a powerful roundhouse punch that nearly threw her off her feet. He then uppercut Bunnie in the face, the attack actually lifting her off her feet and throwing her backwards on again. Bunnie picked herself up and was quick to link hands with Ravage as he lashed out at her again. Frightened inside but determined everywhere else, Bunnie pushed back on Ravage's arms with a growl of effort. A fight with Ravage always had her worried for one wrong move and she was done for. But she wasn't going to let Ravage take her down today, not while she had a mission to do. She pulled on Ravage's hands, pulling him straight into herself as catching the wolf by surprise. Ravage and Bunnie both tumbled down onto the floor but that was precisely what Bunnie wanted to do for she had the opportunity to swing her legs up and kick Ravage across the corridor as hard as she could. Ravage crashed down onto the ground with a sickening crack that broke the teeth on his skull mask and left a crack down on side. Ravage was back on his feet in no time but he was brought back down just as quickly for Bunnie shot him directly in the back with her arm cannon. Her opponent down, the furious cowgirl ran towards Ravage and grabbed him with her robot arm. She slammed him into the wall as hard as she could, hoping that she'd broken something inside of Ravage despite it not being in her character to have such thoughts. Then she threw Ravage into the other wall and pinned him against it with her foot after he'd slid down to the floor.

"OK gruesome, tell me where the ship's weakest spots are and ah might be tempted to let you live!" she demanded fiercely, "Ya'll have ten seconds to answer me and then ah blow yer head off! Got it?"

What happened next was something that nobody could have foreseen. A huge laser blast shot out from nowhere and struck Bunnie full on, making the rabbit scream in agony as the blast hit her and her muscles all tensed up and convulsed in protest against the beam. Dr. Finitevus had warped onto the scene and he had an unconscious Geoffrey St. John by his side. Geoffrey had been incredibly unlucky and had run straight into Finitevus before he could set up any darts and Finitevus had been quick to knock him out. Now he had found Bunnie and had shot her with a large rifle he had in his hands. But this was not the normal laser rifle that one would use. This was a de-roboticizer made in the design of a rifle!

And now Finitevus had shot her with it! The echidna could hardly wait to see Bunnie's face when she realized what he'd done. Bunnie fell onto her knees as the pain of the beam sapped away her strength and she gasped for breath. The pain subsided and Bunnie winced as she straightened up. She looked up at Dr. Finitevus and glared at him. The rabbit was quick to get up onto her feet and prepare to fight Finitevus but she noticed that something was wrong. She could feel the floor beneath her feet, cold and metallic. Her feet felt…soft and furry. Her left arm did as well. Bunnie looked down at herself and screamed. Her left arm was no longer metal! It was flesh, blood and fur once again! And so were her legs! Her metal legs were now her original smooth, slender, furry legs that she had once had before being partially roboticized! Bunnie burst into tears of shock and horror. On the one hand it was good to be normal again but at the same time, Bunnie didn't WANT to be normal again. She had grown accustomed to being a cyborg and yet she was now fully organic once again, after three years of being a cyborg.

"No…no! You…you did it! You de-roboticized me!" shrieked Bunnie, "Ah'm no longer a cyborg!"

"Yes I did." purred Finitevus wickedly, "I built this rifle-shaped de-roboticizer for precisely that purpose. You're a very powerful fighter and it's because of your cybernetics, given to you by Dr. Eggman himself even though he intended to fully roboticize you and not just part of your body. How does it feel now Bunnie? To be weak…and organic?"

"How dare ya'll take away mah cybernetics!" yelled Bunnie angrily, "Ah actually loved bein' a cyborg! Ah got to do many amazing things with them and ah was a great asset to the team because of mah cybernetics! And you gone and took them away from me! How could you?!"

"Quite simple my child, so you'll be weaker and the team will lose one of its heavy hitters." gloated Finitevus, "But I de-roboticized you for another reason…so Ravage could have more meat for his dinner. Ravage, eat her!" he ordered.

"With pleasure doctor." purred Ravage wickedly.

Bunnie gulped and her heart began to double its beating rate as Ravage advanced towards her. The rabbit pressed herself against the wall in terror, staring at Ravage in horror as the wolf's mouth watered and he licked his lips. Bunnie knew it was pointless to fight. Ravage was a tough opponent for her even when she had her cybernetics, what chance did she have against him like this? Bunnie shook furiously as the wolf bore over her.

"N-no! P-please! D-don't!" she whimpered, "D-don't eat me!"

"Oh I can't do that Bunnie, you've done terrible things to me in the past and I cannot let you live to preen about them." sneered Ravage evilly, "That and I've been DYING to find out what you taste like! You're perfect for my main course Bunnie Rabbot…or is it just Bunnie Rab-BIT now since you're not a cyborg anymore?"

It was just like the wolf to hammer one final nail into the coffin for poor Bunnie. Ravage opened his jaws and prepared to snap them around Bunnie's neck. One swift snap of the jaws would kill her instantly. But Bunnie was much to desperate to live to allow Ravage such an easy kill. Bunnie dived to one side, leaving Ravage to simply lunge forward and crash head-first into the wall. The wolf gripped his muzzle in pain and he let out a yell of anger. She ran past Dr. Finitevus and over to Geoffrey. Acting fast, she took off his arm-mounted crossbow and loaded it with a stun dart. Geoffrey had shown here which pockets held which darts before so she knew where to find them. She clipped the crossbow onto her arm and pointed it at Finitevus. But Finitevus was anticipating Bunnie's move though so he summoned a warp ring and held it in front of him in order to stop Bunnie from firing the dart at him. But Bunnie did the unthinkable. She aimed at his foot just under the warp ring. The dart embedded itself directly into Finitevus's foot and shocked him into unconsciousness. The moment Finitevus passed out and collapsed onto the floor, Bunnie snatched one of his warp rings from his wrist and she summoned it quickly. She had opened up a portal to directly outside The Nefarious . It was not safe inside the ship anymore so the sabotage had to commence outside the evil vessel now. Ravage picked himself up and watched as Bunnie carried the unconscious Geoffrey through the warp ring. He lunged for her but he was much too late. The warp ring closed shut just as he leapt for her, leaving him to do nothing more than growl angrily and thump the floor in rage.

Outside The Nefarious , the warp ring opened up and Bunnie emerged from within with Geoffrey in her arms. She put Geoffrey down onto the ground and stared up at the ship she had just moments ago been onboard. The Nefarious truly looked like a monstrous creature looming above The Golden Hive Colony like that. It was preparing to go though for Finitevus had commanded the ship to leave the moment everybody was onboard. Everybody was now onboard The Nefarious so the computer that controlled the ship was commencing with Finitevus's order. The enormous, demonic looking vessel began to turn to the left and fly slowly away from The Golden Hive Colony, passing straight above Bunnie and Geoffrey. Bunnie wasn't going to let it go that easily so quickly loading Geoffrey's crossbow with all the explosive darts he had in his backpack, she opened up a portal that opened up beside The Nefarious with her warp ring. She leaned through the warp ring and watched as The Nefarious cruised casually by her. She aimed the crossbow at the side of the ship and fired one dart at a time, getting about an five inches worth of space between each dart. There were twenty darts in the crossbow and in a matter of moments, Bunnie had fired all twenty of them down the left side of The Nefarious . She then pressed a button on the crossbow that would set all the darts to self-destruct and quickly retreated through the warp ring before the blast could snatch her up. She knelt down beside her unconscious boyfriend as all twenty darts suddenly exploded, ripping up chunks of the fuselage and blowing balls of flame and smoke out the side of The Nefarious . Bunnie smiled triumphantly as the ship's left side was vaporized in the blast and the vessel suddenly began to tilt down towards the ground, unable to fly anymore with the damage done to it. Amazingly, nobody aboard the ship had been killed or even caught up in the blast. Only The Nefarious had received any damage right now. The Nefarious crashed down onto the ground, withstanding the impact despite the damage to its left side. The ship wouldn't be flying again for a while now and Bunnie laughed at the very thought of Finitevus in rage over what had happened to his precious ship. Her mission accomplished, she now opened up the warp ring and warped herself and Geoffrey back over to New Mobotropolis. Pity they hadn't been able to get Tails back as well but with just her and Geoffrey on the mission, now was not a good time. Still, they'd crippled the armada at the very least. And as Bunnie left Nekronopolis and returned to New Mobotropolis, Finitevus woke up and was quick to find out about the damages done to his ship. Seeing what Bunnie had done to The Nefarious made him go berserk with rage…

Back in the New Mobotropolis Hospital, the Royal Fighters were greeted with a surprising sight. One was the fact that a warp ring had opened up in the hospital but Dr. Finitevus had not stepped out of it. Instead, Bunnie and Geoffrey had emerged through the warp ring and that was when they got their second surprised. Bunnie was no longer a cyborg and Geoffrey was unconscious. Surprisingly enough, the blast that had damaged The Nefarious hadn't even stirred him. Bunnie lay Geoffrey down on a nearby bed and stood before her friends, waiting for the inevitable questions they were going to ask her about the mission and how she'd lost her robot parts. Sonic, who seemed much better now despite the still healing gash in his side, stood up from his bed and gaped at Bunnie.

"Bunnie! It's good to see you and Geoffrey are back but what happened to you?!" blustered Sonic frantically, "You're fully organic again! Where are your robot parts?! And is Geoffrey OK?"

"He's just unconscious sugah, ah guess Finitevus hit him pretty hard." murmured Bunnie solemnly, "As for mah robot parts… Finitevus had built a rifle that had a de-roboticizer beam in it and he used it on me to relieve me of mah robot parts."

"Oh man…that sucks." said Sonic glumly, "Poor Bunnie Rabbot's no longer a Rabbot. This'll be a hindrance to the R.F.S. Your strength and weapons were amazing and now they're all gone! Just like Finitevus took Tails from us…"

"This is truly our darkest hour." said Sally sadly, shaking her head, "Tails is a robot working for Finitevus and Bunnie's lost her cybernetics. Please tell me there's good news as well Bunnie." she pleaded.

"That's exactly what else I've brought home with me." said Bunnie, her face brightening, "Ah used Geoffrey's crossbow to shoot exploding darts into the side of The Nefarious and ah blew it up! The entire left side of The Nefarious is nothing more than flames and smoke now and the ship's crashed down! We can storm the ship and take the armada members by surprise! And since ah've been on the ship, ah can warp ya'll there with the doc's lil' ol warp ring!" she added with a wink, showing off the warp ring she'd managed to swipe from Finitevus after knocking him out.

"Well considering you lost your cybernetics, that's pretty impressive Bunnie." said Sally brightly, "So the day's looking up for us after all."

"You bet!" cried Sonic excitedly, "And you know what this means? We have a chance at getting Tails back! Yes! And since Finitevus has a de-roboticizing rifle, we can use it on Tails and break him free of his Robian prison!"

"Looks like Uncle Finitevus is doing us a favour for once." said Knuckles with a smirk on his face, "Oh boy is this going to bite him in the ass!"

"It sure will Knuckie." said Sonic happily, "Hang on Tails, we'll be getting you back!"

"Not quite yet though." said Sally, "You still need to heal Sonic, same goes to you too Knuckles. We'll see how you are tomorrow and then we will invade The Nefarious. We'll need you two at your best if it means taking the Dark Armada by storm and getting Tails back."

"I suppose you're right Sal." said Sonic, looking quite grim about the idea for he just wanted Tails back already, "It'll be worth waiting for though, foiling Finitevus and his armada and saving Tails before they can do any more evil deeds, or even commence with whatever big plan Finitevus has in mind."

"And to think me and Geoffrey will have provided much help in that matter." thought Bunnie aloud, "Say, where's Cosmo?" she asked curiously.

She noticed that Cosmo didn't seem to be anywhere in the room like she should be.

"She went to the bathroom but she seems to be taking her sweet time." noted Sonic, "I bet she just wanted to let it all out in privacy the poor girl. Maybe that's why she went, just to have a good cry and to regain herself."

"Well Cosmo will be happy to hear that we have a way of saving Tails now." said Bunnie brightly, "We should tell her the moment she comes back…"

Then suddenly before anybody could do anything, the door opened up and in walked Cosmo, looking pretty refreshed and even happier all of the sudden after her trip to the bathroom. She wasn't alone though, there were two Mobians behind her and she walked into the room ahead of them.

"Hello everyone." said Cosmo softly, "It appears we have visitors."

She stepped aside to reveal that the two Mobians with here were none other than Mobius's future heroes Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat! The Royal Fighters all looked very surprised to see the two but nonetheless pleased as well. Silver and Blaze smiled back at the Royal Fighters, delighted to see their friends again.

"Hello there everybody." said Silver cheerfully, "Long time no see eh?"

"Silver!" cried Sonic excitedly, "Am I glad to see you and Blaze again! What brings you two here to the past once again though?"

"We've found out what causes the end of the world, and we're here to stop it from happening." announced Blaze, "And this time, we KNOW we're right…"

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius 24: Terror of the Cyber-Husky

 See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius 4: Trouble in Ada bat

Well that escalated quickly. :) So the Dark Armada's grounded, Silver and Blaze know what destroys Mobius and dooms their future and the Royal Fighters have a plan of attack! But will it work though? And how will Bunnie cope with the loss of her cybernetic limbs? Find out next time in "*Operation: Nefarious"...

Dark Armada Part 4: Operation: Nefarious

Story 204: Operation: Nefarious

The Dark Armada Chapter 4 of 25

There was a scene of absolute chaos in Nekronopolis right now.

Moments ago, the Dark Armada had invaded the Golden Hive Colony and raided the colony dry of all its honey, intending to use it in their insidious plan, Operation: Villains Rising. The name was not the true name of the plan though but the armada's leader Dr. Finitevus had deliberately given the plan a fake name to keep Enerjak's return a secret for he knew it wouldn't settle well with most of the armada given what Enerjak did when he first rose last year*. The plan involved gathering whatever materials they could find in the world and use them to make artificial Chaos Emeralds. The invasion had gone well enough until The Nefarious had ended up receiving two very unwelcome visitors. The Nefarious was the Dark Armada's flying base of operations and the reason they were hard to locate. It was formerly an Egg Carrier that once belonged to the long since dead Dr. Eggman. Finitevus had stolen the Egg Carrier and made some major adjustments that made The Nefarious the sinister ship that it was now, loaded with great firepower, great speed and cloaking technology that made it impossible to detect unless with heat-vision technology though Finitevus was going to see to that sooner or later. The ship was not currently flying now for Bunnie Rabbot and Geoffrey St. John had sneaked onto the ship and Bunnie had used Geoffrey's exploding darts to blow a massive chunk out of the left side of The Nefarious . The damage would take a good few days to repair and the ship would be back in the air in no time. The Dark Armada was already rushing around onto the scene and trying to fix whatever damage had been done to their glorious vessel. The Nefarious had a huge hole that spanned a quarter of the ship's length in the left side and a few smaller holes dotted around the rest of the ship's side. The holes would be fixed very shortly for Finitevus had spare metal on hand for such an occasion. Raphael the Cyber Husky, Captain Metal, Lord Sycorax and his henchmen Vladek and Romeo were in charge of repairs. Raphael knew well about metal what with being a cyborg and wanting to make everybody in the world a cyborg and Captain Metal and the reptiles had built ships before so they knew exactly how to fix The Nefarious . Once the sides were fixed and replaced with new metal, they would see to fixing some of the ship's inner circuitry that had been fried in the explosion. The ship would be back in the air by tomorrow or the day after given how fast and efficiently they were working. Most of the other Dark Armada members were giving a hand with the tools and handing out the pieces needed to fix the ship.

Finitevus strangely enough was not helping with the repairs. He was in the ship's bridge once again and he had his fingers pressed against his ear just like before. His agent was delivering another report to him and he was listening intently. He wanted to know badly what Sonic the Hedgehog and his infuriating group of pesky Royal Fighters were up to now so he made sure he didn't miss a single word the agent said. He nodded his head slowly as he heard the agent's report.

"Mmm, hmm…I see…what else?" he murmured as he continued to listen.

The bridge's door suddenly opened up slowly behind him and in walked Scourge the Hedgehog, the green furred bad boy looking pretty grim in the face as he walked into the bridge to report to Finitevus. The way he entered the room was in the manner of a nervous person stepping through the door to certain doom. As far as he was concerned, Finitevus in general was certain doom so walking into a room occupied by him may as well be certain doom. The door closed behind him and Scourge cleared his throat with a nervous cough.

"Um, doc? Yo boss, I'm sorry to announce that our ship won't be flying again until the day after tomorrow." explained Scourge, "But the outside damages…"

"Not now!" snarled Finitevus.

Scourge recoiled sharply, his heart leaping in fright as Finitevus yelled at him. Finitevus was one scary individual and he really did not like the idea of making him angry. Scourge did the one thing he wasn't renowned for, which was doing the sensible thing and keeping quiet as Finitevus listened on to the agent's report.

"Please repeat that." he said, "Yes, uh huh…I understand now. Is that all? Yes? Very well. Report to me once the Royal Fighters begin planning again. Thank you, goodbye."

Finitevus took his fingers away from his ear and he turned to face Scourge, his expression much softer this time much to Scourge's relief.

"Scourge my faithful soldier, what is it you wish to say to me?" asked Finitevus politely.

"The ship will be operational again the day after tomorrow." explained Scourge, "The outside repairs are going well though so the ship won't have a big gaping hole for much longer. Who were you talking to by the way?"

"My agent." explained Finitevus, "I have an agent within the very heart of New Mobotropolis and the agent is supplying me with very valuable information that'll keep us one step ahead of the Royal Fighters Service."

"COOL!" cried Scourge joyfully, "Who is it?!"

"That's my business." said Finitevus sternly, "Why do you think it is MY agent? Plus I'd rather you and the rest of the armada not accidentally blurt its name out and give the game away so I'm keeping its name confidential for the time being."

"And I guess you referring to the agent as "it" is to keep his or her gender secret too?" asked Scourge.

"Exactly." crowed Finitevus, "Now then, my agent tells me that the Royal Fighters plan to invade The Nefarious while it's down, take us all by storm and then take my de-roboticizer rifle and use it to de-roboticize Mecha Tails."

"Well the brats won't succeed in that!" declared Scourge "We know that they're coming and we can get rid of them easily! Use a Chaos Emerald or two to Chaos Control them off the ship and back to their puny little home!"

"Yes and then they'll just use my stolen warp ring to come back." said Finitevus in a very matter-of-factly manner, "So first I'll have to freeze them with a Chaos Control, get my warp ring back and THEN get rid of them. As for the de-roboticizer rifle, I'll have it destroyed immediately and I'll send Mecha Tails to do an errand for me so that Sonic and his pathetic friends will not get anywhere near him. As for our ship, I'll Chaos Control that away so they cannot find it anymore and Nicole can forget about using Mobius's satellites for I've programmed my drone to scramble with each of the satellites and shut down their heat sensors so they cannot pick up The Nefarious while it's hidden. And to make sure it's hidden, I'll have it hidden back in the hangar bay it was made in, they'll never find it, especially when I retrieve my warp ring."

"Good idea Finny." said Scourge wickedly, rubbing his hands together in delight at that idea.

"It is Finitevus, nothing less." said Finitevus sternly.

"Whatever you say doc boy." said Scourge, shrugging casually.

Finitevus ignored Scourge and he turned to face one of the monitors in the bridge. But he didn't keep his back turned for long though. He turned back around and he smiled wickedly at Scourge. Scourge began to feel nervous. When Finitevus had that smile on, it meant he had some kind of crazy scheme in mind but at the same time, Scourge supposed it was a good thing. Finitevus's excellent brain had been very useful to them thus far so maybe it was going to be useful again.

"Actually…forget what I said about the Chaos Emeralds earlier…I have a BETTER idea…" purred Finitevus smoothly, his smile so demonic looking that the devil himself would be jealous of him…

Meanwhile at the New Mobotropolis Hospital, Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends had received one of the most pleasant surprises they could possibly receive, especially at a time like this. Not only had Bunnie Rabbot and Geoffrey St. John, the former still unconscious, returned with mostly good news to bring them but Cosmo the Seedrian had returned from her bathroom break with Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat right behind her. Silver and Blaze were Mobians from the future and very good friends of Sonic and the Royal Fighters, especially since their primary goal was to find out what caused Mobius to be in a state of ruin for 200 years in their time. They had tried many theories and had helped Sonic and friends debunk them one by one but finally, Silver and Blaze had found the missing link to what they were looking for. They had found a book which was titled "Mobius 2144: The FINAL Year" and now they had returned to the past to share this information with Sonic and friends. They had roamed all over New Mobotropolis in search of the team and they came across Cosmo in the hall of the NMH. Upon seeing them, Cosmo greeted them excitedly and had been quick to invited them into the room to see the others. The silver hedgehog and purple cat had been greeted quite ecstatically and upon being asked why they had come to the past, Blaze had announced they'd figured out what dooms Mobius and leaves its future in ruins. As Blaze said that, the Royal Fighters fell dead silent. Sonic sat up in his hospital bed, still recovering from the injuries sustained in the battle with the Dark Armada in Megapolis but mostly much better now, and he stared at Silver and Blaze in amazement.

"You've…you've finally figured it out?" asked Sonic curiously.

"You know what dooms Mobius?" asked Queen Sally Acorn, her voice tense, "How did you figure it out at long last?"

"We didn't figure it out your majesty, we were given the answers. Literally." said Blaze, looking as stoic as usual, "It's all here in this book that Silver's got."

She pointed at the psychokinetic hedgehog who in turn held up the book for the Royal Fighters to see. They all gasped in horror at the title of the book. Mobius 2144: The FINAL Year. It was 2144 right now so that instantly made everybody feel nervous. One the one hand, it was good to know when the world ended but at the same time, it wasn't good that the year the world ended was right now this very year. The atmosphere became very tense as Silver opened up the book.

"According to this book, which we found literally just moments ago, the world ends thanks to a powerful being." explained Silver, picking up bits and pieces from the important pages of the book, "A being… named Enerjak. He's described as "coming out of the blue" and that he had so much power that no Royal Fighter in the world stood a chance against him. And as the book explains, Enerjak first slaughters all of you guys and then goes on a murderous rampage that sees Mobius wrecked and in ruins with only 1,000 lucky survivors living to tell the tale. So there you have it guys, the one who destroys our world is this "Enerjak" guy. Name sound familiar at all?"

The Mobians knew full well who Enerjak was. He had risen up from his tomb last year and had caused a lot of havoc and chaos throughout all of Mobius. It had been a tough battle when the time had come to fight Enerjak and lives were nearly lost on that faithful day. Many terrible memories came back to several Royal Fighters in the room and Sonic and Sally could both feel the fear building up inside both of them at this revelation. Enerjak dooms Mobius? But how could that be? He had been destroyed! But Sonic remembered Enerjak's cryptic final words to him before he, as Super Sonic, destroyed him.

I'll nev er be a memory…

Maybe those words were truer than he ever could have given them credit for. Maybe Enerjak was going to come back and destroy the world! While the Royal Fighters were mostly too shocked to speak, the Royal Fighter tomboy MandyMouse actually managed to say something.

"Oh silver dude…we know Enerjak VERY well." she said bitterly as if the very thought of Enerjak made her feel sick to her stomach, "Oh yes. We fought against that creepy phantom last year. He went around possessing people and turning people into deranged cultists who worshipped him like a demented god of some kind. He drove our good friend Princess Matilda crazy and nearly made her kill the emperor! He even possessed me and had me attack my husband! And then he went onto to possess other people and force us to fight against Knuckles just to destroy him! We succeeded but since he's the one who's dooming Mobius, I guess he comes back."

"How does he come back?!" shrieked Wilson frantically, "How?! HOW?!"

"You do realize that the book was written by an apocalypse survivor?" noted Silver, "They aren't going to know how Enerjak came back. Although the description of Enerjak in the book…" he paused as he turned a page and jabbed down at it with his index finger, "…describes him as being albino with black markings on his face and wearing black and golden armour and a huge flowing black cape."

Knuckles was the first to put the two pieces of the puzzle together.

"FINITEVUS!" he blurted at the top of his voice, "That's it! Finitevus must become Enerjak at some point! After all, he did once try to drain me, Sonic and Shadow dry of all Chaos Energy to give himself the power of Enerjak! He must become Enerjak himself!"

"Is that even possible Knuckles?" asked his girlfriend Shade curiously.

"Not sure but I'm willing to bet that Finitevus's grand plan is to become Enerjak and that's what he's got the Dark Armada to help him do!" declared Knuckles.

"I don't see how Finitevus will become Enerjak but it never hurts to try and stop him from commencing with his big plans just in case." said Sonic, "We have to make sure that Enerjak NEVER rises or else that's it…the end of all Mobius forever…"

"It would be convenient if the damn book told us HOW Enerjak came back so we could work on stopping that from happening." muttered Amy Rose grimly, "All we have at the moment is an estimate based on how Enerjak's described as looking. For all we know, he just coincidentally looks like Finitevus but isn't Finitevus."

"Very profound point Amy." said Sally, nodding in agreement, "But still, we can try and stop Finitevus and his Dark Armada. They have some kind of plan and Silver and Blaze tell us that this is the year the world ends. The two must be linked in someway. We foil the Dark Armada's plan, we stop Enerjak…I hope."

"I hope so too your highness." said Silver, his face like a mourner at a funeral as the terrible image of Enerjak wiping out the Royal Fighters and destroying the world began to burn in his skull.

"Now it's time for us to ask questions." Blaze announced as if this was important, "Where's Tails, why is Bunnie fully organic and what's a "Dark Armada"?" she asked quizzically.

Bunnie immediately fell into despair upon Blaze taking note of her lack of cybernetics. As much as it felt good to be normal again, Bunnie had embraced her life as a cyborg and even began to consider her life as a cyborg "normal". So to be fully organic again didn't really feel normal to her anymore. Sally had an expression that matched Bunnie's as she told Silver and Blaze everything.

"The Dark Armada is Finitevus's army of villains." explained Sally, "The team has Finitevus himself, Scourge, Fiona, Captain Metal, Raphael, Lord Sycorax and his two henchmen, Zira, Conquering Storm and her whole clan, Cutthroat Jim, Ravage and all of Team Diamond. They're currently our newest threat after the death of Dr. Eggman and they gave Sonic and Knuckles one heck of a beat down. Tails…has been roboticized and made a member of the Dark Armada. Finitevus has turned him against us. And Bunnie lost her cybernetics thanks to Finitevus using a de-roboticizer on her. To say we've gone through hell lately is a bit of an understatement."

Silver and Blaze instantly felt sorry for their past-dwelling friends. Tails was a robot working for Finitevus and Finitevus had an army of villains that were already showing themselves to be a serious threat. Silver could already imagine how Sora Prower and Cosmo the Seedrian were feeling about Tails's situation now. And Bunnie losing her cybernetics must be a bit of a blow to the poor rabbit. She pretty much lost her strength and weaponry. How would she fight now? Blaze gave Sally a sympathetic gaze.

"That sounds terrible, especially about what's happened to Tails and Bunnie." she said solemnly.

"If you think it can't get any worse, Finitevus still has the Chaos Emeralds too." muttered Sonic, "And I bet he's just waiting to use them at any moment now."

"Good thing I decided to bring my Sol Emeralds." said Blaze with a small smile, "I could use them to fight off anybody who uses the emeralds to turn super. Most likely Scourge of course." she mused as she thought back to the big battle that ended The Eraser's life and saved the multi verse last year.

"So that already evens the odds." said Sonic with a smile, "With Burning Blaze, we'll take down the Dark Armada no sweat! Oh yeah, Finitevus is so dead now!" he cheered triumphantly.

He was beginning to feel a twinge of hope building up inside him. The Dark Armada wasn't going to last very long with Burning Blaze on their side now. She could just fry everybody instantly and then burn The Nefarious to a crisp. The end of the Dark Armada was coming for them.

"I wouldn't get too hopeful Sonic." said Sally wearily, "After all, we know how powerful Super Scourge can be and Finitevus has all eight Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald. That's easily more powerful than Blaze's Sol Emeralds. Finitevus could still have the advantage over us."

"We'll see about that." said Sonic, "So what are we waiting for guys? Let's go and storm The Nefarious!"

"Not yet Sonic, you and Knuckles still need to recover." noted Sora, "I doubt your injuries from earlier have healed that quickly."

"I can help with that." offered Blaze.

She approached Sonic and Knuckles's beds and she took out a Sol Emerald each. Fittingly enough, she picked blue for Sonic and red for Knuckles. She held the emeralds over Sonic and Knuckles and used a Sol Regeneration to heal them both. The emeralds glowed a bright, brilliant flash as they healed Sonic and Knuckles. After a matter of seconds, the regeneration was done and Sonic and Knuckles both leaped onto their feet, feeling so much better now. It was like their injuries had never happened.

"Ah, nothing a good ol' regeneration power from some powerful emeralds can't fix!" cried Sonic happily, "I'm ready for action now!"

"Uncle Finitevus is so dead once I get onboard that ship of his!" declared Knuckles.

Mariah the Medicine Cat, who had been nursing the two Royal Fighters, simply gaped in surprise at what Blaze had just done. She'd healed the two faster than she'd ever healed anybody in her life! Her medicines were obsolete with such a miracle cure like that around! Mariah simply had to wonder how the emeralds had been able to do that.

"Such…such a miracle cure!" she gasped, "We should just use those emeralds to heal the sick and injured from now on!"

"Well once we get the Chaos Emeralds back, we can try that idea." suggested Sonic, "Bunnie, you've been on The Nefarious so would you kindly open up that warp ring you got from Finitevus and take us all over there?"

"Sure thing sugah-hog." said Bunnie with a nod "Although ah ain't comin' with ya'll. Ah don't think ah'll be of much use without mah cybernetics and also ah'd like to stay here and keep Geoffrey company. Maybe even wake him up from his earlier knockout." she added, her face changing from happy to sad rather quickly.

"Well if you don't wanna come, we won't make you." said Sonic understandingly, "Anybody else wanna stay?"

"I would." said Cosmo solemnly, "Forgive me but I do not wish to bare witness to my poor, roboticized Tails. I wouldn't be able to stand it."

"Fair enough Cosmo." said Amy sympathetically, "But don't you worry, we'll bring Tails back home and he'll be back to normal, just for you my little sister!" she finished with a cheerful grin on her pretty face.

"That would be wonderful." said Cosmo, beaming with joy over the very thought of Tails returning home safely to New Mobotropolis, unharmed and de-roboticized.

"We'll be back soon Cosmo and Bunnie, see you then." said Sonic, "And wish us luck!"

"Good luck everyone." said Bunnie as she flicked the warp ring up into the air and opened up a portal to The Nefarious for her team.

The Royal Fighters all filed in through the warp ring and found themselves warping from the New Mobotropolis Hospital to The Nefarious , the very base of The Dark Armada. The warp ring closed up as they all filed through it, leaving Bunnie and Cosmo alone in the hospital together to do nothing more than comfort the still unconscious Geoffrey. As they waited tensely for their friends to return, one single thought echoed in Cosmo's mind.

Oh Tails…you're going to be saved today…you'll never serve Finitevus ever again…

"Doctor, I have arrived at the Holoska Ice Factory just as you ordered. No complications." droned the voice of Mecha Tails over the ship's still functional communications systems.

"Very good my servant, now commence with your duties." replied Finitevus, "We need as much snow and ice as possible to make our Synthetic Chaos Energy from. If the ice has anything frozen inside of it, feel free to use that too. Anything will do for the formula."

"I understand doctor." Mecha Tails answered, "I will report back once my mission is complete."

"Very good, over and out." Finitevus finished and switched off the communicator on the control panel he stood at.

The evil, albino scientist smiled wickedly to himself. Oh how cross Sonic would be when he came on-board his ship to save his precious best friend only to find out he's not here! The very thought just made him feel like laughing out loud but naturally, he composed himself and he resisted the temptation. While he was here observing the repairs of The Nefarious , Mecha Tails was over in Holoska, mining snow and ice for him to make Chaos Energy out of. Operation: Enerjak Reborn was going well. They had every last drop of honey from the Golden Hive Colony to make Chaos Emeralds out of and now Mecha Tails was getting him some snow and ice to use for the creation of his counterfeit Chaos Emeralds. Eight weren't enough for his master plan, not even the Master Emerald was enough. He needed thousands of Chaos Emeralds just like how there used to be that much before that fool he had the nerve to call a brother, Locke, decided to fuse them all together to make Chaos Clusters and then also hide them just to hide his own shame after the damages the clusters caused. Well Locke would be furious if he could see his evil brother now, making Synthetic Chaos Energy and then shaping said energy into new Chaos Emeralds for him to use. Thousands of Chaos Emeralds would easily be enough to transform himself into the Chaos Powered Demi-god known as Enerjak. Finitevus had been fascinated with the demigod's power and hoped to harness it himself. He also hoped to have the same power as Solaris so he could potentially lay waste to the entire multi-verse at the same time. He supposed Malacos would be able to stop him though but still, Solaris's power plus Enerjak's power would make Finitevus impossible to defeat. He could already see himself killing all the Royal Fighters right now. But that vision wouldn't come true for a while yet, Finitevus needed to start making the Synthetic Chaos Energy formula. He would do so once he was safely hidden back in The Nefarious's hangar. Now Mecha Tails had given his report, Finitevus made a quick call to Scourge.

"Are you in position Scourge?" asked Finitevus.

"I am doc! Can I turn super yet?" Scourge's voice answered him over the intercom.

"Yes you may." replied Finitevus, "The moment you turn super, use a Chaos Control to warp down into the main corridor. Then you will freeze the Royal Fighters and get my warp ring back. Once my warp ring is back, you may warp The Nefarious back to its hangar bay so it can finish being repaired in peace."

"And what of the Royal Fighters?" asked Scourge.

"Kill them all." said Finitevus in a voice dripping with venom.

He switched off the communicator and then proceeded to warp himself down to the main corridor of the ship. It was a no-brainer for the doctor as to why the Royal Fighters would warp into the main corridor. Bunnie and Geoffrey had seen the corridor so Bunnie would easily use his warp ring to open up a portal to this specific corridor. The moment Finitevus arrived, another warp ring opened up and just as predicted, the Royal Fighters all filed out of the warp ring and stood before him, ready to make him pay for what he had done to the team. Finitevus was quick to notice that Geoffrey, Bunnie and Cosmo weren't here. Bunnie and Geoffrey he knew why and he had a feeling he knew why Cosmo hadn't come on this mission. He was also quick to notice that Silver and Blaze were here too. Perhaps they were here in some vain attempt to help the Royal Fighters stop him from carrying out Operation: Enerjak Reborn. Plus, Blaze had powerful gems of her own, her Sol Emeralds. He remembered how she became Burning Blaze with them during the multi-verse crisis and the Battle with Solaris. Finitevus would see to it that those emeralds ended up in his hands. Maybe Captain Metal could see to that sometime soon. Sonic pointed sharply at Finitevus, his face contorting with loathing.

"Doctor! You are so gonna pay for what you've done!" yelled Sonic, "Now then..."

"Do not bore me by telling me something I already know you stupid boy, I know exactly why you're here." snarled Finitevus, "You want to destroy my ship while it's vulnerable, take us all prisoner and save Tails. Well too bad, I've destroyed the de-roboticizer rifle so Tails cannot be de-roboticized and he is not here right now."

The Royal Fighters were all shocked. A wave of horror swept over them all and Sonic suddenly lost whatever bravado he had in him. Finitevus KNEW what they were here for?! And he knew what they were here for to the point he'd already planned ahead of them?! How?! Sonic knew Finitevus was smart but he didn't know he was THAT smart!

"How...how did you know what we were planning to do?!" shrieked Sally, deploying her arm blades and getting ready to cut Finitevus to pieces.

"Lucky guess." snorted Finitevus, not wanting to give away the fact he had a hidden agent working for him secretly, "Now you can do one simple thing. Hand over my warp ring and get off of my ship or you'll all be slaughtered."

"I have a better proposal." said Knuckles, standing forward and bashing his fists together, "You and your filthy army surrender or we'll tear this ship apaaaaaaaarrrrrrr..."

Knuckles's voice suddenly began to slow down as he was speaking. It slowed down further and further until finally he fell silent. His body became absolutely stiff as if time had come to a pause all around him. The other Royal Fighters were frozen too, unable to so much as twitch an eyeball. They were trapped in a Chaos Control that had been activated by Scourge. Only he wasn't Scourge anymore. Using the power of the Master Emerald, he had become Super Scourge once again! The purple furred, super-powered hedgehog materialized into view beside Finitevus and laughed at his handiwork. He was enjoying himself and looked forward to having more fun with the Royal Fighters once he took care of some other things. Super Scourge flew over the Royal Fighters with his black and red eyes observing them closely for any sign of a warp ring. He spotted it in the hand of Abby the Squirrel. She had been the last one through the warp ring and thus had been the one to hold onto it. Super Scourge flew over to the frozen Abby and he snatched the warp ring out of her hand.

"Yoink!" he said, tossing it over to Finitevus, "Now time for my vanishing act..."

He then proceeded to use a Chaos Control on the Royal Fighters and relocate them all outside of The Nefarious . With the Royal Fighters now on the ground beside the ship, Super Scourge then used a Chaos Control to make The Nefarious vanish into thin air. In a bright, purple flash, the whole ship vanished, teleporting from Nekronopolis and back over to Finitevus's former hidden lab in Megapolis, right in the underground hangar bay that the ship had been built in originally. Now that was done, Super Scourge gleefully returned to Nekronopolis to finish off the Royal Fighters. His Chaos Control had worn off though and as he reappeared, he noticed that the Royal Fighters were looking around wildly for The Nefarious , completely dumbfounded at the fact it was gone. The super-powered villain watched delightedly, greatly amused by his enemies's confused expressions.

"Hey! Where's The Nefarious gone?!" cried Sonic frantically, "It's vanished into thin air!"

"It can't be the ship's cloaking device, we should still see the ship's insides even if it's invisible!" yelped Sally in alarm.

"The ship's gone because I Chaos Controlled it away!" sneered Super Scourge, his voice catching everybody's attention and bringing all their gazes towards him, "And I stole your warp ring and gave it back to Finitevus so you'll never find it! And if you think Nicole will find our ship, forget about it! It's hidden in a place that no dumb satellite will ever find so there! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Super Scourge's boasting ended up planting more seeds of worry into Sonic's mind. Finitevus knew so well of what they were planning that he had Scourge super-power himself just in time to perform a Chaos Control to stop them, get the warp ring back and then warp The Nefarious away. If that wasn't freaky enough, Super Scourge knew about Nicole using Mobius's satellites to find The N efarious and thus, had warped the ship into a place that could not be found on satellite! How did Finitevus and Scourge know all this?! It was like the echidna somehow knew their every move before they made it! True Finitevus had said "Lucky guess" when questioned on how he knew what they were planning but surely he couldn't have accurately guessed ALL of this! Sonic really began to feel more worried as many troubled thoughts began to swim around his already troubled mind. Did Finitevus have some kind of spy working for him? Or was he really that intelligent? He cast the thoughts aside for the moment for more worrying things were happening before him.

"Scourge, I have no idea how Finitevus seems to be many steps ahead of us…but we're still gonna bring him down!" declared Sonic, "And don't think for a minute that we're all dead because you're super! We have a secret weapon ourselves!"

That was Blaze's cue to turn into Burning Blaze. The pyrokinetic cat summoned the seven Sol Emeralds to her hands and she closed as her eyes as they prepared to transform her into Burning Blaze. Super Scourge growled at this and he zoomed towards Blaze, hoping to stop her from transforming but Silver quickly used his psychokinesis to throw him off his attack and send him careening into the ground. The psychic hold wouldn't have held Scourge for long but Silver still had the strength to hold a super form for a few seconds, especially when catching said super form by surprise. This allowed Blaze to continue with her transformation as planned. Her lavender fur transformed into a light pink colour and her clothes became a blazing red. The transformation was complete and Burning Blaze was here to fight once again. The fiery feline clenched her fists and summoned fire to her hands as Super Scourge was ready to fight her. He smirked at his opponent confidently.

"I remember you, you helped me and the others destroy The Eraser." crooned Super Scourge, "Well you can help me send you to your grave kitty-cat!"

"I'd like to see you try you monster…" snarled Burning Blaze.

With loud battle cries that signified the intense nature of the fore coming battle, the two super forms charged into each other at a speed greater than that of a charging rhinoceros. The rest of the Royal Fighters watched tensely, hoping that Burning Blaze would come out on top of this battle so she could maybe force Scourge into spilling the beans on The Nefarious's whereabouts…

It felt like a long time for Geoffrey St. John as he woke up from his knockout. During his attempted sabotage of The Nefarious , Finitevus had come out from behind and knocked him out with a blow to the head. Finitevus had used the de-roboticizer rifle to knock him out, hence why he had been out for quite a while. As the skunk opened his eyes, his head began to ache and he moaned groggily. He rubbed his eyes to get the vision back into them and he sat up slowly, massaging his scalp. To his delight, he saw Bunnie Rabbot sitting beside him looking very happy to see him awake. Cosmo was with Bunnie and looking relieved that Geoffrey was awake at last. Geoffrey beamed as Bunnie embraced him. What a wonderful thing to wake up to was all he could think to himself.

"Howdy sugah! Ah'm glad to see ya'll awake again!" piped Bunnie delightedly.

"You sure took a nasty blow Mr. St. John, you were out for quite a while." said Cosmo solemnly.

"I, I was?" murmured Geoffrey, "What happened while I was unconscious like?"

"Well Geoff, ah ended up getting' de-roboticized thanks to Finitevus having a rifle that fires de-roboticizer beams but ah managed to steal a warp ring from him and use it to escape with you in tow." explained Bunnie, "Ah used all of yer explodin' darts to blow up the left side of The Nefarious and the durn ship actually crashed down onto the ground! Surprisingly enough, ya'll slept through that Geoffrey!" she exclaimed.

"That is surprising." laughed Geoffrey, still massaging his scalp, "A big bloomin' explosion that brings a ship crashing down and I sleep through it! I guess I was hit harder than I thought."

"Do you know who knocked you out?" asked Cosmo curiously.

"Likely somebody with a powerful punch." murmured Geoffrey, "Don't matter anyway. What else did I miss?"

"Silver and Blaze have come ta our timeline once again sugah and they actually have found out what causes the world to go ta hell!" replied Bunnie, "Enerjak is responsible for it and we all think that Finitevus might have something ta do with Enerjak returnin' so everybody's gone over ta The Nefarious to arrest all the members of the armada and prevent Finitevus from being the cause of Enerjak's resurrection!"

"Crikey…crikey me indeed!" blurted Geoffrey, "Enerjak is the one who's responsible for Silver and Blaze's future being in ruins?! Well it's a good thing our mates are dealing with the blighters right now isn't it? So why didn't you go sweetheart?"

"Because without mah limbs, ah think ah'm gonna be of no use anymore…" murmured Bunnie, looking down at the floor sadly.

Geoffrey felt sad hearing his girlfriend think that about herself. He looked at his now de-roboticized lover, seeing how she looked without her cybernetics. He had to admit that Bunnie looked really beautiful like this. She was beautiful as a cyborg but now she was fully normal again, she looked even more so. But Geoffrey hadn't thought Bunnie was beautiful because of her body, he had admired her for more reasons than that. He had after all fallen for Bunnie despite her appearance and to hear her thinking she was going to be useless because she didn't have her robot parts anymore made him feel sad. Geoffrey took Bunnie's hands into his own, finding it strange to be feeling two organic hands and not one organic hand and one metal hand in his own. The rabbit looked into the skunk's handsome blue eyes as Geoffrey gazed at her sympathetically.

"My love, don't you dare think you're gonna be of no use to us anymore." said Geoffrey softly, "You're not useless. Never have been, never will be."

"But Geoffrey, that was only because of mah robot limbs!" protested Bunnie, "Before ah became a cyborg, ah was NEVER that powerful before! Never! Ah only became strong because of mah robot parts! Ever since mah arm and legs were roboticized, ah was stronger than ah'd ever been before and even more! Ah was able to take part in fights, fly, shoot cannon blasts and make force fields to defend mah self and others! But look at me now! Ah'm just a pathetic little rabbit who's lost what made her special and a part of this team!"

Her eyes began to brim with tears as she said this to Geoffrey. The skunk lifted his hands up to Bunnie's beautiful face and he wiped away the tears that began to trickle down her cheeks.

"No Bunnie, it wasn't the robot parts that made you special and a part of this team." said Geoffrey, "It was you, it was ALWAYS you. You were the one who used those robot parts to fight against our enemies. It was you who made you strong, not those metal limbs. If you were truly weak then you would not have used those limbs to the effect that you did. But you did, and why? Because you're a strong woman Bunnie and I admire that. Plus anybody else who was in your position likely would be horrified at the thought of being a cyborg, of being "a freak" if you will. But not you, you never let the change in your appearance effect you. You embraced your cybernetics and made them into something special. That required a lot of courage and strength my dear and believe me, you sure had the courage and strength to accept your differences and show that what happened to you was nothing to be ashamed of. In my opinion Bunnie, you're the strongest Mobian I've ever met. Don't ever lose sight of that."

Bunnie was so touched that she was sure she could feel Geoffrey's heart reaching out to touch her own. The rabbit smiled lovingly at Geoffrey and she put her hands on his shoulders.

"Oh mah stars…ya'll…really think that?" she asked, her eyes brimming with new tears, happy ones this time.

"Bunnie, I'm not the lying type. What I said is as true as I can be and I've never been more honest in all my life." Geoffrey said with a warm smile, "You really are the strongest, bravest woman I've ever met and it's all because of how strong and brave you truly are."

The rabbit and skunk pulled each other close and they kissed as passionately and lovingly as possible. Cosmo watched the scene before her with awe, very touched at how much the two loved each other and how heart-warming Geoffrey's words were. It was a shame the others weren't here to see this for themselves, they would have loved it too. Bunnie and Geoffrey broke up the kiss but they still gazed into each other's eyes, smiling lovingly at one another.

"Geoffrey, you're the loveliest Mobian ah've ever met." said Bunnie sweetly.

"Cheers luv, and same goes to you." said Geoffrey with a wink, "Now then, I have an idea that may compensate for the loss of your cybernetics. Let's see what the Royal Fighter Armoury in Royal HQ has on offer for you…"

Bunnie knew what Geoffrey was proposing. She may not have her limbs anymore but that didn't mean she couldn't have a weapon to use on the battlefield. Royal HQ was choc full of weapons that she could use as substitutes and when she combined them with her fighting prowess, she would continue to be a powerful ally to the Royal Fighters. Bunnie felt excited as Geoffrey stood up from the bed and led her out of the room to take her to Royal HQ to get some new weapons for her to wield. If Finitevus thought he'd crippled the team by de-roboticizing Bunnie…he thought wrong and Bunnie was going to show him just exactly how wrong he was…

Back over in Nekronopolis, Super Scourge shielded his face with his arms held out into an X shape as Burning Blaze threw balls of searing hot flames at him. The flames whooshed over Super Scourge, breaking apart as they crashed against his arms. Super Scourge charged towards Burning Blaze, his every thought focusing on one thing: to make Burning Blaze suffer as much as he possibly could. Burning Blaze watched as Super Scourge whizzed towards her at a speed that even though he was super powered, still come off as surprising to her. The super powered pyro-cat waited until Super Scourge was nearly in attacking range before unleashing her next move. She thrust her arms forward and let Super Scourge have it in the face with a wave of flames. Super Scourge cried out as he was hit but his cry was more one of surprise than of pain. The flaming attack was enough to distract Scourge long enough for Burning Blaze to plough straight into him with a Burning Fire Boost attack. She struck Super Scourge and sent him hurling through the sky and crashing down into the ground below. Super Scourge didn't stay down for long. He got back to his feet and he rocketed into the sky towards Burning Blaze. Burning Blaze threw balls of fire at him but Super Scourge spin-dashed through them all and carried on going until he eventually hit Burning Blaze, his spin-dash at the same level of force as a speeding car crashing into another car. Burning Blaze withstood most of the impact thanks to the invulnerability that was customary of all super forms to have but that didn't stop Super Scourge's attack from knocking her down onto the ground. The super powered feline winced as she crashed down below, the impact leaving a little crater in the ground, but she soon leaped back onto her feet and boosted towards Super Scourge. Super Scourge charged towards Burning Blaze and the two collided with one another, the crash sending them both spiralling through the air. Both opponents managed to regain their balance and stop themselves from crashing down.

Burning Blaze glowered at Scourge with her fiery golden eyes. He was a tough opponent and she had to finish this fight soon before her power ran out. But since Scourge had turned super before she did, he was likelier to run out before she did so maybe she could try and keep the fight going until Super Scourge ran out of power. Once he did, she would then force the hedgehog into revealing the location of the Dark Armada. After all, if Finitevus was the link in the chain of events that led to Enerjak rising and destroying Mobius, the armada had to be arrested as quickly as possible. This was her's and Silver's only chance now of saving their future. Burning Blaze summoned some more fireballs to her hands but this time, she let them charge up so she could fire bigger fireballs at Scourge. Super Scourge rocketed through the air towards Burning Blaze, the purple-coloured super hedgehog cackling maniacally as he drew his arms back and prepared to punch his fiery opponent in the face. There was something about punching people in the face he always enjoyed. But Super Scourge wouldn't get to do this for Burning Blaze unleashed her fire balls and let Super Scourge have it full on with two super-powered fire attacks. The blazing balls struck Super Scourge and threw him backwards through the sky, the stricken hedgehog yelling loudly as he was thrown backwards. Burning Blaze then took the opportunity to use her Burning Fire Boost to rush towards Super Scourge and then slug him in the stomach. Had Scourge not been super, the blow could have easily killed him. Super Scourge gasped as the air in his lungs was punched out of him and while he was distracted, Burning Blaze raised her leg and slammed it down callously on her opponent's head. Super Scourge cried out as he was hammered down into the ground by the attack. As he hit the ground, Burning Blaze charged down towards him and pile-dived him directly in the back. The Royal Fighters knew that Scourge was their enemy but even they had to cringe as they imagined how much that must have hurt. Silver however was ecstatic that his girlfriend was winning.

"Whoo hoo! Go Blaze!" he cheered.

"I will say Silver, you're lucky to have a woman like Blaze on your side." said Sonic with a wink, "She sure doesn't mess around does she?"

"Nope, when has a task in mind, she finishes it." replied Silver, his grin wide and as excitable as he was feeling.

Over to the battle that was unfolding before them, Burning Blaze stood up and glowered at her downed opponent. Super Scourge forced himself back onto his feet, the red-coated cat noticing how he seemed to be straining most terribly as he got up. That was good, it meant her attacks were having some effect on him. She would win this fight and then Super Scourge would cough up the information the Royal Fighters needed so they could take the armada by storm and prevent Enerjak from coming back to doom Mobius. The future would be saved and she and Silver would finally have the world they dreamed of as their home. Super Scourge stood before Burning Blaze, fists raised and eyes narrowed into a hideous scowl that could make even somebody with a strong stomach feel sick.

"I gotta admit toots, you're strong." muttered Super Scourge, "Very strong in fact. Good, I thought this fight was going to be boring!"

"So sorry to disappoint." snorted Burning Blaze.

"Well you maybe strong but you won't beat me!" declared Super Scourge, "I'll stomp on ya until your brains leak outta your ears and then I'm gonna kill all of those pesky Royal Fighters! Just to make it hurt…I'll kill your stupid silver-furred friend first!"

"You will not touch Silver and you will not defeat me!" growled Burning Blaze, "Me and Silver are here to prevent your filthy army from resurrecting Enerjak and dooming our world and by the power invested in me, I will prevent you and your armada from causing the end of our world!"

"You should listen to yourself and realize how much crap you're talking." snorted Super Scourge, "We AREN'T resurrecting some guy named "Enerjak" at all! We're teaming up to take over the world!

We want to rule Mobius, NOT destroy it so don't give me bullcrap like that!"

Before Burning Blaze could protest, Super Scourge slugged her in the stomach and brought her doubling over but not quite down onto her knees. Burning Blaze coughed but she soon had a cry of pain to add to that cough as Super Scourge uppercut her directly in the face and sent her hurling backwards into the air. Burning Blaze came down with a crash just a few yards away from Super Scourge but she was back on her feet in mere seconds. She rushed towards Super Scourge, leaving a trial of fire behind her as she did so, and she drew her arm back. Her hand was alit with flames and she was prepared to give Super Scourge the hardest punch she could possibly throw. Super Scourge anticipated this move so he Chaos Controlled out of Burning Blaze's way and reappeared behind her. Burning Blaze realized this too late as Super Scourge spin-dashed her in the back and slammed her down into the ground as hard as she could. He then picked up Burning Blaze and threw her as hard as he could, focusing all his strength and power into that one throw. Burning Blaze screamed as she was tossed like a baseball but she managed to cushion the impact of the crash down by holding her hands and feet out. The cat could only think about the old saying "Cats always land on their feet" as she crashed down on her hands and feet. In this case she'd certainly done what a cat always does. Super Scourge laughed at Burning Blaze and he charged towards her, hoping to lay more smack down on her. But as he was launching towards Burning Blaze, Silver suddenly leapt in and stopped him with his psychokinesis. Super Scourge was brought to a complete halt by the silver-coloured Mobian but Silver knew he wouldn't hold him for long. Super Scourge broke free of his psychokinesis but Silver didn't worry about that. He was only the distraction. Burning Blaze now had a wide-open shot at Super Scourge because of Silver's interference. Burning Blaze used another Burning Fire Boost attack to plough straight into Super Scourge and send him hurling away from Silver and into the ground. While Super Scourge was down, Burning Blaze unleashed a hail of fire balls in rapid succession at her purple-coloured opponent. The super hedgehog yelled and growled as he was bombarded mercilessly by the furious, fiery feline he was up against. The attacks were beginning to hurt more than they should be doing. That was a bad sign for Super Scourge. He was weakening from the battle and his super powers would run out sooner or later. He had to finish off this fight and fast or at the very least, escape with his life so he could come back and fight another day. Super Scourge picked himself up and he clenched his fists, growling viciously at Burning Blaze who was standing before him.

"Alright bitch, you wanna play?! Now we play for real!" snarled Super Scourge.

He then proceeded to use a Chaos Control to freeze Burning Blaze into place before she could do anything else to him. Now she was frozen, Super Scourge unleashed all hell on his frozen opponent. He spin-dashed her as many times as he possibly could before the Chaos Control could wear off. Burning Blaze was helpless to fight against him while the Chaos Control had her frozen in time and at his mercy. The Royal Fighters could only watch helplessly as Super Scourge pummelled Burning Blaze as much as he possibly could while she was frozen. The Chaos Control eventually wore off and Super Scourge walloped Burning Blaze with one last spin-dash, the blow now actually sending her flying since she wasn't frozen anymore. Burning Blaze crashed down at the feet of Sonic and Silver and the two had to leap backwards out of her way before she could knock them other. Burning Blaze came to a halt just before the other Royal Fighters and she grimaced as pain began to flare up through her body. Being invulnerable didn't stop her from feeling pain after all. Super Scourge laughed like a hyena as he rocketed towards his opponent but he soon ended up getting something he never would have expected. The heavyweight Royal Fighter Mace the Elephant stampeded towards him and stood in front of Burning Blaze. He swung his trunk, which was tipped with a rock-solid made, side to side and waited until Super Scourge was in range. The look of confusion and shock on Super Scourge's face was something Sonic would forever treasure as Mace swung his trademark mace into the hedgehog's jaw. Super Scourge gave out a terrific yell of disdain as Mace walloped him and sent him crashing down into the ground face first. Sonic could barely keep himself from laughing out loud. Super Scourge, one of Mobius's most powerful opponents… got floored by a non-super powered elephant! This was something he'd never let Scourge hear the end of. Super Scourge picked himself up, groaning loudly but he cried out in alarm as Mace suddenly picked him up and started slamming him into the ground as hard as he could. He made sure that he left Super Scourge no opening to fight back as he hammered him. Then he threw Super Scourge into Burning Blaze, the latter socking him with a fire-enhanced punch and sending him crashing down onto his side. Burning Blaze smiled at Mace appreciatively.

"You're pretty powerful." she said, "Well done out there."

"I'm kinda amazed that I even managed to land a hit on him!" chuckled Mace, "I guess I was just lucky! Ha, ha! Still, thanks anyway."

"I'm very sure the Royal Fighters feel lucky to have such a powerhouse on their team." replied Burning Blaze.

"Oh we do indeed Blaze, we do indeed." agreed Mandy, winking at Mace and smiling widely.

She still held much gratitude for the elephant since he had been the one responsible for saving her life and Kari's during the time she'd been kidnapped by her childhood enemy Mildred "Brawn" the Rat. Mace just smiled with pleasure at the mouse, pleased to be of some help in this battle. He quickly turned his attention back to Super Scourge, the super-powered hedgehog straining with effort as he forced himself back up. Burning Blaze rushed towards Super Scourge and she elbowed him in the back. Super Scourge cried out as his opponent's elbow violently slammed into the base of his spine. If he wasn't super powered, that could have broken his back easily. Then Burning Blaze grabbed Super Scourge into a chokehold and held him tightly against herself. Super Scourge gagged and fought back feebly. His strength was fading and his powers were running out. He had to escape now while he still could.

"Alright then Scourge, you have one question that'll save your life to answer…where have you taken the Dark Armada?" asked Burning Blaze coldly.

"You can go £$%^ yourself wretch because I'm outta here!" snarled Super Scourge, "Have fun going on a wild goose chase looking for my buddies and your precious Tails!"

He then proceeded to use a Chaos Control to warp away, leaving behind a very furious Burning Blaze as he vanished into thin air. The moment Super Scourge vanished, Sonic stomped the ground in rage and yelled up at the heavens as if hoping that they could somehow solve his problems for him.

"NOOOOO!" bellowed Sonic, "Damn that Scourge! He got away again! Now we don't know where to find Finitevus and his army!"

"I'm so, so sorry Sonic." said a very solemn looking Burning Blaze as she changed back to normal and started walking up to Sonic, "I did the best I could to subdue him but I couldn't stop him. I'm very sorry…"

"Blaze, you were great out there. Don't put yourself down." said Silver softly, putting a gentle hand on the cat's shoulder, "There was nothing we could have done to keep Scourge from Chaos Controlling away."

"I know…but we could have managed it somehow." murmured Blaze, "Now we're left wondering where Finitevus is and the Dark Armada still has the chance to bring Enerjak into existence again."

"But Miss Blaze, Scourge says that the Dark Armada's plans have nothing to do with Enerjak, I don't think they're responsible for his return." said Cream the Rabbit.

"Are you seriously telling us that you BELIEVE Scourge's obvious lies?!" snapped Amy furiously, "He lied Cream! He's Scourge the Hedgehog, he's always lying!"

"Amy, please don't talk to Cream like that." said Sally hastily, "But I do have to agree with you. Scourge is obviously lying about this. But…he didn't refer to Enerjak as if he has previous knowledge of him. Note how he said "some guy named Enerjak" and not just "Enerjak". That might be an indicator to something…"

"Whether the Dark Armada IS responsible for Enerjak or not, we still have to make sure that it doesn't happen!" shouted Sonic, "Even if they aren't responsible, they still have my best buddy as their mindless slave and I won't rest until he's back home, safe and sound where he belongs!"

"There's not much more we can do here now." said Shade the Echidna, looking rather disappointed at having to say that, "We may as well go home and plan our next attack."

"And we'll make sure that Finitevus doesn't know what we're planning next time." added Sonic, "Come on guys, let's go home."

Blaze saw to that, using her Sol Emeralds to provide a Sol Control that warped the Royal Fighters back to Royal HQ. Today had ended on a pretty sad note for them, and to think for all of them that they were actually on top of the battle for a moment. But somehow Finitevus remained a step ahead of them all and managed to swing the battle back into his favour. The light in the tunnel to this dark time had now become dark once again…

"You…WHAT?!" thundered a very furious Dr. Finitevus. His face was the embodiment of rage and his fists were clenched so tightly that he thought his fingers would leave permanent marks on his palms.

Scourge had returned to The Nefarious , de-powered and back to normal and he was now baring the wrath of Dr. Finitevus as he delivered his report.

"Yes doc, you heard, I failed to kill the Royal Fighters." said a very worried Scourge the Hedgehog, "But, but it wasn't my fault! Blaze had her Sol Emeralds and she used them to turn super and…"

"I do not harbour any interest in hearing whatever pathetic excuse you have for your failure Scourge!" snarled Finitevus, "This is pathetic! You couldn't even take down a super-powered Blaze even though your records state that you were able to fight Super Sonic to a stand still and actually beat him before your power ran out! You shame the Dark Armada Scourge and you must pay for your failure!"

"Hey doc, can I help it if 1: Blaze is a tough little bitch and 2: She had help!" retorted Scourge, "So don't you dare tell ME I shame the armada's name when I failed for reasons beyond my control! And IIRC, you didn't stick around to give me a hand did ya? You just stayed put on The Nefarious after I warped it away! So you can't put ME down when you didn't offer any assistance for me!"

"You were super powered you impudent fool, you shouldn't NEED help!" bellowed Finitevus, "I guess I was mistaken then if you seriously need assistance despite being invincible! You an embarrassment to this armada and you will pay the price for your failure!"

He then proceeded to lash out at Scourge at a speed that even a supersonic hedgehog like himself would have to think "Dude, that guy's fast!" and he tripped him up with a swift kick to the legs. Scourge yelled as he was whisked off his feet and he landed down onto his back with a heavy thump. As he was brought down, Finitevus then proceeded to knock Scourge out with a savage punch to the head. Once Scourge was knocked out, Finitevus switched on The Nefarious's intercom system and spoke into it.

"Captain Metal, please come to the torture room." he announced, "I want you to do something for me."

"Shiver me timbers captain! What do ye wish for me ta do like?" asked Captain Metal curiously.

"Punish Scourge for his failure." explained Finitevus, "And make it...gruesome. I think an arm and an eye will do."

"I'll be there me heartie..." purred Captain Metal darkly.

"That's good." said Finitevus, "And after Scourge's punishment is done, I'd like for you to build me something that'll deal with a pesky pyrokinetic cat that you despise if you please."

"Just give me yer ideas and I'll make it fer you!" replied Captain Metal, "See yer in the torture room Finitevus me heartie!"

The intercom switched off and Finitevus picked up Scourge's unconscious body. As he opened up a warp ring to take the green hedgehog to the torture room, he began to wonder how Mecha Tails was doing now. He imagined that the roboticized fox was hard at work and would be returning with lots and lots of snow and ice for him to use to make his Synthetic Chaos Energy...

Footnotes:

 See *The Terror of Enerjak

Well that turnup for the books didn't last long did it? The heroes are now back to square one and Finitevus is still able to carry out Operation: Enerjak Reborn! But will they manage to make another turn around and swing the war into their favour? Tune in next time as we commence with " Operation Frostbite"...

Dark Armada Part 5: Operation: Frostbite

Story 205: Operation: Frostbite

The Dark Armada Chapter 5 of 25

"Oh mah stars, these weapons will be great for me ta use on the battlefield Geoffrey!" exclaimed the recently de-roboticized Bunnie Rabbot (now going by the name "Bunnie Rabboh since "Rabbot" has lost all meaning due to her de-roboticization), "Ah can't wait ta use these against the Dark Armada!"

"I can't wait to see you use them too." said Geoffrey St. John happily, "Those weapons not only suit you, but they'll make you a strong fighter indeed."

Royal HQ wasn't receiving much activity for the moment. At the most, the Royal Fighter A.I. Nicole the Lynx was keeping an eye on the base and also on the whereabouts of The Nefarious and while she was doing that, Geoffrey had taken Bunnie to the armoury to pick out some weapons for Bunnie to use instead of her cybernetics since she didn't feel like she would be of much use without them. Geoffrey had managed to regain Bunnie's confidence first of all before taking the rabbit down to Royal HQ to pick some weapons. As a tribute to her lost cybernetics, Geoffrey had picked for Bunnie a handheld cannon and a steel glove that would make a great battering weapon for Bunnie to punch people with. The handheld cannon was a silver cannon with a green circle in the centre. It was held with by a handle behind the cannon itself and the trigger was also on the handle. The back of the cannon covered Bunnie's hand. The steel glove looked like a solid lump of steel that Bunnie just simply had clipped around her entire hand. Inside the glove, her hand was closed into a fist. The steel glove was a battering weapon and Bunnie was instantly reminded of her cybernetic arm that had allowed her to deliver some powerful punches to her enemies whenever she was in battle. The weapons were definitely more than enough to compensate for her lost robotic limbs and Bunnie could hardly wait to test them on the Dark Armada. Bunnie walked up to Cosmo the Seedrian, the plant-like girl sitting casually beside a desk as Bunnie was admiring her new weapons. She had opted to stay behind for she didn't want to face her beloved Tails as a Robian and had just sat by and watched as Bunnie and Geoffrey had a look at what weapons would be most fitting for her. Bunnie showed her new weapons to Cosmo.

"Well sugah, what do ya'll think?" she asked, "Nice ain't they?"

"I would never be the type of person to label a weapon as "nice" but I do say that they suit you Bunnie." said Cosmo with a small smile, "I'm glad you've managed to find a way to make up for the loss of your trademark cybernetics."

"Thanks lil' Cosmo." said Bunnie brightly, "Ah do admit, it feels kinda weird havin' both mah arms organic instead of the other arm being metal and it feels even weirder havin' normal legs again!" she exclaimed in a humorous manner, "But as Geoffrey said, mah cybernetics didn't make me who I am, it was mah bravery and strength that did so ah don't mind bein' "normal" again."

"In my eyes Bunnie, you were normal even when you were a cyborg." said Geoffrey kindly, "So then, do you think our mates will be back soon?"

"Ah'm sure they will be sugah." replied Bunnie optimistically, "And ah bet they'll have good news to give us all when they return."

"And maybe they'll have my Tails back to normal!" piped Cosmo, letting a tingle of excitement build up in her as she pictured the Royal Fighters returning home with Tails de-roboticized and back to normal once again, "I can hardly wait to see Tails as a Mobian again! I've felt nothing but despair ever since he got roboticized and his return will make my day most wonderfully."

"It'll do the same for all of us love." said Geoffrey with a warm smile, "And given how Finitevus won't see them coming, the Dark Armada are as good as beaten."

Geoffrey soon ended up eating those words. Royal HQ's lab was suddenly alit with a bright light surrounded by flames as all the Royal Fighters materialized into the room. That caught Bunnie, Geoffrey and Cosmo well by surprise for they had expected them to return to Royal HQ via warp ring but instead, had returned via Sol Control. The three started to feel excited at the return of their friends and were eager to greet them. But as the Sol Control finished and the light vanished, their excitement was taken away from them as quickly as it had been given to them. Cosmo immediately noticed that Tails was not among the Royal Fighters and Geoffrey quickly read all their faces and noticed they all seemed pretty down-hearted and disappointed about something. They had not succeeded in their mission. That was what their faces told the combat-trained skunk as he looked at them. Bunnie put her weapons aside and she walked over to the Royal Fighters.

"Mah friends...what's the matter?" asked Bunnie sadly, "Did...did you fail the mission?"

"I'm afraid we bleeding did Bunnie..." muttered Sonic, the tone of anger in his voice sounding very frightening despite his voice not being raised, "We bleeding well failed! Finitevus somehow knew what we were planning and he was about fifty steps ahead of us! He had Scourge turn super, steal our warp ring and then warp The Nefarious away so we couldn't destroy the ship and arrest the entire armada! And to top it all, Finitevus had sent Tails away and destroyed the de-roboticizer rifle to prevent us from saving him!"

"What was a good plan ended up becoming nothing more than a big waste of time for all of us." moaned Queen Sally Acorn disappointedly, "I don't understand how Finitevus knew what we were planning though. True he said that he had a "lucky guess" but he can't possibly have had THAT lucky a guess!"

"Ah don't think it was a guess of any kind Sally-girl." said Bunnie sadly, shaking her head as she spoke, "Oh no indeed. You see, when me and Geoffrey were on The Nefarious, Ravage somehow knew ah was on that ship to sabotage it. When I asked him about it, he said to me "A little bird told Finitevus". So ah think...ah think Finitevus has a spy working for him."

The Royal Fighters considered that thought for the moment. It seemed very likely that Finitevus had somebody working for him.

After all, how else could he be so ahead of them? Ravage had told Bunnie that Finitevus had had a tip-off about their sabotage plans so it seemed likely Finitevus had a similar tip-off when he and the others came to storm their ship, arrest them all and save Tails. But then they had to consider the stolen warp ring. The stolen warp ring would have played some part in Finitevus knowing what they were planning. He had obviously anticipated the Royal Fighters to use the warp ring to get onboard The Nefarious and try to save Tails. After all, he knew that Bunnie had stolen it and that because Bunnie had been on the ship, she'd know how to use it to get onboard. And the fact he had a de-roboticizer rifle would have given Finitevus the sensible idea to dispose of it incase they tried to use it on Tails. So maybe Finitevus had had a lucky guess after all. But then the Royal Fighters thought about Super Scourge telling them about Nicole finding The Nefarious via satellite. How did Scourge know about that? That one quote and Bunnie revealing that Ravage had told her Finitevus had been informed of her's and Geoffrey's sabotage plans changed everything. Sally looked at Bunnie with a very grave face.

"Bunnie...I think you're absolutely right." murmured Sally, "Finitevus must have a spy working for him. And the spy must be somebody who lives here in New Mobotropolis."

"I agree with you your majesty." said the young but brilliant super spy Sora Prower who was also the sister of Tails, "I know spies well enough what with being one myself and the enemy would often recruit a spy close to the person they want to take down. Finitevus must have done the same. I mean how else did Scourge know about Nicole and her use of satellites to find their ship? Scourge can't have just had a "lucky guess" like Finitevus claimed he did when we asked how HE knew about our plan, Scourge must have been informed of that."

"Well once I find the bastard who's spying on us, I'm gonna break his or her face for that!" snarled Mandy Mouse fiercely, punching her fists together callously, "Nobody gives away information to the enemy and lives to tell the tale!"

"But who could possibly want to spy on us and work for Finitevus?!" squeaked Wilson the Dog worriedly, "I mean, everybody in New Mobotropolis loves us! Why would any of them betray us?!"

"Maybe we aren't as beloved as we think." mused Ruben the Water Panther, "I know how that feels. I mean look at Chun-Nan, Emperor Tai and Princess Matilda are beloved beyond belief and THEY still have enemies. Maybe somebody who lives in this city hates us and wants Finitevus to beat us."

"Well I know for certain that it's nobody in this room." muttered Amy Rose, "I mean we all want to destroy the Dark Armada so none of us have a reason to spy on the team and help the enemy!"

"I never suspected anyone on the team for a minute." put in Sally firmly, "I know neither of you would ever betray the R.F.S. So the spy must be somebody whom we don't know."

"Maybe me and my boys could look into that." offered Vector the Crocodile cheerfully, "We are detectives after all. Maybe we could sniff out clues that lead to the spy's identity."

"And when we find out who it is, we're gonna kick that spy's butt!" declared Charmy Bee excitedly.

"Guys, if there's a spy working for Finitevus then maybe it's not a good idea to suggest that plan OUT LOUD?" suggested Espio the Chameleon, "The spy's probably picked up that information now!"

"No worries Espio, there's nobody outside the rooms or indeed anywhere near Royal HQ." reported Nicole as she did a quick scan on the computer for any intruders, "We're safe this time."

"Oh that's a relief." said Vector with a relieved smile on his scaly face, "So your Queenly-ness, may we conduct an investigation on the identity of this spy?" he asked hopefully.

"Permission granted." said Sally brightly, "Report back as soon as you can."

"What will the rest of you do?" asked Espio curiously.

"Plan our next move." answered Sally, "Since there's nobody to eavesdrop on us, we can safely plan our next move without Finitevus being informed beforehand."

The Chaotix nodded understandingly and they filed out of the room to conduct their investigation. As they left, Sally turned to the team and spoke to them.

"So the Dark Armada's hidden in a place that our satellites won't find." said Sally, sounding very disappointed as she said this, "So I guess the Dark Armada will be a considerably harder to find now. What do you think the best thing to do would be?"

"I don't suppose "tear the planet apart until we find them" is a good idea?" asked Knuckles the Echidna, more joking then being serious in asking that question.

"No need to do that since Enerjak will do that for you." muttered Silver the Hedgehog bitterly. Being as his heart was set on saving Mobius before the apocalypse could doom it and render the future a dystopian wreck with dwindling life, a statement about "Tearing the planet apart" did not really settle well with him at all. Even if Knuckles was joking.

"No Knuckles, we won't do that." Sally said grimly, "We need to find the armada but how we'll do so I'm unsure about. A good idea would be to try and blackmail one of their members into telling us where they are but we should consider the fact that..."

"Sally, please excuse my interruption but...I've found something!" gasped Nicole completely out of the blue as if she was trying to remind everybody she was still in the room, "It's Mecha Tails! He's in Holoska digging up snow!"

That piece of news caught everybody by surprise. Sonic and Sally were on hand to rush over to the computer and look over Nicole's shoulders to see what she'd found. Nicole had been using Mobius's satellites to try and find The Nefarious . Despite it being hidden in a place that couldn't be found using a satellite, Nicole assumed the ship's heat signature would still show up. Little did she realize was that Finitevus had used his drone bug to disable the heat sensors so even if The Nefarious was functional and invisible again, she wouldn't find it. But Nicole had found pretty much the next best thing with Mobius's satellites. She was looking at the snowy landscape of Holoska through the powerful lenses of the satellite and she could see Mecha Tails just outside a factory digging up snow and carrying it back inside. Sonic's quills began to quiver excitedly. They'd found Mecha Tails! Now they could bring him back to New Mobotropolis and hopefully de-roboticize him! They would probably need to build a de-roboticizer or at the very most, force Finitevus do reverse what he'd done. One thing puzzled Sonic thought. What was Mecha Tails digging up snow for? Surely snow wouldn't be of any use to him? Whatever the reason was, Sonic didn't care. He wanted to save Tails and de-roboticize him, that was all that mattered. Even more so than preventing Enerjak from coming into existence. Sonic and Sally looked at each other.

"Well, it's not the armada but it'll do." said Sonic casually, "Let's go over to Holoska and save Tails!"

"I'm with you on that Sonic." said Sally, "Me and you will go over to the Holaska Ice Factory and grab Mecha Tails. Once we have him, we'll bring him back home and restrain him until we can de-roboticize him."

"I'm coming too." offered Sora eagerly, "I want to see if I can tempt Tails to snap out of his programming and maybe get his freewill back. I'm sure the sight of me will do that."

"I dunno Sora, it's a risky gambit and I don't want Tails to hurt you." said Sally softly, "He'll never forgive himself if he does."

"It's worth a shot." said Sora bravely, "And I think Cosmo should come too. She'll have a better chance at this than me. Maybe the both of us together will help Tails fight his programming."

"Oh Sora please, I don't want to come." protested Cosmo, "Please don't make me. I can't bear to see Tails as a robot!" she whimpered, looking very distressed at the thought of seeing Tails as a robot.

"But Cosmo, won't it be wonderful if you end up causing Mecha Tails to gain his freewill back?" asked Sora, "And like I say, both of us together will likely help Tails to fight the programming and come back to us. Please Cosmo, do it for Tails. He'd want you to just like he'd want ME to do so too."

Cosmo took in that thought for a moment before making her decision.

"Alright...I'll come." she said, still looking pretty sad despite making that choice, "I just hope this idea works."

"I hope so too Cosmo." said Sora agreeably, sharing the Seedrian's glum look, "Does anybody else wanna come?"

"Ah will!" volunteered Bunnie eagerly, "Maybe with mah new weapons, ah could tempt Tails to stand down for a minute and let us rescue him." she said, picking them up and showing them to her friends.

"Very well Bunnie but please for the love of Mobius, don't actually use them on him!" exclaimed Sally, "We don't want to damage Mecha Tails in anyway, we'll damage the real Tails inside too!"

"Ah wasn't even thinkin' about doin' that Sally-girl." Bunnie noted matter-of-factly, "Oh mah stars, ah'd never forgive mah self if ah did that to poor Tails!"

"I'm sure you wouldn't." said Sally, "So now that's settled, we'll have to dress up nice and warmly if we're going to Holoska. It is a very cold country after all. We won't use Blaze's Sol Emeralds to get to Holoska for Finitevus will likely predict that and have Mecha Tails expecting us to do so. Plus, we can't risk losing the Sol Emeralds to the Dark Armada."

"I agree on that your majesty." said Blaze the Cat, "With the Chaos Emeralds in the armada's possession, we need to keep my emeralds out of their reach at all times. Though I will resort to using them if I HAVE to if you know what I mean."

"Yeah like if we get Super Scourge again." noted Sonic, "Then we'll need them. For now, we'll have use the element of surprise by coming to Holoska in a way Finitevus will be expecting the least. We'll go by hover-saucer."

"That'll be a good idea. Finitevus won't expect something so basic." agreed Sally, "Well Sonic, Bunnie, Cosmo and Sora, let's go and save Tails!"

With that said, the five Mobians all ran out of the room to get themselves some warm clothes to wear in Holoska. Once they were changed, they would board a hover-saucer and be off to the snow-covered country to save Tails from Finitevus's evil grasp. The best part was, nobody had eavesdropped on them so Finitevus wouldn't see them coming this time...or so they thought...

Back on The Nefarious , Dr. Finitevus was once again standing in the bridge with his fingers against his ear. His ship's repairs were coming along nicely and he knew that he wouldn't be found so he could relax and keep an eye on repairs in the bridge of The Nefarious . But he'd received a call so he was answering it now. His agent had stricken again and was now giving him some new information to take advantage of. He listened closely as he was told about the Royal Fighters's next plan. He smiled wickedly to himself as he listened to the agent's report.

"Very well done my agent, thanks very much for this information. Over and out." he said, switching off his communicator.

After he'd heard everything from his agent, he fingered a button on the control panel, activating the ship's intercom systems. He then spoke into the intercom.

"Would Scourge the Hedgehog and Fiona Fox come up to the bridge please?" he asked in his usual faux polite tone of voice, "I have a job for the two."

"Sure, warp us there Finitevus." replied Fiona.

Finitevus switched off the intercom and he opened up a warp ring to let Scourge and Fiona onto the bridge. He had allowed Fiona to come into the torture room to see Scourge after his rather harsh and brutal punishment he'd received for failing his earlier task so he knew she'd be there too. A whole hour had passed since the torture and he was sure that Scourge would be back on his feet and ready for another fight. Scourge and Fiona entered through the warp ring and stood to attention before Dr. Finitevus. Scourge had his hand over his left eye. Only...the hand over his left eye was no longer his own hand. Captain Metal had decapitated him at the shoulder and had been quick to fix him with a metal arm as a replacement for his missing arm. The metal hand that was visible while the rest of his arm was obscured by his jacket sleeve was a dirty golden colour and had five sharp claws at the end of it. Despite this, Fiona didn't seem repulsed by her boyfriend's new metal appendage. Finitevus smirked evilly at Scourge, the hedgehog glaring back at him angrily.

"So, did the poor little hedgehog learn his lesson?" sneered Finitevus, his tone of voice easily that of mockery.

"Yes he did..." growled Scourge, taking his hand away from his eye and revealing that he not only had a metal arm, but an optic in place of his left eye too.

Captain Metal had simply gouged it out and replaced it with the optic. The optic was black with a red pupil that was exactly the same as Captain Metal's own singular optic. That seemed to make Fiona cringe and Scourge could imagine how freaked out his beautiful girlfriend would be at the fact he was now a cyborg. And all because he failed a mission for reasons beyond his control! It hardly seemed fair to the poor green hedgehog but he knew better than to oppose Finitevus or even complain about his condition. Finitevus smiled wickedly.

"Now then, since I'm a generous man, I am giving you the opportunity to redeem yourself." explained Finitevus, "Sonic the Hedgehog and four of his female friends Sally, Bunnie, Sora and Cosmo are coming to Holoska. Once again, a tip-off from my agent."

"Your agent sure is good at snooping around isn't it?" asked Fiona, smirking at the news she'd been told, "I bet Sonic and his brats will NEVER find out who it is."

"They certainly will not my child." purred Finitevus, "So I'm going to ask you two to go over to Holoska and prevent the heathens from getting near Mecha Tails while he completes his mission."

"Why not just pull him out so they can't get him?" asked Fiona curiously, "Wouldn't that be more logical?"

"Oh it would indeed." admitted Finitevus, "But at the same time, I need Mecha Tails to complete his mission. That and he could probably fight off the five Royal Fighters in case any of them get past you. It never hurts to have extra support."

"You have a point." said Fiona casually, "And if Mecha Tails needs an escape route, I guess he'll call you for a warp ring and you'll bring him home."

"I will." said Finitevus, "So then, you are to protect Mecha Tails and his mined snow and ice at ALL COSTS! Failure to do so will result in you getting a cybernetic makeover," he pointed at Fiona, "And the both of you locked together in a cell to think about what a failure you've been."

"Will you kick our asses if we don't kill the Royal Fighters who are coming to Holoska?" asked Scourge worriedly.

"No for that is not your main priority. Killing them will be a nice bonus though but do not worry if you don't get any dead bodies on your hands. Just worry about keeping Mecha Tails safe as he completes his job." commanded Finitevus firmly, "Do I make myself clear?"

"Yes Finitevus." said both Scourge and Fiona in unison.

"Then it is time for you both to dress up warmly and get going to Holoska…" purred Finitevus, handing Fiona a warp ring to use to warp over to Holoska once she and Scourge had something warm to wear.

Fiona nodded and she and Scourge left the bridge to get some warm clothes. They used the warp ring to warp down to the laundry room. Finitevus had warm clothes for any of the Mobian members of the Dark Armada for incase they ever went to a cold place like Holoska or White Acropolis and they were stored in here along with spare clothes for any other armada members to wear in case the ones they had currently were filthy or wrecked beyond use. Scourge grabbed a thick padded coat and he put it on while Fiona put on a thick padded coat and wrapped a scarf around her neck. She then tapped Scourge on the shoulder.

"Hey Scourge, I can't believe that freak Finitevus did that to you!" she hissed, "He has Captain Metal tear off your arm and tear out your eye and has made you into a cyborg! And for what? Failing to beat somebody who's at your level of strength and power?! It's hardly your fault that you failed isn't it?!"

"I agree Fiona." muttered Scourge, "And I'm gonna make that bastard pay for doing this to me! I'm a freak now because of what he's done! I bet you can't look at me the same way anymore Fiona!"

"Scourge, your cybernetics do not change a thing between us." purred Fiona seductively, "You're still my handsome hedgehog and I still love you. No robot arm and optic will change that for me."

"You really think so?" asked Scourge, touched to hear the Royal Fighter traitor saying this to him.

"Absolutely." Fiona whispered seductively into his ear.

Scourge's response was to embrace Fiona warmly and give her a loving kiss for her kind words. If Fiona still loved him despite his appearance then he was proud to be a cyborg. The two broke up the kiss and Scourge smiled in awe at Fiona.

"Fi, you have truly made my day." he said softly.

"Anything for you my lovely little Scourge." purred Fiona, "And hey, when Operation: Villains Rising is complete, we can overthrow Finitevus and take over the armada! That'll teach him for wrongfully punishing you like this!"

"Too right my voluptuous vixen." agreed Scourge, "Now then sweet-cakes, I believe we have a mission to do."

Fiona nodded and she flicked the warp ring up into the air, opening up a portal between The Nefarious 's laundry room and just outside the Holoska Ice Factory. Having seen images of the factory itself, they were able to visualize just outside the factory very easily. Now the warp ring was open, the evil couple quickly leapt through it and found themselves abandoning the warmth of The Nefarious in favour of the bitter cold of Holoska. Getting to fight Sonic, Sally, Bunnie, Sally and Cosmo and maybe even kill them all would make this totally worth it for them. Scourge in particular thought this as he thought about his cybernetics. Sonic and the Royal Fighters were the ones to blame for his failure and he was going to make them pay for causing this to happen to him…

Another hour passed slowly by before Sonic and his team arrived at the frigid country of Holoska. Sonic remembered all too well the last time he had ever been in this country. It had been during the Martian invasion last year and he and Tails had taken down the Martian known as Dranzer. Now this time, he was here to save his best friend from Finitevus's control. Sonic kept it on his mind to try and have a pleasant visit to Holoska that didn't involve having to fight some evil villain once this was over. He was sitting at the back of the hover-saucer while Sally did the driving. Sora was on her left side and Cosmo was on her right side, both looking very anxious as the saucer hovered over the snowy ground that just seemed to stretch endlessly for miles around. The clouds were dull and grey and it looked like they were going to unleash a snowstorm any moment now. Sonic hoped this wouldn't happen for the snow would be a bit of a hindrance in the battle to come, unless they fought inside the factory itself. The hover saucer carried on for a good few miles before eventually, Sally stopped the saucer but she left the heating system on to prevent the saucer from freezing over. She climbed out of the saucer. Her feet sunk straight into the deep blanket of snow. Sally was wearing a thick padded coat, gloves with fingers and thick trousers to keep her legs warm. She still had her trademark blue boots with white stripes around the calf section. Her coat also had a hood on it which Sally had up at the moment. Sonic had a thick brown coat buttoned up to his chin and he wore a green and red scarf around his neck, tucking it deep under his coat collar so that he wouldn't get it caught on anything in the fight. Sora and Cosmo both wore winter dresses, thick gloves and black leggings to keep themselves warm in the chilling cold of Holoska. Bunnie wore a winter dress too along with thick winter boots to keep her legs and feet warm, something she had done for a very long time. It felt strange for her, having to wear something on her feet given how because her feet were once roboticized, she didn't need footwear. But Bunnie didn't mind, she quickly got used to it. She had her new weapons at the ready and held on tightly to them as the five Mobians began to walk up to the Holoska Ice Factory.

The factory itself looked as cold as the atmosphere around them. The factory was an icy blue colour and had blankets of snow and sheets of ice covering it. Most of the factory's actual shape was changed by the piles of snow and ice all over the building. It was a huge building too, giving it a somewhat intimidating presence, especially given how it was the only kind of structure around. There were many digging vehicles around the factory such as excavators with huge caterpillar treads and scoop buckets, caterpillar treaded machines with moving arms and attached drills for cutting through ice and treaded machines that were used to carry people long distances around the snowy terrain. None of the vehicles were occupied, suggesting that the factory wasn't expecting any work for today. Or maybe something more sinister. Sally shivered to think on what the empty vehicles implied but she shook it off. She turned and spoke to her team, clouds of mist blowing out of her mouth with every word she said.

"OK here we are." she announced, "We have to approach with extreme caution. Mecha Tails likely won't hesitate to attack us the moment he sees us. Plus, we don't know if he's booby-trapped the place or not."

"I seems unlikely for Mecha Tails to do that." thought Sonic, "Tails isn't the kind of guy to booby trap a place. Then again, this is a roboticized Tails..."

"Pretty much, we have to remain vigilant and Tails won't get the drop on us." said Sora impatiently, "Now can we just get on with the mission already?"

"Whoa, never known you to be so keen to get in the action." chuckled Sonic.

"This is my brother, the brother that I spent eight years of my life without until we reunited last year, of course I'm keen to get into the action!" snapped Sora, "Tails isn't gonna save himself for us is he?"

"Sora dear, please calm down. Shouting isn't gonna help us get to Mecha Tails unnoticed is it?" noted Sally hastily.

"It certainly isn't sugar-queen." purred a female, sultry voice that made Sally's blood run cold.

The five Mobians stared in disbelief as Scourge and Fiona suddenly appeared from nowhere and started walking towards them. Scourge had a look of total confidence yet total anger on his face whereas Fiona looked laid-back about the fact they were soon going to be fighting five Royal Fighters in the middle of an icy wasteland. Sonic quickly took note of Scourge's new optic and metallic looking hand. Finitevus must not have taken his failure lightly, that much was certain to him. It didn't cross Sonic's mind for a minute as to why Scourge and Fiona were here. It was obvious as to why they were here. Finitevus had obviously sent them both over to Holoska to help Mecha Tails with his task and it was merely coincidence that they were here. They must have been inside the factory when Nicole spotted Mecha Tails, thus making their presence unknown to them until now. Sonic clenched his fists and gritted his teeth as Scourge smiled confidently at him. Sally clipped on her wristbands, deployed her energy blades and prepared to fight. She soon received a big shock when Fiona proceeded to do the same thing. She remembered her fight with Finitevus last year which saw her lose her wrist-blades to him. He must have given them to Fiona so now Sally had an equal to fight. Bunnie, Sora and Cosmo prepared to do battle, bending down in battle-ready stances as they prepared to fight.

"Well, well, bet ya didn't think you'd see me again so soon eh losers?" sneered Scourge, "And I see you don't have a Burning Blaze to help ya this time! Good! Means I can stomp on ya all without her interfering!"

"Hey Scourge, I love your new look. Is "cyborg" a new fashion trend or something?" chuckled Sonic, "I bet Finitevus was REALLY mad with you if you know have robot parts! Maybe he'll cut you to pieces so badly that you'll need a robot body to live!"

"Don't you dare mock my Scourge!" snarled Fiona, "You're the ones who caused this to happen to him and you're going to pay for it! With your severed heads..." she hissed, holding up her arm blades.

"Bunnie, take Cosmo and Sora into the factory, me and Sonic will take care of Scourge and the Royal Fighter traitor." ordered Sally.

"Sure thing Sally-girl!" piped Bunnie happily.

She ran off with Sora and Cosmo following her closely as Sonic and Sally charged towards Scourge and Fiona. Scourge and Fiona knew they were in a bit of a pickle the moment the battle started. They couldn't stop Bunnie, Sora and Cosmo from reaching Mecha Tails AND fight Sonic and Sally at the same time. They didn't let it bother them too much though. Mecha Tails would surely have a way of defending himself, he was a capable fight when he was Tails and he did pretty well on the battlefield when the Dark Armada first fought Sonic and Knuckles. He would be fine, the hedgehog and vixen reassured themselves that. Yelling angrily, Scourge and Fiona charged towards Sonic and Sally. Scourge predictably gunned for Sonic and Sally ran for Fiona. Sonic and Scourge both spin-dashed straight into each other at a force that could shatter brick walls while Sally and Fiona clashed blades with each other. A bright flash of blue light sparked between the two women as their energy blades clashed. Sally really hated it when she was against her own weapons. Mecha Sally had been the first to do this and now Fiona was doing it. It was beginning to make her energy blades seem pointless since everybody was coming up with ways to block them. Sally and Fiona retracted their arms and aimed another strike at each other. Fiona aimed at Sally's head whereas Sally was just simply aiming for a block. The queen held up her energy blades in a cross shape and blocked Fiona's rather well-aimed strike. A shudder flowed through Sally's arms as Fiona's blades clashed against hers. She know imagined how her victims felt before she slashed them or chopped them to pieces. Fiona pushed on Sally's arms, trying to force the squirrel down onto the ground. Her teeth were gritted as her arms pushed as hard as she ordered them to. Sally pushed back, straining with effort and desperately trying to keep Fiona's blades away from her head.

"Wonder how Sonic will feel when I separate your head from your body?!" cackled Fiona maniacally.

"Finitevus took his best friend away...I'm not gonna let you take me away from him!" grunted Sally, "And you of all people should have sympathy towards Sonic and what he's going through, considering you used to be his friend!" she spat out the words as if emphasising a big point to the treacherous vixen.

"Don't try to gain sympathy from me cretin!" snarled Fiona, "You Royal Fighters made my life worse so I had every right to betray you all! You're all dead to me and you gain no sympathy from me! And I have no regrets about betraying you all too!"

"Then I have no regrets about doing this!"

Fiona shrieked in pain as Sally suddenly lashed out with her foot and kicked her sharply in between her legs. When the arms were occupied, using the legs was always a good tactic to catch the opponent off-guard. Fiona doubled over in excruciating pain and she willed for the pain in her groin to go away. This gave Sally the perfect opportunity to trip Fiona up with a kick to the legs and then pin her down with her foot. She held her blades at Fiona's throat to prevent the vixen from getting back up. Fiona lay flat on her back against the snow on the ground, staring up helplessly at Sally but not looking worried in the slightest, more like angered. Angered because she had been beaten so easily when she expected to win this fight. Sally smirked confidently at Fiona, completely sure that she had won this fight. But then Sonic came flying out of nowhere and Sally's triumph was quickly snatched away as Sonic crashed into her and knocked her clean off her feet. The two landed in a heap on the snow and Scourge ran over to Fiona to help her up. Sonic and Scourge both helped their girlfriends back onto their feet, both girls brushing snow off of each other and rushing back into the fight. Sonic left Sally to take care of Fiona as he ran back towards Scourge. Scourge then showed off a new ability that his cybernetics contained. He aimed his robotical hand at Sonic and fired a compressed ball of air at Sonic straight out of the centre of his palm. Sonic was whisked clean off of his feet by the blast smacking straight into his stomach. He felt like he'd been punched by a gorilla. Sonic landed with a thump on the snow and Scourge laughed at Sonic mockingly.

"Dare mock my new cybernetics now moron?" he sneered, "Finitevus gave me WEAPONIZED cybernetics much like how your stupid friend Bunnie had weaponized cybernetics before she was de-roboticized! Captain Metal was quick to teach me how to use them after he fitted them on me so now I'm not just a powerhouse, I'm an even bigger powerhouse with some kickass weapons to boot!"

"We'll see about that cyber-jerk!" growled Sonic viciously, his voice like an angry lion.

He whizzed towards Scourge as fast as he possibly could but Scourge closed his right eye and fired a red laser beam out of his optic. The beam struck Sonic and brought him down onto his feet. Sonic quickly wiped some snow on himself to ease the pain but that just gave Scourge the opportunity to spin-dash Sonic in the face and throw him into a pile of snow. Scourge laughed and he fired another ball of compressed air at him. The blast hit the snow pile and sent snow flying everywhere. But Sonic seemed unharmed from the attack. The snow had taken the force of the attack for him. Sonic scooped up snow into his hands and he threw it into Scourge's face. The snow covered Scourge's eyes and blinded him, the hedgehog panicking as he wiped the snow out of his face. Sonic whizzed towards Scourge and clasped both fists together. He swung them upwards and walloped Scourge in the chin. Scourge let out a terrific yell as the uppercut launched him into the air and sent him crashing into an excavator. He landed directly in the bucket but despite the enormous clang that echoed from the impact, he seemed mostly unhurt. Scourge spin-dashed out of the excavator's bucket and he ricocheted off of Sonic as his blue nemesis spin-dashed towards him too. Sonic landed on the ground and took a moment out of the battle to hope that Bunnie, Sora and Cosmo were having better luck than he was right now before launching into another attack...

In the Ice Factory itself, Mecha Tails had a warp ring opened up for him to hand over his supplies that he'd gathered on his mission here. He had ten containers all full of freshly dug up snow and freshly mined ice. The containers were at a sub-zero temperature and they kept the snow and ice frozen and chilled so it wouldn't melt. He had a separate container full of gold and silver that he'd mined out of the ice. The whole process had been tiring and long but he'd done it and now he had more items to send home to Finitevus. The gold and silver would do very nicely indeed for the planned Synthetic Chaos Energy formula. Once Finitevus was ready to make the formula, Mecha Tails himself was going to help him make it. Finitevus reasoned that two scientists would be better than one in making something like Synthetic Chaos Energy. Mecha Tails had quite enjoyed his solitude in the Holoska Ice Factory but he was pleased that his mission was nearly over now. He couldn't wait to see what task Finitevus would give him next. As he passed Finitevus the container containing the gold and silver he'd managed to break out of the ice, he failed to notice that Bunnie, Cosmo and Sora had arrived into the room and Bunnie had her handheld cannon pointed at the warp ring. She waited until the container fully passed through the warp ring before she pulled the trigger. The enormous green coloured blast that launched out of the cannon she held tightly in her hand was immense. The blast threw Bunnie off her feet and into the wall and the blast whizzed through the air, slamming into the warp ring and vaporizing it instantly. Mecha Tails looked shocked to see his one-way ticket home destroyed like this and his head snapped around to his left to see who had done this. He was livid to see that Cosmo, Sora and Bunnie were here in the Holoska Ice Factory to come and ruin everything for him. Well, they were too late to stop him from delivering his diggings to Finitevus, he'd just given them all to him. He would have to fight off the three intruders until Finitevus opened up an extra warp ring for him. Bunnie picked herself up, amazed at the power of her new cannon and she pointed it threateningly at Mecha Tails. Mecha Tails glared at Bunnie coldly, his piercing, emotionless glare sending shivers up Cosmo and Sora's spines. This was it, their beloved Tails as a heartless, emotionless Robian slave. Cosmo just wanted to cry at the sight of Mecha Tails but she knew it wouldn't do any good. Sora on the other hand looked like she wanted to unleash all hell if it meant saving her brother from this hell he was in.

"I needed that." Mecha Tails said in a voice of steel.

"Alright Tails, ya'll can come with us or get vaporized!" growled Bunnie, her statement a total bluff for she had been given strict orders not to harm Tails with her weapons, "Only warning, take it or leave it!"

"You are all fools." droned Mecha Tails, "You will not take me prisoner."

"We aren't trying to take you prisoner, we're trying to rescue you!" yelled Sora, "Now please stand down! I don't want to have to manhandle you too much!"

"Please Tails, it's for your own good. We're saving you from a horrible life with Dr. Finitevus." pleaded Cosmo.

"I do not need saving." snapped Mecha Tails coldly, his voice even chillier than the snow-covered terrain outside the factory, "And my life with Finitevus is not horrible. You will not be saving me, you are kidnapping me and I will not allow that."

"Finitevus is the kidnapper Tails, we're trying to save you from him!" yelled Bunnie, "Please make this easy on yerself! Stand down and let us take you back home!"

"The Nefarious is my home, your home will be my prison." droned Mecha Tails, "And you will not imprison me."

With that said, he spun around his sharp metal tails and launched himself at Bunnie. The former-Rabbot was startled as to how quickly Mecha-Tails could move. He grabbed Bunnie by the neck and let her have it with an incredible jolt of electricity that made Bunnie scream and convulse in pain. He kept it up for a few seconds before releasing Bunnie from his grasp. The rabbit collapsed onto the floor, completely unconscious after such a terrible shock. Now the main threat was dealt with, Mecha Tails confiscated her weapons and clipped the cannon around his hand. Sora and Cosmo screamed in terror as he pointed it at the two girls and fired. His timing was a little slow though. He pulled the trigger just as they were leaping out of the way so he missed them by inches. The blast seemed to have been closer to Sora than Cosmo as he fired though. The blast punched through a wall and shattered the window that was built into it. Sora shivered with fright at the damage done to the wall by the cannon blast. She did not want to imagine what it'd be like if she actually got hit by the blast. Cosmo whipped out her Flower-Blade weapon, the sight of the weapon in her hands giving her fond memories of her precious Tails before he got roboticized, and she threw it at Mecha Tails. The bladed-disc pinged harmlessly off of Mecha Tails's tough, metal armour and returned to Cosmo's hand. Mecha Tails glared at Cosmo and he ran towards her. To the Seedrian's surprise, he didn't use the cannon on her. He instead used the metal fist weapon. He slugged Cosmo in the gut but for some reason, he didn't do it as hard as possible. Cosmo felt like she'd just been hit by Tails punching at his hardest as a Mobian rather than a Robian wearing a metal fist on his hand. It was like Mecha Tails was deliberately trying not to kill the heartbroken Seedrian. Maybe he still had some freewill in him and was holding back for Cosmo's sake? The thought didn't register into Cosmo's mind as she hurled backwards across the room and skidded across the floor straight through the hole in the wall. She nearly fell over the edge but she quickly grabbed on, dangling precariously by her hands as she held on for dear life. The ice factory was high up in a snow-covered mountain and they were in the very top floor of the building. If Cosmo fell, it would be an unpleasant tumble indeed. Heart racing and head raining with sweat that came chilled and cold thanks to the cold air outside, Cosmo tried to pull herself back up into the factory. Mecha Tails marched towards her and he glowered down at her. Cosmo seized her chance to try and reach out to the Tails she knew and loved very much.

"Tails! Please! Help me!" she cried helplessly, "I'm going to fall! Please help me!"

"Why should I help the enemy?" demanded Mecha Tails bitterly.

"I'm not the enemy! I'm your girlfriend Tails!" shrieked Cosmo desperately, "Please, you must remember me! I'm your girlfriend Tails! I'm the love of your life and you'd do anything to protect me! You MUST remember!"

"Love. I have no understanding of the word. It is not registered in my vocabulary banks." replied Mecha Tails, "You are not my girlfriend and I would never protect you."

"Yes you would Tails! You protected me from many dangers ever since I landed on Mobius!" exclaimed Cosmo feebly, "You've been kinder to me than anybody on this planet and because of that, I grew to love you! You must still love me Tails! You're holding back against me! Remember our love Tails! REMEMBER!" she screamed, hoping to break through Mecha Tails's stoic demeanour and reach out to the Tails she loved.

"I do not remember something that is not real." replied Mecha Tails, "We were never in love, I never loved you and you have no reason to love me. You are the enemy and I am your enemy. Your words are the words of a crazed girl who speaks of a false connection between us."

Cosmo's eyes streamed with tears. Mecha Tails was just impossible to reason with! No matter what she said, he just insisted that he never loved her and that she was his enemy! Finitevus had truly ruined Tails beyond belief when he roboticized him, that much was certain. The Seedrian could feel her heart breaking in two as she factored in how lost Tails really was. And yet Mecha Tails wasn't sending her falling to her death, that was something Cosmo noticed. Why was he allowing her to cling onto life like this? Why wasn't he trying to kill her? She didn't need to wonder for long though for Sora suddenly pounced on Mecha Tails and pulled back on him, trying to wrench him away from Cosmo so the Seedrian could get back up. Mecha Tails simply shrugged off Sora as if she was nothing and he socked the teenage vixen as hard as he possibly could with Bunnie's metal fist weapon. Sora swore that he'd broken something in her face with that punch but her face still seemed intact despite the punch. The vixen crashed against the wall and groaned in terrible pain as Mecha Tails advanced towards her. Sora pressed herself against the wall in terror as her roboticized brother raised the hand cannon and pointed it at her.

"No Tails, no! Please, don't shoot!" begged Sora, "You wouldn't kill me! I'm Sora, your sister! You'd never harm me!"

"We are of no relation delusional vixen." muttered Mecha Tails, "You are my enemy, I would kill you."

"Tails listen to me, this isn't you!" whimpered Sora feebly, "You're not an emotionless robot working for Finitevus! You're my brother and you're Sonic's best friend! And most of all, your Cosmo's lover! I know you're still in there little brother, I know you are! Fight his control and come back to us! Please!"

"I am not under control so I cannot fight anything." replied Mecha Tails coldly, "I am not related to you, I am not Sonic's friend and Cosmo is not my…"lover". You are deranged and you need to be put down."

Sora acted fast before Mecha Tails could shoot her. She whipped out a smoke bomb that she had on her utility belt, which was hidden by the coat, and he threw it at Mecha Tails's face. The roboticized fox didn't seem surprised or bothered at the fact he'd just received a smoke-bomb to the face. But he was distracted long enough for Sora to escape. She ran away from him as the smoke obscured his vision and she ran over to Cosmo. The Seedrian was still clinging on for dear life, her strength failing her so she couldn't pull herself back up. Sora closed her hands around Cosmo's and she pulled her up. Cosmo was still crying as Sora pulled her back into the room.

"It's no use Sora...Tails refuses to believe what we say!" she howled.

"We'll get to him somehow, I know we will!" declared Sora, "We just need to try harder!"

Then suddenly, Mecha Tails grabbed Sora by the neck and hoisted her clean off her feet! He'd disposed of Bunnie's weapons so he could do this. He picked Sora up, his iron grip tightening around the vixen's neck as he stared at her. Sora kicked at him furiously, trying to get Mecha Tails to put her down. But the young spy was unable to get Mecha Tails to let her go. He just tightened his grip, the vixen now fighting for consciousness as black spots began swimming in her eyes.

"Ack…please…let me…go!" croaked Sora weakly.

"Put her down!" pleaded Cosmo, "That's your sister you're throttling! You'd never harm her like this Tails! Please put her down!"

Mecha Tails ignored Cosmo. He was beginning to tire of her persistent claims that "he'd never harm her" and such. He'd have to make sure Cosmo never spoke again after Sora was dead. But then Mecha Tails realized that he'd made a grave mistake. He'd discarded Bunnie's weapons so he could strangle Sora. This proved to be his own undoing for Bunnie had finally regained consciousness and she pointed the cannon at his head.

"Put. Her. Down!" she snarled, "Don't make me ask again!"

Mecha Tails as he was told and he tossed Sora down onto the floor. He raised his hands, clearly defeated and unable to find a way out of his predicament. Bunnie smiled triumphantly. She'd gotten Mecha Tails to surrender! Now they could take him home and see to de-roboticizing him! The day was won at last, the Dark Armada had lost and the Royal Fighters had won! But Bunnie of all people should have known better than to celebrate too early. A warp ring suddenly opened up behind her and Finitevus came soaring out of it like an athlete on the high jump. He landed behind Bunnie Rabboh and he thumped her callously on the head with both fists. With her head spinning, Bunnie couldn't do anything as Finitevus tossed her aside and grabbed Mecha Tails. He sensed that something was wrong after his warp ring had been destroyed before he could get through and thus, had taken liberty of coming to aid his roboticized slave. Finitevus quickly shoved Mecha Tails through the warp ring, transporting him straight back to The Nefarious and out of harm's way. He sneered at the three girls wickedly.

"Sorry to disappoint girls, but Mecha Tails is staying with me." he purred sinisterly, "Have fun trying to find him again."

He then proceeded to retreat through the warp ring, leaving behind a very disappointed and crushed Sora and Cosmo. Sora kicked at the wall furiously and broke down into floods of tears.

"DAMN IT! DAMN IT ALL!" she screamed, tears streaming rapidly down her face and anger coursing through her veins, "WE LOST! MY BROTHER'S STILL IN FINITEVUS'S POSSESSION! WHAT ARE WE GONNA DO TO GET HIM BACK?!"

Cosmo could only hug Sora sympathetically as the vixen spilled out all her grief and anger over the failure of this mission. She even wept with the distraught spy too, both girls showering their shoulders with their own tears as they hugged. Bunnie felt like she wanted to shed a tear for the heartbroken girls. They were so close to saving Tails and yet they still failed! What did it take to save Tails already?! Bunnie walked over to the girls and gently touched them on each shoulder.

"Come on girls, there's no reason to stay here." she mumbled, "Let's pick up sugah-hog and Sally-girl…and get goin' home."

Cosmo and Sora nodded agreeably. Why stay when they'd failed the mission? Their eyes still pouring with tears, Bunnie led Sora and Cosmo out of the factory and back outside into the bitter cold air and howling wind that seemed eerily appropriate for the fact they were going through a tough and dark time. They ran over to the fight scene before them, watching as Sonic and Scourge wrestled with each other and Sally and Fiona tried to cut one another to pieces. Bunnie made it easier for Sonic and Sally by blasting Scourge clean off of his feet and blasting Fiona away from Sally. With the two villains out of the way, Bunnie ran over to Sonic and Sally. The two noticed the disappointment on Bunnie's face and Sora and Cosmo's tear-filled eyes.

"You didn't save him…did you?" asked Sonic, trying not to let the wind snatch away his words.

"No, Finitevus took him before we could make off with him." murmured Bunnie solemnly, "Ah'm so sorry sugah-hog…truly ah am."

"I'm sure you all did your best." said Sally sadly but kindly, "But if Tails is back on The Nefarious then we have no reason to stay here. We may as well just go home."

"If only Scourge and Fiona weren't here!" moaned Sonic, "I could have rushed into that stupid factory and grabbed him straight away! I swear I'm going crazy just thinking about how horrible it must be for poor Tails to be going through this! I just want him back, his absence is affecting me real bad!"

"I can relate." whimpered Cosmo miserably.

"We'll get him back eventually." declared Sally, "But not now I'm afraid…we'll have to let him go for now. It pains me to say this, but what can we do now he's back on The Nefarious?"

The others nodded agreeably and they quickly ran over to their still parked hover-saucer. They climbed into the saucer just as Scourge and Fiona picked themselves up and brushed the snow out of their faces. Sally started up the saucer and she drove off, leaving the two villains behind to just watch despairingly as their prey got away again. As they drove away, Sally looked over to a very sad and troubled looking Sonic. It wounded her heart to see her boyfriend looking so miserable. All the more reason to make Finitevus pay for taking his best friend away from him like this. Sally put a hand on Sonic's hand and stroked it gently.

"I know how much this is hurting you Sonic." she said softly, "Tails was your brother figure, his absence is leaving a hole in your heart that cannot be filled. I'm so sorry that you're going through this."

"Don't be Sal." said Sonic, taking her hand into his own, "Finitevus took my little brother from me, and he's gonna pay for it! With his life if necessary!"

"Right now I'm leaving the option of executing him for his crimes open." murmured Sally, "As for now Sonic, I think we'll need some extra support. We'll need the other Royal Fighter teams. With all the teams together, we'll stand a chance of beating the Dark Armada."

"I hope so my girl…I hope so…" said Sonic solemnly, kissing Sally on the lips for comfort.

The silence that followed was one of the most haunting silences that Sonic had ever experienced as the hover-saucer took them back home to New Mobotropolis. If extra-support didn't do them any good…then there was no hope for Mobius. The Dark Armada would win and the Royal Fighters would all be dead…and then nobody would stop Enerjak from rising. It was no wonder that the world comes to an end on this very year…

You lot better get used to this downer endings, we're going to get more of these as we go along. So the Dark Armada wins yet again. Will the Royal Fighters turn this around somehow?

Join in next time as Team Adabat bear witness to the wrath of the Dark Armada...

Dark Armada Part 6: Operation: Adabat

Story 206: Operation: Adabat

The Dark Armada Chapter 6 of 25

It was the dawning of a new day, a day that likely wasn't going to go as well as yesterday did for the Royal Fighters. The Dark Armada had been on a winning streak and it was all because of Finitevus's agent feeding them information that kept the armada one step ahead of the game. First Bunnie Rabbot ended up de-roboticized, then The Nefarious was quickly warped away from the heroes so they couldn't storm it and cause more damage to the ship after Bunnie had brought it down and just yesterday evening, the heroes had failed miserably to subdue Mecha Tails and take him back to New Mobotropolis to be de-roboticized. And the armada would see many more victories as time went by for the heroes still had no idea who Finitevus's mysterious agent is (even the armada itself doesn't know who it is) and Finitevus would keep getting information from that agent.

The Royal Fighters were searching for the agent at his very moment. Their very own detectives Team Chaotix were investigating deeply into this case but so far, they hadn't come to any clues or finds yet. The agent was still a mystery at this moment. And it was because of the agent as to why Queen Sally Acorn was feeling a little anxious about making a call to the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters in the Royal HQ laboratory. She was sitting at the main computer and speaking into the microphone as she waited for them to respond to her call. Sonic the Hedgehog was just beside her, watching intently. Yesterday after the horrible failure to rescue Tails from Dr. Finitevus, Sally had decided to make a call to the other Royal Fighter groups to double their numbers and maybe stand a stronger chance of saving Tails and defeating the armada. Sally was starting off with Team Nekronopolis. They had the one thing they would need to match the Dark Armada in terms of cavalry and resources, a ship. The Sky Patrol to be precise. The Sky Patrol had seen action during the Royal Fighters' last bout with Dr. Eggman before his horrific demise. It had been destroyed along with the Death Egg after the Death Egg exploded but the team had since rebuilt it. Their ship wasn't as potent as The Nefarious by a long shot but by all means, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters would need a ship if they stood a ghost of a chance of finding or even keeping up with The Nefarious .

"Miranda Mongoose, this is Sally Acorn. Please respond." Sally said into the microphone.

"I just hope she's at home to answer that call." murmured Sonic.

Given the dark times that the Royal Fighters were going through right now, Sonic was finding it hard to stay completely enthusiastic and was resorting to "hoping" a lot of the time. His hopes were soon answered for Sally received a response from Miranda on the other side of the microphone.

"Why good morning your majesty." came the kind, soft voice of Miranda Mongoose, "How may me and my team be of a service to you?"

"Good morning Miranda." Sally replied, "Listen, are you familiar with the Dark Armada at all?"

"Dark Armada…hmm…I haven't heard any names like that." mused Miranda, "But I do recall hearing that the Golden Hive Colony was recently attacked by what they described as "a big black ship with an evil appearance" and that their colony was raided by several different villains, one of them a robot that greatly resembles the Royal Fighter Tails. Do these ring any bells?"

"Plenty of them." muttered Sally, "The Dark Armada is an army of villains formulated by the evil scoundrel known as Dr. Finitevus. We brought their ship crashing down in Nekronopolis so I bet they were the ones attacking the Golden Hive Colony. We'll list to you the members later, right now we have a request for you and it's compulsory that you comply. The armada is very strong and Finitevus keeps being a step ahead of us because he has a spy feeding him information behind our backs. We need all the Royal Fighters we can get so please, PLEASE can you join us in our battle with the armada?"

"Of course we can!" replied Miranda in a tone that suggested it was rather silly to ask such a question, "We owe that armada much for attacking the poor Golden Hive Colony. Those poor innocent bees are still frightened as all heck!"

"Thank you so much Miranda!" cried Sally happily, "So where are you now?"

"On the Sky Patrol." explained Miranda, "Ever since the colony was attacked, we've been searching for this ship they described. We're currently heading towards New Mobotropolis to see if it's hiding there."

"Well you won't find The Nefarious here but you can stop by and pick me and Sonic up." explained Sally, "Then once you've picked us up, take us to Adabat, Megapolis and Chun-Nan, all in that order if you please. We need the other teams as well."

"Very well then, we'll come straight to you." said Miranda kindly, "We'll see you when we arrive."

Miranda than hung up, leaving Sally to get up from her seat and stand in front of Sonic.

"Good thing Miranda's already on her way here." said Sally brightly, "She'll be here sooner than we expect."

"It's cool and fortuitous." said Sonic, "I just hope the extra support will help us save my best buddy and stop the armada."

Sally nodded agreeably and she pulled Sonic close towards her. Gently wrapping her arms around his body and running her fingers through his quills, she looked lovingly into the hedgehog's eyes. It pained her to see Sonic like this and she wanted dearly to make him happy again.

"I'm so sorry that you're going through this Sonic." she said softly, "Nobody should EVER have to go through what you're going through. But I promise you this, I'll do whatever it takes to stop this armada…and get you your best friend back. I want you happy Sonic and getting Tails back will make you happy again. It pains me to see you like this."

"Thanks for the concern my girl." said Sonic appreciatively, smiling and embracing his girlfriend, "I can't tell you how much it sucks to feel so helpless and like you could've saved your best friend and yet didn't. It also sucks to feel so sad and frightened…it's why I'm not usually very emotional. Because when I get emotional…I get scared."

"Emotions are a very scary thing true blue, but emotions are what make us Mobian." explained Sally, "It might be scary feeling emotions that you don't usually experience Sonic…but please don't get scared. I assure you, it's nothing to worry about. It's perfectly normal for you and anybody else to feel like this in a situation as dire as what we're going through."

"You're right Sal." said Sonic agreeably, stroking Sally's soft, red hair, "We're only Mobian as they say."

"We are indeed…we are indeed." replied Sally.

The two then kissed each other on the lips, feeling content, warm, happy and like all their problems were suddenly gone. But the moment their lips separated, they knew that their problems weren't gone. They broke up their embrace and the hedgehog and squirrel left the laboratory to meet Team Nekronopolis once the Sky Patrol arrived. But they didn't realize something was wrong as they closed the laboratory door behind them. There was a communicator device lying on the table in the corner of the room. The communicator wasn't out of place where it was though, there was always one or more on the table in case the Royal Fighters needed to put one on. What was out of the norm was that the communicator was switched on. It had been on the whole time Sonic and Sally had been talking and making the call to the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters. The only reason it hadn't been noticed was that the communicator was facing the wall. But sound reverberates around the laboratory quite easily so the communicator still picked up what they were saying. And on the other side of the communicator, outside of New Mobotropolis's gates and listening to the conversation…was Finitevus's secret agent! The agent had gotten the information it needed to give to its master. Now the agent switched off the communicator and prepared to make the call to Finitevus…

Ravage Bloodfang, Raphael the Cyber Husky, Zira the Ruthless, Bride of the Conquering Storm and Team Diamond were rather puzzled as they made their way to The Nefarious 's meeting room. Puzzled as in they couldn't for the life of them work out why their leader Dr. Finitevus was calling them up to the meeting room in particular. On the other hand, it was quite an honour that they had been chosen in particular. If Finitevus picked anybody for a specific task then it should be considered an honour in their eyes for it meant Finitevus was putting faith into his disciples. They had to wonder why Finitevus picked them in particular as they answered his call. They'd find out what it was Finitevus wanted them for very shortly. The villains paused briefly outside the meeting room as the door opened up and allowed them inside. Finitevus was already in the room, sitting in his chair at the round table that stood proudly in the centre of the room with many other chairs all around the table for armada members to sit at. The villains took their seats and were quick to notice that Finitevus had left cups of tea for them to drink as the meeting progressed. Finitevus took a sip out of his own mug as his requested members made themselves comfortable. He set down the mug of tea on the table and he clasped his hands together.

"Good morning my fellow armada members." he purred.

"Zǎo ān honourable leader." replied Zira the Ruthless, looking down at her mug and noticing delightedly that she had been given green tea, a native beverage to her country, "It is an honour to be summoned by you personally doctor."

"Do apprise us on why you have summoned us in particular." requested Conquering Storm. She tail-ended her sentence with a sip of her green tea.

"Yes, what jobs do you have for all of us?" asked Raphael curiously.

"So glad you asked for I have the answer to satisfy your curious minds." said Finitevus smoothly. He waited until everybody put down their teas before he continued, "My agent has been at it again. Just moments ago, I was informed of the Royal Fighters' next move. They are hoping to recruit their other Royal Fighter teams to increase their numbers and to hopefully take us down once and for all."

"And those teams will be Teams Nekronopolis, Adabat, Chun-Nan and Megapolis right?" asked Lennox Meers the Meerkat curiously.

"Affirmative." answered Finitevus, "While they wouldn't pose much of a threat on their own, joined up with Sonic's team they'll be a bigger threat to us all. And let's not get started on Team Chun-Nan and how they have kung-fu warriors fighting against evil like us. If Team Chun-Nan join the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, our plans could easily hit a heavy bump in the road."

"So…let me guess doc…are we going to be assigned to the task of killin them before they can be recruited?" asked Raphael.

"Yes." answered Finitevus, smiling wickedly.

"Allow me the honour of terminating the princess and her team!" cried Zira desperately, "I'm perfectly adequate for the task!"

"You're a fool Zira, you couldn't even beat the princess and last time you attacked Chun-Nan, you were beaten by that weak old fool of an emperor! I on the hand have actually managed to BEAT Matilda herself and take over Chun-Nan!" crowed Conquering Storm, "I should go! The job is for me!"

Zira stood up form her chair and glowered down at Conquering Storm.

"You will not rob me of my rightful task!" she snarled, "I am the one to terminate Team Chun-Nan!"

"You'll fail miserably Zira and disgrace this armada!" snapped Conquering Storm, standing up and staring at Zira directly in the eyes, "I should kill them all!"

"You two, enough of this inane bickering!" bellowed Finitevus angrily, "Just for that, you can BOTH go and you will work together and share the kills between you or so help me, you'll both end up like Scourge! DO YOU COMPREHEND?!"

Zira and Conquering Storm both sat down in their seats and they lowered their heads in shame. The last thing they wanted as to become cyborgs like Scourge before them had done. They considered the thought a stain on their honour so like it or not, working together was better than becoming a hideous cyborg like Scourge and Raphael, even if the former made himself one and was proud of it.

"Yes master, we're sorry master." they both said together.

"Good." growled Finitevus, "Now then, Raphael, I believe you have grudges to settle with Dark Cat and Kiara am I right?"

"Darn right doc, I tried to make them cyborgs but they ended up destroying my camp and damaging me terribly* as you already know since you're the one who fixed me!" growled Raphael, "I want to make those kitty-cats pay for their crimes!"

"Then you shall have the honour of terminating the Megapolis Royal Fighters." explained Finitevus.

"Wait a minute…did you say Dark Cat?" asked Conquering Storm quickly.

"Yes I did, why do you ask?" questioned Finitevus.

"Dark Cat is a former Raiju Clan member." explained Conquering Storm, "He betrayed me a long time ago and I've sworn on my clan's honour that I would get him back or kill him myself! Since I am going with Zira to Chun-Nan, maybe Raphael could take my clan with him to fight the Megapolis Royal Fighters? He can have this "Kiara" woman but IF Dark cannot be turned back to us, he can have him too."

"Mmm, sounds pretty fair toots." said Raphael casually, "I'll take your clan if you want. I'll let them see if they can get Dark on their team before we kill him."

"Deal." said Conquering Storm, "I'll place my best man Dàfeng Rai in charge of the clan while I'm in Chun-Nan. He'll give my clan orders but he'll let you act under your own orders. That way, disputes will be avoided."

"Exemplary thinking there Conquering Storm and a fine use of logic too." Finitevus praised delightedly, "No wonder you were the one to take over Chun-Nan last year. Now then, Ravage Bloodfang has many scores to settle with Team Adabat so he will be the one to hunt them down…and maybe have them for dinner too." he said darkly, looking at Ravage.

"Oooh Scott and Jessica will make a fine meal indeed…" muttered Ravage, "I may have failed to kill Bunnie but I won't fail this task. I promise that I'll have all four of Team Adabat DEAD!"

"I know you will." purred Finitevus with a devilish grin on his face, "And as for you Team Diamond, you will go to Chun-Nan and provide back-up should they need it." he ordered, looking at Team Diamond now, "Once Team Chun-Nan are dead, you may raid the Pagoda of Prosperity for whatever treasures the place owns. I'll allow you to keep HALF of what you find, the other half is to be used for my Synthetic Chaos Energy formula."

"Very well then." said Lennox, "We'll do just that and we'll have NO betrayal attempts will we Roxy?" he growled, looking over at the raccoon forcibly sitting beside him.

Roxy the Raccoon looked dreadful. She had bruises under he eyes, she had ugly hickeys on her throat and the way she presented herself made her look tired, beaten and miserable. She even had an unbearable pain between her legs that she longed would go away already. Lennox had been dominating her and he'd been very rough about it. Roxy glared at Lennox but she nodded her head bitterly. Her scowl said everything that needed to be said about her, "I do not want to do this task, but I have no choice so I'll do it anyway". Lennox sneered at his love interest.

"Good girl." he said, "You know, if you continue to be good then maybe that bomb doesn't need to be in your head anymore."

"Roxy can behave as well as she likes, the bomb stays where it is."

said Finitevus coldly, "Remove it, she has a chance at betrayal."

"OK then." said Lennox, "So, what of Team Nekronopolis?"

"I'm afraid that after we raided the Golden Hive Colony, the team was quick to mobilize and they received the Royal Fighters' call for help." explained Finitevus, "My agent tells me they're on their ship, the Sky Patrol, and already on their way to New Mobotropolis. I have not been on the Sky Patrol so warping onto the patrol is impossible without me being able to visualize it. Plus, our ship is still being repaired. We'll have to let them go unfortunately. The rest…make sure they never leave their countries."

"Yes Finitevus." said the villains in unison.

"Now you all have your tasks, you may all go to accomplish them. Good luck my armada." said Finitevus.

The evil Mobians all nodded as Finitevus opened up a warp ring for each team to take. Everybody but Conquering Storm went through their warp rings. Ravage was warped to Adabat, Raphael was warped to Megapolis and Zira and Team Diamond were warped to Chun-Nan. Conquering Storm used her warp ring to warp down to the Raiju Clan and get them warped over to Megapolis for their mission with Raphael. The moment she left, Finitevus got up from his seat.

"Now to see how my Synthetic Chaos Energy formula is coming along…" he purred, "I hope Mecha Tails is doing as well as he should be doing at making it."

He warped out of the room and over to The Nefarious 's laboratory to see how Mecha Tails was doing…

Over in Adabat, the local Royal Fighter team was currently exploring a canyon that despite being as old as Adabat itself, they had never seen before. This was their first time exploring this new sight for them and they were enjoying what they were walking through.

Team Adabat was a foursome team with Scott the Lynx as their leader. His team mates were his girlfriend Jessica the Cougar, Jessica's good friend Felix the Peacock and his brother Taran the Lynx. Scott and Jessica had been close friends since childhood and their friendship had blossomed into love as they got older. Despite Scott's temper problems and his recklessness, Jessica always remained loyal to him and Scott had slowly but surely begun to mature. After nearly being driven to murder due to the destruction of his village two years ago, his personality had changed quite drastically and his recklessness and bad temper had mostly disappeared, much to Jessica's delight. Life had been quite peaceful for the team since their enemy Ravage Bloodfang hadn't been active lately. Had they known why that was though, they'd likelier have been more concerned about the wolf and would be trying to find him right about now. Such thoughts were not present as the team roamed through the canyon. They had come across it while on a walk earlier today and given they had never seen it before, Scott was all too happy to explore it. He loved to explore and he was enjoying himself on this hike.

With Felix and Taran further behind, Scott hoped onto a bunch of rocks and had a good look around at the view he was met with at the top. The pile of rocks reached up very high and Scott was met with a pretty impressive view from all around. Jessica climbed up after him, doing so with ease since felines like her were often good at climbing. She stood beside her boyfriend and shared the view that he was drinking in. They could see their local village, which had been rebuilt long since after Ravage had destroyed it, and could just make out tiny specks walking up and down the beach in the distance. They were people and Scott and Jessica imagined how much fun they were having on the beach, playing in the beautiful yellow sunshine that shone over the perfect, golden sands and the sparkling, crystal clear sea that lapped up at the shore. The two could even see Mount Adabat in the distance, silent and inactive at this current moment. It wasn't due to erupt again for a while now so the two didn't give the volcano any second thoughts. As they admired the view, the two felines held hands together.

"Oh Scott…our country truly is beautiful." sighed Jessica, "I know I say that a lot but…wow our country is beautiful."

"Indeed so and discovering this new canyon just adds to the beauty our country presents." said Scott brightly, "This view all around us is simply amazing! Don't you just feel lucky to live here?"

"I do Scotty, I really do." said Jessica warmly, "But I feel even luckier to live in this country with a wonderful boy like you."

"Oh Jessica, you're really too kind you are. Too kind for me even." chuckled Scott.

The two playfully nuzzled each other's faces and giggles, their nuzzle quickly becoming an embrace. They cuddled each other and rubbed noses, now ignoring the view around them in favour of each other's company.

"I could never be too kind for you Scotty-baby." purred Jessica, "You mean everything to me and I want to show how much I mean that."

"You do that very well babe." said a very flattered Scott, beaming delightedly at his girlfriend's love for him, "And I can easily tell you this. Meeting you as a kid was the best moment of my life. You have no idea how much I mean that."

"Oooh I have some idea handsome." chuckled Jessica teasingly, "You love me more than our own country right?"

"I love you more than life itself." replied Scott, "And the fact we've been at peace for over a year has just made life wonderful, because I'm with you, my brother and our friend and we don't ever have to worry about anything ever again."

"That's not entirely true honey, I'm kinda worried about Ravage to be honest." said Jessica, her expression becoming a little more anxious suddenly, "We haven't seen him since that whole incident with the lights in the sky. Heck, we haven't seen him since he used that Elemental Sword to try and destroy the country! Where has he been since then? I keep feeling like he's going to attack any moment now…and we'll NEVER see it coming!"

"Sssh, please don't worry Jessica, everything's OK." said Scott kindly, fingering a lock of her beautiful, ginger hair and running his hand gently down her back, "We'll be prepared if Ravage attacks. Or maybe we won't need to because he's incarcerated. I bet that's the case."

"You'd think Sonic would have told us Ravage was in jail or something." said Jessica, her concern not faltering in the slightest, "No, I'm still convinced he's gonna attack and that he'll try and kill us all…"

"Come on baby, please don't spoil our lovely day out." said Scott softly, "We're supposed to be having fun today, not worrying about Ravage."

"I'm sorry but it's hard to keep him off my mind." said Jessica sadly, "Please take that into consideration."

"I will." said Scott kindly, "We'll keep an eye out for that wolf but we're also going to enjoy exploring this canyon too. If we see Ravage, we'll have him."

"Thank you Scott, that makes me feel much better." said Jessica sweetly.

"Anything for the girl of my dreams." purred Scott seductively.

The two then proceeded to kiss each other. As they kissed and cuddled atop the rock pile, Taran and Felix looked up at them and smiled in awe. Taran put a hand over his heart.

"Aww…my little brother's so adorable with Jessica, he really is." he sighed.

"It makes my heart feel warm to see my darling friend with Scott." said Felix happily, "I couldn't possibly think of Jessica with anybody else. Scott is the perfect person for her to be romantically involved with."

"Glad to hear you say that Felix, makes me glad to have Scott as my brother." said Taran brightly, "Yes sir, I wouldn't have anybody else as my brother indeed."

"I'm sure Scott greatly appreciates your brotherly love for him."

replied Felix, "It's a pity that I myself have no family to love and nurture. I was an only child and my family, which were just my mother and father, were sadly killed during a lightening storm. I had no other relatives so I was on my own for much of my life. The day I met Scott and Jessica was the best day of my life since that event since with them…I'm no longer alone. You can imagine when they left their old village due to the bullying they received for their powers, I was quite saddened at their departure. It was a good thing that six years later, we reunited in the R.F.S. and now I hope to remain a part of this family forever.

"Family eh? In a way, we kinda are family aren't we?" said Taran happily, "Anyway, I'm glad we don't make you feel so lonely anymore Felix. You'll never be alone as long as you're with us."

"Indeed so my good friend." Felix beamed delightedly.

Then suddenly, a small rock fell off down a nearby ledge and rolled down into the canyon. Taran's head snapped into the direction of the falling rock and as he leapt up, he swore that he saw something move atop the ledge. The lynx got to his feet and he scanned the ledge as if hoping to see something.

"What is it?" asked Felix curiously.

"I have a sneaky feeling we're not alone…" mused Taran, "Stay there while I take a look around."

"Is it wise to venture solitarily without knowing what you're up against Taran?" asked Felix concernedly.

"Maybe not but I'll call you if I need you." said Taran, "I can count on you guys to give me a hand when I need it."

Taran then proceeded to run off in the direction he had seen something move. He climbed up the ledge and walked off in search for what he'd spotted, that is if he had indeed spotted something. The lynx was sure that he had seen something but at the same time, he wondered if he had really seen something or if it had just been his imagination. He was prepared to accept that thought if he couldn't find anything. As Taran searched for his mysterious watcher, Scott and Jessica climbed down the rock pile and stood beside Felix.

"What's my big bro doing?" asked Scott curiously.

"He claims to have sighted something so he is trekking forward to confirm his suspicions of having sighted something." explained Felix.

"Well given how things have been pretty peaceful since Eggman's death, I'm sure he didn't see anything we should worry about." said Scott casually, "But it would have been wise if we all went together, you never know what you'll run into."

"I'm sure Taran will call us if he needs us." said Jessica, "But I do hope that he doesn't run into any trouble. I bet you'd be terrified to hear if Taran was in danger Scott."

"I would indeed." murmured Scott, "In fact, I don't care if Taran wants to go alone, I can't risk him getting into trouble. Let's go after him and make sure…"

His sentence was cut off by a blood-curdling scream that echoed all around the canyon. Scott's fur stood up on end as the scream's echoes died down into sinister whispers of warning. He knew that scream. It was Taran's! The lynx felt his heartbeat increasing rapidly as he pictured something terrible happening to his beloved brother. Jessica and Felix looked shaken to hear that scream and they dreaded to think what it was all about. A whole tense minute passed before one of them said anything.

"D-d-did y-you h-hear that?" whimpered Felix.

"Taran's run into trouble!" shrieked Scott, "Come on team, let's help him!"

The three Adabat Mobians ran towards the ledge that Taran had climbed up in search of the thing he'd supposedly spotted. Upon reaching the top, they ran over to a huge rock that protruded from the ground a few metres away from where they were. They were out of the canyon's long, narrow tunnels and up on the plains above.

There wasn't much around except for the rock they were running towards and Scott felt his blood run cold as he saw a trickle of blood seeping from behind it. Taran's or somebody else's? Scott came to a stop just metres in front of the rock and he commanded his team to stop. Now they had stopped, Scott tip-toed towards the rock, hoping he didn't attract any attention. Jessica and Felix followed him closely but kept as quiet as they possibly could. Now they were up to the rock, Scott nervously climbed up it, climbing as quietly as possible. His heart was racing. He dreaded to think what he was about to see on the other side of the rock. The sight of blood already had his head spinning with worry and the fact he was about to see what was on the other side of the rock made him feel more nervous. He reached the top of the rock…and let out a horrified shriek of terror. There on the other side of the rock was his arch-enemy Ravage Bloodfang. Jessica had worried about him moments ago and now he was here once again! But what had actually caused Scott to scream was NOT the sight of his arch-enemy. Ravage was leaning over something and he had his jaws around something. It was the throat of Taran the Lynx! Ravage had grabbed Taran and the two ended up having a brief struggle before Ravage finally killed him with a snap of his jaws. He had been about to mutilate the body even more before Scott's scream caught the wolf's attention and spared the dead Taran that horror. His head snapped upwards and he smiled wickedly at his nemesis. He licked his bloodstained lips delightedly. Scott still appeared to be frozen with fear, not realizing that Ravage was now looking up at him.

"Hello Scott…you're just in time for dinner." he purred, "And you're the lucky boy who's going to be my main course!"

He then proceeded to leap up at Scott and snap his jaws at him. The wolf nearly got him but Scott reacted just a fraction too quick so Ravage's jaws snapped at empty air. Scott considered himself lucky to have actually dodged that attack in time. He had been so shocked at what he'd just witnessed that he thought he'd never move again. And yet here he was, leaping out of the way and running for his life as Ravage came leaping after him. The wolf didn't get a chance to complete his leap though for as he sailed into the air, Jessica jumped up and slugged the wolf in the gut with an energy enhanced punch. Ravage's tongue stuck out and his eyes widened so much he thought they were going to stick out with his tongue in the fashion of an old cartoon. He came down with a heavy crash onto his side and he curled up tensely, clutching his stomach furiously in pain. Jessica was surprised she'd managed to punch him that hard. Considering the team usually had a tough time fighting Ravage, she had to wonder how she managed to punch him that hard. She dismissed it as a lucky shot and turned her attention to Scott, who stopped running for his life and ran back towards Ravage. His eyes were streaming with tears and his face was a mixture of anger, horror and despair. The cougar took in the expression on his face and instantly assumed the worst.

"Scott? Is…is he…?" she stammered, finding it hard to keep herself composed.

"Dead…Ravage killed him! He killed my brother!" screamed Scott angrily, "That bastard of a wolf killed my brother! Behind that rock over there you'll find Taran dead on the ground with bite marks in his neck!"

The lynx then let out a rainfall of tears into his hands, letting out all the grief and horror he was experiencing. Jessica and Felix were both overwhelmed with horror to hear this sickening news. The knew Ravage was on the loose but they hadn't excepted him to make his return like that. What a wicked way to show up again! Jessica pulled Scott into a sympathetic hug and shed some tears for her distressed boyfriend.

"Oh Scott…oh Scott…" she sobbed, "That's terrible!"

"Our good friend Taran…is dead?!" wept Felix, wiping away the tears that trickled down his cheeks, "No…we've lost a valuable comrade…"

"We've lost more than that!" bellowed Scott, "We've lost my brother, the only family I had left! And that monster Ravage took him away from me! From us! I knew I should have killed him the moment I had him last year! I shouldn't have let you stop me Jessica! Because of you, my brother is dead!" he shouted directly into Jessica's face as if emphasizing the point he was making.

Jessica was horrified to hear Scott say that to her. He was blaming HER for the death of Taran?! The cougar was livid to hear this and she was not going to let Scott blame Taran's death on her. she broke up the hug and pointed angrily at Scott.

"Oh it's MY fault is it?!" growled Jessica, "Yeah right, I deliberately told you not to kill Ravage so he could live to kill Taran! Yeah, his death is TOTALLY my fault!" her voice dripped with sarcasm.

"Yes Jessica, it IS your fault!" retorted Scott, "You stopped me from killing Ravage and now this has happened!"

"You say that as if I KNEW that was going to happen you moron!" snapped Jessica, "How was I going to know this was going happen?! And besides, you're the one who wasn't bothered about Ravage! Had you shown some concern for our enemy then maybe we would have found him already and we could have prevented this from happening!"

"So you're saying it's MY fault Taran's dead?!" shouted Scott, "How dare you! Don't you dare blame Taran's death on me you dumb girl!"

"Well don't you dare blame it on ME either you foul-tempered little hot-head!" snarled Jessica.

"Can we save this argument for later my friends? We have a wolf to deal with!" shrieked Felix furiously.

Scott and Jessica stopped arguing long enough to see that Ravage was back on his feet and leaping towards them. The lynx and cougar screamed in terror as Ravage tackled them both down towards the ground and prepared to bite them on the necks. But before Ravage could kill his two most hated enemies, Felix whipped out two of his tail feathers, stiffened them into clubs, and walloped Ravage with them as vigorously as he could. The wolf was whisked up into the air by the attack and he landed down heavily with a crash onto his back. The wolf was back up onto his feet in no time, shrugging off the pain of the impact and he flashed his terrible teeth at what remained of Team Adabat.

"Alright then…I killed one of you already so it's fitting I kill the rest of you!" growled Ravage, "Besides, I was ordered to do so by my master so prepare to be dinner, all three of you!"

Scott was surprised at the mere mention of the word "master" coming from Ravage. Since when did Ravage work for anybody? This made Scott feel very uncomfortable. If Ravage was working for somebody than it meant he had somebody to run crying to once they kicked his butt. Was his master as ferocious as he was? Scott hoped never to find out. The lynx summoned energy to his hands and he thundered towards Ravage, screaming at the top of his voice and drawing both fists back for a punch to the face. Ravage stampeded towards Scott, his cape billowing out behind him as he ran towards him. His jaws were streaming with saliva and his eyes were burning. He was desperate for Scott's flesh and blood and wanted badly to eat him. Once he'd eaten him, he'd eat Jessica and Felix and then finish off with Taran's corpse. He'd save his next mealtime for next time he and Bunnie met. Ravage leaped into the air towards Scott, a very big mistake that he soon realized he made for Scott didn't leap up after him. He skidded to a halt, waited for Ravage to be in range and then socked him in the face with both energy powered fists. Ravage wasn't really sure what had hit him as he came crashing down onto his back from the power of Scott's punch. Before the wolf could even get back up onto his feet, Scott pinned him down and began whaling on him as hard as he could, punching him in the jaws and cheeks as viciously as he could, the energy around his hands glowing a brilliant green as he punched him.

"THIS. IS. FOR. TARAN!" Scott roared angrily, his eyes still streaming with angry tears as he began to unleash all hell on his enemy.

The caped canine was surprised at how hard Scott was punching him and how viciously he was whaling on him. Truly he'd struck a nerve in the lynx with the killing of Taran. Not that it mattered. Ravage eventually managed to summon the strength he needed to grab Scott's hands and stop his relentless hammering on him. The wolf shoved the lynx off of himself and Ravage picked himself up. Ravage then began to whale on Scott in return, striking him in as many places as possible. Scott cried out in pain as Ravage punched him in the face, then in the shoulders, then in the stomach and then in the chest, each punch as accurate and as callous as he could possibly throw them. Ravage threw his punches so hard and so fast that Scott didn't have the strength, nor the speed to block his punches. Ravage let out a terrifying cackle of delight as he drew his leg back and kicked Scott in the chest as hard as he possibly could, hitting him directly in the sternum. The teenage lynx let out a winded gasp as he was thrown backwards by the kick and he landed down heavily onto his back.

As he tried to get his breath back, Jessica took over for him. Ravage ran towards her, claws bared and teeth dripping with saliva as he prepared to make a meal out of her. Jessica could see that running towards Ravage would likely be a foolish move to make so the cougar decided to try a more pragmatic tactic to get the drop on Ravage. She threw herself onto her side and skidded straight through between Ravage's legs, leaving the wolf to run straight over her. Jessica leapt up onto her feet and fired an energy spear into Ravage's back. The spear struck Ravage and made the evil cannibal bellow in pain. The pain distracted him long enough for Jessica to run up towards Ravage and slug him as hard as she could in the back. If she punched him any harder, she could have broken his back. Ravage himself felt like his back was broken even though it was still intact. Ravage fell onto his knees, clutching his back in anguish and he clenched his teeth as if the motion would make the pain go away. Jessica took advantage of this by bashing Ravage callously on his head with both fists clenched together. The wolf let out a terrible yelp as he was stricken but he wasn't spared a moment to let the pain settle as Jessica grabbed his cape and hauled him onto his feet. She turned Ravage around and let him have it directly in the mouth with a terrific, energy-enhanced punch that actually cracked the nose section of his skull mask, broke off the teeth on his mask and broke some of his actual front teeth. The cougar seemed just as rage-filled as Scott was but that was probably more because she was still angry at Scott for blaming Taran's death on her and she was now taking it out on Ravage. The wolf fell down onto his back, clutching his aching mouth hard as he tried to ease the pain. Jessica ran towards him and prepared to let him have another punch but Ravage rolled out of the way, leaving Jessica to punch at empty ground and kicked up rocks and gravel.

Ravage socked Jessica in the face with his right fist, hitting her directly in the cheek. The punch sent Jessica's head spinning, so much so that she didn't even see Ravage coming as he tripped her up with a kick to her legs. Jessica came down with a heavy thud and before she could get up, Ravage put his hands on her shoulders and pinned her down. Licking his lips, Ravage prepared to finish off the bikini clad cougar with a swift snap of his powerful jaws. Another snap of the jaws on another neck, something Ravage would savour. But just as Ravage prepared to bite Jessica, the ginger-haired feline swung her head forwards and slammed it against his lower jaws just on the flat of his teeth and his lower lip. The pain that flowed through Ravage's mouth was agonizing. The grey-furred Mobian let out a terrible screech of pain as blood began trickling out of his gums. Jessica was now able to push Ravage off of herself and get back to her feet. Her forehead was trickling with blood but only a little. She rubbed it tenderly to ease the stinging pain that was flaring in it. She'd scratched her forehead a bit on Ravage's teeth in the head butt but her head did far more damage to Ravage's jaw than it did to her. While Ravage writhed in agony, Scott ran over to his girlfriend, concern all over his face.

"Jessica, you alright?" he asked, looking at the cougar's forehead as she took her hand away for a moment.

"It's just a scratch, I'm fine." murmured Jessica, "Come on, let's take Ravage down while we still can."

Scott was all too happy to concur with his girlfriend's suggestion. They both held hands and began to build up a lot of energy between them. This wasn't something they did very often but when they did it, they became a very formidable force to be reckoned with. They closed their eyes, held their hands tightly and thought of all the energy bestowed upon them by the legendary Sceptre of Fates coursing through their bloodstream. They thought of their energies coalescing together to form a bigger attack to defeat Ravage. The evil wolf picked himself up, his jaw still hurting, and he tried to stop the two before they were ready. But Felix flew in and pecked him rapidly on the head like a woodpecker through wood. Ravage clawed at Felix but he missed the peacock as he flew backwards to dodge his attack. Felix had a score of his own to settle with Ravage.

He'd once forced the peacock to do his evil bidding and carry out his evil plan to destroy Team Adabat's village. Felix had been powerless to stop him back then and the peacock longed to make Ravage pay for it. Felix clubbed Ravage on the head as hard as he could, the clubs giving Ravage a headache but not really knocking him out. Ravage's skull mask did provide some protection for his head and his own skull was quite thick. Knocking him out was not an easy task. Ravage reached out and grabbed Felix's clubs before he could club him again. He snatched the clubs out of Felix's hands and he grabbed the peacock by his neck. Felix kicked at him, desperate to break free of Ravage's grasp before the skull-masked canine could hurt him. But Ravage took the blows and prepared to snap Felix's neck. One quick snap and it would be over for the peacock and he'd join Taran in the afterlife. But Felix managed to break free by pecking Ravage in the nose, the resulting peck causing Ravage to let go of him and clutch his nose in pain. Felix flew up out of Ravage's reach so the wolf wouldn't be able to grab him. Ravage leapt up, trying to grab Felix but failing to do so. He couldn't leap high enough to catch the peacock. Then it happened. Scott and Jessica, the two glowing brightly and surrounded by a green aura, had finished building up their ultimate attack and they unleashed it on Ravage. The two threw their arms forward and sent a wave of energy sweeping towards Ravage. The wave was enormous and as it hit Ravage, it took him off his feet and sent him hurling a great distance across the terrain. It was like being hit by a plane speeding down the runway. Ravage let out a terrific cry as he was hit and he spiralled through the air several times before eventually crashing down onto the ground about five yards away from his enemies. The attack had left Ravage feeling weak, beaten and unable to carry on any longer. Gasping for breath, he forced himself onto his hands and knees as Scott, Jessica and Felix all ran towards him. Ravage wanted to complete his mission but at the same time, he knew that he couldn't carry on fighting. Much too weak, he decided to accept defeat and retreat back to The Nefarious . On the bright side, at least he'd killed ONE member of Team Adabat. Taking out the warp ring donated to him by Finitevus so he could return, Ravage opened up a portal back to The Nefarious and he was quick to climb through it. He strained as he did so but he managed it. The warp ring closed just as Scott threw an energy spear at him. The spear ended up cutting through the air the warp ring had previously occupied and it carried on until it hit a rock in the distance. With Ravage evading their grasp once again, Scott punched the ground angrily and roared up to the heavens.

"NNNNNNNNOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!" he raved, "HE GOT AWAY AGAIN! GAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!"

He punched the ground several more times before stopping and putting his hands over his eyes. He began to weep again, sobbing uncontrollably into his hands. Jessica knelt down beside Scott, feeling pity for her beloved lynx and wishing that she could bring Taran back alive so Scott wouldn't be crying anymore. But she knew that wasn't going to happen. The best she could do was try and make Scott feel better. She put a hand on his back softly.

"Oh Scott…I'm so sorry that this happened…" she said sadly, "You're right, Taran's death IS my fault…I shouldn't have stopped you. I should have let you kill him when you had him…it's wrong to kill but it would have prevented this. I'm so, so sorry…"

"No Jessica…" murmured Scott, wiping away his tears, "YOU were right. I should have conducted a search for Ravage, I should have searched for him and apprehended him. We could have locked him up and prevented my brother's needless death! But my laid back attitude and adoration for the peaceful times blinded me…I didn't do what should have been done…now I'll never see my brother again! His death is all MY fault and I'll never, EVER forgive myself!"

He looked at Jessica with pain and anguish in his tear-soaked eyes.

"Oh Jessica…what kind of Royal Fighter am I?!" wailed Scott, "I'm supposed to lead this team…and all I did was cause the death of my brother! I don't deserve to be in this team! The R.F.S. deserves better than me…"

"No Scott, please don't say that!" cried Jessica, "Without you on the team, my heart would break, it really would! You're not a terrible Royal Fighter at all! Neither of us could have prepared for Ravage's return so this was something we couldn't have predicted. Plus, do you think Taran would want you feeling this way about yourself?"

"No…no he wouldn't." Scott said with wobbly lips and weeping eyes.

"There you go then." said Jessica warmly, "So honour Taran's death by doing what we signed up for, to defeat evil and bring peace to Mobius. Taran would want that."

Scott took a moment to think about this before giving his reply.

"Yes…he would." he said, wiping his eyes dry again, "I'm sorry I put myself down Jessica…I really am. And I'm also sorry about saying his death was your fault. It never was and I'm ashamed I ever said that."

"Scott, you're forgiven my love." said Jessica softly, "People go through many emotional things when they lose someone close to them. Your behaviour wasn't uncalled for or anything, it's alright that you were bad-tempered and angry at everybody. I don't put you down at all for your behaviour."

"Thanks babe, you're the best." said Scott, hugging Jessica appreciatively.

Jessica hugged him back, glad to see that her boyfriend was beginning to feel better now. But their tender moment was interrupted by the sound of an approaching ship. The two felines looked up and saw that none other than the Sky Patrol was coming towards them. The ship loomed above the canyon before touching down onto the ground below. The docking ramp opened up and down it zoomed Sonic the Hedgehog. He zipped over to Team Adabat excitedly, pleased to see the three of them again after such a long time. Scott, Jessica and Felix greeted the blue hedgehog enthusiastically.

"SONIC!" they cried.

"Hey kids, how's it going?" asked Sonic brightly.

"Not too well…" muttered Scott bitterly.

"We bring you dark news famed hero of the world." said Felix sadly, "Ravage Bloodfang has savagely slaughtered our dear comrade Taran the Lynx. There is only the three of us left now."

"And Ravage got away before we could arrest him for this crime." sighed Jessica, "So it's a pretty sad time for us I'm afraid…"

Sonic's heart sank. Ravage had killed Taran the Lynx, thus Team Adabat only had three members now and the death had happened before they even got to them. Finitevus's agent must have stricken again! The agent must have told the mad doctor that he was hoping to pick up the other R.F.S. teams and recruit them in their battle with the Dark Armada! But then Sonic thought something else. Maybe the agent had nothing to do with it this time, maybe it had been a coincidence that Finitevus sent out Ravage to attack Team Adabat as he was coming to pick them up.

"Oh man…that's horrible!" cried Sonic, "So sorry we weren't quick enough to reach you before that happened guys."

"It's OK Sonic, you didn't have a chance of getting here in time." said Scott sadly, "Although one thing puzzles me. Ravage mentioned having a "master" when he thought us. What did he mean by that? Did his master send him here to kill us?"

"He probably did." murmured Sonic, "Ravage is working with Dr. Finitevus and is part of an army of villains Finitevus is in charge of called "The Dark Armada". We're in combat with the armada right now and we can tell you all the members. The armada's giving us a tough time so that's why we need you and the other teams to help us defeat the armada."

"Well after Ravage just killed my brother, count me in!" Scott offered without hesitating, "I'll make that fiend in wolf's clothing pay for killing Taran!"

"We all will." said Jessica, "Consider us part of your fight now Sonic."

"Very good." said Sonic brightly, "Quick, onto the Sky Patrol. We're picking up Team Megapolis next."

Team Adabat didn't wait to be asked twice. They followed Sonic back to the Sky Patrol and the moment they were onboard, Miranda set the ship to take off. As the Sky Patrol climbed up into the sky, Sonic began to worry over what would happen next. Ravage had been sent to kill Adabat, obviously by Finitevus. Did Finitevus do this to make sure they couldn't recruit the others? If so then how did Finitevus get the idea to do that? He was focused on the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, not the other teams. Did his agent give him the idea? If so then the agent had clearly stricken again and Sonic would have to hope the Sky Patrol would reach the other teams in time…before anybody else in the armada could attack them…

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 24: Terror of the Cyber Husky

*See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 9: New Recruits

 Check out the DeviantArt exclusive chapter *The Sword of Elemental Power

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 9: New Recruits

The race is on now! Will Sonic and friends reach the other Royal Fighters in time? Find out next time in* Operation: Nekronopolis *...

Dark Armada Part 7: Operation Megapolis

Story 207: Operation: Megapolis

The Dark Armada Chapter 7 of 25

"Honestly Rouge, did you have to drag me along for this?" sighed Shadow the Hedgehog, the tone of annoyance in his voice as evident as the annoyed scowl on his face.

"Oh hush up and get loading these nuggets into the cart." snapped Rouge the Bat, handing Shadow a huge golden nugget, "These little babies will do fine in my treasure collection, they really will."

"I do wish I could understand your weird obsession for shiny things, jewels and treasures." muttered Shadow, rolling his eyes, "I do not see the value in such worthless objects."

"Maybe you would if you would actually realize they're more worth than you think." snorted Rouge.

Shadow sighed loudly but he said nothing more as he carried the golden nugget over to the hover cart that stood patiently to the side, waiting to be loaded. Ever since Eggman's death, Shadow had been trying to find a new purpose in life since his purpose had been to protect Mobius from danger, a purpose he discovered after defeating his "creator" Black Doom in a battle and embracing his life on Mobius. With Eggman dead, Shadow supposed he didn't really have much to protect Mobius from although he had heard from the Royal Fighters in the previous months gone by that Finitevus was still at large and the Chaos Emeralds were in his possession. This didn't make Shadow feel very comfortable at all. He knew how dangerous Finitevus was. He had not only managed to capture him but he'd also come close to draining him dry of all energy, normal energy and Chaos Energy. Shadow wanted to find Finitevus and get back the Chaos Emeralds but sadly, his attempts had been futile. Even Rouge hadn't been able to find Finitevus and yet the bat was very good at finding jewels and treasures, something Shadow didn't see much point in finding. While he still had it on his mind to find Finitevus and get back the emeralds, Shadow decided to allow himself to do what Rouge wanted to do for a change. He did very much like Rouge and was OK with doing what she wanted every now and then. It didn't mean he enjoyed it though. Shadow and Rouge were in Megapolis, most specifically the Golden Caverns. The Golden Caverns hadn't seen much activity since Team Diamond had attempted to raid it and now Rouge was here in the caverns, mining up golden nuggets to keep for herself and maybe use to buy more valuable treasures should she come across any. The bat was rather surprised to see that there was another hover cart already in the cavern. It had been used by Roxy before she ended up fleeing for her life when Team Diamond discovered she was still alive*. It had been left there for an entire year and it was already full of nuggets so Rouge took out the hover-cart and put it aside while she went into the caverns to fill the cart she had brought herself with more golden nuggets. How fortuitous for the jewel-thief indeed. Shadow loaded the cart with golden nuggets as Rouge went down into the caverns again to get some more.

"This is a waste of time..." he moaned to himself, "We should be finding that monster Finitevus and getting back the Chaos Emeralds, not roaming around a cave and digging up golden nuggets! Still, as long as Rouge is happy..."

He paused as he let that line sink into his head. He was never one to care much about his emotions or even question them but he did have to think about his thoughts on Rouge the Bat. He knew Rouge more than any other Mobian on Mobius mainly due to spending the most amount of time with her and also because she had been the first ever Mobian he met. Rouge had woken him from his capsule when Black Doom had sent him to Mobius. Rouge in a way was probably his best friend, that is if he even considered her a friend. There were things Shadow didn't always like about Rouge but at the same time as far as Mobians went, she was the one he felt the most comfortable with and also the one he could get on with the best. Yes...Rouge was a friend. Rouge was somebody he could happily consider a friend. But maybe she was more than a friend. Shadow pondered over those thoughts as he loaded the nuggets into the cart. Rouge came out with some more in her arms and she piled them into the cart after Shadow had put away his load.

"Man there's a lot of these babies in the cavern. I guess that's why they're called the "Golden Caverns"." snickered Rouge.

"Yes, maybe." murmured Shadow, "One has to wonder who was here before us since they seem to be already unearthed and a hover-cart full of these nuggets was already there."

"I bet Team Diamond was here." muttered Rouge bitterly, "They love to hunt treasures too."

"Team Diamond...who are they again?" asked Shadow curiously.

"A team of scoundrels working for the disbanded organization H.U.N.T." explained Rouge, "I used to be on their team...until I found out they killed my dad." she added, her face dropping into a scowl.

"I bet you were disgusted to hear that." muttered Shadow, feeling sorry for his friend, "Why did they kill your dad?"

"He owned a jewel shop and they robbed it." replied Rouge, "They killed dad so he couldn't stop them no doubt. They got arrested after the incident with the Key of Opulence but much to dismay, they broke out and I haven't heard anything suggesting they've been arrested again. It makes me mad to think that those jokers are still on the loose..."

"Well Rouge if it pleases you, I will happily help you find them and bring them to justice." offered Shadow kindly, something he wasn't renowned for doing very often, "No criminal should be allowed to walk free, especially after killing your dad and robbing your shop."

"You bet." said Rouge, "So I guess you can see why I'm such a jewel lover. I grew up in a jewel shop and was surrounded by jewels all my life. Plus the jewels I collect...make me think of my times with my dad and how wonderful they were."

"I see." said Shadow, "Nice to see that what you hunt for has a value to you in more ways than one. I'm sure your father would be quite happy to see that you still carry his love for jewels and treasures."

Rouge beamed. She was sure her late father, Roger the Bat, would appreciate her life as it was now. He may not approve of the stealing though but the treasure hunting and the collecting would make him happy.

"Thanks." said Rouge appreciatively, "It means a lot, especially coming from you." she added teasingly.

Shadow just smirked back as if understanding the joke in the way Rouge delivered that line.

"I can have my softer moments." Shadow said with a slight chuckle added to his words.

Rogue was about to reply until suddenly, something started beeping. Shadow looked at his wrist and noticed that the communicator he'd been given to stay in touch with the Royal Fighters was beeping. It had been a year since they'd ever needed to contact him so he imagined something urgent was going on. He answered it quickly.

"Hello? This is Shadow the Hedgehog." he answered.

"Hey Shadow, good to hear your deep, scary voice again!" chuckled Sonic, "How are ya this fine day?"

"Helping Rouge with some treasure hunting." murmured Shadow, his voice suggesting he wasn't enjoying the activity.

"Well can you spare a moment?" asked Sonic, "We kinda need you and Rouge at the moment. You see, Dr. Finitevus is back and he has an army of villains at his side. We need all the Royal Fighters we can get in order to have a chance of matching him so we'd appreciate it if you can join us in our battle."

Shadow's face turned into a frown upon hearing Finitevus's name and he didn't like what he'd been hearing. Finitevus was back and he had an army of villains at his side? This couldn't be good at all, especially if the Royal Fighters needed all the teams they had in order to combat them. Given how Shadow had been looking for Finitevus for a while now, he was all too happy to hop in and help Sonic and friends defeat the evil albino echidna. He just wondered who was part of this so-called "army of villains" Finitevus had on his side. He'd find out soon enough since he was going to join the Royal Fighters in their battle against the Dark Armada.

"Sonic, consider us part of the battle." said Shadow, "I'm all too happy to join in this fight against the Dark Armada. My purpose is to defend my home planet, so I will do just that."

"Good to hear Shadow!" cried Sonic excitedly on the other side of the communicator, "We're on our way to Megapolis right now, where are you and Rouge currently?"

"Megapolis." replied Shadow, "By the Golden Caverns to be precise."

"Well that's fortuitous." replied Sonic, "Hey, since you two are in Megapolis now, think you could pass my message onto Dark Cat and Kiara?"

"They're Royal Fighters too I believe." mused Shadow, "Where might me and Rouge find them?"

"Either in the City of Megapolis itself or they might be out camping." explained Sonic, "I'm sure you'll find them. And you'll have to be fast. Because Finitevus sent one of his goons after Team Adabat as we came to pick them up…and we fear the other teams might be targeted."

Shadow didn't like the sound of that. Finitevus had targeted Team Adabat as Sonic came to pick them up? Seems that the mad doctor doesn't want anymore Royal Fighters joining Sonic's side. Shadow would see to it that Dark and Kiara were found and the message given to them before they could be targeted.

"Understood. Estimated arrival time?" asked Shadow.

"According to the Sky Patrol's thingy on the control panel…about half an hour." explained Sonic, "Try and keep Dark and Kiara safe for that long. That is, if they need to be kept safe."

"Got it, over and out." Shadow replied, switching off his communicator.

Rouge had heard the entire conversation in disbelief and she would only stare at Shadow in a face that had an emotion she didn't often express…horror. If Sonic and friends were calling for help in a fight against Dr. Finitevus and an army of villains then the situation couldn't possibly be good at all. She even dreaded to think who were the villains that Finitevus had recruited. If Team Diamond were among them then Rouge would make them wish they weren't. She looked at Shadow in concern.

"Well Shadow…it looks like we're gonna be in another battle to save the world." mused Rouge, "And to think that with Eggman's death I expected things to be pretty peaceful from now on."

"Guess that was too much to ask for although with Finitevus still on the loose, we should have expected him to make a come back." muttered Shadow, "Come on Rouge, we've gotta find Dark and Kiara and warn them of the Dark Armada…before the armada gets them."

"Looks like I'll have to leave these behind." sighed Rouge, pointing at the carts full of nuggets, "Oh well, the world's more important than treasures. Let's go Shadow."

With that said, the femme fetale took to the skies with a swoop of her wings and Shadow raced off on his hover shoes, skating quickly across the terrain as they left the Golden Caverns behind and headed off to find Dark and Kiara. Shadow hoped that the armada hadn't already gotten to them, otherwise Sonic would have two Royal Fighters less to recruit…

Meanwhile on The Nefarious , Mecha Tails was working quietly in the ship's laboratory, a room that Finitevus had made absolutely certain that the ship had otherwise he wouldn't have anywhere to make his Synthetic Chaos Energy formula.

The ship itself was nearly fully repaired from the damages done to it by Bunnie Rabbot (now Bunnie Rabboh due to recent events). In a few hours time, The Nefarious would be back in the sky and Finitevus wouldn't have to keep it hidden in the hangar anymore. And due to his drone sabotaging the satellites and disabling the heat vision sensors, the ship would remain invisible once the cloaking device was activated. Never again would the Royal Fighters find it unless Finitevus wanted them to.

Mecha Tails's mind wasn't about The Nefarious taking flight again. He was looking at a screen and playing around with schematics and figures. Before the Synthetic Chaos Energy could be made, Finitevus demanded that a suitable formula be created before they could even think about making it a reality. Without a suitable formula, the Synthetic Chaos Energy could produce catastrophic results. They so far had honey, snow, ice and bits of gold and silver found in the ice to use to make the energy with. After all, Chaos Energy could be made with just about anything as long as it had a dose of Chaos Energy mixed in with it. Once Chaos Energy is added, the materials would meld together into the Chaos Energy and become a synthetic dose of raw power that only a scientist like Finitevus could possibly duplicate thanks to his expert knowledge on Chaos Energy. Tails had studied a fair bit on Chaos Energy himself and thanks to Finitevus's roboticization and feeding him some information he had on Chaos Energy, Mecha Tails was now just as much an expert as Finitevus was. Mecha Tails changed around a few figures on the screen before he took his hands away and put a clawed finger to his metallic muzzle in thought.

"Hmm…this won't work…" he murmured to himself.

He was taken out of his thoughts as the door opened up and in walked Dr. Finitevus, looking quite pleased with himself as he strode into the lab with his cape billowing out behind him.

"And how's my little scientist this fine morning?" he asked in an unusually cheerful tone.

"Master, we have a problem." said Mecha Tails bluntly, ignoring his master's question.

Dr. Finitevus raised an eyebrow of concern at Mecha Tails's rather blunt but serious reply.

"A problem?" he asked curiously, "Define this "problem" Mecha Tails."

"The Synthetic Chaos Energy is a promising idea that will indeed make the Dark Armada extremely powerful, and even give you the power of Enerjak master." explained Mecha Tails, "The problem is, reviewing your schematics and analysing your figures and algorithms…the formula you currently have is flawed."

Finitevus almost looked offended to hear Mecha Tails daring to say that his precious formula was flawed. He had been painstakingly designing it himself and was sure that Mecha Tails's review of the formula would come out positive and they could begin making it and yet his mechanical sidekick dared to tell him of all people it was flawed?! Finitevus frowned at Mecha Tails but he just folded his arms and said:

"Explain."

Mecha Tails didn't seem to be uncomfortable with the fact he was telling his master why his precious formula was flawed. He explained in his monotone voice without once pausing:

"A healthy dose of Dark Chaos Energy from you mixed into the materials we currently possess is indeed a fundamental part of the formula…but the problem is that there needs to be more than just Dark Chaos Energy. You see, the Synthetic Chaos Energy formula needs a balance of positive Chaos Energy as well as Dark Chaos Energy. Too much dark and some monstrous results could ensue and I do not think you wish to take such a risk. The positive Chaos Energy will give you the control you need over the monstrous side of the formula but we currently do not possess any positive Chaos Energy."

"What about the Chaos Emeralds and Master Emerald?" asked Finitevus curiously.

"They're corrupted after a year in your care." explained Mecha Tails, "Their energy is a compulsory need for the formula but the negative energies from your corruption of the emeralds will fill the formula with too much Dark Chaos Energy for even you to control."

"I see. Will the materials we currently have weigh out the positives and negatives of Chaos Energy to make the formula stable but still powerful?" asked Finitevus hopefully.

"Negative master, it's not enough." explained Mecha Tails, "Snow and ice would become negative Chaos Energy due to the kind of weather that creates it. The honey is the ONLY thing that would become positive Chaos Energy that we currently have, the gold and silver may possibly do so too."

"So we need more materials to balance the positive energy of Chaos to make the formula more stable…" mused Finitevus, "Yes… it's fortuitous that I sent Team Diamond to raid the Pagoda of Prosperity in Chun-Nan then. Princess Matilda's riches will definitely be a step in the right direction."

"Affirmative, but we'd still need much more positive items to make more positive Chaos Energy." droned Mecha Tails, looking at the schematics once again, "Much, MUCH more…"

Dr. Finitevus nodded grimly, disappointed at the fact his formula was flawed but pleased that Mecha Tails had the solution to the problem. Hopefully this analysis would help Finitevus create the perfect formula for his Synthetic Chaos Energy. Then he could make his duplicate Chaos Emeralds, fill them with the energy and then use them to become Enerjak. Once he was Enerjak, the world would be his and nobody would stop him…

Meanwhile, Dark Cat the Leo Lynx was once again giving his beloved girlfriend Kiara the Cheetah a training session in Megapolis. They were out in the sight that the Megapolis Royal Fighters often used as a camping site whenever they had to camp out for their missions. They considered it a good training arena and with permission from Thomas Tiger, they had been allowed to come out to the site and train. It was just the two of them out in the plains right now, no soldiers, no Thomas Tiger or even any tents for that matter. Dark liked it this way, it meant he and Kiara had plenty of room for their match and they wouldn't get distracted by any surroundings as they fought. Since Eggman had died, Dark and Kiara had had plenty of time to develop their relationship further and also train up for any possible enemies that could attack Megapolis. Eggman maybe dead but it didn't mean that there wouldn't be any new enemies to fight. The two felines were just relieved that they had even managed to go an entire year without any new threats. So making the most of their peace and tranquillity, they were training with swords once again. Dark had his trademark arm blades deployed and Kiara had her broadsword ready. She had come to enjoy wielding a sword in battle and the training matches with Dark made her enjoy wielding a sword even more. Dark stood before Kiara with his blades held defensively in front of himself. Kiara held her sword ready and bent down in a battle-ready stance.

"Beware Dark Cat…you're about to face your worst enemy…me, Kiara the Cheetah!" Kiara hissed in a humorous manner at her boyfriend.

"It appears so Kiara…do you think you can beat me?" sneered Dark teasingly, "We shall find out Kiara…ready?"

"Whenever you are hon." purred Kiara.

Dark smiled, pleased to hear this. He then threw his arms to the side and he ran towards Kiara as fast as he could. Kiara saw this coming so she stepped out of his way and stuck her leg out, causing Dark to trip over and fall onto his face. She chuckled as Dark groaned in pain and got up onto his knees, rubbing his nose.

"Didn't you once tell me that charging towards the enemy like that was a foolish move?" laughed Kiara, sticking her tongue out teasingly at Dark.

"I expected you to do the same thing!" protested Dark.

"Well you also told me to "be unpredictable" so I did just that, I did what you DIDN'T expect me to do." sneered Kiara, "I do hope you won't be humiliated at the fact you got beaten by a girl."

"I don't believe in that kind of stuff babe." said Dark as he got back up onto his feet, "I've been beaten by girls before so you're not the first to kick my butt. And besides, this match is just beginning."

He deployed his arm blades yet again and he ran towards Kiara, this time on the alert for her moving out of the way. But Kiara didn't do this, knowing full well that using an unpredictable tactic more than once stopped it being unpredictable. She instead charged into action and clashed swords with Dark. Dark had been unprepared for this so he had to react quickly to block the attack. That scared Kiara a little. The cheetah knew that she could have hurt Dark had he not been fast enough so she kept it in mind to be more careful. This was a training match, not a fight to the death. Kiara raised her sword and swung at Dark, much slower this time so Dark could react quick enough to block her. Dark blocked her attack with his right blade, a loud clanging noise ringing in his ears as the metal blades clashed. Dark scraped his blade across Kiara's sending sparks flying and pushing Kiara a little off balance. The cheetah thought hard to keep her balance but Dark lashed out with his foot and kicked her in the gut. The blonde-haired cheetah doubled over, coughing loudly and fighting to get some air back into her lungs. She always had to wonder where Dark got his fighting skills from, he was awfully powerful and skilled. He wasn't an average Mobian definitely, martial-artist perhaps? She had asked Dark many times on where he got his skills from but the leo-lynx wouldn't say, clearly disappointed with where he got them from. His originating from Chun-Nan gave her some idea though, he had to be a martial artist. Kiara snapped out of her thoughts as Dark ran towards her and swung his blades at her. Kiara reacted just in time, holding her sword ahead of her diagonally to block his attacks.

"Whew, your reflexes are sharp." said Dark approvingly, "I thought you wouldn't block that in time."

"Guess I'm faster than you think." said Kiara with a smirk, "I AM a cheetah remember?"

"Point taken." laughed Dark, pushing on Kiara's sword and trying to force her down onto her knees.

But all his training with Kiara in the past had made the purple-eyed cheetah quite strong. Stronger than she had been before. Kiara held her own as Dark tried to push her down, the leo-lynx straining furiously with effort but getting nowhere. Kiara then used another unpredictable tactic. While Dark was focused so much on his arms, he wasn't paying any attention to his legs. Kiara took advantage of this and she kicked Dark in the shin. Dark's right leg went out underneath him and he fell down onto one knee. He stood back up but Kiara then wrapped her tail around his other ankle and yanked on it, tripping him up and bringing him down onto his back. Kiara then pinned him down with her foot placed firmly on his chest and she pointed the sword at his face. Dark stared at the blade, gulping and thinking desperately for a way to get out of this situation. Kiara held the blade even closer, the tip lightly touching the fur between Dark's eyes.

"I think I win this one cute stuff." sneered Kiara "I doubt you'll get out of this one."

"That's what you think baby." retorted Dark.

He then proceeded to wrap his tail around Kiara's ankle and pull her leg forwards, causing the cheetah to fall over backwards with a heavy thump onto her back. Kiara let out a terrible cry of pain and she clutched the back of her head as it began to throb immensely. Dark got up onto his feet and gasped at what had happened. He'd caused Kiara to bang her head on the ground extremely hard and the leo-lynx worried if he'd caused Kiara to bang it too hard. She was still conscious luckily enough but Kiara did seem to be wincing tensely and rubbing her head very vigorously. Kiara sat up and Dark knelt down beside the cheetah, quick to inspect her head for any damage. She had a slight cut in the back of her head but her beautiful, brilliant blonde hair obscured it so it wasn't that easily seen. Kiara however shot a nasty glare at Dark.

"THAT HURT JACKASS!" she shouted angrily, "What are you trying to do?! Crack my bleeding head open?!"

"Oh god Kiara, I'm sorry, I really am!" cried Dark frantically, "I'm really sorry! I didn't mean for that to happen!"

"Ffffs…ugh…it's alright Dark. I'm sorry I yelled." said Kiara as she rubbed her head better, her expression becoming much softer as she realized that her shouting was a little uncalled for, "Accidents happen, I know that. I shouldn't have got angry about it."

"It's OK Kiara, a lot of people get made when they get hurt. I used to do that a lot when…"

Dark suddenly paused as something began to creep into his head, something unpleasant. He quickly shook the thought out of his head and continued.

"…never mind. Are you alright?" he asked.

"I'm getting there, the pain's already going." murmured Kiara as she got back up onto her feet, "I will say though Dark, you really don't seem keen on talking about your past do you?"

"There's a reason for that babe." said Dark grimly, standing up with Kiara, "And it's because it's something I want to forget. All I want to think about is my wonderful life with you and the R.F.S., nothing more. I do hope my refusal to talk about my past doesn't irk you."

"Well it does get a little annoying and I do kinda wish you'd tell me about your life in Chun-Nan before you came to us but hey, I won't make you talk about it if you don't want to." said Kiara kindly, putting a hand on Dark's shoulder tenderly, "I'll never make you talk about something you don't want to."

"That's nice of you." said Dark happily, "No wonder I love you so much Kiara."

"Thanks handsome." said Kiara sweetly, "Now shall we continue the training match?"

"Not before I settle some scores with you brats!" snarled a rough, gruff voice that made Dark and Kiara's faces go pale with shock.

The two felines turned around and saw possibly one of the most shocking sites they could ever see in their lives. There standing before them looking proud and mighty as ever was their enemy Raphael the Cyber-Husky. They remembered him all too well. He had kidnapped them and tried to make them into cyborgs against their will. He'd come very close too but Kiara had managed to save herself and Dark just in time. Their fight with Raphael after escaping had resulted in the yellow-furred cyborg losing his hands and his camp and had caused him to flee through a portal before anymore damage could be done. Dark and Kiara had wondered where Raphael had been since last year but now they didn't have to wonder anymore for he was standing right there before them. He wasn't alone though, he had a group of ninja lynxes behind him and all wielding weapons of various shapes and sizes. This was the Raiju Clan, a clan of lynxes who seek nothing more than conquest and dominance. Their leader, the Bride of the Conquering Storm, had led them to victory last year, conquering Chun-Nan and imprisoning the emperor and Princess Matilda's late mentor Master Kai Zen. She wasn't leading the clan this time for she was in Chun-Nan with Zira the Ruthless and Team Diamond. Instead, her second in command and right-hand man Dàfeng Rai. He stood beside Raphael, sneering at Dark like he was some playground bully waiting to pick on his first victim. Dark stared in horror at the Raiju Clan, completely ignoring Raphael.

"You!" he cried out in shock.

"Hello traitor." said Rai, smirking wickedly and folding his arms, "Small world isn't it?"

"Too small Dàfeng Rai…" snarled Dark angrily, "So where's your boss then? Is she too chicken to face me herself?!"

"I'll thank you for NOT insulting our honoured matron scumbag." snarled Rai, "Conquering Storm is otherwise engaged so she's left me in charge of the clan. And I'm honoured I've been given such a privilege too. I get to have the honour of smacking around the Raiju Clan traitor and I'm gonna make sure that I enjoy EVERY minute of it!"

"Whoa hold on there! Dark, what the hell is that weirdo in the black pyjamas talking about?" demanded Kiara wildly, "Why is he calling you "traitor" and what the bloody hell is a "Raiju Clan"?!"

Dark looked at Kiara as if just realizing that she was still there. He'd been so focused on Rai himself that he had forgotten Kiara was with him. He turned to face Kiara and he sighed loudly, clearly disappointed at what was going to come.

"Well babe, looks like I can't hide my past anymore…" he murmured,

"It's time you learnt about my life in Chun-Nan, something I had hoped would never happen."

Kiara folded her arms and gave Dark a stern look. The leo-lynx looked very uncomfortable about having to tell her this story, something Kiara noted from the way his face and body-language presented themselves as he began.

"The Raiju Clan is a clan of ninjas that have one goal in mind…to conquer Chun-Nan all because of their crackpot mistress, the Bride of the Conquering Storm's, delusional ravings about how it's our "destiny" and such. I…I was part of the clan."

Kiara gasped in shock and she put her hands to her mouth. Dark looked at her with a look of despair, disappointed and saddened that he had to tell her this.

"Yes I know, you'll never look at me the same way again." muttered Dark, "I don't blame you, anybody who was part of the Raiju Clan should be ashamed they were ever part of it. Anyway, I didn't believe in Conquering Storm's way of life and wanted no part in her takeover of the country* so one night before she could execute her plan to conquer Chun-Nan, I tried to assassinate her. I sneaked into her room while she was sleeping and attempted to kill her. I couldn't let her carry out her plans to conquer the country so I had to kill her to save the country. But Rai stopped me and in order to save myself, I was forced to abandon Chun-Nan and flee for my life. I could have warned Chun-Nan about Conquering Storm's attempted takeover but as I ran for it, my mind was only focused on getting as far away from the Raiju Clan as possible…so it slipped my mind and I feel nothing but regret that I did nothing to prevent the Raiju Clan from taking over the country. I know it was saved and all but still, I could have stopped it from happening in the first place…but I didn't. That's why I was so ashamed to talk about my past…because I have much to be ashamed of. Please Kiara…I hope you won't hate me now."

The leo-lynx looked sadly away from Kiara, his eyes closed and his lips wobbling. He was on the verge of tears and Kiara could sense this whole revelation had been very tough for him and he was proper ashamed of himself for having to remind himself about it. Even worse was that he had to tell it to her, the girl that he loved very much. Kiara could imagine what kind of thoughts were going through the leo-lynx's head and they were all bad. Kiara put her hands on Dark's shoulders and looked at him with sympathetic eyes. The leo-lynx didn't look back at her, tears trickling down his cheeks.

"Dark...I fully understand why you've been so keen on keeping your past a secret." said Kiara softly, "If I had a past like yours, I wouldn't want anyone to know about it either. I don't hate you now I know your past Dark. I'm a little disappointed that you just ran away and let Chun-Nan got conquered though but still, I don't hate you. You rejected the Raiju Clan and you did at least TRY to save Chun-Nan. If you didn't try at all, that would have been terrible and I really WOULD hate you. But I think you were very brave to not only betray such an evil clan but try to assassinate their leader for the good of the country. I doubt I would have been as brave so I really admire you for that handsome."

Dark stared at Kiara as if she'd just said the most random thing in the entire world.

"You...you mean that?" he gasped, wiping his eyes dry, "You still love me despite all that?"

"Dark, all that stuff is in the past. It doesn't matter anymore." said Kiara kindly, "What matters is what you're doing NOW and you're trying to improve your life from how bad it was before. That in my opinion deserves all my love for you."

Dark smiled lovingly at his beautiful girlfriend. He found himself loving Kiara more than ever, thrilled that she wasn't going to let his past cloud her judgement of him. Truly he was lucky to have met such a wonderful girl like Kiara. But unfortunately before things could get more sweet, Raphael rudely interrupted.

"Oh boo, hoo! I'm shedding tears! Enough sappy talk, I've got a score to settle with these two brats and I want to settle it NOW!" he yelled angrily.

"Be my guest Raphael but we get Dark Cat." Rai insisted, "You can have that scrawny cheetah girl for all we care, she's of no interest to us."

"I hope you give Dark a terrible death. Or tempt him back into your clan." muttered Raphael, cracking his metal knuckles.

"Kiara, you ready for this?" asked Dark, worry sweeping over him as he prepared for the fight of his life.

"Whenever you are sweetie." said Kiara, raising her broadsword and getting ready to battle, "Let's kick some Raiju and cyborg butt!"

Dark was all too happy to concur to that statement. He so wanted to make Raphael pay for kidnapping him and he wanted to make the Raiju Clan pay for all their evil, especially Rai for preventing him from killing Conquering Storm before their takeover of Chun-Nan could begin. He drew out his arm blades and he ran towards Rai, yelling angrily with every step he ran. Rai drew out a katana blade and he ran towards Dark, snarling viciously with eyes full of rage. Kiara and Raphael did the same thing as Dark and Rai, yelling angrily and running towards each other with blades raised and eyes full of fury.

Kiara swung her broadsword at Raphael, striking him on both his hand blades and sending a shudder rushing up Raphael's arms. Raphael ignored them and he slashed at Kiara. The cheetah managed to block the attack, holding the sword sideways to successfully block both blades. While Raphael's blades were pushing against her own sword, Kiara kicked Raphael hard in the gut to make him double over. Raphael did do so but not as much as Kiara wanted. She still had the opportunity to bang him on the head with handle of her sword and leave a dent atop the sonic wave emitter that ran over his cranium and ended at his forehead. Raphael growled furiously and he blasted Kiara off her feet with his sonic wave emitter. Kiara crashed down on the ground and rolled to a stop but she was back up on her feet in no time. Raphael lumbered towards Kiara but the cheetah ran past him, leaving Raphael to lumber onwards and screech to a halt as Kiara evaded him. She ran over to her dropped sword and picked it back up. Raphael ran towards Kiara again and fired his sonic wave emitter at her. Kiara leaped out of the way and rushed towards Raphael with her sword in hand. She slashed Raphael across the arm and made him scream in pain. Angered, Raphael punched at Kiara and hit her squarely in the face. Kiara screeched in pain and rubbed at it furiously with her left hand. Raphael sniggered and he bashed his fists together.

"You're still a cute little cheetah you are, even if you're with the Royal Fighters." said Raphael darkly, "How about I take you and make you my loyal cyborg pet? You'd make a fine slave for me little Kiara."

"Good luck subduing me then!" yelled Kiara determinedly.

She and Raphael swung their weapons at each other again and clashed blades. The battle would only get more vicious from there as they continued fighting...

Meanwhile, Dark swung both his blades down at Rai, the lynx blocking the blow effortlessly with his katana. The lynx grinned smugly at Dark and he pushed him away, using very little of his strength to actually do so. To him it was like Dark was not much of an obstacle. Dark stumbled backwards but he remained standing and he lashed out at Rai again. Once again, he blocked the blow effortlessly, this time with just one hand holding the katana. Dark pushed hard on Rai's katana with both his blades but the lynx didn't falter. It was like nothing was even pushing on him! Rai bent his arm in a little to bring Dark closer to himself and then he kicked Dark as hard as he could in the gut. Dark cried out as he fell down onto his back. The kick felt like he'd been smacked by a rock. Dark picked himself up, fighting the pain in his stomach and readying himself for another attack. Rai lashed out at him, the katana scything through the air and clashing hard against Dark's raised arm blades. Dark tried to push back on Rai but the lynx was too strong for him. Rai then swung the katana upwards, pushing Dark's arms up and causing him to lean backwards. This left Rai the opportunity to then rush around behind him and elbow him in the back. Dark was thrown down onto the ground, crying out loudly as he hit it. Rai just twirled the katana around in his hands mockingly, clearly enjoying himself as he was laying the smack down on Dark.

"You're pathetic traitor. You were never a match for me." he crowed, "I always beat you every time we fought. I even stopped you from assassinating our honoured mistress! What chance do you remotely have of beating me you pathetic little kid?"

"When are you going to learn that talk during battle is a stupid thing to do?!" snapped Dark.

He leaped up onto his feet and he launched his foot at Rai's chest. The lynx merely grabbed Dark by the ankle before his foot could make impact and he swung it upwards. Dark lost his balance as his leg swung upwards and he found himself back down on the ground with Rai standing up at him. Dark growled in frustration. Why was it he could NEVER beat Rai no matter how many times they fought?! He was sure with the amount of training he'd received and how callously he'd trained since becoming a Royal Fighter that he would at least be on par with his rival! But no, Rai was still on top of the game and beating him as if he was nothing. Dark wondered if he would even have a chance at beating Rai at this stage. He rolled out of the way quickly as Rai plunged his katana towards him. This caused Rai to get it stuck in the ground but the lynx didn't waste time trying to wrench it free. He instead left it stuck in the ground and ran towards the Raiju Ninjas. One ninja tossed him a kunai blade that was attached to a chain and he caught it with both hands. He spun around only to get a terrific roundhouse kick to the face from Dark that sent him spinning. He shook off the kick and started to spin the kunai end of the chain around. He swung it at Dark but the leo-lynx sliced it to pieces with a single slash of his blades. But Rai still had the rest of the chain to use so he waited as Dark ran towards him. H swung the chain and walloped Dark around the face with it. Head spinning a throbbing pain in his skull, Dark tried to stay focused as Rai swung the chain at him again in an uppercut strike. Dark's head snapped backwards as the chain hit him under his chin and he fell down onto his back. Rai laughed at him wickedly and he walked towards Dark. He wrapped the chain around the leo-lynx's throat and began to strangle him. Dark fought desperately for air as the chain constricted around his neck.

"You're finished runt...but I won't kill you just yet." he growled, "You have two choices. You can come back to the Raiju Clan and betray your stupid girlfriend...or you can die. Choice is yours."

"Ack...gack...I would rather...die...than come crawling...hurk...back to you!" Dark spluttered with a strained voice as Rai strangled him with the chain.

"Be my guest!" laughed Rai, clearly delighted that Dark chose the latter option.

He pulled on the chain harder, causing Dark to let out strangled gasps as his air supply was being depleted. His face was beginning to turn blue as he was strangled. He could get free and he couldn't beat Rai. He was going to die and he had no chance of saving himself. And Kiara would be dead too without him to help her fight Raphael. Either that or converted into a cyborg by Raphael. But Dark's death was not going to be coming today. A yellow beam suddenly shot out of nowhere and struck Rai in the back, throwing him off his feet and sending him hurling over Dark onto his face. Dark unwrapped the chain from his neck and quickly began breathing in air, the colour returning to his face as his circulation returned. Gasping, he stood back up and turned to see who had attacked Rai. He got a very pleasant surprise for standing behind him with his arm stretched out was Shadow the Hedgehog! Rouge stood behind him and Shadow lowered his arm.

"Looks like I'm just in time." he said in his usual dull, vapid tone of voice.

"Shadow! Rouge! Thank goodness...I thought I was gonna be strangled to death!" cried Dark, rubbing his neck vigorously.

"How fortunate we showed up then." said Rouge, "Mind if we give you two a hand in kicking some evil butt?"

"Not at all, you're welcome to help us!" said a very excited Dark, "Let's show Raphael and the Raiju Clan what happens when they mess with Royal Fighters!"

Shadow ran towards the Raiju Clan, the ninja lynxes all ready to attack and raising their weapons. Shadow remembered them all too well. He had to fill in for Sonic after Devion took him out and helped to defeat the Raiju Clan and save Chun-Nan. He was looking forward to fighting them again so he spin-dashed straight towards the ninjas. In a single spin-dash, he ploughed through all the ninjas and sent them hurling through the air, causing them to scream in terror as they were whisked off their feet. Shadow had dealt with much more powerful opponents in the past so the ninjas felt like a warm-up exercise to him. He skidded to a halt and smiled at what he'd done. The Raiju Ninjas all lay sprawled on the ground wondering which way was up. Rai growled furiously at Shadow and he stampeded towards him. Shadow just swiped his arm and threw Chaos Spears at Rai. The spears struck Rai at the force of a powerful punch and the lynx was hurled off of his feet. He felt like he'd been hit by a powerful cannon blast. Rai got back to his feet only for Shadow to spin-dash into him and then stomp-kick him back down onto the ground. He picked Rai up with both hands and he tossed him into Raphael, the Cyber Husky still in battle with Kiara. Rai hit Raphael and knocked the husky down onto his side. A few ninjas picked themselves up from Shadow's earlier attack and they ran towards Kiara. But they never got near her as Rouge swooped down from the sky and screw-kicked her way through them all. The ninjas were sent flying backwards as Rouge ploughed through them and the bat took a moment to watch them crash down onto the ground in a rather comical fashion. This was almost as fun as hunting for treasures. Kiara gave Rouge the thumbs up, very much impressed with the bat's handiwork. Rouge just winked back at her and flew down towards Rai as he got smacked down onto the ground once again by Shadow. Shadow picked Rai up and tossed him into the air. Rouge flew towards Rai as he was thrown up and she screw-kicked him down into the ground. Rai didn't even know what had hit him as he lay on the ground groaning in pain. Shadow walked up to Rai and he grabbed him by the collar, growling furiously at him.

"Dare harm another Royal Fighter again...and I'll bury a katana in your heart!" he snarled, "So why are you trying to kill these two then? Are you part of Finitevus's Dark Armada and are doing this under his orders?"

"As if we're telling you that." muttered Rai, "But know this, we ain't leaving until you four are all dead!"

"Then I'll just beat you up some more." growled Shadow.

Just as he was about to do so, Raphael blasted him off his feet with a tunnel of sonic waves. Shadow grunted as he landed flat onto his side painfully.

"Come on Rai, we're outta here!" declared Raphael, "I know when I'm beaten and it'll be sensible for you lot to retreat too!"

Rai had to admit that Raphael was right. Dead right in fact. Shadow could curbstomp all of his ninjas with little effort and Rouge seemed to be a powerful fighter too. He had to retreat for his own good although Conquering Storm would not at all be pleased to hear that he'd failed his mission. Raphael opened up a portal that would take him and the others back to The Nefarious and he quickly ran through it. The Raiju Ninjas filed through the portal after Raphael but just as Rai was about to follow them in, Shadow suddenly sped towards him and tackled him down onto the ground. The portal closed up as soon as the last Raiju Ninja ran through. Rai tried to get back to his feet but Shadow was too strong for him. Shadow clenched his fist and thumped him hard on his head, knocking him clean out. With Rai unconscious, Dark and Kiara ran up to him and Dark smirked at his rival.

"How does it feel being beaten by somebody who doesn't have ninja skills?" he sneered, "Good work Shadow."

"Thanks Dark Cat." said Shadow casually, "Once Sonic and the others arrive in the Sky Patrol to pick you up, we'll take this filth with us."

"Maybe he'll tell us what we need to know about the Dark Armada." suggested Rouge, "That is, whatever Sonic can't tell us."

"Sonic's coming to pick us up?" asked Kiara curiously, "Must be important then. What's it about? And what's a "Dark Armada"?"

"Sonic informed us that the Dark Armada is an army of villains led by Dr. Finitevus." explained Shadow, "They need all the other Royal Fighters they can get to combat the armada so they're coming to pick you up. We've been recruited too and we were sent to make you the armada hadn't already gotten to you."

"I see." said Kiara, "Well I don't really think it's that shocking Raphael's part of the armada, if that's the case. He must be in it to get rid of me and Dark."

"Same goes to the Raiju Clan." muttered Dark, "Well when Sonic arrives, I'll tell him myself how eager I am to join in this battle against the armada. We've beaten Eggman and got our peace back, we're not losing it to that armada!"

"Agreed." said Shadow grimly, "And fortuitously enough, we now have a prisoner who might be of some us to us all."

Dark nodded as he glanced over at the unconscious Rai. Hopefully he'd be able to give them all the information they'd need in order to stay ahead of the armada. Sonic was sure to be happy at the fact they now had a prisoner that they could use against the armada. They'd see Sonic's reaction soon enough for the Sky Patrol finally arrived at Megapolis and was just now flying towards the four Mobians on the ground below. Shadow stared at it as it approached them.

"I think that's the Sky Patrol." he said, "Let's get aboard it once it lands."

Shadow, Rouge, Dark and Kiara waited as the Sky Patrol landed down on the ground in front of them and Sonic ran out of the ship to meet everybody.

"Thank goodness, you're all together and all alive!" cried Sonic happily, "We made it! So everybody, let's get aboard the Sky Patrol! We have much to talk about..."

Meanwhile at the Golden Caverns, Dr. Finitevus appeared through a warp ring. He was on the search for more items to add to the Synthetic Chaos Energy formula and hopefully balance out the positive Chaos Energy with the negatives to make the formula more stable for his plan. He was rather surprised to see two hover carts full of golden nuggets outside the caverns. He had come to the caverns to dig up the nuggets and take them for himself but he now had two carts full already for him to use. He smiled wickedly to himself as he grabbed the carts and pulled them through his warp ring.

"These will do just nicely..." he purred to himself, "Look at all them golden nuggets...these'll come in handy for my formula."

He cackled to himself as he disappeared through his warp ring, leaving nothing behind as he disappeared through it...

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Racoon on the Run

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 24: Terror of the Cyber Husky

 See Conquering Storm's takeover in all its glory in *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 14: A Few Steps To A Conquering Storm

YAY! A HAPPY ENDING! It's nice to have a lighter chapter in a dark story isn't it?

Tune in next time to see if* Operation Chun-Nan *will also have a happy ending...

Dark Armada Part 8: Operation Chun-Nan

Story 208: Operation: Chun-Nan

The Dark Armada Chapter 8 of 25

"…so if I've got this straight, the Dark Armada consists of Finitevus, Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox, Lord Sycorax, Zira the Ruthless, Bride of the Conquering Storm and her clan, Captain Metal, Cutthroat Jim, Raphael the Cyber-Husky, Ravage Bloodfang and Team Diamond yes?" asked Shadow the Hedgehog.

"You got it buddy." replied Sonic the Hedgehog.

"I'm not surprised that Team Diamond are in the armada." muttered Rouge the Bat bitterly as if just mentioning the words "Team Diamond" were some kind of bad curse that shouldn't be spoken of, "I bet Finitevus promised them riches beyond their wildest dreams to get them to join him."

"Probably." said Sonic, nodding agreeably.

"If there's anyone who I'M not surprised to hear is part of the armada, it's easily Scourge and his pet bitch Fiona." murmured Shadow, scowling over the very thought of the two, "It would be strange if Scourge DIDN'T join the armada. I bet Finitevus promised something along the lines of "world domination" to appeal to that green monster."

"Oh you know Scourge Shadow, he'll serve ANYBODY as long as it serves his best interests." sighed Sonic, "Next time you see Scourge though you may notice a few differences since he now has a robot arm and a robot eye."

"Let me guess, he pissed Finitevus off and he did that to him as punishment." sneered Rouge.

"Duh." retorted Sonic cheekily, "Why else would he have them?"

"Indeed." mused Shadow, "As for the armada, I'm familiar with most of them. I don't know Cutthroat Jim, Zira the Ruthless, Lord Sycorax or Captain Metal and Raphael, me and Rouge just met him as we helped Dark and Kiara beat the Raiju ninjas so we don't know much about him. You'll have to inform us on those particular members so me and Rouge know who we're up against."

"Well all you need to know is Jim's a pirate and probably the least threatening member of the armada, Zira's as deadly as Conquering Storm thanks to being a kung-fu warrior, Lord Sycorax is an egotistical nut job and Captain Metal is literally Metal Sonic cosplaying as a pirate." explained Sonic, "That's pretty much them in a nutshell. I'm sure Dark and Kiara will tell you all you need to know about Raphael."

"Too right we will." said Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx, looking slightly angered at the thought the cyborg husky, "He's a cyborg who wants to make everybody else cyborgs and has pretty potent weaponry. Watch out for him, he's powerful."

"I'll say, he took Shadow down with one big blast of sonic waves from his forehead!" exclaimed Rouge, "We'll definitely be weary of him on the battlefield!"

"A very good idea indeed Rouge." said Kiara the Cheetah, her face grim looking.

Shadow, Rouge, Dark and Kiara were just some of the Royal Fighters that Sonic and his girlfriend Queen Sally Acorn had come to pick up with the aid of the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters and their prodigious ship, the Sky Patrol. Sonic and his team of Royal Fighters had been going through hell and back as of late thanks to Finitevus formulating an army of Mobius's worst and deadliest villains and carrying out their insidious scheme Operation: Enerjak Reborn (though the plan is known to the armada itself as "Operation: Villains Rising"). Tails the twin-tailed fox had been kidnapped and roboticized by Finitevus, thus forcing the poor cub into the armada and Finitevus was using him to help create his Synthetic Chaos Energy formula. The Royal Fighters had dealt with some hardships such as Bunnie being de-roboticized and at least two failed attempts to save Tails from Finitevus's control. Even worse was the fact Finitevus had an agent spying on them constantly and the agent was helping Finitevus stay ahead of the game, which caused the armada to gain several victories against the Royal Fighters. Sonic and Sally decided that they needed the other teams if they had a chance of matching the Dark Armada but unfortunately, Finitevus's agent had heard their plan to recruit the others and now the armada was out trying to kill the other teams before Sonic and Sally could reach them. Ravage Bloodfang had managed to kill Taran the Lynx of Team Adabat but the other three members had made it out alive. Shadow and Rouge had saved Dark and Kiara from Raphael and the Raiju Clan, and even took Conquering Storm's right hand man Dàfeng Rai prisoner before he could escape, and now they were all aboard the Sky Patrol, heading quickly to Chun-Nan so they could pick up Princess Matilda and her friends. Hopefully before the armada could get them. As Sonic was chatting with Shadow, Rouge, Dark and Kiara, Sally was leaning over Kari the Rat's shoulder. The white-furred rat had been responsible for most of the Sky Patrol and was even the one piloting it. Kari was looking at a screen as she steered the ship through the sky.

"How long until we arrive at Chun-Nan?" asked Sally tensely.

"About half an hour." Kari replied, looking at the screen above the steering mechanism, "The ship's at full speed so we won't arrive any faster. Good thing we're at top speed otherwise we would be taking forever."

"That's good, thank you Kari." said Sally, "I do hope we reach Chun-Nan before Finitevus sends anybody to kill Matilda and her friends."

"I wouldn't worry too much your majesty, I mean doesn't Matilda know kung-fu?" asked Kari curiously, "And her friends too? I'm sure she'll handle herself if that horrible armada comes gunning for them."

"I know but, Matilda's a very good friend of mine and I can't help but worry." said Sally anxiously, "That and she and Bladefeather recently got married so I don't want their marriage to be cut short."

"That's understandable." said Kari, "I remember how worried I was when me and Mandy were kidnapped by those rats and we were about to be executed. I imagine how worried Miranda was about me. She must have feared for my life like you're fearing for Matilda's life now."

"Indeed." agreed Sally, "So I really hope that we make it to Chun-Nan…and Matilda, Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon are all alive when we get there. I'll even be happy if the emperor makes it out alive although given he's not really a Royal Fighter, the armada might leave him alone. Or they'll send Zira to kill him so she can take Chun-Nan for herself should the armada win…"

The very thought made Sally go pale with shock. She quickly shook it off though for worrying wasn't going to do her any favours. It was pointless to worry about something you couldn't control, it was better to wait and see what happens. Sally walked away and left Kari to continue driving the ship in peace, heading over to Sonic. Sonic smiled upon Sally approaching him and he took her by the hand.

"Hey Sal, I was just thinking about having a conversation with you." he said brightly.

"That's nice Sonic." said Sally happily, "Shall we go somewhere more private to talk?"

"If you want my girl." said Sonic smoothly, his trademark cheeky smile spreading out across his face, a smile that Sally would never tire of seeing no matter how many times he did it.

Sally just gave Sonic a sly smile, not really appreciating him labelling her as "his girl" but taking his remark as more of a jokey remark for it was in Sonic's character to make remarks like that. As Sonic and Sally walked out of the room hand-in-hand, Rouge eyed them mischievously and could hardly resist the urge to snicker as Sonic and Sally left.

"Huh, didn't think Sonic and Sally would be getting cosy together in the middle of something as big as this." she joked, speaking more to herself than anybody.

Her remark remained unheard, even to Sonic and Sally's ears as they left the cockpit of the Sky Patrol and walked into a viewing area. This was a small room with nothing but a door, three walls and a window to look out of. The two stood in front of the window, amazed at the view that lay spread out below like a giant carpet on the ground. They could see vast forests and stretching fields of grass as the Sky Patrol made its way to Chun-Nan. They were higher than some of the clouds in the vast blue roof of sky above and watched as the white wispy clouds drifted quickly by the graceful vessel. Flying was truly a grand experience and Sonic and Sally felt privileged to be up in a ship like this and enjoying the thrill of flying. It was views like this that made one feel lucky to be able to fly, with or without vehicles. Sally sighed contently at the views outside.

"Oh Sonic, what a view…" she said softly.

"I bet Tails enjoys views like this when he flies up in the sky." murmured Sonic, "And hopefully we'll save him and get him de-roboticized so he may enjoy such an experience once again. I miss him so much Sal…I really do."

His cheery expression fell into a grim frown as he thought about his little brother figure being forced against his will to serve Finitevus as a robotical slave, powerless to do anything about it just like how he had been forced to do the same things under Eggman's insidious control as Mecha Sonic. Just thinking about his past experiences made Sonic wish even more that Tails had been spared such a horror. Sally looked at Sonic glumly and lightly touched his arm.

"I know how you feel Sonic…and I miss our little Royal Fighter too." said Sally softly, "He was a wonderful little boy with a bright mind and a loveable personality. Without him…the team doesn't feel the same anymore. I hope we can get him back just as much as you do."

"Glad to hear it Sal." said Sonic appreciatively, his face lifting up a little, "I bet Tails would be thrilled to hear how determined we are to get him back. Once he's back, me and him will have one big day together. We'll spend it playing games, having fun and larks, making each other laugh and even having a big meal between us just like a loving pair of brothers. I'll make him so happy to be back that he'll forget ALL about this nightmare."

"A lovely, lovely thought Sonic. Very lovely indeed." said Sally happily, "And I hope to see that day happen. For now…we have to stop the armada and even prevent Enerjak from rising…and dooming Mobius."

"Oh man, I'm so focused on the armada and getting Tails back that I kinda forgot about that…" gasped Sonic suddenly, "Silver and Blaze found out that Enerjak is the missing link in Mobius's destruction and we think Finitevus might be the cause of it! How could I let that slip my mind?"

"Anything can slip our minds, no matter how important." said Sally, "Although given Scourge's lack of knowledge over Enerjak and indicating he doesn't know what Blaze was talking about…I wonder if the armada's responsible or is it all Finitevus's big idea and the armada are unwitting pawns in his sadistic game?"

"Doesn't matter, we have to stop the whole armada, Finitevus mostly." sniffed Sonic, "With him down, Enerjak won't come back and destroy the world."

"And Silver and Blaze will have good futures like they deserve to have." said Sally, her face brightening at the lovely thought.

Sonic nodded agreeably. Silver and Blaze were trying as hard as they could to save Mobius and give it a better future. They deserved to have a good future after all they were going through. Sally then suddenly asked something else.

"So Sonic, this may seem a little…random, ahem…but have you ever considered marriage it all?"

Sonic gasped at the question he had just received. His quills straightened and his face went red. He had not expected such a question at all. He looked at Sally as if she'd just grown an extra head on top of her own head.

"Why do you ask?" Sonic said in a single gasp.

"Well I just wondered that once this whole thing is over…maybe me and you could settle down together…as husband and wife?" asked Sally timidly, "I'll admit, it is pretty dull in Castle Acorn with just me and Nicole around and I'd love to have you living with me as my husband Sonic. I really love you and you're the one I want to tie the knot with at last."

She then proceeded to pull Sonic into a warm embrace that made the hedgehog feel content but also hot under the collar. He staved off his embarrassment enough to deliver his reply to Sally's response.

"Well it hasn't been on my mind lately…but if I feel like marriage is something I wanna have a shot at, I'll let you know." he said, trying his best to be composed, "For now, let's hope we live long enough to still have that option available."

"Indeed." said Sally, her tone of voice as loving as the expression on her face.

The two then shared a loving kiss between each other, their attention focused squarely on each other and the view outside the window now completely ignored. As they kissed, Sonic could feel his mind reeling away as he thought about Sally's questioning about marriage.

Marriage hmm? Maybe when this whole thing is over, I'll surprise Sally with an engagement ring. he thought inside his head Not to mention, marriage sounds pretty nice. A new adventure for me pretty much. And Sally's the perfect girl for me. Yeah…I'll definitely make her wish come true once the armada's beaten for good.

He could already imagine the beautiful queen's face when he presented a engagement ring to her…

Meanwhile in the holy country of Chun-Nan itself, the happy citizens were enjoying yet another day of peace and tranquillity, something that they had been doing plenty of since the ultimate demise of Dr. Eggman. Chun-Nan hadn't really seen much of Eggman's tyranny but his death was still a great relief to the people of Chun-Nan for they would never live with the fear of Eggman attacking the country ever again. Even Chun-Nan's own villains had been surprisingly quiet since Eggman's death though Zira the Ruthless and the Bride of the Conquering Storm's apparent escape from prison* still had some people worrying about their safety. A year had passed and they hadn't been apprehended which meant they were either really good at hiding, no longer in Chun-Nan or dead. Most of them hoped it was the third option. But for now, any thoughts of Zira and Conquering Storm were mostly absent in this peaceful time.

Even Chun-Nan's very own Princess Matilda didn't have the two on her mind. She was sitting in her back garden and meditating with her husband, now known as Prince Bladefeather the Falcon. The two had very recently gotten married but due to recent events, Sonic and friends had been unable to attend, much to Matilda's disappointment. The reason for them being unable to attend had made Matilda feel very uncomfortable. Tails had been kidnapped by Dr. Finitevus. She remembered him all too well. He had kidnapped her once and had also kidnapped Bladefeather and her father Emperor Tai. He had been working with Dr. Eggman at the time and had fastened her, Bladefeather and Tai to a nuclear missile that was aimed at New Mobotropolis. Sally had rescued the trio before the missile could take their lives and since then, Matilda had hoped never to hear of Finitevus again until he was either locked up or dead. And yet he had come out of his hidey hole and had kidnapped Tails. She hadn't heard any updates recently so she had assumed the Royal Fighters were trying all they could to deal with the situation. As long as she didn't need to get involved, she assumed it wasn't too much to worry about. If Finitevus kept his business away from Chun-Nan, Matilda would be happy but she hoped will all her heart that Tails would be rescued and Finitevus would be arrested.

To try and remain calm, she had decided to meditate. What made this session even more wonderful for her was the fact Bladefeather was meditating with her. Nothing could put Matilda in a greater frame of mind than meditating in her own back garden with her loving husband beside her, drinking in the peace and quiet and harnessing the flow of the universe. Matilda had her legs crossed and her hands resting on her knees, breathing in softly through her nose and breathing out through her mouth. Her eyes were closed and her body was still save for the gentle rise and fall of her chest as she exhaled and inhaled. Bladefeather had his legs crossed but his arms were out to the side, thumb and index finger curled inwards and the other three stretched out. His eyes were closed and he breathed in and out, his body so still that even his feathers didn't move. As they meditated, the two both pictured the loveliest thought they could possibly think of, their lives as a married couple and being united together through mind and heart. Their marriage had been a beautiful, wonderful day even if Sonic and friends had been unable to attend and thinking about it was enough to put them in a great frame of mind. They kept this up for a few minutes before Matilda exhaled one last time and slowly opened her eyes, a warm content feeling spreading through her body. Bladefeather opened his eyes as if sensing Matilda had done so herself and he smiled warmly to himself.

"Meditation…so wondrous isn't it my love?" he sighed contently.

"Meditation can chase away even the deepest of worries." replied Matilda agreeably, "I feel much better now. Especially thinking about how wonderful it is to be married to you."

"I very much thank you for the compliment my beautiful bride." said Bladefeather, edging closer to Matilda and resting his head against her shoulder, "Being wed to you is a thought that'll always put me in a good mood."

"Glad to hear it precious." said Matilda sweetly, "And given Eggman is dead and the world is at peace again, we can enjoy our lives together as much as we like. I do hope dearly that Sonic and his friends will save Tails and apprehend that vile Finitevus person…" she murmured, trying hard not to let the relaxation of her meditation fade away into anxiety again.

"It still repulses me that he nearly wasted our lives just as a part of the obese villain's game." muttered Bladefeather, "But Eggman is now spending an eternity in the darkest corner of the afterlife so Finitevus will never do anything for him again. And yet the villain seems to be operating solo this time. Obviously to avenge Eggman's death."

"Maybe so." mused Matilda, "But I don't really see Finitevus being on as grand a scale as Eggman. Eggman had control over certain regions for a time. Finitevus has just kidnapped one little boy, that's hardly going to put him above Eggman. Though it worries me to think what he's doing to such a poor innocent child like Tails…I hope he's not being tortured mercilessly or worse…"

"My love, please do not fret." said Bladefeather softly, hugging his wife tenderly to ease the coming anxiety that was building up inside, "Sonic will rescue his abducted accomplice. The mendicant Finitevus will then receive his comeuppance and we will be forever complacent over the fact that everything is going to be just fine. Plus, if Sonic requires our assistance in rescuing Tails, we will be on hand to provide it for him and then Finitevus will wish he'd never been born."

"I sure hope so honey…I sure hope so." murmured Matilda, hugging Bladefeather back.

"Likewise." replied Bladefeather, "I say Matilda, do you think another meditation session is in hand? You're getting anxious again."

"No, I'm actually in the mood for some exercise." said Matilda, "Maybe a good training session will put my mind at ease. My late master always said that a bit of exercise is always a good way to put your mind at ease."

"In that case, maybe you could show me your strongest move Matilda." suggested Bladefeather, "I remember you mentioning to me that you have a move that you consider to be the strongest move you know."

"Ah yes…the Six Dragon Strike." thought Matilda, "I remember spending a long time trying to learn that move. I eventually learnt it sometime after Conquering Storm's take over was foiled but I'm yet to be in a position where I need to use the move. I can tell you though if I ever fight Zira OR Conquering Storm again, I will definitely use it on them."

"I wish I could say anything complimentary about that idea but I'm afraid I am unfamiliar with the Six Dragon Strike." said a rather puzzled Bladefeather, "What is that move?"

"Only the hardest and most powerful move ever devised in the history of kung-fu." replied Matilda, "Only a select few have ever learnt it, and I was lucky enough to have the master who could teach me the move. But I have a very important rule to abide by. I can ONLY use it in a fight and ONLY if I need to for the move has been known to be powerful enough…to kill." she paused as Bladefeather's eyes widened in surprise at that bit of information.

"Luckily I haven't had to use the move yet but it never hurts to show how it works." she added quickly.

"I sincerely hope you won't use it on me!" blurted Bladefeather fearfully.

Matilda gave Bladefeather a look that suggested the very statement offended her in someway.

"Oh heavens no, I would NEVER use it on you!" she cried, "I'd never forgive myself if I ended up killing you with it! No, I'll get a training dummy and show you how it works on that. Maybe if you like what you see, I could teach you how to do it." she finished with a sweet smile.

"Then let us see this amazing but hard-to-learn move of yours then." purred Bladefeather delightedly.

Matilda nodded approvingly and she got up onto her feet. But before she could do anything at all, she received the surprise of her life. Mushu the Iguana and Li Moon suddenly burst into her garden and came running towards her and Bladefeather as if they'd just found out that apocalypse had begun. Their faces contorted with fright and they frantically gestured and swung their arms around as if to accompany the horror on their faces. Mushu was Bladefeather's silent but powerful friend, robbed of his ability to speak long ago thanks to Zira damaging his vocal chords. Li Moon was Matilda's best friend and a kung-fu warrior in training, Matilda herself being her mentor. She was also a good javelin thrower, a skill she displayed last year in a fight with Captain Metal. Matilda read Li Moon and Mushu's horrified faces and she quickly saw to calming them down. She put her hands on Li Moon's shoulders and held her still, bending down slightly to look her in the eyes. Bladefeather grabbed Mushu and held him still.

"Easy, easy! Whatever is the matter my friends?" asked Matilda, "Li Moon, you tell us. What's wrong?"

"Zira and Conquering Storm are back!" shrieked Li Moon frantically, "And they're coming this way! We ran here to warn you of their return! We've gotta fight them off now!"

Matilda felt like she wanted to collapse. Chun-Nan's two worst villains ever were back?! And coming straight towards the Pagoda of Prosperity?! This didn't make sense to her. Zira and Conquering Storm were enemies, why would they both be here and coming to the pagoda together? Shouldn't they be arguing over who gets to take over the country? Or even FIGHTING about it like they did in Zira's second take over attempt two years ago?! Matilda began to feel very nervous. If two of her worst enemies were teaming up and coming towards her home, it couldn't be good. Matilda swallowed nervously and put on a brave face.

"Very well…if those two are coming here…then they face against me." she said coldly, "And it'll be a mistake they'll regret making."

"Matilda, you cannot fight them BOTH by yourself!" cried Bladefeather worriedly, "Remember how you needed Conquering Storm to beat Zira when you first thought her?! And when you thought Conquering Storm herself, she defeated you! You can't fight them both alone!"

"Who said I'm going alone?" retorted Matilda, "I'm sure my handsome prince would like to fight alongside me, same goes to my best friend and my prince's best friend."

It didn't take long for Bladefeather to realize that she was talking about him, Mushu and Li Moon. Because of this, the falcon suddenly began to feel nervous.

"Uh…do you think we will be adequate enough for such a battle?" asked Bladefeather worriedly, "The four of us against those two?"

"They've been imprisoned for a while, they'll be a bit rusty." Matilda assumed, "That and I have been training quite vigorously in their absences so I'm pretty sure that we'll be enough. Li Moon, you'll have to take GREAT care in the battlefield though, you're easily the weakest of us and they'll pick you off the quickest."

"I'll serve as a distraction mostly your majesty." suggested Li Moon, "Zira and Conquering Storm won't bother about me that much. I'm sure I'll be fine…I hope."

"If they dare harm you, I will show them no mercy." Matilda swore, "Now come my husband and my friends. Let us defend our country from those two monsters…together."

"Together. We will drive those baneful witches away from our home and put them back in prison where they belong!" declared Bladefeather.

Just before anybody could do anything, the back door of the Pagoda of Prosperity opened up and Emperor Dalon Tai poked his head out nervously. He'd been inside the whole time and had been hearing a lot of shouting going on outside so he wondered what the matter was.

"Dearest, what's going on?" asked Tai worriedly.

"Daddy, whatever you do, DO NOT leave the pagoda." ordered Matilda, "Zira and Conquering Storm are coming and you'll be an easy target. I don't want you getting hurt so for the love of our ancestors, PLEASE stay inside. We'll handle the two women."

"I shan't set a foot outside Matilda. Please be careful." said Tai nervously, closing the door shut quickly.

Matilda nodded, agreeing completely with Tai's request. One wrong move and she would be dead, same went to her friends. Now that the emperor was safe, Matilda sneaked around the Pagoda of Prosperity and looked out down the hill to see if Zira and Conquering Storm were on their way up towards the pagoda yet. She spotted them straight away, the furious, hate-filled leopard and the coolie-hat, wearing, destiny worshipping lynx walking together towards the hill. Matilda's heart sank at the sight of them. She'd hoped never to see them roaming freely again and yet here they were, coming to make her life miserable once again. But the princess was not one to give up, even when grievously injured. She had beaten many insidious foes and powerful enemies in her life from a group of Huns to a treacherous governor and had even fought Zira and lived to tell about it. She'd even managed to floor Shadow with little effort before, she could beat the two martial arts mistresses. And with her friends beside her, she at least had a chance. Matilda looked at Bladefeather, who was standing still behind her.

"Give me a dagger." she hissed.

Bladefeather eagerly handed it over. He could tell what his wife was planning. The dagger would be a distraction and give them chance to make the first move. Bladefeather watched with baited breath as the princess took aim, the dagger held firmly between index finger and thumb. She aimed the dagger directly at Conquering Storm's head, wanting to take her out more than Zira. Zira she knew she had a chance against but Conquering Storm was the one who had actually managed to beat her in a fight so she had to receive the dagger. Matilda held her breath and threw the dagger. The sharp, pointed dagger whizzed through the air like an arrow and soared towards Conquering Storm's head just as the lynx climbed up the hill. Conquering Storm reacted at an impossible speed, leaning to one side before the dagger could insert itself rather bloodily into her head. Matilda knew the dagger wouldn't hit her, it was just for a distraction. Just as Conquering Storm repositioned herself, Matilda charged down the hill and pounced towards the lynx. Conquering Storm back flipped away from Matilda, leaving her to land down on empty ground. The lynx stood up straight and sneered at Matilda as the mongoose prepared to do battle. Zira bent down in a battle-ready stance beside Conquering Storm, itching for a shot at the princess herself. But Matilda clearly wanted to fight Conquering Storm for she ignored Zira and focused squarely on her. Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon were the ones gunning for Zira. The three stood before the powerful leopard and prepared to commence fighting. Zira gave the trio a smug smile.

"Well, well...I didn't think you'd have the gall to stand up to me again Bladefeather and Mushu." she crowed, "Especially after forcing you two to work for me. Maybe if you swear fealty to me again and this time, STAY loyal to me, I'll let you both live!"

"There will be no chance of that happening you insidious little canaille." snarled Bladefeather, "And you will refer to me as "Prince Bladefeather" from now on."

"Oh so I guess you're married to Matilda now are you?" snorted Zira, "Well "your majesty", maybe you could request for your father-in-law to just relinquish the throne to me and Conquering Storm?"

"Not a chance!" growled Matilda, "You two are going back in prison where you belong! Before that happens, why are you two working together? You should be enemies! You hate each other!"

Zira and Conquering Storm scowled furiously as if Matilda had somehow managed to pinch a nerve in them just by reminding them that they were sworn enemies to each other and reluctant partners while they served the Dark Armada.

"That is none of your business wretch!" retorted Conquering Storm, "Now then, we're here to kill you all and take Chun-Nan for ourselves! And as we're working together, we are BOUND to succeed!"

"Not if I have anything to say about it you filthy pair of monsters!" snapped Matilda, "Bladefeather, you, Mushu and Li Moon deal with Zira. I'm taking Conquering Storm. She owes me a rematch for our first fight."

"So keen to have your life snatched away from you aren't you, you foolish little woman?" snorted Conquering Storm, "Allow me to grant that wish..."

The iron-toed lynx screamed at the top of her voice as she charged towards her purple-dressed opponent. Matilda was already ready for her and she dropped into a defensive stance as Conquering Storm launched a powerful kick that could crack stones at her. Conquering Storm's foot slammed callously against Matilda's held up arms. The mongoose gritted her teeth and held in the pain that came after the kick. She lowered her arms and launched a kick of her own at Conquering Storm. The lynx blocked it by raising her own leg and letting her shin take the blow. Matilda then stood firmly on both feet and threw a terrific punch at Conquering Storm. The lynx blocked it effortlessly and that was very shocking to the princess for that was her hardest punch. Conquering Storm must have been training vigorously after escaping from prison so she would still be in a good enough shape to fight her, that was the only logical explanation Matilda could think of. But she wasn't going to let that bother her. Conquering Storm balanced backwards on her right foot and drew her left leg back until her knee was against her chest. Then she launched her foot at Matilda's chest. Matilda however grabbed Conquering Storm's large foot before it could hit its target and she sharply twisted her ankle to the side. Conquering Storm let out a terrible shriek of pain that made Matilda's ears wince in protest. Matilda smirked confidently at her opponent, thinking that Conquering Storm's twisted ankle would sully the lynx's chances of beating her. But Matilda should know better than to assume that a twisted ankle would seriously slow Conquering Storm down. Still holding onto her ankle, Matilda threw Conquering Storm's leg upwards, causing her to fall flat onto her back. Conquering Storm picked herself up, noticeably standing on one leg now and keeping her twisted left ankle off the ground. She scowled furiously at Matilda.

"You seriously think I'll succumb to you thanks to a twisted ankle?" she snarled, "I once thought against a lion with kung-fu abilities as powerful as yours with a broken arm…and I won!"

"Fighting one-handed is easier than fighting with one leg." noted Matilda.

"Maybe so, but I have the balance needed to be just as capable on one foot as I am on both!" snapped Conquering Storm, "You won't have the edge on me!"

She then sprang into the air with her one foot and hurled towards Matilda. Matilda just leaped backwards and left Conquering Storm to punch at the ground. Surprisingly, Conquering Storm didn't even cringe at the fact her fist had just slammed into solid ground. Conquering Storm was a tough woman. She could punch a steel block and her fist wouldn't hurt. Conquering Storm stood up again, still on one foot, and she readied herself as Matilda charged towards her. Conquering Storm jumped into the air and somersaulted over Matilda. She then swung the heel of her right foot into Matilda's head, knocking her down onto the ground. The lynx landed perfectly on her good foot and turned around as Matilda got back to her feet. Conquering Storm reached out to grab Matilda but the mongoose spun around on the balls of her feet and socked Conquering Storm in the jaw. The ninja bride screamed in pain as her jaw flared with pain and then Matilda tripped her up with a kick to her right leg. Conquering Storm landed down with a terrible, painful thud. So painful in fact that she was still wincing tensely as Matilda grabbed her right foot and sharply twisted it to the side. The noise Conquering Storm made after that was dreadful. Matilda had to fight hard to keep the scream from making her cringe in protest. Conquering Storm yanked her foot out of Matilda's grip and tried to stand up. But with both ankles twisted, she couldn't possibly stand. She yelped in pain as her twisted ankles screamed in agony and she collapsed onto her knees. Satisfied with this, Matilda walked up to Conquering Storm and chopped her in the neck, knocking her clean out. The Raiju Clan bride lay still on the ground, unconscious but breathing slowly.

"That was for manipulating me, imprisoning my friends and taking over my country." she growled, her voice as cold as an icy mountain, "Now to deal with Zira…"

She left the unconscious lynx to lie on the ground and charged over to Zira the Ruthless. The leopard was so far gaining the upper hand against Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon. Bladefeather threw daggers at Zira but the kung-fu mistress was much to fast for him. She dodged every shot with ease and lunged at Bladefeather at an impossible speed. She caught the falcon in the chin with a powerful uppercut that caused his head to snap backwards so hard that Bladefeather briefly worried if he'd just gotten whiplash. Zira then drew her right leg backwards and kicked Bladefeather in the gut, throwing the falcon off his feet and sending him crash down away from the hill. Mushu clawed at Zira but the vicious leopard wheeled around and dodged the attack. She grabbed Mushu's tail and swung him around into Li Moon, whisking the kung-fu novice off her feet.

Mushu and Li Moon lay sprawled on the grass, wondering what had just hit them. Li Moon picked herself up and in a move that could be considered brave but also suicidal, she ran towards Zira and prepared to punch her. Zira effortlessly blocked the blow and grabbed Li Moon by the neck. She hoisted Li Moon off the ground but the vixen kicked her in the gut to make Zira release her. Zira doubled over and dropped Li Moon, allowing the trainee fighter to wheel around on her foot and drive her other foot into Zira's face. The kick threw her down onto her side but Zira was back up in seconds. Li Moon jumped into the air, hoping to dropkick Zira but Zira jumped up and kicked the young fox down. Li Moon landed sharply on the ground, wincing in pain. She was mostly used to pain what with being trained by Matilda herself but Matilda was mostly going easy on her. Zira was doing anything but so this hurt more than anything Matilda had ever done to her. Zira grabbed Li Moon by the neck again but she kept her pinned down instead of lifting her up. Her face twisted into a cruel sneer.

"You have much to learn weakling…pity you'll NEVER live to learn anymore lessons!" she declared.

Then suddenly, something sprang up into the air and Zira found herself caught completely by surprise as Matilda punched her in the face, throwing her away from Li Moon and sending her crashing into the bottom of the hill. Zira got back up onto her feet just as Matilda ran towards her and began throwing punches at her as savagely as possible, not Matilda's usual style but a style she was all too happy to use on the brutal leopard.

"Nobody! Hurts! Li Moon!" screamed Matilda with every punch she threw.

She then finished off with a kick to the head that sent Zira somersaulting backwards and landed flat on her stomach. Zira forced herself back onto her feet and growled viciously, scampering towards Matilda on all fours and leaping towards her.

While this was going on, the Pagoda of Prosperity was finding itself with some unwelcome visitors. Team Diamond had come with Zira and Conquering Storm under Finitevus's suggestion that they could provide some help should the two need it. Lennox Meers the Meerkat, the team leader, was standing outside and keeping watch while his team mates stole whatever treasures the pagoda contained. Emperor Tai, not wanting to get involved, had evacuated the building and was staying in the back garden out of harm's way. Own Pounder, Alistair Drakken and the reluctant Roxy the Racoon were in the pagoda, robbing whatever treasures they could find in the building. They had been ordered by Finitevus to wait until Team Chun-Nan were dead but they thought that while Team Chun-Nan were so busy with Zira and Conquering Storm, they could rob the pagoda without any trouble. They had been doing this even before Conquering Storm got knocked out. Lennox was disappointed to see that the Bride of the Raiju Clan had been taken out so he assumed now would be a good time to provide his back-up. He took out his twin revolvers and he aimed them at Matilda. It was hard for him to keep a good aim on the princess though, she was moving much too fast and she was fighting against Zira. He risked shooting Zira by accident so he waited for the right moment to shoot. But he would soon end up failing to do his simple task for Bladefeather spotted him and he threw a dagger at the meerkat, his speed so fast that Lennox only had enough time to gasp before the dagger plunged into his right shoulder, numbing his arm and causing him to drop one of his revolvers. Lennox bellowed in pain and he yanked the dagger out of his shoulder, blood pouring out of the fresh wound and staining his prized cape red. Bladefeather ran up the hill towards Lennox and grabbed him before he could use his good arm to shoot at him. Yanking the revolver out of Lennox's hands, he tossed the meerkat down the hill and directly into Zira. The falcon then swooped down to the bottom of the hill and landed on Zira, digging his talons into the ruthless killer's arms.

"I always did abhor men with guns…" he muttered, glaring at Lennox as he pinned Zira down.

Zira tried as hard as she could to get Bladefeather to let go of her but if there was one thing that Bladefeather was insanely good at, it was pinning his enemies down and holding them with his talons. He could even pin Matilda down with his talons if he had to. Bladefeather then flapped his mighty wings and he took to the skies, carrying Zira with him. Zira thrashed around wildly, trying to get free but nothing and nobody, not even Master Kai, could possibly get Bladefeather to let her go. Bladefeather smirked at Zira, pleased to see that she couldn't get free. He then proceeded to drop her, releasing her from his unbreakable grasp. Zira screamed as she plummeted straight down to the ground, Mushu and Li Moon waiting to receive her. Before she could land, both kung-fu warriors kicked her and sent her hurling away from the hill and crashing into some nearby trees. Lennox got back to his feet and cursed himself for failing to his task correctly. But he could make up for it still. He had a spare gun in his blood-stained cloak and he whipped it out with his good arm. He pointed it at Matilda but before he could pull the trigger, Bladefeather poked him in the back of his neck with a dagger.

"Pull the trigger and you find out what it feels like to have a dagger inserted into your brain." he threatened, "Drop the gun you filthy, baneful gun-slinger."

Lennox knew better than to do something so foolish so he did as he was told. He threw the gun onto the ground and raised his hands. Suspecting he may have more, Bladefeather grabbed his cloak and yanked it from around his neck. He tossed it onto the ground and saw that he had indeed been right. Lennox had plenty of spares in his cloak so it was wise that he had decided to remove it.

"No more guns for you then." he sneered, "Now then, who are you and what are you doing here?"

"I'm with Zira and Conquering Storm." explained Lennox, "I have three friends with me and they're robbing the Pagoda of Prosperity."

"Well when your friends show up, I'll "kindly" request that they return everything they've stolen." muttered Bladefeather coldly.

Bladefeather would later wonder how a huge orange rabbit had somehow managed to sneak up on him and knock him aside, saving Lennox from being a hostage any longer. Owen smirked wickedly at the falcon that he had just sneaked up on and backhanded onto his side. Lennox quickly made a dash for his cloak but his attempts to retrieve it were met with Li Moon picking up the cloak, holding it by both ends like a bundle full of stuff and then swinging it into the meerkat's face. The multitude of guns that Lennox had in the cloak made it an effective battering weapon. The meerkat's head was spinning and he didn't know which way was up anymore. He was just lucky that neither of the guns were loaded. Owen lunged at Li Moon but the vixen just ended up walloping him with the cloak full of guns. Owen crashed down on top of Lennox, clutching his aching head in pain. Alistair and Roxy saw this and they also noticed how well Matilda and her team were faring against Zira and Conquering Storm. Conquering Storm was knocked out and Zira was barely managing to hold her own anymore. They decided that getting involved was a very bad idea so Roxy just promptly opened up the warp ring that Finitevus had given Team Diamond to use when robbing the Pagoda of Prosperity. They had stolen many valuable items in the pagoda and had used the warp ring to send it over to The Nefarious to save them the trouble of carrying it all home. Now Roxy was going to use it to flee before she could get her backside handed to her.

"Come on Alistair, we're outta here." she muttered, "Zira can handle herself, all we're doing is getting in the way. We're not of much use here. Get the meat-head and the creepy pervert for me."

Alistair did just that, flying over to Lennox and carrying him over to the warp ring. Roxy went through first and waited for the other two to arrive. Lennox didn't want to surrender but Alistair refused to let him go. He just promptly threw him through the warp ring. Alistair than flew back for Owen and carried him through the warp ring, the warp ring closing up behind the two. Bladefeather just sniffed, not at all bothered at their escaping. They were of no concern to him or anybody else. True Lennox had said he and his team were robbing the Pagoda of Prosperity but the stolen items could easily be replaced, nothing to worry about. The main concern now was Zira the Ruthless. She was waiting to attack again and was livid to see that Team Diamond had abandoned her so she was even angrier than before. She charged like a pouncing lion towards Bladefeather and roared at the top of her voice, eyes burning and fangs bared. Bladefeather only just had enough time to catch sight of Zira before she kicked him down onto the ground, springing off of him as she did so and then landing on top of Mushu. Matilda ran towards Zira but the leopard picked up the silent iguana and threw him straight at the princess. Mushu and Matilda both sprawled on the ground, Mushu sitting up and apologizing to Matilda in sign language. Matilda nodded and got back to her feet. Zira pounced on Matilda but the mongoose managed to push the leopard away and bring her down onto her back. Zira struck back with a savage punch that had all but two fingers curled into her palms. The index and middle fingers were curled into the shape of snake fangs as she punched. The attack left two small cuts on Matilda's chest and the mongoose stumbled backwards in pain. Zira lashed out with another clawed punch but Matilda stepped to the side and let the leopard lunge past her. Then she grabbed Zira's long ponytail and yanked on it. Zira winced as her ponytail was pulled, ruing herself for letting her hair grow that long so it could be easily grabbed. Matilda pulled Zira towards herself and drove her knee hard into the small of her back. Zira recovered quickly and back-handed Matilda across the face, sending the mongoose's head spinning wildly. Matilda cringed, feeling like her brain was doing a rain dance inside her skull. Zira then kicked Matilda in the gut, the mongoose letting out a loud moan of pain as she slammed down onto her back, lying against the foot of the hill. Zira then grabbed Matidla by the neck and strangled her. Matilda fought to stay conscious, fighting for air and clawing at Zira's arm in a desperate attempt to break free. Zira ignored the pain Matilda was inflicting in her arms and continued to throttle the terrified princess.

"I've been longing to snap your neck Matilda!" roared Zira "And now the time has come!"

But just as Zira prepared to make the killer blow, Matilda lashed out and rammed her finger into Zira's eye. Zira screamed a blood-curdling, shrilling, agonizing wail as the tip of Matilda's finger rammed into her eyeball. She let go of Matilda and roared loudly, willing for the pain to go away in her eye. A tear trickled out of it as it watered in pain. Matilda rubbed her neck better and she ran up the hill up until she reached the Pagoda of Prosperity. Matilda needed some distance between her and her temporarily blinded opponent in order to unleash her strongest move...the Six Dragon Strike. She thought it was time to show Zira what she knew. Matilda charged down the hill like a thundering rhino, aiming directly at Zira. Zira had managed to rub her eye better but she didn't nearly have enough time to react. Matilda jumped up into the air in one big graceful leap, screeching at the top of her voice as she drew her arm back and took aim. She landed on the ground and launched the first blow of the Six Dragon Strike. She punched Zira, swinging her fist down onto the top of her head and causing her to double over. She then uppercut Zira in the chin and caused her to stumble backwards as her head jerked back, the second strike in the attack. The third strike saw Matilda spin around on her heel and elbow Zira in the gut, throwing her back a few inches and causing her to double over again. The leopard had no time to defend herself as Matilda launched the fourth strike, a right hook to the cheek that threw her head violently to the side. Then Matilda accompanied the punch with a left hook that sent Zira's head careening to the right. The evil kung-fu warrior swore that her head would come off if Matilda kept this up. Then Matilda concluded the powerful attack with the sixth and most powerful blow. Screaming loudly, Matilda punched Zira squarely in the chest, aiming directly for her sternum. Zira was winded by the attack and she found herself yelling despairingly as she was sent hurling backwards through the air and crashing down beside Conquering Storm's unconscious body. The impact was so hard and so close that Conquering Storm actually woke up from her knock out! Conquering Storm opened her eyes and stared in horror at what she first saw. Zira was lying beside her, clutching her chest in pain and struggling even to so much as breathe properly. She had a violent coughing fit as she rubbed her chest vigorously to get rid of the pain. Conquering Storm knelt beside her rival and stared in disbelief.

"What happened?!" she demanded furiously.

"Matilda...knows...the legendary...Six Dragon Strike!" spluttered Zira, "Too...weak to...fight!"

Conquering Storm's blood ran cold. She knew that move all too well. She couldn't learn the move because she had studied ninjitsu and the Six Dragon Strike was a kung-fu move. She had hoped never to fight anybody who knew such a powerful move, knowing she would be powerless against it. And yet Matilda knew the move and had pretty much crippled Zira with it! Her twisted ankles made sure that Conquering Storm wouldn't be able to continue the fight but even if she could, she didn't dare allow Matilda to use the move on her. For the first time in the lynx's life...she was now terrified of Matilda and wanted to get away from her as fast as possible. Fishing out the warp ring Finitevus had given her, she opened it quickly.

"It's a stain upon my honour to say this...but we need to retreat!" shrieked Conquering Storm, "I'm in no condition to fight and neither are you! We have to leave!"

Zira, for once in her life, was happy to accept the option of retreating. Conquering Storm crawled through the warp ring on all fours for the pain in her ankles prevented her from walking. Zira just forced herself onto all fours and crawled through after her. The warp ring closed up behind the women as they retreated through it and Matilda just watched them flee, panting heavily and falling to her knees in exhaustion. Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon gathered around her and congratulated her ecstatically.

"That was incredible!" exclaimed Li Moon, "What move was that you just did?!"

"That my child, was the Six Dragon Strike." replied Bladefeather, "Matilda apprised me about the fact she knew the move and was about to show it me before we were interrupted. Now seeing it with my own eyes...it is incredible indeed. Master Kai would be so proud to have seen you use that legendary move my wife." he said gently, putting a hand on Matilda's shoulder.

"Thanks..." panted Matilda, "Whew did that drain a lot outta me...thank goodness we sent the two packing."

"Indeed my beautiful bride." purred Bladefeather delightedly, "I must say, their skills aren't as good as they used to be. Their time in prison must have slowed them down plenty for us."

"Either that or we've been training so much that we've surpassed their strength." suggested Matilda, "Either way, thank the ancestors we won."

Just seconds later, Emperor Tai came running down the hill as quickly as his arthritic body would allow him to. The moment he was at the bottom, he quickly embraced Matilda tightly.

"Oh thank the ancestors! You beat them back my daughter! Well done Matilda!" he cheered happily, "And thank goodness you made it through alive!"

"Thank goodness indeed daddy." beamed Matilda, "And thanks for keeping safe while we fought."

"You're welcome dearest, although I do have some bad news." said Tai sadly, "Four Mobians broke into our home while you were fighting and they robbed the entire place clean of all our fanciest and most opulent items. One was a meerkat, the other was a rabbit, the third was a bat and the fourth was a raccoon. The meerkat had guns so I didn't dare interfere with them. I'm sorry but I couldn't stop them from raiding the pagoda."

"It's fine daddy, we can replace them all." said Matilda reassuringly, "Besides, it doesn't matter if our home's been robbed as long as we haven't been robbed of our lives. I'd be more upset if they killed you as well as robbed our home father."

"Indeed sweetheart, I'll replace the stolen items as soon as possible." said Tai, "But now, I'm just happy to have kept my life. I wonder who those robbers were?"

"I have a feeling Sonic can tell us that emperor." murmured Li Moon, "For some reason, I can imagine Sonic being familiar with those robbers. Dunno why, I just do."

"Well if we ever meet Sonic again, we can ask him." suggested Matilda brightly.

"That might be sooner than we have anticipated Matilda." said Bladefeather, looking up at the sky for some reason, "The Sky Patrol is coming our way."

Everybody stared up at the sky incredulously and saw that indeed, the Sky Patrol was coming towards them. Hovering high in the sky and slowly approaching, the Sky Patrol loomed above the terrain below and began to descend. It landed down on the ground gently, blowing the grass wildly and causing Matilda's dress, Tai and Bladefeather's robes and Li Moon's hair to blow around. The moment the ship had fully landed, Sonic exited the ship and ran excitedly towards Team Chun-Nan.

"Matilda! Emperor Tai! Bladefeather! Mushu! Li Moon! Good to see you all!" cried Sonic happily, "And all in one piece too! Even better!"

"Honoured hero of Mobius, it is our greatest honour to see you again." said Princess Matilda graciously, bowing down respectfully to Sonic, "What brings you to our honoured country then?"

"Hop aboard the Sky Patrol and I'll tell you EVERYTHING Tilly." Sonic ordered...

Footnotes:

See the final Tales from Mobius arc: *Formulation of the Dark Armada

* See *Tales from Mobius Arc 12: The Water Panther Pl under

 See *Tales from Mobius Arc 14: A Few Steps To A Conquering Storm

Well Team Chun-Nan has made it out alive and is joining Sonic and friends! :D

So what will happen now the Royal Fighters are all gathered together? Tune in next time...

Dark Armada Part 9: Unhappy Meeting

Story 209: Unhappy Meeting

The Dark Armada Chapter 9 of 25

"How is this possible?!" roared Dr. Finitevus in rage, throwing his arms up into the air as he strode past the line of failures that stood to attention beside him, "I send you all to do ONE simple task and eliminate some pesky Royal Fighters! And yet only Ravage has returned with at least ONE dead body on his hands! You all shame the Dark Armada, all of you! Even you Ravage for only killing ONE Royal Fighter!"

Ravage Bloodfang, Zira the Ruthless, Bride of the Conquering Storm, Raphael the Cyber Husky and all four members of Team Diamond all looked down at the floor with nothing but misery on their faces. They were all very ashamed of themselves for failing to accomplish such a simple task.

The Dark Armada had been on a winning streak lately, a streak that had quickly ended as of today. After showing its hand to the Royal Fighters, the armada had single-handedly managed to score some victories against the Royal Fighters by kidnapping and roboticizing Tails, de-roboticizing Bunnie Rabbot and giving the Royal Fighters one heavy-hitter less to throw at them, gotten some materials to make Synthetic Chaos Energy with and had done a good job on keeping Mecha Tails out of the Royal Fighters's reach. Plus, they had a secret agent who was spying on the Royal Fighters and feeding information to Finitevus before he made his next move against the Royal Fighters. And yet despite this, the armada wasn't completely victorious yet and although his agent had informed him about Sonic wanting to recruit the other Royal Fighter teams, Finitevus had been met with bad news from his armada disciples. All but Ravage had returned with nothing but bad news to give. They had failed to kill any of the Royal Fighters they had come across. Ravage had managed to kill at least one Royal Fighter, said Royal Fighter being Taran the Lynx, the brother of Scott the Lynx, but Taran's death was hardly anything to be proud of. He was one of the lower ranking Royal Fighters and even one of the least threatening so Finitevus hardly praised Ravage for his efforts. He shot a glare at all the armada members standing before him, a wave of anxiety sweeping over them all as fear gripped them by the throats.

"What's even more insulting is that not only did you all fail to accomplish your tasks, but Raphael somehow managed to lose Conquering Storm's right hand man, Dàfeng Rai, to the Royal Fighters!" Finitevus bellowed angrily, "The Royal Fighters have one of our members as a prisoner! Which means that any information about us is now in the hands of the Royal Fighters!"

"Well it's not MY fault the moron got caught!" snapped Raphael, "He should have followed me through the portal but instead he got himself caught! I bet Shadow did it, it couldn't have been anybody else!"

"I do not tolerate excuses you pathetic, tin-plated canine!" snarled Finitevus, "You should have made sure Rai made it through before allowing this to happen to him!"

"Yeah, I LET him get captured! That's exactly what happened Dr. Dumbass!" retorted Raphael in a voice mixed with anger and sarcasm, "I deliberately let Rai get captured!"

Finitevus had had enough. Raphael had just crossed the line by insulting him and that was one line Finitevus would show the armada why you shouldn't cross it. Finitevus lashed out at Raphael and slugged him hard in the gut, causing the husky to double over in pain and gasp loudly. Finitevus then wrapped his arms around Raphael's neck and grabbed him into a chokehold. The hold was so tough that Raphael was amazed Finitevus was able to wrap his arms around him that tightly. Raphael tried to break free but Finitevus had a hold that couldn't be wrenched apart, even with a crowbar. Not even Knuckles the Echidna could pry Finitevus's arms apart and free Raphael from his hold. The husky found himself running out of air and fast. His consciousness was slipping and he was finding it hard to breathe.

"Apologize for your behaviour and I will release you Raphael!"

Finitevus snarled fiercely.

"OK...OK...ack...gack...I'm sorry! Please...let me go!" whimpered Raphael in a pathetic, squeaky, strangled voice.

Finitevus let Raphael go, the husky gasping and panting rapidly as he breathed the air back into his lungs. The rest of the members had watched the entire thing with great discomfort and shock, feeling very sorry for Raphael and glaring at Finitevus for doing that to him. Finitevus did not seem to care about their angry glares. He carried on as if they weren't even frowning at him.

"Let this be a lesson to you all. Insult me, you lose your oxygen supply." announced Finitevus, "Now then, despite your failure to kill all the other Royal Fighter teams...there is SOME light in the tunnel at least. Team Diamond have given us a whole batch of opulent items to use in the Synthetic Chaos Energy formula. And hopefully those items will be enough to perfect the formula for Mecha Tails tells me that my current one is flawed."

"Fan-whopping-tastic." muttered Raphael bitterly.

"We're honoured to hear that some good has come out of our embarrassing failures Finitevus, but what are we going to do about Rai?" asked Conquering Storm worriedly, "We must get him back! The Royal Fighters will try and force him to talk, I know they will! Please my master, allow me to stage a rescue mission for Rai."

"Absolutely not." said Finitevus with a dark and serious scowl on his evil face, "The Royal Fighters will expect that. Plus, it does not matter if they get Rai to talk. My agent is still on the lookout, my agent will keep us ahead of the Royal Fighters even if Rai gives away any information."

"Master, that's a foolish idea!" cried Conquering Storm, "Rai knows where The Nefarious is! What if the Royal Fighters make him reveal that information?!"

"Chaos Emeralds and warp rings, we'll just send them away." snorted Finitevus, "Trust me, Rai in their hands won't be that much of a problem after all. Plus...maybe we could kidnap one of the Royal Fighters and force them to give-up Rai in exchange for said Royal Fighter. Of course, we won't give that Royal Fighter back to them once they relinquish Rai to us."

"Oooh, now you're talking sense oh glorious leader!" cried Ravage excitedly, "I do hope it's Bunnie you kidnap, I still crave for her flesh and bones!"

"Has anybody ever told you you're a creepy little bugger?" scoffed Lennox Meers, his nose wrinkling as if something didn't smell right about Ravage to him.

"You're one to talk." snorted Ravage, "We all know what you're doing to Miss Roxy behind the scenes Mr. Meers. I mean I'm pretty sure those bruises and hickeys of hers weren't self-inflicted."

Roxy went bright red with embarrassment. It was bad enough that Lennox was abusing her and taking advantage of her body due to the fact she had a bomb in her brain that Lennox could set off if she dared say no to him but now Ravage was announcing at the top of his voice about what Lennox was doing! It was like her very life aboard The Nemesis was created just to spite her! And what exactly had she done to deserve all this? Try and redeem herself for all the bad things she did with Team Diamond. Roxy supposed that fate really had it against her for some reason. The raccoon forced herself to remain quiet as Lennox retorted to Ravage.

"What I do to my beloved Roxy is none of your business!" he growled, "And at least I'm not constantly fantasizing about eating people like you, you crazy cannibal!"

"Oh, I suppose YOU want to be eaten then?" asked Ravage coldly, "Because you're coming very close to having that wish granted!"

"How many times do I have to tell you ingrates NO INANE BICKERING!" bellowed Finitevus angrily, "If any of you so much as name-call each other, you'll all end up like Scourge the Hedgehog, only ten-times worse. DO I MAKE MYSELF CLEAR?!"

The villains all recoiled in horror, dreading to imagine what Finitevus meant by "ending up like Scourge, only ten-times worse". It was bad enough that Scourge had been forcibly turned into a cyborg as punishment for failure, they didn't want the same happening to them. Raphael was already a cyborg but he had the feeling Finitevus would do something dreadful to him if this arguing carried in. The armada members all lowered their heads and replied in unison.

"Yes Dr. Finitevus. You make yourself very clear."

"Good." grumbled Finitevus, "Now then, until my agent calls me and gives me some more information, we just stay aboard the ship and wait. Repairs are almost complete so we'll be flying again shortly. You're all dismissed, return to your rooms and standby until I need you again."

The villains were all too happy to do just that. Any reason to get away from Finitevus at this moment was good enough for them. Roxy on the other hand would much rather stay where she was than return to Lennox's dorm room and be abused some more. She had a nasty feeling that Lennox was going to beat her up and blame the failure to kill Team Chun-Nan on her even though it was far from her fault this had happened. Her face fell as she followed Lennox back to his room, Owen and Alistair following the two closely behind. Zira, Conquering Storm, Ravage and Raphael left to return to their dorm rooms too. They all needed a good rest after such a workout, especially Zira. The leopard clutched her chest in pain as she walked away. Princess Matilda had used the most powerful kung-fu move in history, the Six Dragon Strike, on her in their battle and the attack had left her with a severe chest pain that she was sure wouldn't go away for a while. She wondered about seeking medical treatment to alleviate the pain. As the villains left the room, Finitevus opened up a warp ring.

"Now to see if Matilda's stolen property and those two cars full of golden nuggets I found in Megapolis have made my beautiful formula more stable and ready for tasting…" mused Finitevus.

He walked through the warp ring and warped himself into the laboratory to meet Mecha Tails. He hoped dearly that the Synthetic Chaos Energy formula would be more stable this time…

Over in New Mobotropolis, the mood was considerably much more pleasant and cheerful than it was on The Nefarious . The Sky Patrol, a ship made and piloted by Team Nekronopolis, had touched down in New Mobotropolis after picking up the other Royal Fighter teams that were part of the R.F.S. They were Team Megapolis, Team Adabat and Team Chun-Nan. Sonic the Hedgehog and Queen Sally Acorn had come up with the idea in hopes of being able to match the Dark Armada and gain an edge on them since more of them would definitely make it easier to combat the insidious armada. On their trip around the world to recruit the other teams, they had even managed to find Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat. Given how they had scores to settle with Finitevus, they were all too happy to join the battle. Sadly, the trip hadn't gone without any problems. Team Adabat had lost Taran the Lynx to Ravage Bloodfang before they had even arrived at Adabat. The other teams had made it through with all their members intact but the disturbing fact was that the Dark Armada had sent some of its members out with the obvious intention of killing those teams with no reason other than to stop Sonic and his friends from getting more Royal Fighters to join the battle. It made Sally go crazy with worry on how the armada got the idea to do this. They couldn't have known about her plan beforehand! But then Sally had to remember that there was a hidden agent spying on the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and he or she hadn't been caught yet. But Sally was still perplexed for nobody was in Royal HQ but her and Sonic at the time and Nicole the A.I. lynx hadn't reported to her about anybody listening by the door or something so how the agent got the information to give to Finitevus was worrying to her. It seemed the agent was able to find out their every move before they made it.

But thoughts of the agent weren't on her mind right now. She and Sonic arrived back in Royal HQ with all the other Royal Fighter teams with them and the rest of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were greeting them ecstatically. It was a very pleasant atmosphere and Sonic and Sally beamed delightedly, watching the lovely scene before them.

"Well, well, if it isn't Shadow and Rouge!" cried Knuckles the Echidna, "Didn't expect to see you two again in a while!"

"Likewise." replied Shadow, "And I can just say that me and Rouge are really glad to be part of this battle against the Dark Armada. Your uncle did terrible things to us so we wanna make him pay for it."

"Not to mention kidnapping a child and roboticizing him does NOT settle well with me." said Rouge with a scowl, "Finitevus will pay for doing that to poor Tails."

"You bet he will Rouge." said Shade the Echidna agreeably, "And me and Knuckles owe him much for destroying AngelIsland and taking all the emeralds."

"Now you've got me on the case, finding the emeralds shouldn't be too hard." said Shadow confidently, "Then we can use them against Finitevus and take him down!"

Knuckles and Shade both liked the sound of that. They pictured Finitevus getting the demise he deserved at the hands of any super powered Mobians using the Chaos Emeralds against him, namely Sonic, Shadow, Silver and maybe Knuckles himself.

Meanwhile, Team Chun-Nan was being greeted by Ruben the Water Panther, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit and Cosmo the Seedrian. Matilda was here along with her husband Bladefeather the Falcon, her friends Mushu the Iguana and Li Moon the Vixen and her father Emperor Dalon Tai. He was here because Sally thought Zira and Conquering Storm would target him with Matilda and friends gone so she thought he'd be safer if he came along. Ruben was already in Matilda's arms and hugging her tightly as if they hadn't seen each other in years. Matilda hugged Ruben back graciously.

"Oh honoured princess, I'm so happy to see you again!" cried Ruben excitedly.

"Thank you Ruben. I'm happy to see you too." Matilda said with a smile, "It's an honour to see all of you again." she added, addressing everybody in the room as she said that.

"I'll bet it is." said Amy sweetly, "Sorry we couldn't attend your wedding Matilda but all the same, congratulations on getting married anyway."

"Thank you so much Amy." said Matilda brightly, "And my condolences for losing Tails Cosmo." she said sadly, looking at Cosmo sympathetically, "He'll be saved, I'm sure he will."

"With all of us united, he definitely will." said Cosmo hopefully, "I long dearly to have my beloved Tails back."

"I very much see why you desire to have your loved one returned safely to you dear child." said Bladefeather, sharing his wife's sympathy for Cosmo, "If Matilda had been kidnapped and roboticized, I'd want nothing more than to have her back in my arms. I hope we can save him too."

"I'm very glad to hear it Bladefeather." said Cosmo appreciatively, "Thank you."

"Anytime." said Bladefeather kindly.

Amy just smiled approvingly at Bladefeather. Some time ago, he used to be rude and pompous and would treat children as if they were idiots and like they were just a bad curse to the world. Nowadays, he was much more polite and pleasant and was even talking nicely to a child! Matilda really had changed him for the better, he really had and Amy couldn't have been prouder of Bladefeather for changing his attitude so much so that he was a much more pleasant Mobian now.

With Team Nekronopolis, Miranda Mongoose was socializing with as many of the Royal Fighters as she could. Thunder and Bolt the Chipmunks did the same whereas Kari the Rat immediately ran over to Mandy Mouse and embraced her. Surprised, Mandy returned the embrace and smiled at her friend. She and Kari were quite close, in a sisterly way no less so she sort of expected Kari to greet her first.

"Hey Mandy, it's great to see you!" squealed Kari, "How's everything been with you since Eggman died?"

"Just wonderful Kari." replied Mandy brightly, "Me and Wilson are still enjoying our lives together, the Rodent Rivalry is officially at an end with no more mice and rats hating on each other and our dwindling numbers are on the road to recovery. It's been a lovely year, it really has and Eggman's death has made Mobius great once again."

"I'll say, it's been wonderful since Eggman was finally put down for good!" cried Kari, "And the Sky Patrol's working as potently as ever. We used it to gather everybody together."

"I can see you have Kari. And now we have the Sky Patrol, we have a ship of our own to use against the armada." said Mandy with a grin.

"Does the Dark Armada have a ship too?" asked Miranda, suddenly adding herself into the conversation.

"Oh yes Miranda, Finitevus calls it "The Nefarious". Lame name I know. It's pretty much a more evil looking Egg-Carrier and it has cloaking technology." explained Mandy, "Bunnie bought it crashing down but the ship was teleported away and hidden somewhere so I have a nasty feeling we'll be seeing it in flight again. Finitevus will likely have repaired it by now."

"I see. Well I hope the Sky Patrol's firepower will be enough to bring it down again should it take flight." murmured Miranda, "As for Bunnie, such a shame she lost her cybernetics. Sonic told us all about what's happened to you all lately, including Tails being enslaved and Bunnie losing her cybernetics."

"Yeah, the poor kid being enslaved by Finitevus has been a big blow on us all, especially the blue dude himself." said Mandy sadly. "We hope to get him back eventually. As for Bunnie's cybernetics, eh, it's not a total loss. Bunnie has new weapons to compensate for them. She's still able to kick ass so she's fine."

Miranda smiled, pleased to hear this. Unknown to her, Bunnie Rabboh was standing nearby and she'd heard the conversation between Miranda and Mandy. She smiled, pleased to think that despite being fully organic, she was still able to fight. She hoped to use her new weapons again next time a battle happened. And she'd make sure that Finitevus was the one her new cannon was pointed at.

Team Adabat and Team Megapolis were greeting the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters individually. Scott the Lynx, Team Adabat's leader, made sure that they all knew about what had happened to his unfortunate brother Taran after Ravage came to Adabat to kill him and his team. The reaction was nothing short of sympathy from everybody. Sora in particular seemed to sympathize the most with Scott.

"So me and you have both lost our brothers really." mused Sora, "My brother's a robotical slave working for Finitevus and yours is dead...I'm so sorry for Taran's loss Scott."

"It's alright." said Scott, his face grave and his eyes looking like he was going to cry again, "At least your brother isn't dead so we can save Tails and get you reunited with him. I however...will never see Taran again."

"Our team won't be the same without him." said Jessica the Cougar glumly, "And I doubt Scotty will ever recuperate from his death. They were close, they really were and Taran was the only family Scott had left. Now...he's got no family left."

"I'm just the same Jessica." said Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx, sharing the others' sympathy for Scott, "I have no family either. I lost my parents a long time ago and I was an only child. And the Raiju Clan is certainly not something I'd ever label as my family given how much I hated being a part of it. You have all my sympathy little guy." he said, looking at Scott sadly.

"Mine too." said Kiara the Cheetah glumly, "I have no family too thanks to Team Diamond taking my parents from me...and it makes my blood boil to think that those bastards are part of the Dark Armada!" she growled suddenly.

"It seems many different enemies of ours are in this armada." mused Felix the Peacock, "How unfortunate for us."

"Indeed. So in a way, the armada is every Royal Fighter in the service's enemy." murmured Wilson the Dog, "Each and every team in this room. No wonder Sonic and Sally gathered everybody up, everybody deserves to have a hand in this conflict."

"You're sure right on that." murmured Kiara, "I mean going through the Royal Fighter records and thinking about the list of names in the armada Sonic gave us on the Sky Patrol, at least one member of the Dark Armada's an enemy of at least one Royal Fighter in this room. One has to wonder how Finitevus gathered together such an army."

"That's somethin' ah wonder too." murmured Bunnie grimly, "Some of those members ah can understand but Scourge, Fiona, Zira and Conquering Storm? How did he get THOSE into his team?!"

"Maybe they're doing what pretty much any Eggman sidekick has done and are using him for their own needs." suggested Geoffrey, "I mean look at Alonzo. And heck, Finitevus himself backstabbed Eggman and killed him apparently! Who wants to bet some of the armada's members are just waiting to overthrow Finitevus and seize control?"

"Well if that's the case, they're all making a grave mistake…" muttered Sora, "Finitevus bested our entire team once! He could probably floor his own armada blindfolded!"

"Maybe he could." added Nicole, suddenly materializing into view to join in with the discussion that was going on around the headquarters.

Sora nodded agreeably. Then suddenly, all attention of the Royal Fighters was diverted from each other and onto Sonic and Sally as the two called for silence in the room. The Royal Fighters fell silent and they all kept their eyes and ears focused on Sonic and Sally as they prepared to speak. Sally started off.

"Royal Fighters of all teams." she announced, "We maybe rid of our worst enemy, Dr. Eggman. But we have an even worse enemy to deal with now. They call themselves the Dark Armada and they're made up of villains who are not only big threats, but also enemies to many of us in more ways than one. At least one member of the armada is somebody in this room's enemy. They currently have our comrade Tails roboticized and forced to work for them as their slave and they have a mysterious agent spying on my team and feeding Finitevus sensitive information. That is why Teams Adabat, Chun-Nan and Megapolis were attacked. The agent must have informed Finitevus on what me and Sonic were planning so he could make sure you never made it to us."

There was murmurs of worry and disgust among the crowd, something Sally had expected to hear.

"Well when I found out who this agent is, I'm gonna kill him or her!" snarled Scott, his face contorting with rage, "Thanks to that agent, Ravage killed my brother!"

"His death will be avenged Scott, I promise you." said Sonic, "Now then, here's something really important you all need to learn. Silver and Blaze, come forward if you please."

Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat did just that. They had travelled from the future to warn Sonic and friends about the coming apocalypse that dooms Mobius and leaves it in ruins for 200 years with dwindling life and bad places to live. They had found a book that detailed the end of the world for them and they were hoping to prevent it from happening. Silver and Blaze emerged from the crowd and stood forward. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters didn't need to listen, they already knew what they were going to say. The other teams focused on Silver and Blaze, wondering what they were going to say. Silver pulled out the book, the title already catching some attention and earning a few gasps of horror. "Mobius 2144: The FINAL Year". It was 2144 now so the title alone made the Royal Fighters feel nervous.

"In my future, I found this book in a library." explained Silver, "It details how Mobius comes to an end and how me and Blaze came to live in such a dystopian world."

He opened the book and read out some key facts that he'd picked up.

"According to the book, Mobius ends on the 21st of July, 2144." explained Silver, "And the one who ends the world…is Enerjak."

Matilda was the first to react, her expression contorting with horror. She ran over to Silver and grabbed him by the shoulders. Her face was white and her eyes were tiny dots of fear swimming in the whites of her eyes. She was shaking all over with fear and Silver could feel it in her hands on his shoulders.

"It's not true! Tell me it's not true!" Matilda whispered hoarsely.

"It's true." said Blaze, shaking her head sadly, "The book was written by a survivor, he had seen the world end with his own eyes and he clearly stated that the one who did it was a spirit named Enerjak. Given your horrified reaction, I guess you know him."

"Know him?! KNOW HIM?! That…that…that monster took over my mind and made me a raving lunatic!" shrieked Matilda, "He nearly made me murder my father, he made me turn Chun-Nan into a country of cultists who worshipped him, he got me locked up for a crime I didn't commit under my own agenda and…and…"

The princess then broke down crying, putting her hands over her eyes and weeping into them uncontrollably.

"I'd hoped never to hear about that freak again!" she wailed, "Now I hear that he's going to destroy the world!"

Bladefeather and Tai stepped out of the crowd and hugged Matilda comfortingly, the mongoose putting an arm around each of them but still crying uncontrollably.

"My dear children, how does Enerjak come to rise again?" asked Tai worriedly, knowing full well the extent of Enerjak's terror and what he could do for he himself had been a victim of Enerjak's evil just like Matilda.

"The book doesn't say that…but the way the author describes Enerjak seems to coalesce with Finitevus's appearance." explained Silver, "So we THINK the Dark Armada has something to do with Enerjak. We think Finitevus is responsible."

"And because we have an armada member as a prisoner, we can find out what Finitevus's wicked game is." noted Sally, "Me and Sonic are going to interrogate him now. We'll let you know what the prisoner tells us."

"It better be the truth or I will break Rai's face…" muttered Dark under his breath.

"Oh it will be, because Nicole's handheld form has a lie detector." explained Sally, holding up Nicole's handheld computer form for everybody to see, "ANY attempt to lie will be spotted immediately."

"So Rai has no choice but to tell the truth." sneered Nicole, smirking at the idea that she would be getting the truth out of Rai, "Let's go and have a little chat with him shall we?"

"Indeed. All of you can take a rest for the moment." said Sally, "We'll be back with updates soon."

So Sonic and Sally walked out of Royal HQ with Nicole's handheld form in hand. As they left, Geoffrey St. John gathered around the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and took them all into the rest room, leaving the others to stand around and talk to each other to pass the time. The moment everybody was in the rest room, Geoffrey closed the door and put his hands behind his back. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters looked at Geoffrey, wondering what he had gathered them all around for.

"Alright then mates, it's time for an interrogation of my own." he announced.

"Oh here it comes, Geoffrey's gonna start pointing fingers again." sighed Mandy, "I bet you're thinking that one of us is Finitevus's hidden agent aren't you?"

"Correct." said Geoffrey bluntly, "BUT I do have a reason. I mean, this agent seems awfully close to us doesn't it? The agent seems to know our every move before we make it. That can only mean one thing…that one of you lot is the agent. I mean, it seems awfully convenient that Sonic and Sally made their plan to recruit the other Royal Fighters in Royal HQ and the agent just happened to hear about it. Only Royal Fighters are allowed in Royal HQ so the agent has to be one of you guys."

"Well don't look at me!" snarled Mandy, "You dare accuse me of being the agent and I'll break your arms!"

"I wasn't going to…" squeaked Geoffrey nervously, "Last time I accused you of being a traitor, you turned out to be an Automaton double and the real you was elsewhere. Plus, being a victim of betrayal yourself, I doubt you'd want to do something so hypocritical."

"I did always hate hypocrisy." sighed Mandy, rolling her eyes, "So yippee, you don't think it's me, very good. So who do you think it is then?"

"I don't have a particular suspect so I'm just going to tick you all off one by one." explained Geoffrey, "Starting with Knuckles and Shade."

The two echidnas glared at Geoffrey in disgust. The skunk already expected them to react with distaste to his accusation so he quickly held up a hand to keep them quiet.

"Before you lose your heads mates, hear me out." said Geoffrey quickly, "Now then, Angel Island was destroyed and the Chaos and Master Emeralds are in Doc Fin's possession right? Maybe he promised you two the emeralds in exchange for your loyalty to him and thus, you two or at least one of you could be working for Finitevus."

"You do realize how stupid that is right?" growled Knuckles, "Why would I serve my own uncle after what he did to me, did to my home and also the fact he once served Imperator Ix?! And need I remind you Geoffrey St. Dumbass that the armada beat me half to death! Would Finitevus do that to me if I was his agent?!"

"Probably did it to keep up appearances." suggested Geoffrey.

"Yeah and then what would he do if Knuckles DID die of his injuries?" noted Shade, "He'd have wasted a good agent. It can't be Knuckles. And it certainly isn't me either."

"How do we know you're not lying to us?" asked Geoffrey sternly,

"Give me proof that it couldn't have been you and I'll let you off the hook."

"Well take in the fact that before we left to storm The Nefarious, I went with the whole group." Shade said matter-of-factly, "I couldn't possibly have had any time to tell Finitevus that we were coming to storm the ship, take the armada and use Fintievus's rifle to de-roboticize Tails."

"How about the other times then?" asked Geoffrey, "You know, when me and Bunnie went to sabotage the ship? When Sonic, Sally, Sora and Cosmo went over to Holoska? And just now when Sonic and Sally went to get the other teams? How do we know you didn't spy on them and get that information?"

"I've been a victim of abuse from Imperator Ix during my whole childhood, why would I want to return to a life of evil when all it bought me was abuse and misery?!" snapped Shade, "I'm sorry but that defies all logic! It'd be like if Cosmo joined the Martians despite the fact they destroyed her home world, it wouldn't make any sense!"

Geoffrey was about to form a rebuttal to the statement but he kept his mouth close, knowing that he was beaten.

"Point taken, sorry I accused you luv." he said softly.

"Geoffrey, ah think ya'll should stop before ya'll start offendin' people." said Bunnie softly.

"No babe, the agent NEEDS to be uncovered!" protested Geoffrey, "I have to go through with this. Now I know Knuckles and Shade are innocent, time for my next big suspect. Team Chaotix's very own Espio the Chameleon." he glanced over at the ninja chameleon who was standing against the wall looking grim and uninterested in the conversation.

"Gee, I wonder why you think it's me." snorted Espio sarcastically, "It's because I can turn invisible right?"

"Too right mate." said Geoffrey, "Maybe you've been spying on us while invisible the whole time."

"Well I can refute that claim." put in the Chaotix boss Vector the Crocodile, "Espio was with me and Charmy the whole time we were investigating and trying to find the agent the previous day! He hasn't left my sight!"

"Yeah so don't you dare accuse Espio you smelly skunk!" growled Charmy, "He'd never betray any of us!"

"Indeed, also it'd be disgrace to my honour." put in Espio, "There's no honour in evil deeds. You're wrong to accuse me Geoffrey."

"Well soooooooorry." snorted Geoffrey, "Now onto my next big suspect...Miss Sora Prower." he said, glancing over at the teenage vixen standing before him. Sora was livid with rage to think that Geoffrey would even think of accusing her.

"Geoffrey! Don't you DARE accuse me!" snarled Sora angrily, "You should know full well I would NEVER betray any of you! Why the hell would I work for Finitevus?!"

"He has Tails in his possession. Maybe he's using him as a means to blackmail you." suggested Geoffrey, "And you ARE a spy so you'd make a great pawn for Finitevus."

"Yeah right, wouldn't I be too obvious?" snorted Sora, "Fintievus uses me, a spy working for the Royal Fighters as his spy, wouldn't that be a big give away? Finitevus isn't stupid you know, I'd be the LAST person he'd want to use as an agent because I'd be the first person you'd think of! Using me would be a big case of "Hey! I'm the agent! It's dead obvious!"! And also, I haven't been blackmailed at all! I can even prove it if you wish!"

"You don't need to Sora because unlike Geoffrey St. Accuser over here, we know you're innocent." said Mandy firmly, "Sora is not the agent and even YOU know that Geoffrey! So leave her alone!"

"Alright then, I will. Excuse my ignorance." sighed Geoffrey, "Now onto the next big suspect...Cosmo the Seedrian." He looked over at the worried Seedrian suspiciously.

Cosmo gasped with horror and she put her hands to her mouth.

"Geoffrey...how...how could you?!" she shrieked, "How could you possibly accuse me?!"

"Same reason I accused Sora, Finitevus might be using Tails as a form of blackmail to get you working for him little Cosmo." murmured Geoffrey, "Plus you seemed awfully reluctant to join the mission to Holoska. Maybe it's because you wanted more of an excuse to tell Finitevus everything he needed to learn?"

Cosmo burst into tears. Her sobs gained sympathy from all the Royal Fighters in the room, mostly from Amy and Cream. Geoffrey seemed rather surprised at the fact Cosmo was crying now.

"HOW COULD YOU?!" she screamed at the top of her voice, "I would never work for Finitevus! NEVER! And why would I want to stop you all from rescuing Tails?! I want him saved! Why would I work for Finitevus if it meant keep you from saving Tails?! And the reason I didn't want to come to Holoska with Sonic, Sally and Sora is because I didn't want to face him as a robot! I just...couldn't bear it! And I didn't want Tails to have the horror of attacking me! You're a horrible man for even THINKING of accusing me and you should be ashamed of yourself!"

Cosmo then proceeded to run out of the room in tears, slamming the door shut behind her. The moment she left, Amy and Cream glared at Geoffrey angrily. Amy walked up to the guilty skunk and slapped him across the face.

"Shame on you! Shame on you, shame on you, SHAME ON YOU!" shouted Amy, "How dare you accuse Cosmo! How DARE you!"

"You made Cosmo cry! How could you, you nasty man?!" Cream yelled angrily, "Cosmo's heartbroken over what's happened to poor Tails and you go and think she's trying to keep us from rescuing him?! You're disgusting!"

"But...but...I...I...I have a v-valid p-point didn't I?" stammered Geoffrey.

"No you did not!" snapped Amy, "You forgot one fundamental fact in this case, Cosmo FAINTED when she heard that Tails was roboticized! If she was Finitevus's agent, she'd already know about that so why would she faint?! And you can't just fake fainting either, she was flat-out diagnosed as being unconscious when we took her to hospital! You can't fake that so again, why would Cosmo faint over something she would likely already know?!"

"Maybe the sphere she..." protested Geoffrey.

"The sphere displayed the armada's coordinates, nothing more." noted Sora, "I should know, I studied it. And that was just to trick Cosmo into leading Sonic and Knuckles into a trap. No way could Finitevus have used that for any other purpose. The agent isn't either of us and you're sick for even thinking that."

"Come on guys, we're outta here." said Mandy impatiently, "I don't wanna spend anymore time with Geoffrey St. Asshole anymore. We'll find out who the agent is and this time, we won't be pointing fingers randomly at obviously innocent people."

The Royal Fighters then proceeded to walk out of the room, leaving the gobsmacked but guilt-ridden Geoffrey to do nothing but stand there and think about what had happened. Bunnie looked over at him coldly as she left the room, hurt to think her boyfriend could do this to his own friends.

"Ya'll should've stopped sugah...ya'll should've stopped..." she said, her voice even colder than her face.

She then closed the door behind her, leaving Geoffrey alone in the room to feel nothing but regret for what he'd done. He sat down on the sofa and rested his head on his hands.

"What have I done...?" he asked himself, "I dared to accuse my own mates of being the agent?! I'm a disgrace to the team...I hope they'll forgive me for my behaviour..."

He then put his hands over his eyes and cried, hoping for all the world that he could make up for what he'd done...

Over on the Sky Patrol, Sonic and Sally walked into the containment cell on the bottom floor of the ship. The Sky Patrol was parked outside of New Mobotropolis, waiting to take flight once again. The containment cell had been built there par Miranda Mongoose's request for she knew some day soon, they'd have prisoners to take onboard and keep contained. Sonic and Sally opened up the door and walked into the cell. The cell was tiny, only just being big enough to fit Sonic and Sally in standing side by side. It had a single light, nothing more. Dàfeng Rai was in the cell, his hands bound behind him with laser cuffs and his legs were also bound with laser cuffs. He glared at Sonic and Sally furiously but he didn't try and get up or barge his way past them. He would never escape so he decided to sit down and wait for Sonic and Sally to do what they wanted to him. Sally knelt down before Rai and took Nicole from out of her vest. Her face was straight.

"Hello Rai." she said smoothly, "You and I are going to have a little chat. Think you're up for one?"

"Go to hell bitch! I ain't telling you anything! I'll disgrace my honoured matron!" bellowed Rai.

"Then perhaps you want me and Sally to use less civil methods of interrogation then?" asked Sonic coldly, "Believe me, we WILL resort to such methods if we have to."

"Go ahead, I'm not afraid of torture!" snarled Rai.

"Then I suppose you won't miss having both arms?" asked Sally sternly, "I have energy blades and if you do not comply, I might be tempted to show you how fast I can cut your limbs off. You won't be of much use to Conquering Storm without limbs will you?"

It disgusted Sally dearly to resort to evil threats like this but a Royal Fighters had to do what he/she had to do in order to get the information he/she required. and Sally was VERY desperate for information now so she had to make an exception and use such violent threats to make Rai talk. It worked too for Rai changed his attitude.

"Fine then wretch, what do you want?!" demanded Rai.

"What is Finitevus planning?" asked Sally, holding out Nicole in front of the lynx's face.

"I do not know." lied Rai.

Nicole suddenly made a loud beeping noise that made Rai's ears hurt. Sonic and Sally weren't effected by the noise though, they were wearing earplugs to make the noise less unbearable.

"Oh I'm sorry, you appear to have lied to us." sneered Sally, "My little friend here has a lie detector and believe me, she is NEVER wrong. I'll ask you again, what is Finitevus planning?"

"I just said I don't know OK?!" snapped Rai.

Once again, Nicole made a piercing sound that made Rai cringe in pain.

"OK, OK, I'm lying! I know what he's planning!" yelled Rai, "He's making Synthetic Chaos Energy and he plans to make thousands of Chaos Emeralds with it!"

Nicole didn't make a noise. If she didn't make a noise, it meant that Rai was telling the truth.

"And what is he doing that for?" demanded Sonic.

"To conquer Mobius for everybody in the armada." explained Rai, "He's promised each of us what we desire, the world for Scourge and Fiona, Chun-Nan for Conquering Storm and all the Raiju Clan and more. And with our plan "Operation: Villains Rising", we'll get what we want!"

Nicole remained silent again.

"So Finitevus's plan has nothing to do with anybody named "Enerjak" then?" asked Sally.

"Who's Enerjak?" asked Rai.

Nicole remained silent, surprising Sonic and Sally greatly. They'd expected it to be a lie but Rai was telling the truth in asking who Enerjak was. Sally looked at Rai.

"Enerjak turned your entire country into a country of cultists." explained Sally, "He drove the princess insane. Does that not ring any bells?"

"You do know that I WAS in prison for most of last year?" snorted Rai, "Prisoners don't hear anything. I have no idea what you're talking about."

Nicole still remained silent. Sonic and Sally weren't sure what to think to that. Surely Rai would have heard about Enerjak, even if he was in prison at the time! But Nicole was indicating that Rai was telling the truth and Nicole was never wrong so they trusted her. Rai was indeed telling the truth.

"OK then, now for the million dollar question." said Sonic quickly, "Where's The Nefarious?"

"In Megapolis." explained Rai, "It's in a hangar bay in a lab in the city."

Nicole didn't make a noise, once again another truth from the prisoner.

"In that case, that's all we needed to know." said Sally, "Thank you ever so much for your time Rai. When the Dark Armada is defeated, I'll be sure to give Conquering Storm your regards."

Rai leaped onto his feet in rage but Sally was ready for him. She already had her wristbands clipper around her wrists and she quickly activated her energy blade. Rai hesitated as Sally held it to his throat.

"Ah, ah, ah." she said tauntingly, "It's rude to threaten the queen you know. Sit. Down."

"Or you'll answer to me!" growled Sonic, "Nobody threatens the queen like that!"

Rai sat back down on the floor, his face contorting with rage. Smirking confidently, Sally sheathed her blades and walked out of the cell. Sonic shot a death glare at Rai before leaving the cell and closing the door behind him. As the door closed, Rai sighed loudly in annoyance. He had to break out of this puny cell and he had to warn the armada on what he'd been forced into revealing. But then he remembered that Finitevus had an agent on the loose. Maybe the agent would find out what Sonic and Sally had been told and report it Finitevus. And maybe even break him out. The Royal Fighters hadn't won yet, not by a long shot...

As for Sonic and Sally, they walked through the corridors of the Sky Patrol and headed for the exit. As they were walking, Sonic looked over at his girlfriend.

"Well Sal, I didn't know you could be so ruthless." he snickered.

"I had to be, it was the only way Rai would talk." said Sally grimly, "I absolutely HATED doing that though. It made me feel as bad as Eggman. I'm better than he is, I'm no villain."

"I know hot-stuff, you're nothing like that." said Sonic reassuringly, "But you have to be ruthless sometimes, especially for a cause like this. So, got a plan now from the info Rai's given us?"

"Yes." said Sally brightly, "We'll send Blaze over to Megapolis. She'll use her Sol Emeralds to destroy The Nefarious and then get Tails back. Then she can destroy his "Synthetic Chaos Energy" thing as well. I know Rai doesn't know who Enerjak is and both he and Scourge seem to think Finitevus's plan isn't about Enerjak but I still think it is. The Synthetic Chaos Energy sounds like the kind of thing that could resurrect Enerjak. He is a Chaos Demi-God remember?"

"Yeah and Rai says Finitevus is using the energy to make Chaos Emeralds." murmured Sonic, "He has to be using the synthetic emeralds to resurrect Enerjak...or become Enerjak himself. After all, the book that Silver has describes Enerjak's appearance in a way that matches Finitevus."

"Yes...so Rai and Scourge don't know what the plan's really about...unless Enerjak is about fulfilling the desires of the armada's members." suggested Sally, "But Enerjak ends up dooming the world...so Finitevus's plan must be about destroying the world, not what the armada thinks."

"Well good luck with convincing them that's the case." sighed Sonic, "Oh well, we can stop the armada now. Your plan's fool proof. It can't possibly fail."

"Thanks Sonic." said Sally appreciatively, "Now to bring the news to the Royal Fighters and put the plan into action. I hope it works."

"Me too Sal, me too." said Sonic, nodding agreeably.

The two left the Sky Patrol and headed off back to New Mobotropolis. But unbeknownst to them, they had been spied on once again! Finitevus's agent had been on the Sky Patrol and had been outside the cell, listening to the entire conversation! The agent had left the moment Sally had said "In that case, that's all we need to know" and was now hiding behind the ship itself, contacting Finitevus and whispering into a communication device it was wearing. Once again, Finitevus would be prepared for the Royal Fighters's next move...

"How is the Synthetic Chaos Energy coming along Mecha Tails?" asked Dr. Finitevus curiously.

The very thought of his precious formula being flawed still burned in the back of his mind and he hoped dearly that the formula was right this time. Earlier this very day, he had consulted Mecha Tails about the Synthetic Chaos Energy formula and was disappointed to hear it was flawed. Mecha Tails's analysis had come up with the idea that the formula was too negative in nature and could be uncontrollable so Finitevus had tried finding more items that would likely become positive Chaos Energy. He had the Pagoda of Prosperity's robbed items courtesy of Team Diamond and as punishment for failing to get rid of Team Chun-Nan, Finitevus hadn't kept his promise of them keeping half of the riches and had kept them all himself. He also had two hover-carts full of golden nuggets that he had nicked fresh from the GoldenCaverns, one from Roxy herself that had been left there for a whole year after she had been kidnapped by him and one from Rouge who had been mining the precious nuggets earlier with Shadow and had abandoned them to find Dark and Kiara. He'd given them to Mecha Tails and Mecha Tails had quickly converted them into Chaos Energy along with all the other items that they had stolen to use for the formula.

Mecha Tails was sitting at a table and staring at a giant canister of green liquid. This was the Synthetic Chaos Energy. It looked like green goo but this one canister full of green goo contained the power to evenly match the Chaos Emeralds themselves. A couple of canisters of the liquid would easily match the Master Emerald's power. The canister was connected to a screen and the screen was running a diagnostic scan on the contents inside. The scan completed in a matter of seconds and Mecha Tails observed the results. He looked grave as the results flashed on the screen.

"I'm very sorry master…but it's still flawed." he said disappointedly.

"What do you mean it's still flawed?!" growled Finitevus, "I gave you all those items to make the formula more positive to balance out the negative! How is it still flawed?!"

"You are so obtuse master." scoffed Mecha Tails cheekily, "Now the formula is TOO positive. You had too many positive items given to me."

"Why does that make it flawed then?" asked Finitevus.

"Because if you use a very positive Synthetic Chaos Energy formula, you will not be as powerful as before." explained Mecha Tails, "Plus…Enerjak is negative Chaos Energy. If you want to become Enerjak, you can't be too positive. It violently clashes with the negative Chaos Energy that makes Enerjak who he is. Have too much positive Chaos Energy, you won't become Enerjak. He wouldn't accept you as his host. It is compulsory that we have more Dark Chaos Energy."

"But I've given as much I possibly dared to!" protested Finitevus, "If I give away anymore, I'll start losing my battle prowess! I'll be weaker!"

"Then that's a problem you'll have to fix yourself." said Mecha Tails grimly, "Either get some items that are more of a negative nature or try and create some more Dark Chaos Energy."

"Or better yet, we remove some of the positive Chaos Energy." suggested Finitevus, "We have too much in, we should just get rid of it."

"Negative, you'll remove some of the Dark Chaos Energy too now it's all been mixed together." said Mecha Tails, shaking his metal head sadly.

"Then I guess we need to hunt for more items…" mused Finitevus, "Good thing that The Nefarious is nearly ready for flying again. Just five minutes left and we can take off."

"I suggest Black Acropolis is a good place to look for an item that will produce Dark Chaos Energy." said Mecha Tails helpfully, "The lava will not be very positive when mixed with Chaos Energy…"

Mecha Tails was suddenly interrupted by Finitevus jumping in his seat in alarm and putting his fingers to his ear.

"What is it?!" he snarled, his tone then changing quickly when he realized who it was, "Oh it's you my wonderful agent! Yes…yes… hmm…interesting…aha…they're planning what? Hmm…that is most disturbing…yes…yes…thank you. Goodbye."

He took his fingers away from his ear and smiled wickedly at Mecha Tails. He had been called by his mysterious agent and he had been delighted to hear what he had been told.

"I think we're about to get some more Chaos Energy for our formula…this one with a fiery twist." he purred sinisterly to his roboticized slave…

Footnotes:

She is of course, talking about "The Terror of Enerjak"

* Mandy was betrayed by General Bostock in *Sonic the

Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 1: The Malicious Metropolis Masquerade

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Raccoon on the Run

Gee, it's like the Royal Fighters can't win against Finitevus no matter what! Once again, he's a step ahead of them! But does that mean he'll win again?

Tune in next time for* Operation: Blaze *and believe me, the fur REALLY flies next time...

Dark Armada Part 10: Operation: Blaze

Story 210: Operation: Blaze

The Dark Armada Chapter 10 of 25

"Well then Geoffrey St. John, I suppose you have something to say to us?" asked Mandy Mouse in a voice so cold that even Blizzard the Ice Witch would have shivered.

Geoffrey just trudged slowly out of the rest room with his hands behind his back and a sad, gloomy look on his handsome face. He looked terribly guilt-ridden and he had every right to feel this way.

The Royal Fighters were currently in a war against the Dark Armada, a group of villains formulated by Dr. Finitevus himself and in order to match the armada's strength, Sonic the Hedgehog and Sally Acorn had recently gone out around Mobius to recruit the other Royal Fighter teams so they had more Royal Fighters to join in with the war. Sadly, the whole mission hadn't gone without problems and one Royal Fighter had been lost before Sonic could reach him. The armada was consistently a step ahead of Sonic and his friends thanks to a mysterious agent spying on them and working for Finitevus. Geoffrey St. John the Skunk, a Royal Fighter with occasional trust issues and over-baring suspicions the moment anything out of the norm happened, had accused some of Sonic's friends of being the agent from Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas to Espio the Chameleon to Sora Prower and even Cosmo the Seedrian. After sending Cosmo out of the room in tears, the team had scorned Geoffrey for his behaviour and the skunk felt nothing but regret for accusing his friends like this, and even making poor Cosmo cry. So after having a moment to himself to think about his actions, Geoffrey had decided to come out of the room and apologize to everybody. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters all stared at him icily as Geoffrey looked back at them guiltily.

"Hi mates…" he murmured, "Listen…I'm dreadfully sorry about my behaviour. I really, REALLY am. I feel bad that I accused my own mates of working for Finitevus and I really am sorry that I did so. Especially for making Cosmo cry. I'm just so desperate to find out who this agent is that I'm getting a bit…over edgy I guess. Please mates…can you forgive me?"

He looked down at his feet in shame as if expecting them to say no and start chastising him some more. The Royal Fighters looked like they were going to do this, all of them with rather cold and stern expressions. But then Bunnie Rabboh, Geoffrey's beautiful girlfriend and former cyborg, stood forward and put her hands on Geoffrey's shoulders, looking lovingly into his eyes.

"Ah forgive ya sugah." she said sweetly, "Ah understand why ya'll did what ya did. And besides, we're only Mobian after all. We ain't perfect, we all make mistakes."

"Indeed so." said Ruben the Water Panther, standing forward, "And while I'm still mad you dared to accuse my girlfriend, I'm willing to forgive you too. Apologies like that is very honourable and I very much approve of you having the honour to apologize to us all like that."

"Aw cheers babe, cheers Ruben." said Geoffrey, hugging Bunnie delightedly and looking at Ruben, "How about the rest of you?"

"I think we'll let it be water under the bridge." said Wilson the Dog brightly, "If we're to defeat the Dark Armada, we need to be united, we won't achieve that by being angry at each other."

"Indeed so." agreed Mandy, "Though I wonder if Cosmo will forgive you so easily Geoffrey, you did hurt her very badly."

Then suddenly, right on cue, Cosmo suddenly walked back into Royal HQ and walked into the corridor where the others were standing. In order to keep herself to herself, she had left Royal HQ to let out all her grief and to save anybody else the pain of having to watch her cry. She seemed to have stopped now although she looked a little gloomy, her face the embodiment of misery and her eyes red from crying so much. Cream the Rabbit was quick to pick up on that. She ran over to Cosmo and hugged her gently.

"Are you feeling better Cosmo?" asked Cream worriedly.

"I'm fine Cream, a good cry was all I needed…" murmured Cosmo, "I'm still so disgusted that Geoffrey accused me…"

"Well Geoffrey's come and apologized to us Cosmo so I think he's about ready to apologize to you too Cosmo." said Amy Rose softly, "Isn't that right Geoffrey?"

Cosmo looked up at Geoffrey, the skunk looking back down on her. Geoffrey knelt down to Cosmo's height and he put a hand on the Seedrian's shoulders. Cosmo could see that Geoffrey looked very sorry for what he did from the sad expression on his face.

"Cosmo…I really am sorry I accused you." said Geoffrey apologetically, "I should have known better. It's bad enough that you're still hurting over Tails being Finitevus's robo-minion, I shouldn't have poured more grief on you. I was wrong to do this and I really am sorry I did that. Are we friends again?"

Cosmo took in Geoffrey's apology for the minute before making her decision. She then smiled sweetly and hugged Geoffrey tenderly.

"Yes we are. Thank you for apologizing Mr. St. John." said Cosmo happily.

Geoffrey glowed. He was happy that his friends had forgiven him despite pointing accusing fingers at them earlier. He truly felt honoured to have such good friends to be around in this service. Geoffrey hugged Cosmo back, earning a chorus of awe from the Royal Fighters. To them, it really was a sweet, heart warming scene.

"Thank you Cosmo." said Geoffrey kindly, "Thank you everybody for forgiving me. I couldn't ask for a better group of friends."

"Indeed." said Knuckles, "Now that we've all made up, we just wait for Sonic and Sally to return from their interrogation with Rai."

"I really do consider it fortunate that we even got a member of the armada in our clutches." said Shade, "It would have been more satisfying if it had been Finitevus himself but experience has taught me that Finitevus is NEVER easy to catch."

"It'll be a bloomin' miracle if we even lay a finger on him." muttered Mandy crossly, "Him and his stupid warp rings…"

"What I wouldn't give to pry them all from his scrawny little limbs." grumbled Vector the Crocodile, "That'll make him easier to catch."

"Not really given how fast and powerful he is." mused Espio the Chameleon, "The only way we'd ever catch him is if we caught him by surprise."

"Hey everybody, Sonic and Sally have returned." announced Mace the Elephant suddenly.

The entire team turned around and saw that indeed, Sonic the Hedgehog and Queen Sally Acorn had returned to Royal HQ. They had been on the Sky Patrol interrogating a captured Dàfeng Rai and had now just come back. They looked quite pleased with themselves. The Royal Fighters picked up on this immediately, they must be in for some good news, something that they really needed to hear given all the hard times they were dealing with currently.

"Hey cousin, how'd it go?" asked Abby the Squirrel curiously.

"Surprisingly well Abby." replied Sally brightly, "All I had to do was threaten to amputate Rai's limbs and he cracked like an egg. That and Nicole's brilliant lie detector feature really helped us find out some very useful information from him."

"The Nefarious is in Megapolis City, hiding in a hangar bay that's part of some lab he says." explained Sonic, "And also Finitevus's big plan is about making Synthetic Chaos Emeralds. He plans to do this by making Synthetic Chaos Energy."

The Royal Fighters murmured in unison amongst each other.

"Synthetic...Chaos Energy?" asked Knuckles, "You mean my treacherous uncle is pretty much making custom Chaos Emeralds? What on Mobius is he doing that for?"

"According to Rai, their big scheme's codenamed "Operation: Villains Rising" and it's about fulfilling the desires of each armada member." replied Sonic, "Though knowing Finitevus, I doubt that he'll keep that promise to his own team. He did kill Eggman remember?"

"So...nothing to do with Enerjak then?" asked Silver the Hedgehog, a future dweller and on a mission to save Mobius from a bad future.

"Rai claims not to know about Enerjak and that the plan's about the armada rather than Enerjak." explained Sally, "But I remember how Finitevus tried to drain Sonic, Knuckles and Shadow dry of Chaos Energy so he could become Enerjak. Now he's making Synthetic Chaos Energy...I dunno, I have a feeling that Finitevus is manipulating the armada and they have no idea what they're really doing."

"Why would they care?" snapped Amy, "They're evil, Enerjak's evil so Enerjak would be the kind of thing they'd want to conquer the world with. Maybe Enerjak's all about fulfilling the desires of the armada?"

"But he destroys the world..." noted Blaze the Cat, another future dweller and Silver's girlfriend, "Surely the armada doesn't want to destroy the world?"

"No they don't." answered Nicole, her holographic avatar materializing out of thin air and standing beside Sally, "Scourge and Fiona want to rule the world, Zira and Conquering Storm want to rule Chun-Nan, Lord Sycorax wants to erase all politics, Ravage just wants to destroy Adabat and eat all of us, Team Diamond just want to be rich, Captain Metal just wants you dead Blaze, Cutthroat Jim...I'm not sure what he wants. Maybe revenge for being marooned. Raphael, from what Dark and Kiara tell us, wants to make everybody a cyborg. So Enerjak destroying the world goes against what their motivations are."

"Maybe Finitevus becomes Enerjak and goes crazy and destroys the world?" suggested Sora Prower, the super spy sister of the still enslaved Tails, "Maybe Enerjak destroying the world is nothing more than a freak accident on the Dark Armada's part. Or maybe that's what Finitevus wants to do full stop."

"Whatever he's planning, we're going to stop it and I have a foolproof plan." announced Sally, "Blaze will go over to Megapolis and once The Nefarious either takes off or is found before it can do so, Blaze will use her Sol Emeralds to destroy the ship, get Tails back and even destroy the Synthetic Chaos Energy. The armada will be crippled and we will be victorious at last."

"Well I'm honoured that you're giving me this responsibility your majesty." said Blaze, bowing politely to Sally, "Thank you. Though I do risk losing my emeralds to the armada. I'll make sure that I don't lose them in this mission."

"I very much doubt that you will Blaze." said Sally reassuringly, smiling brightly at the fire cat, "If you just turn super right before you attack The Nefarious, the armada won't have a chance of getting your emeralds."

Blaze had to admit that Sally was right. The armada would have no chance of getting the Sol Emeralds from her if she was to turn into Burning Blaze before even jumping into battle. Sally was right to say that the plan was fool-proof, it couldn't possibly fail. Blaze smiled confidently at Sally.

"I think I agree with you." she said brightly, "The armada won't get my emeralds once I'm Burning Blaze. Even if Scourge uses the Chaos Emeralds to turn super, I'll still destroy the ship. Maybe I could even trick him into helping me with that."

"Sounds like a good idea Blaze." said Sonic approvingly, "Hey and maybe you could retrieve the emeralds as well as Tails when you tear that vessel apart." he suggested with a wink.

"I shall see to it that the Chaos Emeralds are retrieved too." declared Blaze, "Wish me luck over in Megapolis...not that I really need it."

"As far as I'm concerned Blaze, you've pretty much got this mission in the bag." said Silver supportively, hugging the beautiful fire cat, "You can't possibly fail. I'll see you when you get back."

"See you later Silver." said Blaze, kissing him on the cheek affectionately "I'll be back soon everybody. With the armada's ship in ruins and some very valuable items and a very valuable comrade returned to you all."

The Royal Fighters all waved goodbye to Blaze as she used her Sol Emeralds to warp out of Royal HQ in a tornado of flames. The dazzling display caused many of them to shield their eyes from the brightness of the flames and stay well back so the flames wouldn't burn. After the teleportation had ended, the Royal Fighters unshielded their eyes and stood still for a moment, allowing a tense silence to fall upon Royal HQ. Now they would wait, wait for Blaze to return to Royal HQ with good news to give. Sonic could already feel himself tingling with excitement. Tails would be saved and the armada would be crippled. No ship for them to fly around in and hide in anymore. And Finitevus's beautiful plan would fail spectacularly since Blaze was going to destroy the Synthetic Chaos Energy, thus Enerjak would never come to be. Mobius would be saved and the future would be glorious, just right for Silver and Blaze. Sonic began to feel uncomfortable with the silence so he turned to face the others.

"So, what happened while me and Sally were on the Sky Patrol?" he asked curiously...

Meanwhile, The Nefarious was ready to launch. It had been damaged and had been stuck on the ground since yesterday but thanks to some rather prodigious repair work, the ship was fully repaired and waiting to take flight. Bunnie Rabboh had been the one to damage the ship with the aid of Geoffrey's arm-mounted crossbow and some exploding darts. But the damage had been repaired. The left side of the ship was no longer a massive hole, the circuitry was fixed and functional and the ship was capable of flying again. Such thoughts were swimming around Dr. Finitevus's mind like goldfish in a bowl as he walked down the corridor and headed towards Captain Metal's dorm room. Yesterday he had requested for Captain Metal to make something that could deal with Blaze the Cat after she had managed to give Super Scourge a tough time thanks to her Sol Emeralds. Finitevus wasn't going to allow Blaze to be able to turn super like this, she had the potential to end the armada here and now because of it. So he'd asked Captain Metal to make something that would deal with her. He entered the pirate Metal Sonic's dorm room and greeted him enthusiastically. Captain Metal stood to attention and greeted Finitevus.

"Matey!" he cried happily.

"So Captain Metal, did we make something that can deal with a certain pyrokinetic feline and make the armada happy?" asked Finitevus in a faux, sweet tone of voice that seemed very awkward coming from somebody as cruel and sadistic as himself.

"Aye captain, I sure did make something that can deal with Blaze Tharr Cat!" announced Captain Metal excitedly, "Behold, me greatest invention!"

He turned around and picked something up from his working desk. Being a robot, he didn't need a bed to sleep on so instead of a bed, he had a steel desk that he used to create new weapons or whatever he could make on it. After cutting Scourge's arm off and tearing his eye out for failing yesterday, he'd gotten to work on making something that would guaranteed a victory over Blaze the Cat. This was a great privilege for Captain Metal since Blaze had humiliated him twice already and he wanted nothing more than to make Blaze pay for her crimes against him. He showed Finitevus his new invention, holding it with his one hand and supporting the end of it with his gun arm underneath. It was a huge cannon shaped weapon with a handle at the back and a handle on the top. It looked very big and heavy and Finitevus stared at it in wonder.

"Um...what's a laser cannon going to do to deal with Blaze?" he asked, "She'll be invincible as Burning Blaze, that won't stop her."

"That be where yer wrong me heartie." said Captain Metal matter-of-factly, "Fetch me a Chaos Emerald and I'll demonstrate it for ye."

Finitevus shrugged, wondering why he shouldn't do something like this so he opened up a warp ring and reached through it. The warp ring was opened up to there the Chaos Emeralds and Master Emerald were being held. This room was so secret that only the armada knew where it was and it was hidden in such a way that nobody would find it for the door of the room looked like the wall outside and there were no buttons to open it. Only through a warp ring or by voice command from Finitevus himself would allow anyone access inside the room. Finitevus grabbed a Chaos Emerald and took his hand back out of the warp ring. He had picked the blue Chaos Emerald, fitting for Captain Metal to test his weapon on for the main enemy, Sonic, was blue too. Finitevus held the Chaos Emerald out and Captain Metal aimed the cannon at it. He pulled the trigger with his metal claws and a brilliant blast fired out of the cannon's barrel. It struck the Chaos Emerald and then something amazing begin to happen. Blue swirls were beginning to feed out of the Chaos Emerald and into the cannon itself as if the cannon was draining it dry of the energy contained inside it. Finitevus gasped in surprise and let go of the Chaos Emerald. It was like watching somebody get all the blood in his body drained out of them. The cannon kept up until the Chaos Emerald eventually went a dull grey colour and fell to the ground with a clatter. No energy left in it whatsoever, it was all inside the cannon. Finitevus picked up the power-drained Chaos Emerald and jaw-dropped.

"A...Amazing...w...what is that weapon?!" he gasped.

"It be an invention of me universe's Dr. Eggman." explained Captain Metal, "He calls it tharr "Chaos Drainer". A Chaos Drainer is a most amazing weapon, effortlessly able to power drain any Chaos Emerald in tharr multiverse dry in seconds! All its energy be stored inside tharr drainer itself! Isn't it amazing me heartie?!"

"Yes...quite..." stammered Finitevus. The first time in his life, he had been shocked at something other than his experiences inside the void a while back. He'd never seen anything so amazing.

"And tharr best part is tharr Chaos Drainer can put the Chaos Energy back in case ye want to use tharr emeralds for yerself." announced Captain Metal, "Watch..."

He then aimed the Chaos Drainer at the power drained Chaos Emerald, Finitevus still holding onto it as he did so. He turned a dial on one side of the weapon and he pulled the trigger. The Chaos Drainer fired a beam at the Chaos Emerald but instead of something coming out of it, something came IN to it. Blue swirls of energy began to feed back into the Chaos Emerald. As this happened, the Chaos Emerald began to glow again, getting brighter and brighter until finally, all the energy was back in the emerald and its glow was back to normal. Finitevus could only stare incredulously at the great weapon Captain Metal held in his hands and then back at the Chaos Emerald.

"Very impressive...how fortuitous indeed that I have a Metal Sonic on my team..." he mused to himself, "So I suppose you plan to use this on Blaze?"

"Y'aaargh! That be EXACTLY what I be plannin' ta do!" bellowed Captain Metal excitedly, "Ye wanted me ta make something that would deal with her and her emeralds and that be just what I be doing! I made this Chaos Drainer ta drain her emeralds dry of their powers! It'll work on ANYTHING Chaos powered, even tharr Sol Emeralds! And then once I power drain her emeralds, I will let ye use it fer yer Synthetic Chaos Energy. I bet it'll be very useful."

"Thanks very much Captain Metal." purred Finitevus, putting the Chaos Emerald back in the hidden room via warp ring, "Now then, my agent tells me Blaze will be on her way to destroy The Nefarious and will use her Sol Emeralds to do the task."

"I know, ye announced it five minutes ago." noted Captain Metal, "I have Cutthroat Jim on the lookout, waiting to give me tharr warning that she be here ta destroy our ship."

Just as he finished that sentence, he ended up receiving a call on a communications device he had lying on his work desk. He turned his head and looked at the communicator.

"Shiver me timbers Captain Metal! Blaze is here!" Cutthroat Jim cried frantically on the other side of the communicator.

"Then it be time to spring into action..." declared Captain Metal delightedly, "Keep her busy Jim me lad, I'll be right with ye."

"Aye, aye sir!" replied the pirate hyena gleefully.

The communicator switched off and Captain Metal looked at Dr. Finitevus.

"Time ta give ye some more Chaos Energy for yer formula matey..."

he purred delightedly as Finitevus passed him a warp ring...

Up above, Blaze the Cat arrived in the City of Megapolis in a whoosh of flames. As her teleportation was completed, Blaze put the Sol Emeralds away and had a look around. She'd never seen MegapolisCity before. In her time, MegapolisCity was nothing but ruins and rubble with no buildings intact at all, not even slightly. In any other case, Blaze would be taking the sweet time to observe this city that no longer existed in her timeline thanks to Enerjak's apocalypse. But now, she had to make sure that this city would exist in the future and that meant stopping the Dark Armada and destroying the Synthetic Chaos Energy. Once she did that, Enerjak would never rise and Mobius would never end. It made Blaze feel privileged that as of this moment, she would be saving Tails from being a roboticized minion for Finitevus any longer and she'd also be saving Mobius by stopping the Dark Armada from commencing with its plan. But Blaze began to feel a worrying tingle in her gut. What if the armada WASN'T responsible for Enerjak? Would she and Silver be going around in circles once again? Blaze shook her head, she couldn't be pessimistic. She had to think about the mission and all the good it would bring. The Chaos Emeralds would be out the armada's reach, Tails would be reunited with his friends and the armada wouldn't have a ship to fly with anymore. This mission would stop Enerjak from rising, it would save the world. Blaze felt the worrying feeling fade away as she forced herself to think positively. Now she was focused, she walked towards MegapolisCity. It was a grand looking city with very modern looking buildings and perfectly made roads with no bumps or potholes or even cracks in them. The city was having a slow day, very little cars actually driving around on the roads at this moment. Blaze took it all in sadly, thinking that soon, this very year, it would all be gone unless she succeeded in her mission.

"Such a wonderful past Mobius has…and hopefully the future can be just as wonderful." she mused under her breath.

She stopped walking towards the city as she suddenly saw something in the corner of her eye. What was it? Blaze turned her head to one side and saw something nearby. There was a hyena dressed in a purple long coat and a French cocked hat. He was waving a cutlass in the air like a lunatic, the silver, curved blade shining in the sunlight that shone from up in the sky. Who on Mobius was that crazy hyena? Blaze had a feeling she wasn't going to like him very much and she was very tempted to just ignore him and walk along some more but Blaze had a feeling that the hyena was trying to call her. Maybe he wanted something. Maybe he could help her find the lab The Nefarious was hiding in. Rai hadn't been very specific to Sonic and Sally when he told them it was hiding in a hangar bay to some lab so maybe this stranger could give her a few pointers. Blaze ran over to the cutlass wielding canine and stopped just before him. Now closer to him, Blaze could see that the hyena had a pretty mean look on him, the look that suggested anybody who met him was in deep trouble. She began regretting coming towards him but now she was here, she supposed she could see what he wanted.

"Hello sir, what are you waving your cutlass around for?" she asked, "Did you want me or something?"

"Aye lassie I did!" cried Cutthroat Jim gleefully, "I wanted ye over here so that I could cut off yer head and give it ta Captain Metal!"

Blaze reacted immediately. She summoned fire to her hands and adopted a battle-ready stance, itching for a fight with the stranger before her.

"Captain Metal?!" she snarled, "You're working for him! You've set me up for a trap! Well let me tell you pirate filth…you've just signed your death warrant!"

"Have I really me beautiful little mermaid?" sneered Jim confidently, "Then I suppose this be a fight to tharr death then?!"

"If you're working for that scum Captain Metal then yes!" growled Blaze.

"Captain Metal be no scum lassie! He be a great pirate captain he be!" declared Cutthroat Jim in a tone that made him sound like he was stating his opinion as a fact, "He actually rescued me after Sonic and his friends marooned me on Cocoa Island*! I owe him much fer rescuing me, I really do! And I'll cut off yer head fer insulting him ya fiery wretch!"

"Pray I don't fry your head to a crisp first…" replied Blaze coldly.

"That will not be happenin' today sweetheart!" the hyena pirate declared, "Ye know, it be a shame Captain Metal ordered me ta kill ya…yer a beautiful little lass ye are. Ye'd do fine as me first mate… and I mean that in more ways than one." he added with a mischievous chuckle and a sly smile spreading out on his furry lips.

"Maybe I should arrange a date for us…in the afterlife." snorted Blaze.

The whole thing was nothing more than a method of distraction. Cutthroat Jim wasn't meant to fight Blaze, he was meant to keep her busy while Captain Metal showed up onto the scene. Right on cue, before any fighting could start, Captain Metal appeared behind Blaze via a warp ring given to him by Dr. Finitevus. He had the Chaos Drainer with him, the back handle held tightly in his left hand and the barrel of the cannon balanced atop his gun arm. He aimed it directly at Blaze but the fire cat spun around on her heels and saw him. She gasped in horror at the sight of the huge cannon in his hands and was about to react but Captain Metal quickly shot her with it. Blaze gasped but to her surprise, the shot wasn't hurting her. It struck her directly in the chest but she couldn't feel anything happening. But she saw something happening instead. Trails of energy and fire were coming out from her body and snaking their way into the Chaos Drainer. Blaze wasn't sure what was happening but she knew that it couldn't be good. Captain Metal never built good things so the weapon he had had to be bad. Blaze tried to run away from Captain Metal but her body wouldn't obey her mind. The shot had fixed her firmly to the spot. She was unable to move and unable to do anything about Captain Metal. She could only stand and stare as the Chaos Drainer did its work. The cannon eventually finished draining the energy it was draining and Blaze was now free to move again. She gasped for breath for her body had become so still, her breathing had become a bit stiff. Once she got the air back into her lungs, Blaze summoned fire to her hands and growled menacingly.

"OK Captain Metal, what did you just do to me?!" snarled Blaze,

"Nothing much it seems…I don't feel any different."

"That be where yer wrong me dear." said Captain Metal smoothly, "Try using yer Sol Emeralds on me. I dare ye."

Blaze didn't stop to think, she immediately whipped out the Sol Emeralds and prepared to become Burning Blaze. Only there was something dreadfully wrong. Blaze held the Sol Emeralds in front of her but much to her horror, they didn't float above her. They didn't even glow. They remained in her hands, power-drained and useless to her. They were nothing more than gemstones, no value of any kind and nothing to power up with. Blaze let out a horrified gasp and she dropped the Sol Emeralds in shock.

"You monster! You drained them all! You drained all my Sol Emeralds!" she roared, her hands flaming wildly with rage as if corresponding to the anger in her eyes.

"Yes I did lassie." crowed Captain Metal, "Now ye won't be destroyin' tharr Nefarious and rescuing Tails and destroyin' Finitevus's Synthetic Chaos Energy. No indeed."

"What?! How did you know about that?!" shrieked Blaze, "Wait… Finitevus's agent…it's stricken again! But how?!"

"Do not ask me lassie, even I do not know who Finitevus's agent is." snorted Captain Metal, "Even if I did I wouldn't tell ye. All ye need to know is ye'll never get tharr drop on us."

"Maybe not…but I'll still use my Sol Emeralds to destroy you…" growled Blaze, "I'll snatch that weapon from you, break it open and use the power you've drained to become Burning Blaze. And then you will BURN!"

She was about to fight Captain Metal but Cutthroat Jim was quick to react. He had sneaked up behind Blaze while she was talking to Captain Metal and he walloped her in the head with the hilt of his cutlass before she could make a move. Blaze cried out in pain and collapsed onto the ground, not unconscious but very much with her head swimming and her senses very disorientated. Blaze gripped her head in pain, wondering what had hit her. Now she was down, Captain Metal threw down the Chaos Drainer, grabbed her by the neck and hoisted her up off her feet. He closed his grip around her neck tightly, denying her lungs any access to air. Blaze gagged loudly and tried to make Captain Metal let her go but the evil robot pirate had a very strong grip. It was pointless to kick him since he couldn't feel pain anymore and fire wouldn't make him let go either. She was stuck, doomed to suffocate to death at the hands of Captain Metal. While she was being strangled, Captain Metal took the opportunity to stomp on the power-drained Sol Emeralds, smashing them to pieces instantly. Blaze let out a throttled cry of despair as Captain Metal smashed the Sol Emeralds. If she destroy the Chaos Drainer, she wouldn't be able to put the power back into the Sol Emeralds. The power would have nowhere to go now. With his enemy's precious emeralds destroyed, Captain Metal looked at Cutthroat Jim delightedly.

"Well done matey!" he praised, "Ye will make a fine ship mate ye will!"

"Thank you captain." said Cutthroat Jim with pleasure, "So what will we do with tharr lass now?"

"I be very tempted to kill her here and now…" suggested Captain Metal, strangling Blaze a little harder and making the cat cry out a strangled cry of pain, "…but at tharr same time, death be too merciful fer her. Maybe she could be a test subject fer Finitevus's Synthetic Chaos Energy."

"Ack…don't…you…gack…dare!" croaked Blaze desperately, holding Captain Metal's wrist tightly as he continued to throttle her.

"But my dear Blaze, we need to test tharr formula or else we won't be knowing if it'll work will we?" replied Captain Metal in a faux tone of shock at his fiery nemesis's quote, "Ye have tharr honour of bein' our test subject! Once we know it works, we'll be ready ta use it to bring tharr armada ta victory!"

"A pity really, I would love to keep her as me pet slave I would." muttered Cutthroat Jim.

"Well too bad, tharr lass is mine and I decide what we do ta her."

declared Captain Metal, "And I say she be used as a test subject for tharr formula! Use me warp ring ta get us into tharr Nefarious's laboratory. I'm afraid me hand be full at tharr moment." he ordered, "And don't forget me Chaos Drainer too."

The hyena did as he was told. Captain Metal had the warp ring draped over one of the bolts on his hat having put it there before using the Chaos Drainer on Blaze. Jim took the warp ring and opened it up. The warp ring led to The Nefarious's laboratory, right where the Synthetic Chaos Energy was kept. Captain Metal carried Blaze through the warp ring, still strangling her as he did so. His pirate assistant picked up the Chaos Drainer, surprised at how heavy it was in his hands, and he followed his saviour through the warp ring. All that was left behind were the shattered remains of the power-drained Sol Emeralds…

Onboard The Nefarious , everybody was preparing for take off. The Nefarious 's repairs were completely done now so up on the bridge, Finitevus gave the order for take-off and commanded everybody to brace themselves for the ascendance into the sky. The Nefarious's computer pilot registered Finitevus's take-off order and set the ship into motion. The malevolent vessel began to whirr into life as the engines ignited and the systems started up. The Nefarious prepared to raise up off the floor of the hangar bay and back up into the outside world that it had become familiar with over the one year Finitevus had been hiding aboard it before making his move. The hangar bay doors opened up and The Nefarious began to rise slowly up off the floor, making a terrific noise as it did so. It was like a dragon that had been asleep in its cave for hundreds of years, getting up, roaring and flying again for the first time in years. The "eyes" of The Nefarious glowed eerily and the engines roared with life. With the doors fully open, The Nefarious ascended up out of the hangar bay and climbed up into the sky.

The take-off was felt all over the ship, even in The Nefarious's laboratory, a low rumbling feeling in the floors that was felt in the feet of anybody standing on it. The ship would soon have a smoother flight as it carried on into the sky. In the laboratory, Captain Metal and Cutthroat Jim just carelessly dumped Blaze onto the floor against the wall. The fire cat began coughing violently, relieved that Captain Metal had let go of her neck at last. She fought to get the air back into her lungs as Cutthroat Jim pointed his cutlass at her chest. Blaze looked up and stared at Jim as the pirate prepared to run her through with the sharp, curved blade he now pointed at her. She could felt the cold steel just above her left breast, aimed straight at her heart. She didn't dare move in fear of being impaled by the sword. She remained sat at the wall, staring helplessly up at Cutthroat Jim.

"Stand up, back against the wall and hands by yer sides!" growled Jim viciously, "Otherwise I will run ye through and I'd much rather not harm such a lovely looking lady like yerself!"

Blaze complied, getting slowly up to her feet but keeping her back firmly pressed against the wall and her hands firmly kept by her side. She narrowed her eyes at Cutthroat Jim angrily as if trying to scare him into backing down. But the pirate kept the tip of his cutlass blade pressed firmly against Blaze's chest. His arm remained outstretched and Blaze could feel the pressure he was applying on the blade. It wasn't enough to impale, but it was enough to prod and it was slightly hurting her a she was doing it. This was just enough to keep the cat from trying anything to get away. One wrong move and her heart ended up skewered like a kebab. Blaze forced herself to keep still as Cutthroat Jim kept his steely gaze fitted on her.

"And don't let me catch ye so much as lighting any fires either!" growled Cutthroat Jim, "One wrong move and yer dead!"

Blaze complied, not daring to so much as set one of her fingertips alight. She kept very still, scarcely daring to move.

"So…why use me as a test subject?" asked Blaze curiously, "Why not just kill me?"

"Believe me lassie, we're still holding onto that option and if this test goes horribly wrong, we will be forced ta put ye down." Captain Metal warned her threateningly, "Now be quiet!"

Blaze kept her mouth firmly closed as Captain Metal raised the Chaos Drainer and pointed it at a canister full of green liquid. He was standing at the work desk, where the Synthetic Chaos Energy was being kept. Blaze could just see over Cutthroat Jim's shoulder the canister of green liquid that she had come to destroy. There it was, Synthetic Chaos Energy, the very thing that would very likely bring Enerjak into existence. Sally spoke of how Finitevus had attempted to drain Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles dry of Chaos Energy to become Enerjak. There could be no other reason for Finitevus to be making Synthetic Chaos Energy, it had to be for Enerjak. And Blaze had to destroy it so Enerjak wouldn't exist and the world wouldn't end this year. But she was caught between the wall and Cutthroat Jim's sword. She had to wait for an opening to present itself before she could make any moves. She watched with loathing as Captain Metal opened the canister and poured the Sol Emerald's energy into it, mixing up the fiery hot energy in with the Chaos Energy inside the canister. The canister filled up some more, reaching the very top as the Chaos Drainer emptied its components inside. Captain Metal then put the Chaos Drainer down on the desk and he closed the canister. He picked it up and swirled it around to mix up the Sol Emerald's energy with the Synthetic Chaos Energy. The liquid began to turn into a reddish green colour, presumably from the fire of the Sol Emeralds.

Blaze dreaded to think what would happen if Captain Metal used it on her. She had to escape and destroy it fast! But Cutthroat Jim wouldn't keep his eyes off her and he was watching her as if expecting her to so much as sneeze on him, any excuse to skewer her. She couldn't get away. Captain Metal then picked up a syringe that was lying on the desk and he filled it up with some of the Chaos Energy. The menacing machine then walked slowly towards Blaze, syringe in hand and ready to pump her full of Synthetic Chaos Energy. He was eagerly anticipating what the effects would be. Blaze would either become a Chaos powered slave for the armada or the formula would just give her a violent death. Either way, he was looking forward to this. Blaze began to sweat nervously as Captain Metal came close to her.

"Now let's see how Finitevus's formula works on ye…" he said sinisterly, ready to inject Blaze with the syringe.

"No, please wait!" begged Blaze, "Before you use it on me, please answer me this big question."

"Go on then." growled Captain Metal angrily.

"Do you two know anything about Enerjak at all?" asked Blaze curiously.

The two pirates stared at each other incredulously.

"What in tharr world is an Enerjak?!" demanded Captain Metal in confusion.

"A Chaos Demi-God who causes the destruction of Mobius this very year." explained Blaze, "Me and Silver read a book detailing Mobius's final year. The world comes to an end this year and Enerjak is the cause of it! And that Synthetic Chaos Energy is likely the cause of Enerjak coming to destroy Mobius, you must let me destroy it so Mobius will survive!"

Captain Metal stared at Blaze as if her head had just turned into a pumpkin complete with carved eyes and a mouth.

"Lassie…I think ye've swallowed too much sea water." the robot pirate snorted, "This here Synthetic Chaos Energy be to help us take over tharr world! It has nothing to do with some sea dog named Enerjak! Finitevus didn't mention Enerjak at all when he told us tharr plan of his!"

"Finitevus is manipulating you all!" protested Blaze, mostly going on speculation rather than fact, "He's really trying to resurrect Enerjak and destroy the world! In the book Silver and I read, Enerjak was described as being an albino echidna with black markings and a cape! Finitevus fits that description! You mustn't let him commence with his plan or you'll destroy all of Mobius! Please, listen to me!"

The two pirates standing before Blaze just shook their heads in faux sympathy as if pitying the poor fire cat.

"Lassie, ye really are mental." snorted Captain Metal.

"And ta think I thought ye were beautiful…" sighed Cutthroat Jim, "I don't like crazy girls."

"I'm not crazy!" snapped Blaze fiercely, "I can even show you the evidence I have if you don't believe me!"

"Nice try wretch but we ain't fallin' fer such an obvious trick." growled Captain Metal, "Now be quiet while I inject this into yer bloodstream!"

Captain Metal ignored Blaze and he raised his syringe, ready to inject Blaze with the Synthetic Chaos Energy. The fire cat began to sweat even more furiously with fear. She couldn't let Captain Metal inject even a drop of the energy into her! If he did, terrible things could happen to her. It might even kill her and Blaze valued her life too much to let Captain Metal take it away from her like this. Just as the pirate/Metal Sonic hybrid machine aimed the sharp needle at Blaze's neck, the lavender furred feline decided to take a very risky gambit. She set her entire body aflame, forcing Captain Metal to stand back in alarm. The flames wouldn't do any harm to Captain Metal as he was heatproof and couldn't feel pain due to upgrades made to his body after Blaze destroyed him the first time, his reaction had been entirely out of surprise more than anything. He hadn't expected Blaze to do this since he was sure Cutthroat Jim had her in a position she didn't dare risk her life in. As for his hyena sidekick, Cutthroat Jim stepped back from Blaze as if suddenly terrified of her. He was very close to her, so close that he actually felt the heat of her flames on him and it felt very hot to him, too hot for comfort so he forced himself to stand back in case Blaze burnt him. But Jim had made a very costly mistake for himself and Captain Metal. Now the sword was away from Blaze's chest, the cat reacted at an incredible speed. She grabbed the pirate canine's hands and twisted them sharply, numbing them and causing them to let go of his cutlass. Blaze picked up the cutlass and slashed Jim across the face with it, leaving a long cut that would later become a scar across it. Jim roared in pain and Blaze whirled around fast so she could block Captain Metal's swinging gun arm. His gun arm had a blade attached to the end of it and Captain Metal had hoped to take Blaze's head off with it but Blaze had blocked the blow. While she held his blade away from her neck, Blaze aimed her hand at Captain Metal and fired a jet of flames into her metallic nemesis's face. The flames did no harm to Captain Metal but he was blinded by them. He couldn't see a thing with a wave of fire in his face. This gave Blaze the perfect opportunity to make her killer move. She raised the cutlass and swung it at Captain Metal's neck. In one perfect swish of the curve-bladed sword…she took Captain Metal's head clean off his shoulders! Captain Metal's headless body collapsed onto its knees and slammed down on the floor as his head clattered across the floor forlornly. Blaze threw the cutlass down on the floor and grabbed Captain Metal's discarded head.

"I said it once and I'll say it again…STAY DEAD!" snarled Blaze, tightening her grip on the head she held in her hands, "And this maybe stretching things…but I bet your head could come in handy. You'll likely have all kinds of information stored inside that the Royal Fighters can use. Now one more thing before I make a break for it…"

Tucking Captain Metal's head under her arm, Blaze ran over to the work desk and she yanked up the Synthetic Chaos Energy canister. She raised it high above her head and threw it down onto the ground with a terrific smash. The canister broke into pieces and spilt its green coloured contents all over the floor. Cutthroat Jim gasped in horror as Finitevus's precious formula was spilled on the floor, staining the silver metal of the floor green and to add insult to injury, Blaze set the entire goo alight by throwing flames at it. The Chaos Energy ignited and blazed away like a puddle of jet fuel on fire. Blaze smirked triumphantly to herself and proceeded to run out of the lab with Captain Metal's head in her hands. The fire she had caused began to evaporate the Chaos Energy, burning away brilliantly on the puddle that was all over the floor. The Synthetic Chaos Energy was no more, never to be used to bring Enerjak to life. Horrified, Cutthroat Jim leaped up onto his feet and he switched on his communicator.

"Dr. Finitevus! Fire on the poop deck!" he shrieked wildly, "Blaze has destroyed yer formula thingy and is making off with Captain Metal's head! Sound tharr alarm, SOUND THARR ALARM!"

Dr. Finitevus, who was on the other side of the communicator, reacted immediately. He ordered The Nefarious to sound its alarm and glared at the monitors in the bridge to see where Blaze was heading. A wailing alarm blared throughout the entire ship, the noise so loud and so deafening that anybody down on the ground below would faintly hear it even from the height it was flying at. The Dark Armada members all caught the alarm and gasped as Finitevus announced over the intercom:

"We have Blaze the Cat running loose aboard this ship! Repeat, Blaze the Cat running loose aboard this ship! She is heading to the roof of The Nefarious! Capture her and slay her on sight! Repeat, SLAY HER ON SIGHT!"

The armada reacted as soon as Finitevus gave them the order, dashing out of their dorm rooms and stampeding through the corridors like a frantic herd of wildebeest trying to outrun the lion that was hunting it. Only Roxy the Raccoon was left behind, tied up to a pole and gagged in Lennox's room while he and his team mates ran after the others. Dr. Finitevus himself used a warp ring to warp onto the roof of his glorious vessel, already waiting to receive Blaze upon stepping out of the warp ring. His face contorted with rage as he waited for Blaze to arrive. The fiery feline had destroyed his precious formula! He was going to give her a very painful, sadistic death for this and Blaze would end up wishing she was never born when he was finished with her! Moments later, Blaze finally arrived on the roof of The Nefarious . Despite being unfamiliar with the ship, she had managed to get to this point mostly from following corridors and coming across staircases that took her up to the roof. Blaze was hit in the face by a sweep of cold air as she found herself back outside in the open air but very high up and running across the top of a huge vessel. Blaze clutched Captain Metal's head tightly to her body as she ran, her high-heeled shoes making loud clatter noises with every step she took. She gasped in horror upon seeing Finitevus ahead of her, waiting to slaughter her violently for what she did. She turned to the left and ran for it. Finitevus summoned a warp ring in front of her but Blaze jumped over it and ran on until she reached the side of The Nefarious . She skidded to a halt and let out a yelp of terror when she saw that she was extremely high up. The Nefarious was in the sky and flying hundreds of feet above the ground, casting a small shadow down below across the ground. Blaze felt her heart rate increasing uncomfortably. She was afraid of heights and a height like this made her feel a crippling sense of vertigo. She wanted to get down and she wanted to get down fast. She looked over her shoulder and gasped with horror as Finitevus stormed up towards her, his brilliant capeflapping out behind his shoulders in the wind like giant black wings. The rest of the armada joined Finitevus up on the roof and began walking up towards Blaze menacingly. The cat's ears drooped against her head and she hugged Captain Metal's head as if hoping that it would miraculously save her life. She was very frightened now, whimpering with fear as she saw how hopeless her situation was. She was faced with two options:

1: She could take a straight plummet to certain death.

Or 2: She could try foolishly to fight off the entire armada and get herself killed in the process.

Blaze didn't want to take either option, she forced herself to think of another way out. Then she saw Finitevus's warp rings and had a brilliant idea. She calmed herself down as Finitevus stood before her and prepared to attack.

"Blaze the Cat, you are under arrest for crimes against the armada!" snarled Finitevus, "You've destroy the Synthetic Chaos Energy and beheaded poor Captain Metal! I have one sentence for you… DEATH!"

"You'll never take me alive!" declared Blaze.

She then did the most surprising thing that anybody could have done in her position…she threw herself off The Nefarious and sent herself plummeting straight down to the ground! Dr. Finitevus stood frozen in shock to the spot as Blaze threw herself over the edge. The cat must have been desperate to escape him if she was willing to commit suicide in order to elude him! But Finitevus wasn't going to let Blaze get off the hook that easily. He knew Blaze wasn't stupid, she threw herself off The Nefarious for a reason. She obviously had a way of surviving the fall and she'd use it to escape him. Finitevus ran to the edge of The Nefarious and he peered over the edge, watching as Blaze plummeted down to the ground with her body positioned flat against the air whooshing up in her face and making her eyes water. She had her arms wrapped tightly around Captain Metal's head, willing herself not to let go as she fell. Finitevus smiled wickedly, thinking that he had Blaze right in his grasp. He opened up a warp ring directly below Blaze, waiting for her to fall into it and land straight beside him, which was where the warp ring's exit was now positioned. But Blaze had thrown herself off The Nefarious , fully expecting Finitevus to try that tactic. She forced her eyes open as the wind continued battering against her and looked down below. Her face spread out into a smile as she saw that Finitevus had played into her hands beautifully. There was a warp ring below her, waiting to swallow her up and bring her back onto The Nefarious. Blaze drew her legs up against her chest and kicked out, causing her to somersault to the left a little. She was now going to land on the left side of the warp ring and not go straight into it. She then reached out a hand and grabbed the warp ring as she whooshed straight into it. Finitevus gasped incredulously as the warp ring's exit closed up and vanished from beside him. He looked down as Blaze then proceeded to flick the warp ring out ahead of her and summon a portal down to the ground below, the portal opening up vertically so she shot out of it like somebody charging out of their front door. This shortened her fall and giving her a smoother landing although she skidded and rolled to a painful stop after shooting out of the warp ring. But she was alive and mostly unhurt. She still had Captain Metal's head too and a warp ring to boot. Blaze picked herself up, tucking Captain Metal's head under her arm and she ran over to pick up the warp ring. It had fallen onto the ground after she'd exited it. Blaze scooped it up and opened up a portal to Royal HQ. She looked up at The Nefarious and smirked smugly to herself.

"Thank you so much Finitevus…" she crowed, "Now I have something that'll be of use to us and a warp ring of yours. What I wouldn't give to see your face…"

She then proceeded to retreat through the warp ring, warping herself over from Megapolis to New Mobotropolis in a single bound. As she disappeared through it, Finitevus appeared with seconds to spare through a warp ring of his own and lunged out of it, hoping to nab Blaze before she could escape. What ended up happening was him just grabbing the warp ring before Blaze could end up taking it on the other side of the portal and then falling flat onto his face. Finitevus picked himself up and roared a loud roar of rage up to the heavens above. Blaze had escaped, and with her life no less! This was truly a humiliating day for the Dark Armada and Finitevus would see to it that it humiliated them no further. He warped himself back onto The Nefarious and delivered the bad news to his disciples, throwing his arms about wildly as he did so.

"THAT WRETCHED CAT HAS ESCAPED!" roared Finitevus, "AND WITH CAPTAIN METAL'S HEAD NO LESS! OUR SYNTHETIC CHAOS ENERGY FORMULA HAS BEEN DESTROYED AND NOW SHE'S GOT A HEAD FULL OF USEFUL INFORMATION FOR THE ROYAL FIGHTERS!"

"So what are we gonna do about it?" asked the recently-turned-cyborg Scourge the Hedgehog curiously.

"We see to making more Synthetic Chaos Energy!" snarled Finitevus, pointing directly at Scourge with a bandaged finger, "I'll set our courses over to Black Acropolis and we'll start getting as much lava as possible so we can convert it into Chaos Energy!"

"But what about Captain Metal's head?" asked Fiona Fox, "Heck, what about Captain Metal himself? He's useless without a head now."

"He has spare heads, I'll just put one on him immediately." announced Finitevus, "As for Captain Metal's head…let the Royal Fighters keep it. My agent will only tell me what they're planning, any information they get will just end up being used against them."

"Oh of course, your marvellous agent!" cried Ravage Bloodfang excitedly, "This day isn't lost after all!"

"Oh no…far from it my friend…" purred Finitevus evilly, "We'll set courses for Black Acropolis and once we arrive…our Synthetic Chaos Energy will be remade. Operation: Villains Rising will still commence…and it'll still succeed…"

The armada all cackled along with him, picturing in their heads perfectly how horrified the heroes would be when their plan continued on and they emerged victorious in their war with them. Blaze hadn't stopped them yet, far from it and that was going to cost the heroes dearly in more ways than one…

What a close call for Blaze that was! Well she escaped but has her victory really swung the war in Sonic's favour? Or is the armada still a step ahead of the Royal Fighters?

Find out next time in* Operation: Black Acropolis *and for one of the most shocking twists you'll ever see in this saga...

Dark Armada Part 11: Operation: Black A

Story 211: Operation: Black Acropolis

The Dark Armada Chapter 11 of 25

"Oh…Blaze has been gone for a while…she should be back by now!" whined Silver the Hedgehog frantically, pacing back and forth aimlessly as if he was trying to run a grove into the floor, "It shouldn't take her this long to turn super, destroy a ship and get back Tails and the Chaos Emeralds! Gah, I should've gone with her!"

"Silver. Chill, breathe, she'll be fine." Sonic the Hedgehog insisted, "You know Blaze, she's very capable on her own. She'll be back soon."

"Plus you're going to have to remember that Finitevus has the Chaos Emeralds." noted Sally Acorn, "If Blaze is in super form then Scourge might well be in super form to fight her off. I'm sure Blaze is fine."

"I'm sure she is too but…you know…I love her so much and…I worry about her." said Silver anxiously, "She was my first friend and pretty much my only friend. And she's more than my friend, she's my girlfriend. I couldn't live without her by my side so you have to understand why I'm so edgy."

"Oh we understand more than you realize." said Sally softly, looking at her beloved Sonic who was standing beside her and nodded in his direction.

Sonic nodded back, agreeing completely with his royal love interest. The Royal Fighters were in another one of those tense waiting games that they so hated to be a part of in their line of duty. The kind where they'd send somebody on a mission and then anxiously wait for them to return. Sally had come up with an idea on how to stop the Dark Armada after she and Sonic had interrogated the captive Raiju Clan ninja Dàfeng Rai. Rai had been captured by Shadow the Hedgehog after a failed attempt to kill the Megapolis

Royal Fighters and thanks to Sally's uncharacteristically ruthless side, she'd managed to get Rai to talk. Rai had given them some useful information in the interrogation regarding Finitevus's big plan Operation: Villains Rising (actually Operation: Enerjak Reborn) and the whereabouts of his ship The Nefarious . So Sally had sent Blaze over to destroy the ship and get back the roboticized Tails and the Chaos Emeralds. Blaze had her Sol Emeralds and was able to turn into Burning Blaze with them, a powerful super form that had seen much action. The tense waiting game that Sonic, Silver and Sally were taking part in now was just simply waiting for Blaze to return. The rest of the Royal Fighters were elsewhere and waiting for some good news to be given to them.

They wouldn't have to wait any longer though for a warp ring suddenly opened up from nowhere, filling Royal HQ's laboratory up with a golden gleam and making the three Mobians jump in surprise. Then out through the warp ring shot Blaze the Cat herself, not in her super form and clutching something underneath her arm. Sonic, Sally and Silver stared incredulously at Blaze as if she'd just come home from a hurricane storm. What surprised them even more was what she had come home with. There was no Mecha Tails and no Chaos Emeralds. Not a single one. She had the head of the robot rapscallion Captain Metal, the sworn arch-enemy of Blaze and one of the strangest hybrids ever, Metal Sonic and a robot pirate. Why had she come home with Captain Metal's head? What good would that be to them? And why had she returned home via warp ring instead of a Sol Control? The warp ring clearly appeared to have been retrieved though for it closed up after Blaze leapt out of it but it didn't come down onto the floor of Royal HQ, meaning that Blaze wouldn't have it now. Blaze panted for a moment before turning around and putting Captain Metal's head on the work desk nearby. She had just narrowly escaped certain death by jumping off The Nefarious and taking a risky gambit by waiting for Finitevus to do what she expected him to do. But she was alive and Silver was quick to hug her excitedly. Blaze yelped as Silver began crushing her in a bear-hug.

"Yay, you made it back Blaze! And I was just beginning to worry about you too!" he squealed.

"I'm glad to be back too Silver, now could you not squeeze me so hard?" croaked Blaze weakly, "I can't breathe!"

"Oops, my bad. Ha, ha…got carried away there." Silver giggled, letting go of his lavender furred girlfriend.

"So Blaze, how'd it go?" asked Sonic, "Did you complete the mission?"

"It went terribly Sonic." muttered Blaze sadly, "Once again, Finitevus knew what we were planning and he prepared for my arrival. He had Captain Metal use a weapon on me that drained the Sol Emeralds dry of their energy. Because of this, I didn't destroy the ship OR save Tails and the Chaos Emeralds. But I did manage to destroy the Synthetic Chaos Energy at least…and I got Captain Metal's head too."

She motioned over to the robot head that she had brought home to Royal HQ. On The Nefarious , she had stolen Cutthroat Jim's cutlass and used it to cut off Captain Metal's head. Thinking it would be useful, she had decided to bring it back home to see what information they could find in it. The three Mobians looked at Captain Metal's head curiously.

"That's nice and all Blaze but why did you bring back Captain Metal's head?" asked Sonic, "What good will that do us?"

"I would explain Sonic…but I'm worried Finitevus's agent will hear about it." said Blaze cautiously, "The agent seems able to hear whatever plan we come up with before we make it. We have to be super secret about our plans this time."

"Hold on a minute. Nicole, is there anybody listening outside?" asked Sally quickly.

Outside of the lab, Nicole's holographic avatar materialized into existence in a swirl of pixels. Nicole had once been a Mobian but during the legendary multi-verse crisis that nearly saw the end of everything, she had been turned into a computer programme by an insane, tech-savvy world conqueror. She'd taken a while to get used to being like this but nowadays, being a programme was of no bother to her. Nicole looked around and saw that there was nobody outside the lab. Pleased, she dissolved into a cloud of pixels and phased through the door back into the lab. The pixels rearranged into her image, something that Silver and Blaze were very impressed at for they hadn't seen something like this before.

"There's nobody outside, we're safe Sally." reported Nicole.

"Good, but still we should keep our voices down." said Sally, "In case the agent attempts to listen in anyway."

So Sonic, Silver, Blaze and Sally gathered around in a huddle and they whispered quietly to each other with Blaze starting first.

"I brought home Captain Metal's head because I thought he'd have some useful information for us to use." whispered Blaze, "It's just gut instinct really but still, it's worth a shot."

"Captain Metal's part of the armada and he's been on The Nefarious…he might give us ideas on the ship inside and out." suggested Sonic, "How's about we get good old Nicole to hack into his brain and get any information out of it for us?"

"That's a splendid idea Sonic." said Sally happily, "I'll do just that."

They broke up the circle and Sally whispered into Nicole's ear what they were planning to do. Nicole gave Sally the thumbs up, approving of the idea very much and she disappeared into thin air. Her avatar wouldn't be needed at this point. As Nicole disappeared, Sally took the handheld device that Nicole was housed in off of her boot and she observed Captain Metal's head, wondering where to plug her computerized friend in. There didn't seem to be anywhere to plug anything on the head but Sally knew how to deal with that. Nicole's handheld device had a built-in saw blade that she had once used to escape from a wooden cage in the Lost Jungle*. She used the saw blade to cut open the back of Captain Metal's head, carving a neat circle into the metal and taking out the chunk she'd cut. She saw that inside Captain Metal's head was a lot of circuitry and a big metallic box that clearly appeared to be his brain. There was a circular hole in the "brain", clearly meant for something to plug into. Nicole's handheld device came with a lead and at the end of the lead was a plug that could change shape and size and fit in ANY slot. The plug shrunk down in size as Sally held it close to the slot and Sally plugged Nicole inside. Now linked with Captain Metal's brain, Nicole began searching around inside and looked for whatever information would be useful to the Royal Fighters. Captain Metal's brain was like visiting a new world for Nicole. Inside, her avatar came into existence and found itself surrounded by a lot of codes. The robot pirate may have had his head separated from his body but his mind still had a lot of information for her to rummage through. Nicole began downloading everything that was inside Captain Metal's head, working at an alarming speed that easily bested the world's fastest supercomputer. In mere seconds, Captain Metal's head was empty of all data and Nicole had it all stored inside her own handheld device. She returned back to the handheld and Sally unplugged it. Her screen said "Download Complete" on it and Sally couldn't wait to see what Nicole had found.

"I've downloaded all the data in his head." explained Nicole.

"Then show us what kind of info was in that head of his…" asked Sally excitedly, speaking quietly still.

Nicole proceeded to do just that. Her screen began showing off various different files that she had downloaded from Captain Metal's head from members of the Dark Armada to the kinds of inventions he had built before and what he had built now. She even went past a blueprint of the Chaos Drainer, something that Blaze noticed with loathing as it flickered up on the screen and disappeared in seconds. Nicole leafed through many files until she finally found something that would actually be of use to them. She displayed a blueprint on her screen and as Sally read it, her heart skipped a beat. This was a blueprint for The Nefarious itself! Since Captain Metal was responsible for repairing the ship whenever it was damaged, he had to be programmed with The Nefarious's blueprints in his computerized brain so he would know exactly how to repair a certain part and where everything went. And now the Royal Fighters had the blueprints for the ship itself! Sally's face lit up and she pulled Sonic over to have a look. Keeping up the secrecy act, she whispered into his ear.

"It's the plans for The Nefarious!" whispered Sally excitedly, "We can use this to our advantage!"

"Too right Sal!" cried Sonic, keeping his voice low so nobody attempting to listen in on the conversation would hear them, "We can find all its weak spots and even find out where the Chaos Emeralds are!"

"Blaze, I've told you that I love you before haven't I?" Silver said with a cheeky smile on his face, nudging the fiery feline playfully.

"Yes Silver, you have." Blaze replied, playfully nudging him back with her elbow, "I had a feeling Captain Metal's head would be useful."

"And now we have the plans for The Nefarious, we know where to hit it and where to get the Chaos Emeralds." added Sally brightly, "Looks like today isn't a total loss after all. Nicole, see if you can find where The Nefarious is currently and we'll stage a sabotage mission. We'll take the Sky Patrol, fly to the ship and sneak onboard so we can bring it down for good."

Nicole's avatar appeared in the room once again, straight in front of the computer monitors. She began taping away on the computers, once again accessing Mobius's satellites and hoping to use them to find The Nefarious once again like she had done before. Only that wasn't going to happen. Finitevus had a miniature drone that was up in space and hacking into Mobius's satellites. He had sent it up their a year ago and had first used it to use Mobius's satellites to track Blaze down for Captain Metal. Now after hearing from his hidden agent that the satellite's heat sensors were being used to track down The Nefarious while it was invisible, he had used it to sabotage the satellites and disable the heat-sensors. Nobody would ever find out that he'd done this for nobody knew he had the drone up there in the first place. Nicole flickered through several different satellite views before she came across a rather peculiar sight. While The Nefarious was nowhere in sight on one satellite view, she did see the next best thing. The Dark Armada was in Black Acropolis, every single member! Including Mecha Tails! Nicole zoomed in the satellite's lens on Black Acropolis down on Mobius and she saw that the armada was all here and seemingly gathering up lava using sophisticated tools in order to do so without any damages or injury. This obfuscated the digital lynx. What on Mobius was the armada doing in Black Acropolis she thought to herself. Were they trying to fix their destroy Synthetic Chaos Energy formula? Blaze had said she'd destroyed it so that had to be the reason they were here now, collecting lava to make into Chaos Energy. They had after all stormed the Golden Hive Colony and stolen all their honey and Mecha Tails had been seen mining up snow yesterday in Holoska. Either way, Nicole knew they had the ample opportunity to attack the armada, and all unnoticed by them too. They would never see them coming. Nicole turned to face her friends.

"My friends, the entire Dark Armada is over in Black Acropolis believe it or not." announced Nicole, "They're mining up lava from the volcanoes."

"Well that's suicidal if I ever saw it!" blurted Sonic, "Does Finitevus even know HOW dangerous that hellhole is?!"

"Maybe so but he doesn't care since it means getting him some precious contents to make Synthetic Chaos Energy out of." said Sally bitterly, "Is Tails there too?"

"Yes he is." said Nicole happily, "We have a chance to rescue him and we must take it now."

"What about The Nefarious?" asked Silver curiously.

"It's nowhere in sight." said Nicole in confusion, "The armada's in Black Acropolis but the ship isn't. It might be invisible but the heat sensors aren't picking anything up."

"It doesn't matter, the ship won't be of much use if the armada's all taken in and arrested." said Sally matter-of-factly, "We'll get aboard the Sky Patrol and get flying off to Black Acropolis. I hope we get there before the armada finishes what they're doing."

"Then what are we waiting for? Let's go!" cried Sonic excitedly, "Gather all the Royal Fighters together and get going before it's too late! Come on!"

With that said, the four Mobians ran out of the lab to find the other

Royal Fighters. Sonic could feel himself tingling all over with excitement. The armada was in Black Acropolis, every single member! They could beat the armada into submission and get Tails back! The Chaos Emeralds would have to wait though but Sonic didn't care. The Chaos Emeralds wouldn't be of any use to an imprisoned armada and Tails was more important to him than the emeralds anyway. His best friend was going to be saved and the armada would be defeated at last. And best of all, no hidden agents would know what was going on for most of their planning had been done secretly. They'd get the drop on Finitevus for once…

Black Acropolis. If hell truly existed, chances are it would look like Black Acropolis.

The land itself was nothing more than black, rocky ground that had once been lava many years ago, dried out and solidified after spreading over everything. Two volcanoes were the only thing that could pass off as features in Black Acropolis aside from the many lava geysers that spewed out the searing hot lava as high as they could. There were lakes of lava flowing through the land and one lava lake even led to a lava-fall. Setting foot in Black Acropolis was considered in act of suicide due to how dangerous the habitat was. If the lava geysers didn't kill a Mobian then one of the two constantly erupting volcanoes would do the trick. And yet Sonic and at least some of his friends had been in Black Acropolis and made it out alive.

Now the entire Dark Armada was roaming around Black Acropolis and gathering up as much lava as they possibly could. The Synthetic Chaos Energy formula had been destroyed by Blaze and very little of it had actually managed to be salvaged from the remains. The remains they had wasn't even enough for one dose so Dr. Finitevus wanted as much lava as possible. This was achieved by something that Captain Metal had invented par Finitevus's request should they ever need to come to a place like this and gather up lava. Captain Metal, who now had a new head attached to his body to make up for the one that Blaze had chopped off earlier, had invented a hovering container with a heat-resistant hose attached to one end of it. The container was heat-resistant too and could hold as much as one tonne's worth of lava. The armada all had a container each and they simply put the hose into the lava lake that they were standing by and sucked up the lava with the hose. Red hot lava was sucked up the strong, heat-resistant nozzle of the hose and brought inside the strong container it was attached to. There was a huge cannon on a bed of wheels standing nearby too, waiting to be used as the armada worked. Captain Metal had insisted on bringing it for he planned to give Blaze a horrible death with it. The cannon stood by as the armada filled up their containers with lava. Due to how much the containers could carry, the armada was taking a while in gathering up as much lava as they possibly could. As far as Finitevus was concerned, the more lava they had, the more Synthetic Chaos Energy they could make. Having just one dose had been a terrible mistake on his part so he was going to rectify that by having more canisters full, hence why the need to gather up so much lava. Finitevus himself had a container and he was sucking up as much lava as possible, his face shielded with a protective visor to keep the heat out of his face and to also protect him from any lava that could spit at him. The rest of the armada had protective visors on too save for Captain Metal since he was a robot made of heat-proof metal and thus, the heat of the lava wouldn't bother him. Not even a little bit. He was standing beside Finitevus and he appeared to be growling angrily as he was sucking up lava to make Synthetic Chaos Energy out of. Finitevus looked over at the robotic rapscallion curiously.

"Why Captain Metal, you do not seem very happy right now. What is it that's agitating you so much?" asked Finitevus in a tone of voice that almost managed to sound kind and yet still managing to sound somewhat sinister at the same time.

"I'd have thought that me recent defeat at tharr hands of Blaze tharr Cat would be a big enough indicator…" muttered Captain Metal, "How humiliating that was! I got defeated in mere seconds by her and she made off with me head! I knew instead of tryin' ta use yer Synthetic Chaos Energy on her, I should have just killed her straight away! But I didn't and now this pirate captain have shamed his own crew. I'm amazed ye didn't leave me dead fer this big mistake I made."

"Well Captain Metal, if the Dark Armada has ANY chance of winning, I need everybody alive and that includes you my mechanical mutineer." purred Finitevus, "Besides, you've been of a great service to the Dark Armada, I couldn't possibly leave you dead."

"Well that be very nice of ye captain." said Captain Metal appreciatively, "Thank ye fer sparin' me a life in Davy Jones's locker."

"Believe me Captain Metal, you're lucky that I'm even CAPABLE of rare moments of generosity such as this so don't waste it." warned Finitevus threateningly, "If you mess up like this again then I might humiliate you in aways you cannot imagine. Maybe give you a female body with your head attached to it…"

"NAY! Not that! Anything but that!" shrieked Captain Metal, "I won't fail, I won't fail! The captain gives his word not to fail ye Finitevus!"

Finitevus could hardly resist the urge to laugh at Captain Metal's rather humorous reaction to his suggestion of a suitable punishment for him. It was strange seeing the usually fierce and threatening Captain Metal acting so scared over such a silly thought. In Finitevus's eyes, he thought it was strange even seeing Captain Metal scared in the first place. He would keep that in mind next time the robotical buccaneer failed him.

"I'm sure you won't fail Captain Metal." the albino scientist purred optimistically, "After all, you're not prone to making the same mistake twice are you?"

"Nay matey, after I was destroyed tharr first time by that impudent fire cat, I rebuilt meself out of heat-proof metal and removed me pain receptors. I be invulnerable to Blaze's attacks and I cannot feel pain so I can go on fer far longer than Blaze can!" boasted Captain Metal.

"And yet she ended up beating you on Solbius a second time and has defeated you yet again." murmured Finitevus, "All the more reason why next time you face Blaze, you should kill her straight away."

"That me heartie, I certainly will do!" declared Captain Metal.

Finitevus smiled wickedly, pleased to hear Captain Metal's determination not to lost to Blaze again. He was interrupted by Scourge the Hedgehog and Fiona Fox walking up to him.

"Yo doc, are containers are full!" reported Scourge.

"Excellent. I'll get them aboard The Nefarious immediately." said Finitevus, opening up a warp ring for Scourge to put the containers through.

The Nefarious itself was up in the sky, hundreds of miles above Black Acropolis but the reason Nicole hadn't seen it on Mobius's satellites was that it was invisible. The ship had enough power in it to stay invisible for a whole two hours, maybe even longer and Finitevus knew full well that he wasn't going to be here for two hours so he didn't have to worry about The Nefarious 's cloaking device running out of power. Thanks to Mobius's satellites having disabled heat sensors because of Finitevus's drone meddling with it, the satellites would never find The Nefarious when it was invisible. So to anybody looking through the satellites, they'd see only the armada, no vessel as well. With a warp ring opened up, Scourge and Fiona walked through it and put their containers side by side in The Nefarious 's laboratory, which was where the warp ring had been opened up. As soon as they put their containers beside the work desk, Scourge whispered something into Fiona's ear.

"I've got an idea on how to get rid of Finitevus." he whispered, "I could sneak up behind him and shoot him into the lava with my cyber-hand."

"It's risky Scourge but it's worth a shot." Fiona whispered back, "And once he's gone, we will rule the armada and we'll carry out Operation: Villains Rising. That'll teach Finitevus for cutting your arm off and tearing your eye out for failing."

"You bet he will…although I can kind thank Finitevus for this since I'm going to use my cyber-hand against him." purred Scourge evilly, "In a way, this is coming back to bite Finitevus in the ass!"

"It certainly is." laughed Fiona.

Scourge smiled wickedly at his girlfriend as he walked back through the warp ring to join the other Dark Armada members back in Black Acropolis. As he and Fiona emerged from the warp ring, they both noticed something odd. The armada had stopped working and they were all staring up at the sky in surprise as if they'd seen something very strange happening up above. Scourge was tempted to take advantage of this and shoot Finitevus into the lava but he didn't do this for Finitevus was standing ahead of many armada members. There'd be too many witnesses. Plus he was curious as to what was going on too. He and Fiona looked up at the sky and saw that they were no longer going to be alone in Black Acropolis. There was a ship coming towards them and it wasn't a friendly ship either. It was the Sky Patrol, the flagship of the Royal Fighters Service! The Royal Fighters had come to interfere with the Dark Armada's plans once again! Finitevus would see to it that they failed though. He turned around and barked at the armada.

"Containers on The Nefarious ! NOW!"

He opened up a warp ring and the armada saw to getting all their lava-filled containers through the warp ring as quickly as they could. Last thing they needed was the Royal Fighters foiling what they'd done so far, the lava containers had to be kept far out of their reach and an invisible ship would do just that. Once all the containers were onboard, the Dark Armada gathered together and waited for the Sky Patrol to land. Finitevus stood ahead of them all, cracking his knuckles.

"My armada…the Royal Fighters do NOT leave this place alive! Slay them all! They cannot be allowed to live!" he ordered fiercely.

The armada nodded understandingly and prepared to fight. They were all too happy to follow Finitevus's order down to the letter since most of the armada had personal scores of their own to settle with at least one Royal Fighter. And at this moment, Finitevus fully expected at least all of the Royal Fighters to be here, not just Team New Mobotropolis but all the other teams too. If they were all here then Finitevus could single-handedly have all of them killed. No Royal Fighters meant an easy victory for the Dark Armada and Enerjak would rise just as Finitevus wanted. The armada watched with evil stares and even more evil glares as the Sky Patrol touched down on the ground, blowing lots of dust around as the landing gear placed itself flat on the rocky ground beneath the ship. The armada held back as the docking ramp of the Sky Patrol lowered down to the ground and the Royal Fighters all exited the ship, striding down the ramp as they landed. Everybody was indeed aboard the ship, all the New Mobotropolis Fighters and all the other teams from Team Nekronopolis to Team Chun-Nan to Team Adabat and finally Team Megapolis. Finitevus just smiled wickedly to himself. Sonic the Hedgehog was making a costly mistake, bringing so many of his friends to such a hell-hole and risk losing everybody in the line of battle at once. He would see to it that everybody in the service would end up joining Dr. Eggman in the afterlife. He imagined the afterlife would be very unpleasant for Sonic and friends to be in if it meant sharing it with Eggman. The Royal Fighters all stood before the Dark Armada and Sonic pointed sharply at Finitevus. His face contorted with rage and yet there was a bit of confidence neatly coalesced with the rage as if he was sure that he was going to have another victory today after Blaze's amazing escape earlier.

"Dr. Finitevus, you have committed many terrible crimes against us lately and you're now going to pay for it!" growled Sonic, "And for once, your agent hasn't given you a tip-off so you won't be ahead of us this time!"

"Oh fie Sonic, I didn't even need my agent to give me a tip-off anyway." snorted Finitevus, "I expected you all to arrive after Blaze made off with Captain Metal's head. And I don't even need to say why you're here, it's obvious to all of us."

"Indeed." said Sally, standing beside Sonic and deploying her arm blades, "Blaze has destroyed your Synthetic Chaos Energy, now we will make sure you don't remake it. You have one option: surrender now and make this easy for all of us."

"You are all fools…" growled Finitevus, "I didn't go through all the trouble of organizing this armada just to surrender to you all like this! If you want us to surrender…then fight us until we beg for a forfeit."

"We'll happily comply to that." said Sonic, "Especially since I'm going to get my best friend back!"

"Negative: I am not your best friend and I am not coming with you." droned Mecha Tails, baring his metal claws, "I will kill you if you dare try to kidnap me."

"I wouldn't worry Mecha Tails, Sonic and friends won't touch you." purred Finitevus wickedly, "Especially since we're in Black Acropolis, the lava might finish them off for us."

"Wrong, Blaze can control fires and all. She'll save us from harm." scoffed Sonic, sticking his tongue out at Finitevus cheekily.

"In that case, we'll just do it ourselves." muttered Finitevus, "Armada...ATTACK!" he bellowed at the top of his evil voice.

"Royal Fighters, ATTACK!" bellowed Sonic and Sally, both rushing into battle side-by-side towards the armada.

The Royal Fighters and the Dark Armada both charged towards each other like stampeding tribes at war with each other, ready to throw the first spears and launch the first arrows. Sonic immediately gunned for Mecha Tails, spin-dashing towards him only for Mecha Tails to spin around in mid-air and smack him down onto the ground with his sharp, metallic tails. Sonic winced as he hit the hard, rocky ground of hardened lava face first but he had another "ouch!" to add to his pain as Mecha Tails flew down and stomp-kicked him directly on his back. Sonic tried to get back up but Mecha Tails kept him pinned down. As a Robian, he was much heavier than he would have been as Tails so standing on Sonic was enough to keep him pinned down onto the ground. Mecha Tails then turned around so his feet were pointing towards Sonic's bottom and legs and he aimed one of his tails at Sonic's neck. The sharp bladed tail would easily slit Sonic's throat and kill him instantly, something that Sonic was very worried about as the sharp point touched against his neck, ready to slice it open. But Sonic was saved by Shadow the Hedgehog spin-dashing Mecha Tails in the back and knocking him off. Sonic got back onto his feet and gave Shadow the thumbs up.

"Thanks." he said graciously.

"No problem. I'm very sorry that you have to fight your best friend Sonic." said Shadow, his tone oddly sympathetic for his usual character.

"It's OK Shadow, I'll happily fight Mecha Tails if it means saving him." said Sonic, "Given you're very strong, I think fighting Finitevus would be a good idea for you."

"I'll happily do just that…" growled Shadow angrily as bitter memories of what Finitevus had done to him in the past began to come back to him. Now was his chance to face Finitevus again.

He skated off, leaving Sonic behind to fight Mecha Tails some more. Mecha Tails picked himself up and flew towards Sonic, his metal-tails spinning around behind him like a propeller. Sonic zoomed into Mecha Tails and grappled hands with him.

"Tails, if you can hear me in there, I'm going to save you and get you free of this metal cage you're trapped in!" declared Sonic.

"I'm already free, I do not need saving and you'll be the one who's depriving me of my freedom." said Mecha Tails coldly.

Sonic just let go of Mecha Tails's hands and kicked him in the gut, his heart aching with emotional pain as he launched that attack on his best friend. He hoped he wouldn't damage him too much as he fought with Mecha Tails for he need him in good condition if it meant getting Tails back.

As for Shadow, he skated towards Dr. Finitevus, his face suggesting he was about ready to kill. Finitevus already had some opponents though, Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas. Knuckles threw a punch at his treacherous uncle, concentrating all his rage and hate into that one punch. Finitevus caught Knuckles punch in his hand, not even putting any effort into the block at all. It was like Knuckles wasn't even trying to hit him in his eyes. Finitevus held tightly onto Knuckles's fist and swung him around, walloping Shadow as he skated towards him. Shadow and Knuckles both cried out as their bodies collided with each other. Shadow had another cry of pain as he was whisked off his feet and onto his back by the attack. Finitevus then kicked Knuckles into the air, hoping that he would crash into Shade. Shade instead moved out of the way and Blade-Rushed at Finitevus. The purple energy waves whizzed through the air towards Finitevus but the echidna jumped into the air just above the waves, allowing them to sweep cleanly under his feet as they missed. Shade ran towards Finitevus and slashed at him but the albino scientist gripped the edges of his cape and blocked her attack with them. He had sown some blades into the edges of his cape so his cape could be used as some kind of offensive weapon. As he kept Shade's blades away from himself, he kicked her in the gut to make her double-over in pain and then he elbowed her on the head. Shade moaned groggily, wondering what had hit her. Finitevus was about to kill Shade but Shadow threw a Chaos Spear into the echidna's back. The armada leader was whisked off his feet by the Chaos Spear and he crashed down just behind Shade. Shade stood back up first and just as Finitevus stood back up, Shade walloped him in the face with a roundhouse kick to the cheek. The kick caused Finitevus to spit out blood and wince in pain but he merely retaliated with a roundhouse kick to Shade's ribs. The female fighter screamed as she felt Finitevus's foot sharply connect with her ribs and she stumbled to the side. Finitevus was about to attack Shade again but Knuckles pounced on him and tackled him down to the ground. Finitevus merely swung his legs up and threw Knuckles off of himself. Knuckles landed with a callous thud on his back but he picked himself up and charged back towards Finitevus. Finitevus stepped to the side as Knuckles punched at him and the albino villain grabbed Knuckles by his neck. Knuckles yelped and croaked as Finitevus began throttling him. He then held Knuckles close to a hole in the ground, presumably where a lava geyser.

"Let's see if your face is still recognizable after a jet of lava…" he crooned wickedly.

Shade and Shadow both charged towards Finitevus, hoping to save Knuckles before he was burnt alive by the lava geyser. Finitevus heard them coming and he let go of Knuckles so he could lunge his hand out, grab Shade's wrist and swing her blade into Shadow as he prepared to attack. Her blade caught Shadow on the forearm and made the hedgehog cry out in pain. But Shadow chopped down on Finitevus's arm, numbing his hand and making him let go of Shade's wrist. Shade put both her blades away so she could sock Finitevus in the face and Shadow then overwhelmed the echidna some more by throwing a terrific uppercut into his chin, snapping his head backwards and whisking him off his feet. Finitevus got back up onto his feet and he braced himself as Shadow came gunning for him again. Finitevus took a warp ring off of his wrist and he threw it into Shadow's face. The warp ring smacked Shadow between the eyes and made him hesitate so he could rub his forehead better. Finitevus put the warp ring back onto his wrist and tripped Shadow up with a kick to the legs. Shade sliced at him again with her blades but Finitevus dodged the attack and grabbed Shade's wrist. He snatched one of her blades from her and slashed her across the arm with it. Shade screamed in a mixture of anger and pain and she Blade-Rushed Finitevus in the face. The echidna stumbled backwards, dropping Shade's blade, and he fell backwards into Knuckles, who was lying in wait for him. The red furred emerald guardian grabbed his uncle by the cloak. He picked Finitevus up and threw him into the air. Finitevus crashed down onto his side but he was soon back onto his feet, only to then get knocked down again by a spin-dash from Shadow.

The other Royal Fighters were taking turns in fighting various members of the Dark Armada. Amy Rose, Cosmo the Seedrian, Cream the Rabbit and Princess Matilda were all teaming up against Zira the Ruthless. The savage leopard had only just recently recovered from when Princess Matilda had used her most powerful move on her earlier though her chest was still hurting a little. She really wanted revenge on Matilda now. The furious leopard clawed at Matilda with her sharp claws but Matilda stepped back to dodge the attack. She kicked upwards, walloping Zira in the face as hard as she could. Zira's head snapped backwards and the leopard found herself nearly falling down onto her back. Amy ran in and walloped Zira into the air with her Piko-Piko hammer. The leopard let out a rather comical sounding cry as she was sent spiralling into the air by Amy's attack. The moment she landed, Matilda charged towards Zira and left Amy, Cream and Cosmo behind to fight somebody else. As Zira and Matilda began to fight some more, launching as many attacks as possible at each other, Amy chose her next opponent. She, Cream and Cosmo ran over to Cutthroat Jim, rightfully thinking he would be easy prey for them to deal with. Cutthroat Jim swung his cutlass at Amy, hoping to take her head off but Amy ducked, leaving him to swish at thin air. Amy hammered Cutthroat Jim in the face with her hammer, knocking him backwards and giving Cream and Cosmo the opportunity to attack. The pirate picked himself up only to receive two throwing discs to the face from Cream and Cosmo. The discs hit him in the eyes, blinding him momentarily and Cosmo took advantage of this by throwing herself directly into his shins. Cutthroat Jim was tripped up by the attack and just before he could stand up, Cream snatched his cutlass from him and tossed it to Amy. Amy hammered it away, sending it flying into a nearby lava lake. Cutthroat Jim roared angrily at the loss of his weapon but he was quickly silenced by Amy thumping him on the head with her hammer.

"Oh shaddup!" she sneered as Cutthroat Jim lay on the ground, dazed and confused from the hit, "Seriously, they let a loser like you in the armada? Pathetic!"

"I'll say." agreed Cream.

"Oh well, at least he won't be a pain for anybody else now." crowed Amy, "Let's bash some more armada losers!"

Cream and Cosmo were right behind Amy as she ran off to find another opponent.

Bladefeather the Falcon, Mushu the Iguana and Li Moon were fighting against Bride of the Conquering Storm and her Raiju Ninjas. Some of them were helping Conquering Storm while others were fighting other Royal Fighters. Ruben the Water Panther and his girlfriend Sora Prower were fighting some of the ninjas in the clan. Ruben threw water at most of the ninjas, taking them clean off their feet and sending them sprawling across the terrain crazily. Sora jumped into the air and drop-kicked a Raiju Ninja in the face, knocking it down onto its back and just before he could get back up, Sora threw an orb from her utility belt into the ninja's face. She then took it down with another kick, this time to the face. The kick knocked it clean out, making Sora smile happily at what she'd done. It served the armada right for kidnapping her brother and roboticizing him. As for Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon, Conquering Storm was proving to be a tough opponent for them. Bladefeather threw daggers furiously at Conquering Storm but the ninja lynx dodged them all and retaliated with a flat-handed punch to the chest on Bladefeather. It was a pity her ankles weren't still hurting from when Matilda twisted them earlier, that would be very helpful to them now. Bladefeather landed flat on his back but he received no more blows as Mushu lunged toward and began unleashing a torrent of rapid fire fisticuffs on Conquering Storm. Conquering Storm blocked the blows with her arms but while she was distracted, Li Moon sneaked up behind Conquering Storm and kneed her in the small of her back. This distracted the lynx long enough for Mushu to sock Conquering Storm in the jaw. Conquering Storm spat out drops of blood and she lashed out at Mushu with a chop to the face. But the blow never came for Bladefeather threw a dagger at her hand. The dagger slashed Conquering Storm across the hand and made the lynx scream in agony. While she was distracted some more, Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon all charged into her at once and brought her down onto her back.

With the rest of the Raiju Clan, they were in battle with most of the other Royal Fighter teams. Miranda Mongoose, Kari the Rat, Thunder and Bolt, Scott the Lynx, Jessica the Cougar, Felix the Peacock, Dark Cat and Kiara the Cheetah all fended off the ninjas with their respective attacks and skills. Miranda zapped some with her electric prod weapon, Kari battered some with a spanner that she liked to wield in a fight, Thunder and Bolt electrocuted many ninjas, Scott and Jessica threw energy spears at a lot of them, Felix battered some of them with his feather clubs and Dark and Kiara teamed up to slash and attack some other ninjas. One ninja nearly got the drop on Kari but the rat was saved by the timely intervention of Mandy Mouse. The rat smiled appreciatively at her friend and Mandy fave her the thumbs up back. She ran back to join her husband Wilson the Dog, who was currently fighting against Ravage Bloodfang. Ravage clawed at Wilson with his sharp claws but Wilson dodged the attack and swiped his spinning blade weapon. He missed Ravage and the wolf socked him in the face. Mandy retaliated by punching him in the face. Her punch was enhanced by the steel knuckle attachments that she wore on her fists. The punch was so hard that Ravage was sent flying across the terrain and sent crashing down a hundred feet away. Wilson and Mandy high-fived each other in triumph and ran off to fight somebody else.

Sally and her cousin Abby the Squirrel were fighting against Fiona Fox together. Fiona had her energy blades deployed, said blades being stolen from Sally herself originally by Finitevus, and she swung them at Sally. Sally blocked the attack with her own blades and pushed against Fiona, causing her to stagger backwards into Abby. Abby, who was a skilled fighter thanks to four years of living in the jungle with a tribe of gorillas, let Fiona have it with a powerful kick to the back. The vixen screeched in pain and she spun around on the balls of her feet, hoping to cut Abby's head off with her blades. Abby ducked and pinched Fiona in the belly while she was at her midriff's height. Fiona winced as her exposed belly was pinched by the squirrel and before she could recover, Sally kicked Fiona in the back and sent her toppling forwards. Fiona picked herself up and jumped into the air. She split-kicked Sally and Abby both in the head as she sailed past them and upon landing, she swung her blades at Sally. Sally blocked the attack but was pinned down by Fiona. Not for long for Abby stood back up and grabbed the vixen's tail. The former jungle queen pulled Fiona way from her cousin, the queen squirrel getting up onto her feet so she could clash blades with Fiona again. Scourge saw that Fiona needed help so he zoomed towards her, hoping to lend a hand. Instead, he found himself crashing into the hard, tough body of Mace the Elephant. Trying to knock Mace down was like trying to break through a brick wall. Scourge spin-dashed at Mace again but the elephant withstood the attack and he walloped Scourge with the mace at the end of his trunk. Scourge crashed down into the ground, not knowing for a moment what had hit him.

Raphael the Cyber-Husky, Lord Sycorax and his two minions Vladek and Romeo and Team Diamond were up against a variety of opponents. Team Chaotix (Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon and Charmy Bee) went for Sycorax and his minions, Team Diamond faced against Rouge the Bat and Bunnie Rabboh and Geoffrey St. John took on Raphael while watching Rouge's back. Lord Sycorax threw a punch at his loathsome son but Vector dodged the attack and elbowed him in the gut. Sycorax doubled over and Vector proceeded to chomp on his egotistical father's arm, something he was quite known for doing. Vector was angry at the fact his evil father was part of the armada and he was going to make sure he regretted making that choice. Vector uppercut Sycorax into the air with both fists as Espio and Charmy both kicked Vladek and Romeo. Vector lumbered after the former region leader while Vladek and Romeo both punched at Espio and Charmy. Espio dodged Vladek's attack and Charmy merely stung Romeo's arm. Espio punched Vladek in the face and Charmy stomped on Romeo's feet to make the chameleon wince in pain. Then the two kicked Romeo and Vladek onto their backs as hard as they could. Rouge screw-kicked her way through all four members of Team Diamond, hoping that the kick hurt all four of them at once. She had a very personal score to settle with the team for they had once killed her father and raided her jewel shop when she was just a child. Lennox, Roxy, Owen and Alistair all collided with the ground as they were knocked off their feet. Owen recovered first and tried to punch at Rouge but the bat kicked him in the fist, making Owen wince and retract his hand. Rouge then kicked Owen towards Bunnie Rabboh. Bunnie swung her metallic glove upwards and punched Owen in the back, throwing him into the air. She was pleased to see how well her new weapons were working, very worthy replacements for her cybernetics indeed. Rouge gave Bunnie the thumbs up and flew towards Lennox. Lennox shot at Rouge only for him to miss and get screw-kicked in the torso. Roxy watched this with deep satisfaction, pleased to see Rouge beating up Lennox for her. It was a pity that she was still on the enemy's side otherwise she would be joining in with Rouge. Alistair flew towards Bunnie, hoping to take her out but Bunnie blasted him down with her hand held laser cannon. Alistair crashed down onto the ground, groaning in pain. Raphael blasted at Bunnie with his sonic wave emitter but Bunnie pasted back, both attacks cancelling each other out as they hit each other. Geoffrey jumped into the air and dropkicked Raphael in the head, knocking him down onto his side as he hit him.

Silver and Blaze were both fighting against Captain Metal. Captain Metal blasted furiously at the two with his gun arm but Silver caught the blasts with his psychokinesis and threw them at other Dark Armada members. Captain Metal tried to stab Silver with his sword but Silver stopped him with a psychokinetic grab and he threw him towards Blaze. Blaze drew her arm back and kicked Captain Metal in the back, throwing him back towards Silver. Silver grabbed Captain Metal with his psychokinesis and slammed him down onto the ground as hard as he could.

"It's no use!" he crowed, "You can't stop me and Blaze together Captain Miscreant!"

"You may as well surrender now." said Blaze coldly, "Lest I be forced to cut your head off again."

Captain Metal refused to give up and he jumped up onto his feet. Silver tried to stop him with his psychokinesis but Captain Metal was a fraction too quick. He punched Silver in the face and knocked him down onto his back. Blaze retaliated with a fiery punch to the side of Captain Metal's face that nearly took his head off. Captain Metal slashed at Blaze, catching her across the face with his sword. Blaze let out a yelp of pain as she was slashed and Captain Metal took the opportunity to run for it. Blaze helped Silver back up onto his feet before running off after Captain Metal. The metal pirate ran over to the nearby cannon that he had brought with him to shoot Blaze with and he aimed it at Blaze. He fired at Blaze, hoping to kill her with it. The cannon blast was huge and as it sailed towards Blaze, the fire cat knew that it would kill her instantly. Silver caught it with his psychokinesis and he was about to toss it back to Captain Metal but he and Blaze were blast off their feet by Raphael's sonic wave emitter. Captain Metal was about to shoot Blaze while she was down with his cannon blast but he had a better idea. He aimed the cannon at Sonic, the blue hedgehog still fighting hard against Mecha Tails. If he took Sonic out, the shock of him being killed would distract the Royal Fighters so much that the Dark Armada could take them all out in one fell swoop. He aimed at Sonic and pulled the trigger. The cannon blast punched out of the cannon and roared towards Sonic, a huge fist of searing hot energy that had enough force to kill upon impact. Sonic was completely unaware of what was happening as he fought Mecha Tails but Mecha Tails saw the cannon blast and flew away, leaving Sonic to be killed. But Amy had also spotted the cannon blast and was horrified to see it heading towards Sonic, running as fast as she could, she charged towards Sonic.

"NOOO

just as it was in range. The hammer and cannon blast collided and the blast exploded into a fist of power and energy that shattered her Piko-Piko hammer instantly and blew her off her feet. The force of the attack knocked Sonic over too and he picked himself up just in time to watch Amy crash down with a sickening, bone-crunching thud on the ground. She bounced upwards from the impact and then came down a second time, much softer than the first thud, and she rolled to a stop. The remains of her Piko-Piko hammer fell down around her, the handle lying near her head and the hammer head lying in pieces all around her. Sonic zoomed over to Amy and observed her with tingling nerves running through him. Amy looked terrible. Her body was badly burnt and scorched in some places from the impact of the blast and her nose was streaming with blood. Her mouth had a trickle of blood coming from her lip and she had a nasty bruise from when she'd crashed down on the ground. She lay deathly still, not moving even an eyelid. Her eyes were closed and her breathing was shallow. Sonic felt her pulse desperately. His heart sank when he found out that her pulse was deathly weak. Amy was alive, but for how long? Sonic could feel himself getting ready to break down again. He threw his arms up into the air and let out a bloodcurdling wail of anguish. Amy Rose, his biggest fan and hopeful girlfriend and one of the best Royal Fighters on the team, was badly injured and clinging onto life. They had to get her out of here and fast. Sonic let some tears escape from his eyes as he picked up Amy's unconscious body. She was pretty much dead but Sonic was determined to save her. There was still hope for the hedgehog. Carrying her bridal-style, he whizzed off towards the Sky Patrol.

"Everybody! We have a casualty!" shrieked Sonic, "Amy's been badly injured and is dying! We need to get home NOW!"

The news hit the Royal Fighters like a punch to the stomach. They all stopped fighting and willingly abandoned their opponents, running after Sonic towards the Sky Patrol as fast as they could. The armada was about to run after them but Finitevus held up a hand, telling them to stop.

"Cease fighting! Let them go!" he barked.

"Are you out of your $%^ing mind Finitevus?!" bellowed Scourge angrily, "Why the bloody hell are you letting the morons go?!"

"Simple, I intend to relish their pain and torment." purred Finitevus, "Captain Metal has just taken out one of their Royal Fighters and forced them to retreat. That is a victory worth savouring and since Amy is pretty much dead…oh their misery will be so delicious."

"You bet it will." agreed Fiona, watching as the Royal Fighters filed into the Sky Patrol and prepared for rake off.

"Pity I didn't hit Sonic but I supposed Amy will be acceptable enough." said Captain Metal gleefully, "I can't wait ta see their miserable faces when Amy ends up in Davy Jones's locker!"

"Depends if they bury her at sea." snickered Raphael.

"Nevertheless, we have won today." said Finitevus triumphantly, watching the Sky Patrol's engines starting up as the ship prepared to take flight, "The Royal Fighters have lost one of their own and our mission is a success. The Synthetic Chaos Energy will make a come back and the Royal Fighters won't be prepared for us…they'll be too busy grieving for poor Amy Rose to care."

He laughed maniacally as the Sky Patrol ascended slowly up in the sky. The Dark Armada was triumphant and Finitevus could see many more victories coming their way now. One Royal Fighter had been taken out…soon the rest of them would be taken out too…

Up on the Sky Patrol, Amy Rose had been rushed immediately to the medical bay. The ship had one in case of any medical problems onboard and Amy was laid down on a bed quickly. The Royal Fighters all gathered around Amy as Miranda and Kari fitted her with a heart-monitor and observed her condition. The tone in the room was nothing but silence, grief and horror. Amy lay deathly still on the bed, her head resting peacefully on the pillow and her arms flat against her sides. She was breathing, barely, and he body looked dreadful. Cream and Cosmo both broke down into floods of tears, Cream crying the hardest of all at poor Amy. She wailed into her hands, drenching her gloves with tears and Cosmo hugged Cream comfortingly as if hoping she could somehow make the rabbit feel better. Everybody else shared Cosmo and Cream's anguish. Amy was a good friend of many Royal Fighters and a good fighter. It would be a tragedy to lose her like this.

"Oh Amyyyyyyyy!" sobbed Cream, "Please, please, please not Amy! Please don't let Amy die! I don't want Amy to die!"

"This is terrible! One of my best friends…what happened to her?!" howled Cosmo.

"Captain Metal shot at her with a cannon." said Blaze grimly, "He had been aiming for Sonic…but Amy took the blow for him. She used her hammer to smash the blow but it appears to have still grievously wounded her."

"She's gotta be alright!" howled Cream despairingly, "Please let her be alright! I don't want her to die!"

"We're hopping that Amy dying won't be the case sweetheart…" said Sally, trying hard not to cry herself but losing the battle, "We've lost one Royal Fighter already, PLEASE don't let it be two!"

"Taran was killed by the armada…now it seems Amy's going to join him." said Scott sadly, "I hope that's not gonna happen…we can't afford anymore loses."

"Miranda, what's the diagnosis?" asked Sonic desperately, his eyes still streaming with tears.

Miranda ran an X-ray scan on Amy and Kari checked the heart-monitor she had fitted Amy up with. The heartbeat was very weak, each slow, ominous heartbeat with a tense pause in-between. The X-ray scan was done quickly and Miranda looked at the results. The screen showed her Amy's skeleton and Miranda saw that it wasn't good at all. She shook her head gravely and looked at everybody with a sad face.

"The poor dear's got multiple fraction bones including fractured rips and a rather acerbic blow to the head." she said, "She's very critical that's for sure."

"Will she survive?!" cried Matilda in horror.

"It's hard to say…" said Miranda glumly, "She's somewhat stable for the moment. She needs medical care and now or she'll die."

"We'll give her all she needs when we get back to New Mobotropolis!" blurted Sonic, "We've gotta save her! We've just gotta!"

"Me and Kari will do what we can to keep her stable enough until we get home." said Miranda, "I'm sure Mariah's magic medicines will save her when we get back."

"I hope so…" said Sonic tensely.

He knelt down by Amy's side and put a hand gently over her badly burnt hand. If Amy was awake now, she'd likely be going gaga over the fact Sonic was holding her hand now. As is, she just lay still on the bed, weakly breathing. Sonic let more tears fall down his cheeks as he saw how critical Amy's condition was. She would survive though, he knew she would.

"Thanks for saving my life Amy…now we're going to save yours." declared Sonic, "Mark my words Amy…you aren't gonna die. We'll save you…I promise we will."

Receiving no reply from the comatose she-hog, Sonic just lowered his head and cried some more, feeling for all the world that he might never stop…

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 26: Welcome to the Jungle Sally Acorn

---

... ... I've...got nothing...j ust... just wait until the next chapter...:(

Dark Armada Part 12: Remember the Fallen

Story 212: Remember the Fallen

The Dark Armada Chapter 12 of 25

It was the dawning of a new day and the day dawned dark and grey with stormy clouds looming over everything down below, threatening to throw it down with torrents of rainfall at any moment. A very appropriate atmosphere for the dark times that were happening recently.

The Royal Fighters Service was in a war, a war that was much bigger and much worse than their two year war with Dr. Eggman. They were against the insidious Dark Armada, an army of villains and mercenaries gathered together by Dr. Finitevus. The armada had proven itself worse than Dr. Eggman by a country mile by single-handedly managing to enslave Tails the Fox, de-roboticizing Bunnie Rabbot and killing off Taran the Lynx. They had also managed to start gathering together materials to make their Synthetic Chaos Energy out of and despite the heroes's best efforts to try and stop the armada and rescue Tails, Finitevus kept outsmarting them by consistently being one step ahead. He had a mysterious agent spying on the Royal Fighters and the Royal Fighters were still completely in the dark about who it was. Thus no matter what plan the Royal Fighters came up with, Finitevus knew what they would do. Even just yesterday he knew what they were planning and he didn't need his agent to spill the beans on him. The Dark Armada was currently relishing in a recent victory over the Royal Fighters that they had scored. In Black Acropolis, they had gathered an astonishing amount of lava to make Synthetic Chaos Energy with and not only had they managed to keep their finds without the Royal Fighters doing any damage to their plans, but they had grievously wounded the hammer-swinging heroine Amy Rose. The armada seemed certain that she was dead, especially since Amy had take a cannon blast extremely close up by hitting it with her hammer. This had been done to stop the blast from hitting Sonic the Hedgehog, the actual target of the cannon. The cannon had been fired by Captain Metal, a part Metal Sonic, part robot pirate machine who had a vengeful thirst for Blaze the Cat's hide.

The Nefarious , the Dark Armada's wicked flagship, cruised peacefully through the dull grey clouds in the sky, blending in perfectly with them due to its predominantly black colour scheme. It did not need to be invisible for nobody would see it hidden among the clouds like this. Not even a satellite would see it. Aboard The Nefarious was the whole Dark Armada. They were gathered together in the meeting room and much to the armada's annoyance, Captain Metal was once again crowing about his crippling of Amy Rose. He seemed to take great pride in the fact that he of all people had actually taken out one of the big name Royal Fighters. The armada groaned as the robot rapscallion began boasting about yesterday's victory as if he was merely telling his shipmates an old sea tale.

"So there we all were…working away in Black Acropolis and getting as much lava was we possibly could fer Finitevus's Synthetic Chaos Energy formula." crooned Captain Metal, "Than shiver me timbers! Tharr Royal Fighters show up and those scurrrrvy landlubbers attempted to sabotage our mission! So that's when I got me cannon and took aim at Sonic tharr Hedgehog! I almost got the beastie! But then Amy Rose took tharr blast fer him…and she be so crippled that tharr Royal Fighters were forced ta retreat! And all because of me excellent cannon shot! Be that tharr best sea tale ye've ever heard me hearties?"

"Yeah, it was the first dozen times we heard it." sighed Fiona Fox in annoyance, "Seriously Captain Boast-a-lot, do you ever talk about anything else?"

"Yeah! We get it! You took out Amy Rose!" moaned Scourge the Hedgehog, equally as annoyed as his girlfriend, "Big $^£%ing deal! It's not like you took out Sonic himself or anything! And why take such pride in snuffing Amy? It's not like she's that big a deal!"

"Yaaargh, but she is laddie." purred Captain Metal, "She be one of tharr heaviest hitters of tharr Royal Fighters. And she also be one of tharr big names of tharr service. Killing her was certainly a great way ta redeem myself for me humiliation at tharr hands of Blaze tharr Cat! Harr, harr, I shall relish this victory fer many days to come!"

"Careful Captain, you may dislocate a shoulder patting yourself on the back." snorted Zira the Ruthless matter-of-factly.

"Watch yer tone lassie!" snarled Captain Metal, pointing sharply at Zira with his gun and sword arm.

"No Captain Metal, our kung-fu mistress has a very profound point." said Dr. Finitevus, clearly sounding irritated with Captain Metal's endless boasting, "Never take too much pride in your achievements, that can lead to your downfall. And besides, we don't even know if Amy's dead or not."

"But captain! She got hit by me cannon blast! She couldn't had survived that!" protested Captain Metal.

"Never underestimate the Royal Fighters my robotic rapscallion." said Finitevus warningly, "They have survived MUCH worse than a mere cannon blast. I very much doubt that Amy will survive but I also have a nagging feeling in my skull that she may not be dead."

"Well if you hadn't decided to let the Royal Fighters go then we could have made completely sure of that!" snapped Lord Sycorax angrily, "This is why the great me should be in charge! I won't make moronic mistakes like our impudent leader Finitevus! This armada needs a true leader such as the amazing me, Lord Sycorax!"

"I suppose you want to commit treason against me and get dissected like Scourge did, only this time I won't stitch any new parts on you?" growled Finitevus menacingly, "Anymore talk like that and you're dead meat!"

"Yeah Lord Sycorax, keep your big fat mouth shut!" added Scourge, "Finitevus is just fine as our leader thank you!"

The reptilian rebel looked like he was about to argue some more but he didn't think that would be a good idea so he kept himself quiet. He folded his arms and grumbled furiously under his breath.

"Thank you very much." sneered Finitevus, "Now then, to make doubly sure that Amy Rose is dead, I am going to send over two very reliable members of this armada."

"Me and Fiona?" asked Scourge hopefully.

"Absolutely not, I was referring to Zira the Ruthless and Mecha Tails." said Finitevus coldly.

"Why master, this is quite an honour." said Zira gratefully, "Thank you. But why me and our Robian slave?"

"You're strong enough to match at least half of the service unaided." noted Finitevus, "And Mecha Tails…well I just very much relish the thought of having Amy killed by Sonic's best friend…if she's not already dead."

"Seriously doc, you're a creepy little cuss you are." said Roxy the Raccoon, risking everything just to say that to Finitevus.

"Roxy, do you want your head to go "kaboom"?!" snarled Lennox Meers the Meerkat threateningly, making Roxy lean back a little in fear.

"No Lennox, Roxy is quite alright." said Finitevus, holding up a hand dismissively, "She is right, I am creepy. And I admit it with PRIDE. Now then, I'll just get Mecha Tails and then he and Zira can go over to New Mobotropolis. If Amy isn't dead…she will be." he purred sinisterly.

"And Captain Egotism over there won't be the one to do it!" jeered Scourge mockingly, pointing at Captain Metal and making a rude face to accompany his gesture.

Scourge came very close to having his head blasted off. Captain Metal leapt up in his seat and aimed his gun arm at him only for Finitevus to suddenly leap up in his seat and throw a warp ring in Captain Metal's way. This caused Captain Metal to shoot a powerful laser blast through the warp ring and because Finitevus had opened the exit behind Captain Metal, he ended up shooting himself in the back. The blast did no harm to Captain Metal for he couldn't feel pain, but it did do some damage to his back. Damage he would have no idea about because he couldn't feel pain. All he knew was that he'd just shot himself in the back for despite not feeling any pain, he still felt the shot slam into his back. He collapsed onto the table, confused as to why he couldn't stand anymore. His inability to feel pain had ironically become a big Achilles heel for him.

"Grr...too weak to stand back up..." he muttered, "Me shot must have done a lot of damage ta me."

"Not that you'd know since you have no pain receptors." muttered Finitevus, "I really would recommend re-installing them for not feeling pain is going to be your biggest weakness. I'll have you repaired soon enough. In the meantime, I trust there will be no more attempts on Scourge's life just for pointing out something accurate and truthful?"

"Yes captain..." growled Captain Metal, clearly embarrassed and humiliated at the fact Finitevus had caused him to take himself out with his own weapon.

"Good. You're all dismissed except for Zira." ordered Finitevus, "Me and her are just going to fetch Mecha Tails for the mission."

The armada did as they were told and they all filed out of the room save for Zira. She stayed with Finitevus and they both waited for everybody to leave. Once they had gone, Finitevus summoned a warp ring to his hand and flicked it over his shoulder. He and Zira walked through it, the warp ring taking them to the laboratory. Mecha Tails was there, as usual, working on the Synthetic Chaos Energy formula. He had started mixing up lava with Chaos Energy both positive and negative but his work was interrupted by Finitevus arriving into the laboratory and striding up to him.

"Mecha Tails, I have a job for you..." he announced delightedly...

The New Mobotropolis Hospital was in a scene of despair and remorse. And it wasn't because it had actually started raining over in New Mobotropolis either. After being brutally injured by the cannon blast she had taken for Sonic the Hedgehog, Amy Rose had been quickly rushed to the New Mobotropolis Hospital upon arriving home at New Mobotropolis yesterday. The hedgehog was in a critical condition but Miranda the Mongoose and Kari the Rat had kept her stable for long enough so she would survive in time to receive proper medical care. Amy was now in a hospital room, Room number 8643, and lying on a hospital bed. She was dressed in a hospital gown and nothing else. Even her headband and gloves had been removed. She lay peacefully on the bed with her head resting gently against the pillow and a thick, warm duvet over her body. Her head was facing up at the ceiling, eyes tightly closed and her chest rising and falling slowly with every breath she took. She had a heart monitor fitted to her, the monitor beeping slowly as it registered her weak but still beating heart. Amy was a dreadful sight to behold, badly burnt, bruised and with multiple broken bones but any bleeding on her had stopped thankfully. Mariah the Medicine Cat stood beside Amy, stroking her head softly and injecting something into her arm with a syringe. The syringe had one of her magic medicines inside of it, a mauve coloured liquid that had a slight sparkle to it and it would heal Amy. But it would take time to heal. Even her magic medicines wouldn't repair Amy in such a short time. The hedgehog could be bedbound for quite a while, at least a couple of weeks at the most Mariah calculated. The cat looked at Amy with nothing but grief. She had lived in Knothole with Amy for most of the little girl's life so she knew Amy very well. To see her like this truly made her heart ache. She looked forward to seeing Amy fully recover from this terrible condition she was in. Amy deserved to live for all the good she had done with Sonic and friends over the years.

The elderly cat soon received a surprise as the door to Amy's room opened and a few Mobians walked inside. Sonic the Hedgehog was one of them and he was accompanied by Queen Sally Acorn, Cosmo the Seedrian and Cream the Rabbit. Cream had her parents with her, Vanilla the Rabbit and Porthos the Rabbit. Sonic and Sally were hand-in-hand together as they walked up to the bed. Cream and Cosmo both had gifts for the comatose Amy. Cream had a bouquet of flowers, a bunch of balloons and a "Get Well Soon" card and Cosmo had a bunch of brightly wrapped gifts that Amy would open once she came to. The two girls were hysterical, already crying floods of tears before they even handed out the gifts. Sonic seemed to be past the uncontrollable crying phase, his face a mask of grimness and misery but not a single tear shedding from his eyes. Sonic and Sally walked over to Mariah, hoping to hear some good news.

"So Mariah...will...Amy be alright?" asked Sonic worriedly.

"Oh the poor dear...she's been very badly hurt and she's received a lot of damage. But miraculously...she'll survive." reported Mariah, "I've given her a dose of my healing potion. It's a medicine of mine that repairs the body from any damage done to it but it'll take time. At least a couple of weeks. I'm sorry but rushing something like that could seriously harm the dear child. And I think she's had enough harm done to her already."

"It's perfectly fine Mariah." said Sally reassuringly, "We just want our beloved comrade to heal and heal well. If we have to wait an entire year for her to recover, we'll do just that."

"Thankfully it won't be that long." said Sonic grimly, "Man how scary it was to think that one of my best friends was gonna die...I can't thank the heavens enough for sparing Amy."

"I think there's two little children who agree with that statement Sonic." said Mariah softly, looking sadly at Cosmo and Cream as they placed their gifts at the foot of Amy's bed.

Cosmo lay down the presents stacked atop each other at one bed post and Cream placed the bouquet of flowers by the other bed post. Cream tied the balloons to the bed post beside Amy's head and she hung the Get Well Soon card onto two of the balloons. The card didn't weigh the balloons down. After that had been done, Cream and Cosmo both stood together beside Amy's bed, trying to control their sobbing long enough to even speak to the comatose girl on the bed before them.

"Amy...I don't know if you can hear me...but I just wanna tell you this." snivelled Cream, wiping her eyes away futilely, "You've been a wonderful friend to me over the years. I remember when we first met. My mother had been kidnapped and you were the first to offer to help me. Since then you've taken good care of me, even treated me like I was your sister. Even when I got my mother back, you've been a very good friend to me. Thank you for all the good times Amy and I hope you wake up soon so we can have...some more...good..."

Cream couldn't finish off her sentence. The chocolate-eye-coloured bunny lowered her head into Amy's duvet and began to wail again. Cream was such a sweet, innocent, cute little girl that the sight of her crying could bring tears to even the most stone-hearted of people. Somehow, Sonic doubted that even Finitevus would shed a tear for Cream at this point. Cosmo, still crying herself, patted Cream softly on the back to comfort her. Cream didn't seem to notice, continuing to sob into Amy's duvet uncontrollably. Vanilla and Porthos felt nothing but sorrow for their beloved daughter and they wanted so badly to cheer her up somehow. But it seemed that as long as Amy was comatose, Cream wouldn't be feeling better anytime soon.

"Oh my poor daughter...Amy was so kind to her and it just breaks my heart to see Cream so upset." said Vanilla sadly, "I hope Amy will recover soon, that'll make Cream so much happier."

"Mariah, how long do you think Amy will be in a coma for?" asked Porthos.

"She'll be awake at some point tomorrow, that is a fact." said Mariah, emphasizing on the last four words as if making a point on how much of a fact it was, "My healing potion may take a week or two to heal a damaged body but it gets people out of comas much faster. Amy will be awake tomorrow and I'm sure as heck that your sweet little Cream will be VERY happy when she wakes up."

Cream looked up from the duvet she had stained with her tears as if the mere mention of her name was enough to bring her out of her crying fit.

"What was that?" she asked.

"Amy will wake up tomorrow." announced Mariah, "Make sure you're there for her when she's awake. The sight of you will really brighten her up when she awakens."

"I'll be right there for her first thing tomorrow!" declared Cream, wiping her eyes dry, "I hope Miss Rose likes the gifts we've given her."

"I'm sure she'll love them Cream." said Cosmo brightly, wiping her eyes dry too, "And I'm sure she'll have a lovely recovery."

"With Mariah's medicine doing its magic work on her...she will." said Sonic happily, "And then she'll make Captain Metal pay for nearly killing her. I can definitely say that he's earned himself a new enemy. I.e, me!"

"Not only is Blaze baying for his oil, you will be doing so now." noted Sally, "Oooh Captain Metal will be sorry he was ever manufactured, he really will."

"I intend to make him feel that way." growled Sonic, "Amy may have been a nuisance for me in the past...but she's still one of my best friends and also one of my inspirations for giving love a try out. That and I still very much appreciate how maturely she handled the fact that I'm in love with you Sally and how she helped to make our first date one to remember. Amy's done many good things, for me and everybody else. She deserves to be avenged." he declared. He was quite amazed as to how much heart he really had for his friends but the feeling of having a big heart for his friends made him feel wonderful inside.

"I agree." said Sally, hugging her beloved hedgehog, "And we'll all make the armada pay for what they've done to her as well as Tails, Bunnie and Taran."

"One enslaved, one weakened a little and one killed...now we have a Royal Fighter bed bound but recovering. The armada has much to pay for." said Sonic coldly, "So, shall we go back to Royal HQ and plan our next attack? I'm REALLY eager to give the armada a thrashing after what they've done to Amy!"

"Gladly." said Sally smoothly, "If you want Cream and Cosmo, you can stay with Amy if you please."

"We'll do that." said Cosmo, "I'm not to keen on getting into another battle at this moment."

"Me too. Miss Rose needs our company." said Cream.

Sonic and Sally nodded, understanding Cream and Cosmo's decision to stay with Amy in the hospital room. They very much loved Amy as a good friend of theirs and wanted to spend as much time with her as possible, even if she couldn't see or hear them right now. But she would awaken tomorrow and get to see her beloved friends once again. Sonic and Sally left the room, leaving the rabbit and Seedrian behind as they headed out of the hospital to Royal HQ. Vanilla and Porthos seemed to want to stay with Amy, Cream and Cosmo for they didn't leave the room either. As they headed to Royal HQ, Sonic began to imagine how he would make the armada pay for roboticizing his best friend and crippling one of his best friends. They had crossed the line and Sonic was going to show them no mercy, just like how in his final battle with Eggman he showed him little to no mercy. And Sonic knew very well that it wasn't going to be a pretty sight once he began cutting loose on the armada...

Meanwhile, a warp ring opened up and out of it stepped Zira the Ruthless and Mecha Tails. The warp ring had opened up in the centre of the city and as they stepped out, Zira began looking around New Mobotropolis. She had never been in the city before so this was unfamiliar territory for her. She scowled a hideous scowl of disgust as she observed her surroundings.

"Ugh, this hideous city is where the Royal Fighters live?!" she growled, screwing her face up, "What a repulsive metropolis! Chun-Nan is a much more attractive country!"

"Hence why you want to conquer it." noted Mecha Tails.

"Yes." replied Zira, "Now then, since you were once an occupant of this city, where is Royal HQ?" she asked.

"It is over there next to Castle Acorn." answered Mecha Tails, pointing in the direction of the Royal Fighters Service headquarters up on a nearby hill next to an opulent looking castle, "You keep the Royal Fighters busy, I will terminate the enemy codenamed Amy Rose."

"Have fun..." purred Zira, a wicked smile spreading out on her face as she ran towards Royal HQ.

"I do not understand the concept of "fun"." droned Mecha Tails, more to himself than Zira as he flew off towards the New Mobotropolis Hospital, fully expecting to find Amy in there for there was no other place she could possibly be in.

Zira looked over her shoulder as Mecha Tails headed off to Royal HQ to keep the Royal Fighters distracted, as well as add some dead bodies to the armada's kill count. Finitevus had given Zira and Mecha Tails a pretty good plan. Mecha Tails would go to the hospital and kill the bed bound Amy Rose while she dealt with the Royal Fighters. She knew full well she wouldn't beat all of them but Finitevus told her to at least kill one Royal Fighter. Or at the most, cripple some more of them so they could be in Amy's position too. Zira hoped very much that she would at least kill Princess Matilda, the princess of Chun-Nan and one of the world's strongest fighters. She still owed Matilda a beating for using the Six Dragon Strike on her. Her chest still ached a little from when Matilda had pounded her into submission with it yesterday. Well when she was through with Matilda, the mongoose would have more than a chest ache. As Zira ran to Royal HQ, she spotted Sonic and Sally entering the building. That was a good sign. She had the chance to get rid of Sonic himself too. How honourable that would be for her! Zira had scores to settle with Sonic too for he'd aided in her defeat in her second take over attempt by bringing Conquering Storm over to face her. Sonic would run his last mile today. Zira stormed into Royal HQ, immediately catching the attention of Sonic and Sally. They both turned around and gasped in horror at what lay before them.

"Zira!" cried Sonic, "Huh, should have expected Finitevus to send some of his precious armada members to finish what Captain Metal started!"

"What are you doing here Zira?!" growled Sally, deploying her arm blades and getting ready to fight, "Are you here to kill us?!"

"You just answered your own question you foolish woman." snorted Zira, "But I'm mostly here to see if Captain Metal succeeded in killing Amy Rose. Since you said "finish what Captain Metal started", I assume the heathen is still alive?"

"You bet." said Sonic coldly, "And your ugly army's gonna pay for nearly killing her!"

"I sincerely doubt that Sonic…" said Zira sinisterly, "Especially since Amy is going to receive a very unwelcome visitor. I'm not alone you see…Mecha Tails is here too and since Amy's still alive…let's just say that Mecha Tails might not show much remorse in killing her."

Sonic's heart stopped. Finitevus had sent Mecha Tails to kill Amy?! If he succeeded in that task, Tails would never forgive himself once he was back on the side of good! Sonic had to stop his best friend from killing Amy or Tails would be scarred for life, never to be the same person again.

"No, not gonna happen!" growled Sonic, "Outta my way Zira!"

He then charged into the leopard and spin-dashed her straight in the gut, throwing her through the door and out of Royal HQ. The moment Zira was outside and thrown down onto the ground, Sonic zoomed off towards the New Mobotropolis Hospital as fast as he possibly could. He felt confident enough with leaving Royal HQ in his friends care. There were many Royal Fighters who would easily deal with Zira without him. That left him to deal with Mecha Tails before he could harm Amy. As Sonic ran towards the hospital, Zira picked herself up and tried to run after him. What stopped this from happening was Sally running up behind her and grabbing her by the tail. Zira spun around at a blinding speed, walloping Sally across the face with a backhand that left her with the mother of all headaches. Sally knew that Zira was a kung-fu mistress. That meant very hard attacks. But because she knew this, it was why she thought it wise not to challenge Zira alone. Zira quickly found out that she had multiple opponents and not just Sally to deal with. The squirrel queen had chosen Princess Matilda, Bladefeather the Falcon, Mushu the Iguana, Li Moon the Vixen, Knuckles the Echidna and Shade the Echidna to join her in her battle with Zira. They seemed very fitting choices for the fight, especially all of Team Chun-Nan.

Zira narrowed her eyes at Matilda, all her hate and rage focusing squarely on her and nobody else.

"So...the princess is here for another fight." she purred, "Good. I owe you a broken neck for using that Six Dragon Strike on me!"

"You won't be breaking anybody's neck on my watch Zira." declared Matilda, "You shame our country. You come to New Mobotropolis to strike us when we're unprepared, and even have an assistant to strike a wounded warrior! You have no honour!"

"I suppose the impudent rodent in the blue vest told you that..." muttered Zira in annoyance, "And who needs a sense of honour like yours anyway? The only honour around here is victory! No matter how it is achieved!"

"Well allow us to show what we think to your sick idea of honour..." said Sally coldly, "Royal Fighters, ATTACK!"

Princess Matilda had already leapt into action before Sally even finished her sentence. The kung-fu mongoose leaped towards Zira like a tiger pouncing on the unfortunate deer that it was hunting. Zira pounced into the air towards her and the two kung-fu mistresses ended up colliding quite comically into each other. As they both crashed down on the ground, Bladefeather and Mushu made their moves. Zira got back up onto her feet but the two seized her by the arms and held her firmly in place while Matilda aimed a powerful punch to the stomach on her. She hit Zira squarely in the centre and made the leopard double over in pain, coughing loudly as the wind was knocked out of her. Zira broke free of Bladefeather and Mushu's grip and clawed at them both, leaving horrible cuts across both their faces. Matilda tried to punch Zira again but the leopard caught her by the arm and threw her over her shoulder. The mongoose winced as she hit the ground hard. Li Moon feebly tried to fight Zira, launching a kick that wasn't even close to the kind of power Matilda had at Zira. The evil martial artist blocked the kick before it came within five inches of her with her hand. She twisted Li Moon's foot and spun her over onto her front. Matilda gasped in horror for her friend and she ran towards Zira, hoping to save Li Moon. What she did instead was get walloped by Li Moon herself as Zira swung her around into the princess like a baton. Knuckles and Shade were next to attack, both of them charging into Zira's back and knocking her clean off her feet. Zira got back up only for Knuckles to release a torrent of punches on her and even take her off her feet with a terrific uppercut. He watched with satisfaction as Zira hurled through the air and crashed down just metres away. Matilda gasped in amazement at what had happened.

"Wow…impressive." she mused, "Not many people who don't know kung-fu have been able to do that successfully on somebody as powerful as Zira."

"Well I have fought many powerful opponents before." crowed Knuckles, "Especially Zira. So one could say I've had lots of practice fighting against really powerful opponents."

"Indeed but I doubt that will have stopped Zira." murmured Shade, "She does seem quite resilient an opponent."

"Resilient doesn't even begin to describe Zira in a fight..." muttered Knuckles, remembering all too well how fights with her had gone during her first encounter with him, Sonic and some others the two years ago.

Zira picked herself up, seeming to be mostly unharmed, and she cricked her neck as she turned her head side to side. It was almost as if Knuckles's onslaughts hadn't even deterred her in the slightest despite how hard he'd hit her. Zira crouched down on all fours and ran towards Knuckles. The emerald guardian stood his ground and prepared to launch another attack. But he never got the chance for Zira pounced on him at a speed even Sonic wouldn't have been fast enough to dodge and tackled him to the ground. Her hands closed around the echidna's throat, hoping to add another broken neck to her collection of dead bodies. Knuckles slammed Zira in the side of her head, disorientating her enough to make her loosen her grip on him. Shade yanked on Zira's ponytail and pulled her back, allowing Knuckles to get back onto his feet. But Zira kicked Shade in the thigh to make her let go, the female echidna crying out as she was kicked. The leopard then grabbed one of Knuckles's arms and proceeded to sharply yank it to one side, breaking it and rendering it useless to him. Knuckles let out a horrible, agonizing scream as he felt the bones in his right arm crack and fracture under Zira's attack.

Zira then threw Knuckles down onto the ground, leaving the crippled echidna to clutch his arm and writhe in pain on the ground. Horrified, Matilda decided to try and end this before anybody else got hurt. She and Sally both ran towards Zira and the two royal women sailed through the air as they jumped up off the ground. Zira only just had enough time to catch sight of the two as she was given a double kick to the face, one from each woman. It was bad enough she had an impudent princess to deal with, now she was dealing with a queen as well. Two royals for the price of one as far as she was concerned. Zira retaliated with a sharp jab to the belly on Sally and a punch to the shoulder on Matilda. Sally doubled over and Matilda winced in pain, checking to see if her shoulder was still OK. Thankfully, it wasn't broken so the Chun-Nan princess could continue fighting. She wrapped her arm around Zira's throat and held her in a tight, unbreakable chokehold. While she was restrained, Sally decided to give herself and the others something to aim at so she deployed one of her energy blades and slashed Zira across both thighs with it. If Zira continued fighting, they would have a great weak spot to aim at. She remembered how Finitevus had cut her thigh and kept kicking her in it to gain an advantage on her so she decided to try the tactic for herself. Zira growled angrily, more furious than hurt at the squirrel for slashing her thighs. She head-butted Matilda in the jaw to make her release her so she could attack Sally. The first thing that Sally did was kick Zira in the slash on her left thigh. Zira gritted her teeth, trying as hard as she could to hold in the stinging pain shooting up her leg and into pelvis. This was enough for Matilda to sneak up behind Zira and roundhouse kick her in the head. The attack threw Zira off her feet and sent her crashing down at Bladefeather's feet. As she picked herself up, Bladefeather drew out his daggers and prepared to add some more cuts to her body. The leopard dodged the falcon's attack only to then be slugged in the back by Mushu.

Grrr...I hope Mecha Tails is having an easier job than I am! Zira moaned inside her head as she whirled around to slug Mushu in the stomach...

Meanwhile, Mecha Tails was roaming down a corridor inside the hospital. It had taken him a lot of searching around in such a big building but he was getting eerily close to Amy's room. He was in the corridor that contained rooms 8640-8680 and he passed by three of the rooms already in his search for Amy. He came across Room number 8643 and peered curiously through the window of the door. What he saw was Cream and Cosmo seemingly chatting to somebody on the bed. And that somebody was his target, Amy Rose. She was still comatose and unmoving but Mecha Tails took note of the heartbeat monitor beeping slowly but steadily away in the corner, clearly attached to Amy and monitoring her progress. She was alive! Captain Metal had failed to kill her after all! Finitevus was right to be sceptical! Mecha Tails noted three other bodies in the room, Vanilla and Porthos the Rabbit and Mariah the Medicine Cat but he didn't care about them. He was only after Amy. He supposed he could kill Cream as well since two dead Royal Fighters for the price of one was a good thing to achieve. Something in his robotical mind told him to spare Cosmo though. He wasn't sure why but he knew better than to question his thoughts. If he wasn't to kill Cosmo then he wasn't to kill her. His target was Amy and he'd get some pleasure out of adding Cream to the kill list. Mecha Tails grabbed the door handle and he opened the door, walking inside the room and earning a chorus of gasps from the occupants inside. Cosmo looked like she was about to have a heart-attack whereas Cream looked like she was going to faint any moment now, very pleasing reactions from the girls to his very presence as far as Mecha Tails was concerned.

"TAILS!" shrieked Cosmo.

"What are you doing here Mr. Tails?" asked Cream worriedly.

"My codename is MECHA Tails, not just Tails." droned Mecha Tails coldly, "I am here to finish what Captain Metal started. If you want to live then leave this room. NOW."

Cream and Cosmo somehow managed to look even more shocked than they already did, a feat that one would think was impossible to achieve. This was the worst thing that Finitevus could order their roboticized friend to do, to go and murder one of his own friends in cold blood! They had to stop Mecha Tails before he did this. Mariah seemed to be the first to go ahead with this for she stood defensively in front of Amy.

"Tails you poor boy, I will not allow you to murder one of your friends like this!" she declared, "You'll have to get through me first if you want to harm Amy!"

"I am not murdering one of my own friends. Amy is not my friend. She is an enemy of the Dark Armada." droned Mecha Tails, "As for your second inquiry..."

Mecha Tails the proceeded to lash out at Mariah and plunge his claws straight into her gut! The medicine cat let out a terrible shriek as her stomach was impaled by Mecha Tails's sharp, metal claws. There was a chorus of horrified gasps from everybody else in the room as they bore witness to what had happened. Mecha Tails showed no emotion for what he'd just done to Mariah. He yanked his claws out of Mariah's stomach and left the cat to collapse onto the floor, a red puddle expanding underneath her as her gut streamed with blood from the five puncture wounds inflicted on it. Mariah tried to cry out for help but the poor, dying feline was helpless to do anything. She couldn't even make a sound, only stare helplessly and clutch her wounded gut in anguish. There were tears in her eyes, tears of horror as she knew the inevitable was coming. Mecha Tails just strode past her, leaving Mariah to bleed to death on the floor. The cat's eyes closed as he walked by and her arm fell limp beside her. Cream and Cosmo couldn't move. They were too shocked at what had happened to do anything. Mecha Tails had just killed Mariah the Medicine Cat! Now they would never be able to cure themselves with Mariah's magic medicines ever again! What sickened them was how swiftly and ruthlessly Mecha Tails did this and how he showed no remorse for his actions. Finitevus had well and truly corrupted the poor fox beyond belief. Mecha Tails stood beside Amy's bed and he aimed his blood-stained claws at the unconscious hedgehog. One simple plunge into her chest and it would be over.

"NOOOOOOOOOOOO!" howled Cream.

Despite being petrified by the death of Mariah, Cream had come back into reality just in time to stop Mecha Tails from killing Amy. The rabbit pounced on Mecha Tails and tackled him to the ground.

Her pet Chao Cheese and her parents Vanilla and Porthos seemed equally as keen to help Cream subdue Mecha Tails. Vanilla and Porthos knelt down on his arms and Cheese sat on his visor, obscuring his vision while Cream sat on top of him. Her eyes were full of tears again.

"Mr. Tails, please stop this!" sobbed Cream, "You're our friend! You're not a mindless machine working for Finitevus! Stop doing bad things and come back to us!"

"I tire of your impudence..." growled Mecha Tails, "Why do you Royal Fighters keep insisting I'm one of your comrades? I am part of the Dark Armada. Please stop trying to manipulate me."

"But we're not!" shouted Cosmo, running over to Mecha Tails, "We're telling you the truth! You're one of us! Finitevus has corrupted you and he's using you as his mindless slave! Please Tails, stop working for Finitevus and come back to us so we can save you!"

"I'm not corrupted. You Royal Fighters are." said Mecha Tails coldly, "And corruption must be purged with fire...like my master Finitevus says!"

He then proceeded to throw everybody off of himself in a feat that nobody was sure of how he achieved it. He was clearly stronger than he looked. Cream, Vanilla and Porthos all crashed into the wall together and Cosmo found herself backing away from Mecha Tails. Mecha Tails advanced on her and he grabbed Cosmo by the neck with one hand. Cosmo gripped his wrist, trying desperately to get free.

"T-T-Tails! P-p-please let me go!" she whimpered feebly, "D-d-don't k-k-kill me! Please!"

"I have no orders to terminate you Cosmo." droned Mecha Tails, "But I wasn't given orders not to hurt you. I will hurt you as punishment for aiding my enemies. If Finitevus ever orders me to kill you...then I'll do it."

He raised one of his sharp, metal tails and prepared to give Cosmo a horrible slash across the side, making the Seedrian shake furiously and begin squirming desperately in his grasp.

"NO! PLEASE NO!" screamed Cosmo as Mecha Tails drew the tail back and aimed for a brutal slash attack on her side.

But just as Mecha Tails prepared to slash Cosmo, he was whisked swiftly off his feet and thrown into a wall by something very powerful and very hard. Cosmo was able to identify what had happened by the familiar blue blur she caught sight of as Mecha Tails hurled over her and across the room. She turned and saw Sonic the Hedgehog standing there, fists clenched and his face contorting with loathing. Loathing for what his best friend was doing against his will thanks to the Robian cage he was imprisoned in. Mecha Tails picked himself up and glowered at Sonic, claws bared and tails ready to slice him to ribbons.

"Hey Mecha Tails, so glad you could come." said Sonic grimly, "I've been trying so desperately to get you de-roboticized that it warms my heart to see you've delivered yourself straight to us so we can get you saved."

"Negative: I was just leaving." replied Mecha Tails bluntly.

Mecha Tails then turned on his heels and threw himself at the nearby window, smashing it into shards of glass and escaping the hospital room before anybody could stop him. Sonic whizzed up to the window and leapt for Mecha Tails like a graceful gymnast hurling himself onto the next swinging trapeze. He just made it, grabbing onto his ankles and holding on tight as the roboticized fox began spinning his propeller-like tails around. Mecha Tails looked down and saw that he had an unwanted passenger so the evil Robian slave flew down towards the ground. He flew deliberately low so that Sonic would drag across the ground and get a mouthful of grass and dirt. Sonic fought hard against the pummelling he received from the grass and dirt that flew into his face as Mecha Tails dragged him roughly across the terrain. He wasn't going to let Mecha Tails go that easily. Mecha Tails could drag him through hell and back and he wouldn't let go. But he wouldn't hold on for much longer. Mecha Tails flew towards the battle that was going on with Zira the Ruthless up ahead and he ascended slightly. Then he swung his legs forward as hard as he could, whisking Sonic up into the air. Sonic was forced to let go as his wrists screamed in protest against his body being thrown upwards and his arms causing his wrists to painfully bend and numb his hands. Mecha Tails watched gleefully as he sent Sonic flying into the air and crashing down onto the ground on top of Sally. Zira jumped in amazement, watching with glee as two of her enemies lay sprawled on the ground before her. Mecha Tails then flew down towards Zira and he grabbed her, taking the leopard up off her feet and flying away.

"The mission has been compromised. We have to return to base before we are overwhelmed." droned Mecha Tails disappointedly.

"Oooooh our master will NOT be pleased…" growled Zira.

She then flicked open the warp ring that Finitevus had donated to her and Mecha Tails for the mission and as it opened, Mecha Tails quickly flew through it with Zira in tow. Sonic watched the two villains flee for it through the warp ring and he punched the air angrily. This was the third time that he'd been face to face with Mecha Tails and lost him! What did a hedgehog have to do to save his best friend?! Sonic really hoped that he wouldn't have to go on any longer and that he'd save Tails soon. The fox's lack of being by his side was beginning to get to the supersonic hero.

"Oh for piss sake!" yelled Sonic angrily, "What do I have to do to save Tails from Finitevus?! Nuke the entire planet?!"

"I hope that won't be the case or Tails will be an even more trouble than he is…" murmured Sally, getting up onto her feet and dusting herself off, "Well…the two villains fled for it. I assume this means Mecha Tails failed to kill Amy."

"Yes he did Miss Acorn." Cream the Rabbit answered instead of Sonic. "Me and Cosmo kept him busy long enough for Mr. Sonic to stop him from killing Amy. She's alive!"

Cream and Cosmo had come charging out of the hospital with Cream flapping her long flappy ears and taking to the sky with Cosmo holding on tightly to her hands. They had come flying after Sonic after he took a ride on Mecha Tails. Cream touched down on the ground and she and Cosmo both hugged Sonic graciously. Sonic hugged them back, pleased that the children were OK.

"Good to hear that my buddy didn't kill Amy." said Sonic happily.

"Yes…but he killed Mariah." said Cosmo sadly, "I'm afraid Tails still has a dead body to regret being responsible for."

"No!" gasped Sally in horror, "No! Not…not Mariah! Her medicines were compulsory needs for us! Without her…we'll never use them again!"

"And that's a shame because I sure hoped Mariah had a medicine to cure my broken arm!" moaned Knuckles, standing up and cradling his broken arm close to his chest. Sonic saw the broken arm and his face fell into despair.

"Oh great…Knuckles has a broken arm!" cried Sonic, "No more fighting for him then until it's healed. How many more Royal Fighters are gonna get killed or sidelined?! HOW MANY?!"

The hedgehog could feel himself getting very stressed and agitated. He looked like he was going to start throwing a fit of rage any moment now. Sally sensed that Sonic was in desperate need of a cool down so she hugged Sonic before he could get anymore anxious.

"Sonic, honey, calm down. Please. Getting stressed isn't going to help." she said softly, "Plus we need you in good health or we're all doomed."

"You're…you're right Sal…thank you." he gasped, "I'm just…I'm scared. Scared that the armada's gonna beat us. I know that I don't usually get scared but…even I have something to be afraid of. And given how many heavy blows the armada's dealing us, it's hard not to be worried about the outcome of this war."

"I understand Sonic." said Sally sweetly, "I'm scared too. The armada means business and they're scoring a lot more victories against us than Eggman ever did. And this crusade hasn't even been a week yet! We've been through more hell in the last four days than we have against Eggman over two years! This is definitely our biggest battle ever."

"Too right…and I hope we can win." said Sonic, clutching Sally in an embrace he didn't want to let go of, "So…what now?"

"We hold a funeral for Mariah, get Knuckles a bed and rest for the rest of the day. We need a good recuperation…and then tomorrow, we storm The Nefarious." Sally decided, "We have to end this before it gets any worse. Thanks to Captain Metal's head, we know where to find the Chaos Emeralds are on the ship so we'll just get them and then end this nightmare."

"Sounds good to me Sal." said Sonic happily, kissing the queen on the lips delightedly.

It seemed that there was light at the end of this dark tunnel that he and his friends were going through. And Sonic looked forward immensely to coming out of the tunnel and into the light once again…

"This is unacceptable!" roared Finitevus angrily, thumping the meeting table in rage.

Zira and Mecha Tails had returned to The Nefarious and had reluctantly given Finitevus the bad news. Needless to say, he didn't like what he'd heard and the two become frightened as they were about to suffer his wrath. They were in the meeting room with Finitevus and sitting in two chairs at the end of the table away from Finitevus, a wise decision they thought for being a good few feet away from an angry Finitevus would be very good for their health.

"We're very sorry Finitevus but Mecha Tails was overwhelmed and…" mumbled Zira.

"I am not interested in pathetic excuses!" snapped Finitevus, "I gave you a simple task and you failed it! How can you two be so utterly incompetent?!" he thumped the meeting table so hard that Zira was amazed it hadn't cracked yet. It would start cracking if he thumped it any harder.

"Master, if it pleases you, there is some good news to deliver." explained Mecha Tails, "I killed their miracle nurse, Mariah the Medicine Cat. And Zira broke Knuckles's arm she tells me. Knuckles will be sidelined for a while and without Mariah, he'll make a slow recovery. As will anybody else we cripple."

Finitevus relaxed his tense, angry nerves and he sat back down in his seat.

"That is good news indeed." he purred, "We've still crippled the team. My nephew won't be bothering me for a while and they haven't got their precious medicine cat to simply whip up a miracle cure to heal any grievous wounds they receive. Yes…today isn't a total loss after all."

"But we still didn't kill Amy or any Royal Fighters." protested Zira.

"I know…and we'll make up for that failure." declared Finitevus, "First I'm going to start mixing up some lava and Chaos Energy to remake my new Synthetic Chaos Energy. Then we'll get some more items to mix in with the formula. Then tomorrow…we take them ALL out in one fell swoop. We'll go to New Mobotropolis, deploy the ship's greatest weapon, the Oblivion Cannon, and destroy the city with everybody inside."

"Logical idea master. They'll never see it coming." droned Mecha Tails approvingly.

"Indeed…the Royal Fighters have fought their last royal fight today." purred Finitevus happily.

He could just see his enemies's terrified faces when the Oblivion Cannon fired down on New Mobotropolis tomorrow…

I'm scared...really scared! Is Finitevus going to destroy the Royal Fighters?! We'll find out in the next chapter!

Join in next time for the most shocking moment of the entire saga...Finitevus's mysterious agent is FINALLY revealed and you'll NEVER believe who it is...

Dark Armada Part 13: The Agent Revealed

Story 213: The Traitor Revealed

The Dark Armada Chapter 13 of 25

The next day dawned, bright and peaceful. But just because it was starting off peacefully, it didn't mean that Mobius was in for a good day. It hadn't been very pleasant for the Royal Fighters for quite a few days lately. Four days had been nothing but complete hell for the Royal Fighters Service. The first day saw the Dark Armada making its first sinister move on the world of Mobius by kidnapping and roboticizing the Royal Fighter child prodigy and tech-wiz Tails the Fox. The second day had seen Bunnie Rabbot getting de-roboticized and two failed attempts to stop the armada and retrieve Tails from the armada so he could be saved. The third day saw the Adabat Royal Fighters lose a member of their team and Amy Rose get horrifically crippled, nearly to death. And just yesterday, day four, the Royal Fighters lost their greatest nurse Mariah the Medicine Cat and Knuckles the Echidna was now bed bound along with Amy thanks to Zira the Ruthless breaking his arm. Day five was going to either be a good day or a bad day for the Royal Fighters. Given the Dark Armada's next sinister move, it could even be their final day.

But despite the hell the Royal Fighters were going through the past four days, the rest of Mobius was doing quite well. Once such place was White Acropolis, completely undisturbed by anything and anybody. The Dark Armada hadn't even so much as thought of coming to White Acropolis for they had no reason to come to the snowy, frigid country. Because of this, one particular Mobian was having a very peaceful life out in White Acropolis. And that Mobian was Blizzard the Ice Witch. Formerly an enemy of the Royal Fighters herself, she had abdicated her villainous ways in favour of a more peaceful, loving lifestyle and had made amends for her actions against the Royal Fighters by helping them stop a spell that she had conducted to get rid of them. This had been achieved by a side-effect of the spell. Blizzard had been hearing voices of her deceased family in her head and even saw their ghostly images before her.

The thought of her family hating her had broken the ice-witch's stony heart and made her realize what a monster she had been since their deaths at the hands of King Max. So Blizzard had willingly decided to turn over a new leaf for she had learnt the most fundamental lesson in her life: Revenge never solved anything. Ever since her heel-turn, she had been on good terms with the Royal Fighters and in the period between Eggman's death and the armada's first strike, she had visited them on many occasions. She had even managed to make friends with Sally and Amy, two of the Royal Fighters who had a grudge against her the most due to wanting to take over the former's kingdom and scarring the latter badly after kidnapping her as a child. The fact she was no longer a monster and now a good-hearted soul made Blizzard feel grand inside. It truly was wonderful being a good witch and she now used her spells for fun and larks in White Acropolis. This had earned her a very good reputation among the citizens, a reputation she was proud to have.

As of now, Blizzard as in her ice cave and lying peacefully in her bed, sleeping soundly with the dark blue duvet pulled right up close to her muzzle. She had been dreaming a wonderful dream last night and she still played it over and over in her brain. The dream had involved making a wonderful snowman for some playful little children who loved the snow and loved to have fun in it. She could do just that today. As the morning dawned, the sunlight began to creep into the cave and make it a little lighter. Blizzard began to stir a little before succumbing to the light and waking up from her lovely slumber. She yawned loudly and stretched as far as she could. She sat up in her bed and opened her eyes. Just as always, the ghost of her late husband Iceberg the Ice Wizard was sitting on the bed waiting for her to wake up. It was something like this that made Blizzard very happy to wake up in a morning. If anybody knew about this, they'd consider her mad. But if being mad meant Blizzard was happy, she would let the men in white coats take her away without resistance.

"Good morning my beautiful wife." said Iceberg sweetly.

"Oh good morning my handsome husband." said Blizzard softly, smiling at the sight of the paranormal figure before her, "Ghost or not, it's always a pleasure to see you when I wake up."

"Thanks very much sweetie." said Iceberg happily, "And what a fine morning it appears to be outside. Do you plan on doing anything today my love?"

"As always darling." purred Blizzard sweetly, "You know I always have plans for my days. Why do you still ask?"

"Because your plans may have to be altered drastically…"

The ghostly image before the ice-witch's eyes suddenly turned grave and serious. Blizzard put her hands to her chest, sensing that something was wrong.

"Oh no…whatever is the matter my love?" asked Blizzard worriedly.

"You know how we're ghosts? We can go anywhere we like." noted Iceberg, "Well while you was sleeping last night, me and the children went to see how your former enemies now friends the Royal Fighters were doing."

"And?" asked Blizzard, wondering if it was wise to have asked.

"They're having a hard time I'm afraid." said Iceberg, shaking his head sadly, "They're up against an army of villains and they're having a very hard time in beating them. Me and the children listened to Sonic and Sally having a very heart-wrenching conversation about how badly things are going for them now."

Had Blizzard been her old self, this would have been good news for her. But instead, Blizzard shook her head and lowered her hands, keeping them tightly clasped together.

"Oh the poor darlings…" she whispered.

"You won't like this either…" murmured Iceberg, "Poor Amy Rose nearly wound up dead. We saw her in the hospital and she looks to be in a TERRIBLE state. She looks like a bomb hit her and she just made it out alive."

"Oh no…the poor child!" gasped Blizzard, "Oh that's dreadful! I know it might sound weird for me to say this but honestly, that's dreadful!"

"I'm sure your former enemy would appreciate that sweetheart." said Iceberg gently, "She is alive though but she doesn't look like she'll be awake any time soon."

Blizzard nodded. She'd see to it that she gave Amy a little something to show how sorry she was to hear about her condition. She and Amy had just become friends since her heel-turn so it pained her to hear that her friend was badly hurt. She imagined that this army of villains that the Royal Fighters were up against meant business, and a lot of it. Blizzard put her hands on her duvet-covered thighs and massaged them slowly.

"So why do you tell me this Iceberg?" asked Blizzard.

"I thought being a friend of the Royal Fighters now, you'd want to help them face this army." explained Iceberg, "Plus, you're enjoying doing good things nowadays so why not do something good and help the Royal Fighters?"

"Oh Aramis please, I couldn't." said Blizzard sadly, "Please understand, I'm not a Royal Fighter and I won't be of much help…"

"Oh yes you will my love." the ghostly Ice Wizard said as he came closer to his wife and looked her straight in the eyes, "You're an Ice Witch. You'll be very helpful ind eed. You'll have the spells needed to fight this army. Please…for me and the children, help those poor, poor Roy al Fighters. They need it now."

Blizzard stared into her husband's eyes and the snow-coloured hedgehog began to think to herself. The army of villains must indeed be dangerous if even somebody as powerful as Amy Rose was currently hospitalized. But she couldn't just sit out of this and let the Royal Fighters fight the army. They were struggling and they needed help. Wouldn't it be selfish and horrible of her to just sit back and enjoy herself while her newfound friends just got crippled or even killed in this battle? Yes it would. Blizzard also regretted being of little help in the war with Eggman and this could be her chance to make up for that. Blizzard thought and thought on the matter before coming to her conclusion. She smiled lovingly at Iceberg.

"My darling…I'll do it. I'll help the Royal Fighters." said Blizzard brightly, "I didn't help them beat Eggman when I should so I'm going to help them this time."

"This is why I married you Blizzard. You always know when to do the right thing." said Iceberg kindly.

"Well…not always." murmured Blizzard, thinking back miserably to the evil things she had done in the past.

"You're making up for that though." noted Iceberg, "I'll leave you to prepare for the battle Blizzard. If you want I'll send the children up to meet you before you go."

"Please do." said Blizzard, "I'd love to say good morning to Frost and Winter before I go."

With that said, Iceberg materialized out of existence. Blizzard never minded with this. She knew that Iceberg would always return to her so there was never any need to worry when he disappeared. The moment Iceberg disappeared, Blizzard climbed out of bed and had a good stretch before summoning her ice wand to her hand out of thin air. She was dressed in a long flowing night dress with shoulder straps that looked as cold and chilly as the snow outside, very suitable for somebody like Blizzard. Blizzard flicked her wand and showered herself in magical particles of ice that changed her attire from a night dress to her usual flowing, ice-blue coloured robes. Now dressed for action, Blizzard wandered over to her magical ice cauldron and muttered an incantation while waving her hands above it. She had no teleportation orbs left so she needed to make some more for herself. This was the spell that made it. After muttering the spell, three new purple orbs came rising out of the cauldron and Blizzard put two of them into her robe pocket. She kept the first one in her hand. She waited for a moment before doing anything else. Then to her delight, the ghostly images of her beloved children came into her view and they ran towards her with open arms and smiling faces.

"Good morning mummy!" they squealed delightedly.

"My dear children! Good morning to you both!" cried Blizzard happily, "Now then dears, care to give mummy some ideas on what would make a nice gift for poor little Amy when she feels better…?"

"Hey Knuckles, how do you feel this morning?" asked Sonic the Hedgehog kindly as he approached his rad red friend.

"My arm still kills but I'll live." muttered Knuckles, "Really wish I didn't get my arm broken by that stupid leopard yesterday…

Knuckles was lying in a hospital bed with his right arm bandaged up in a cast. He was in Room number 8644, directly next door to where the comatose Amy Rose was. Yesterday had been a very bittersweet victory for the Royal Fighters although they probably wouldn't consider it much of a victory in the first place, bittersweet or not. Zira the Ruthless and Mecha Tails had been sent to New Mobotropolis to make sure that Amy had died from the injuries inflicted upon her by Captain Metal's powerful cannon. Amy had been saved luckily but then came the bittersweet part. Amy had been saved but there was still a dead body on the Royal Fighter's hands. Mariah the Medicine Cat had been killed by Mecha Tails, rendering any chance of using her miracle medicines to cure anymore illnesses completely impossible now and Knuckles had been crippled by Zira, a big blow dealt to the Royal Fighters by each of them. Mariah's funeral had been hosted the previous evening and many tears were shed for the unfortunate cat since she had saved many lives in her time and now she'd never save another life again. She was buried next to Kate the Eagle, a deceased Royal Fighter who had been killed in the Devatron war, in the New Mobotropolis graveyard and she had been given a gravestone that read, "Mariah the Medicine Cat: A life saver and a miracle nurse who's medicines have helped heal many sick and dying people in her life. Rest In Peace.". Now the day was dawning, the Royal Fighters could prepare their next move. Blaze the Cat had come home to New Mobotropolis with Captain Metal's head two days ago and Queen Sally Acorn had user her Mobian-turned-computer friend Nicole the Lynx to download any information that the head contained. This included the plans to The Nefarious , the Dark Armada's insidious flagship. Sally planned to invade The Nefarious and get the Chaos Emeralds back so they could then use them to defeat the armada for good. The plans for the ship showed where they were being kept so all they had to do was follow Nicole and find the Chaos Emeralds on the ship. Once they were found, Finitevus was doomed and the armada would regret ever being formed. They could even use the Chaos Emeralds to heal Amy and Knuckles with a Chaos Regeneration too. Before they got to the plan though, Sonic had decided to see how Knuckles was doing first. The echidna seemed to be fine aside from a broken arm. He wasn't in too much discomfort and he still had some of his snark in him. That was good in Sonic's eyes, meant that Knuckles was still himself.

"It's good that you're OK Knuckie." said Sonic brightly, "And yeah, it does suck that Zira broke your arm. But no worries, if all goes according to plan, we might just be able to heal it sooner than you think."

"Yeah, a Chaos Regeneration is what me and Amy really need right now." agreed Knuckles, "And since Mariah's dead, the Chaos Emeralds may have to be everybody's new miracle cure from now on."

"We can probably allow that to happen." said Sonic, smiling at the very thought, "Now then, care to hear what you'll sadly be missing out on?" he asked.

"Enlighten me. I'd love to know what you're all getting up to without me." said Knuckles with a dry smirk on his face.

"Sally had Nicole download some info from Captain Metal's head as you already know." explained Sonic, "And some of that info was The Nefarious's plans. Thanks to the plans, we know where the Chaos Emeralds are stored on the ship so we're going to storm The Nefarious and get those emeralds back! And also Tails too."

"Well I sure hope that works." muttered Knuckles, "And woe betide Finitevus's agent if he or she is spying on us now and gives the game away to Finitevus again!"

"Oh I don't think Finny's agent will be eavesdropping on us this time." said Sonic casually, "Besides, I checked before I walked into the room, there's nobody waiting to spy on us."

Sonic couldn't be more wrong. There was somebody spying on him and that somebody was directly outside of Knuckles's room right now! Finitevus's anonymous agent had followed Sonic all the way to Knuckles's room and had eavesdropped on the entire conversation. Now the agent had the information it had come for, it sneaked away from Knuckles's room and hid in the toilets to give its message to Finitevus. Taking out a communicator device, which was spherical in shape, the agent locked itself inside a toilet stall and began speaking into the device, whispering quietly to make sure it couldn't be overheard. Yet another plan would blow up in Sonic's face thanks to this agent…

Dr. Finitevus was standing in The Nefarious 's bridge, keeping an eye on the computer monitors all around him as the ship cruised silently and stealthily through the sky. The Nefarious was currently cloaked, meaning that the ship had no chance of being seen any time soon. It was on its merry way to New Mobotropolis, ready to destroy the city and waste all the Royal Fighters. The Oblivion Cannon, The Nefarious 's most powerful weapon was primed and ready to fire. Finitevus had tested it on an asteroid in space in the period between Eggman's death and the armada's first move and the cannon had completely vaporized the asteroid. The asteroid itself had been the size of a small house so if the cannon vaporized that, leaving nothing but atoms left, then New Mobotropolis was as good as destroyed. Finitevus could hardly contain his excitement. He was so looking forward to putting an end to his enemies at last. No more would the Royal Fighters get in his way, no more would they try to stop his plans and never again would they destroy his precious formula. Just yesterday he had gathered up clumps of grass, a bunch of rocks and had even made a trip to the Lake of Rings to get a power ring to use for his formula. Mecha Tails was currently in the lab re-making the formula for him now. Finitevus hoped that the combination they were using now would create a stable formula for him to use in his grand plan Operation: Enerjak Reborn. Finitevus could just see himself becoming Enerjak right now. How glorious that feeling would be! He suddenly snapped out of his thoughts as a beeping noise in his ear made him jump. Finitevus sighed in annoyance. He would have to have a quieter earpiece in the future. He pressed the earpiece with two of his fingers and he answered it.

"Hello? Ah my glorious agent! How are you doing this morning?" asked Finitevus politely, "Yes…yes…mmm hmm…interesting… hmm…maybe letting them keep Captain Metal's original head wasn't a good idea after all…but that's what you're here for my agent, to render any victory of theirs moot. Thank you for the information. Goodbye."

He then switched off the earpiece and grinned to himself wickedly.

"So the Royal Fighters plan to raid my ship?" purred Finitevus, "Well I'll put a stop to that. I'll just put the Chaos Emeralds somewhere else for the time being. As for the Royal Fighters…I think it's time I had a hostage to make them comply. And I know exactly who I'm going to use…"

He cackled to himself wickedly as he pictured the Royal Fighters' faces. No Chaos Emeralds for them and they'd just be met with a hostage that would force them to surrender. Today was going to be a marvellous day indeed for the armada…

Back in the New Mobotropolis Hospital, Sonic decided to leave Knuckles alone so he could rest for the day. Before returning to his friends so they could begin the plan, Sonic decided to check on Amy and see how she was doing now. Mariah had said yesterday that Amy should wake up some time soon thanks to her healing potion that she had given her before she met her untimely demise at Mecha Tails's cold, metallic hand. He wondered if she'd be waking up now. As Sonic walked into Amy's room, he got the surprise of his life. But to his delight, it was a pleasant surprise for a change. Somebody else was already in the room and that somebody was former enemy Blizzard the Ice Witch! It was funny for Sonic to think that a couple of years ago, Blizzard would be trying to kill Amy if she came across her in this condition. And yet here she was, standing beside Amy's bed and lying down a gift next to the presents that Cosmo and Cream had bought for her yesterday. She had conjured up a transparent, diamond vase with a diamond rose in it for Amy to keep forever when she came out of her coma. A permanent rose seemed like a nice gift to give for Amy, especially as her surname was "Rose" too. Blizzard had know which room Amy was in thanks to Frost and Winter telling her so she just simply used a smoke bomb to poof herself into the room. She turned around and saw that Sonic had come into the room to see Amy. She gasped in surprise.

"Oh Sonic, what a pleasant surprise." she said meekly, "I uh… should have let you know I was here shouldn't I? Ha, ha…do excuse my unannounced visit."

"No Blizzard, it's perfectly OK." said Sonic kindly, "Remember, you're on our side now. You can see us any time you like. Though what gave you the idea to come here and see Amy? How did you know to come here and see Amy even?"

"The ghosts of my family informed me of what you'd been going through lately so I thought I'd come in and join you in your battle against this supposed "army of villains" you're up against." explained Blizzard, "They even told me what had happened to poor Amy so I thought I'd give her my respects. After all, we are no longer enemies."

"I'm sure Amy appreciates that." said Sonic with a smile, "And you're here to help us fight the Dark Armada too? Can I just say that's really swell?"

"Thank you very much." said Blizzard appreciatively, "And you said "Dark Armada". Is that the army's name that you're fighting?"

"It is indeed Blizzard." murmured Sonic, scowling as if the name of the armada had a very bad effect on him, "The Dark Armada is its name, evil is its game. And you can see that from what they did to poor Amy."

The two hedgehogs glanced over at the peacefully resting pink hedgehog on the bed before them. Sonic noted happily that the heartbeat monitor appeared to beeping faster than yesterday. Amy was definitely improving thanks to Mariah's last medicine given out before her death. Blizzard took note of Amy's appearance with a grim face and she looked back at Sonic.

"Indeed. The poor dear looks like she got a terrible beating." she said sadly.

"I know. She got hit by a cannon blast." explained Sonic, "She took the shot for me and saved my life. When she wakes up, I'm going to show her just how grateful I am. I've saved her life many times before so it must have been nice for her to save my life too."

"I bet." said Blizzard agreeably, "So what else has this Dark Armada done that's got you Royal Fighters on the ropes?"

"Well they have a secret spy who keeps spying on us and finding out what we're planning so they're constantly a step ahead of us." said Sonic bitterly, "I still long to find out who that spy is so I can make him or her sorry he or she worked for Finitevus! But the worst thing they've done...is roboticize my best friend Tails and turn him against us."

"Tails...the twin-tailed fox cub that's always by your side is he not?" asked Blizzard.

"Correct." said Sonic, his face falling and his tone becoming more miserable, "I miss Tails so much. He was like a brother to me and Finitevus took him away from me...I want him back! I can't stress how much I want him back!"

"I'm so sorry to hear this Sonic." said Blizzard sympathetically, "Having lost my family and my cult, I know how it feels to lose somebody, be it death or not. You have my deepest sympathies dear."

"Thanks Blizzie, I appreciate it very much." said Sonic, his face brightening a little, "It's so nice to see what a big heart you have now."

"Well a little ghost problem was the wake up call I needed to get such a big heart." noted Blizzard with a slight chuckle, "So then, would it be permissible if I assist you Royal Fighters in this battle with the armada?"

"Of course!" cried Sonic happily, "We need all the help we can get right now! Plus, you're an Ice Witch, you'll be very helpful in this battle! Just one wave of a wand and you can send the armada flying! Maybe even freeze them if you could."

"Oh I can't freeze anymore after my belt and ice-gem were destroyed before my turn to good*." noted Blizzard, "But I have some spells and magic tricks that the armada won't be expecting. Thank you for allowing me to aid you in your crusade." she added gratefully.

"Any time." said Sonic, "Now come with me, we're about to commence with a great plan Sally's come up with."

"Looks like I joined you just in time then..." said Blizzard happily.

With that said, Sonic and Blizzard both walked out of the room to join up with the Royal Fighters. As they left the room, Amy seemed to give a slight, brief stir in her sleep. She was getting ready to wake up at last. But if the Dark Armada succeeded with its plan to destroy New Mobotropolis, she could well never wake up again...

Meanwhile, all the Royal Fighters in the R.F.S. were gathered around in a big circle outside of Royal HQ. Given how it was such a lovely day today, Sally wanted to sit outside with her team so she had gathered everybody outside for a meeting. Plus it seemed very unlikely that Finitevus's mysterious agent would successfully eavesdrop on them without being spotted whilst out in the open like this. Any attempt at eavesdropping would result in at least one Royal Fighter catching them red-handed. Plus Nicole's holographic avatar was keeping an eye out for anybody daring to spy on them as they talked. It seemed that doing everything outside was a logical idea after all for nobody came close to the Royal Fighters in an attempt to spy on them. This was good, for once they'd catch the Dark Armada by surprise. Everybody was here in this circle from all of Team Mobotropolis to Team Adabat to Team Chun-Nan to Team Nekronopolis and Team Megapolis. everybody listened intently as Sally explained the plan to them.

"OK everybody, here's the plan that I've come up with for our next move against the armada." explained Sally, "Given how thanks to Blaze giving us the head of Captain Metal, Nicole was able to download some very useful information for us to use against the armada."

"What kind of information cousin?" asked Abby the Squirrel inquisitively.

"Here on Nicole's handheld computer," Sally paused as she took the hand held computer out of her vest pocket and showed it to everybody, "I have the plans to the Dark Armada's ship, The Nefarious. All thanks to Captain Metal's head having some very useful information."

"I still feel very proud to be responsible for the obtaining of this information." said Blaze the Cat happily.

"After studying the plans, I found out that the stolen Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald are kept in a secure room on the top floor of the ship." explained Sally, "We storm the ship, find the room and break into it. Then once we're in...all hell can break loose." she added with a rather devious smirk that seemed out of place on the squirrel's face.

"Yes, me and Sonic can turn super and destroy the ship!" cried Shadow the Hedgehog, "The armada won't have a chance against us once me and Sonic are super!"

"And me and Knuckles will reclaim what we were assigned to protect..." murmured Shade the Echidna, "This is a very good plan indeed."

"Just one small problem your majesty." said Mandy the Mouse quickly, "How do we get ON the ship? We don't have warp rings or anything."

"What about the Sky Patrol?" asked Wilson the Dog, "We could use that to get aboard The Nefarious."

"But the ship can turn invisible, we may never find it." mused Ruben the Water Panther, "They might make their next move before we find it."

"I'm telling you now, if we ever get on The Nefarious, I'm planting a tracking device." declared Sora Prower, "That way, we'll ALWAYS find it no matter if it's invisible or not."

"Yeah and then what happens when Finitevus finds it?" snorted Vector the Crocodile rudely, "We'll end up losing the ship again!"

"It so would help if we had a warp ring to use." muttered Silver the Hedgehog, "Heck, I should have brought a Super Warp Ring so that Blaze could use it to get us aboard. Instead, Blaze used her Sol Emeralds. I didn't think we'd need the warp ring at the time..."

"Hey everybody, our honourable hero of Mobius is coming." Matilda called out, looking to her left, "And he appears to have a new recruit with him."

New recruit? That made everybody's ears prick up in surprise and they all looked in Matilda's direction to see that indeed, Sonic was coming towards them and he had somebody else with him. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters all beamed delightedly whereas Silver and Blaze leaped onto their feet in alarm for they recognized who it was immediately. It was Blizzard the Ice Witch. As Sonic approached everybody, Blizzard caught sight of Silver and Blaze and put a hand to her mouth in surprise. She remembered them, she had met them last year. Silver and Blaze had ended up on Mobius Prime thanks to a time rift in the sky that sucked them up and dumped them onto Mobius Prime. They had ended up in White Acropolis and Blizzard had tried to use Blaze as part of a spell she'd tried to conduct. She'd used Blaze's fire necklace, a birthday present from Silver in the spell and Blaze had not been happy at all. She really didn't seem happy to see Blizzard now for the lavender furred feline set her hands alight.

"You!" snarled Blaze, "What are you doing here Blizzard?!"

"Are you working for the armada too you wicked witch?!" cried Silver angrily.

"Oh no Silver and Blaze, quite the contrary." said Blizzard hastily,

"I'm here to fight AGAINST the armada. No you probably don't believe me but I do have people who can vouch for me."

Sally was one of the first to do just that. She leaped onto her feet and stood defensively in front of Blizzard, something that would have seemed odd to her had Blizzard been her old self.

"At ease Silver and Blaze, Blizzard's our friend now." said Sally supportively, "She turned over a new leaf thanks to a side effect from one of her spells. Nicole witnessed all that and she can show you the evidence if you need convincing."

Blaze put out the fire in her hands and put them behind her back. Silver shared Blaze's apologetic look.

"We're very sorry for our outburst." said Blaze, "Please forgive us. We hadn't been informed of your heel-turn."

"Oh no dears, it's quite alright." said Blizzard sweetly, "I suppose I should have let Sonic inform you before showing me off to everybody."

"It's OK." said Silver, "We're just happy that we're not enemies anymore. Well done for coming to your senses and joining the good guys Blizzard. Makes me wish everybody else had your kind of sense."

"Thank you very much." said Blizzard politely, "So, Sonic tells me that you have a plan for your next move against the Dark Armada your majesty?" she asked, looking over at her former enemy.

"Why yes indeed Blizzard." replied Sally brightly, her pretty face curling up into a beautiful smile that made the nearby Sonic smile back at her, "We're going to get onboard The Nefarious, the Dark Armada's ship, find the stolen Chaos Emeralds and use them to tear the ship apart and subdue the armada. We'll also rescue Tails too."

"But we're not sure how we're going to get aboard the vessel." said the holographic Nicole, shaking her head sadly.

"Well I do have one of my smoke-bomb teleporters." suggested Blizzard, taking one out of her robe pocket and showing it to Sally,

"But I cannot take you aboard the ship. I haven't been on it and I need to know where I'm going if I'm to use it."

"Well luckily for you Blizzard, we have somebody who has been on the ship and has seen more of it than any of us…" said Sally happily.

She looked over at Blaze and winked at her. Blaze smiled back at her. She knew what Sally meant. Blaze had run through the entire ship just to get to the top of it in order to escape from it after being taken prisoner aboard it by Captain Metal and Cutthroat Jim. Blaze had mostly run through the corridors just to find her way out so she didn't have a super clear image of the ship's interior…but she did have a clear image of the top of The Nefarious . She could take the smoke-bomb and poof everybody aboard the ship. Blaze walked over to Blizzard and held out her gloved hand.

"Allow me to transport us aboard the ship." offered Blaze, "I know exactly where I'm going to take everybody."

"Very well then my child." said Blizzard, handing the purple smoke bomb to Blaze, "Just yell "Alakazam" and throw it on the ground."

"But won't that just transport me and nobody else?" asked Blaze curiously, "I can't go alone."

"If everybody holds onto each other while you hold onto them, you'll poof everybody aboard." explained Blizzard, "I recommend having everybody form a circle and hold hands."

Cosmo the Seedrian then suddenly stood up and toddled over to Sally. Sally looked at Cosmo, sensing that the Seedrian didn't seem awfully happy about something.

"Please your highness, I do not wish to come on the mission." said Cosmo glumly, "I cannot bear to face my roboticized boyfriend again, especially after he nearly hurt me. Plus, I think Amy and Knuckles could do with some company."

"Well…OK Cosmo. I'll allow you to stay home." said Sally gently, "Everybody else…let's go and make haste!"

The rest of the Royal Fighters were all too happy to go along with this. They were all as keen to defeat the Dark Armada as Sonic and Sally were. Everybody got up onto their feet and they all held hands while Blaze prepared to transport everybody over to The Nefarious . Cosmo stood away from the circle, not wanting to come with them on the mission. Blaze held the smoke bomb high above her head and yelled "ALAKAZAM!", then she threw it down onto the ground and shattered it to pieces. The smoke drifted all around the Royal Fighters as the shell broke open and within one simple cloud of mist, everybody disappeared into thin air, transporting from where they had been all the way over to The Nefarious . Nicole dematerialized out of existence, thinking she wouldn't be needed anymore for Sally would just be using her handheld form up on the ship now. The moment they all disappeared and Nicole left, Cosmo then proceeded to do what she didn't say she was going to do. She pulled out a spherical device, the exact same device that she had found on the table during the night Tails was kidnapped by Finitevus and she spoke into it. Her face contorted with worry and repulsion as she spoke into the device.

"Agent White Seed reporting." she said quietly, "Everybody's going to appear on your ship very shortly. They're using a smoke bomb given to them by Blizzard the Ice Witch."

"Excellent to hear my agent!" cried Finitevus on the other side of the device, "Now onto the next part of the plan…you turn from agent to hostage…"

Over onto The Nefarious , the ship was silently cruising through the sky and well on its way to New Mobotropolis, no longer cloaked as Finitevus saw no point to staying invisible now. It had travelled a long way across Mobius last night so it had a long way to travel to get to New Mobotropolis. It was nearly there, just another hour and it would arrive at New Mobotropolis. One precious hour was all the Royal Fighters had in order to save New Mobotropolis from total destruction. Not that they had any idea that that was going to happen. A cloud of purple smoke appeared directly atop The Nefarious and after the smoke drifted away, the crowd of Royal Fighters stood in its place. The transportation had been successful.

As the smoke cleared, everybody got a good look at where they were currently standing. They could feel the wind whooshing past them all and blowing about any long flowing clothing or hair on any of the Royal Fighters. They could see a great view all around atop the malevolent vessel that they were now standing on. An impressive, amazing feeling indeed but a feeling that the Royal Fighters couldn't enjoy. They had a mission to do and they couldn't afford to hang about enjoying the view.

"OK, we're on top of the ship. Does anybody see a way in?" asked Sonic curiously.

"I got up here through a hatch somewhere…" mused Blaze, "I think it was over there."

She ran across the top of The Nefarious and almost immediately, she came across what she was looking for. There in the floor was a rectangular door with a handle on it. The door was labelled "Emergency Exit". In an emergency, this door would be a quick way out of the ship and certainly had been for Blaze when she'd fled for her life two days ago. There was no handle on the outside of the door for the door was meant to be opened up from the inside. But the Royal Fighters still had a way inside. Silver stood forward and used his psychokinesis to open up the door. With the emergency exit opened up, the Royal Fighters all filed inside the ship through the open door. They found themselves inside a huge, straight, long stretching corridor that reached the entire length of The Nefarious . The corridor was gloomily lit with an eerie purple light all the way through and the black interior made the Royal Fighters feel a little uncomfortable. They could tell this was the ship of a villain army no questions asked about it. Surprisingly enough, there was a lack of presence of any Dark Armada member in this corridor. Only the Royal Fighters were in this corridor. It seemed very strange to Sonic as he noticed this odd turnout. Surely the Dark Armada would be guarding every inch of the ship in case they ever sneaked onboard? This didn't settle well with Sonic, he began to suspect that all was not what it seemed. Nobody else seemed to share his suspicion, probably due to how confident they were in the fact Sally's plan was going to work so brilliantly. Sally opened up Nicole's handheld computer and studied the plans for The Nefarious that the A.I. lynx displayed on her screen.

"OK, we're on the right floor." explained Sally, "The Chaos Emeralds are in a room that's down a corridor on our right. We have to go down this corridor until we come across the second corridor on our right."

"Got it." said all the Royal Fighters.

"I dunno Sal...this seems TOO easy." murmured Sonic worriedly, "I mean, wouldn't the armada be guarding this floor if the Chaos Emeralds are all here?"

"The armada doesn't know we're coming." said Sally dismissively, "Finitevus's agent won't have eavesdropped on us, especially since I made the plan out in the open, something that would guarantee the agent blowing its cover, for once we're a step ahead of the armada."

"Yeah but still, you'd think somebody as clever and as well-prepared as Finitevus would at least have somebody up here as a contingency or something?" asked Sonic.

"Maybe there is somebody on this floor. We're just not in the same corridor as them." suggested Sally, "Either way, our victory is just moments away. Let's go."

She ran off down the corridor eagerly with Nicole in hand. Sonic almost laughed to himself. Usually it was him being reckless and Sally being sensible and now Sally was being reckless and he was being sensible. She really was the perfect woman for him after all. Grinning, Sonic ran off after Sally with the rest of the Royal Fighters following them closely as they down the corridor. They were all as confident in the plan as Sally was. They were going to succeed. The Chaos Emeralds would be theirs and the armada would be defeated. Sonic could just picture his best friend being returned to him, de-roboticized and back to normal at last. Maybe when they got the emeralds, they could persuade Finitevus to make a new de-roboticizer rifle for them to use on Mecha Tails. Either way, Tails's nightmare wasn't going to last any longer. The Royal Fighters ran down the stretch of corridor for a few minutes before running into something. Being at the other end of the corridor upon arrival, they didn't see that they weren't alone in the corridor at first. It was always harder to see something clearly from a distance. Now closer, they found out that the corridor was also occupied by Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox and the entire Raiju Clan. They were all standing near the second corridor on the right, clearly intending to stop the Royal Fighters from getting near the Chaos Emerald. Scourge smirked confidently at the Royal Fighters.

"Going somewhere morons?" he sneered, "You wouldn't happen to be looking for the Chaos Emeralds now would you?"

Sonic clenched his fist and swung it downwards angrily. Yet again the agent had somehow stricken and the Royal Fighters' plan had been given away! But how?! Sonic didn't care anymore. Element of surprise or not, they were getting those Chaos Emeralds whether the armada was a step ahead of them or not. They were so close, they couldn't give up now.

"Lucky guess..." snarled Sonic, "Now get out of our way before we beat you all into unconsciousness!"

"No chance loser, you'll have to get through all of us first!" yelled Scourge, aiming his metal hand at Sonic and preparing to shoot at him.

"I can honour your wish green Sonic..." sneered Blizzard, stepping forward and whipping out her ice wand.

"Who in the hell are you?!" blurted Fiona in surprise, "New recruit or something?!"

"All you need to know is that I'm here to give the Royal Fighters a helping hand." snapped Blizzard, pointing the wand at Scourge, Fiona and ninja lynxes standing before her.

She then closed her eyes and began to mutter a spell. The Royal Fighters could just make out what she was saying. The chant went like this:

"Powers of snow, powers of ice, I call for a wind, I call so nice. Blizzard winds, heed my command. Blow my enemies away, with a swish of my hand!"

Then Blizzard swiped the air with her wand and sent everybody blowing backwards across the corridor. It was like a hurricane had suddenly swept out of Blizzard's wand and smacked the armada members. Blizzard beamed at the chorus of cries from the hedgehog, vixen and lynxes as they were whisked off their feet and down the corridor. Everybody gasped in amazement, even Team Mobotropolis for they hadn't seen Blizzard do this before. It was certainly a powerful attack and a great spell the ice witch had learnt. Blizzard turned around and smiled sweetly at her friends.

"Impressed?" she asked.

"Very much so..." gasped Sonic, "I'm "blown" away at that!"

Blizzard could hardly keep herself from chuckling at the bad pun that Sonic had given her. Now that the defence had been taken down, the Royal Fighters darted down the corridor that they had to take in order to find the Chaos Emeralds. But what they found instead was a sight beyond what they had expected. Standing in the corridor, glaring angrily at them all was Conquering Storm's right hand man Dafeng Rai! The Royal Fighters had captured him a couple of days ago and Sally had managed to coax him into giving out some very useful information. But he wasn't the only shocking thing they were seeing. Dr. Finitevus was with him and he had Cosmo wrapped tightly in a chokehold and Finitevus was holding a katana to her throat! Finitevus had warped over to New Mobotropolis and grabbed Cosmo to use as a hostage. He'd also found Rai in the Sky Patrol and had rescued him, hence why he was here now. Rai had given Finitevus the katana he was now holding at Cosmo's throat. The Seedrian looked terrified and tried her best not to cry as Finitevus held her at blade point. The Royal Fighters were about ready to charge into Finitevus and save Cosmo but the echidna looked ready to sever Cosmo's head any moment now.

"Hand over Nicole." snarled Finitevus, edging the katana blade closer to Cosmo's throat and leaving a little cut across it, "Throw her to me. I will not ask you again."

"Let Cosmo go Finitevus!" growled Sonic.

"Only if you hand over Nicole now." Finitevus retorted.

"Fine, I'll MAKE you let go of her!" declared Silver, standing forward and getting ready to use his psychokinesis.

But unfortunately, Finitevus had already prepared for that. As Silver prepared to use his psychokinesis, a gun turret suddenly descended out of the ceiling and pointed at the Royal Fighters. Before any of them could find out what it was, the turret fired a jolt of electricity at all of them that surrounded them in a doom of electrical bolts and quickly knocked them all out in one single zap. The Royal Fighters all collapsed onto the floor in a heap and Finitevus marched over to Cosmo, throwing her aside and handing the katana back over to Rai. With Sally unconscious, he was able to steal Nicole's handheld form from her without a single problem. He grabbed the handheld computer device from Sally's hand and crushed it within his own hand.

"There, now Nicole's handheld form cannot give those fools a map of my ship anymore." he crowed, "And as for the lynx herself...she'll perish when New Mobotropolis is destroyed. Now to restrain our prisoners..."

He opened up a warp ring and stepped forward to grab the first Royal Fighter...

The Royal Fighters came to after a long while of being passed out. The shock had definitely given them a big knockout. But all of them started to wake up, groaning as the effects of being knocked out began to take hold. Sonic opened his eyes and wondered where he was. He could see that he was in a very wide and a very large room with laser cuff generators all around. He and all his friends were bound to the wall by laser shackles around their wrists and ankles. All that is but two. Blizzard was nowhere to be seen and Cosmo was in the room but she wasn't bound to the wall. Instead she was standing beside Dr. Finitevus with a very sorrowful expression on her face as if she was about to cry. Finitevus stood before the captive Royal Fighters, a big, devious smirk plastered across his muzzle. Sonic's eyes fully opened and he tried to lunge at Finitevus but the laser cuffs held him firmly back. All he and his friends could do now was just stand there and glower at Finitevus. The echidna seemed unfazed at their gazes, something that he often did as if no matter what expression the Royal Fighters gave him, he would never care about it.

"Have a nice nap my friends?" sneered Finitevus mockingly, his face a cruel sneer of triumph as he admired his captive guests.

"Finitevus! Let us outta these laser binds or so help me you're gonna be battered and bruised at the end of the day!" shouted Sonic, struggling in his unbreakable binds.

"That doesn't seem very possible given what's become of you all now." purred Finitevus, "And once again, you have nothing but empty threats to give me. You heroes never have anything interesting to say don't you?"

"If you let me go, I'll show you how many "interesting" things I have to say to you." said a very angry and furious Shade with a voice colder than a polar ice cap.

"You can say them all to me now if you like, not that I'm interested in hearing them." crooned Finitevus.

"Whatever." sighed Shade in annoyance, "So what do you plan on doing to us now?"

"Hold on." said Mandy, "I've noticed something odd. Where's Blizzard and why is Cosmo not locked up in these laser cuffs with us?" she asked, taking note of Cosmo's presence by Finitevus's side and a lack of presence for Blizzard.

"Blizzard is in solitary confinement for I have plans for her." explained Finitevus, "An ice witch like her will make a fine experiment. As for Cosmo...well she has a confession to make. Isn't that right...Agent White Seed?" he said sinisterly, looking over at the miserable Seedrian standing beside him.

"Agent White Seed? What's he on about?" asked Sally, staring directly at Cosmo as if expecting her to turn into a hideous monster completely out of nowhere.

Cosmo stepped forward with her hands clasped together and held to her chest. Her eyes streamed with tears as she prepared to reveal her terrible secret to the Royal Fighters.

"My friends...my poor, poor friends...it makes my heart ache to say this...but I am Finitevus's agent." announced Cosmo, her eyes streaming harder with tears.

The revelation hit everybody in the room like a punch to the gut. Sonic was so horrified to hear this that he thought for a moment his heart had exploded. Nobody looked more shocked to hear this than Geoffrey St. John though. He'd accused Cosmo of being the agent a couple of days ago and he had been right all along! He had been right and yet he'd allowed himself to scorn himself for accusing her! Sonic and Sally both thought back to the chain of events that they had been going though lately. It all made sense now. On day two, Cosmo had only wanted to go to the toilets so she could tell Finitevus that Bunnie and Geoffrey were planning to sabotage the ship! And after Bunnie had returned home, Cosmo had been outside telling Finitevus what she had been hearing before Silver and Blaze arrived at the hospital and saw her outside the room! Sally also remembered their failed attempt to save Tails in Holoska. Cosmo must have snitched on them while she was getting dressed into warm clothes. Then there was day three. Cosmo must have somehow spied on her and Sonic in Royal HQ. Then there was Blaze's mission that had been foiled on the same day. Geoffrey remembered how Cosmo ran out of Royal HQ in tears. She must have used that as a way of sneaking after Sonic and Sally without being suspicious. And now today's plan had gone belly-up. Cosmo had opted to stay behind not because she wanted to keep Amy and Knuckles company, but so she could tell Finitevus what they were planning on doing. It all made so much sense! Sonic stared at Cosmo in horror, the Seedrian looking extremely guilty.

"It's not true!" cried Sonic in denial, "Cosmo...please tell me it's not true!"

"I'm sorry Sonic...but it's true." said Cosmo glumly, "I'm very sorry my friends."

"Sorry? SORRY?!" bellowed Geoffrey, "Thanks to you, we've been going through hell and back and you have the nerve to say you're sorry?! You sicken me you filthy, disgusting little traitor!"

"Shame on you Cosmo! How could you betray us like this?!" screamed Cream, her eyes streaming with angry, hot tears, "Miss Rose is going to be so cross with you Cosmo!"

"We've been trying to save Tails, which if I recall, is the one that you love Cosmo and you've been preventing us from doing that!" shouted Ruben, "You dishonour us all Cosmo! And to think I liked you when we first met..." he added bitterly.

"My brother's gonna be so disappointed with you Cosmo." said Sora angrily, "He loves you, he trusted you with his life and this is how you repay all that?! Be betraying us all and stopping us from rescuing him?! Shame on you indeed!"

"I can't believe you betrayed us Cosmo!" growled Sonic, "We gave you a home, we've treated you like you're one of our own and we're the only family you have after the destruction of your world...and this is how you repay us?! I'm appalled, I really am!"

"I HAD NO CHOICE!" screamed Cosmo angrily, feeling very hurt by the incredibly mean-spirited and hurtful words being hurled at her by her friends, "I HAD NO CHOICE!"

"What do you mean you had no choice?!" snarled Mandy.

"I MEAN I HAD NO CHOICE!" bellowed Cosmo, "Don't you understand?! I would NEVER betray you all if I had the choice to do so but I really had no choice in this matter! Sonic, remember that device I showed you on the evening Tails was kidnapped?"

"Yes?" asked Sonic, surprised to hear Cosmo bringing that up now. She hadn't shown it again since that day.

"Well that sphere contained more than coordinates that led you and Knuckles to the armada...it contained a message from Finitevus himself." explained Cosmo, "He said that he'd kidnapped and roboticized my sweet little Tails and that I had to do whatever he told me to do. If I didn't...he was going to order Mecha Tails to self-destruct! If he did that then we'd NEVER save Tails! So again, I HAD NO BLOODY CHOICE! I had to do it for Tails's sake! You would have done the same if you were in my shoes! I'm so sorry everybody! I'm so sorry!"

With that heart-wrenching revelation, Cosmo threw herself onto her knees and howled a loud, depressing, uncontrollable sob, putting her head into her hands and soaking them with her tears. Sonic and the Royal Fighters all looked at each other in shock. Cosmo betrayed them all because she was blackmailed into doing so? That made so much sense. That was just like Finitevus to do something so wicked. Blackmailing an innocent child into betraying her friends just to save her boyfriend. Sonic then thought to when Cosmo had fainted after he gave his friends the bad news after their first fight with the armada. Cosmo hadn't fainted because of the news...she'd fainted because she had hoped Sonic and Knuckles would save Tails and thus, give her an excuse to ignore Finitevus's blackmail and keep her from having to betray her friends! It all fitted together now and yet it had taken them this long to put the pieces into the puzzle! The Royal Fighters now felt sorry for Cosmo and shamed themselves for being so callous to her.

"Gosh...I...I'm so sorry about that Cosmo." said Sonic sadly.

"And I seriously shamed her, thinking she willingly betrayed us? Shame on me..." muttered Geoffrey scornfully.

"Shame on all of us." said Ruben glumly, "We should have known better..."

"I'm very sorry I was mean to you Cosmo!" wailed Cream, "I didn't know you'd been blackmailed...Amy would be very sad to hear about this."

"I can't believe that Finitevus could do something so vile!" growled Sally. She looked up at Finitevus and glared at him, "This is low, even for YOU Finitevus! You have no soul!"

"That is why I have NO fear." sneered Finitevus, "And that is also why I always win. You Royal Fighters think you're so noble and majestic, fighting for a noble cause and bringing good back to the world. But you fail to grasp one fundamental feature of life. There will always be evil. You're all fighting for a forlorn cause, an impossibility that can never be achieved. There will always be evil, you'll never achieve your perfect world. So why continue fighting for a cause that'll never be achieved? I know why...because you pathetic heroes all realize that. You're just in denial. You have a hubristic mindset that keeps you going in this crusade to bring peace to the world. A mindset that is now leading to your downfall. And it's clear that Mobius's heroes aren't what they're shaped up to be either. I mean, we all know who REALLY killed Eggman don't we? I did! And that is because I am not blinded by a pathetic mindset that exists purely to show how magnanimous you all are. I fight for a cause that has no restraints such as morality. Morality is why you Royal Fighters fail. Never do you actually finish off your enemies when you have the chance. You always let them live and that in turn allows them to put all your hard work to waste. If you had a sense of ruthlessness and didn't let your moronic morality tie you down, my armada wouldn't exist would it? But it does, and why? Because you never had the gall to put your enemies down when you had the chance. Everything that's happened recently is all your fault. My armada is all your fault. And it's all because of your mindset. Well I'm here to tell you that a life of morality and a cause like yours is pointless. There will never be a world rid of evil, a world with only good that reigns supreme. Will the world be free without me and my armada? No...chances are you'll find another enemy to tackle and it'll be back to the status quo. Face it Royal Fighters, you're all a forlorn cause. You're all at ROCK BOTTOM."

The reaction to his speech was very pleasing for him. The Royal Fighters looked shocked, hurt and repulsed that Finitevus thought all of that about them. Just to pour salt on the wound, Finitevus decided to give them something else to be horrified at.

"Now if you'll excuse me...I have a city to destroy." he announced, "I'm going to destroy New Mobotropolis and take everybody with it. And don't think Nicole will save the city with her precious shields. My Oblivion Cannon will be too strong for the shields. Once your city's destroyed...I'll have you all killed afterwards. Cosmo here is staying with me. Since she's had to reveal herself, she cannot be my agent anymore. Instead, she'll be kept as Mecha Tails's pet punching bag and perhaps as a test for my Synth-Energy...provided the test on Blizzard doesn't go horribly wrong."

He cackled evilly as he opened a warp ring and dragged the snivelling Cosmo through it with him. Cosmo took one last look at her friends as if seeing them for the last time before the warp ring closed, leaving the Royal Fighters all alone in the prison cell to do nothing but wait for their doom. Sally broke the tense silence by looking at Sonic and speaking. Her eyes streamed with tears and the squirrel was truly broken and defeated. It all showed on her face as she spoke.

"Oh Sonic...this is the end. Our city's gonna be destroyed...with everybody in it...and we're going to be killed." sobbed Sally.

"I'm not the giving up type...but even I know when I'm beaten." sighed Sonic, "Finitevus was right...we are at rock bottom. Three years of our lives fighting for peace...and what has that done for us? Got us ready for execution. Let's face it, we asked for this. And now we're getting what we asked for..."

The Royal Fighters weren't fully sure if they agreed with Sonic. But they knew one thing...the end was coming for them and they wouldn't be able to save themselves now...

Meanwhile, Finitevus reappeared outside of a small, lonely cell that was located on the middle floor of The Nefarious . This was an isolation chamber, a cell that Finitevus used to keep hold of any people he wanted to experiment on. Finitevus opened the door and he shoved Cosmo into the cell. Cosmo landed with a thump onto her face and she cowered against the wall on her side as Finitevus smiled evilly at her.

"Enjoy your stay Cosmo. You're going to spend the rest of your life here." he said sinisterly, "And your life may not go on for much longer. You know Cosmo...you made a very fine agent for me." he added deviously as if wanting to add another twist to the handle of the knife to Cosmo, "I'm sure Tails would have been horrified to know that you prevented your friends from saving him. And you wasted your time anyway. I'm going to order Tails to self-destruct once Operation: Enerjak is complete for he won't be of no use to me anymore. Like said...you Royal Fighters always fight for a forlorn cause. Goodbye Agent White Seed."

He then shut the door, leaving Cosmo alone in a pool of shadows that shrouded the entire room she was locked up in. Cosmo waited until Finitevus's footsteps couldn't be heard walking away anymore before she let a fresh stream of tears trickle down her face. Despaired, sorrowful and heartbroken, Cosmo could only weep and feel sorry for herself.

"What have I done? What...have I...done?" she whimpered.

Cosmo then curled up into a ball and cried, feeling that she'd never run out of tears no matter how hard she cried. She had doomed all of Mobius. Enerjak would rise, her friends wouldn't be there to stop him and it was all her fault. Cosmo supposed she deserved this and when the time came for her to die, she had a feeling that nobody would miss her. Not even Tails...

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm

*See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 22: Impending Crisis

HOLY SHIT! COSMO WAS FINTIEVUS'S AGENT THE WHOLE TIME?! I bet you're all speechless! I know I am!

And one could say this chapter was "Unlucky for some" eh? Dark Armada Part 13, unlucky 13? Eh? Get it? ;)

Oh well, I sure hope all ends well next time! The heroes are really doomed aren't they?

Dark Armada Part 14: Total Destruction

Story 214: Total Destruction

The Dark Armada Chapter 14 of 25

"Wake up my icy prisoner." purred Dr. Finitevus sinisterly before proceeding to slap the unconscious Blizzard the Ice Witch across the face.

Blizzard groaned in pain as the callous smack woke her up. She opened her icy blue eyes and waited for her senses to come to. She suddenly realized that something was terribly wrong as she woke up. She also remembered something too. She and the Royal Fighters had sneaked aboard The Nefarious to carry out a plan that Sally had come up with which involved getting the Chaos Emeralds back and using them to destroy the armada. But unfortunately, they had been ratted out by a very unwitting Cosmo the Seedrian. The plant-like girl had been blackmailed into spying on her friends and feeding information to Dr. Finitevus, the leader of the Dark Armada. Because of this, the plan had been a failure. Blizzard remembered how she and the others had been about to save Cosmo from Dr. Finitevus after he used her as hostage bait but then suddenly, they had all been knocked out. The Royal Fighters were all locked up in a cell together but the ice-witch herself had been taken into The Nefarious's laboratory for experimentation. Now Blizzard was awake, she could see what had happened to her after being knocked out. She knew for certain that she was leaning backwards a little, obviously against a bed. She felt her sleeves drooping down beneath her elbows and there was something a little bit warm around her wrists and ankles. She saw that they were laser cuffs and that she was fastened to a restraint bed. She could see that she was in some kind of laboratory although she wasn't very familiar with a laboratory having spent most of her life living in icy wastelands like Holoska and White Acropolis. Blizzard squirmed in the grasp of the lasers but they wouldn't let her go. They kept her firmly fixed to the bed. Blizzard gave up her struggling and she glowered at Finitevus.

"You! Set me free before I embed in icicle through your heart!" snarled Blizzard.

"I'd love to see you try." said Finitevus smugly, "Given you're restrained, I imagine that'll be a difficult feat to accomplish."

"What have you restrained me for?! Why am I here in this… whatever this is?!" demanded Blizzard angrily, "And where are the Royal Fighters?!"

"How ironic for you to care about those you tried to destroy once my dear." crooned Finitevus, putting a hand on Blizzard's face and stroking her cheek with his thumb.

Blizzard just savagely bit Finitevus on his hand and made the echidna scream in pain. Finitevus sharply retracted his hand and clutched it tenderly. Blizzard had bitten him quite hard and there was blood staining his bandaged hand. Finitevus just reacted to this with an angry roar and he back-handed Blizzard across the face, bruising her cheek and making her wince. Finitevus rubbed his bleeding hand better as Blizzard looked back into his evil, golden eyes.

"How do you know about what I once tried to do?!" growled Blizzard.

"Research is a scientist's best friend." sneered Finitevus, tapping his brainy head conceitedly, "I read all about you on the World Wide Web Blizzard. You were formerly a councillor for the Council of Acorn in Mobotropolis. But then Aramis Rose caused you to become a murderer and things changed very badly for you after that. You even became a lifelong enemy with Amy Rose, whom as you probably know, is in pretty bad shape right now. A pity that you wasted your villainous life by becoming one of those disgusting Royal Fighters. Well, look where that's gotten you my dear. Bound to my experimentation bed and waiting to become an experiment for me."

"I opened my eyes and saw that what I did was wrong!" bellowed Blizzard, "I have no regrets about my turn to good! My evil life just saw my cult getting pointlessly wasted by a paranoid King Max and me going mad with grief! I have no regrets about changing my ways at all!"

"That disgusts me, it really does." sighed Finitevus, "Well I'm going to fix that. You see, there's another young woman in my army who turned good too, wasting a promising career in villainy for forlorn traits like "morality" and "decency". And I forced her back to the dark side through…scientific measures. I'm going to do the same to you Blizzard."

"Don't you dare!" snarled Blizzard, tugging on her restraints feebly.

"Oh…I'm afraid I DO dare." purred Finitevus deviously.

He then strode over to the work desk nearby, his capeflowing behind him as he walked. Blizzard could only watch as Finitevus walked over to the desk and picked up a syringe. Her heart began to pound worriedly, was Finitevus going to inject her with something horrible? Or was he going to sedate her with some kind of serum and then do terrible things to her while she was unconscious? Blizzard didn't want to find out, she wanted to get away as quick as she could. In her head she began pleading for help.

Iceberg! My darling husband! Help me! her brain whimpered.

But she knew it was pointless to hope like this. A ghost wouldn't stop Dr. Finitevus at all so why pray for Iceberg to save her? Blizzard just lay back and waited as Finitevus opened up a canister containing a weird, green, gooey liquid and he stuck the syringe inside the canister, sucking up some of the liquid through the syringe's long sharp needle. Finitevus then closed the canister and he strode back over to Blizzard with the syringe raised menacingly in his hand. Blizzard stared at it, worried on what the liquid inside would do to her if he injected it into her.

"What…is that?!" she asked hoarsely.

"That is the key to my ultimate victory." explained Finitevus in a very matter-of-fact tone of voice, "This is Synthetic Chaos Energy. To put it simple, combining this substance with the eight Chaos Emeralds plus the Master Emerald will give me all the power I need in order to become the most powerful creature in the world…Enerjak."

Blizzard shivered. If a villain wanted to become the most powerful creature in the world, it was never a good thing. Finitevus continued.

"And I'm going to test it on you Blizzard." he announced malevolently, "If the formula works, you'll be made very welcome in my glorious armada. If not…then I suppose I'll have a dead body to dispose of like yesterday's leftovers. Either way, you're going to be put to good use and you'll make a fine test subject."

"GO TO HELL!" bellowed Blizzard angrily.

"Been there, it's not all it's cracked up to be." snorted Finitevus, thinking back to his ten years of torture in the void before making his marvellous comeback last year, "Now let's see what this will do when I inject it into your bloodstream…"

He pointed the syringe at Blizzard's neck and he prepared to insert the needle into it. Blizzard squirmed furiously, trying desperately to get free as Finitevus prepared to inject her.

"No, no! Don't you dare, don't you dare!" cried Blizzard frantically.

Finitevus ignored her and he pricked Blizzard's neck with the syringe. Inserting it into a vein, he then pushed down the plunger, inserting the Synthetic Chaos Energy into Blizzard's bloodstream through the syringe's needle. Blizzard cringed as she was injected. She cringed even more as Finitevus sharply yanked the needle out of her neck, leaving a thin trickle of blood to run down the side of her throat. At first, Blizzard lay still, breathing a little heavier as she was still a little worked up from the injection. Then Blizzard suddenly let out a shriek of agony as a sharp pain bit into her skull. Her eyes closed tightly and she writhed around on the bed in a frenzy. The only thing keeping her in place were the laser cuffs binding her to the bed but even they extended a little as she writhed crazily. Finitevus watched with great interest. Was the formula killing her brutally? She seemed to be in an awful lot of pain right now. But then Blizzard's eyes opened and Finitevus noticed something different about them straight away. They had turned a brilliant, sickly Chaos Emerald green. Finitevus beamed happily. That was a good sign, it meant the Chaos Energy was already beginning to take effect. Blizzard then began growling furiously, no longer appearing to be in any pain but looking very ticked at the fact Finitevus had pumped her full of Chaos Energy. Then Blizzard did something surprising. Inside her body, the Synthetic Chaos Energy was flowing all over her body, all the way up to her brain. As the energy reached her brain, she suddenly began to get knowledge of the Chaos Emeralds and how to use their power, something that she really needed now. Using the energy that Finitevus had injected into her, Blizzard suddenly bellowed out loud:

"Chaos…CONTROL!"

Finitevus just stared at her, surprised that the Ice Witch suddenly yelled those two words. He didn't expect anything to happen though but then something more surprising happened. Blizzard actually vanished out of her restraints after initiating a Chaos Control! Blizzard disappeared in a bright green flash and then reappeared behind Finitevus. Finitevus turned around…only to get a savage backhand to the jaw that nearly dislocated his entire jawbone from Blizzard. That gave Finitevus a mixed reaction. On the one hand, the formula was making Blizzard as strong as it should be making her but on the other hand, Blizzard was attacking him instead of being as evil as he was. This meant one thing, something hadn't gone right with the Synthetic Chaos Energy. Blizzard was supposed to be evil now but she wasn't! What had gone wrong. Finitevus didn't think about that as he tried to block himself from a punch to the face launched at him by Blizzard. Blizzard threw the punch at a speed too fast for even Finitevus to counter and she caught him directly between the eyes. Finitevus was whisked off his feet and sent flying across the room. He crashed into the wall and groaned in pain as he hit the floor upon falling down from the wall hard. Blizzard advanced towards Finitevus, cracking her knuckles and clenching her teeth. Her eyes still glowed a sinister green colour, making her look more evil than she ever did before.

"Thanks ever so much Finitevus…you've just given me a way out of my restraints so I can beat the skeleton out of you for experimenting on me!" she barked savagely, "And now I'm going to use these powers to rescue the Royal Fighters and tear this ship apart!"

"Looks like this experiment is one that needs undoing…" growled Finitevus, getting up onto his feet and gripping the blades hidden in the edges of his cape.

Furious that his formula had gone horribly wrong, Finitevus would show Blizzard no mercy in this fight. He would have her put down and she wouldn't stop him. But Finitevus would regret being so cocky and confident in himself. His arrogance had blindsided him on one simple but potent fact. The Synthetic Chaos Energy was stronger than even he was. Blizzard had a syringe-sized amount inside her veins and pumping through her bloodstream. She was pretty much invincible now. Finitevus ran towards Blizzard in a snarling rage but the Chaos-powered IceWitch used a Chaos Control to disappear and reappear behind him. Upon appearing behind him, Blizzard kicked Finitevus in the back of his head, knocking him down onto his stomach. Finitevus hit the floor hard, nearly cracking some of his teeth in the process. Finitevus picked himself up and he swung the blades at Blizzard. Blizzard dodged at a speed that she never would have been capable of if she was still normal. She then slugged Finitevus in the gut, spun around on the heel of her foot and swung her other foot into Finitevus's temple. The Ice Witch watched delightedly as Finitevus fell sideways onto the floor from her kick. She'd never been so powerful before and she was actually beginning to enjoy herself. She was now the most powerful IceWitch that had ever lived and she intended to make the most of her newly given powers. Finitevus picked himself up again and he decided to try tactics. He summoned a warp ring and hoped to send Blizzard falling through it. But Blizzard just used a Chaos Control to warp away, making the echidna growl in annoyance. Blizzard reappeared in front of Finitevus and she swung both her fists upwards into the echidna's chin, snapping his head backwards and throwing him down onto the floor. Blizzard cackled maniacally at Finitevus and she grabbed him by the cloak. She picked him up, seemingly with ease, and tossed him into the air. Then Blizzard summoned shards of icicles to her hands and waited for Finitevus to crash onto the floor. But her icicles weren't icicles anymore. They were now Chaos Spears, the icicles equally as enhanced by the Chaos Energy as Blizzard herself. Blizzard fired the Chaos Spears at Finitevus, each strike feeling like being punched by a rocky fist to Finitevus as he was hit. As the final Chaos Spear hit him, Blizzard thundered towards Finitevus and slammed him against the wall as hard as possible. Then she threw Finitevus over at the work desk. The scientist let out a terrible roar of pain as he crashed down on the desk, smashing the canister containing his Synthetic Chaos Energy and spilling the contents all over the floor. A green puddle seeped all over, staining the floor and Finitevus himself as it seeped underneath him. The echidna looked terrible, his snow white fur stained green with Chaos Energy goo and bruises splotched all over his body. Finitevus groaned in pain and in order to save himself anymore grief, he decided to forfeit the battle and escape through a warp ring. But before he could do that, Blizzard Chaos Controlled in front of him and grabbed him. She yanked him away from the warp ring and jammed her face into his own.

"Where are the Royal Fighters?!" she snarled angrily.

"Find out yourself…cretin." growled Finitevus defiantly.

"Tell me where they are now or I'll kill you!" roared Blizzard, "Ten seconds and you're dead!"

"Fine then…they're on the bottom floor of the ship…I'll warp you there if you want…" grumbled Finitevus.

He then summoned a warp ring and opened it up, giving Blizzard a quick portal to the inside of The Nefarious 's prison cell. Blizzard ran through eagerly but Finitevus held onto the warp ring so he'd have it back when she went through. After she disappeared, Finitevus opened up a warp ring and warped himself over to the hidden room with the Chaos Emeralds inside. He'd just use a Chaos Regeneration to heal himself and then he'd deal with Blizzard. Also, The Nefarious was arriving at New Mobotropolis. Finitevus could use that to his advantage. With any luck, the threat of destruction for New Mobotropolis would force Blizzard and the soon-to-be-free Royal Fighters to leave him alone and save everybody before he fired the Oblivion Cannon. He would still win, this wasn't going to go south for him now…

Meanwhile on the bottom floor of The Nefarious , the Royal Fighters were just doing nothing but standing around, bound firmly to the wall, and feeling very sorry for themselves. The atmosphere in the cell was very appropriate, dull, gloomy and grim-faced for everybody in the room. After being captured and imprisoned by Dr. Finitevus, the Royal Fighters had pretty much just given up all hope. The Nefarious was on its way to destroy New Mobotropolis and once that deed was done, Finitevus was going to kill the Royal Fighters and put them all out of their misery. It truly did seem helpless, especially since the Royal Fighters had no way of escape. Laser-binds were impossible to break and there was nothing to switch them off. The laser binds also siphoned any special powers that the Royal Fighters had. The Chaos-powered Shadow the Hedgehog couldn't simply warp out of his binds and free everybody like he'd normally be able to. He was stuck just waiting for his doom like everybody else. What really had set the mood for the Royal Fighters was Finitevus's harsh, degrading speech that he had given them earlier. He had berated all the Royal Fighters and claimed they were "fighting for a forlorn cause". The Royal Fighters hated to admit it, but Finitevus had brought up some good points. They had fought for years against Eggman, hoping to restore peace to Mobius and yet all that had happened was that Finitevus had risen in his stead and was now going to send Mobius to hell with Operation: Enerjak Reborn. Their cause maybe was forlorn after all. They'd fought hard to bring peace to Mobius, and yet this is what their efforts were met with, a coming death and the world in chaos. Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat began to wonder if they should have even bothered coming to the past to try and fix the future since that seemed a forlorn cause too. They hadn't changed a thing. The Royal Fighters were still going to die and Enerjak was still going to rise. Mobius was doomed and it seemed that was the way things were going to be. It was a miserable thought but the Royal Fighters could barely help it. Finitevus had truly opened their eyes and caused them to see how forlorn their cause really was.

"Hey Sal, do you think we're nearly back home yet?" sighed a very glum and defeated Sonic the Hedgehog, resting his head against his arm and sighing loudly.

"I have a nasty feeling we are." muttered Queen Sally Acorn miserably, looking over at her beloved Sonic as if making the most of him before the inevitable happened, "I bet we'll be arriving home in a matter of minutes…and then Finitevus is going to destroy it all."

"Knuckles and Amy are down there…they'll never be prepared for the city's destruction." said a very depressed looking Shade the Echidna, "Knuckles will die and I won't be by his side…" she added, letting a tear fall down her cheek, "…I want to be by his side when I die. Knuckles means everything to me."

"And I wanna be with my best friend Miss Rose right now." sobbed Cream the Rabbit, "But we're stuck here and Finitevus is going to destroy our city! Miss Rose will die…and so will Mr. Knuckles!"

"And we're all helpless to stop him." murmured Sora Prower sadly, "We're gonna lose our city and then Finitevus will kill us all. I wonder what he's gonna do to my brother when he completes this plan of his?"

"Likely do the old "You have outworn your usefulness" thing and get rid of him." mumbled Geoffrey St. John the Skunk, "Thus making Cosmo's entire reason for being his agent completely moot."

"The scary thing is, I have a feeling you're right." said Ruben the Water Panther grimly, "After all, he's clearly using Tails for his plan. When it's complete, what will he need him for?"

"Nothin' that's what." said Bunnie Rabboh sadly, "Ah just dread ta think what Finitevus will do ta lil' ol Cosmo. The poor girl…she doesn't deserve anymore grief. Especially after what she's been through."

"I agree." mused the Chun-Nan ruler Princess Matilda, "What happened to that sweet little girl was just unforgivable. How could that monster blackmail her into betraying us? And for what? Nothing…Cosmo's going to be deeply scarred that's for sure."

"Indeed my love…" murmured Matilda's husband Bladefeather the Falcon agreeably.

"I'd hoped that when me and Blaze came back to the past…we'd change the future and stop Enerjak from coming." mumbled Silver, "But we haven't. Everything's still happening the way it's going to. We'll all be dead…and Enerjak will rise."

"But Silver, that book of yours stated that the Royal Fighters got killed BY Enerjak himself." noted Blaze, "Enerjak hasn't risen yet so that must indicate we'll get free somehow."

The atmosphere seemed to brighten up suddenly as everybody took in that fact. Blaze had brought up an excellent point. A point that was bringing new hope to the Royal Fighters now. Maybe their "forlorn cause" wasn't so forlorn after all.

"You're right!" gasped Silver, "Enerjak slaughters the Royal Fighters…that's what the book said! But he's not here yet! This can't be the day the Royal Fighters die!"

"So that must mean we'll get outta here somehow!" cried Sonic excitedly, "But…how?"

"I don't suppose that book of yours about Mobius's final year tells us that huh?" asked the grizzly boss of Team Chaotix, Vector the Crocodile.

"Well no since the author isn't a Royal Fighter." said Silver sheepishly, "But we'll get out somehow. We have to otherwise the book wouldn't say that Enerjak is the one that kills the Royal Fighters."

"Or maybe you and Blaze have ended up changing things somehow and the change in history is that we die today instead of later." suggested the tomboyish Mandy Mouse, "I mean, you've changed one thing definitely. Would we have gotten Captain Metal's head in the original timeline?"

"Maybe not." mused Blaze, "But I doubt that things would have gone that differently if we didn't come. I'm sure that we'll still get outta here."

"I agree, especially since Blizzard's not with us." noted Wilson the Dog, "She might escape from Finitevus and rescue us all right now."

Then right on cue, a warp ring opened up and out of it stepped Blizzard the Ice Witch herself! The Royal Fighters all gasped in amazement at the fact that not only had Wilson been right, but Blizzard had come through a warp ring. What caught Sonic and Shadow's attentions though was the fact that Blizzard had glowing green eyes. That concerned them a little. What had Finitevus done to her?

"Well...didn't think you'd be right." chuckled Rouge the Bat as she glanced over at Wilson.

Wilson just chuckled modestly. He didn't think he'd be right either.

"What's up with her eyes?" asked Shadow, staring at Blizzard glowing green eyes as hard as he could, "I'm sensing…Chaos Energy in her. What did Finitevus do? Pump her full of Chaos Energy?"

"Synthetic Chaos Energy!" gasped Sonic, "Rai told me and Sally that Finitevus was making a synthetic dose of Chaos Energy for their plan Operation: Villains Rising! Finitevus must have tested it on her!"

"That is absolutely right Royal Fighters…and he's made me so powerful…so strong…I was able to defeat him and convince him to deliver me here." announced Blizzard, "Now with my new powers, I set you ALL free!"

She then swiped her arm and sent showers of Chaos Spears all hurling across the room and into the laser cuff generators binding the Royal Fighters to the wall. The spears destroyed the generators and freed the Royal Fighters. They all stepped forward away from the wall and ran over to Blizzard.

"Thanks Blizzie! But…why did Finitevus give you the Chaos Energy?" asked Sonic curiously.

"He tested it on me and it seems to have gone wrong in his eyes for despite being Chaos Powered, I still retain my original personality and my heroic intentions." explained Blizzard, "Fortuitous to no end is what I think."

"Very much so." agreed Sally, "Finitevus has just given us the edge we needed to bite back. Now we're free, we can stop the armada from destroying New Mobotropolis!"

"You bet!" cried Mandy excitedly, punching the air with her fist "Let's show Dr. Fini-dork-us how "forlorn" our cause really is!"

"Indeed." agreed Wilson, "Finitevus forgot one fundamental thing in life…there may always be evil but there'll always be good too. We may not have a perfect world, but at least we have something worth fighting for."

"Yeah!" exclaimed Sonic, "Don't know what was up with us earlier! Finitevus was wrong, we're not at rock bottom. As long as we keep fighting, we'll NEVER be that far down!"

"We have something that makes us much stronger than Finitevus ever could be…honour." said Matilda matter-of-factly, "Now we can bring honour to the world and stop the armada."

"But I don't have Nicole's handheld form anymore." said Sally disappointedly, turning out all the pockets in her vests only to find no Nicole inside, "We have no map to lead us around The Nefarious."

"But Nicole will still have the plans back home right?" asked Bunnie curiously.

"Oh yes, Nicole has the plans on the main computer in Royal HQ." said Sally brightly, "All we have to do is get home and ask her to give us those plans again. And since I'm a woman of contingency, I have a spare handheld computer."

"Well what are we waiting for?! Let's go!" cried Sonic.

"I'll get everybody home." announced Blizzard, "Thanks to my new powers, I can use a Chaos Control."

She prepared to use one but just as she was going to, a voice boomed all over The Nefarious 's intercom system.

"Attention Dark Armada! The Nefarious has arrived! We're above New Mobotropolis! Preparing to launch the Oblivion Cannon in ten minutes!"

That made everybody's blood run cold. Ten minutes?! They didn't have much time to save New Mobotropolis! They had to hurry! Blizzard wasted no time at all. She quickly used a Chaos Control and opened up a Chaos Portal back to New Mobotropolis. Without hesitating, everybody charged through the portal and quickly warped back home to New Mobotropolis. The clock was ticking as every precious second passed by. Ten minutes was all the Royal Fighters had in order to save their city. Would they succeed? That was the scariest question they could ever ask themselves in this situation…

New Mobotropolis, a grand successor to the original City of Mobotropolis that had been destroyed three years ago. Dr. Eggman had been the one to destroy it and he had destroyed on the first day the Royal Fighters Service had even been formed. New Mobotropolis had stood proud in its place, constantly surviving many attacks thanks to Nicole's sophisticated shield technology that could protect that city from almost any attack. The city had been home to many Mobians and life in New Mobotropolis had been grand for the citizens living in it. And yet all of that was going to come to an end very soon. The terrified citizens all gathered around nervously and stared up at the sky like a crowd of citizens watching an invading alien spaceship in a cheesy movie. The Nefarious loomed over the city, flying just low enough to block out the sun and shroud the city in its sinister shadow. The design made everybody think of Eggman given The Nefarious's origins as an Egg Carrier and they had a fur-shivering moment that Eggman had returned. Over in the New Mobotropolis hospital, Knuckles the Echidna heard the commotion outside and he climbed out of bed to take a look out the window. His broken arm ached as he walked and Knuckles tried his best to avoid it. He still resented Zira for breaking his arm and he wanted to make her pay for it very much. He reached the window and he gaped in horror at what awaited him outside. He could see The Nefarious looming above the city outside as if waiting to hear the citizens scream in fear at it. Knuckles was quick to notice something about the ship and he felt his heart rate increase as he watched. The under belly of The Nefarious opened up and descending from inside the underbelly, the ship's most powerful weapon began to deploy. This was the Oblivion Cannon. It was a terrifying looking weapon, the size almost reaching the entire length of The Nefarious self. The cannon was bulky and coloured black and gold. It was connected to the ship by a rotating pin at the back and the front of the cannon was pointed straight down at New Mobotropolis by a pneumatic piston. The cannon slowly pointed down at the city and prepared to fire at it. Nine minutes to go and the Oblivion Cannon would fire. Knuckles didn't like the sight of the enormous weapon. New Mobotropolis would be vaporized instantly, even if Nicole put the shields up! He could see from the size and bulk of the cannon that it would easily break through the shields if Nicole put them up. He had to evacuate the city and fast before he was obliterated. He also had to get the comatose Amy Rose out of bed and out of the hospital so she would live to wake up from her coma. The late Mariah had estimated just yesterday that Amy would wake up today but she hadn't done so yet. Knuckles walked slowly out of his room to get Amy so that he and Amy could evacuate the city and give Amy the chance to wake up from her coma.

As Knuckles was preparing to evacuate, a green portal appeared just outside of Royal HQ. The headquarters had served as the Royal Fighter's base of operations for the entirety of the service's existence and was one place that the Royal Fighters could probably consider another home in the city. If the Royal Fighters couldn't save the city in time then Royal HQ would never be a base of operations for anyone ever again. Out of the green portal charged all the Royal Fighters and upon exiting the portal, Sally darted into Royal HQ as fast as she could so she could get a spare handheld computer for Nicole to use and have her upload the plans to The Nefarious onto the computer. As the Royal Fighters waited for her to return, they all stared up at the sky in horror at The Nefarious looming above. They saw the Oblivion Cannon pointing down at them from underneath the insidious vessel. Sonic could feel his quills shivering in fear just by looking at the cannon. Finitevus could use that to even level Empire City if he wanted! The hedgehog hoped dearly that they could stop the cannon before it fired. It was a gruesome image to think about, the cannon firing down on New Mobotropolis and completely obliterating it in mere seconds, wiping out all life and leaving nothing but a scene of ruination behind. It would be Old Mobotropolis all over again only everything would be gone, even Castle Acorn, the only building to have survived the original Mobotropolis's destruction. Sonic wouldn't allow Finitevus to destroy his precious city, not while they had been working so hard to keep it intact and safe from harm ever since it had been built. Moments alter, with just seven minutes left before the cannon was going to fire, Sally emerged from inside Royal HQ. She looked flustered as if she'd just run a marathon and yet all she'd done was run inside Royal HQ, download the plans to The Nefarious onto a handheld computer and run back out again. Nicole's holographic avatar appeared beside her.

"The plans for the ship have been downloaded! Now quickly, onto the ship before that cannon fires!" shrieked Nicole.

"Not all of us will go this time, we'll just send a small squad aboard the ship." explained Sally, "Shadow and Geoffrey will be adequate for destroying that cannon. Shadow can easily Chaos Blast it to pieces. Should anything get in the way for him, Geoffrey can substitute with his exploding darts. I'll also send Sonic as back-up. And finally, Blizzard will get the three onboard with her new Chaos Powers. The rest of us will evacuate everybody out of the city…just in case…in case we don't stop it in time."

"Sounds like a plan to me." said Sonic brightly, "Finitevus is so gonna pay for all he's done! We'll mar his best weapon and send him running away! Maybe while I'm onboard, I can try and save Tails and Cosmo at last."

"Good idea." said Sally brightly, "Blizzard, if you please."

"Certainly darling." said Blizzard sweetly, holding her hands out and preparing to use another Chaos Control.

"Chaos…" she began.

Then suddenly, a sharp pain flared through Blizzard's head and the Ice Witch screamed a blood-curdling scream of agonizing pain. The Synthetic Chaos Energy had made its way into her brain and was beginning to take a terrifying effect on her. The Ice Witch felt like somebody was squeezing her brain like a sponge inside her skull. Blizzard gripped her head tensely and she wailed in anguish as the energy attacked her brain.

"ARRRRRRRRRRRRGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGHHHHHHHHHHHHHH she bellowed loudly, "MY HEAD'S ON FIRE! MAKE IT STOP! MAKE IT STOOOOOP!"

Then as she finished shouting…she fainted. The Ice Witch's legs collapsed underneath her and she landed with a heavy thud on the ground. The Royal Fighters all gasped in shock and Sally was quickly to get down beside Blizzard and feel her pulse.

"Holy chilli-dogs! She just collapsed!" cried Sonic.

"What the hell did she do that for?" asked Mandy, "Is that Synthetic Chaos Energy thingy having a nasty side effect on her?"

"Her pulse is OK and her breathing's steady." announced Sally after giving Blizzard a through examine, "But we need to get her out of here quickly. This will be no place to leave her lying around."

"Well this stinks. How can we get on The Nefarious now?" moaned Sonic grumpily.

"Hold on, maybe she has another smoke bomb." suggested Blaze.

She got down onto her knees and slipped her hand into Blizzard's pocket. She normally wouldn't do something like this as it was considered a violation of property and it was something pick-pockets did but this was an emergency. Blaze felt her heart leap with excitement as her finger brushed over something spherical. She grabbed it and took it out of Blizzard's pocket. Blizzard did indeed have another smoke bomb. She'd taken three with her before coming to NewMobotropolis earlier and had already used two of them. Now Blaze had the third one in her hand.

"Yes!" cried Sonic, "We can use that to poof aboard the ship! And since we still have a map of the place, we'll find where the Oblivion Cannon is!"

"Then get to it my handsome hero." ordered Sally, handing Nicole's handheld computer over to Sonic, "We only have six minutes left before the cannon fires."

"Say no more Queenie." said Sonic with a cheeky smile on his face as he took the computer from Sally's hand, "Me, Shadow and Geoffrey will be back before you can say "Chaos Emeralds". That Oblivion Cannon is going to be…well, obliterated."

"It certainly will." muttered Shadow.

He took the smoke bomb from Blaze's hand and did what Blizzard had done before. He held Sonic's arm and Geoffrey held Sonic's other arm. Then Shadow yelled "ALAKAZAM!" and threw the smoke bomb down on the ground. The trio were surrounded by a cloud of purple smoke as the bomb shattered to pieces on the ground. Then the trio vanished and the smoke drifted away. The moment that was done, Sally turned to the Royal Fighters.

"Now for the evacuation process." she said, "Get everybody out of the city and do it QUICKLY. If Sonic, Shadow and Geoffrey fail to destroy the cannon then at least we won't give Finitevus the satisfaction of killing everybody."

"Looks like most of the city's evacuated already." noted Shade, catching sight of the vast crowd of fleeing citizens charging through the gates.

"Then that makes our job easier for us." said Sally brightly, "Silver, I think you'll be the best man to get the hospital evacuated."

"Indeed, I can just carry all the patients with my psychokinesis." declared Silver.

The Royal Fighters then spread out throughout the city to help with the evacuating citizens. Silver flew straight over to the hospital and saw to evacuating any of the poor patients inside. He saw Knuckles emerging from the hospital with a still comatose Amy Rose sitting in a wheelchair and being wheeled out by Knuckles. To speed them up, Silver used his psychokinesis to pick them up and carry them out over the city wall. It was going to be a long process but Silver wasn't going to let one single patient be left at The Nefarious's mercy. He looked up at the ship as he carried Knuckles and Amy out of the city. The cannon would fire shortly. Would Sonic, Shadow and Geoffrey stop it in time…?

Aboard The Nefarious , Sonic, Shadow and Geoffrey appeared inside the prison cell on the bottom floor of the ship. The reason Shadow had chosen to warp there in particular was purely logical thinking on his part. The Oblivion Cannon was underneath the ship so it would make more sense to be on the bottom floor if wanting to destroy it. The moment they appeared in the cell, they ran to the cell door and Shadow effortlessly broke through it, reducing it to chunks of metal in seconds with a few punches and kicks. Upon leaving the cell, the three charged down the corridor with Sonic leading for he had Nicole in his hand. He glanced at the displayed plans on the computer's screen and saw that they were on the right floor. The Oblivion Cannon was indeed on the bottom floor of The Nefarious . With where they were now, they'd reach the cannon shortly and they would approach the cannon from behind. That would be a good place to destroy it. They could stand near the cannon and Shadow could Chaos Blast it to pieces. With only five minutes left until the cannon launched, the trio arrived at the cannon at last. The floor stopped just short of underneath the cannon's base. The trio got a good stare at the cannon. It somehow looked even bigger up close and yet they were only staring at the rear end of the cannon. They could see that it was pointing down at New Mobotropolis, mostly at an angle. In five minutes, the enormous weapon would fire the killing shot and wipe out the entire city. At least Finitevus wouldn't have a terrifying body count to add to this wanton destruction he was about to cause.

"OK, here it is." said Sonic, looking down at Nicole as if to make double sure, "Shadow, if you'd care to do the honours."

"With pleasure. You two may wanna step back, this'll be huge…" mused Shadow.

Sonic and Geoffrey took a big step backwards. Now that the two were out of harm's way, Shadow unclipped the inhibitor rings from his wrists and dropped them down onto the floor. Sonic zipped over to Shadow to grab the rings so that he could give them back to the Black Arms created Mobian after he'd done. Sonic then quickly zipped back away from Shadow as he prepared to activate his Chaos Blast. He was beginning to glow crimson red all over and he could feel immense levels of power building up furiously inside of him. It would build up to a point and then Shadow would release it. But then suddenly, a warp ring appeared directly underneath Shadow and the black and red hedgehog found himself falling straight through it and out of The Nefarious completely. Sonic and Geoffrey gasped in horror as Shadow disappeared through the warp ring. It was just what Sally had feared and exactly why she'd sent more than just Shadow to go to stop the Oblivion Cannon.

The warp ring had taken Shadow out of The Nefarious and had casually dumped him inside New Mobotropolis itself. Shadow had been about to release his Chaos Blast but he opened his eyes to see that he wasn't on the ship anymore. Furious, Shadow warped himself out of New Mobotropolis and into the nearby field so he wouldn't destroy anything. He forced himself to let out the Chaos Blast for he couldn't keep it in any longer. The huge, crimson explosion of power made all the evacuated New Mobotropolis citizens and the Royal Fighters leap in surprise as he unleashed it. The Royal Fighters had just about finished evacuating everybody, Silver just having a few more hospital patients to save, and they were all gathered together in a crowd to watch what was happening. Thankfully, Shadow had not hurt anybody for nobody was standing too closely to him and he was the right distance away from everybody. As soon as the Chaos Blast had ended, Shadow fell to his knees and gasped. Without his inhibitor rings to clip back on, he felt very power-drained and in need of a rest. But he knew he couldn't rest yet. New Mobotropolis was still in grave danger. Rouge flew over to Shadow and she helped him back onto his feet.

"What happened?" asked Rouge.

"Finitevus no doubt…" muttered Shadow, "Probably warped me down here to stop me Chaos-Blasting the cannon to pieces. Fly me back up to The Nefarious now!"

Rouge wasted no time at all. She grabbed Shadow and she carried him up towards The Nefarious , leaving the Royal Fighters to just stand and watch tensely as the last few minutes ticked away until the cannon's fire…

Back on The Nefarious , Dr. Finitevus, now fully healed because of a Chaos Regeneration, stood before Sonic and Geoffrey with a devious smirk on his evil face. Sonic and Geoffrey bent down into battle ready stances, ready to kick the tar out of their sworn enemy. They'd never felt this angry at the sight of him before. Finitevus had certainly stricken some chords with them, especially because of his degrading speech to the two and the rest of their friends earlier.

"OK Finitevus, how did you know we'd be here?! You don't have Cosmo to spy on us anymore!" growled Sonic.

"Oh Sonic, how stupid do you think I am?" snorted Finitevus, "Isn't it obvious? You escape my prison cell thanks to Blizzard and my ship is about to destroy your city. Logically, you'll come here to stop the cannon. Plus I gathered that Nicole would have the plans for my ship in Royal HQ since a computer like her is more potent than one realizes. You heroes are so embarrassingly predictable that it's just sad. And I must ask why you even bother trying to stop me? Didn't I just tell you that your cause is forlorn?"

"Yes you did Finitevus…and we disagree with you." said Sonic coldly, "I'll tell you what a forlorn cause is: a cause with nothing to fight for. Me and my friends have plenty of things to fight for! We have each other, our world and our lives and we fight for them because it's a cause worth fighting for! And you have opened my eyes, there will always be evil no matter how hard we fight in the world. It's kinda sad to think about but here's one thing you forgot. With every villain, there's a hero to stop it! You say WE fight for a forlorn cause Finitevus but guess what? So do you! You'll never be in a world rid of good! Even if your stupid plan works, there'll be somebody to stop you! I mean look at Silver and Blaze! They've found out about the coming of Enerjak and thanks to them, we've found out that YOU are the one who's bringing him around to destroy Mobius! Because of them, we have a chance at saving our world from the dystopian future that it becomes! 200 years after Enerjak's rising and there's still heroes trying to bring peace to the world! How "forlorn" is our cause NOW Dr. Fini-dork-us?!"

He concluded his speech with a snide smirk that radiated confidence and smugness, just another staple of Sonic's very characteristic personality. Dr. Finitevus stared at Sonic in utter horror. Sonic knew that his plan involved Enerjak?! And Silver and Blaze had been the ones who found out about Enerjak rising and thus, had come here precisely to tell Sonic and friends about Enerjak so they could stop him from accomplishing his goals?! The echidna felt like going mad with rage. He'd lost all subtlety now and the purpose of his plan was no longer a secret. But what made Finitevus really livid was how his speech hadn't deterred Sonic's spirit in the slightest. All his hard work to stay on top and Sonic STILL believed he could win?! What did he have to do to crush Sonic's spirit?! Kill Sally Acorn? It was worth a try but Finitevus didn't think about that now. He gripped the blades inserted in his cape and he lunged at Sonic, snarling angrily with rage. He swiped the blades at Sonic only for the hedgehog to dodge his attack by leaping over him. He landed behind Finitevus and kicked him in the back, knocking the echidna down onto his stomach. Finitevus pushed himself back onto his feet and just as Sonic homing-attacked towards him, he spun around on his heels and slashed Sonic savagely across the face with his blades. Sonic cried out in pain and he gripped the bloody cut on his cheek, wincing tensely under the terrible stinging. Finitevus then kicked Sonic in the gut and sent him tumbling over the edge of the floor that had separated in order to make way for the Oblivion Cannon. Sonic gripped the edge desperately, clinging on for dear life as Finitevus advanced towards him. He raised his foot, ready to stomp on Sonic's fingers and send him falling to his death. But then Geoffrey sneaked up behind Finitevus and prepared to shoot a stun dart at him. Finitevus unfortunately heard him and he wheeled around just as Geoffrey fired. He caught the dart between his fingers, its sharp point just inches from his throat. He'd been knocked out by a stun dart already, he wasn't going to let it happen again. He tossed the dart over his shoulder and ran towards Finitevus at an inhuman speed. He slugged Geoffrey in the gut and then elbowed him on the head, bringing the skunk down onto his stomach. Geoffrey coughed loudly and Finitevus raised one of the blades sown into his cape, ready to finish off Geoffrey. But then Sonic pulled himself back up into the ship and he spin-dashed the echidna in the back, throwing him off of the skunk and sending him hurling across the room. Seizing his chance, Geoffrey ran over to the Oblivion Cannon and he took aim at it with his arm-mounted crossbow. There was only a minute left until it fired. Every second that passed now was of essence. Geoffrey fired as many darts into the base of the cannon as possible and he even fired some down onto the cannon's barrel. Lucky for him that the cannon was at an angle otherwise this would have been impossible. These exploding darts had points that could penetrate the hardest of metals with ease so there was no problem firing the darts into the cannon. He'd set up the darts and now he needed to get a good distance away from the cannon so that the resulting explosion wouldn't blow him up as well as the cannon. He ran over to Sonic and watched despairingly as Finitevus kicked him up into the ceiling as hard as he could. Sonic hit the ceiling and just as he was coming down, Finitevus leaped up and kicked him into Geoffrey. Sonic and Geoffrey both sprawled on the ground but they picked themselves up and Geoffrey turned to Sonic.

"I've just about loaded the blighter with darts, it's time we got away from this thing!" he announced."

"I bet the explosion's gonna be big, big enough to destroy that cannon!" cried Sonic, "Let's run for it!"

"You two won't be going anywhere…" snarled Finitevus, "The cannon maybe loaded with the skunk's exploding darts…but he won't get to trigger them."

He then proceeded to summon a warp ring in front of himself and open the exit in front of Geoffrey. He raised the blade in the left edge of his cape and plunged it through the warp ring. Geoffrey cried out a sudden gasp as he felt something slam into and penetrate his gut. Finitevus had stabbed him! The sharp, vicious blade was half-way through Geoffrey's stomach. Blood oozed out from around the edges of the blade and spilled onto the floor. Geoffrey tried to say something but he could barely speak. The life in him was draining fast and he could feel it. Sonic could only stare in utter horror at what had happened. Geoffrey St. John, the Royal Fighter whom he'd known longer than anybody else, one of the first members of the Royal Fighters Service ever was now on death's door. Finitevus smirked wickedly and he yanked the blade out of Geoffrey's gut, the warp ring closing up after he took it out. The left edge of his cape was now soaked in blood. Geoffrey placed a hand over his bleeding stomach and he collapsed onto his knees. As he did this, Shadow and Rouge arrived aboard The Nefarious just in time to see Geoffrey keel over. The skunk was alive, but barely. He wouldn't survive much longer. Shadow and Rouge were shocked to see this. They hadn't been fast enough. Geoffrey was dying and the cannon was still ready to fire. Furious, Rouge put Shadow down on the ground and she screw-kicked Finitevus as hard as she could, taking him off his feet and throwing him back across the room. Sonic gave Shadow his inhibitor rings back and he clipped them on quickly, restoring his much needed energy for the battle ahead. Then he charged towards Finitevus whereas Sonic ran over to Geoffrey's side. He could see it in the skunk's eyes that he didn't have long left. It would be too late to save him.

"Geoffrey…" gasped Sonic, "You…you're gonna make it are you?"

"Ugh…no mate…I…don't think…I'll…make it." spluttered Geoffrey, "But…on my dying…breath…I shall…trigger…the darts…and...blow up…this cannon."

"But you'll blow yourself up too!" cried Sonic.

"Doesn't…matter. I'm…dying…anyway…at least…let me…go out… with a…bang." said Geoffrey weakly, winking at Sonic.

"You're on death's door and you're still cracking jokes." chuckled Sonic, "I bet I'd do the same thing. The team won't be the same without you Geoff. You'll be missed, very much. Especially by Bunnie."

"I know…but…at least…I won't…die in vain." grunted Geoffrey, coughing loudly and clutching his wounded stomach in agony, "Goodbye…Sonic my…mate."

"Goodbye Geoff." said Sonic sadly, "And don't worry, we'll honour your sacrifice today."

"Thanks…and…one more…thing…" whispered Geoffrey, "Tell Bunnie…that I'll always…love her. Even…in death…I'll always…love her."

"Will do." Sonic swore, "The hedgehog gives his word. See you in the afterlife Geoff."

Geoffrey just smiled weakly, knowing this would be the last time he would ever smile. Now that Geoffrey had decided what was going to happen, Sonic decided to get out of harm's way. He zoomed over to Shadow and Rouge and he quickly grabbed them, whisking them away from the scene before them. Finitevus wondered what was happening and he watched with horror as Geoffrey summoned the last of his strength to raise his crossbow arm, raise his other arm and then press the trigger button.

"Take that…ya blighter." he sneered, pleased that his final words were a four words of snark aimed directly at the one who had fatally wounded him.

The darts all exploded in unison, just ten seconds to spare before the Oblivion Cannon fired. Now the darts were exploding, the cannon would never fire. The explosion was massive, enough to tear the entire cannon apart and rip off pieces of The Nefarious 's underbelly. Finitevus could sense that his plan had just gone completely belly-up so he warped himself out of the room before the explosion could swallow him up and vaporize him. The explosion had taken Geoffrey immediately and they now hungered for Finitevus. Flames and smoke rushed towards him just as he escaped. The explosion tore its way through most of the bottom floor of The Nefarious and showers upon showers of debris rained down onto the city below. The shields had been raised by Nicole so no piece of debris hit the city itself. Aboard the ship, the explosion was chasing after Sonic, Shadow and Rouge, tearing up the corridors and blazing away after them. Shadow was quick to save everybody though by warping everybody off the ship. He didn't get very far though but upon reappearing, he warped away again. He kept on doing this short-ranged teleportation trick until finally, he reached the ground with Sonic and Rouge by his side. They looked up at The Nefarious with satisfaction, pleased to see its best weapon completely obliterated and some heavy damage being done to the underside of the ship. Geoffrey's last act of heroism had left its grievous mark on the Dark Armada. It would take them ages to repair the ship. It didn't look like it even had any energy left to fly anymore due to how damaged it was. But Finitevus was quick to use a Chaos Control to warp the ship back over to Megapolis so, once again, it could be repaired. And to think The Nefarious had only just been repaired a couple of days ago, now it needed repairing again. With the ship gone and New Mobotropolis still safe and intact, the Royal Fighters all began to cheer excitedly. The noise was so great that Amy actually woke up in her wheelchair. She opened her eyes slowly and mumbled sleepily.

"Huh…wh…what's happening…?" she mumbled groggily.

Cream was quick to notice that Amy was now awake and she hugged her friend ecstatically.

"MISS ROSE! YOU'RE AWAKE!" she squealed at the top of her voice "YAY! I'm so glad you're awake!"

"Uh…h-hello Cream…" Amy said weakly, "What's…what's going on? Is something…happening?"

"It's a long story Amy, we'll explain later." said Sonic as he approached his pink-furred friend, "Just know that we've crippled the Dark Armada's ship and sent them packing before they could destroy New Mobotropolis."

"Oh that's wonderful…pity that I…missed all that." sighed Amy, "Oh well. How long…have I been out?" she asked curiously.

"Since yesterday and the evening before." explained Sally, "After Captain Metal shot you, you were nearly killed so we rushed you home as quickly as possible. Mariah the Medicine Cat gave you a healing potion to accelerate your healing. It'll still at least be another week before you're fit to fight again."

"Well…that sucks." moaned Amy, "I wanna…smash Captain Metal…for nearly…killing me."

"We all do." said Blaze coldly, "And trust me, you will get your chance. So Sonic, where's Geoffrey?" she asked, looking up at Sonic this time, "And did you rescue Cosmo and Tails?"

Sonic looked grave as he gave the answers.

"Geoffrey…didn't make it. He was fatally wounded and he had no choice but to blow up the cannon before he died." explained Sonic, "And Tails and Cosmo are still in Finitevus's captivity. It's yet another bittersweet victory for us I'm afraid."

Bunnie Rabboh was the first to react. She broke down hysterically, tears steaming down her face and her body trembling crazily with shock. The Royal Fighters all shared her horror, gasping in unison at what they'd heard.

"NOOOOOOOOO!" howled Bunnie, "No…not mah Geoffrey! Please not him! He can't be gone! HE CAN'T BE!"

Sonic walked over to Bunnie and embraced the heartbroken rabbit warmly to give her some comfort. Bunnie clutched Sonic tightly as if hoping he'd somehow bring Geoffrey back alive and wailed into his shoulder. Sonic patted Bunnie on the back softly, sharing how sorrow. He'd known Geoffrey since Day One of the R.F.S. so to him, he'd lost a friend he'd known for longer than anybody else. It was a deep loss for him as well as Bunnie.

"I'm sorry Bunnie…" said Sonic sadly, "I'm very sorry…"

"No…it's not yer fault sugah-hog…" sobbed Bunnie, "Ya'll…did what ya'll could…at least…Geoffrey stopped The Nefarious…from destroying our city."

"Yes indeed. His death was not in vain." said Sonic, hoping that would lift Bunnie up a little, "And Geoffrey told me to tell you this Bunnie…he'll always love you, even in death."

"And ah'll always love him too…" snivelled Bunnie, "Let's hold a funeral for him and wish him well in heaven."

"That's just what a brave man like Geoffrey deserves." agreed Sally, "Everybody, back into the city. So we can pay respects for our fallen comrade."

With that said, everybody walked back into New Mobotropolis. As they walked back towards the city, Sonic looked over at Sally sadly.

"I'm glad we stopped The Nefarious but I don't feel like I've really won today." he moaned, "We lost Geoffrey, Cosmo's still a prisoner of Finitevus, Tails is still a robot and the Chaos Emeralds are still with Finitevus. It's a pretty shallow victory if you ask me."

"At least it was a victory at all and not total defeat." noted Sally, "And trust me Sonic, we'll stop the armada at last. As long as we live, we'll never, EVER give up. We'll get Tails and Cosmo back. And we'll stop the armada."

Sonic took Sally's hand into his own and held it gently, stroking it with his thumb softly.

"I know we will Sal…I just wonder how much more we'll sacrifice just to beat them." said Sonic grimly.

Sally nodded. This was definitely a war of heavy loss and great tragedy for the Royal Fighters indeed, much worse than their war with Eggman had ever been. They had won today…but would their next victory be as bittersweet? Time would tell as the war continued…and Operation: Enerjak Reborn came closer to being executed…

R.I.P Geoffrey St. John. He will be missed... :(

So will the Royal Fighters defeat the armada at last? Join in next time as our heroes deal with the "Aftershock" of today's events...and an armada member makes a surprising heel turn! (It's not Scourge or Fiona, that's not surprising)

Dark Armada Part 15: Aftershock

Story 215: Aftershock

The Dark Armada Chapter 15 of 25

The next day had arrived, dull and grey but not quite to the point of raining yet. Grey clouds loomed in the sky but all they did was overlook everything down below, not so much as letting a drop of rain fall to the ground. They were not heavy enough with water for it to start raining yet.

The dull grey atmosphere seemed very appropriate for the tone that had pretty much been set for all of the Royal Fighters in the Royal Fighters Service. Just yesterday they had received the shock of their lives when Cosmo the Seedrian turned out to be Finitevus's secret agent and the Seedrian was currently in Finitevus's captivity, waiting to become a sick test subject for any science experiment that Finitevus had planned. Before that though, she was currently used for stress relief by Finitevus or Mecha Tails himself. Even though the Royal Fighters had escaped certain death and managed to foil Finitevus's plan to destroy New Mobotropolis, their victory hadn't been without any cost. Geoffrey St. John, the Royal Fighter who had been on Sonic's side longer than anybody else and one of the first ever members along with Sonic and Fiona Fox had died, sacrificing his own dying life to stop the Oblivion Cannon from destroying New Mobotropolis. Plus Tails was still a robot and Cosmo was still Finitevus's prisoner. It had been a victory yesterday, but a very pyrrhic one indeed. So much so that even though it was now a new day, the Royal Fighters still felt glum about it. Bunnie Rabboh, formerly Bunnie Rabbot, hadn't slept a wink last night due to Geoffrey's death plaguing her mind like a bad disease. All she had done last night was cry her heart out until she felt like she'd run out of tears to cry. She'd loved Geoffrey very much. Not only had he been the one to save her from being fully roboticized by Eggman on the Royal Fighter's first mission and thus, give her a chance to join the service, but he'd been very supportive, protective and kind to her. He'd even been the one to show her she was strong even without her cybernetics. Geoffrey had been the man of her dreams and she'd loved every minute spent with him. Now he was gone, leaving her behind to do nothing but grieve over him. To start off the morning, Bunnie had gone to the local florist to buy a beautiful bouquet of flowers for her fallen boyfriend. The bouquet was huge and had lots of red, yellow and pink flowers. Upon buying the bouquet, she went over to the New Mobotropolis graveyard and walked over to Geoffrey's gravestone. His body had been vaporized aboard The Nefarious when the Oblivion Cannon blew up so there was no body to bury, just a gravestone to place and commemorate him. His gravestone was next to Mariah the Medicine Cat's and it read:

Geoffrey St. John

2124-2144

He was a brave soldier and he gave the Royal Fighters a great name.

He gave his life to save many other lives and his sacrifice will forever be remembered as a selfless, honourable deed that has saved our city, and our lives.

Rest In Peace

Bunnie felt the tears welling up in her eyes as she knelt down by his grave and lay down the bouquet. Geoffrey's funeral had been a very sad time for her and the rest of the Royal Fighters yesterday. She was glad that she was alone with him now though. Bunnie wiped her eyes dry, desperately not wanting to cry in front of her boyfriend's grave. Sniffling, she began to speak.

"Hope ya'll like the flowers sugah." she said sadly, "I bought em' just for you mah love."

In her mind, she imagined how Geoffrey would reply to this. She imagined he'd be very happy and flattered to receiver such a gift, especially from her. Bunnie continued to speak.

"Ah know, yer very welcome." she said with a sad smile, "And ah'll be sure to give ya'll a fresh bouquet every once in a while. It's the most ya'll deserve for bein' so wonderful ta me."

She put her hands over her heart and choked back tears so she could continue speaking.

"Thank ya'll Geoffrey, for bein' such a kind soul ta me. A-and thank you for givin' me s-self-esteem when ah n-n-needed it most. Ah'm r-really gonna miss ya Geoffrey…but w-when mah time comes, I'll be with ya'll again." she said with trembling lips, "And then w-we c-can b-be together for a-all e-eternity. B-bet ya'll like th-the sound of th-that."

She imagined that Geoffrey would probably be saying "I very much like the sound of that luv" to her. Bunnie let some of the tears fall down her face as despair began to creep over her but she kept herself from crying uncontrollably. She wiped them away from her already tear-soaked cheeks and knelt closer to Geoffrey.

"But mah time ain't here yet." she said softly, "Ya'll wouldn't want me ta join ya just yet. Ya'll would want me ta live mah life ta the fullest. And that's what ah'm gonna do, for you sugah. And while ah'm still livin' ah'm gonna make Finitevus pay for what he did. He caused ya'll to die and he's gonna pay for it! Mark mah words Geoffrey…He. Will. PAY!"

A pleasing thought came into Bunnie's mind as she imagined herself beating the tar out of Finitevus and making him suffer for causing Geoffrey's death. She had heard from Sonic that Geoffrey's sacrifice had been forced upon him by Finitevus himself. Finitevus had fatally stabbed Geoffrey in the gut and the dying skunk had chosen to let his dying breath mean something by allowing himself to be sacrificed for the greater good. Had Finitevus not done that, Geoffrey would still be here now. Finitevus had crossed the line with Bunnie. He'd kidnapped Tails, the best friend of one of her best friends Sonic the Hedgehog, then he'd de-roboticized her and made her weaker and now he'd caused the death of her boyfriend. She would make Finitevus beg for mercy if it was the last thing she did. Thinking about Finitevus made Bunnie clench her fists in rage and she had the sudden urge to punch something. But she knew that doing it in a graveyard was very disrespectful so she composed herself. She instead relaxed and looked back at Geoffrey's gravestone.

"Goodbye Geoffrey…and ah promise ya'll, ah'll never forget you… and ah'll always have a place for you in mah heart. Ah promise."

With nothing more to say, the distraught rabbit got up to her feet and walked away from the grave. Only when she walked away from the grave did she allow herself to finally break down again. She put her head into her hands and let out another sob, just another of many that she'd done already. She hoped that this one would be the last one and she'd finally get over Geoffrey's death enough to focus on the bigger picture at hand…the Dark Armada itself…

The atmosphere in the New Mobotropolis Hospital was just as dull and grey as it was outside. Everybody in the R.F.S. was gathered around in Amy Rose's room and they were all just sitting around and talking, the conversation not being entirely pleasing. One of the few good things that had happened yesterday was that Amy had come out of her coma after being nearly obliterated by Captain Metal. She still looked very much a worse for wear but she was getting better thanks to Mariah the Medicine Cat's healing potion that she'd been given before Mariah was swiftly murdered by Mecha Tails. Cream the Rabbit had been ecstatic upon Amy being awake again and the little rabbit had barely left her side since then. After spending most of yesterday paying respect for Geoffrey, everybody had now decided to give Amy the information she required. Amy had been informed on everything that had happened while she'd been out from Mariah's death, the attempt on her life while she'd been out and even Cosmo's unwilling role as Finitevus's agent just to keep Tails alive. The news about Cosmo had been so shocking that poor Amy thought she was going to slip back into her coma. She lay in her hospital bed, her hands over her mouth in shock and her body trembling. Cream looked at her sadly. She knew that Amy wouldn't be happy to hear what had been going on in her absence at all.

"Oh my...I never would have guessed that COSMO was the agent all along!" shrieked Amy, "But...she had no choice. It must have been horrible for her! Finitevus threatening to tell Tails to kill himself unless she does what he tells her to do! How could anybody be so evil?!"

"It mystifies me as to why anybody would even WANT to be so cruel and heartless." grumbled Queen Sally Acorn angrily, "I swear that people like Finitevus make me want to go insane!"

"That's why we exist Sal, to stop evil people from taking over the world and all that crazy stuff." sighed Sonic the Hedgehog, "We formulated this service to stop Eggman and now we're trying to stop guys like Finitevus and his armada. And to think after Eggman's death I wondered if we'd disband..."

"Mobius would be as good as dead if we did something that stupid." muttered the holographic Nicole the Lynx, shaking her head sadly, "Thank goodness we stayed together."

"And yet it feels like the team's falling apart..." said Amy grimly, "I'm not fit for battle yet, Knuckles has a broken arm, Tails is working for Finitevus as a Robian, Cosmo's captured and now Geoffrey's dead." she sighed sadly, "True me and Knuckles will be fine in a few days time but Geoffrey's still dead and Tails and Cosmo are still prisoners of Finitevus."

"And your team's not the only one falling apart." sighed Team Adabat's leader Scott the Lynx, "My team lost Taran."

"I sure as hell hope we don't lose anybody else in this service." muttered Mandy Mouse bitterly as if the losses they'd experienced lately were just nothing but a bad taste in her mouth, "If we lose anybody else, we'll never defeat the armada! And I feel sorry for you and Bunnie Scott." she added sympathetically, "You lost your brother, Bunnie's lost her boyfriend. I can relate...I still grieve over my sister's death even though it's been a few years since then..."

Mandy could feel herself tearing up inside. The mouse had a tough personality but even she was capable of breaking down crying on occasion. All this talk of loss had brought back bad memories for her. Her sister Marion the Mouse had been killed on a mission in Grand Metropolis and there wasn't a day that went by where she still missed her*. Sensing Mandy's pain, Kari the Rat of the Nekronopolis

Royal Fighters team came up to her and hugged her comfortingly. Kari was a close friend of Mandy's and she didn't like seeing her sad like this.

"Oh there, there Mandy..." she said softly, "Please don't cry. It's sad enough as it is in here. And we don't want to see you upset like this."

"Sorry Kari..." Mandy said solemnly, "It's just...every time I think of Marion...it's hard for me not to..."

"We understand very much." said Kari sweetly, "Miranda still misses Kate the Eagle. And this talk about loss is beginning to make us remember her death too."

"I bet it is..." sighed Mandy, wiping her eyes dry, "Being a Royal Fighter is great and all...but...but sometimes it's tough dealing with the losses you have to endure and the sacrifices that have to be made."

"You said it Mandy." murmured Amy, "As for me, I consider Cosmo being Finitevus's prisoner to be a loss. It doesn't feel the same without her around with me and Cream. And I really worry what that fiend is gonna do to Cosmo...experiment on her no doubt!" she cried out, her face contorting with horror and her chest rising and falling rapidly

"He straight up told us he was going to keep the poor girl as a punching bag for Mecha Tails and also to experiment on her." said Princess Matilda with disgust, "That sickens me! How could anybody do that to such a sweet little child?!"

"I may not have much love for children but even I will agree that that is just abominable..." muttered Bladefeather, "No child should be subjected to cruelty like this."

"And that's why we're gonna save her." announced Sonic, "It's a pity that The Nefarious was warped away by a Chaos Control so now we have no idea where it is now."

"Rai told us that Finitevus had put the ship in Megapolis when it needed repairing the first time." noted Sally, "But I doubt Finitevus will put it there since we know it's where he put it last time."

"Yeah, Finitevus got Rai back behind our backs and I bet he's told Finitevus EVERYTHING you forced him to tell you." growled a very bitter Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx, "We're back to square one. We'll be forced to wait until that ugly-ass ship comes out of its hidey-hole again before we can attack the armada..."

"Not necessarily." said Knuckles the Echidna, "Blizzard was given Synthetic Chaos Energy by Finitevus right? She can Chaos Control us on the ship."

"But Finitevus will expect that and he'll plan for it." sighed Nicole, "You know what he's like. He's like a master chess player. He always knows how to counter his opponent's moves with every piece he moves on the board.

"Not to mention if he isn't ready, Blizzard's still recovering." noted Ruben the Water Panther, "She passed out and she's just resting in bed next door now. As weird as it is for me to say this...I hope she's alright."

"It's weird for any of us to say that but at least there's no shame in it." said Ruben's girlfriend Sora Prower, hugging her boyfriend gently and stroking his arm, "She's on our side now and is making up for her previous crimes. I wonder if her villainous life is what tempted Finitevus to test the Synthetic Chaos Energy on her." she added thoughtfully, a very deep in thought look falling on her face. It was a face she made a lot what with being a spy and all.

"Maybe it is." murmured Sonic, "Well, at least it didn't work how he hoped and Blizzard's still good. But I wonder if the energy's doing some harm to her..."

"I would recommend removing it to see what it does to her but then we lose the only way of getting on The Nefarious we have." noted Sally, "And I wouldn't recommend putting it in somebody else, it could do terrible things to either of us."

"Indeed. Last thing we need is a headache and a sudden pass-out like Blizzard." said Shadow the Hedgehog in his usual quiet voice,

"Although I wonder if it would effect me and Sonic any differently since we're actual Chaos-powered beings?"

"It could be worse..." said Rogue the Bat worriedly, "It might react very violently with the Chaos Energy in your bodies. I wouldn't try it."

"Then we won't risk it." Shadow decided, taking in his friend's worries, "We'll just have to wait for Blizzard to come to and then we could probably use a Chaos Control to get aboard The Nefarious. Finitevus may expect it but we don't have any other ways of getting on that thing."

"Yeah so literally, it's our only option." said Sonic grimly, "And I assure you, next time I get aboard that ship...the Dark Armada will cry for mercy but I won't give them any, not even a little."

"I used to think that showing our enemies mercy made us better people...and in a way it did." mused Sally, "But Fintievus gave us a profound point. Our lack of ability to put down monsters like him is why we'll never achieve our goals. I'm not the murdering type...but if the Finitevus is killed in battle, I shan't lose any sleep over it."

"I may not approve of this...but my master once taught me that sometimes, the peaceful solution isn't always the best one." said Matilda solemnly, "Sometimes you have to kill if it means bringing peace and happiness to those you love."

"I assure you, Captain Metal's so dead when I get my hands on him!" snarled Amy, "How dare he try to kill Sonic! And how dare he cripple me like this! Once I'm healed, he's so dead!"

"You better save some for me..." muttered Blaze the Cat, "I have scores to settle with him too."

"If there's anybody who needs to die around here, it's Finitevus himself." noted Silver the Hedgehog, "He's definitely the one responsible for the end of the world this year. Synthetic Chaos Energy, world is destroyed by Enerjak, Finitevus has attempted to become Enerjak already, Enerjak's appearance matches Finitevus...it's obvious that Finitevus is the missing link in the chain of events that leaves Mobius in ruin for 200 years!"

"So I don't suppose anybody will stop me if I attempt to put Finitevus down like the monster he is?" asked Sonic, his voice deathly serious and even sinister sounding, an unusual tone of voice for the hedgehog to use.

The question came to a shock to everybody. Sonic had never suggested attempting to kill somebody before. Or at least, not in front of them. It was true, the Royal Fighters thought, that Sonic was no stranger to killing. He had killed the Devatrons when they'd invaded Mobius and he had sent the Martians to the void where they had all been crystallized by Ixis Naugus. Plus he'd destroyed many Eggman robots, had helped to kill the Eraser and even Solaris. But to actually ask to kill somebody like Finitevus...that was something they never would have expected. Sonic felt no different though. He'd once attempted to kill Eggman only to give into his good nature and spare him. Finitevus had done the dirty work for him. But Sonic wasn't prepared to let Enerjak come back alive. He'd defeated him once and he didn't fancy fighting him again. Finitevus had to die so Enerjak couldn't be brought back alive. After a moment of silence, Sally stared at Sonic and spoke.

"If it'll stop Enerjak from coming...then no, we won't stop you." she whispered, "If you want to put Finitevus down...then be my guest. I'm not one to approve of killing but this will be a case where I make an exception."

"Good." said Sonic coldly, "Because that's what's happening next time I see the bastard. Finitevus is going to die and the world will be saved from his monstrosity."

The Royal Fighters all nodded agreeably. Finitevus was too dangerous to be left alive. He had to die and it would be for the good of all of Mobius...

Unbeknownst to the Royal Fighters, Blizzard the Ice Witch was having a dream in the room next door to Amy's. She had fallen unconscious after something had happened to her inside her body and she was now resting peacefully in the bed, her chest rising and falling softly as she slowly breathed. Her vital signals were all clear, meaning that the Synthetic Chaos Energy wasn't killing her, nor was it damaging her. But it was slowly but steadily beginning to change her. Inside her head, her brain was beginning to show signs of turning green. Green veins pulsated around her brain and her head began throbbing like crazy. This was causing her to cringe in her sleep. The Synthetic Chaos Energy flowed through her body, some of it channelling through her brain and causing changes into it. Blizzard was beginning to dream as a result of this. She was beginning to have dark thoughts in her mind. Thoughts very reminiscent of what she used to be like. She was feeling thoughts of vengeance and conquest. She found herself wanting to murder Sally and Amy again and was considering taking over Castle Acorn. But she had something that was combating the Chaos Energy in her brain. The ghosts of her family, Iceberg, Frost and Winter.

Do not let this evil brew corrupt you my love...fight it! begged Iceberg.

Come on mummy! You can do it! Don't let it corrupt you! pleaded Frost and Winter.

Mummy's trying dears...but this energy...it's poisoning my brain! Make it stop! wailed Blizzard in her thoughts.

Don't panic sweetheart, we're there for you. Just think of us. said Iceberg warmly, Think of us. Think of how wonderful your life is now. Please...do it for us.

I...won't...be...corrupted! declared Blizzard, I'm not returning to my evil life again!

Yes mummy! That's it! You can do it! cheered her children ecstatically.

Blizzard smiled and she focused her thoughts on her good life and nothing more. This seemed to work for the Chaos Energy began to attack her brain less and her head began to ache less. The sleeping Ice Witch settled back down and continued snoozing peacefully away as if nothing had happened. But the Chaos Energy wouldn't give up that easily...it was still inside of her...and it would come back strong whether Blizzard wanted it to or not...

Meanwhile on The Nefarious , repair work was going at a rapid pace. Dr. Finitevus was all too keen to get the ship up and flying again so he ordered the armada to work as fast as possible on getting The Nefarious back in the sky in no time at all. It was bad enough that the ship had been crippled and in need of repair already, it angered Finitevus that the same thing had happened again. Once The Nefarious was back in the sky, Finitevus would see to it that the ship would never get damaged ever again. Captain Metal, Rapahel the Cyber Husky, Lord Sycorax, Valdek the Frill-Necked Lizard and Romeo the Chameleon were working as fast and as hard as possible to get the ship fixed as fast as they could. They worked at a breakneck pace, not once slowing down or stopping to rest. The damage to The Nefarious was catastrophic. Nearly all of the ship's underbelly had been completely destroyed and most of the bottom floor had been destroyed. It would take them a long time to fix the ship. But they would see to it that it was repaired sooner or later.

As they worked, the Raiju Clan had all gathered together in their dorm room and the Bride of the Conquering Storm shook hands with her right hand man Dàfeng Rai. Rai had been taken prisoner by the Royal Fighters a few days ago but Finitevus had rescued him before taking Cosmo hostage and forcing the Royal Fighters to surrender yesterday. The armada had been a little too busy yesterday so Conquering Storm hadn't really had the time to welcome him back to the clan. Now they had the time, they were doing just that.

"It is an honour to have you back Rai." said Conquering Storm stoically.

"Thank you honoured matron." said Rai brightly, "It's good to be back. It was boring staying stuck in that prison cell with nothing to do but hope I get rescued."

"We apologize for not coming to rescue you earlier." said Conquering Storm grimly, "Finitevus decided to take his time."

"It's OK." Rai reassured his beloved clan leader, "Saving me later is better than never at all."

"Indeed so Rai." said Conquering Storm, folding her arms and looking at him with a face that didn't show much interest in anything, "So Rai, tell me...what did the Royal Fighters do to you?"

"They forced me to give them sensitive information." muttered Rai, "They made me crack. Sally Acorn actually threatened to sever my limbs to make me talk!"

"They did what?!" shrieked Conquering Storm. Her face was full of livid anger and her voice was like steel, "Those savages! How dare they threaten to disembowel you!"

"They'll pay that's for sure." said Rai grimly, "But here's one thing that has me confused."

Conquering Storm raised an eyebrow of suspicion.

"Go on then..." she mused, her tone suddenly cautious as she spoke.

"I told the Royal Fighters about our plan but...Sally asked me if the plan had anything to do with somebody called...Enerjak." explained Rai.

Conquering Storm suddenly went pale with horror. She stood as straight as a ruler and her body became stiff and unmoving. Rai thought for a moment she was going to faint. But amazingly enough, Conquering Storm did nothing of the sort. She regained herself and spoke.

"Did...did you say...Enerjak?" she whispered hoarsely.

"Yes I did." said Rai in confusion, "Why? What's the matter my honourable leader?"

"I've heard of him...he's a monster of wizardry and black magic!" Conquering Storm answered in a voice that didn't quite sound like her own, "He corrupted Matilda and got her thrown into a cell next door to mine! I could hear her raving like a maniac about somebody named "Enerjak" for days! She sounded crazy but...then those Royal Fighters came to see her...and then all hell broke loose...Enerjak possessed Sally and then he jumped over into Sonic's body and had him fight against his friends and Kai Zen! Matilda sounded delusional when she raved about "Enerjak" but that pretty much confirmed she wasn't! I also recall hearing the guards talking as they threw her into that cell...they were worried about how Chun-Nan was suddenly worshipping this "Enerjak" monster. Black magic is a sin to the world and Enerjak is one thing I do NOT want to have roaming Mobius!"

"But our plan has nothing to do with Enerjak." noted Rai, "Why worry about him?"

"Don't you understand you idiot?!" snapped Conquering Storm, slapping Rai in the face as hard as she could, "Those heroes ask if our plan has something to do with Enerjak! What does that tell you?!"

Rai was about to answer but he kept his mouth closed. He actually didn't know what to say, much to his surprise. He shrugged stupidly in defeat.

"It means that they know something WE don't!" snapped Conquering Storm, "You tell them about our plan and they ask if it's related to Enerjak...they must have been suspicious about the Synthetic Chaos Energy! I believe Enerjak was a Chaos God or something...and I also remember Finitevus telling us about all the Royal Fighters. He told us about two Mobians from the future named Silver and Blaze. They must know what Finitevus's plan is really about and they've told our enemies so they know what we don't know...that the plan's actually about Enerjak!"

The Raiju Clan all gasped in horror to hear this. Rai however didn't seem fussed.

"So? Who cares if it's about Enerjak? Finitevus will have him help us conquer the world!" protested Rai.

"There's no honour in conquering the world with black magic!" snarled Conquering Storm, "ONLY through strength and might do you earn anything in life! Magic like Enerjak's is dishonourable and goes against our philosophy! Not to mention Enerjak corrupted our country before! I'll NEVER forgive him for that! Finitevus cannot be allowed to commence with Operation: Villains Rising! We must overthrow him and take over ourselves so that we will conquer the world the honourable way!"

"Are you out of your %^&*ing mind?!" shrieked Rai frantically, "We can't betray Finitevus! He'll kill us all!"

"Let him try..." growled Conquering Storm, picking up a katana with a red hilt and a decorated handle from the weapons display cabinet in the corner of their room, "Raiju Clan, we are taking over this armada!" she declared, raising the katana high above her head.

"YEAH!" squealed all the Raiju Ninjas excitedly.

The Raiju Clan were like herds of sheep. They always followed whatever Conquering Storm said no matter what it was. But Rai was beginning to have doubts about this coup de tat of Conquering Storm's. Would rebelling and mutinying against Finitevus really be that wise an idea? And what if they were all jumping to conclusions? What if Finitevus's plan wasn't about Enerjak at all? They'd be slaughtering him for nothing! But Rai knew better than to question Conquering Storm's intelligence and decisions. She had after all led the clan to taking over Chun-Nan through a brilliantly contrived and executed stratagem that fooled even Princess Matilda of all people. She wasn't one to stupidly assume something or make a foolish decision. He would follow her for this one regardless of his own self-doubts. Not to mention, as he remembered, Conquering Storm sort of planned on getting rid of Finitevus anyway. Now had just forced her to do it earlier than planned. Conquering Storm and her clan marched out of the dorm room and they headed off to find Finitevus. Once they found him, he would be dead meat…

Cosmo the Seedrian had lost track of how long she'd been locked up in this dark, featureless room that served as her prison from now on until her death. This was the isolation chamber, a room that Finitevus had built to keep anybody he wanted to experiment on isolated and cut off from anybody until he was ready to use them. Cosmo was being kept as a punching bag for Mecha Tails and also as a possible experiment for Synthetic Chaos Energy for Finitevus since her role as his agent had expired. The former use had already been done. After the Dark Armada's crippling failure yesterday, Finitevus had ordered Mecha Tails to just beat up Cosmo for no reason other than to give him some catharsis to alleviate his rage and anger over the failure of his mission. It hadn't really worked much to Finitevus's dismay since he was still angry but he had enjoyed watching Mecha Tails beat up somebody as pathetic and miserable as Cosmo. Cosmo still winced in pain from the beating. Mecha Tails had given her a black eye, a bruised left arm, bruised thighs, slashes across her torso and right arm that had been inflicted on her by his tails and a bleeding lip which had since scabbed over and was now beginning to heal. Cosmo spent all of last night in agony, too hurt to sleep both physically and mentally. She had brought this upon herself. She should never have become Finitevus's agent and betrayed her friends, she never should have let Finitevus's blackmail get to her and should have let Sonic know about it so that Finitevus would be stopped. She should have known better than to allow herself to play into his hands. She should have known that he'd blow up Tails anyway once he'd finished with him. But she hadn't known and she'd done it. She'd allowed Finitevus to manipulate her into betraying everybody and now she was paying for her crimes. She'd only been in this room for a day now and yet Cosmo had already decided there was no hope for her anymore. She felt that she got what she deserved. She'd been stupid enough to let Finitevus turn her against her friends and even though they were still alive according to Finitevus, she didn't think they'd be bothered about her anymore. She doubted they were even worried about her. Cosmo had a nasty image in her head that the Royal Fighters would be scorning her name, even Amy to whom she would never see wake up from her coma. Even if they'd felt sorry for her after hearing she'd been manipulated, Cosmo didn't think they really did. She didn't deserve their sorrow and sympathy. She didn't even deserve their forgiveness. She knew that Geoffrey St. John, the one who had actually guessed that she was the agent before anybody else did, would never forgive her had he still been alive. That made her feel even worse as she thought about Geoffrey. It was her fault he'd died. It was also her fault Taran and Mariah had died too. How could the Royal Fighters forgive her for that? Cosmo curled her aching legs up to her chest and she hugged them as if they were her only friends now.

"Oh why did I do it…?" Cosmo whimpered for the millionth time, "Why did I be so stupid? I've betrayed everybody…and for what? Tails blowing up once Finitevus is done with him! Why did I do it?!"

She began to cry for the millionth time, surprised that she even had the energy left in her to cry anymore. Her tears trickled down her face and onto her knees, staining the white satin of her skirt.

"Because of me, Geoffrey is now dead and my friends are no closer to saving Tails than before…they all must hate me now…" she sobbed, "I bet Tails really hates me…that is if his real self is still in that Robian body of his. I deserve all this. I bet when I die…nobody will miss me."

She began to cry even harder, the horrible image of her dead and buried and nobody even so much as shedding a tear for her after she'd died making her brain shudder in disgust as she thought it. Never in her life had Cosmo been so distraught, so pessimistic and above all, so destroyed. Even the Martians destroying her world and rendering her the last of her kind didn't make her feel this bad. When death came for Cosmo, she would welcome it. Anything to put herself out of her misery. She even considered just strangling herself but at the same time, she was too scared to think about suicide. So Cosmo just sat in the cell, wallowing in sorrow and drowning in tears. A rotten end to her life indeed. Then suddenly, Cosmo heard footsteps approaching the room. Her heart leaped into her throat and she cowered away into the corner of the room. The door opened, spilling light inside and slicing open the darkness, and in walked Dr. Finitevus. Cosmo hid her face in horror and she pressed herself as far into the wall as possible.

"No! Please! Go away!" whimpered Cosmo feebly, "Please Finitevus, I don't want anymore! Don't make Tails torture me again! Please! Please! Just put me out of misery!"

"You're pathetic Agent White Seed…" growled Finitevus, "Already you fear a torture session and I haven't even announced why I'm here yet. And don't you give me "just put me out of my misery", I won't give you that satisfaction if that's what you want. I'm not a believer in the "easy way out"."

"Then…what do you want to do with me?" asked Cosmo worriedly, still keeping her eyes covered in fear.

"It's time you became an experiment my dear." purred Finitevus wickedly, "I have a fresh batch of Synthetic Chaos Energy waiting to be tested. And you're the lucky girl who's going to have it tested on her."

Cosmo went pale with shock. Despite pretty much losing interest in living, she didn't really want to be a test for Synthetic Chaos Energy. If the test went well then she'd be working for Finitevus again, this time for good. She'd rather die than work for Finitevus again.

"NO! NO! Not that, anything but that please!" begged Cosmo frantically, "Don't experiment on me! Please!"

I told you why you're being kept alive Cosmo. One of the reasons was so you can be an experiment for me so like it or not, that's what's happening to you." said Finitevus coldly, "Now shut up whimpering and get up!"

Cosmo tried to do that but the pain in her body was too much for her. Mecha Tails had beaten her so badly that just the simple act of standing up was a challenge for her and it was a challenge she couldn't overcome. She forced herself onto her legs and then collapsed onto the floor again.

"I said GET UP!" snarled Finitevus.

He kicked Cosmo in the gut as hard as he could to try and "encourage" her into standing back up. Cosmo coughed and spluttered loudly but she forced herself onto her feet. She then further forced herself to stay standing. Now she was up on her feet, Finitevus grabbed her hand.

"You wanted to be put out of your misery Cosmo…well if the experiment goes wrong then consider me granting your wish." said Finitevus cruelly.

Cosmo nodded grimly. Maybe she would get what she wanted after all. Finitevus was about to warp himself and her over to the lab until he heard marching footsteps approaching. Finitevus threw Cosmo back against the wall and he walked out of the cell to see what was happening. The door closed shut behind the albino scientist, sealing Cosmo back in once again. The Seedrian crawled over to the door and pressed her ear against it, seeing if she could hear what was going on. She could hear Finitevus walking a few steps before stopping to address the oncoming feet. The marching stopped and Finitevus spoke. Outside, he was face-to-face with the entire Raiju Clan. Conquering Storm had a katana in her hands, something that made Finitevus raise an eyebrow suspiciously.

"Why my dear Raiju Clan, whatever is all the commotion about?" asked Finitevus smoothly, "I haven't given any orders to go into battle."

"We don't need any orders." said Conquering Storm coldly, "We've managed to figure out what your plan is really about Finitevus. You want to resurrect Enerjak…and we will NOT allow that to happen!"

That made Cosmo gasp in surprise from inside her cell. Conquering Storm knew that Finitevus's plan was about Enerjak? How did she work that out? Cosmo then remembered. Sonic and Sally had asked Rai about Enerjak! She'd spied on them and had heard everything when working for Finitevus! Rai must have told Conquering Storm about what Sonic and Sally had said! But Cosmo still didn't understand how Conquering Storm had been able to put two plus two together like that. Finitevus on the other hand seemed unfazed and just as cold and collected as ever.

"Why Conquering Storm, you're deathly mistaken." purred Finitevus, "My plan is for all of you, it has nothing to do with Enerjak at all."

"Then explain why the heroes questioned Rai about our plan having anything to do with him!" snapped Conquering Storm, "They know what we don't know and that is what the plan is REALLY about! And we're going to stop you from resurrecting Enerjak! You are being replaced by me as leader of the Dark Armada! And we will commence with Operation: Villains Rising the way it SHOULD be commenced…through strength and honour, not evil magic and wizardry!"

Finitevus growled furiously. How did Sonic and his friends know his plot was about Enerjak?! He supposed that Silver and Blaze were responsible for that what with being from the future and all. And now because of them, Conquering Storm was betraying him and plotting to overthrow him! Finitevus would see to it that Silver and Blaze got brutally murdered at some point after this. He narrowed his eyes at Conquering Storm and he cracked his knuckles.

"Alright then…" he purred angrily.

Conquering Storm roared furiously, her roar like a wild animal waiting to pounce on its unfortunate prey and rip it apart. She raised her katana and she thundered towards Finitevus like an angry lion. She swung the katana downwards towards Finitevus but the echidna quickly caught the blade between his hands before it could strike him. He yanked on the katana and he kicked Conquering Storm in the gut, causing her to double over and let go of the katana. Finitevus took it into his own hands and he swung it at Conquering Storm. The ninja bride weaved out of the way before she could be sliced to pieces. The rest of the Raiju Clan charged towards Finitevus, hoping to help their honoured matron but the caped experimenter summoned a warp ring and caused all of the ninjas to run straight through it for they were too late to realize what had happened. The entire Raiju Clan disappeared through the warp ring, even Rai and Finitevus closed it up behind them. Conquering Storm watched with horror as her clan vanished through the warp ring.

"Where have you sent them?!" she snarled angrily, throwing a punch at Finitevus but missing by a mile as the echidna leaped over her.

Finitevus threw a kick straight down atop of Conquering Storm's head and knocked her down onto the floor. Then Finitevus landed behind Conquering Storm and prepared to slice her in two with the katana. Conquering Storm turned onto her back and caught it in between her hands just as Finitevus had done so to her earlier.

"Your clan is getting a nasty bit of roasting I'm afraid…" purred Finitevus, "You see, I warped them straight into Mount Adabat itself. And you may not know this but Mount Adabat is a volcano so I think your precious clan will end up buried in tonnes of lava by the time this fight is over."

The look on Conquering Storm's face was a look that Finitevus would forever treasure. Her face was a juxtaposition of anger, horror, sadness and rage all at once. For a moment she couldn't move and thus, this gave Finitevus the perfect opportunity to yank the katana out of her hands, slightly scratching them in the process, and he raised it above his head, ready to finish her off. But Conquering Storm had been brought back to reality by the katana scratching her hands and just as Finitevus was about to kill her, Conquering Storm leapt into action. She grabbed Finitevus by the torso and she knocked him down onto the floor. She then picked herself up and began punching him as hard as she could, aiming directly at his face with every punch she threw.

"YOU'LL DIE FOR THIS!" she screamed at the top of her voice.

She punched Finitevus directly between the eyes, the blow actually causing the echidna's head to start swimming. The punch had disorientated Finitevus a little but the scientist wasn't down yet. Conquering Storm launched another punch at him but then Finitevus summoned a warp ring to his hand and held it in front of his face. Conquering Storm's fist shot through the warp ring and then reappeared…directly beside her head. This caused Conquering Storm to punch herself and knock herself off of Finitevus. Finitevus leaped up onto his feet and he chopped Conquering Storm across the cheek. Conquering Storm retaliated with a flat-handed punch to the cheek on Finitevus and sent his head snapping sharply to the right. Finitevus recovered quickly and ducked as Conquering Storm launched a powerful kick to his forehead. He grabbed Conquering Storm's leg and shoved it upwards, causing her leg to smack into her and make her overbalance. She landed down with a thud on the floor and before she could get back up, Finitevus grabbed her by the ankles and he swung her around in a neat circle. He spun the lynx around, the lynx crying out loudly as she was spun. Then Finitevus let go of Conquering Storm and sent her flying across the corridor. Conquering Storm yelled helplessly as she was sent on a short flight down the corridor and came down in a crash land further down. Inside her cell, Cosmo could hear the fight going on and as weird as it was, she was actually hoping Conquering Storm would win. It would mean that Finitevus couldn't commence with his evil plan and Conquering Storm would hardly be any worse than Finitevus since she was nowhere near as smart as he was. But to her dismay, Finitevus seemed to be winning from what she could hear. Finitevus cackled deviously and he used a warp ring to warp the treacherous Raiju Clan leader back over to him. He had Conquering Storm appear above him so he could kick her as hard as he could. Conquering Storm landed directly beside her katana and the furious lynx quickly grabbed it. She thundered towards Finitevus and swung the katana at him as hard as she could. Finitevus jumped backwards to avoid the attack and he gripped the blades in his cape. He swung them at Conquering Storm, the lynx blocking the echidna's attack with her katana held at an angle and her ears winced as a loud clanging noise pounded her ear drums. She swung the katana up, sending Finitevus's weapons hurling upwards and she spun around in an attempt to cleave him in two. The katana nearly reached its target but Finitevus blocked the attack with his forearm. The katana hit the warp rings, scratching them slightly but they withstood the attack and protected his arm. Finitevus inspected the damage and he looked at Conquering Storm coldly.

"You scratched my warp rings…how rude." he said dangerously.

He then retaliated with a savage slash to the shoulders on his ninja opponent. Conquering Storm winced in pain but otherwise, withstood the attack. The coolie-hat wearing lynx swung her katana at Finitevus and caught him across the shoulder just as he was attempting to dodge. Finitevus ignored the pain and he scratched Conquering Storm's arm with his blade. The attack didn't seem to effect Conquering Storm all that much but then Finitevus grabbed the ninja's arm and bit into the cut he'd inflicted on it. Conquering Storm let out a shrilling cry of pain but Finitevus quickly silenced her by kicking her in the back of her leg and bringing her down on one knee. Conquering Storm elbowed her opponent's gut and then slashed him across the face with her katana. The cut she'd left was big and bloody and the albino echidna let out a terrible cry of agonizing pain. Conquering Storm smirked wickedly and she then proceeded to kick Finitevus in the face as hard as she could, her iron-toed boot slamming into the centre of the echidna's face and throwing him off his feet. But Finitevus didn't crash down onto his back. He instead flipped himself over, landed on his hands and sprang himself back onto his feet. He felt his face throbbing wildly and he rubbed it better. Conquering Storm was a good fighter and she'd inflicted a critical cut onto him that she could aim at and disorientate him. He had to get this over with before Conquering Storm turned the fight into her favour. Snarling viciously, his female opponent came stampeding towards him, her iron-toed boots making loud clumping noises with every footstep she took. Finitevus waited for Conquering Storm to come at him, keeping an eye on her raised katana. The lynx swung the weapon down towards him but then the echidna stepped out of the way and elbowed Conquering Storm down onto her stomach, the bony point of his elbow digging sharply into her back as he struck her. Conquering Storm landed heavily on the floor and she tried to pick herself back up. The elbow strike had been quite painful and her back was throbbing furiously. So furiously that the lynx could only think about the pain in her back. She was so focused on her back that she didn't even realize that Finitevus was still there. Finitevus then suddenly raised his hand and he slammed it down on Conquering Storm's neck. The blow knocked her clean out and left her lying on the floor completely still and unconscious. Finitevus dusted his hands off and smirked at the traitor lying before him.

"A valiant effort my dear…but sadly not enough." he sneered, "I'll make an example of those who double-cross me out of you."

He picked up Conquering Storm's unconscious body and he draped her casually over his shoulder like she was just a bundle of clothes being carried away. Finitevus then pressed against his ear with two of his fingers.

"Mecha Tails, there's been a change of plan. Conquering Storm is our experiment now." he purred, "I'll just drop her off to you and you can get her restrained. I'll tell you when you can pump her full of Synthetic Chaos Energy."

"Understood master." answered Mecha Tails stoically.

Finitevus smirked to himself as he opened up a warp ring and stepped through it, taking himself and Conquering Storm over to the laboratory to set her up for the experiment. As Finitevus left, Cosmo slumped against the wall and sighed loudly in despair. The one chance to get rid of Finitevus and Conquering Storm had completely botched the job. The Raiju Clan was melting to death inside a volcano that she herself had gone down in just to get a Chaos Emerald during the big Chaos Emerald hunt a couple of years ago and Conquering Storm had been knocked out. Cosmo had hoped dearly that Conquering Storm would beat Finitevus so that Operation: Enerjak Reborn would never see completion and the Royal Fighters would be against an opponent who wouldn't match up to Finitevus in anyway. Finitevus was literally the one that was scoring all the victories against the heroes and Conquering Storm could have defeated him. But she hadn't and now she was going to be experimented on. Cosmo supposed it was good it wasn't her but if it went wrong on Conquering Storm then she'd be experimented on next…

Footnotes:

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 1: The Malicious Metropolis Masquerade

 See *The Terror of Enerjak

 See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 14: A Few Steps To A Conquering Storm

The heroes are clearly ready to give it to Finitevus next time they meet and Conquering Storm has just intiated a failed coup de tat against Finitevus! What will happen next?

Well the heroes will take a rest for the next chapter for the villains take the spotlight next time and they'll be witnessing an "*Experiment of Horror" *...

Dark Armada Part 16: Experiment o Horror

Story 216: Experiment of Horror

The Dark Armada Chapter 16 of 25

"So Mecha Tails, how's my glorious Synthetic Chaos Energy formula coming along now?" asked Dr. Finitevus in his usual polite, eloquent nature.

"It's still stable and ready for testing." replied Mecha Tails as he read the schematics on the screen that was reading the formula they had made, "We now have the perfect balance between positive and negative Chaos Energy. It took us nearly a week but we've got it at last."

Finitevus let out a small smile after hearing that. After the catastrophic failure of the first test that ended up with Blizzard getting ridiculously powerful and the heroes escaping from his grasp, Finitevus had made sure that the next dose of Chaos Energy would be just right. Mecha Tails had spent most of yesterday and this morning getting it right with some help from Finitevus and now it was ready for testing. They had been about to test it on the unwilling Dark Armada spy Cosmo the Seedrian but circumstances had caused Finitevus to spare Cosmo for the moment and instead try it on somebody else instead. Before that, he was making doubly sure that it was still right and still ready for testing.

"Indeed." mused Finitevus grimly, "I really thought the dose I tried on Blizzard was just right…but that power ring I used made it too positive after all…" he muttered, thinking back to how he'd gotten a power ring to use in the formula the day before. They had left it out for this new formula to see if it would give them the desired result.

"And now without it, it will not be too positive." droned Mecha Tails, "And the negative Chaos Energy, while still dominant, won't be unstable. We have the perfect formula to test out."

"And to think we were going to use it on Cosmo a moment ago…"

purred Finitevus as he turned around to face something behind him.

His slimy lips widened into a toothy, sinister grin that could get a tiger to run away like a scared kitten. Behind him, fastened to a restraint bed by her wrists and ankles was none other than the Bride of the Conquering Storm. She was the leader of the Raiju Clan and had joined the Dark Armada after Finitevus had sent Scourge the Hedgehog to break her out of prison*. Her right hand man Dàfeng Rai had been a prisoner of the Royal Fighters and because Sonic the Hedgehog and Sally Acorn had asked him about Enerjak, Conquering Storm had worked out that Finitevus's plan was really about Enerjak, something she didn't approve of. She had attempted to kill Finitevus and take over the armada but her attempt coup d'etat had ended disastrously. Finitevus had sent the entire Raiju Clan to their deaths inside of Mount Adabat and had knocked Conquering Storm out. Now the rebellious lynx was restrained to a cold steel bed, her arms and legs stretched out in an "X" position and laser binds wrapped tightly around her wrists and ankles. Her shirt had been removed, revealing a purple, strapless bra around her breasts. She'd even been deprived of her trademark coolie-hat. Her mouth had been taped shut, supposedly to stop her from telling anybody about Enerjak and how Finitevus's plan was about him, not that she'd get to tell anybody anyway. Conquering Storm writhed around on the bed, trying desperately to get free. But she couldn't, no matter how hard she tried. It gave Finitevus great pleasure to watch his treacherous captive trying forlornly to escape. Conquering Storm glared daggers at Finitevus and tried to speak. The tape around her mouth kept her from doing so though but she did mumble so angry, muffled mumbles that Finitevus was sure he could make out. He wasn't all that bothered though.

"Yes Conquering Storm I can see you're uncomfortable…and I do not care." purred Finitevus wickedly.

He then whipped out a remote control from inside his cloak and pointed it at Conquering Storm. He pressed a button on the control and the laser binds suddenly gave the captive lynx a terrible electrical shock that made her scream muffled screams of anguish. Electricity coursed through her body and her muscles convulsed in agony. Conquering Storm's back arched as she was electrocuted, stretching her torso taut as she arched in pain. Had she not been gagged, her screams would have been loud, shrilling, ear-piercing and horrible. Finitevus left her to be electrocuted for a whole minute before switching off the current and allowing Conquering Storm a breather moment. The lynx lay back down flat against the bed, her head resting against her shoulder and the tape on her mouth inflating in and out as she breathed heavily from the torture. Her nose did most of the breathing as she caught her breath back. She could still feel little sparks of electricity crackling between her fur despite the torture being over. Finitevus put the remote back into his cloak pocket and he advanced towards Conquering Storm. He leaned forward and jammed his face into his prisoner's face. Conquering Storm gave Finitevus an evil glare that could pierce the soul. Her eyes were narrowed down to slits that were so narrow, they could have fit through a closed blind.

"Do anymore of that annoying writhing and mumbling again, I'll give you another shock." said Finitevus coldly, "Are we in anyway unclear my dear?"

Conquering Storm shook her head, still glaring daggers at Finitevus. This was a torture she did not want to go through again though it didn't stop her concentrating all her hate for Finitevus into her evil glare. Finitevus smirked at his captive and he put a hand on the lynx's face.

"Good." he said darkly, "You really shouldn't have betrayed me Conquering Storm. I promised you Chun-Nan and with me, you would have gotten what you wanted. And now look at you, restrained to an experiment bed and waiting to be tested on." he sneered, "You really shouldn't have betrayed me."

Conquering Storm really wanted to say something but she knew that speaking was futile since her lips were sealed. Finitevus smiled shamelessly and he continued.

"And you needn't have worried about Enerjak either." crooned Finitevus, "Enerjak will do us all a favour. This pathetic world is a garden gone wild. It is corrupt, out of control and above all, primitive. Enerjak has the power to erase everything and allow us all to start over again. And with my Chaos Energy, I will harness that power and become Enerjak himself. Now Sonic told me that Silver and Blaze come from a dystopian future yesterday, a future that is a dystopia for 200 years in fact. That and their concern over Enerjak means that I succeed in getting what I want."

Conquering Storm let out a muffled gasp of horror from behind her gag. Silver and Blaze's future was a wreck?! Enerjak succeeds in destroying Mobius?! Now Conquering Storm began to feel more shame and anger for failing to kill Finitevus. Rai had pretty much given her the chance to save the entire planet from destruction by telling her about Sonic and Sally mentioning Enerjak! If she'd succeeded in killing Finitevus then the mad man would never get to obliterate everything as Enerjak! If only she hadn't lost the battle! Conquering Storm now felt more despair than ever before. What a stain upon her honour this was! She had the chance to stop Finitevus and actually save the world from Enerjak's terror...and she'd blown it completely. Why did she have to fail?! She began to regret ever joining the Dark Armada. The armada's entire purpose was to bring the end of the world and she'd played a part of it! She couldn't believe it at all. Finitevus smiled at the look on Conquering Storm's face.

"Yes, you actually could have done more than take over the armada had you won...you could have saved the entire world." purred Finitevus, "And yet you failed. You must feel very dishonoured now Conquering Storm..."

The ninja-lynx just swung her head forward and walloped Finitevus in the forehead. She knew she was going to be tortured for that but it was well worth seeing the crazy echidna in pain. Finitevus let out a pained cry and he clutched his forehead tensely, willing the pain to go away as he took a step away from Conquering Storm. He whipped the remote out of his cloak and pointed it at her.

"And here I thought you didn't want another shock therapy session..." he growled, pressing the button with his thumb.

Conquering Storm let out muffled screams of agony as electricity surged through her body and made her arch and convulse painfully again. Finitevus let her have it for a whole minute again before switching the electricity off and giving her a moment to breath.

Conquering Storm lay down flat against the bed again and let out muffled coughs and splutters as the pain died down. Steam drifted up from her body and some bits of her fur were singed and blackened. Finitevus put the remote away again and he reached forward to punch Conquering Storm's naked belly. Conquering Storm winced as the skin on her belly was sharply pinched between forefinger and thumb by Finitevus.

"Strike me again and I shock you to death, do you understand?!" snarled Finitevus.

The electrocuted lynx nodded slowly, barely able to open her eyes. Finitevus let go of her belly and then smacked her in it, making the lynx wince in pain again.

"Good." growled Finitevus, "Now then..." he turned to Mecha Tails, whom had just been standing there and watching with no emotion whatsoever, "...I'm going to check on The Nefarious's repairs. You are to remain here and keep an eye on the prisoner until I come back. Once I return, we will commence with the experiment."

"Understood. I obey." droned Mecha Tails.

Finitevus smiled and patted his Robian pet on the shoulder, one of the few acts of affection and kindness he ever showed to anybody. He was certainly going to miss having Mecha Tails when Operation: Enerjak Reborn was complete. But he supposed when Mobius was remade after he wiped everything out, he'd just get himself a new minion. Mobius's new life would all answer to him when it started anew. Finitevus grinned at the very image of himself as Enerjak ruling over a new Mobius as he used a warp ring to warp himself out of the room to check on repairs. As he left though, for the first time in her life...Conquering Storm began to cry. Tears streamed out of her eyes but her sobs were mostly muffled by the gag. She had never cried before but given how bad things looked now, she couldn't help but cry over her failure to stop Finitevus and the fact Mobius was coming to an end soon...

"Say Fiona, do you think now might be a good time to double-cross Finitevus?" asked Scourge the Hedgehog, the evil brother of Sonic the Hedgehog, impatiently, "I mean, the moron doesn't suspect a thing about us! We can take him down before he realizes what's happened!"

"Scourge, keep your voice down!" hissed Fiona Fox, Royal Fighter traitor and Scourge's girlfriend, "Do you want anybody to hear us?!"

"Sooooooorry babe." sighed Scourge in annoyance, speaking quieter now, "So do you think now might be a good time to get rid of Finitevus?"

"It might be." murmured Fiona, "We'll have to see what's going on now."

Conquering Storm wasn't the first Dark Armada member to think about betraying Finitevus. The conniving Scourge and Fiona had had thoughts of betraying Finitevus first, most notably after Scourge had had his arm and eye replaced with robotic ones just for failing to kill any of the Royal Fighters. The two had been patiently buying their time, waiting for the right moment to turn on Finitevus and overthrow him. They had heard about Conquering Storm's heel-turn earlier for Finitevus had announced on the intercom system that Conquering Storm had betrayed him and was being punished for it. This had inspired Scourge and Fiona to try their hand, only they were going to be more subtle about it than the ninja clan leader was. They weren't thinking of just going straight up to Finitevus and announcing their betrayal like Conquering Storm had done, they were thinking of how to catch him off guard and take him out in the most pragmatic and logical way possible. They were currently in their dorm room discussing on how to go about their plans.

"I bet the doc's in the lab waiting to test that Synthetic Chaos Energy thingy of his on that dumb bitch Conquering Storm." said Scourge, "He'll likely be there if nothing else."

"Maybe so." said Fiona with a shrug, "Now this talk about the lab's given me some idea on how to take the bastard out…" she murmured.

"Oooh, I love it when you've got yer thinking cap on babe!" cried Scourge excitedly, "You're so awesome at coming up with ideas!"

"Oh thanks hunky chops, you're too kind." giggled Fiona slyly, "Anyway. What if we take that Chaos Energy and use it on ourselves? We could be stronger than Finitevus and we'd kill him in an instant. He'll have no chance against us if we're Chaos Powered. I remember how he told us he'd tested the formula on some gal named Blizzard and she utterly curb-stomped him! That was so funny to hear about!"

"Pity the doc didn't really see the joke." muttered Scourge, "Anyway, I like this idea Fi. It's foolproof and it's definitely gonna work."

"Yeah and given how the test worked well on Blizzard minus her still being a wimpy good girl, I bet Finitevus will have fixed that and the formula will be just perfect." said Fiona with a devious smile on her pretty face, "There's no risks, we'll be OK when we pump ourselves full of the stuff."

"We sure will." said Scourge sinisterly, "And when we take over this armada, the world will scream our names and bow beneath our feet! We'll be the most powerful Mobians ever!"

"Too right." said Fiona wickedly, "And I can't wait to make those losers I once called "friends" cry like babies…"

It was not unknown amongst the Dark Armada that Fiona had once been a Royal Fighter and after a mere eight months, she had already quitted the team after being nothing but a failure on all counts. Scourge had run into her in the GreatForest once when Fiona had foolishly tried to apprehend him just to redeem herself. Instead, she'd ended up choosing Scourge and now the two had a happy, villainous relationship together. Fiona was much happier with Scourge than the Royal Fighters and Scourge had trained Fiona so well that the vixen was fifty times the fighter she had been as a Royal Fighter. She'd even been able to go toe-to-toe with somebody as tough as Mandy Mouse on occasion and she could also match Sally blow for blow with the wrist blades that she'd gotten from Finitevus after he'd stolen Sally's first pair last year. Scourge smiled a toothy, shark like smile at Fiona.

"I'd love to make them cry too, especially my goody-goody two-shoes brother…" said Scourge sinisterly, "So shall we see if Doctor Creepy Von Evil's in his lab?"

"Yes. If he's there then we'll have to wait until he's gone before we steal the formula." said Fiona sternly, "We'll never get it if he's there. The first thing we cannot do is let Finitevus get a clue on our motives, we have to be as unpredictable as possible."

"Yeah I mean look at Connie, she got herself caught and on the experiment table!" cried Scourge, "I wonder if she's still waiting to be Finitevus's little lab rat at the moment…"

They would find out shortly. Scourge and Fiona stood up from their beds and they left their dorm room. Now they were outside the room, the two made their merry way over to the Dark Armada's lab. Without a warp ring to make the journey short, they would have to stride through much of The Nefarious 's corridors to get to the lab. But since Scourge was super fast like Sonic was, the simple walk through the corridors would be over in a flash. Scourge picked up Fiona bridal style and he whizzed off down the corridors to get to the lab. A few minutes later, he arrived and screeched to a halt outside of the laboratory. Scourge had roamed around The Nefarious so much that he knew his way around the ship blindfolded. Upon arriving at the lab, he put Fiona down and he opened the door. He and Fiona walked inside and inspected their surroundings. The lab had to be the scariest room on The Nefarious with its rather wicked looking machinery, gloomy atmosphere and the table of contents that had all sorts of things on it. They couldn't see Dr. Finitevus in the room anywhere in the lab. He was out checking on the ship's repairs at the moment. Scourge and Fiona smiled gleefully at Finitevus's lack of presence in the lab. Their job would be a whole lot easier now. They could swipe the Synthetic Chaos Energy and use it on themselves and then they would overthrow Finitevus. Scourge noticed how Mecha Tails was here, keeping an eye on the bound and gagged Conquering Storm before him. Scourge could barely keep himself from smirking. Conquering Storm had attempted to overthrow Finitevus and as a result, had ended up like this. Well he wouldn't end up like her at all. He and Fiona strode up to Mecha Tails, the Robian looking up as if just noticing that they had walked into the room. He wasn't bothered at their presence at all, anybody was welcome to meet him as long as they were on Finitevus's good side as far as Mecha Tails cared.

"Say Mecha Tails, looks like you got Connie all nicely tied down haven't ya?!" laughed Scourge, "I bet she can't so much was raise a leg now!"

"Yes, she is indeed quite secure." droned Mecha Tails, "You did not need to point out the obvious."

"Huh, so you do have some snark in ya after all." snorted Scourge, "And here's me thinking you were Mr. Emotionless or something."

"Say, who's idea was it to take her shirt off?" snickered Fiona, taking note of the fact Conquering Storm was almost naked from the waist up, the bra being the only thing she was even wearing on her upper body.

"The master seemed to take great delight in removing her upper attire for reasons I cannon comprehend." droned Mecha Tails, still looking as stoic as ever, "I do not see the point in removing parts of clothing at all. It is pointless."

"Ah well, the bitch deserved it." sneered Scourge, walking over to Conquering Storm and rudely poking her in the belly, "Hey Connie, see what happens to those who double-cross the great Dr. Finitevus?!" he cackled mockingly, poking her even harder the second time.

Conquering Storm was so tempted to floor Scourge at this moment but the laser binds restraining her to the bed kept her firmly fastened down, preventing her from doing anything to him. Scourge just laughed at Conquering Storm and he smacked her across the face.

"Serves you right you stupid lynx! You should have known better than to turn on Doc Finny like that!" he sneered tauntingly, "Now you're paying the price for it!"

"Speaking of paying the price, why hasn't Conquering Storm been tested on yet?" asked Fiona curiously, "Didn't Finitevus say he was going to test the Synthetic Chaos Energy on her?"

"Affirmative. But Finitevus needs to oversee the repairs of his ship." Mecha Tails exposited for Fiona, "I am left in charge until he returns. I have to keep an eye on Conquering Storm until he comes back. When he returns, she will be tested on."

"I see." said Fiona smoothly, "So Mecha Tails…how's the Synth-En? Is it ready for testing?" she asked, glancing over at the canister of green liquid on the work desk beside her.

"Yes. We have mitigated the problem with the last batch and made an improved formula for this one." explained Mecha Tails, "The past formula was too positive. This one is just right. It'll be perfect for testing on her."

"Great!" cried Scourge, "So…what's it meant to do?"

"You're as obtuse as my master is when he's in a bad mood…" sighed Mecha Tails, rolling his optics as if Scourge has asked him a stupid question, "It is meant to make the candidate super-powered and fiercely loyal to Finitevus. If the test gives us those desired results then we can begin making the Synthetic Chaos Emeralds that will house this energy. And then the plan can reach its conclusion."

Conquering Storm tried to tell Scourge and Fiona something but the tape across her mouth prevented that from happening. She wanted to warn them about Enerjak very badly but she couldn't. Fiona just turned around and punched the lynx in the stomach as hard as she could. The lynx winced in pain and glared at the leather-clad vixen.

"Shut up and mind your own business traitor!" snapped Fiona angrily.

"Good one Fi." said Scourge happily, "So Mecha Tails. You uh… don't mind if me and Fiona test the Chaos Energy do you? I mean, sure Conquering Storm deserves to be a test subject but wouldn't me and Fiona be better test subjects? I mean, Connie doesn't deserve to be super-powered and all but given how loyal we've been to the armada, we deserve to be test subjects. We deserve to be super powered."

"You have the Chaos Emeralds, you do not need this." said Mecha Tails coldly, "Besides, the test could possibly go wrong and kill you. I do not want to clean up your corpses afterwards."

Scourge frowned at Mecha Tails.

"But you said this juice was ready for testing!" he protested wildly.

"Yes, but that does not mitigate the fact that it could still be lethal." explained Mecha Tails, "We do not know what it'll do when placed inside somebody. That is why we're testing it."

"Well I wanna test it on myself!" barked Scourge, grabbing a syringe and plunging it into the canister, "Come on Mecha Tails, I'm the perfect test subject! I'm choc-full of Chaos Energy! It won't hurt me!"

"Yeah! It didn't kill Blizzard and she's no Chaos adept so why would it harm Scourge?" noted Fiona as Scourge filled the syringe with the Synth-En Chaos liquid.

"It could have a disastrous effect on a Chaos adept since this is meant to be greater Chaos Energy than beyond your wildest imagination." protested Mecha Tails, "It might overload him and make him explode."

"Yeah right, you're just making up crap now!" sighed Scourge, raising the syringe and preparing to put it into his arm, "Let's see how this stuff works!"

Before he could stick the needle into his arm and insert the powerful substance into his bloodstream, Mecha Tails grabbed him and tried to wrestle the syringe away from him. Scourge growled furiously and he wrestled with Mecha Tails, trying to get his arms free so he could inject himself. He was surprised at how strong the Robian fox was. Even Knuckles would find it hard to win any arm-wrestling contests against him! Mecha Tails pulled on Scourge's arms and squeezed on his wrists, trying desperately to make him let go of the syringe. Scourge held on tight, his thumb over the plunger and his fingers holding the syringe as tightly as possible. He tugged on his arms dragging Mecha Tails to the side as he tried to get free.

"Let go of me you dumb bot!" snarled Scourge, "That's an order!"

"Objection: only Finitevus can order me." retorted Mecha Tails, "Now release the syringe and please cease your unintelligible intentions."

Scourge refused to let go and he yanked on his arms again, pulling Mecha Tails towards him. Mecha Tails dragged Scourge to the side, the hedgehog fighting back but ultimately losing. He cried out as he was knocked against the nearby restraint bed and he stumbled over against Conquering Storm. His hand holding the syringe came down on Conquering Storm's chest and the needle inserted itself into her neck. Scourge accidentally pressed down on the plunger, inserting the green coloured viscous substance into the treacherous ninja's bloodstream. Scourge didn't realize what had happened until he picked himself up and saw that he'd injected Conquering Storm. He quickly yanked the syringe out but too late, he had emptied the entire syringe and the Chaos Energy inside was working its way around Conquering Storm's body. The ninja convulsed in agony, crying out muffled cries of pain as the energy began to swarm around her body. Mecha Tails switched off the laser cuffs, releasing Conquering Storm from the bed and allowing the ninja to throw herself onto the floor. He'd done this for if the test went according to plan, there was no reason for her to be restrained. Conquering Storm, now free, ripped the tape off of her mouth and screamed a bloodcurdling scream of pained agony. Green veins began to appear all over her body as if her whole bloodstream was changing colour. Scourge, Fiona and Mecha Tails watched in surprise, wondering what was going to happen. Then suddenly, Conquering Storm stared at the villains. her eyes completely green and her teeth suddenly bared and looking much sharper than they had been before. Then her body began to increase in size, her muscular build becoming much bigger, broader and stockier in mass. Her feet grew too big for her iron-toed boots, the clawed toes breaking their way through them and tearing them to pieces. Her fingers grew claws and then something grisly began to happen. Some of her bones began to tear their way through her flesh, Her spin grew big and spiky, piercing through the skin and sending oozes of blood trailing down her back. Some of the bones on her arms became visible, more blood spouting out from the wounds and a massive vein grew just above Conquering Storm's left eye. She hunched over, her hideously spiky spine protruding even further in the process and a blood vessel protruded just under Conquering Storm's over eye. Her teeth grew abnormally large, looking a little too big to fit in her mouth but nonetheless sharp and terrifying. The green veins pulsated with energy, little glows trailing through her body as if she had a bunch of fireflies trapped inside of her. The monstrously deformed Conquering Storm bellowed a thunderous roar that made everything in the room shudder in fear. Scourge, Fiona and Mecha Tails all took a step backwards from the behemoth before them. Conquering Storm advanced on them, trailing blood as she walked from the massive puddle that had formed underneath her feet.

"Uh…w-w-was t-t-that m-meant t-t-to happen?!" shrieked Scourge, his voice sounding comically high-pitched and feminine.

"Negative. The monstrous deformity was not supposed to occur. The formula must have been flawed…" mused Mecha Tails, "Maybe it was too negative after all. How did I overlook that fact?"

"Well let's hope she's still friendly!" squeaked Fiona.

She got the answer to that question, indeed the hard way. Conquering Storm swatted everybody across the room with an oversized, muscular arm that knocked the wind out of Scourge and Fiona. The trio crashed into the wall and just as they got back up, Conquering Storm thundered towards Scourge and seized him with her giant hands. She then opened her mouth and to Scourge's disgust and horror, a mouthed tongue came out from inside her jaws. The tongue looked at Scourge and opened its fanged mouth, letting out a shrilling screech of glee.

"THAT THING HAS A TONGUE WITH A MOUTH AT THE END?!" squealed Scourge in terror. He was so frightened right now that he began to wonder if he'd ended up wetting himself.

The tongue lashed out at him, aiming straight for his neck but just before it could bite Scourge, Mecha Tails flew in and dropkicked the monstrous Conquering Storm in the side of her head. Conquering Storm let out a thunderous roar of pain and she threw Scourge directly into Mecha Tails. The hedgehog and Robian sprawled on the floor as they crashed down and Conquering Storm stood towering over them, mouth open and streaming with salvia.

"Need…Chaos Energy…" the monster growled in a voice that was as inhuman as it could possibly sound.

Scourge felt even more afraid now. Conquering Storm wanted Chaos Energy! He was full of it what with being corrupted by the Master Emerald a few years ago so he had to get out of her as quick as he could before Conquering Storm could drain him dry. The tongue snaked out of Conquering Storm's huge jaws and it snapped at Scourge like a striking cobra. The fanged mouth missed him by inches as he jumped to his feet.

"YIKES!" he squeaked, "Don't eat me! Eat him! He'll taste better!" he shrieked, pointing at Mecha Tails and then running off as quickly as he could.

He zoomed past the Chaos-craving lynx and out of the lab with Fiona running after him as fast as she could. Conquering Storm watched them running away and she lumbered after them only for Mecha Tails to fly up behind her and kick her in the spine. The beast howled painfully and tried to reach behind her to rub it better. A side effect of the transformation involved a lot of sensitive areas, such as the over-sized, spiky spine that had ripped its way through her skin. Mecha Tails took advantage of this by flying over Conquering Storm and whooshing out of the lab like a speeding plane. He shut the door behind him, knowing that it wouldn't keep Conquering Storm contained for long but it would at least slow her down. He flew after the frantically fleeing Scourge and Fiona and surprisingly enough, managed to catch up to them. As Tails, he could keep up with Sonic thanks to his fast spinning tails so as a Robian, he'd easily catch up with Scourge. The three darted around a corner and they all threw themselves against the wall to catch their breath sans Mecha Tails for he didn't need to breathe. Fiona put a hand on her rapidly thumping chest as she caught her breath.

"We need to…sound the alarm!" she cried, panting heavily."

"Out of the question!" barked Scourge, "Doc Finny will hold us responsible!"

"But…WE ARE!" protested Fiona wildly, "Well actually, YOU'RE responsible but still!"

"Do you really think I'm gonna own up to this mess?!" cried Scourge, "No way! Mecha Tails, how can we stop that thing?!" he demanded wildly.

"Simple. Remove the Chaos Energy." answered Mecha Tails matter-of-factly, "Though that requires getting back into the lab…"

"And you didn't remove it while you were in there because…?" asked Fiona, raising an eyebrow of suspicion at the Robian Fox.

"It did not occur to me at the time. Just like the formula being too negative didn't occur to me at the time." droned Mecha Tails, "I apologize for this mistake."

"Well if it were up to me, I'd scrap ya for such a stupid blunder…" sighed Scourge, "Well, let's get back into the lab and remove the Chaos Energy!"

"Or we could just kill her and make it look like the test went horribly wrong and that it killed her." said Fiona slyly, "After all, I still have my energy blades." she added with a wink.

"Unacceptable. Deception will not be tolerated." said Mecha Tails firmly, "I will not allow you to cover up your wrong-doings to fool my master into thinking it was a freak accident so you can clear your own guilty consciences."

"Who do you think you are Mecha Tails?! A squealer?!" snapped Scourge, jamming his face into Mecha Tails's, "Don't you dare tell on us you squealer or I'll smash you to pieces!"

"That's right brat-face, if you dare stop me and Scourge then you might end up needing several spare parts." said Fiona threateningly.

"You are threatening me. Unacceptable. The doctor will have your heads for this." warned Mecha Tails.

"Then I guess we'll have to have YOUR head before that happens…" snarled Scourge.

Mecha Tails did not like how Scourge was threatening him so he prepared to defend himself from the inevitable attack Scourge would launch upon him. Then suddenly, a loud tearing sound was heard further up the corridor. It sounded like metal being ripped apart like paper and what followed the ominous sound was a loud clang against a wall. Conquering Storm had broken out of the lab and was now stalking down the corridors. Luckily for the trio, she went the opposite way, away from where they had gone. Scourge, Fiona and Mecha Tails watched as Conquering Storm lumbered away from the lab and down another corridor. Now the coast was clear, they all ran over to the lab as fast as they could go. Scourge could see the ruined doors lying against the wall further up the corridor. It was like they were made of paper rather than metal to the colossal beast the ninja had become. Scourge hoped that Conquering Storm wouldn't tear him apart should they next meet. But just as they reached the lab, somebody stepped out of the lab and stood in front of them all with his arms folded and a sinister glare on his face. It was Dr. Finitevus! He'd arrived back just shortly after Conquering Storm had broken out of the lab and had already seen what a complete mess the lab had been reduced too. There were broken glasses and canisters everywhere, the restraint bed had been slashed and the doors had been completely broken. He'd also noticed the huge puddle of blood on the floor and the bloody footprints that had been left behind by something monstrous. To his relief, the Synthetic Chaos Energy canister was intact but it had been completely emptied. Conquering Storm had guzzled the lot to satisfy her craving for Chaos Energy before breaking out of the lab. Curious to see what had happened, he'd stepped out just in time to see Scourge, Fiona and Mecha Tails rushing towards him. They all screeched to a halt before they could crash into Finitevus. The echidna glared at them suspiciously.

"What's the hurry my disciples?" he asked coldly.

"N-nothing Doctor Creepy-Von-Evil!" exclaimed Scourge innocently, "Nothing at all!"

"Yeah! We um…heard a noise and um, ran over to check what was going on." lied Fiona, putting on her sweetest expression possible.

"Then I suppose you know why the lab is a complete mess and my Synth-En is completely gone?" asked Finitevus dryly.

"No, we do not know." fibbed Scourge. Unfortunately for him, Finitevus wasn't convinced so he turned to Mecha Tails.

"Mecha Tails, are they telling the truth?" he demanded.

"Negative. Scourge took a dose of Chaos Energy and used it on Conquering Storm." explained Mecha Tails, "But the formula was flawed, something that I somehow didn't see. She has become a Chaos craving monster and is now roaming loose around The Nefarious."

"Oh thanks a lot tattle-tale!" snarled Scourge.

"Scourge, I'll deal with you later." said Finitevus coldly, "Right now, we need to detain Conquering Storm before she tears the entire ship apart!"

"That shouldn't be too hard considering the very bloody clues she's left us…" purred Fiona.

She pointed at the bloody footprints left behind by the monstrous Conquering Storm that led down the corridor and around a corner. Finitevus observed the footprints and quickly calculated where she was going.

"She's heading towards the dorm rooms." he murmured, "I can get us ahead of her. Judging by the footprint pattern, she's moving quite slowly."

"So what are we gonna do then doc boy?" asked Scourge curiously.

"Kill her." said Finitevus darkly, "A failed experiment is a failed experiment and it cannot be allowed to live. That and she is a traitor anyway so she won't be missed."

"Well not by me for starters!" blurted Scourge.

With that said, Finitevus opened up a warp ring and he ran through it with Scourge, Fiona and Mecha Tails following him through closely behind. The warp ring closed up behind them the moment they went through, leaving nothing but a wrecked laboratory behind...

Further up the corridors, Conquering Storm lumbered like a gorilla on all fours as she searched for Chaos Energy. One terrifying side effect of her mutation at the hands of the single dose of Synth-En that she'd been given earlier was that she had a never ending hunger for Chaos Energy. She had consumed the entire canister of Synthetic Chaos Energy in the lab and was still craving for more. Her saliva filled jaws dribbled with hunger as she sniffed the air. She couldn't sense any Chaos Energy where she was now but she could pick up a faint scent on the upper floors. The Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald themselves. They had a rich supply of Chaos Energy just for her to consume and drain dry and their energy signature was very powerful, especially the Master Emerald's. She was only on the middle floor and she could sense the Chaos Energy as if it was directly beside her. She was walking towards the dorm rooms because she was looking for a way to the Chaos Emeralds. She looked around desperately for a way up to the upper floors. A staircase or even an elevator would do nicely. Unlike Blizzard who had gained the knowledge of the Chaos Energy and thus, could use a Chaos Control, Conquering Storm's mind was too monstrous and out there to know how to use a Chaos Control. She was literally a Chaos-powered behemoth who had no idea how to use her powers due to being too stupid. All she knew was that she needed Chaos Energy and a lot of it.

"Sense...Chaos Energy...must...have...Chaos Energy!" growled Conquering Storm in her abnormally, inhuman, monstrous voice.

She stood up on two legs and began to jog heavily down the corridor. But before she could even get past the dorm rooms, a warp ring opened up and out of it jumped Dr. Finitevus, Scourge, Fiona and Mecha Tails. The four stood defensively in front of her and formed a wall to keep her from getting past. Dr. Finitevus's eyes widened at the sight of the beastly ninja lynx before him, unable to believe what he was seeing. Mecha Tails hadn't been kidding on when he'd told him she'd turned into a monster! Conquering Storm glared at him with hungry eyes and she licked her lips as if imaging how good Finitevus must taste. She could sense the Chaos Energy in his bloodstream, rich and full of darkness. How appetizing!

"My, my...whatever did my formula do to her?" he mused, "All the more reason to put her down."

"Chaos...Energy! You are...full of it...MUST. HAVE. CHAOS ENERGY!" bellowed Conquering Storm savagely.

She opened her mouth and her mouthed tongue shot out towards Finitevus. The echidna quickly activated a warp ring and caused the tongue to re-direct directly behind Conquering Storm herself. The tongue bit onto the monster lynx's exposed spin and she roared furiously in pain. She retracted her tongue and snapped at Finitevus with her enormous jaws. The echidna leaped back to avoid the terrible teeth that craved for him and he threw a warp ring like a Frisbee into Conquering Storm's face. The warp ring hit her sharply but the beast didn't seem effect much by it. She instead just lunged at Finitevus with a beefy, muscular arm and seized him like a rag doll. She slammed Finitevus into the wall as hard as she could, knocking the wind out of the powerful Chaos scientist. Then she opened her mouth and her hideous tongue came out again, ready to bite him and suck him dry of all Chaos Energy. Finitevus squirmed in the grasp of the creature that had hold of him but he couldn't get free. Conquering Storm was much stronger than he was now. The tongue opened its fanged jaws and aimed for Finitevus's neck but just as it was about to bite him, Scourge spin-dashed into Conquering Storm's head and knocked her aside. The mutated lynx released Finitevus and glared at Scourge.

"Hey! You want Chaos Energy? Here's a fresh supply!" yelled Scourge, "Come and get me ugly!"

"Chaos Energy...MUST HAVE IT! SO HUNGRY!" wailed Conquering Storm menacingly.

She lunged at Scourge with her powerful clawed hands but the hedgehog spin-dashed her in the face and made her back off. Dr. Finitevus then sneaked up behind Conquering Storm and kicked her sharply in the ankles, tripping the lynx up and bringing her down onto her back. The impact left her feeling very much in agony since her back was a sensitive area. She picked herself up and seized both Scourge and Finitevus with her enormous hands. She slammed them together and threw them into the wall. Her tongue extended outwards and aimed for Scourge. The terrified hedgehog moved out of the way and left her tongue to slam down into the floor. Finitevus lunged for Conquering Storm and grabbed the beast's fanged tongue. He observed it for a moment.

"Fascinating...I bet she saps up Chaos Energy with that." he murmured.

He then pulled on the tongue and yanked Conquering Storm over onto her stomach. The beast picked herself up and flicked her tongue, taking Finitevus up off his feet and throwing him into the air. As he crashed down, Conquering Storm came stampeding towards him but Fiona ran in and slashed her arms with her energy blades before she could get him. Unfortunately, Fiona's aim had been a little off so she didn't cut Conquering Storm's hands off, she only slashed them. Conquering Storm bellowed in pain as her arms began to bleed from the cuts inflicted on them by Fiona. She then swatted Fiona and smacked her against the wall. Fiona cried out as her body hit the wall hard but her expression turned from pain to fear as Conquering Storm advanced towards her. The terrified vixen pressed herself against the wall as if hoping she'd somehow be able to phase straight through it. Her heart pounded and her head rained with sweat as she stared danger literally right in the face. Conquering Storm's tongue extended out from her mouth and it lashed towards Fiona. Fiona moved out of the way but the tongue scratched her across the arm with its fangs and tore a bloody gash across it. Fiona screamed loudly and clutched her arm tensely. Conquering Storm then grabbed Fiona and slammed her against the wall. The vixen slumped down onto the floor as Conquering Storm let her go. She winced in pain but her pain was not just from being slammed in the wall. Her arm was throbbing like crazy and she could feel something moving around inside her arm. She ignored it and pushed herself back onto her feet. The monstrous beast that had once been a ninja roared at Fiona and prepared to attack her again. But then Mecha Tails flew in behind Conquering Storm and the Robian fox viciously kicked the monster in the spine. Conquering Storm roared in pain as her spiked spine was brutally walloped by Mecha Tails's foot. She whirled around and smacked Mecha Tails down onto the floor with her arm. Mecha Tails hit the floor so hard that he left a dent inside of it. But as Conquering Storm's back was turned, Fiona saw the opportunity to plunge her blades into the beast's back. The corridor shuddered as Conquering Storm let out a thunderous bellow of agony. While Fiona had her blades in Conquering Storm's back, Scourge and Finitevus both unleashed a flurry of attacks on her while she was helpless to fight back. Fiona then swung the blades upwards, creating enormous gashes in Conquering Storm's back and sending streams of blood pouring down her spine and onto the floor. The lynx wailed helplessly, falling weak from the loss of blood and also Synthetic Chaos Energy for the energy was mixed in with her blood. Finitevus could see swirls of green building up in the puddle of blood that spread around Conquering Storm's feet. Conquering Storm fell onto her knees, completely in agony and helpless to do anything except shriek agonized wails and bleed to death. Fiona then decided to put Conquering Storm out of her misery by stabbing her again, this time in the heart. The pitiful beast could only gasp as she was impaled, this time fatally. Fiona yanked her blades out of the lynx's chest and the poor Dark Armada traitor collapsed onto the floor, lying in a puddle of her own blood and very much dead. The sight disgusted the leather-clad vixen and she had to look away in disgust. Scourge hugged Fiona and patted her back comfortingly.

"There, there...she's dead now. Well done Fi." he said softly.

"Yes, very well done indeed." muttered Finitevus, "Now you two can clean up the mess while Mecha Tails gives me a full status report."

Scourge and Fiona could only moan despairingly as they stared at the hideous, mutilated corpse that lay before them, soaked in blood and Synth-En. They were not looking forward to cleaning up the mess at all but they got to work, cringing as they stood near the body and prepared to dispose of it...

Later that day, night was beginning to fall and the Dark Armada was preparing to kick back for the night. The repairs had been going well for the whole day but there was still more to do next morning. Scourge and Fiona, having finally cleaned up the mess that they'd caused and disposed of Conquering Storm's body, were in the meeting room with Finitevus and they were not at all happy at what the evil doctor had to say to them. They had their hands behind their backs and their heads lowered in shame as Finitevus lectured them. Mecha Tails stood beside Finitevus and just watched. If he could show any emotion, he'd likely be smiling smugly at the two.

"Reckless! You two were utterly, utterly reckless!" bellowed Finitevus, "This behaviour is unacceptable! You ignored Mecha Tails's warning and proceeded to test the Synthetic Chaos Energy without my permission, and even worse, you wanted to test it on YOURSELVES! Your carless behaviour has resulted my Synthetic Chaos Energy being completely consumed and the near deaths of all of us! And what's more repulsive is you wanted to cover up your actions and threatened to harm Mecha Tails if he dared to apprise me on what you've done! What do you have to say about this appalling behaviour of yours Scourge and Fiona?!"

"If it's any consolation "sir"...we're deeply sorry." mumbled Fiona, rubbing her bandaged up arm.

"I should hope you are..." growled Finitevus, "You follow my orders and if Mecha Tails is in charge while I'm gone, you take orders from him too. And you will NOT threaten him in the future. You two will spend the night in the prison cell. That should give you two goons plenty of time to think about what you've done!"

"But doc..." protested Scourge.

"SILENCE!" snarled Finitevus, "You will be locked up for tonight and that is final! That'll teach you two to ignore orders and test MY science experiments!"

Scourge and Fiona tensed up angrily but they fought back the urge to attack Finitevus as they knew it was a foolish idea. Instead, they waited for Finitevus to warp them over onto the bottom floor. Finitevus opened up a warp ring but he stood forward and held his hand out at Fiona.

"Wristbands please. So you don't get tempted to cute your way out." he ordered.

Fiona obeyed and she handed Finitevus the blue wristbands, albeit with great reluctance. After doing that, she and Scourge stepped through the warp ring and transported themselves from the meeting room down to the prison cell on the bottom floor. Finitevus closed the warp ring up behind him and he put the warp ring back onto his wrist.

"So Mecha Tails, what do you think caused the formula to be too negative?" he asked, turning to face his faithful companion.

"I am unsure of this matter." mused Mecha Tails, "I swore that it was just right so I'm not sure what went wrong with it."

"I wonder if it just depends on the person using it..." murmured Finitevus, "A too positive formula resulted in Blizzard being powerful and a formula we thought was just right had a bad effect on Conquering Storm. Hmm...maybe the negative Chaos Energy in the formula didn't mix well with her for that is the dominant factor. That and having no Chaos Energy in her body probably resulted in the Dark Chaos Energy being too dominant in her body and thus, was much for her to handle."

"A logical statement." agreed Mecha Tails, "Maybe it wouldn't have the same effect on somebody WITH Chaos Energy like you, Sonic, Shadow, Knuckles or maybe even Shade. Their Chaos Energy would control the Dark Chaos Energy much easier than somebody without Chaos Energy."

"So the formula WAS perfect...we just tested it on the wrong person." muttered Finitevus grimly, "How unfortunate...well next time, I am going to kidnap Sonic, Shadow, Knuckles or Shade and test my new formula on them."

"A good idea indeed." droned Mecha Tails, "Though that makes Cosmo surplus to requirements since testing the formula on her will likely result in what happened to Conquering Storm."

"Not necessarily." noted Finitevus, "Maybe we could test it on her anyway, and if it results in what happened to the late C. Storm...then Sonic and friends will have a Chaos monster to deal with."

He grinned wickedly over such an idea...

Down on the bottom floor, Scourge and Fiona slumped against the wall, grumbling to themselves. Their plan had been a complete failure. No Chaos Energy to use against Finitevus and now they were locked up in the ship's prison cell for the night like naughty children who had been sent to their rooms by their parents. Scourge looked at Fiona grimly.

"Well that plan didn't work out..." he sighed.

"Complete belly-up, it really was." agreed Fiona, "I'm very sorry that the plan didn't work baby..."

"No Fi, don't be. We were fools to even think it was a good idea." said Scourge sadly, "We shouldn't have thought playing with Finitevus's toys would do us any good. I mean look at what happened to Connie! That could have happened to us!"

"So I pretty much came up with a bad plan." moaned Fiona, "Well don't worry handsome, next plan I come up with will be better."

"It will indeed Fi...it will indeed." said Scourge supportively, "Now how's about we have some...love to pass the time huh?" he added seductively.

"Oh yes Scourge, yes indeed." said Fiona slyly.

She then suddenly grabbed Scourge firmly by the shoulders. Scourge was surprised at this but what disturbed him more as how hard Fiona was grabbing him. It was like she was trying to crush his shoulders. Fiona wasn't normally this strong, something wasn't right."

"Uh Fi...do you really need to grab me like that?" asked Scourge uncomfortably, "You're...grabbing me a bit hard. Babe? Huh?"

Fiona just smiled sweetly at Scourge, completely ignoring his questions. And then the green-furred hedgehog saw the last thing he would ever see in his life. Fiona's eyes were turning green, Chaos green like Conquering Storm's had. They began to glow brightly and Scourge noticed that the bandage around her arm had a faint glow coming from when she'd been scratched earlier. The cut and her eyes were glowing simultaneously. And then suddenly Fiona opened her mouth, which suddenly seemed to have very large, curved incisors, and screeched loudly like an excited vampire ready to sample his supper. Scourge let out a scream that filled the room but Fiona quickly silenced him by tackling him to the floor. There was nobody to hear Scourge's screams and nobody around to save him. He was trapped in a room with a demonic Fiona Fox pinning him down and baring her fangs. The hedgehog had screamed his final screams this very night...

Footnotes:

 See the final Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius story *Formulation of the Dark Armada

Whoa...I mean...WHOA! Who the hell saw that coming?!

So what's going to become of Fiona? Find out next time in* "Operation: Fiona" *...

Dark Armada Part 17: Operation: Fiona

Story 217: Operation: Fiona

The Dark Armada Chapter 17 of 25

Morning dawned, dull and grey. If the sun was indeed up in the sky at all, it couldn't be seen by the vast sea of grey clouds that obscured the blue sky and the bright sun behind them. It seemed an appropriate atmosphere for Megapolis since it was being used as the hiding place for the Dark Armada. The Dark Armada was a sinister group of villains from all over Mobius that all had grudges to settle with the Royal Fighters Service. The group had been formulated by the nefarious Dr. Finitevus, the uncle of Knuckles the Echidna and Mobius's biggest, deadliest, most evil villain ever. Ever since the group had been formed, the Dark Armada had seen to collecting whatever items they could get their hands on and use it to make Synthetic Chaos Energy. The Chaos Energy was a compulsory item in Finitevus's insidious plan, Operation: Enerjak Rising. Finitevus wanted to become Enerjak and he needed a lot of Chaos Energy. Using the Chaos and Master Emeralds as well as any items they had, he began making synthetic doses of Chaos Energy which he would then duplicate and make new Chaos Emeralds out of. Then he would use all the emeralds to become Enerjak and destroy the entire world so it could be redone and start anew, in his own wicked way of course. The armada had scored some victories against the heroes but they had also been dealing with some major setbacks lately. Geoffrey St. John had given his life to cripple The Nefarious once again and render it in need of repairs. The Nefarious was the Dark Armada's ship and base of operations. Despite being grounded, it served its secondary function perfectly. It was the perfect base for the armada as they waited to get back into the sky again.

But the Dark Armada had recently gone through something pretty disastrous. The Bride of the Conquering Storm had decided to betray Finitevus after her right hand man had informed her that Sonic the Hedgehog and Sally Acorn had asked him about their plan being involved with Enerjak. Conquering Storm had not liked the idea of Enerjak rising, especially after what he had done to her country while she'd been imprisoned* so she'd attempted to overthrow Dr. Finitevus and take control of the Dark Armada. Her attempted coup d'état had ended in disaster for her. Finitevus had callously disposed of her entire clan by using a warp ring to send them plummeting to their deaths inside of Mount Adabat and Conquering Storm herself had gotten captured and restrained to an experiment bed to be used as a test subject for his precious Synthetic Chaos Energy formula. Scourge the Hedgehog and his girlfriend Fiona Fox had heard of Conquering Storm's attempted rebellion and given how they'd been plotting to do the same thing, they decided to try their hand at overthrowing Dr. Finitevus. They'd planned to steal his Chaos Synth-En and use it on themselves so they could become more powerful than Finitevus and easily vanquish him. But Mecha Tails, a roboticized Tails the Fox, wouldn't let them and a resulting fight over the Chaos Energy had ended up causing Scourge to inject Conquering Storm and give her a dose of the Chaos Synth-En. Being a non-Chaos Adept and the formula being more negative and dark, Conquering Storm had reacted to the formula extremely violently. She'd mutated hideously and become a grotesque abomination that craved Chaos Energy and was ludicrously powerful. Only Fiona stabbing the creature in the back and then stabbing it in the heart had been enough to finish the mutated lynx off and after her body had been disposed of and the mess cleaned up, Scourge and Fiona had been thrown into The Nefarious 's prison cell for the night as punishment for their careless behaviour. Their resulting screw-up had left Finitevus needing to make a new batch of Chaos Synth-En. Finitevus was going to look for new items to use today since all he had left was some of the lava they'd mined from Black Acropolis and all that would do is make Dark Chaos Energy, something that the Synthetic Chaos Energy couldn't consist primarily of otherwise it would be too out of control and too monstrous. Finitevus did get one good thing out of yesterday though, he knew that he couldn't test his precious formula on non-Chaos powered beings. For the test to be accurate and to ensure him he could become Enerjak with a large amount of the energy, he needed to test it on an actual Chaos Adept. He was already planning on whom he was going to test it on as he warped himself over to the prison cell and prepared to let Scourge and Fiona out for the day. They'd be very useful in capturing Sonic, Knuckles, Shadow or Shade to test the artificially made Chaos Energy on for the first three were Chaos Adepts and Shade was full of the stuff after being a co-guardian with Knuckles and living with Imperator Ix, another Chaos Adept her whole childhood. Any one of them would do beautifully for the test but first, he needed to get some new items to make his new batch of Chaos Synth-En. To give Scourge and Fiona a chance to redeem themselves, he supposed it'd be fair to recruit them for his collecting mission today. Finitevus opened up the cell door and he walked inside.

"Good morning Scourge and Fiona. Did you learn your lesson from yesterday?" he asked politely.

What he received was not the kind of response he expected. He received a snarling growl that sounded more animalistic than Mobian. That couldn't be good at all. Finitevus stared straight ahead of him and got the shock of his life. It was very unusual for somebody as sinister and devious as Finitevus to be shocked by something but this was something even he had to admit was pretty shocking. Standing on all four in a corner of the cell was Fiona Fox. But something wasn't right about her. She had oversized fangs, sharp teeth and glowing Chaos-green eyes! She also appeared to have claws growing out of her finger tips and the bandage she had around her arm to cover up the scratch Conquering Storm had given her yesterday was glowing simultaneously with her eyes. She had a wild and feral look on her face that could please even the wildest of jungle men. Finitevus could hardly believe what he was looking at. But what shocked him even more was what else was in the room with Fiona. There lying on the floor, a gaping hole in his neck and a dry puddle of blood underneath his body...was the corpse of Scourge the Hedgehog. He lay on the floor, unmoving and with lifeless eyes staring helplessly up at the ceiling as if hoping that he would ascend to heaven through it. Fiona had sank her teeth into Scourge's neck and drained him dry of all Chaos Energy he had in his body last night but the vixen still had cravings for more. And now, right in front of her, was a fresh supply in the form of Dr. Finitevus. The albino scientist was full from head to toe of Dark Chaos Energy, he'd be a meal for the possessed vixen.

"Chaos Energy...so hungry for more...you've got lots of it...you'll be delicious." Fiona hissed in a voice that sounded like it was made up of a thousand whispers all at once.

Dr. Finitevus leaped backwards like a scared rabbit as Fiona prepared to charge at him. Fiona sprang into action and ran towards him but the echidna quickly ran outside the cell and closed the door. Fiona just ended up crashing into the door as it closed and she began feebly clawing at it in a vain attempt to break it down. Her attempts were futile but the vixen's usually brand of intelligence had been diminished. She was completely mindless and only had one thing on her mind...Chaos Energy and the need to feed herself with it. Finitevus listened to Fiona clawing at the door, his heart pounding. Never in his life had he been so scared before, not even during his ten years of hell in the void. There was a Chaos craving monster locked up in a cell and it was after HIM.

"Let me out! Let me out right now!" bellowed Fiona, "I'm so hungry! Need Chaos Energy! Please let me out!"

Finitevus ignored her and instead pressed against his ear.

"Mecha Tails, we have an emergency! Get down here NOW!" barked Finitevus frantically.

"I obey." replied Mecha Tails's usual cold, emotionless voice.

Finitevus nodded and took his fingers away from his ear. He couldn't understand it. How did Fiona get possessed and demonized by the Chaos Synth-En?! She hadn't taken any doses! She shouldn't have a drop of the brew inside her at all! Then Finitevus remembered one big elephant in the room that he thought should have been obvious to him from the start. The cut on Fiona's arm. During the fight yesterday, Fiona had been scratched on the arm by the demonic, mutated Conquering Storm, most notably the fanged tongue that the mutation had given her. The tongue's fangs must have been full of Chaos Energy and once the fang had scratched Fiona, it must have let a drop or two of the Synthetic Chaos Energy seep into her bloodstream! Finitevus remembered seeing the bandage on Fiona's arm glowing when he stared at her earlier. It had been glowing in time with her eyes, the cut must be infected with the artificially made Chaos Energy and now Fiona had been corrupted by it! What a disaster this was! Because of Conquering Storm, Scourge was now dead and Fiona was a Chaos-craving maniac! Scourge and Fiona were two of his best minions and he'd just lost them both in one day all because of a test that went wrong! Finitevus just shrugged. Being a scientist, you had to be prepared to make sacrifices. He had hoped that he wouldn't lose anymore of his armada after disposing of the Raiju Clan and losing Conquering Storm because Sonic just had to know his plan was about Enerjak. He only had Mecha Tails, Team Diamond, Captain Metal, Raphael the Cyber-Husky, Ravage Bloodfang, Lord Sycorax and his two henchmen Vladek and Romeo, Zira the Ruthless and Cutthroat Jim left now. Still a decent army but nowhere near as good as it had been before. His armada was falling apart and he was determined to make sure that he didn't lost anymore. Fiona was his last member to be lost until the armada outwore their usefulness and he became Enerjak.

A few minutes later, Mecha Tails arrived at the cell and he stood before Finitevus.

"What is the situation master?" asked Mecha Tails in a vapid tone of voice.

"Fiona has been corrupted." explained Finitevus, suddenly much calmer and back to his normal, collected composure, "She is now a Chaos craving monster, not as bad as Conquering Storm but still very much lost to us."

"I see. How did this happen?" asked Mecha Tails.

"I believe the scratch Conquering Storm inflicted on her arm had something to do with that my disciple." muttered Finitevus, "The scratch was glowing beneath her bandage along with her eyes. I shall show you it now."

He then opened up a warp ring but he opened it above Fiona so that she wouldn't be able to go through the warp ring and escape from her cell. The warp ring looked down at Fiona and Mecha Tails peered through it to observe her. He noticed the glowing bandage on Fiona's arm and how crazed and wild she was acting. She was clawing viciously at the door, leaving faint scratches but doing no other damage to it. The prison cell door was strong enough to withstand a punch from even Mandy the Mouse's steel knuckle-attachments, Fiona had no chance of escaping. Mecha Tails seemed oddly fascinated at what he was looking at as he watched Fiona. He then took his head out of the warp ring and turned to Finitevus.

"An infection caused by Conquering Storm scratching her arm is the only logical explanation to this change in Fiona's behaviour." droned Mecha Tails, "And to think we dismissed it as a mere scratch when we bandaged it up."

"We had no idea on what kind of things the mutated Conquering Storm could do." mused Finitevus grimly, "Now we know...that fanged tongue of hers can infect with merely a scratch. It is fortuitous that we've kept the child contained before she could start spreading an infection around like a zombie apocalypse."

"Indeed master." droned Mecha Tails, "But one thing that obfuscates me is why Fiona has had a less severe mutation than Conquering Storm?"

"Simple, she didn't have a big enough dose." noted Finitevus, "At the most, the poor girl's mind is corrupted and wilder than somebody locked up in an asylum but she has a mild mutation. Her teeth have increased in size, all of them are now sharp and she has claws. Conquering Storm had a syringe-full of Chaos Energy given to her, that was more than enough to turn her into a monster. Fiona...is less of a monster appearance wise, but every bit the monster Conquering Storm was in mind."

"I recommend removing the infection immediately so Fiona will be back to normal." suggested Mecha Tails.

"No, the death of Scourge would traumatize the unfortunate woman." murmured Finitevus, "And given her history from what I've read and heard...she's had enough trauma as it is. Last thing she needs is another trauma to tip the scales of despair. Remove the Chaos Energy and she'll be so devastated that she will be of no use to us."

"But we cannot just leave her infected like this. We need to deal with it." protested Mecha Tails.

"And we shall..." mused Finitevus wickedly, "I'll just send her over to New Mobotropolis. In her mad craze, she could hinder the Royal Fighters for us and given how Sonic can seem to win against any opponent, he'll defeat Fiona and do the dirty work for us."

"She's feral and out of control...Sonic will be forced to put her down like the mad dog she is..." murmured Mecha Tails, "And we will not have to worry about the Synthetic Chaos Energy falling into their hands. They will not dare use it given what it's done to Fiona."

"Indeed not." said Finitevus dryly, "We could get rid of at least a few of Sonic's friends and Sonic will get rid of Fiona for us. And there's no chance she'll kill Sonic or even Shadow in her rampage either so I'll still have a Chaos Adept to test my formula on."

"Agreed." replied Mecha Tails, "So while Fiona's distracting our enemies, we can get the necessary components in order to remake the Synthetic Chaos Energy. And we know how to make the perfect formula now so the next batch will perfect."

"And once it's ready...I'll kidnap Sonic, Shadow, Knuckles or Shade and test it on them." purred Finitevus, "I bet all four of them will survive Fiona at the very least."

"Yes. And also consider the queen Sally Acorn, she has energy blades. She'll cut Fiona to pieces before she harms any of them." noted Mecha Tails.

"The plan is sound and there's no guarantee it'll fail." said Finitevus gleefully, "The heroes will get rid of the garbage for us and we'll have no interruptions. Time to put the plan in action..."

Now he knew how he was going to deal with Fiona, he opened the cell door and opened up a warp ring. The moment the door opened, Fiona pounced straight towards him but the warp ring Finitevus held in front of her stopped her from laying a finger on him. She instead disappeared through the warp ring and found herself warping out of The Nefarious and into New Mobotropolis. The moment Fiona was gone, Finitevus smiled to himself and put the warp ring on his wrist.

"Now the deadweight is off our shoulders, we can do our daily collecting." he purred, "I'm sure the Lost Jungle has many things we can use in our formula."

He opened up a warp ring and he stepped through it with Mecha Tails following him closely behind. The duo warped themselves over to the Lost Jungle and once they'd arrived, the warp ring closed behind them, leaving the bottom floor The Nefarious in total silence for the time being. Repair work would continue shortly and put an end to the silence though. And it wouldn't be long until The Nefarious was ready for flying again...

Meanwhile in New Mobotropolis, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were once again gathered together in Amy Rose's hospital room. Amy wasn't in bed this time though, she was down on the floor doing some stretches. She lay on her side and lifted her leg up and down in a slow, gentle rhythm while Mandy the Mouse watched her. Amy had been recovering from her near death at the hands of Captain Metal. Four days had passed since that terrible day. The Royal Fighters had been in a big battle with the Dark Armada and Captain Metal had attempted to dispatch Sonic with a cannon blast. Amy had taken the blow for him and had nearly died as a result. Mariah the Medicine Cat had given Amy a healing potion before she was tragically killed by Mecha Tails shortly afterwards. The potion was healing Amy nicely. Most of her burns were gone and her head looked much better. But she still ached very badly and in order to get Amy back into shape, Mandy had suggested she do some small exercises. They could help the healing potion heal her sooner. Amy winced as she lifted her right leg for what felt like the millionth time but was actually the tenth time, but she forced herself to keep going. After the eleventh lift, Amy stopped lifting her leg and she panted exhaustedly.

"Come on Amy, one more and then it's onto the next leg." said Mandy softly.

"Damn you for torturing me like this..." sniffed Amy, lifting her leg a twelfth time "Why can't I just lay in bed and let Mariah's potion do its work?"

"You can do that but exercise is good for you." said Mandy sternly, "A healing potion doesn't give you an excuse not to keep fit. Not to mention your muscles will atrophy if you don't use them."

"What are you, a nurse?" snorted Amy.

"I am mildly knowledgeable about medicine and the Mobian body." retorted Mandy, sticking her tongue out at Amy, "Now stop moaning and get exercising." she ordered.

"Says the one who told me off for overly-exercising Sonic after the Devatrons crippled him..." muttered Amy.

"Oh don't start, I'm only making you two 12 leg lifts and that's it!" snapped Mandy, "Hardly an over-exercise. Plus you'll get a break after that so there."

"Let's just hope this is worth it..." sighed Amy as she turned onto her side and began lifting up her left leg, "Once I'm all better again, I'm gonna smash Captain Metal to bits for doing this to me! I'm gonna flatten him like a pancake and smash his remains until there's nothing left!"

"Glad to here somebody other than me really wants Captain Metal dead..." murmured Blaze the Cat grimly, "And I assure you, I'll make him burn for nearly killing you Amy."

"Good to hear. And I'll stomp on his ashes perhaps." said Amy stoically as she lifted up her left leg again.

Sonic the Hedgehog, who was standing at a nearby window, looked over at Amy and he shook his head sadly. Amy had certainly changed after her near-death experience at the hands of Captain Metal. She was a lot more serious and her usual chipper attitude had all but vanished. He hadn't seen Amy smile since she'd woken up from her coma and received a hug from Cream the Rabbit. Cosmo the Seedrian being in Finitevus's captivity might also have effected the pink-furred hedgehog badly too. He could imagine how afraid Amy was feeling for Cosmo right now and it made him think about how afraid he was feeling for his best friend Tails. Ever since he'd been roboticized by Finitevus at the start of the war with the Dark Armada, Sonic had been afraid for the twin-tailed fox and wanted nothing more than to have him back safe and sound and de-roboticized. Tails would be traumatized by the whole affair though. He'd been aiding Finitevus in his evil plans and he'd murdered Mariah the Medicine Cat. Tails would never be the same kind again once they got him back. Finitevus had single-handedly destroyed his innocence and that made Sonic burn with rage. He wanted Finitevus dead and he would stop at nothing to make sure that Finitevus was dead and the armada was defeated. It amazed Sonic as to how Dr. Eggman had barely effect him personally and mentally with his war on Mobius and desire to conquer it and yet this battle with the Dark Armada had been a physical and mental trauma for him. He supposed it was because Finitevus knew how to strike at him mentally too. He'd done well what with roboticizing his best friend, having some of his worst enemies work for him, blackmailing Cosmo into working for him and causing the death of a good friend of his, Geoffrey St. John. Sonic was surprised that he hadn't just cracked already and gone ballistic. He knew that it wouldn't do him any good though so he composed himself and tried his best to keep his emotions in check. Although Sonic was willing to bet that the straw that would break the camel's back for him would be if Finitevus did any harm to his beloved Sally. Dr. Eggman had roboticized Sonic and made him torture Sally for his own amusement, an event that still traumatized Sonic to this day and he was deathly certain of not letting any harm come to Sally ever again. If Finitevus dared try to harm Sally, Sonic would dig his grave for him and throw him into the coffin personally. He sighed glumly as he stared up at the grey sky above.

"We're gonna stop that armada...and we're gonna get Tails and Cosmo back...and Finitevus will die. That monster doesn't deserve to be spared. He's gonna die and I'm the one who's gonna kill him."

Sonic wasn't entirely pleased that he would be willingly going out of his way to murder Finitevus but he didn't really care anymore. Finitevus did deserve death. He is twice the monster Eggman ever was and had done more damage to him than Eggman could ever dream of doing. Plus Finitevus ended up causing the end of the world as Silver and Blaze had found out for him so it was for the sake of the entire world and not just himself that Finitevus had to die. He had spared Eggman when he had the chance to kill him and had Finitevus not intervened, Eggman would have destroyed Mobius. So Sonic decided that he wasn't going to pull his punches. Finitevus would die next time they met and he wouldn't hold back. Sally approached him from behind, noticing how grim Sonic looked and she patted his back softly.

"Are you alright?" she asked concernedly.

"Just fine Sal." said Sonic nonchalantly, "Just...taking in what's happened lately and thinking of how my next fight with Finitevus is gonna go. I promise you now, it'll be brutal."

"I'm sure it will after what that monster has done lately." said Sally grimly, "He's done things that have effect many of us in more ways than one and we're still having trouble defeating him. It's no wonder that I'm making an exception to our "No Kill" policy. Finitevus's death will benefit all of us greatly."

"I'll say considering that he's the cause of Mobius's doom this year." muttered Sonic, "We have all the evidence at hand, we know that albino bastard is responsible. Synthetic Chaos Energy, Enerjak dooms the world, looks like Finitevus...it's definitely him who's responsible and to save our world, we need to put him down before he destroys it."

"I agree." said Sally, nodding her head slowly as she slid her hands around Sonic's torso and pulled him closer to her, "And hopefully when this is over, you can be happy again. It's very sad seeing you like this." she said solemnly.

"Sorry about the moping Sal." said Sonic sadly, "But even a guy like me can't help but feel down after what's been going on lately. It's been tough for all of us, some more than others. You can't blame me for being a little down-hearted right?"

"No Sonic, not all." said Sally gently, running her hands softly up and down his torso.

"Thanks. And you know Sally, when this is over, you know how I plan to give Tails the best day of his life to help him get over this nightmare?" Sonic asked, "Well I thought...maybe I could do the same to you. When I'm done with Tails, I'll have a day with just the two of us together and we'll act like carefree lovebirds with not a worry in the world."

The very thought seemed to perk him up a little. He actually smiled slightly at his royal girlfriend. Sally smiled back at him.

"I think that's a wonderful idea and I'd love that." said Sally sweetly.

"I aim to please." said Sonic casually, "And I hope that day happens. I'll make sure that it does happen if I have to."

Sally had to admire Sonic's dedication to wanting to save Mobius. Dedication to such a noble cause was what made Sonic so admirable to her. She rested her head against Sonic's shoulder warmly, making the hedgehog feel very content and much happier. What Sally didn't know was that Sonic's idea of making Sally's day wonderful after the Dark Armada was finished involved something a little more than what he'd said. He remembered how earlier this week, Sally had questioned him on if he had any thoughts about marriage. He considered giving her an engagement ring as a gift, a perfect gift to give to his beloved queen after going through so many days of hell. He imagined Sally would be very ecstatic to see him proposing to her but for now, he could just hope he'd get the chance to pop the question to Sally. But then his mind wondered off onto something else. He glanced out of the window and saw a surprising sight. A warp ring had opened up in the centre of the city and out of it came Fiona Fox, alone this time. But she wasn't acting like Fiona at all. She was down on all fours like a wild animal and Sonic could see that she had glowing green eyes, even from where he was. Sally could sense something was wrong and she looked out of the window to see what had caught Sonic's attention.

"Is that...Fiona?!" she gasped in surprise as she spotted the leather-clad R.F.S. traitor outside in the middle of the city, "What's she doing here?"

"And why is she alone?" asked Sonic curiously, "Surely her beloved Scourgey would be with her. This doesn't add up in the slightest."

"Well we can go over to her and have a few words with her." said Sally sternly, "You coming Sonic?"

"I sure am." said Sonic brightly, "I have scores to settle with that traitor too. Still sore over the fact she left us for that idiot I'm ashamed to call my brother."

"That's good." said Sally. She turned to the Royal Fighters and said, "Me and Sonic are just gonna take care of something. Stay here and make sure Amy's comfortable. And also maybe see if Blizzard wakes up at all." she added, thinking about the formerly evil Ice Witch who had been given Synthetic Chaos Energy by Finitevus and had passed out for reasons the heroes weren't sure about, We'll call you if we need you."

"OK your majesty." said the Royal Fighters in unison.

Sonic and Sally both left the room to take care of Fiona, leaving the Royal Fighters to take care of Amy and wait for back up. Amy herself was back in her bed and resting from her exercises. As she lay back, she wondered what it was that Sonic and Sally were taking care of. Nevertheless, if it only required those two then it couldn't be too serious she supposed. The Royal Fighters wondered what it was too but they stayed put, waiting to see if they were needed...

In the centre of the city, nervous citizens kept their distance as the Chaos-craving Fiona was prowling around on all fours, looking for her first victim. She glowered at the frightened citizens with her horrible, glowing green eyes and bared her vicious, oversized, sharp teeth at them. She let out a growl that sent many citizens running for their lives. Some even barricaded themselves inside their own homes just to get away from this monster that had magically appeared before them. Fiona sniffed the air, hoping to detect any sign of Chaos Energy anywhere. She was ravenous and was desperate to sink her teeth into a Chaos-powered being right now. She swore she'd go crazy with hunger if she had to wait any long for her supper. Her mouth streamed with saliva as she stared at the terrified citizens. To her disappointment, none of them had Chaos Energy of any sort in them. She turned her nose up at the citizens and slunk off like a prowling tiger.

"Need…Chaos Energy! So…hungry…need…energy! Need to stave…off…hunger!" she growled viciously.

The citizens were glad to hear she wasn't craving for blood but they began to wonder what the crazed vixen was babbling about. They had little knowledge about the Chaos Emeralds and some hadn't even heard of a Chaos Emerald so any they had to wonder what Fiona was talking about. They watched nervously as Fiona headed towards Castle Acorn. She was sniffing the air again, wondering where she could find any Chaos Energy. But then a rich sent caught her nostrils and turned her away from Castle Acorn. She could smell something delicious. Something…chaotic. She licked her lips delightedly. She could smell Chaos Energy! Fiona scampered off to her right, ignoring Castle Acorn and following the scent of Chaos Energy. The smell took her straight into the paths of Sonic the Hedgehog and Queen Sally Acorn. Fiona didn't recognize them for her intelligence had pretty much been replaced by hunger for Chaos Energy as a result of the infection she'd received from Conquering Storm. But what she did know was that Sonic had been the one she'd smelt out and just staring at him, she could tell that he was swimming in the stuff just like her first meal had done. She dribbled hungrily where as Sonic and Sally just stared at Fiona in wonder.

"OK…what's happened to Fiona then?" asked Sonic curiously, "She's all sharp-teeth and glowing green eyes!"

"I think I can guess…" murmured Sally, deploying her wrist blades and preparing to engage in battle, "I think she might have been used as a test subject for Finitevus's Synthetic Chaos Energy!"

"But why would he test it on Fiona? She's on his side!" protested Sonic, "And why does Fiona look more monstrous than say, Blizzard?"

"The answer to both those questions: I have no idea." said Sally tensely, "But I know one thing, we have to get it out of her. She'll be very dangerous like this."

"I know, I mean look at that that stuff did to Blizzard!" exclaimed Sonic, "Now Fiona's full of it, we need to get it out of her!"

"We'll take her down and then take her into Royal HQ." declared Sally, "Once in there, we'll remove the Chaos Energy and maybe see if we can use it for ourselves."

"I sure hope it won't effect us the same way it's effecting Fiona." muttered Sonic.

Then suddenly, Fiona pounced towards Sonic, snarling like a hungry lion and opening her jaws as wide as she could.

"CHAOS ENERGYYYYYYYYYYY!" she roared excitedly.

Sonic leaped a foot into the air backwards as Fiona sailed towards him. Fiona landed on her hands just in front of Sonic but before she was even aware of what was going to happen next, Sonic swung his leg upwards and walloped Fiona in the face. The vixen's head snapped backwards from the kick but creepily enough, it didn't seem to harm her all that much. Unlike Conquering Storm, Fiona wasn't hideously mutated into a grotesque monster so she was more resilient to pain than she was. Fiona stood up on both legs and simply lowered her head so she was back to staring at Sonic. The hedgehog shivered, wondering how a powerful kick like that had barely effected the treacherous woman.

"OK…that's kinda creepy." he said wearily, "She's hungry for Chaos Energy and a kick like that doesn't seem to hurt her all that much."

"I sure would like to know what the Chaos Energy worked positively on Blizzard but on Fiona, it's made her a Chaos craving vampire." mused Sally, preparing to leap into battle, "Either way, we need to bring her down FAST. If we go on for too long, she'll wear us out and then…you're dead. And maybe me too." she said with a shudder.

"It's not time for this hedgehog's funeral to be hosted yet!" declared Sonic, "Let's take Fiona down!"

Sally sprang into action ahead of Sonic, something that the hedgehog noticed humorously for it would usually be him running into battle ahead of everyone else. There really was a bit of him in Sally after all, all the more reason why Sally was the woman he fell for. The queen squirrel swung her blades at Fiona, purposefully missing for she didn't want to dissect the vixen, only scare her off and leave her open for an attack. Fiona hastily retreated away as Sally swung her blades at her, the blades nothing more than a blue blur scything through the air with every swing of the squirrel's arms. Fiona growled viciously at Sally and she jumped into the air over the queen in a single leap. Sally was surprised she was even able to jump that high but she supposed she shouldn't be too surprised if Fiona started doing things she wasn't normally capable of doing before now she was full of Chaos Energy. Fiona landed behind Sally and kicked her in the back. The queen cried out in alarm as she was taken off her feet and thrown down onto the grass beneath her. Fiona's kick felt a couple times harder than usual, something that Sally once again assumed was because of the Chaos Synth-En. She began hoping that Fiona didn't have her blades either although it was very likely the vixen didn't even know how to use them anymore. Sally picked herself up and just narrowly managed to react fast enough to avoid a claw attack from Fiona. The demonic woman's claw-tipped fingers just slashed at the air in front of her belly. Sally sheathed her blades for the moment and she slammed her fists down on Fiona's shoulders. The red-furred fox seemed to let out a small yelp of pain although it sounded more like a yelp of being hit rather than of actual pain. Then Sally grabbed Fiona's shoulders and pushed her away vigorously, giving herself enough room for another attack. She spun around on her heel and roundhouse kicked Fiona in the face. The kick was more than enough to whisk Fiona up into the air and send her flying in an arch down onto the ground just metres away. Sonic gave his girlfriend the thumbs up as if to say "Nice kick Sally" without having to say the words themselves. Sally smiled back and stood by as Sonic raised his foot and prepared to stomp on Fiona's head. The Chaos Energy would likely have strengthened her body so he wouldn't kill her. At the most, he'd hopefully knock her out. But as he threw the attack at Fiona, the leather-clad Royal Fighter traitor, leaped up onto all fours and grabbed Sonic's ankle with her right hand. Sonic's face became a picture of horror as Fiona picked him up with one arm, still holding him by the ankle, and then spun him around. She threw Sonic through the air and sent him crashing straight into Sally. Sally cushioned most of the impact for Sonic as they landed in a heap on the ground. Sonic sat up and rolled off of Sally so that she could get back up. Sonic stayed on all fours but that was so he could tear up clumps of grass and soil. He had a large clump of grass and mounds of soil clenched tightly in both fists and he grinned as an idea formed in his head.

"Now here's a tactic I don't use all that much…" he said to himself.

He turned around just as Fiona came running towards him and he jumped towards her. Fiona pounced but Sonic ruined the attack by kicking her in the face and bringing down onto her side.

Fiona sprang back to her feet, just as Sonic wanted her to do. He then slapped the grass and mud into Fiona's eyes, making the Chaos craving vixen roar in agony. Despite being resilient to some pain, the eyes were still a sensitive area for her. Fiona began rubbing her eyes vigorously to get the grass and soil out of them. While she was doing this, Sonic took the opportunity to spin-dash her directly in the torso and throw her backwards across the arena. Still unable to see properly, Fiona was helpless to fight back as Sonic zoomed up towards her and began to whale furiously on the vixen. He punched her several times in the face, stomach and shoulders and then roundhouse kicked her down onto her right side. Fiona felt every blow thrown at her and it made her growl furiously that she couldn't see properly and fight back. Fiona lay down on the grass, still rubbing her eyes to get the soil out of them as Sonic stuck his elbow out and threw himself down on top of Fiona, elbow-thrusting her in the back and causing the red vixen to scream in pain. But unfortunately, Fiona had managed to get all of the soil out of her eyes so just as Sonic aimed another attack at her, Fiona rolled out of the way and left Sonic to just slam himself down on the ground. Fiona got back up onto her feet and just as Sonic stood back up, she clawed at him. She caught him hard across the face and drew five bloody scratches across his cheek and eye. Sonic let out a bloodcurdling cry as he was scratched, fighting hard to stave off the pain but Fiona didn't spare him the chance to do that. She tackled Sonic down onto the ground and pinned him down with her hands and feet. Sonic fought desperately to get free but he couldn't.

Fiona was much stronger than she was before, strong enough to keep him pinned down. Sonic stared at Fiona, his face full of terror and his heart pounding wildly as Fiona opened her mouth and prepared to bite down at him.

"So much…Chaos Energy…you'll do nicely…you'll satisfy my hunger very nicely!" she hissed excitedly.

"S-S-Sally? Little help? Please?" whimpered Sonic, "I'm about to be Fiona chow!"

Sally ran towards Fiona and Sonic as fast as she could. Fiona was just about to bite down on Sonic's neck but before she could so much as move her head closer to Sonic, Sally deployed her wrist blades and she slashed Fiona across the face. The attack left a very long, terrible cut on Fiona's cheek and it began to stream with blood. Fiona let out a shriek of pain as the cut began to bleed and the air mixing with the blood made the cut sting unbearably. Fiona clawed at Sally but the queen stepped back to avoid the attack and she balanced herself backwards on one leg so she could draw her other leg back and kick Fiona as hard as she could. Fiona was knocked down by the kick and sent sprawling on the ground. Sally advanced towards Fiona and held her blades near the vixen's throat. Fiona was about to move but then her neck lightly touched the sharp, blue energy blades and she squealed in pain she they made contact with her skin. She kept her head down so she wouldn't hurt herself anymore.

"Stay down Fiona lest I be forced to chop off your head, as tempted as I am now." Sally said coldly.

Secretly, she wasn't tempted at all to cut off Fiona's head, she was just saying it in the hope that Fiona would understand what she was saying and believe it. But Fiona wasn't taking in what Sally said. Instead she reached up and grabbed Sally's wrist. She shoved Sally's arm aside and threw her opponent off balance. This gave Fiona the perfect time to get back onto her feet and jumped on top of Sally. The leather-wearing vixen pinned Sally down to the ground and opened her mouth, dripping saliva on Sally's face. The royal rodent's face contorted with disgust as Fiona dribbled on her. Many things disgusted her and having drool on her face was definitely something she didn't like. She tried to get Fiona off of herself but the vixen refused to budge. She kept Sally pinned down and prepared to bite her in the neck. She had no Chaos Energy but Fiona wasn't hoping to feast on Sally, she would just kill her and stop her from interfering with her attempts to feast on Sonic. But Fiona wouldn't get the chance to kill her enemy for Sonic spin-dashed into her and threw Fiona straight off of Sally. Sally had saved him so he figured he'd return the favour. It was what made them the ideal couple, their tendency to save each other on the battlefield. Fiona hit the ground and winced tensely but she wasn't down for long. She stood back up and just as Sonic zoomed towards her, she jumped into the air and dropkicked him in the face. The blow made Sonic's senses go fuzzy and he stumbled backwards as his head throbbed like mad from the blow. Fiona grinned an evil toothy grin at Sonic and she stepped forward to grab him but Sonic recovered just in time and he swung his head straight into Fiona's forehead. A loud knock was heard as the two heads collided but unfortunately for Sonic, the blow hurt him more than it had hurt Fiona. He gripped his head and screwed his face up as pain flared through as skull. Fiona was merely just rubbing her head better as if the blow hadn't been that hard. Sally rushed in and slugged Fiona in the gut so she could buy Sonic some time to recover. Fiona doubled over, giving Sally the chance to then elbow her on her head. The attack threw Fiona down on the ground and she lay flat against it, grimacing in pain and screwing her face up in reaction to it. Sonic recovered from the head-butt and he saw that Fiona was down on the ground. Seizing his chance, he elbowed Fiona on top of her cranium. The blow was enough. The sharp knock on Fiona's head had been enough to knock the vixen out cold. Now she was knocked out, Sonic and Sally took a moment to rest before they picked up her unconscious body.

"Whew! That was tight!" cried Sonic breathlessly.

"It was true blue, it was indeed." gasped Sally, "We did better than I expected though. I guess Fiona didn't get the kind of dose Blizzard got. Blizzard told us she was able to beat Finitevus in a fight with the dose she had."

"And here, Fiona could barely keep up with both of us." sneered Sonic, "How lucky are we?"

"Indeed…and luckier still, we might be able to use Finitevus's precious Chaos Energy against him." purred Sally slyly, "I didn't think the doctor would be that stupid."

"Maybe he didn't expect us to win." crowed Sonic, "He seriously underestimates us, he really does."

Sally nodded agreeably as the two took Fiona over to Royal HQ to get rid of the Chaos Energy inside her body. It seemed odd for them to be wanting to help a villain like Fiona but Sonic reasoned with himself, deducing in his mind that they were doing it for their benefit and not Fiona's. Although he wondered if Fiona would come back to the Royal Fighters as thanks for curing her…

Later in Royal HQ, Fiona was laid down on a medical bed and as she rested, Sally took a syringe from the medicine cabinet and used it to get rid of Fiona's Chaos Synth-En. Given how there wasn't a whole lot inside of her, it didn't take long and the amount Sally ended up getting wasn't even half a syringe full. Yet it had been enough to drive Fiona insane and make her a Chaos-craving, vampiric monster. Sally shuddered just looking at the Synthetic Chaos Energy she now had inside the syringe. She was holding a lethal substance in her hand this very moment. She wanted to dispose of it quickly but at the same time, they had what Finitevus was hoping to make and use as part of his insidious scheme to resurrect Enerjak. They couldn't waste it like that, the potential things they could use the liquid for were too great. Sally instead took the syringe over to a canister and emptied the syringe's contents inside of it. The canister had a tiny green puddle inside that barely even filled more than two millilitres. Maybe if they could find out how to make some more, they could use a more powerful dose against Finitevus. But of course, they would have to find a way to make sure it didn't make them Chaos craving zombies as it had done to Fiona. Her body now empty of Chaos Energy, Fiona's mutations began to reverse back to normal. Her teeth returned to their normal state and her claws retracted back into her fingers. Sonic watched this with amazement and deduced that the Chaos Energy had indeed been responsible for that. He hoped Fiona would be grateful for what they'd done for her because as far as Sonic was concerned, even this was too nice for her. He turned away from Fiona and peered into the canister that Sally had filled.

"So that's what Finitevus is making…and just that puny amount did that to Fiona." said Sonic grimly, "Ugh…I dread to think what a bigger dose would have done to her." he added, cringing in disgust.

"Me too." muttered Sally, "It makes me feel sick that we have Finitevus's evil brew in our hands right now. But at least we can use it for good. Just do some experimenting on it and we'll have the perfect counter-weapon to use against Finitevus."

"And our Synth-En won't make us zombified-Chaos cravers." declared Sonic cheerfully, "Though I wonder how we'll make sure it won't effect us the way it did Fiona."

"We'll work it out. Nicole can give us a hand with that." said Sally with a wink.

"Yeah, she can analyze the stuff and work out what it's made of and…"

Sonic was interrupted by a sleepy moan coming from Fiona herself. Sonic and Sally turned around and saw the vixen stretching a little and then sitting up, clutching her head tensely. Her eyes opened, now no longer glowing green and back to their normal blue colour. She sounded very sick as she woke up.

"Ugh…I've got the mother of all headaches…" she moaned, "What the heck's up with…"

"Hey Fiona, you're awake!" cried Sonic happily, "Now then, I suppose you can answer us some questions?"

Fiona's head snapped around to her right and she gasped at the sight of Sonic and Sally.

"YOU!" she gasped frantically, "You two knocked me out and took me here! What are you doing to me? Wait…is that Synthetic Chaos Energy?" she asked, pointing at the canister on the counter in front of her.

"It is." said Sally, "You had the stuff inside of you Fiona. Did Finitevus test it on you?"

"Oh no, nothing of the sort." explained Fiona, "Conquering Storm had it tested on her and it turned her into a monster. During the fight, I got scratched on the arm but we just bandaged it up and I seemed to be fine after that. But then…"

Fiona suddenly opened her eyes wide and went very pale and still as something crept into her head. She remembered everything. She remembered how she'd killed Scourge and sapped him dry of all Chaos Energy. Scourge had been completely at her mercy and she remembered how frightened he was when she tackled him down and killed him.

"I…I killed Scourge!" shrieked Fiona, "I KILLED MY OWN BOYFRIEND! I pinned him down and drained him dry of all Chaos Energy through a fatal bite to the neck! I killed the only one who made my life better than it was before!"

She then began to wail loudly into her hands. Her eyes streaming with tears, she pointed sharply at Sonic and Sally, the two staring at her incredulously as if they couldn't believe what they'd just heard..

"You ingrates! How dare you spare me! WHY DIDN'T YOU PUT ME OUT OF MY MISERY?!" she screeched at the top of her voice, "Do you want to torment me with the pain and agony of losing my beloved Scourge thanks to Finitevus's crackpot energy formula?!"

"Fiona, we didn't do that for that reason at all!" snapped Sally, "We were trying to help you! We got the energy out of you for your own good!"

"MY OWN GOOD?!" retorted Fiona, "THERE IS NO GOOD FOR ME ANYMORE! My life's been nothing but garbage since the day I was born and Scourge gave me a reason to carry on living! Now he's gone! I have nothing to live for anymore! You should have just put me out of my misery but you two selfish brats didn't! You spared my life just so I can live in more torment! Well guess what, you won't get that satisfaction! I'm outta here and you'll never see me again! Goodbye Sonic and Sally!"

With that said, the vixen stormed out of the room in tears, slamming the door of the medical room shut behind her and locking it just to stop Sonic and Sally from following her. Sonic and Sally ran up to the door and tried to open it but it was locked tightly shut. Sonic began pounding against it desperately, trying to get it open. He had a nasty vision in his head on what Fiona was going to do and he didn't want her to go the extra mile. As he tried to open the door and run after her, Fiona ran as fast as she could out of Royal HQ. She was a crying mess as she left, her eyes streaming endlessly with tears and her cheeks drenched to the bone. She could feel her heart aching in agony from the heartbreak she was suffering over Scourge's loss. She'd never be able to live with Scourge gone, less so with the fact that she'd killed him. She didn't want to live anymore and as Fiona ran through the city, she was already planning on how she'd put an end to herself.

By the time she'd run through and left New Mobotropolis, Sonic and Sally managed to break open the door with Sonic spin-dashing it down. He quickly ran off down the corridor, hoping to catch up with Fiona.

"Fiona! Wait!" cried Sonic, "Come back! You're just gonna hurt yourself even more!"

But as he ran outside of Royal HQ, he saw that he was too late. Fiona was gone, nowhere to be seen and presumably far beyond his reach. She was already on her way to the GreatForest as Sonic looked for her. Sally caught up to Sonic and put her hands to her mouth in despair.

"Oh the poor, poor girl…she's…she's going to…" she stammered, unable to say the horrible words that she was thinking of in her head.

"And we were too late to stop her…" sighed Sonic, "Oh man…and here I hoped Fiona would come back to us. Instead she's just leaving us and doing goodness knows what! What a rotten end to this day this is…" he moaned.

"I feel for her, I really do…" murmured Sally, "She killed her own boyfriend thanks to being infected by Conquering Storm, a Synth-En test subject. Now Scourge deserved what he got but if I was in Fiona's shoes, I'd be racked with guilt as well. I'd never forgive myself if I killed you Sonic."

"It's like how Eggman made me torture you when I was Mecha Sonic…" mumbled Sonic, "I nearly killed you and I couldn't stop myself. Fiona's killed Scourge and all because of that Chaos Synth-En thingy corrupting her…she couldn't stop herself. And now she's lost her mind with grief."

"Well I hope she'll find a way to move on and not just…throw it away like we fear she's going to." said Sally, hugging Sonic sadly, "She can be better than this…she shouldn't just waste it like it seems she's going to."

"Indeed Sal…" mused Sonic, hugging Sally back sadly, "Indeed…"

As the two hugged, there was only one thought on their mind. What was going to become of the heartbroken Fiona Fox now…?

Footnotes:

See *The Terror of Enerjak

Something tells me that Fiona's not going to show up again sometime soon...so what will become of her? Well readers...that's your choice to make. It is up to YOU, yes, YOU THE READER, what's going to happen to Fiona.

In the meantime, Heroes of Mobius will be back with* "Operation: Nekronopolis Part 1" and we get to see Finitevus's next sinister plan in action...

Dark Armada Part 18: Operation Nekron 1

Story 218: Operation: Nekronopolis Part 1

The Dark Armada Chapter 18 of 25

The meeting room seemed a whole lot emptier now as Dr. Finitevus and what remained of his Dark Armada sat down around the large round table in the middle of the room. It was a sight that disappointed the albino scientist greatly and he shook his head as he thought about what the armada had lost lately.

The past two days had been a pretty bad time for the Dark Armada. They had been on mostly a winning streak lately thanks to Cosmo the Seedrian providing them information behind the Royal Fighters' backs and keeping them on top of the game. They had managed to kill a couple of Royal Fighters, a nurse and had severely crippled Amy Rose and Knuckles the Echidna. But then came the time where Finitevus had tested his Synthetic Chaos Energy formula on Blizzard the Ice Witch. That one single moment seemed to have changed everything. Blizzard had helped the Royal Fighters to escape, which in turn had led to them stopping The Nefarious , the Dark Armada's ship, from destroying New Mobotropolis. Royal Fighter Geoffrey St. John had given his life to destroy the Oblivion Cannon, the ship's strongest weapon and as a bonus, had severely crippled the ship to the point that it couldn't fly anymore. The Nefarious was currently being repaired and the repairs were coming close to finishing. But then just the day before, Conquering Storm and her clan had attempted to rebel against Finitevus after one of the ninjas had been taken prisoner and had been asked about Enerjak, which led to Conquering Storm finding out what the plan was really about and giving her a reason to try her little coup d'etat. But her clan had been warped inside of MountAdabat to meet their fiery demise and Conquering Storm herself just ended up getting captured by Finitevus and used as an experiment for Synthetic Chaos Energy. Scourge the Hedgehog had attempted to use the formula on himself but a fight with the roboticized Tails the Fox, Mecha Tails, had ended up getting Conquering Storm injected. The formula's negative energy was too much for the non-Chaos powered Conquering Storm so she ended up deforming and mutating into a monster of grotesque proportions. She had managed to infect Fiona Fox with Chaos Synth-En just before getting killed by the vixen herself and this in turn had lead to Scourge's sticky demise at Fiona's hands. Finitevus hadn't even bothered to cure Fiona since the emotional trauma of her killing Scourge would undermine her role in the armada and sully her usefulness so yesterday, he just dumped her in New Mobotropolis and let the heroes deal with her. The armada had lost an entire clan of ninjas and three of its strongest members all in the span of two days. A new day had begun now and Finitevus had a feeling that it wasn't going to be as good as he hoped it would be with his forces so greatly diminished. He took note of the empty seats around the meeting table and shook his head sadly. He'd worked so hard gathering up some of Mobius's worst villains ever and now his work had been undermined by recent events. The armada consisted now of just him, Ravage Bloodfang, Raphael the Cyber Husky, Captain Metal, Cutthroat Him, all four members of Team Diamond, Zira the Ruthless, Lord Sycorax and his two henchmen Vladek and Romeo. A decent enough army but completely underwhelming compared to before.

"Good morning my armada…at least what still remains of it." sighed Finitevus.

"Mornin' me heartie." said Captain Metal glumly, "I can't help but notice that our little crew seems to be missing a few ship mates now."

"I'll say Captain Metal." said Ravage dully, "Scourge, Conquering Storm and Fiona are no longer with us."

"I can't say that I'll miss Conquering Storm as that would be a lie." muttered Zira, "I'm glad that the wretch is gone, especially after what she tried to do to Finitevus…but I'm not one to say that her being gone is necessarily a good thing."

"Same goes to Scourge and Fiona." muttered Raphael, "Scourge was pretty much our Sonic and Fiona…she was pretty good, especially since she had them energy blades to match against that stupid Royal Fighter Queen whatever her name was. I actually kinda liked those two and I'll miss them that's for sure." he added, looking genuinely sad as he said that.

"Oh get over it Raphael, Scourge and Fiona weren't all that great." sniffed Sycorax conceitedly, "Why mourn for those pathetic goons when you have somebody who's actually a great villain? Like me!" he added smugly.

"Oh can it you egotistical whack bag!" snarled Lennox Meers the Meerkat, "What have YOU done for us lately huh?! You haven't done a single useful thing since this armada formulated!"

"Yeah! Whereas Scourge and Fiona have done stuff for us already!" added Owen Pounder the Rabbit, "Scourge turned super and tried to kill the Royal Fighters and he and Fiona did a good job in making sure that nobody got their hands on Mecha Tails in Holoska! You on the other hand, haven't done ANYTHING worth crowing about!"

"Agreed. And if I recall, last time all of us had a battle, you got your tail kicked by your own son." growled Alistair Drakken the Bat sinisterly, "And you claim your "strength-enhancing" arm gauntlets make you unbeatable. Well they're not doing a good job are they?"

"You can all be quiet!" snarled Sycorax angrily, "The only reason I haven't done anything really important yet is because our idiot leader fails to realize my brilliance and hasn't bothered to give me an imperative task yet!"

"Your "idiot leader" hasn't done anything of the sort because he knows that you're nothing like what you pride yourself on." said Finitevus coldly, "Sycorax, your arrogance is why I never give you important tasks like what actually competent people such as Scourge and Fiona have been given before. You're so egotistical that it's just pathetic. I'm actually beginning to question recruiting you into my armada."

Sycorax looked physically hurt to hear Finitevus say that to him. His words had felt like a knife to the back. Vladek and Romeo looked worried as Sycorax stood up in his chair and bared his teeth at Finitevus.

"You DARE to suggest that the Great Lord Sycorax is PATHETIC?!" he bellowed angrily.

"Yes I do." said Finitevus coldly, "And I am not suggesting, I am stating a FACT."

"I am not pathetic!" yelled Sycorax angrily, "I once had an entire army of reptiles that destroyed political landmarks and wiped out governments! I was able to take on Vector and his puny team by myself! I even fought and beat Bunnie Rabbot unaided too*!"

"Yes and that's only because you wear those strength-enhancing arm gauntlets." noted Finitevus, "And even then, they do not appear to be very effective anymore for you seem to get beaten in a fight easier nowadays."

"I…um…uh…the heroes are just…better than before." stammered Sycorax feebly, "But uh…I came up with a brilliant plan that almost saw Queen Sally assassinated!"

"And you were foiled by a mere child." snorted Finitevus, "Hardly anything to be proud of."

"Said child was a spy!" protested Sycorax furiously.

"That is not an excuse." snapped Finitevus, "Anybody who's plans are foiled by a mere child has nothing to be proud of. Sora is indeed a competent spy but she is still a child. She wasn't even a teenager at the time she foiled your stratagem a couple of years ago. Face it Sycorax, you have nothing to be proud of. That is why you're merely just a drone in the Dark Armada and not one worthy of being considered on the same level as Conquering Storm, Scourge OR Fiona."

Sycorax's jaw dropped in shock. Finitevus was actually saying that he was just a drone in the armada and he wasn't worthy of being considered to be on the same level as some of the other members?! The reptilian rebel began to feel very insulted and hurt to hear Finitevus saying those nasty things about him. Sycorax was about to lose his temper and attack Finitevus but then the crocodile began to think for a moment. Finitevus did have some legitimate points. He didn't really have anything to be proud of did he? His schemes had been foiled every time he had met the Royal Fighters. And he was getting weaker, that much was certain. The heroes had been getting stronger while he'd been spending a lot of his time in prison and even when out of prison, the heroes would still have been training while he was pretty much catching up. Plus his strength-enhancing arm gauntlets were considerably out of date. They weren't making him as strong as they used to. Sycorax finally realized the cold hard truth. He was pathetic and he had no right to be so prideful. Vladek and Romeo appeared to feel sorry for Sycorax so they patted him on the shoulders softly.

"Don't worry boss, we still think you're a great leader and a great fighter." said Vladek.

"We don't think you're pathetic." said Romeo.

Sycorax ignored them and instead just talked to Finitevus. His expression had changed. He didn't look as confident and smug as he did moments ago, he instead looked desperate. Finitevus had clearly struck a nerve inside the crocodile.

"OK, maybe I am pathetic BUT I can prove that I'm not!" protested Sycorax, "Please Finitevus, give me a chance to prove myself worthy of being part of this armada!" he pleaded feebly, earning mocking smirks from everybody around the table.

"If you really want to prove yourself to my cause then you and your two henchmen can go over to Nekronopolis and cause a ruckus in the Golden Hive Colony. Maybe endanger the king and queen's lives if you want." ordered Finitevus, "Your hatred of politics gives you every reason to accept this task. Your primary objective is to do enough damage so that the Royal Fighters will have no choice but to come and save the bees. You are the bait that's going to lead those fools into my trap."

"Oh…th-thank you!" gasped Sycorax, his confidence suddenly returning to him as quickly as it had gone, "I won't fail you Finitevus! I'll do this armada proud! I'll carry the task out as expected!"

"You had better otherwise you'll be sharing a coffin with the treacherous Conquering Storm." growled Finitevus menacingly, "Prepare yourselves for the mission while I finish discussing with the others about other affairs."

"Yes sir! Thank you sir!" cried Sycorax excitedly.

He, Vladek and Romeo leaped up out of their seats and ran out of the room to get themselves prepared for their mission. The armada watched them leave, not looking very impressed at all with the three reptiles and their task. Finitevus felt all eyes in the room being focused on him as the armada members turned their heads back towards him.

"I dunno Finitevus, you think Lord Sycorax will pull that off?" asked Roxy the Raccoon concernedly.

She looked a little worse than she had done a few days ago. The bruises under her eyes were even uglier and more noticeable than before and the hickeys on her throat were so large, they nearly painted her entire neck an ugly, reddish, purple colour. Her groin was also hurting so much that Roxy looked uncomfortable just sitting in her seat. She also looked so tired that she would fall asleep any moment now. Lennox had been getting rougher and rougher with her as time went on and the raccoon was getting sick of it. How she longed to get away from the perverted meerkat and back to the Royal Fighters! Finitevus looked at Roxy with his hands together, all five fingers fully extended and touching each other at the tips.

"Lord Sycorax will not actually succeed in his mission, because his mission is really to give the Royal Fighters a reason to come into our parlour." explained Finitevus, "It'll be a bonus if he does actually succeed in the "task" I've given him though."

"So Sycorax is the bait that leads the mouse towards the trap?" asked Ravage, "Sounds good but…what is the trap?"

"Simple. The Nefarious will be overseeing Lord Sycorax's mission and when the Royal Fighters come…I'll snatch them all up onto the ship." explained Finitevus, "And since Sonic will definitely be one of them, that'll be just what I need."

"And when you grab Sonic…you can kill him and get rid of the Royal Fighters' best member!" cackled Raphael.

"Wrong, I'm going to test my Synthetic Chaos Energy formula on him." said Finitevus matter-of-factly, "After making a new dose just yesterday night, I'm DYING to try it on Sonic, especially since Mecha Tails here reckons that the formula will have the desired effect if I use it on a Chaos-powered Mobian…like Sonic himself."

Mecha Tails just stood by, saying nothing at all.

"Yaaargh…that be an interesting plan indeed." said Captain Metal approvingly, "Ye know, I wonder what would have happened if I had successfully tested it on Blaze tharr other day?"

"Maybe if she comes to stop Lord Sycorax, we can try it on her." suggested Cutthroat Jim casually, "That crazy kitty deserves it what with thinkin' our plan is about some demon named Enerjak…"

"Yes, the Royal Fighters are quite insane in the brain I'm afraid." sighed Finitevus, almost sounding like he was pitying his sworn enemies despite hating them so much, "If they rave about an "Enerjak" at all, do not take them seriously. They're demented. Sadly, Conquering Storm didn't see that the Royal Fighters are mad and actually believed their ravings…which led to her unfortunate passing."

"Such a fool…I wouldn't have believed those fools if I were in that iron-toed wretch's shoes…" growled Zira furiously, her hate for Conquering Storm increasing even more upon hearing that.

"I know. Our plan is about creating hordes of Chaos Emeralds to give us enough power to rule the whole world…and maybe the multi-verse too." explained Finitevus, "The heroes only think it's about "Enerjak" because they want to turn you all against me, as they did to Conquering Storm. Our plan has nothing to do with him."

"I'm glad to hear it." said Zira, her tone much softer as she spoke, "I've heard terrible things about this "Enerjak" creature. He corrupted my country and drove my sworn enemy, Princess Matilda, insane! I was in my cell when I heard the guards fretting about it and it disgusted me. Black magic is NOT acceptable in my country!"

"Indeed not my dear, which is why Enerjak is not part of our plan." lied Finitevus, "I'd never dishonour all of you like this by trying to resurrect a Chaos Demigod who wishes to destroy the world. We merely want to save it from the corrupted mess that it is, not destroy it."

"You bet." said Ravage grimly, "I can't get revenge on the country that scarred me for life if the world's destroyed can I?"

"Nor can I have my Cyborg paradise!" cried Raphael.

"Indeed." purred Finitevus, pleased that his lies had gotten the armada to support him and believe what he was saying.

"Though one has to wonder why you need to test the Synthetic Chaos Energy on people?" asked Roxy innocently. She was the only one in the room was beginning to question Finitevus's testimonies. She wasn't entirely sure if he was telling the truth or not. Finitevus looked at Roxy and answered her question.

"Simple. We need to know if our Synthetic Chaos Emeralds will work as well as an ordinary Chaos Emerald." he answered as if Roxy should have known that, "We don't want anything disastrous to happen now do we? After all…just look at what my formula did to Conquering Storm."

He addressed the fact in a tone that suggested he wanted the armada to pity the treacherous lynx even though she had just blatantly tried to overthrow him for believing in something delusional as far as the other members were concerned. Rather the armada just seemed to see the point in testing the formula on somebody before they began making duplicate Chaos Emeralds for their plan. If the plan was going to work as intended then they needed to know that the formula was safe to use. Roxy nodded slowly, still not sure if she was utterly convinced if Finitevus was telling the truth or if he was hiding something from the armada.

"Thank you for answering me doc." she said slowly.

"You're welcome." said Finitevus, "Now get ready for launch, we'll be taking off shortly."

"Uh…why?" asked Owen unsurely, "I mean, the ship's not fully repaired yet is it?"

"There's only superficial damages left to repair, the ship can fly just fine." Finitevus insisted, "Any repairs that still need doing can be done in the air and we only need Captain Metal for that. He can finish off the remaining repairs while we're in the air."

"I can do that for ye captain." said Captain Metal happily, "After all, I do all the other repairs when ye landlubbers are sleeping at night so I'm kinda used to working alone."

"Very good." said Finitevus, "Prepare yourselves everybody, we're going to Nekronopolis."

The meeting now concluded, the Dark Armada got up out of their seats and prepared to put their latest plot into action…

Meanwhile in New Mobotropolis, the New Mobotropolis Hospital would soon be short of a patient. Blizzard the Ice Witch, former enemy of the Royal Fighters and the first test subject for Finitevus's evil Chaos Synth-En formula, was still unconscious and resting peacefully in her bed. She'd fallen unconscious after the Chaos Energy began to seep its way into her brain and thus, cause a massive migraine that had been enough to knock her out. She'd been out for a few days but there was a sinister reason as to why that was. The Chaos Energy hadn't just seeped into her brain. It had fully corrupted her brain. The formula hadn't been too positive as Finitevus had thought. The negative side of the Chaos Energy had just taken longer to kick in than it should have done. The positive side and the negative side were nearly evenly balanced, the negative side just being stronger by 10%. Not enough to make Blizzard into a monster but enough to turn her evil now it was kicking in. The positive side of the formula had put up a good fight though and so had the ghosts in Blizzard's head. They had staved off the negative side for most of Blizzard's coma but as the Ice Witch was beginning to come to, moaning sleepily and wincing as her headache eased, she began to think more evil thoughts than before. Her forgone desire for vengeance against Sally and the Kingdom of Acorn was coming back to her and it was getting hard for her to ignore the thoughts. Even Iceberg and her children were beginning to weaken from their constant struggles to keep Blizzard from turning bad. Then suddenly, Blizzard's eyes snapped open and she sat up in her bed. Her eyes were still Chaos green and glowing brightly, the room she was in now bathed in a greenish tint. One thought was on her mind right now.

"Haaaaaargh…must join Finitevus…get revenge on those who wronged me…must manipulate Royal Fighters…into helping me get to him!"

Over in Royal HQ, Sally Acorn was sitting at a desk studying the tiny dose of Synthetic Chaos Energy that she and her boyfriend Sonic the Hedgehog had managed to get from an infected Fiona Fox just yesterday. A scratch on the arm from a Chaos-powered, deformed and mutated Conquering Storm was all it took to infect Fiona and Finitevus, thinking she wouldn't be of any use to his armada anymore, just casually dumped her in New Mobotropolis and expected her to shorten some of the Royal Fighter's numbers at the most. Instead, only Sonic and Sally were needed to beat her and after knocking her out, they had extracted the Chaos Synth-En from Fiona's body and now Sally was studying it. Sonic on the other hand was out looking for Fiona. Fiona had left Royal HQ with a very suicidal mindset on her and Sonic was hoping that Fiona hadn't gone ahead with the dark deed. Sally didn't have the poor vixen on her mind at the moment though, she was focused squarely on the Chaos Synth-En. She had Nicole's handheld computer in her hand and she slowly ran her up and down the canister so the lynx could run a diagnostic test on the evil green liquid inside. It still amazed Sally that such a tiny amount of Chaos Synth-En could actually corrupt Fiona so badly and make her so crazy and monstrous. She still considered herself lucky she and Sonic had made it out of the fight alive. And now they had a bit of Finitevus's Chaos Synth-En, the one thing that was key in his plot to becoming Enerjak. It made Sally feel cautiously excited about how they could use this against Finitevus just like how he'd tested the formula on Blizzard the Ice Witch only for Blizzard to just turn on the echidna and beat him into a pulp. If they used it on themselves, they could become stronger than Finitevus could ever imagine and the Dark Armada would never win now!

Nicole finished scanning the canister, the whole process having taken about a couple of minutes, and her holographic avatar appeared beside Sally. Even though she wasn't organic anymore, whenever her avatar appeared, Sally always felt like she still had her best friend with her. Sally put Nicole's handheld computer down on the counter and she turned to face her formerly Mobian friend.

"Well Nicole?" she asked politely, "What have you found out?"

"Scanning the viscous substance…it truly is a remarkable piece of science." murmured Nicole thoughtfully, "It's got Chaos Energy in it definitely…but it's a mixture of positive AND negative Chaos Energy. The Dark Chaos Energy is the dominant factor in the substance, presumably because of the fact Finitevus wants to resurrect Enerjak or even become Enerjak himself."

"The Dark Chaos Energy in the formula must have been what corrupted Fiona…" mused Sally, putting a hand to her lips in thought, "Is that possible?"

"Definitely." said Nicole matter-of-factly, "Oh definitely. Dark Chaos Energy is a very dangerous substance from what I've read in my studies of Chaos Energy and also hearing from Knuckles himself what Dark Chaos Energy can do. He told me once about the fight for AngelIsland with Imperator Ix. His clan had corrupted the Master Emerald with Dark Chaos Energy and when Ix used it, he became an unstoppable powerhouse."

"But Ix didn't become a Chaos-craving vampire monster did he?" asked Sally.

"No. I asked Knuckles about that last night and he said Ix was completely normal…just very powerful." explained Nicole.

"Then why did it have a monstrous effect on Fiona? And supposedly Conquering Storm too according to what Fiona told me and Sonic?" Sally asked, extremely curious now on how the formula worked and why it seemed to work in certain ways on certain people.

"This is an estimate but I THINK Ix was OK because he was already Chaos powered." explained Nicole, "Ix was full of the stuff so the Chaos Energy inside him would coalesce flawlessly with the Dark Chaos Energy and keep him stable. He was able to control the Dark Chaos Energy."

"And Fiona and C. Storm couldn't because they aren't Chaos Adepts…" murmured Sally, "But why is Blizzard not effected then?"

"I scanned her after she'd been put to bed and if I'm to guess… maybe the dose Blizzard received was too positive." suggested Nicole, "She's Chaos-Powered but isn't a Chaos craving monster because that particular dose was a positive Chaos Energy dominated formula. The only reason it caused her to faint a few days ago was because she probably couldn't control the power and…she suffered a burnout."

"And she still hasn't come to yet." said Sally sadly, shaking her head, "I do hope the stuff isn't killing her."

"Maybe we should run a test on her and see if the Chaos Energy is what's keeping her in this coma she's in." suggested Nicole.

"We'll do that later." declared Sally, "Now then, how would we make more of this Synth-En stuff?" she asked curiously.

"According to Knuckles, mix anything with Chaos Energy and it'll become Chaos Energy." explained Nicole, "How it works, I don't know. Chaos is a very strange substance. If we get something, crush it to pieces and mix it up with the dose we currently have then we'll make some more."

"But how can we make it more positive?" asked Sally, "So…you know, it doesn't make us Chaos Zombies?"

"A power ring from the Lake of Rings would be easily add some positive energy to the formula. Those rings are practically made of positive energy." suggested Nicole, "Need we forget how Tails used one to cure Sonic after he'd been corrupted by Marik's Energy Diamond?"

Sally nodded agreeably. She'd heard all about that terrible event a day after it had happened. Sonic had told her the whole story himself.

"Well luckily for us, we know when a power ring comes out of that lake. Every three o' clock in the afternoon." said Sally brightly, "We could go down there and get a ring this afternoon. It's only got six hours left before it shows up."

Nicole smiled and nodded her head agreeably. It seemed they knew how to make Finitevus's evil formula more like a heroic formula and they knew how to make some more of it so they could use it against Finitevus himself. Sally could already imagine Finitevus's face when he saw them using his precious Chaos Synth-En against him. What a priceless expression he would emote! And it would serve him right for literally giving them the Chaos Energy itself by just dumping Fiona in New Mobotropolis like this! Finitevus had quite single-handedly signalled his own doom. Then suddenly, Sally and Nicole got a little surprise. The lab door opened up and in walked Sonic the Hedgehog. He walked in, looking very grim-faced and gloomy as he did so. Sally read the signs immediately and she ran over to her lover instantly.

"Oh Sonic, what's wrong dear?" she asked worriedly.

"I couldn't find Fiona anywhere…" muttered Sonic, "I looked in as many places as possible and I can't find her. Wherever she's gone… she really doesn't want to be found."

"Oh dear…" said Sally sadly, "I know it's weird for me to show sympathy for Fiona but I really do hope that wherever she is…she's OK."

"True she stabbed us in the back and acts like we're at fault for what her life's become and she actually ran off with my stupid brother… but it would have been nice to have her come back to the team, all reformed and good again." Sonic sighed disappointedly, "But she's run off and given how suicidal she sounded…I bet she's gone and killed herself." he added, cringing horribly at such a thought.

"She was very distraught over the fact she killed Scourge." said Sally sadly, "Speaking of Scourge, he was your brother so how do you feel about his death?"

"I feel nothing. Scourge was never my brother." Sonic spat bitterly, his face cold, angered and sour as he thought about his green-furred nemesis "I have no feelings towards the asshole. All he ever did was compete with me for our parent's affections and try to kill me on several occasions. His death means nothing to me. I'm kinda glad Fiona did the job for us, he deserved such a karmic death. Although Scourge's death has probably ended up causing Fiona to take her own life…" he added grimly as if blaming Fiona's likely fate entirely on Scourge.

"So as good as it is Scourge is dead, at the same time it's done something bad…that is if Fiona DID kill herself." murmured Sally solemnly, "I guess we'll never know what happened to her."

"No, probably not." sighed Sonic sadly, "Such a pity, she could have been useful to us."

"Maybe. But moving onto other matters Sonic, me and Sally have been studying the Chaos Energy that we extracted from Fiona and we know how to make more of it, as well as make it safer to use." Nicole announced quickly as if wanting to change the subject for the sake of a more cheerful mood.

"Really?" asked Sonic, still grim-faced but feeling a bit less gloomy inside.

"Indeed." said Nicole sweetly, "The…"

She was suddenly interrupted by the main computer monitor of Royal HQ's lab flashing into life and displaying a rectangular box on the screen saying "Incoming Message". Sonic became more grim upon seeing this. If they had an incoming message, it meant one thing…the Dark Armada was causing trouble again. The trio turned their attention to the screen and Sally pressed a button on the control panel to answer the call.

"Hello, this is Queen Sally Acorn of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters." Sally answered, speaking directly into the intercom, "Who is this and how may we help?"

"Goodness gracious! Your Majesty! Thank goodness we reached you!" cried a voice that Sonic was unfamiliar with on the other side of the speaker, "This is King Stinger of the Golden Hive Colony! I've got three crazy reptiles attacking my colony! They're after me and my darling Queen Bessie! Please help us! QUICKLY!"

"We will be right there You Majesty." said Sally, "Hold on for us."

She then switched off the communicator and turned to Sonic and Nicole.

"The Golden Hive Colony's in trouble. The king says three "crazy reptiles" are attacking it." explained Sally.

"Lemme guess, is it Lord Egotist and his two henchmen Vladek and Romeo?" snorted Sonic rudely, "And here I thought it'd be something a bit more serious than those clowns."

"Need I remind you Sonic that they nearly assassinated me once and it was only because of Sora Prower that I wasn't killed?!*" snapped Sally angrily, livid to hear Sonic being so uncaring about the situation at hand, "You may not take Sycorax seriously but I do and remember, he's in the Dark Armada! That makes him a bigger threat since we know who he's got as back-up!"

"OK…I'm sorry Sal." said Sonic, feeling guilty over the fact he'd overlooked that detail that he should never overlook, considering that had Sycorax succeeded in his plan back when it happened, Sally wouldn't be here right now and he'd never have fallen in love with her.

"I hope you are." said Sally coldly, "Now then, me and you can't go alone. If Sycorax is attacking the Golden Hive Colony, he's bound to have the armada right behind him. We'll need extra hands to help us in this fight."

"I recommend bringing Team Chaotix." suggested Sonic, "They all hate Sycorax after all. If the armada's with him then Bunnie might want a few words with Finitevus after what happened to the late Geoffrey St. John…" he added, taking a moment to pray for his deceased friend before carrying on, "And also, it never hurts to have Shadow and Rouge with us too. Especially since Rouge has scores to settle with Team Diamond."

"And if Blizzard's awake, we can take her too." suggested Sally, "Now then, I have a pretty cunning plan in mind. Team Chaotix will deal with Sycorax and his trio while we sneak aboard The Nefarious. Once we're onboard, I'll use Nicole to get our way around the ship. We'll find where Cosmo's being held and get her out and then after that, I'll use Nicole to see if we can access the ship's data banks. Hopefully…we'll find the plans for Finitevus's de-roboticizer rifle that he used on Bunnie to de-roboticize her."

"Ah, I see what you're planning that for!" cried Sonic happily, "We could build that thing for ourselves and use it to de-roboticize Tails! Sally, you're a genius!"

He then kissed his beautiful girlfriend on the lips delightedly, earning a giggle of pleasure from the queen and an awed expression from Nicole.

"Thanks true blue." said Sally brightly, "We won't be able to save Tails until we build the rifle but once it's built, we can just go aboard The Nefarious and use it on him."

"I hope my buddy won't be too horribly scarred by the whole thing…" said Sonic concernedly, "So let's do it to it!"

Now they had a plan formulated, Sonic and Sally (who picked up Nicole's handheld computer and put it into her pocket) left Royal HQ while Nicole de-materialized out of the lab and transported herself over to the New Mobotropolis Hospital where all the other Royal Fighters were gathered around. They were seeing the slowly recovering Amy and Knuckles again and just as Nicole materialized into the room, a swirl of pixels spinning around into a tornado that formed into her familiar shape, Amy was doing her exercises again. She was now moving onto sit-ups and seemed to be struggling to do them as well as she could be doing. Everybody stared at Nicole as she appeared before them.

"Hello everyone." she said politely "Now listen here, Sonic and Sally are going to Nekronopolis to deal with Lord Sycorax and his henchmen and possibly the Dark Armada too. They wish for Team Chaotix, Bunnie, Shadow and Rouge to come and join them."

"Understood, we'll meet up with them immediately." said Shadow in his usual authoritative tone of voice.

"Ah'm glad they're choosin' me ta come with them." said Bunnie Rabboh grimly, "Ah owe that ugly armada much for causin' the death of mah Geoffrey…" she added, her face contorting with rage.

"If Lord Sycorax is involved, I'm definitely coming!" declared Vector the Crocodile, "Come on boys! We're goin ta Nekronopolis!"

"Hold on a second, is Blizzard awake yet?" asked Nicole curiously.

"I am now." came a husky voice that startled Nicole.

She turned to one side and saw that standing just outside of Amy's room was Blizzard the Ice Witch herself! She'd finally woken up from the coma she'd been placed in after receiving a terrible headache from the Chaos Energy and she looked like she was ready for a battle. Her glowing green eyes were as rich and luminous as before, suggesting she hadn't lost one iota of power since being rendered unconscious. Nicole was surprised and relieved to see Blizzard standing there, ready for battle and fully awake now.

"Well, that's fortuitous." said Nicole brightly, "Listen Blizzard, Sonic and Sally are taking a squadron to infiltrate The Nefarious and deal with some attacks in Nekronopolis. You're to use a Chaos Control to get Team Chaotix to Nekronopolis and then warp Sonic, Sally and their team aboard The Nefarious. Do you…feel well enough to use a Chaos Control again?"

"I feel like I could use A THOUSAND Chaos Controls and not fall unconscious again!" cried Blizzard excitedly, "Let's go and destroy that accursed armada!"

Nicole beamed delightedly as Blizzard prepared to do her given tasks. The Dark Armada was in for a big surprise now Blizzard was awake and still able to use a Chaos Control for the Royal Fighters…

Over in Nekronopolis, Lord Sycorax, Vladek and Romeo were storming the Golden Hive Colony and they were taking the whole colony by storm. The panicked bees were flying around in a frenzy, not really sure which way they were going and which way was the best way to go. The Dark Armada had attacked the colony before, that time being so they could steal the colony's honey and make Synthetic Chaos Energy out of it. The entire group had gone at the time but now it was just Lord Sycorax, Vladek and Romeo. The three reptiles were all armed with heavy duty laser cannons and they were blasting at any building they could aim their guns at. They had already destroyed some of the honey factories and even the GoldenHivePalace with their weapons. Some of the Royal Guards had tried to fight off the reptiles but Sycorax's strength enhancing arm gauntlets made him far too much of a match for them. He fended them all off easily and began shooting at them to make them back off and fly away. Now they stood before a terrified King Stinger and Queen Bessie, their guns raised and ready to blast them to smithereens. Stinger and Bessie clutched each other tightly, shivering wildly and saying their prayers in their thoughts. They were backed firmly against the wall of a nearby building with nowhere to run or fly. Sycorax grinned happily. This was his idea of playtime, a good chunky weapon to shoot things with and a kingdom to destroy given his unhealthy hatred of politics. He was especially delighted that he had the king and queen at his mercy.

"How I love destroying kingdoms…" he purred smoothly, "And how delightful that I've cornered the king and queen of the Golden Hive Colony. I always did hate kings and queens the most, they're the bossiest, most tyrannical of all political figures!"

"Please vile beast, spare us!" whimpered Bessie feebly, "We've done no harm to you! You have no right to kill us!"

"We just want to live our lives peacefully! Please don't take that away from us!" wailed Stinger "We have a saying here, "You cannot kill innocent people, no matter the reason"!"

"I also have a saying. I. DON'T. CARE." snorted Sycorax, "You filthy political morons are the bane of Mobius! Policy is a disease that needs to be eradicated and that is what I am here for!"

"Say your prayers you dumb bees!" crooned Vladek mockingly, pointing his gun at Bessie's head, "You won't have much left to do!"

Stinger and Bessie both began to sob in fright. Their lives were going to be heartlessly snatched away from them and they couldn't save themselves from their untimely deaths. They could only hug and cry over each other as the reptiles prepared to execute them. But then just as their time had come, a green flash appeared behind the trio and Sycorax found himself being grabbed from behind and thrown about ten feet into the air by a pair of very strong arms. Team Chaotix had arrived on the scene thanks to Blizzard taking them to the colony via a Chaos Control. Blizzard quickly vanished from sight with another Chaos Control, leaving Team Chaotix to deal with Sycorax and his minions. Espio the Chameleon and Charmy Bee both kicked Vladek and Romeo in the face, knocking them aside and away from Stinger and Bessie. Charmy quickly flew over to the king and queen, his face legitimately full of concern for the rulers he'd once worked for.

"Hey Kingy, Hey Queenie, are you OK?" he asked worriedly.

"We're fine thank you Charmy." said Stinger brightly, "How fortunate for you and your reptilian friends to help us in this desperate time!"

"Indeed." mused Espio, "We came as soon as we heard you were in trouble."

"How did you do that green flash thing?" asked Bessie, "Do you have magic powers now?"

"It's a long story." said Vector casually, "Can't explain now, I've got an evil croc to deal with now!"

Lord Sycorax picked himself up from the pile of rubble that had buried him alive after he'd been sent flying into a building by Vector. He brushed the rubble off and he bared his teeth angrily. The sight of Vector was enough to make him see red.

"So…my pathetic excuse for a son has come to challenge me again!" he growled, "Good…I was hoping to have a rematch with you!"

"I can't say I missed kicking your butt either." snorted Vector, "And don't you dare call me "son" Sycorax! I'm not your son and you're not my dad! Never was, never will be! You're just Sycorax to me, an arrogant asshole who needs to get his brain fixed!"

"Pretty much what I was thinking…" sniffed Sycorax, "In that case, I won't feel any remorse when I send you to your grave!"

"Just try it…" said Vector in his usual grizzly tone of voice, "Boys, keep Vladek and Romeo busy. This crocodile cretin is mine!"

"You can have Sycorax." said Espio, "But me and Charmy will provide help if you need it."

Vector nodded and then he stampeded angrily towards Lord Sycorax, his jaws open wide and his teeth bared. Lord Sycorax came stomping towards Vector, his jaws open wide and ready for a powerful bite. The two crocodiles closed the distance between each other with their charges and they both pounced into the air towards each other. Vector was a fraction quicker than Lord Sycorax was and because of this, he collided into Sycorax before the evil region leader could even prepared for a grab. Vector wrapped his arms tightly around Sycorax's torso and brought him crashing down onto the ground. He felt the impact of his attack on Sycorax himself, the crocodile crying out loudly in pain as they crashed. Vector then threw all his weight over in an arch, allowing himself to position himself right side up and then throw his evil father across the battlefield. Sycorax let out a comical cry as he spiralled through the air and careened straight into a pile of rubble, crashing face first into it and sending chunks of rocks flying everywhere. Sycorax groaned loudly, furious that once again, his loathsome son was on top of the fight. He had to wonder why Vector was getting so much better than him at fighting lately. Vector lumbered towards Sycorax, ready for another attack but the anarchistic reptile picked himself up, spun around on his heels and walloped Vector in the jaw with a powerful roundhouse punch. Vector was so stunned by the callous attack that he was amazed he hadn't been taken off his feet. He turned back to face Sycorax only to receive an uppercut to the face. That attack DID take him off his feet, Vector crying out stunned yells as he was sent hurling backwards through the air in a rainbow arch. He crashed down on his back but he wasn't given any time to ready himself for another attack. Sycorax charged towards Vector and wrapped his arms around the crocodile that he was ashamed to called a son. He constricted Vector in his grasp, the Chaotix Detective gasping for breath as Sycorax began to give him a big bear hug. But Vector managed to get out of the crushing hug by turning his head and biting down on the region leader's arm. Sycorax let out a terrible scream of pain as he felt his flesh being penetrated by powerful jaws and sharp teeth. Vector never seemed to tire of biting him on the arm it seemed. Vector sunk his teeth in Sycorax's arm as deep as he could force them to go in. The bite was so powerful that Sycorax's entire right arm went numb and blood poured out of the teeth marks. With no feeling in his arm, Sycorax was forced to let go of Vector. Now Vector was free, the Chaotix Leader spun on his heel and socked Sycorax directly in the snout. The attack snapped his head backwards and threw him off his feet and onto his back where he crashed down, bounced up into the air and landed down flat on his stomach. Sycorax got up onto his feet and growled at Vector.

"Is that the best you can do?!" he growled, trying to sound confident and failing miserably, "I'm just getting warmed up!"

"If this is a warm up then the main session must be a killer." snorted Vector, smirking confidently at Sycorax.

The two crocodiles bared their jaws again and charged towards each other like thundering rhinos…

Meanwhile, Blizzard had quickly returned to New Mobotropolis so she could get Sonic, Sally, Bunnie, Shadow and Rouge and Chaos Control them onto The Nefarious . Having been on the ship itself, Blizzard knew most of the interior of The Nefarious and was successfully able to warp herself and Sonic's squad onto the ship. She had chosen to take everybody onto the top floor of the ship. The dimly-lit corridors of The Nefarious were alight with a green glow as the Mobians appeared in the corridor in a bright green flash. The moment the Chaos Control had finished, Sally turned to everybody in the team. She did her best to ignore the hideous interior of the evil ship as she talked to her friends.

"OK, first we're going to rescue Cosmo." said Sally, "Since Nicole still has the plans for The Nefarious that we got from Captain Metal's head a few days back, we'll know our way around this ship as if we own the place. If we run into any armada members, we fight them aside and carry on going."

"And since the armada's lost a few members, they won't be as strong as they could have been." noted Sonic with a snide smile on his face, "We'll have an easier time than before, especially since Finitevus won't expect us coming now he's got nobody spying on us for him like he did before."

"Yes, well please don't bring that up when we find Cosmo." said Sally sternly, "We don't want to give her any grief again. So anyway, studying these blueprints…" Sally paused for a moment as she looked down at Nicole and studied the blueprints of the ship they had just sneaked aboard, "The ship's lab is on the middle floor and next door to the lab, there's an isolation chamber. Since Finitevus said he was keeping Cosmo in hopes of experimenting on her, logically, she should be in there. As forThe Nefarious's main computer, it's up on the bridge which is on this very floor we're on now."

"We can't do two things at once sugah, we'll need ta split up." Bunnie noted, "Especially if we wanna do this QUICKLY. Finitevus will discover us eventually."

"Well Cosmo will be more comfortable seeing me and Sonic more than anything so me and Sonic will go and save Cosmo." said Sally, "You, Shadow and Rouge stay on this floor and plug Nicole into the ship's main computer. Once she's in, she'll find the blueprints for the de-roboticizer rifle that Finitevus used to de-roboticize Bunnie."

"And we're doing that so we can make our own and use it on Tails right?" asked Rouge, "Well honey, I like this idea. It's a very good idea and we get to use Finitevus's own weapon against him." she added, earning a smile of pride from Sally.

"Ah'll say. Unlike me though, Tails actually needs to be de-roboticized." muttered Bunnie, "We'll be puttin' that rifle to better use when we make our own."

"Excuse me but what am I doing?" asked Blizzard, feeling very left out of the conversation since nobody had bothered to tell her what she was doing.

"Oh sorry Blizzard." said Sally guiltily, "Um, you're going to Chaos Control me and Sonic down to the lab. You've been in it before so you can do that and Cosmo's likely to be next door so you'll take us there."

"And if Cosmo's not in the isolation chamber then I'll just go super fast and look everywhere for her." suggested Sonic, "Let's do it to it guys! We haven't got a moment to lose!"

With their tasks now given, Sally handed Nicole over to Bunnie and she and Rouge held Shadow's hands as the black and red, genetically created Mobian prepared to take off with them in tow. With the map on Nicole, they knew where they would be going. Shadow skated off with Bunnie and Rouge holding on tightly to his hands as he whizzed off at top speed. The moment they left, Blizzard used a Chaos Control to take herself, Sonic and Sally down into The Nefarious's laboratory. The moment they arrived in the lab, the trio quickly ran out through the door and found themselves back in a corridor that didn't really look all that different from the top floor. It was a bit brighter lit down on the middle floor though so they could see a little better. Sally spotted a door that was about three strides away from the lab itself. There was merely a steel door with no features on it whatsoever that clearly looked like the door to a prison of some kind. Sally could see why Finitevus would have this as his "Isolation Chamber", it'd be the perfect room for isolating anybody. There was a keypad on the side of the door but Sally wasn't going to use the keypad to open the door. She didn't know the code and it would take too long to work out what the code was. She instead clipped one of her blue wristbands on her right wrist and deployed the blue energy blade that the band was brilliantly capable of emitting. Sally slid the blade between the door and the wall and cut straight down, severing the lock that kept the door locked shut. Blizzard stepped forward and forced the door open, using every bit of strength the Synthetic Chaos Energy in her veins had given her. As the door was forced open, Cosmo the Seedrian gasped in shock and pressed herself firmly up against the corner of the cell. Sally caught sight of Cosmo and noticed sadly that the poor girl had a lot of visible injuries on her. She noticed the bruised eye and the bruises all over her body, as well as seemingly fresh cuts and some cuts that were healing. Cosmo had been put through hell and back in this little cell and it made Sally feel sick that Finitevus could torture the poor child like this. She felt bad for not saving Cosmo sooner but she supposed it was better late than never. Cosmo had clearly been traumatized by her experiences as Finitevus's prisoner for she seemed terrified and was already expecting the worse, something that made Sonic's heart bleed for her as the hedgehog watched her whimper.

"No! Please, don't hurt me whoever it is!" she whimpered, "I've been hurt enough already! Just leave me alone!"

"Cosmo, it's me, Sonic the Hedgehog!" cried Sonic, stepping into the cell and walking up towards Cosmo, "Me and Sally are here to rescue you!"

Cosmo uncovered her tear-soaked eyes and stared at the person who the voice that had spoken to her belonged to. She couldn't believe her eyes but to Sonic's horror, her reaction was more of shock than joy as she saw him and Sally.

"S-Sonic? Sally?" she asked, "Wh-why are you two here to save me? I'm a disgrace to the team! I betrayed you all, sold you all out to Finitevus! Some of the Royal Fighters have even DIED because of me! And for what? To save my Tails's life, something that wasn't going to happen since Finitevus was just going to make Tails kill himself anyway! You don't want me, you must really hate me for all I've done and for what a shame to the Royal Fighters I am! I'm a stupid, pathetic little girl and you all must really despise me! Please just leave me alone!" she wailed, crying even harder and hiding her face in shame.

"Cosmo! How could you say that about yourself?!" gasped Sally in horror. She practically felt her heart breaking in two just to hear this sweet, innocent little girl berating herself and expecting her friends to hate her like this.

"Cosmo, you look at me." said Sonic firmly. He paused as Sonic sat up against the wall and looked at Sonic. Sonic then continued, "We do NOT hate you Cosmo. We know why you did what you did. Finitevus forced you into doing this. You betrayed us because Finitevus gave you no choice. You didn't do it on purpose. And besides, we were worried sick about you, really we were! Amy's awake and once she heard what happened to you, she's been worrying her heart about you! She wants you back safely with us Cosmo! Cream too! We would never leave you to be tortured and humiliated by Finitevus because of what you did! You're a Royal Fighter Cosmo and you belong home with us! Now come on little buddy, let's get you home and away from this horrible place. What do you say?"

Cosmo was surprised to hear this. Her time locked up on The Nefarious had made her very morbid minded and had caused her to believe that her friends hated her for what she did and that they would never come for her. To hear that her friends were worried about her and had come here just for her really touched her broken heart and the Seedrian began to feel more optimistic again.

"Y-y-y-you r-r-really…mean that?" sniveled Cosmo between sobs.

"Cosmo, I'm NOT the lying type." said Sonic gently, "I meant EVERY word I said."

"I promise you Cosmo, when we get home, you'll be welcomed with open arms." said Sally warmly, kneeling down in front of Cosmo and putting a hand on the Seedrian's cheek to wipe away her tears, "We all love you Cosmo, love you like you're one of us. Our team isn't the same without you."

"Not to mention, we have a plan to save Tails and I don't think he wants to be de-roboticized without you there to welcome him home." said Sonic with a wink.

Cosmo's tears were now replaced with new tears. Tears of happiness. She smiled for the first time since she'd been locked up in the Isolation Chamber. Very touched and feeling warm and loved inside, Cosmo got up onto her feet and embraced Sonic in a tight hug that a little sister would likely give to her older brother. Sonic hugged Cosmo back, smiling brightly along with Cosmo.

"Oh Sonic…Sally…I'm forever glad I ended up on this planet." said Cosmo happily, "You two are among the best people I've ever met. I'm so glad that you're willing to rescue me despite what I've done."

"Don't sweat it Cosmo." said Sonic brightly, "After all, you're a great friend and you make my best buddy very happy. I could never hate you Cosmo."

"And besides, you don't need to be sorry for what you did." said Sally, hugging Cosmo as if she was the Seedrian's mother and she was giving her daughter the kind of loving hug only a mother could provide, "Finitevus manipulated you. And as you say, he was going to blow up Mecha Tails anyway despite you complying to his wishes. You didn't know that. Your actions may have been costly, but they were never your fault. Finitevus is the one to blame and we're going to make him pay for traumatizing you like this sweetheart. We promise."

"Yes…please, make him pay for the scars he's left on me." said Cosmo glumly, "I'm not the type to want revenge…but I really want Finitevus to pay for making me betray you all."

"Oh believe me Cosmo, we intend to send him to an early grave." muttered Sonic, "Now come on Cozzie, let's go home."

Cosmo was all too happy to abide to that order. Sonic, Sally and Cosmo all stood up straight and they prepared to leave the cell. But then suddenly, Blizzard lunged forward and walloped Sonic and Sally in the face with a terrific punch that knocked them both out instantly. Cosmo screamed in terror as the two collapsed onto the floor together but then Blizzard knocked her out with a powerful punch to the head. As Cosmo collapsed, Blizzard rubbed her hands eagerly and grinned a devil's smile. She'd been playing Sonic and friends for saps, abiding to their every order and any given task she'd been given just to fool them into thinking she was still on their side. Now the time was right, she had made her move.

"Yes! Got them!" she cried excitedly, "Now to deliver them to Dr. Finitevus so he can make them pay for their crimes against me!"

Blizzard…stop this. You're being corrupted. Please stop. whispered the ghostly voice of Iceberg in her head. His voice was harder to hear for her now due to the Chaos Energy prohibiting him from having a strong presence in her brain.

"Go to hell figment of my imagination!" barked Blizzard, "I am not corrupted! The Royal Fighters are! Besides, I have only one allegiance…and that is with the great and powerful Dr. Finitevus!"

She began to cackle maniacally as she reached forward to grab Sonic, Sally and Cosmo's bodies…

Footnotes:

 As egotistical as he is, he's not lying believe it or not. See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 7: Rebellious Reptiles

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 11: Stratagem of the Reptiles

 See *The Terror of Enerjak

 Sally's not kidding. They really did! Check it out in Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 11: Stratagem of the Reptiles again!

YIKES, YIKES AND DOUBLE YIKES! Blizzard's gone bad! Sonic,

Sally and Cosmo are knocked out! Shadow, Rouge and Bunnie do not know about this! What will happen next? Will this story have a happy ending or is it going to be a bad ending again?

Join in next time for Part 2...

Dark Armada Part 19: Operation Nekron 2

Story 219: Operation Nekronopolis Part 2

The Dark Armada Chapter 19 of 25

"Accordin' ta lil ol Nicole here, we should be at the bridge right now." said Bunnie Rabboh as Shadow the Hedgehog skidded to a halt just outside a huge steel door at the end of the very long corridor that he, Bunnie and Rouge the Bat had been going down.

"Let's have a little look for a moment hon…" said Rouge, peering over at the handheld computer that Bunnie had in her hands. This computer was Nicole's handheld form and on this little device, Nicole had the plans for The Nefarious on them. Rouge studied the plans for a minute before drawing a conclusion.

"Yep, this is the bridge alright." said Rouge, motioning towards the huge door that the trio was now standing in front of, "We followed the map as exactly and now we're here. That door won't keep us at bay though."

"Indeed…especially since you've got me." said Shadow smugly, cracking his knuckles and getting ready to break down the door.

Rouge and Bunnie stepped back as Shadow curled up into a ball and spin-dashed into the door. The door was strong and as Shadow hit it, he only left a slight dent in it. But Shadow was no the giving up type. He was one of the strongest Royal Fighters ever, being able to go toe-to-toe with Sonic and Scourge the Hedgehogs and also being the one who destroyed Black Doom during the Black Arms invasion of Mobius back in 2143. A single steel door was no match for the Ultimate Life form. Shadow spin-dashed at the door repeatedly until finally, he broke it down. The door made a huge, loud noise as it was torn away from its post and thrown across the room like discarded rubbish. The door now broken down, Shadow, Rouge and Bunnie stepped inside.

The Royal Fighters Service had initiated a new mission. Queen Sally Acorn had come up with a rather ingenious plan to strike back at the armada. This involved getting onboard thanks to a Chaos Control from a Synthetic Chaos Energy powered Blizzard the Ice Witch and doing two imperative things. One was saving Cosmo the Seedrian, which Sally herself and Sonic had gone to do and Shadow, Rouge and Bunnie had been tasked with getting to the bridge of The Nefarious and once there, they would use Nicole to download the plans for Finitevus's de-roboticizer rifle and make one of their own so they could use it to de-roboticize Mecha Tails and get their twin-tailed kid-genius back on the team. The mission was going very well so far. The trio had reached the bridge with no complications and no armada members to get in their way. Shadow, Rouge and Bunnie inspected their surroundings as they entered the bridge. There were a lot of computer monitors and there was a huge control panel for the monitors themselves at the end of the room. Any source of light in the bridge came squarely from the screens themselves, their ominous, white glows making the bridge look a little spooky and eerie in atmosphere. The hedgehog, bat and rabbit approached the control panel and stared at it, trying to make out what they could in the little light that they had.

"So this is the bridge. Pretty boring really." murmured Rouge, "I bet Finitevus gets right square eyes looking at all these monitors."

"All the better to keep an eye out for intruders." mused Shadow, "So where can we plug Nicole into this thing?"

"Nicole, can ya'll give us a lil' more light please?" asked Bunnie, "It's a bit hard to see in here."

Nicole obeyed and a bright green light switched on from underneath the handheld computer. The light was much brighter than the monitors were and as Bunnie pointed it at the control panel, the entire device became much more visible. They could see everything more clearly now from all the buttons to the levers and even the LED lights that would signal if something was one, off or if something was faulty. To Bunnie's delight, there was a slot in the panel that Nicole could easily be inserted into.

"Aha! There's somewhere to plug her in!" she cried delightedly.

"You two get the information Sally requires, I'll keep a look out." said Shadow, turning around and walking off outside the bridge to keep watch for any danger or anybody trying to interfere with their mission.

Bunnie and Rouge nodded understandingly and they kept their attention fixed squarely on Nicole as the formerly cyborg rabbit held the handheld computer above the slot and deployed the device's USB slot. Nicole's slot had a feature that Tails had installed into the handheld computer himself long before the Dark Armada had even fully come together. It was able to change shape and size and fit into any USB slot in the world. Tails had once built a data stick that had that feature and it worked to perfection during the Devatron invasion. It worked again here, the girls watching in amazement as Nicole scanned the slot and then changed her computer's USB slot to be able to fit into it. Now it was able to fit, Bunnie inserted the computer into the control panel. Once she was plugged in, Nicole began to work her magic. She was one of the best hackers in all of Mobius and that was before she'd even become a computer programme. She'd been able to hack into Dr. Eggman's technology with ease and he wasn't even from Mobius. Being how The Nefarious had once been an Egg Carrier, Nicole found hacking into the ship as easy as hacking into Eggman's other devices. Her screen was alit as she began digging deep into the ship's data files, searching frantically for the right information.

"Well this was a little easier than I expected." mused Nicole, "Hold on girls, this could take a few minutes."

"No prob sugah." said Bunnie brightly.

"I will say, she may not be Mobian anymore but Nicole's sure being very useful to us." said Rouge approvingly, "It must be great for her to be able to do stuff like this now."

"It took her a while ta get used to bein' a computer programme and not a Mobian anymore." said Bunnie, thinking back to how hard it had been for Nicole to cope with her changes, "But if ya'll want mah opinion, Nicole's still as Mobian as we are, computer or not. And the fact that she came to accept her changes shows just how strong she really is."

"That really is commendable." said Rouge, nodding agreeably, "I don't think I'd have coped if I was…ahem, in Nicole's position."

"Knowing you, you'd be sulking at the face you wouldn't be able to hunt treasures anymore." chuckled Nicole, her face appearing briefly on the computer's screen as she spoke.

"Hey, less joking, more hacking sunshine." snickered Rouge.

Nicole laughed back and then continued with her work. Bunnie and Rouge stood by and watched with baited breath as Nicole continued searching for the information they required. As Nicole worked, Bunnie began smirking to herself. Finitevus had used the de-roboticizer rifle on her to take away her cybernetics and make her weaker than before. But he hadn't made her weaker. All he'd done was show Bunnie just how strong she really was, with or without cybernetics. She had new weapons to fight the Dark Armada with so her cybernetics weren't as big of a loss as they could have been for her. And right now, they were going to download the plans for the de-roboticizer rifle that had been used on her and then make their own so they could use it on Tails. What a slight against the Dark Armada this would be! It made Bunnie feel excited just thinking about it. What she wouldn't give to see Finitevus's face when they de-roboticized Tails! But then Bunnie had other things to think about. Just outside, the remaining members of the Dark Armada came storming down the corridor and towards the bridge. Captain Metal, Ravage Bloodfang, Raphael the Cyber Husky, Cutthroat Jim, Zira the Ruthless and all four members of Team Diamond. There was Lord Sycorax and his two henchmen too but they were outside down below fighting Team Chaotix in the Golden Hive Colony. Shadow's eyes widened as the armada came running towards him.

"Hey Rouge! Bunnie! We've got company!" he cried out at the top of his voice.

"How many is there?" asked Rouge concernedly.

"Not as much as before…" murmured Shadow, "That might be because Conquering Storm and Scourge are dead and Fiona's gone AWOL, as Sonic and Sally told us yesterday evening…I'll keep them at bay, you just keep your eye on Nicole!" he barked.

"If ya'll need help sugah, we'll be right behind ya!" Bunnie called back to him.

"I doubt I'll need help against such a minuscule threat…" sneered Shadow.

Rouge just rolled her eyes. It was just like Shadow to think so arrogantly. She had to wonder why Shadow thought so highly of himself at times. As the Dark Armada approached Shadow, the hedgehog summoned some Chaos Spears to his hands and he threw them at the oncoming attackers. The spears struck all the villains and knocked them down onto their backs. Captain Metal was the first to get back up onto his feet and he pointed his gun arm at Shadow.

"Shiver me timbers! We have intruders on tharr ship!" he cried, "No wonder Finitevus ordered us to come up here and investigate!"

"I'll give you all just one chance armada. Leave now or I'll stomp on all of you until there's nothing left but a nasty stain on the floor!" growled Shadow fiercely.

"You're trespassing on OUR ship scum, YOU are the one who should leave!" snarled Raphael, "You get outta the bridge now before we break every bone in your body!"

"I'd like to see you try..." muttered Shadow challengingly.

Captain Metal and Raphael both fired at Shadow, the Metal Sonic/pirate hybrid shooting with his gun arm and Raphael firing from his sonic wave emitter. A large cannon blast mixed with a tunnel of sonic waves hurtled towards Shadow but the hedgehog teleported out of the way. This proved to be a big mistake for Shadow for the blasts just carried on into the bridge itself. Bunnie was quick to react, whipping out her handheld cannon and shooting at the blasts to stop them from hitting the control panel. If the machinery was destroyed then Nicole would not be able to get what she was looking for. Outside, Shadow reappeared just behind Captain Metal and Raphael and he kicked the two in the back of the head, knocking them both down onto the floor. The two armada members grunted as they hit the floor. Inside the bridge, Rouge called to Shadow.

"Hey Mr. Ultimate Life form! Keep these clowns away from the bridge before they do some damage!" she yelled.

"Got it." said Shadow, turning around to attack Ravage as the wolf bore over him and prepared to grab him.

While the armada fought with Shadow, Bunnie and Rouge looked anxiously over at Nicole. The lynx appeared to be taking her time in finding the rifle's plans. They hoped Nicole would be done soon so they could get out of here as quickly as possible before the armada could overpower them...

"Well…isn't this a delightful turn of events?" purred Dr. Finitevus wickedly, "Looks like Blizzard is on my side now…better late than never as they say and now she's gotten me a Chaos Adept to test my beautiful Chaos Synth-En formula on…"

He smiled deviously at the captive Sonic the Hedgehog. The blue-furred, supersonic hero was lying against a raised restraint bed and his wrists and ankles were bound to the bed by laser binds. Just nearby, a bound and gagged Sally and Cosmo watched from where they were sitting as Finitevus began crowing over the recent turn of events that had turned in his favour. Sally and Cosmo's hands were fastened behind their backs by laser cuffs and their ankles were cuffed together too. Their mouths were sealed shut with a strip of duct tape. The girls were completely helpless and try as they might, they couldn't get free. The mission had taken a turn for the worst. Sonic and Sally had found Cosmo and were about to get her out of her cell but just as they were going to leave, Blizzard had suddenly turned on them and knocked all three of them out. After doing that, she had brought them all to Dr. Finitevus and Mecha Tails. Seeing what she'd brought and also seeing that Blizzard was wanting to work for him, Finitevus had been delighted and had brought the captured trio down to the laboratory immediately. The albino echidna had been delighted to receive Sonic himself from Blizzard but what pleased him was the fact that his Synthetic Chaos Energy formula had finally turned Blizzard evil. The formula was only flawed in the sense that the positive side had dominated the negative side for a while and upon entering her coma, Blizzard was unable to fight off the dark side of the Chaos Energy. Thus, she'd been corrupted by the evil liquid in her veins and was now on Finitevus's side. Finitevus had lost some of his armada due to recent events and now he'd gained a new member. This day was going better than he possibly could have imagined. He now had the perfect test subject tied down to a restraint bed. He leaned forward and grabbed Sonic by the face.

"You were such a fool to come to my ship Sonic." sneered Finitevus, "Such a fool indeed. You see, my formula requires a Chaos Adept for testing on and you, a Chaos Adept, has delivered himself directly to me."

"More like Blizzard delivered me directly to you." muttered Sonic angrily, "So Einstein, why is Blizzard suddenly evil now?"

"Simple, the negative side of the Chaos Energy has dominated her mind and is now the dominant factor." purred Finitevus, "The overly positive side of the formula caused it to take a longer time to work than it should have done though, a very annoying side effect that has now diminished thankfully enough. Now Blizzard is in my armada and by far my strongest member ever! You heroes really think you can strike back against me but just when hope comes you way...it gets snatched back into relapse and I come out on top once again."

"Finitevus, quick question." said Sonic in an irritated tone of voice, "DO YOU EVER STOP GLOATING?! It's very irritating it's very stupid too!"

"Good, you're supposed to be irritated by it." snapped Finitevus, "Now I must say, it was quite an ingenious plan of your beloved Sally's wasn't it?"

He then turned away from Sonic and strode over to Sally, Mecha Tails and Blizzard staying put to watch over Sonic. The hedgehog's eyes narrowed into an angry scowl as Finitevus hauled Sally onto her feet and grabbed her by the face. Sally glowered at Finitevus, wishing dearly that she could give the evil scientist a beating he'd never forget.

"Yes Sally, you had a good plan didn't you? Use Blizzard to Chaos Control onto my ship and then have a team to hack into the bridge while you get Cosmo out of her cage." crowed Finitevus, squeezing Sally's face as hard as possible, "Well let me tell you something Sally...your first mistake was to bring Blizzard with you. You should have gotten rid of the Chaos Energy when you had the chance. But you didn't. Now you get to see the consequences of your stupidity."

"Get off of her!" snarled Sonic. He hated it when people mishandled his friends in anyway, especially his girlfriend and just seeing Finitevus squeezing Sally's face made his blood boil with rage.

"You're in no position to order me about." muttered Finitevus coldly, "You're on MY ship, I give the orders."

But Finitevus let Sally go and forced her back down into a sitting position against the wall. The squirrel glared at Finitevus with piercing eyes that seemed a little too evil for somebody s noble as Sally. Finitevus turned around, promptly allowing his cape to swish directly in Sally's face and he walked back over towards Sonic. He stood before his restrained nemesis and grinned wickedly at him.

"Because of your girlfriend's stupidity, you're captured and Blizzard has spilled the beans on you." he crowed again, earning a sigh of annoyance from Sonic, "Right now, my armada will be stopping Shadow, Rouge and Bunnie from downloading the plans to the de-roboticizer rifle. You will NOT use the weapon to de-roboticize Mecha Tails Sonic."

"You're making a big mistake now Finny-Dumbass." snorted Sonic, "Shadow has more power in his pinkie than your entire armada does in the whole bodies! He'll curb stomp your armada and then they'll get what we came for and then they'll come to rescue us!"

"I sincerely doubt that considering they have no idea what's happening right now." gloated Finitevus, "And it doesn't matter if Shadow can beat my armada. I'll just get Blizzard to beat him up."

"Send me to the bridge now master! Let me fight Shadow, Rouge and Bunnie so I can stop them from infiltrating your database!" cried Blizzard eagerly, "Please, give me that task!"

"You know what Blizzard..." mused Finitevus thoughtfully, "That's an excellent idea. Why wait to send you up? I can just do it now."

The caped scientist then proceeded to summon a warp ring to his hand and he flicked it over his shoulder. The warp ring opened up a portal to the corridor where the bridge was. Finitevus had decided not to directly open it up in the bridge otherwise the trio of Royal Fighters would likely snatch it and use it against him. Blizzard eagerly ran through the warp ring and disappeared through it. The warp ring closed shut behind him and Finitevus put the warp ring back onto his wrist.

"There Sonic, now your second plan is going to fail spectacularly. And all because you didn't get rid of the energy in Blizzard." the albino scientist crooned smugly.

"Shadow will be enough to stop Blizzard, just you wait!" yelled Sonic, "And once this is over, we're going to get the energy out of Blizzard and use it against you! Then she'll be back to normal and back on our side!"

"We shall see if you'll even come close to achieving that..." sneered Finitevus, "Oh and speaking of getting Chaos Energy out...what did happen to Fiona Fox after I sent her to New Mobotropolis to kill the Royal Fighters?"

"We got the energy out of her and disposed of it. But that just ended up causing Fiona to feel very suicidal." muttered Sonic crossly, "She told us that because of your crackpot science experiment, she ended up getting infected by a Chaos Powered Conquering Storm and she killed Scourge. I have no love for Scourge but because of you, Fiona has no chance of redemption and has likely gone and wasted herself!"

"That is exactly why I let you have her. Without Scourge, Fiona is no use to me anymore due to how emotionally unstable she was before meeting him." jeered Finitevus, "And I do hope that she did kill herself. That way, she won't be tempted to take a shot at me since in a way, I was responsible for what happened to her."

"You're disgusting..." growled Sonic, "And I'm gonna kill you when I get free!"

"Nice try Sonic but you haven't got a killer bone in your body." said Finitevus dismissively, "Need I remind you that I was the one who killed Eggman and not you?"

"I WAS going to kill Eggman before you interfered!" protested Sonic angrily. It was true, he had attempted to kill Eggman himself during his final battle with him on the Death Egg last year. But his conscience had ended up getting in the way and stopping him.

"And yet you didn't." jeered Finitevus, "Now then enough talk."

He turned around, his cape swishing into Sonic's face, and he walked over to the counter where all his science equipment was proudly displayed for all to use. Sally and Cosmo watched with horror as Finitevus picked up a syringe and opened up a canister full of green liquid. The girls knew what was happening, he was going to test his Synthetic Chaos Energy on Sonic! He had a fresh batch after Conquering Storm had guzzled his previous canister full of energy and now it was ready for testing. Finitevus stuck the needle into the liquid and he filled the syringe up to the top. Sally began to panic, the tape around her lips inflating in and out wildly with her frantic breathing. Finitevus was going to turn Sonic into an evil, Chaos-powered minion like he'd done to Blizzard! She had to help him and fast! Thinking quickly, Sally suddenly had an idea. She waited until Finitevus turned his back and walked back towards Sonic. Then Sally tucked her cuffed up legs up to her chest and lay down on her back. She slipped her bound hands over her bottom and up her legs so that they were no longer stuck behind her back. Then Sally peeled the tape slowly off her mouth and positioned herself on her arms and knees. Cosmo remained where she was, willing for Sally not to go ahead with her plan. It was very risky and she could get caught but Sally was willing to take that risk. She crawled slowly and quietly towards Finitevus, making sure that he didn't hear her. Mecha Tails wasn't keeping an eye on her. He was looking squarely at Sonic. Finitevus and Mecha Tails stood before Sonic, syringe in hand and ready to inject the hedgehog. Sonic gulped nervously, staring at the liquid as if it was poison.

"Mecha Tails, would you care to tell Sonic what this formula will do to him?" purred Finitevus.

"Since the formula is perfected and ready for testing, the desired effects will work without fail." Mecha Tails claimed matter-of-factly, "It'll make you stronger, maybe more so than Blizzard due to you being a Chaos Adept already. You'll also be loyal to Finitevus and you'll have no goals in mind...except the destruction of Mobius."

"Why don't you do something smart and test it on yourself?!" yelled Sonic, "It's YOU who wants to become Enerjak! Not me!"

"Fie Sonic, this formula is merely the gateway to my becoming of Enerjak. It won't turn YOU into Enerjak." corrected Finitevus, "And why test it on myself? It's better that my enemies get the side effects and not me should the formula go horrifically wrong. It didn't work so well on a non-Chaos Adept so I need to know how it'll work on a Chaos Adept."

"But I'm positive Chaos Energy! You're negative! Even if it works as intended on me, it might work differently on you!" protested Sonic wildly, hoping that he'd be able to talk Finitevus out of the idea.

"I have a way of making sure it works as it should do on me." declared Finitevus, "Now when I pump you full of this, I'm going to order you to kill Sally and Cosmo. They're surplus to requirements. And then I'm going to use you to kill all the Royal Fighters. And once they're all dead, nobody will stop me from becoming Enerjak."

"You're insane! You'll destroy everything! The whole world even!" cried Sonic feebly.

"That's what I want to do idiot." snapped Finitevus, "The world needs to be cleansed with fire. My plan will see to it that that happens and given Silver and Blaze's dystopian future...it seems I succeed."

He smiled triumphantly as he aimed the syringe at Sonic's neck and prepared to inject the Chaos Energy into him. Sonic began to struggle feebly in his binds, desperate to get free but the laser binds held firm. Sonic was completely helpless to stop Finitevus. All he could do now was watch in terror as he was about to be tested on. But then suddenly, Finitevus straightened up in shock and let out a terrible bellow of pain. He flung the syringe into the air as he did this. The syringe flew through the air and crashed down onto the floor, shattering to pieces and spilling Chaos Energy everywhere. Mecha Tails turned around and saw his master grab his right leg in pain and hop around like an injured rabbit. Sally had sneaked up behind Finitevus and bit him on the leg. So hard that she'd managed to draw blood and leave a very bad wound on his leg. Now Finitevus was distracted, Sally lay down on her side and kicked Finitevus in the good leg, tripping him up and bringing him down onto the floor. Mecha Tails leapt over Finitevus and lunged at Sally but the queen rolled out of the way and quickly pressed a button on the side of the bed. The laser binds switched off and Sonic leapt back onto his feet, relived to be free. Sonic spin-dashed into Mecha Tails and sent him flying away from Sally. With the villains out of the way, Sonic grabbed the laser cuff generator between Sally's wrists and crushed it between his hand. Sally held her legs out and Sonic stomped on the cuff generator between her ankles. Sally was now free and the gleeful queen leapt up onto her feet and embraced Sonic tightly. Sonic embraced her back.

"I've told you I love you before haven't I?" he asked cheekily.

"Yes Sonic, you have." said Sally gleefully, "Thank goodness I saved you before you could be tested on!"

"Let it never be said that it feels weird being the one who needs rescuing for a change." chuckled Sonic, "Let's get Cosmo free and get outta here!"

Sally obeyed and she quickly clipped on her wristbands so she could deploy her wrist blades. She ran over to Cosmo and carefully cut the laser cuff generators binding her wrists and ankles so that Cosmo could use her hands and feet again. Now free, Cosmo picked herself up and peeled the tape off of her mouth. But just before the trio could run for it, Mecha Tails got up onto his feet and suddenly flew towards Sonic. He grabbed the hedgehog and pinned him against the wall but Sonic kicked him away and spin-dashed him across the room. Mecha Tails crashed into the restraint bed, the impact knocking it down into its horizontal position and the roboticized fox lay on it, dazed and confused from the attack. Finitevus picked himself up and used a warp ring to grab a Chaos

Emerald from the bunker he'd hidden them in. He used a Chaos Regeneration to heal the bite wound on his leg and he quickly put the emerald back, not wanting to risk losing it to Sonic. Now healed, Finitevus took out two blue wristbands from his cloak pocket and clipped them around his wrists.

"It was a good thing I confiscated these from Fiona before she killed Scourge..." he growled to himself, "That was a very clever escape plan Sally, but not good enough! You three won't leave here alive!"

"Says who?" snorted Sonic cheekily, "I'm gonna beat the Chaos Energy outta ya!"

He zoomed towards Finitevus and leaped into the air, ready to attack him. Finitevus deployed his wrist blades and charged towards Sonic, blades blazing and hungry for Sonic's blood...

Meanwhile, Rouge and Bunnie were beginning to get anxious. Nicole was still searching The Nefarious 's data banks for the plans for the roboticizer rifle and Shadow was still fighting the Dark Armada outside. Bunnie was getting tempted to just leave Nicole and join in the fighting just to make sure that the armada didn't get past Shadow and into the bridge to stop them from completing their task. But Shadow seemed perfectly alright on his own, he didn't seem to need any help. The girls looked over their shoulders and watched as Shadow spin-dashed Cutthroat Jim up into the ceiling, the pirate hyena dropping his cutlass onto the floor as he was stricken. Unfortunately, Ravage scampered past Shadow and ran towards the bridge. He'd spotted Bunnie and now wanted to eat her alive, his jaws dripping with saliva as he ran towards his prey. But then Bunnie pointed her cannon at Ravage and blasted him away from the door. Ravage was sent flying backwards across the corridor and he crashed into Lennox Meers, the latter taking aim at Shadow with his revolvers only to miss as Ravage crashed into him. Rouge shook her head disappointedly.

"Remind me again who's bright idea it was to break the door down?" she sighed, "It would have been very useful at making sure the armada can't get to us!"

"Maybe we shoulda thought of that before we let Shadow spin-dash it down." said Bunnie thoughtfully.

"Well we don't need the door since we've got you for defence." noted Rouge cheerfully, "That cannon you have is as powerful as your old cannon, nobody's getting past that."

"Aw thanks sugah." said Bunnie brightly.

Rouge beamed and then glanced over at Nicole only to get a pleasant surprise, something that she wanted to receive for a change in this persistent fight with the Dark Armada over the past few days. No more scrambling through data was displayed on the screen and Nicole's digital face was beaming delightedly, meaning that she'd found what she was looking for at last.

"Got it!" she announced happily, "The plans for the rifle at least! Commencing download."

"Great job honey." said Rouge in applause, "Download that thing as fast as you can."

Nicole got to work immediately. Her face disappeared and was replaced with the words "Download Commencing..." on her computer screen. The bar icon just under the words was beginning to fill at a relatively quick pace. It had been a job finding the plans thanks to The Nefarious's enormous database but downloading was going considerably quicker than the searching itself. Rouge watched delightedly as the download was commencing. It felt good to have things going the Royal Fighters' way for once. But outside, things were about to take a very bad turn for the worst. Blizzard had arrived on the scene and was running towards Shadow. The Dark Armada saw him coming and they braced themselves, expecting Blizzard to jump in on the fight and attack them. But Blizzard instead summoned a Chaos Spear to her hands and threw it not at any of the armada members, but at Shadow. The spear struck Shadow in the chest and sent him flying across the room. He crashed down just at the foot of the door way to the bridge. Bunnie let out a shriek of horror that made Rouge jumped behind her. She turned around and saw Shadow pick herself up as Blizzard summoned some Chaos Energy icicles to her hands.

"Blizzard you crazy loon! Why did you just attack me?!" snarled Shadow, "I thought you're on our side!"

"That was then! This is now!" barked Blizzard, "I'm with Finitevus now and I'm supposed to stop you from getting any sensitive information from the ship's data banks!"

"Well then traitor...looks like you're on my list of people to beat up." growled Shadow.

"Wait sugah, don't hurt her too badly!" cried Bunnie frantically, "If might just be the Chaos Energy Finitevus gave her that's making her evil! We have ta subdue her so we can bring her home and get rid of the energy!"

"I doubt she'll come quietly..." muttered Shadow grimly, "I'll have to use force to bring her down..."

"And I'll help out." declared Rouge, abandoning Nicole so she could fight Blizzard with Shadow, "With that Chaos Energy, she floored Finitevus, you won't handle her on your own."

"For once, I'm happy to accept your aid." said Shadow with his usual grim facial expression.

Bunnie on the other hand decided to stay guarding the door to keep the armada away from the bridge. Nicole wasn't finished downloading the data yet although she didn't have long to go so Bunnie wouldn't have to guard the little computer for long. Just a couple more minutes and Nicole would be done. As Bunnie guarded the door, Shadow and Rouge both charged towards Blizzard. The Ice Witch held up her hands, ready to initiate a Chaos Control but Shadow was a fraction too quick for her. He curled into a spiky ball and rammed straight into her gut. The spin-dash took her clean off her feet and as Shadow kept on doing, he ended up taking Blizzard far down the corridor until eventually, he uncurled from his spin-dash and grabbed Blizzard by the torso. He crashed down onto the floor with Blizzard beneath him, bounded up in the air and then threw her across the corridor. That one spin-dash had cleared half of the whole corridor and Blizzard was sent hurling down the other half. She came down to a crashing halt just shy of the wall at the end of the corridor. Shadow turned and skated back up the corridor but just as he reached the Dark Armada, Blizzard Chaos Controlled herself back to the beginning. Shadow spotted Blizzard but he didn't stop running. He carried on, hoping to attack her once again. But Blizzard summoned a bunch of Chaos Icicles to her hands and threw them at Shadow. The icicles hit the hedgehog all over his body and brought him down onto his knees in pain. Then Blizzard ran towards Shadow and grabbed the Ultimate Life form by the scruff of his neck. The Ice Witch tossed Shadow up into the ceiling. the blow so hard that Shadow left a heavy imprint of himself in the ceiling. Shadow groaned, feeling like his entire skeleton had cracked because of the attack. He slowly peeled out of the ceiling and fell down towards the floor. Blizzard drew her fist back and then socked Shadow as hard as she could. Shadow let out a terrible yell as he hurled down the corridor and landed down with a bone-crunching thud a few feet away. The white furred hedgehog was about to attack again but Rouge screw-kicked Blizzard in the back, the attack catching her by surprise as she was hit. Rouge's attack slammed Blizzard down on the floor, giving Shadow time to pick himself up and teleport himself back to Blizzard. Just as the Ice Witch prepared to throw Rouge off, Shadow uppercut her in the chin and sent her flying through the air. Raphael and Ravage got the shock of their lives as they saw Blizzard flying towards them and they scrambled frantically to get out of the way. Blizzard hurled down towards the floor…and crashed into Captain Metal instead of Raphael and Ravage. The two dogs gave a sigh of relief as Blizzard missed them but they still got hit anyway, receiving a blast to the back each from Bunnie. As the fight continued on, Bunnie glanced quickly over her shoulder and saw something that made her smile. Nicole's screen was displaying the words "Download Complete" and Nicole's face appeared.

"I'm done! Let's get outta here!" cried Nicole.

"Hey Shadow, Rouge, Nicole's dun got the info we wanted! We can skedaddle now!" yelled Bunnie happily.

"That's good, ugly club's beginning to get too ugly for me now." snickered Rouge.

But just as Bunnie grabbed Nicole and unplugged her, Blizzard picked herself up and blocked the doorway so Bunnie couldn't escape. She glowered at Bunnie with a piercing, ghoulish stare that could freeze blood. It seemed to have that effect on Bunnie.

"You're not going anywhere!" snarled Blizzard, "Hand over that device and I might let you live!"

Bunnie refused to obey and instead, used her metal glove weapon to punch Blizzard in the gut and cause her to double over in pain. With that done, she ran past Blizzard and over to Shadow and Rouge. Shadow grabbed both girls by the hand and skated off as fast as he could, hoping that he could outrun Blizzard. He was sorely disappointed though for Blizzard merely Chaos Controlled after him. But Shadow decided to fight fire with fire. The black and red hedgehog used his short ranged teleporting abilities to teleport ahead of Blizzard the moment she reappeared. Blizzard growled in annoyance and she Chaos Controlled after Shadow as he reappeared a good distance ahead of her. Because of this, the chase between the two hedgehogs ended up clearing much of the corridor a lot faster than it would have normally. Shadow kept at it, hoping that he'd outrun the Ice Witch eventually. If he got caught then the whole mission would be compromised…

Meanwhile in the ship's lab, Finitevus was in heated combat with Sonic and Sally. The enraged echidna swung his energy blades wildly at the hedgehog and squirrel, trying desperately to cleave them in two with the absurdly sharp and very lethal weapons. It made him feel good to be using them. He'd stolen this particular pair of wristbands from Sally herself in a battle last year and now he was using them against Sonic and Sally. Fiona had used them well but Finitevus would use them better. Sonic leaped back in fright as Finitevus attempted to chop him to pieces, growling viciously with every swing of the blades. Sally charged in and clashed blades with Finitevus, a bright blue flash sparking as their blades clashed. The shine was so bright that both opponents had to close their eyes for a minute before carrying on the battle. Sally raised her right arm and aimed a slash attack at Finitevus's head. She was perfectly willing to kill Finitevus now she was in a position to do so. As the Royal Fighters had reasoned, he had to die so he couldn't bring Mobius to an end with his abhorrent scheme to become Enerjak. But Sally's attack wouldn't be the killer blow for her caped opponent blocked the attack with his right blade. The squirrel cursed under her breath. Killing Finitevus here and now wouldn't be easy, she knew that well enough. The two opponents pushed on each other's arms, trying desperately to wrestle the other to the ground. Sally knew she wouldn't win this one. She was strong but not strong enough to win a sumo match against Finitevus. He'd overpower her easily. So Sally instead drove her knee directly into the echidna's gut. Finitevus doubled over, giving Sally the perfect opportunity to chop him to pieces but just as she brought the blades swinging down, Finitevus, pushed himself forward into Sally's gut with all the muscles in his torso. His head slammed into her gut and knocked her down onto her back. Sally was about to stand back up but Finitevus then stood on her arms, pinning them down and keeping her blades away from him. He raised his blades and prepared to cut the impudent queen's head off. He swung his blades but they never hit home as Sonic spin-dashed Finitevus in the back. Finitevus hurled straight into the counter, the impact causing it to shudder and many of the components atop the counter began to topple over. Finitevus picked himself up and he grabbed a class jar. He waited until Sonic came zooming straight towards him before he through it at him. The contained smashed to pieces as it hit Sonic squarely in the face, the shards of glass slicing through his skin and leaving thin, stinging cuts all over. Sonic cried out in pain, feeling like his face was being bitten at from various different angles. Finitevus cackled mockingly at Sonic and he kicked the hedgehog straight into the restraint bed. Sonic landed flat against the bed but he rolled himself off the bed and ran around behind it. Finitevus jumped in front of the restraint bed and he stomped on it, causing it to flick upwards and wallop Sonic in the chin. The hedgehog's head snapped violently backwards as hard metal slammed against solid chin bone and the hedgehog found himself thrown down onto his back. He gripped his neck and winced in terrible pain. The attack had given him a severe neck ache now, a result of his head being so sharply knocked backwards. Laughing maniacally, Finitevus ran towards Sonic and prepared to slice him in half. But Sonic had an idea that would make Finitevus hold back.

"Ungh…hey Finny! I thought you wanted to test your formula on me!" sneered Sonic, ignoring the agonizing pain in his neck long enough to speak.

Finitevus did hold back but he gave Sonic a surprising answer.

"You forget, Shadow is on this ship too according to my newest member…" purred Finitevus, "I can just use it on him instead. You're not that compulsory."

"Yeah and what if you can't catch him?" noted Sonic, "You may as well just use me while you've got me haven't you?"

Finitevus began to think for a moment about the pressing thought. But Finitevus should have known better than to allow himself to be stalled like this. He had now left himself wide open for an attack from Sally. The furious, determined queen ran towards Finitevus, blades raised and ready to cut him to pieces. But the albino echidna heard Sally coming and he quickly threw a warp ring into her path. Sally couldn't stop herself in time and thus, the red haired squirrel ended up running through the warp ring. It reopened just above Sonic, the hedgehog crying out in shock as Sally ended up crashing down on top of him. While she was down, Finitevus now prepared to cut her to pieces. But just as he prepared to slice her up, Cosmo ran in behind Finitevus and grabbed him by the cape. She tugged on it as hard as she could, the cape now wrapping itself around the scientist's neck and pulling him back. Finitevus gagged and choked as the cape now pulled around his Adam's apple. He tugged back on the cape, pulling Cosmo down onto the floor but the Seedrian didn't give up so easily. She tugged back on the cape but as Finitevus tugged back, she knew she was fighting a losing battle. Trying to win a tug-of-war with Finitevus was like trying to pull a rhinoceros. She had no chance now he was pulling back. But while Cosmo kept Finitevus distracted, Sally picked herself up and prepared to stab him in the back. She never got the chance for Mecha Tails flew in behind Sally and seized her by the arms. He tossed Sally into the air and sent her crashing hard into a wall at the end of the room. Sonic got back up onto his feet, the pain in his neck now less unbearable, and he spin-dashed Finitevus in the back. This attack sent Finitevus hurling head over heels onto the floor but he wasn't down for long. The echidna picked himself up and he charged towards Sonic. Sonic attempted to leap back but Finitevus swiped the energy blade at him and just caught him across his chest. A long thin cut was drawn across the hedgehog's chest and a slight trickle of blood oozed out of the fresh cut. Sonic winced but he ignored the pain for the time being. He knew that he wouldn't be able to beat Finitevus and Mecha Tails. Finitevus was a very skilled opponent and he had deadly weapons that could slice him to pieces if he wasn't careful. Mecha Tails was the one opponent he and Sally couldn't hurt lest they be forced to hurt Tails himself too. He had to face it, the match was lost and there was no way he could win. But he reasoned with himself that it didn't matter for their mission was to save Cosmo and get some important information, not to kill Finitevus. They hadn't been prepared for an assassination attempt and if they kept going like they were now, they could compromise the mission. There was also the fact Finitevus had sent Blizzard after Shadow's team, something that could very much compromise the mission. They had to abandon Finitevus for now and make sure that Shadow's team succeeded. He turned to face Sally and Cosmo, the two standing behind him and getting ready to fight.

"Hey girls, I know it's weird for me to say this…but I think we should retreat." said Sonic, "We have to make sure that Shadow's team have succeeded in their mission."

"You're right, we were here to get Cosmo and get some data." murmured Sally, sheathing her blades, "That's our number one priority. Let's get outta here now."

"Hold on tight girls, I'm gonna go as fast as I possibly can." said Sonic, grabbing Sally and Cosmo by the hands.

Just as Finitevus and Mecha Tails prepared to grab the three, Sonic took off as fast as he could and left Finitevus and Mecha Tails behind with a gust of wind blowing in their faces. Finitevus charged out of the lab after them but as he watched Sonic take off down the corridors, he knew that he'd never catch the supersonic hedgehog. But he did have a way of catching him that didn't require running after him. He summoned a warp ring and opened it up just in front of him. The exit to the warp ring was ahead of him while the entrance was in front of the fleeing Sonic the Hedgehog. But Sonic actually saw the warp ring open up ahead of him and he had a brilliant idea. He threw Sally and Cosmo ahead of himself, sending the two girls sliding across the floor on their backs and leaving himself free to leap into the air, sail over the warp ring and just hook it on the end of his foot as he hurled past it. Finitevus watched with horror as the warp ring closed up, now in Sonic's possession due to his catching it. Sonic landed down on the floor and he flicked the warp ring ahead of himself, opening up a portal to the top floor of The Nefarious . But just as he, Sally and Cosmo were about to go through, they saw a surprising sight. Shadow, Bunnie and Rouge came rushing towards them with Blizzard hot on their heels. Blizzard was quite close to the trio, almost ready to lunge at them and snatch them up with her own hands. Quickly, Sonic closed up the warp ring and re-opened it, the portal now redirected to the Golden Hive Colony so they could help Team Chaotix finish off Lord Sycorax. Shadow saw the warp ring and he also spotted with relief that Sonic was the one using it. He could trust Sonic with a warp ring any day so he skated on towards the ring. Finitevus opened up a warp ring and leaped out of it, hoping to catch Sonic, Sally and Cosmo before they went through it. But the trio reacted just a fraction too quick. They jumped through the warp ring and on the other side of the warp ring, Shadow whizzed through it with Bunnie and Rouge in tow. The warp ring closed up in front of Finitevus, leaving him to sail past and crash head first into Blizzard. The two Chaos-powered Mobians collided and fell to the floor in a heap of tangled limbs and a cape. Finitevus picked himself up and he yelled angrily in frustration.

"NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!" he bellowed, "They got away! And they've got one of my warp rings again! Damn those Royal Fighters! I swear, next time I catch them, they will NOT escape from me alive!"

"So…what do we do now master?" asked Blizzard curiously.

"We just pick up Lord Sycorax and then leave Nekronopolis." murmured Finitevus grumpily, "Then we start plotting our next move. What a disappointing day this has become…"

With that said, he opened up a warp ring for Lord Sycorax to use to come back onto The Nefarious . Finitevus already imagined that the egotistical crocodile had failed miserably at his part of the plan. And he soon got the confirmation that he was right as a very battered and beaten Sycorax came through the warp ring with an equally as battered and beaten Vladek and Romeo. They all collapsed onto the floor at Finitevus's feet, the echidna shaking his head in annoyance. Why he recruited such incompetent reptiles like them, he'd never know. He hoped that the next day would go much better than today had done…

Later today, the Royal Fighters had all returned home to New Mobotropolis. After escaping The Nefarious , Sonic and his friends had come to the Golden Hive Colony to aid Team Chaotix and beating Lord Sycorax. But it turned out that they didn't need to for Finitevus had simply given them a warp ring to come back onto the ship with. Pleased that the Dark Armada had been beaten and their missions had all been a success, the Royal Fighters just simply returned home and they were now inside Amy Rose's hospital room. Amy was in her bed, peacefully sleeping and letting the late Mariah the Medicine Cat's healing potion do more of its magic work on her. It was only her in the room at the moment, the other Royal Fighters were doing other things currently. As Sonic and his team arrived in the room, Amy woke up with a start and sat up straight in her bed. She smiled a small smile at her friends as she saw who it was.

"Oh hi guys." she said happily, "You're all back. That's good to see. Did you succeed?"

"We sure did." said Sonic brightly, "Team Chaotix made a right mess outta Sycorax…"

"…and Nicole got the plans for the de-roboticizer rifle." put-in Bunnie, "So now we can build the rifle ourselves and de-roboticize Tails with it."

"We also have a warp ring that we can use against Finitevus." said Shadow, smirking over the thought of using the potent device against the evil echidna.

"And we won't lose it this time." declared Sally, "And best of all Amy…"

She didn't need to say anything more. She just stepped aside and let Amy see who was standing behind her. The hedgehog put her hands to her mouth in shock at who it was. Cosmo the Seedrian was standing before her, hands behind her back and a sweet smile on her face. The pink hedgehog's eyes streamed with happy tears as Cosmo climbed onto her bed and hugged her tightly, crying happily with her.

"Oh Cosmo! Thank goodness you're back!" Amy wept with delight, "I was so worried about you! When I heard what that monster did to you and the fact he was keeping you prisoner, I wanted nothing more than for you to come back safely! Thank goodness you're back!"

"I'm glad to be back too Amy." Cosmo cried happily, "It was horrible being locked up on that horrible ship with Mecha Tails beating me up whenever Finitevus was in a bad mood! I'm so glad to be back with you and all my friends! I missed you so much while I was on The Nefarious."

"I missed you too Cosmo." said Amy, wiping her eyes dry and smiling brightly at Cosmo, "Oh Cream's gonna be so happy to have you back! I will say, you do look a little banged up…" she murmured, taking note of Cosmo's healing injuries from the beating Mecha Tails had given her, "But I don't care. I'm just glad to have you back alive Cosmo."

"We're all glad to have Cosmo back." said Sally softly, smiling brightly along with Amy, "We all missed her very much while she was Finitevus's prisoner."

"And now we've got her back." said Sonic, grinning gleefully, "What a good day this has been."

"Indeed." said Cosmo agreeably, "Oh and Amy…it's so good to see you looking better." she added, taking note of Amy's considerably less injured appearance, "I'm so sorry that I became Finitevus's agent. Had I not done so, this may not have happened to you."

"Cosmo, don't be sorry, I heard it all from Sonic and the others." said Amy firmly, "You being Finitevus's agent was not your fault. Finitevus forced you to work for him, he did this to you. It's his fault I nearly died. And I promise you Cosmo, he is going to pay for what he and his filthy armada did to us. Mark my words, he will pay."

"I know…I know he will." said Cosmo, hugging Amy even tighter, "For now, I'm just happy to be back home where I belong. Now I can repair the damages Finitevus did to me and be back with my loving friends. And I'll also pay my respects for poor Geoffrey too…" she added, remembering how the good-hearted, loyal skunk had ended up sacrificing himself to save New Mobotropolis the other day.

"Ah'm sure Geoffrey would' a been glad to have ya'll back too if he was still here Cosmo." said Bunnie gently, "Ah bet he's lookin' down on us from heaven and smilin' happily at the sight of you back with us."

That very image made Cosmo beam with delight. It was good to know that despite what Finitevus had forced her to do, she was still loved and that was a feeling she would always enjoy feeling. Sonic just beamed, pleased that everything had gone so well today and that the Royal Fighters were a step closer to beating the armada. He turned to Sally and put an arm around her.

"What a good day this has been hey Sal?" he asked delightedly.

"Oh yes…we succeeded in both our missions." agreed Sally, "We'll be able to de-roboticize Tails, we have a warp ring to use against Finitevus and we all escaped with our lives so we can all carry on the battle. I have a feeling that we're going to have some more good days to go along with this."

"Yup." said Sonic brightly, "Though it's a pity about Blizzard…" he added, just remembering that the Ice Witch was still with Finitevus, "We'll have to plan on how we're going to rescue her at some point."

"And we'll need a syringe ready to get the Chaos Energy out of her." noted Sally, "Still, today's been one of our better victories. We best make the most of it while we can. And hope that we'll have some more victories to go alone with this one…"

Sonic nodded agreeably. This had been a great victory and with any luck, today would be topped by more victories in the next few days. And the next victories would hopefully be total victories for them and nothing for the Dark Armada too…

Yay! The heroes scored a big victory for once! :D Will it carry on though or will the armada strike back hard? We shall see who wins next time in Chapter 220...prepare yourselves for a* "Betrayal and Redemption" *...

Dark Armada Part 20: Betrayal & Redemp

Story 220: Betrayal and Redemption

The Dark Armada Chapter 20 of 25

Roxy the Raccoon groaned a long, sickly, repulsed groan as Lennox Meers the Meerkat approached her, grinning wickedly and rubbing his hands together, clearly ready to have his usual brand of "fun" with her. It was fun for the sick, twisted meerkat but not fun for the poor, bruised raccoon he had at his mercy. Once again, Roxy was in Lennox's dorm room and tied up to an overhead pipe, her arms raised and fastened together with a zip-tie and she was stripped to her underwear as usual. It never ceased to embarrass her every time it happened. It was a very vulnerable position her or indeed anybody to be in, arms firmly tied above the head and the body clad in just a skimpy bra and panties. But Roxy knew that it was part of Lennox's sick little game with her. A game to dominate and humiliate her at the best available opportunity until she had no choice but to submit to him and be his girl forever.

The Dark Armada had not been having a good time recently. Just over the course of one day, they had been betrayed by the Bride of the Conquering Storm and an experiment gone wrong had caused the armada to lose Scourge the Hedgehog and Fiona Fox. The armada had lesser numbers now and that seemed to be costing it dearly. Dr. Finitevus had hoped to strike back with an attack in Nekronopolis and while he now had Blizzard the Ice Witch on his side, that wasn't much of a victory considering that the Royal Fighters had escaped his grasp and with very important information to boot no less. They had downloaded the plans for the de-roboticizer rifle, an invention that Finitevus had created for the sole purpose of de-roboticizing Bunnie Rabbot, to which he'd successfully done and then destroyed the weapon to prevent it from falling into enemy hands. Finitevus had also lost a warp ring to Sonic, something that he REALLY didn't want to lose to his mortal enemies. He'd been planning on getting it back but as a result of the armada's defeats and some damages that needed repairing, he had spent most of the day recuperating from the armada's latest defeat. It was now a brand new day and Finitevus was likely plotting the best way possible to get his warp ring back. While he was doing that, Lennox was having some alone time with his beloved Roxy, much to the raccoon's disgust. Anytime Lennox and Roxy weren't on a mission, Lennox was having his fun with her. His idea of "fun" seemed to be to groom and molest the purple-furred raccoon while she begged for him to stop. And being as she was tied up, Roxy couldn't fight back. She was helpless whenever Lennox's fun began. His fun also included some physical abuse which had begun to show under her eyes and Lennox took it open himself to give Roxy some very ugly hickeys on her throat. When applying them, he deliberately did it as painfully as possible which led to Roxy wondering if she'd been bitten by a vampire on more than one occasion. Lennox's fun also left her feeling very tired, drained and in agonizing pain, especially in her groin area whenever it ended. It had been a terrible life for Roxy but the raccoon had no choice. She had a bomb stitched inside her head. A small round disc sitting just atop her brain and waiting for somebody to give it the command to explode. Only Finitevus, Lennox or his two friends Owen and Alistair were able to set the bomb off and as life went on, Roxy began wishing Lennox would just put her out of her misery already. She'd rather be dead then be Lennox's little toy for life. But she also knew the easy way out wouldn't improve things for her, it just made her pathetic and cowardly. She wanted to improve her life from the crimes she did as a member of Team Diamond and she couldn't do that if she was dead. So she didn't give Lennox an excuse to set the bomb off and just waited for the right moment to strike, to pay the meerkat back and to get back her freedom. But the opportunity just wouldn't present itself to her and she was beginning to lose all hope.

Roxy waited for Lennox to come up to her and she could already feel his gloved hands on her scantily clad body before he even raised them and prepared to put them on her. The treasure-hunting criminal places his hands on Roxy's hips, staring straight into the defiant raccoon's eyes as he grinned wickedly.

"I hope you're ready Roxy, it's that time of day again." he purred seductively, "Play time for Lennox Meers."

"I'm very excited." muttered Roxy sarcastically, "Why do you do this to me you sick bastard? You do realize that abusing me like this isn't going to make me like you right?"

"I don't want you to like me my girl…" said Lennox coldly, lowering his head so her level with Roxy's neck, "I just want you to respect me. You're my girl now and you'll respect your master. I do hope that you're coming to accept your place as my dominated moll."

"Yeah right, I'll accept my place as your dominated moll…when I'm dead that is." snorted Roxy, "As long as I live, I'll NEVER be dominated by you."

"You will Roxy…you will." crooned Lennox softly.

He then placed his slimy lips on Roxy's neck and gave her a little nibble, making the raccoon cringe in pain and disgust. It felt like he was trying to suck her blood like a vampire.

"OW! That hurts! Stop that!" she wailed frantically.

Lennox didn't stop, he just bit down on the side of her neck even harder, making Roxy squeal loudly in pain. He bit her so hard that he left some very nasty teeth marks on her neck. Lennox just chuckled sadistically at the raccoon.

"You're so much fun when you squeal." he snickered wickedly.

"Look Lennox, abusing me like this doesn't make you tough or anything! It shows how pathetic you are!" snapped Roxy angrily, "You're picking on a defenceless, helpless girl! What's so great about doing that? I bet if you were against girls like those in the Royal Fighters Service, you'd be running away with your tail between your legs!"

"Fie, I'd have a bullet put in their brains more like." snorted Lennox, "Now be quiet before I decide to tape your mouth shut again!"

"You may as well do it to me anyway." sighed Roxy, "You don't care what I have to say. You think women should be seen and not heard."

Lennox ran his hand down Roxy's side and he pinched her in the belly. The raccoon gritted her teeth and held her pain as best as she could as Lennox gripped the skin on her belly and vigorously twisted it with his forefinger and thumb. The look on her face made him feel very happy indeed. He loved seeing his beloved Roxy in pain. He just hoped the raccoon would get sick of it eventually and just give into him already. But to his disappointment, his fun was interrupted by Finitevus using a warp ring to warp himself over into his dorm room. This was the first time he'd done this and the fact that somebody other than Lennox was now seeing her in her underwear, Roxy blushed bright red with embarrassment. Finitevus just stared ahead of himself in obfuscation, unsure what to think of what he was seeing. Lennox turned around, looking as guilty as a man who'd been caught doing something inappropriate in a working environment. Finitevus just narrowed his eyes at Lennox and folded his arms.

"OK…ahem…I shall pretend I don't know what's going on so I can deliver to you this imperative bit of news." he said tightly, ignoring Roxy and focusing squarely on Lennox, "I do hope you're not too busy fooling around with your scantily clad girlfriend Lennox for I have a job for you and Roxy."

"Whoa me? And Roxy? What an honour this is." said the hat-wearing meerkat delightedly, "So…what do you want us to do?"

"I want you two to take one of my warp rings, go to New Mobotropolis and get back the warp ring I lost to Sonic yesterday." ordered Finitevus, "Do NOT come back to me empty handed. Oh and if the heroes have built a de-roboticizer rifle yet…destroy it."

"I will do just that." said Lennox loyally, "But would it make more sense if my whole team went and not just me and Roxy?"

"Miniscule numbers are harder to detect than larger numbers." said Finitevus matter-of-factly.

"Hey, sorry for speaking my mind for a change but why not use Blizzard?" asked Roxy curiously, "She could just a Chaos Control thingy and freeze everybody right?"

"I'm afraid Blizzard is not available right now." said Finitevus grumpily, "The stupid woman picked an inconvenient moment to pass out. The Chaos Energy is obviously having a bad effect on her so I'm going to try and make sure she can function with it in her body and NOT pass out again."

"I see." said Lennox, "Very well, we'll do just that."

"Fail me, and Roxy will have more than just you to worry about…and Roxy will also not be the only one with bruises on her." growled Finitevus menacingly.

Lennox and Roxy both gulped in fear. The last thing either of them wanted was an angry Finitevus punishing them for failing. They'd seen what he'd done to the late Scourge the Hedgehog just for failing and they didn't want to know what would happen to them should they dare fail Finitevus. The consequences could potentially be WORSE than what Scourge had gone through. Lennox bowed down to Finitevus.

"We won't fail you Finitevus, neither me nor Roxy. That warp ring will be returned to you and the Royal Fighters' rifle will be destroyed, that much is certain." Lennox swore.

"Good." said Finitevus grimly, "The Dark Armada can scarcely afford to have a loss as catastrophic as yesterday's…"

With that said, he gave Lennox a warp ring and left the room through another one of his own warp rings. The moment Finitevus left, Lennox put the warp ring into his cloak and he turned to face Roxy. He jammed his face into the raccoon's face, making her feel very uncomfortable.

"We have a job to do my little pet…and you better not try and double-cross me or I'll set the bomb off in your head. Capisce?" growled Lennox menacingly.

"Oh please, I'd rather keep my head thank you." muttered Roxy, "Now please untie me so I can get dressed up for the mission."

Lennox proceeded to do just that. The last thing he wanted was for Roxy to attract some attention, possibly unwanted and very awkward attention and thus, blowing their cover for the mission. Lennox reached up to Roxy's wrists and he undid the zip-tie. Roxy lowered her arms but then just before Lennox could do anything, the raccoon grabbed him by the shoulders and suddenly head-butted him directly between the eyes! The meerkat didn't even make a sound as Roxy swiftly knocked him out with the powerful blow to the head she'd inflicted on him. Roxy left Lennox to collapse onto the floor, completely unconscious before she got to work. Finitevus had given her the opportunity she needed to get her freedom back. The opportunity had come to her in the form of a mission involving her and a warp ring. Now the bodacious raccoon had just knocked Lennox out, she proceeded to tie him up with the zip-tie that had been used so often on her own wrists. Lennox was now propped up by his arms, the zip-tie biting into his wrists as he slouched against the wall. Roxy snickered to herself. How great it was to have Lennox tied up for once while she was free! She felt very excited. Finally, she was going to be free from the armada! All her nightmares would be over at last and she could be the good girl she wanted to be! No more abuse from Lennox and no more slaving for the armada just to keep her head! She was free at last! Roxy could hardly contain her joy as she thought about her brilliant her escape plan was. She then quickly grabbed a roll of duct tape and taped Lennox's mouth shut so that he wouldn't be able to cry for help when he came to. With her abused bound and gagged, Roxy took a moment to get herself dressed. She did not want to be skulking around in her underwear a moment longer, especially when it came to meeting the Royal Fighters. She quickly got out her bodysuit, boots and gloves and wasted no time getting them on. Now fully dressed, she snatched the warp ring from Lennox's cloak and stuck her tongue out at him.

"You really thought you'd beaten me…you REALLY did." she taunted, "Now you're gonna pay you gun-slinging bastard!"

With a sly grin, she flicked the warp ring over her shoulder and opened up a portal to NewMobotropolis. Having been there before, she knew what it looked like and was able to open a portal there with ease. Once there, she would tell Sonic the truth and get the bomb removed from her head. And once that was done, she'd make Lennox pay for all he'd done to her. Roxy turned her back hastily on Lennox and jumped through the warp ring, leaving the unconscious meerkat bound and gagged in the room as the warp ring closed up behind her…

"Here it is Sonic and Sally, the de-roboticizer rifle all built and ready for de-roboticizing." announced Kari the Rat excitedly, presenting to Sonic the Hedgehog and Queen Sally Acorn a huge rifle that was silver in colour and designed like a standard sniper rifle.

"Me and Kari worked endlessly on that." said Jessica the Cougar, taking some sort of pride in the fact she and Kari in particular had been the ones who built it, "And now it's ready. We can now save our fellow friend Tails from Finitevus's evil control."

The Royal Fighters had had one of the first good days in a while since the war with the Dark Armada had begun. Yesterday, they'd successfully carried out a mission to save Cosmo the Seedrian from Finitevus's captivity and also downloaded the plans to the mad doctor's de-roboticizer rifle. Finitevus had built it to de-roboticize Bunnie Rabbot and had destroyed it before the heroes could get it for themselves but Sally had come up with the genius idea to steal the plans for the rifle and use them to create their own copy of the rifle and use it to de-roboticize Tails. The twin-tailed child prodigy was a credit to the Royal Fighters Service, being a great inventor and mechanic as well as being an amazing friend to anybody who knew him, especially Sonic himself and also being the boyfriend of Cosmo the Seedrian. Cosmo herself as with Sonic and Sally and she was delighted to see the one-way ticked to Tails being saved that the heroes now had displayed before them in Kari and Jessica's own hands. Kari and Jessica had been given the task of building the rifle since they were good at building things, the best they had without Tails on the team at the moment. Now the next day, they had finished it and were presenting it to Hero of Mobius and Queen of New Mobotropolis themselves. They were all standing just outside of Royal HQ. Sonic and Sally beamed delightedly at the sight of the completed weapon they had before them. Sonic himself was about to go wild with excitement. They could finally save Tails and get him back! And because they had a warp ring from Finitevus in their possession, the mission would be easy now! They could warp straight onto The Nefarious and just use the rifle on Tails!

"Gotta say ladies, it looks great." said Sonic happily, "I bet it'll work perfectly."

"Oh we gave it a shot and it fires perfectly." said Kari proudly, "And I'm very sure that it'll work on Mecha Tails and turn him back to normal."

"One way to find that out." said Sonic brightly, "We'll go over to The Nefarious and use it on Mecha Tails! Then it'll be bye-bye Mecha Tails and welcome back Tails!"

"Provided it works that is…" murmured Sally worriedly, "But then again, it worked for Finitevus so why wouldn't it work for us? We followed his plans as exactly and given they're HIS plans for a weapon HE created, there's no guarantee it won't work." she thought, feeling less anxious now.

"You got that right Sal." said Sonic happily, "It'll work and Tails will finally be back with us again. I can't tell you how much I've missed my little buddy. This team really did feel incomplete without him…" he sighed sadly.

"And ever since he was roboticized, there's been a hole in my heart that cannot be filled without his return." said Cosmo solemnly, "But we'll get him back at last. I can't wait to see my adorable little fox again."

"There's many others who will go ballistic with glee upon his return too, namely Sora Prower." noted Sonic, "So Sal, when do we go to de-roboticize Tails?"

"In a moment Sonic." said Sally, "We'll get going as soon as we're ready."

"We'll just go and tell everybody the good news." offered Jessica, "They'll be so glad to hear that Tails will be coming home soon."

"Sure ladies, go ahead." said Sonic, taking the rifle from the cougar and rat.

Kari and Jessica nodded and they left to tell the other Royal Fighters the good news. As they left, Sonic turned to Sally and Cosmo.

"OK Sal, what are we waiting for?" asked Sonic impatiently, "I've got my ten year old best friend to save!"

"Remember the Chaos Energy we extracted from Fiona?" asked Sally, "Well thanks to a power ring, me and Nicole have managed to make a more positive formula and we now have a safe-to-use Synthetic Chaos Energy of our own to use against Finitevus. I plan to use another power ring in the formula just to make it EVEN MORE positive as a just in case."

"Well let's hope we won't turn evil later on with it like poor Blizzard has done…" said Sonic sadly, "Speaking of her, do we plan on rescuing her at any point because I sure want her back good. She made me proud after turning against her evil deeds and wanting to be good and Finitevus has just undermined all that."

"We won't make Blizzard's heel-turn in vain." promised Sally, "We'll rescue her. For now, we take it one step at a time. We'll save Tails first and save Blizzard for later. And I assure your, the Chaos Energy we now have has no negative Chaos Energy left after using that power ring. Nicole scanned it herself to reassure me that was the case."

"And my scans are NEVER wrong." added Nicole, suddenly materializing into view beside Sally.

"So maybe at some point, we could use it against Finitevus. Great!" cried Sonic excitedly, "I bet we'll floor him when we power ourselves up with it!"

"Indeed." said Sally, "Now I've given you the news, we can get going…"

Before anybody could make a move, a voice called out to them and startled the four Mobians. The voice startled Sonic and Cosmo more than anybody for they knew all too well who that voice belonged to and it was a voice they hadn't expected to hear anytime soon. The Mobians looked over at where the voice had come from and to their surprise, they saw Roxy the Raccoon running up the hill to meet them. Sonic's blood began to boil with rage. Roxy had told him that she hated Team Diamond and wanted to betray them so he helped her do just that. And then Roxy had told him in his first battle with the armada that she had played him for a sap the whole time and had willingly joined the armada. The last time Cosmo had seen Roxy, she had been trying to protect her along with Tails only for Roxy to get kidnapped by Finitevus*. Cosmo suspected something was fishy about her joining the armada. She'd been trying to escape from Team Diamond after they were trying to kill her and then suddenly she joins the armada along with Team Diamond. Had what she and Tails gone through been an act too? She didn't know what to think. Roxy ran up to the top of the hill and stopped in front of Sonic, panting heavily and pausing for a moment to catch her breath. Sally, who was mostly unfamiliar with Roxy save for one meeting and one conversation with her, immediately took notice of the bruises under Roxy's eyes and the hickeys on her throat. What on Mobius had been going on with her behind-the-scenes? She had a feeling all was not what it seemed.

"Oh thank goodness I found you!" panted Roxy, "I was hoping I hadn't missed you or anything!"

"Roxy! What the hell are you doing here you treacherous bitch?!" snarled Sonic angrily.

"Sonic! We have a kid around!" hissed Sally angrily, disgusted to hear Sonic using profanity in the presence of a child. Cosmo however didn't seem all that shocked as if she had heard profanity before and knew what it was all about.

"Now, now Sonic, please don't be angry at me but I'm here to tell you something very important." Roxy insisted, "Just hear me out…"

"Get out of my city!" shouted Sonic, "Go on, beat it! Get lost! You're one of them! A filthy Dark Armada member! Get out before I throw you in prison!"

"Sonic please, let me explain myself!" begged Roxy, "This is all a big misunderstanding, I promise you…"

"Not interested! You told me yourself that your "heel-turn" was just an act and I feel for it! I'm not falling for your manipulation again Roxy now get lost!" growled Sonic angrily.

"No I won't actually because I'm not leaving until you hear the truth!" barked Roxy fiercely, "And here it is…I HATE the Dark Armada! I hate them even more than Team Diamond and I want nothing more than to get away from those heathens! You see, I was forced into joining the armada by Finitevus himself! He kidnapped me and stitched a bomb inside my head to force me to comply to his needs! I had no choice but to work for him just like your little friend Cosmo was forced into working for him!" she shouted, pointing at Cosmo upon mentioning her name, "Please, you HAVE to believe me!"

Sally, Cosmo and Nicole all looked concerned and even shocked to hear the raccoon's story. It sounded a bit amazing but Cosmo thought the story had some merit. She had seen Roxy get kidnapped by Finitevus so the story made sense to her. Maybe the raccoon was being truthful for a change. Sonic however didn't seem convinced.

"You seriously expect me to believe such an obviously made up story?" snorted Sonic.

"IT'S THE TRUTH YOU IGNORANT BASTARD!" bellowed Roxy angrily, her eyes streaming with angry tears, "You're so disgustingly obtuse you are! How dare you accuse me of lying! Did you really think that a former actress such as myself would really make up a story that crazy?!"

"I would actually." sniffed Sonic, "As you said, you used to be an actress. Your acting skills require you to make up crazy stories like this. Now go crawling back to the Dark Armada where you belong you lying scoundrel!"

Roxy grabbed her chest in shock as if the harsh words had just wounded her very heart. She didn't know that Sonic could be so callous and even spiteful towards somebody. The armada clearly left a very bad taste in his mouth, that much was certain.

"No Sonic, wait, I think she's being serious!" protested Cosmo, standing defensively in front of Roxy, "You see, Roxy DID get kidnapped by Finitevus! Me and Tails told you about it ourselves remember? Finitevus snatched her up with a warp ring! Her story has credibility!"

"Yeah right. Didn't you consider the fact that Finitevus was in on her act too?" scoffed Sonic, "Don't you dare defend Roxy Cosmo! You of all people shouldn't be so gullible!" he added angrily.

"ENOUGH!" bellowed Sally at the top of her voice.

The silence that followed her shouting lasted for a few tense seconds. Nobody moved. Nobody even so much as breathed. Sally had never shouted so loudly before so this had shocked everybody. Sally then broke the silence and turned to Nicole.

"I now how to separate the truth from the lies. Nicole, is Roxy telling the truth?" asked Sally.

Nicole was the world's greatest lie detector, a blessing from her being turned into a computer and having a built-in lie detector. It had worked beautifully during Sally and Sonic's interrogation of Dàfeng Rai the other day and now Sally was going to see if Nicole could work out if Roxy was telling the truth. Nicole observed Roxy all over and then scanned her, firing a scanning beam out of her eyes and running it up and down Roxy's body. Roxy stood very still, holding her breath as Nicole scanned her. After the scan was complete, Nicole turned to her friends. Her face was ashen.

"Roxy is telling the truth…there IS indeed a bomb inside her head! It's a small disc sitting atop her brain!" she gasped hoarsely, "And to further prove this, she has a scar on her cranium from where it had been cut open!"

Sonic was hit with a wave of guilt as Nicole delivered her findings to him. He felt nothing but disgust at himself for being so horrible to Roxy. How could he have dismissed her claims like this?! Sonic began to wonder if his heart had just shrunk a couple of sizes for his spiteful behaviour. He had believed Roxy when she said she wanted to betray Team Diamond so how could he not believe her now? Sonic shamed himself and put his hands behind his back. Cosmo and Sally just glared at Sonic as if to say "Serves you right for being so heartless you big jerk" to him without necessarily using their mouths.

"Oh…oh gosh…R-Roxy…I-I-I'm s-so sorry." stammered Sonic guiltily, "P-P-Please forgive me. I'm really sorry for what I said. I just…I just…"

"It's OK Sonic, I've been known to deceive people a lot before." sighed Roxy, "Even Lennox himself. Sometimes I've doubted if I'm being honest or not…now then, please can you lot get the bomb out of my head? If Finitevus or Team Diamond get me, they can set it off and then…"

"We'll take you to the hospital and get you a surgeon immediately." said Sally, "But I must ask Roxy, how did you escape the armada?"

"I knocked Lennox out with a head butt and used a warp ring Finitevus gave me and him for a mission we were supposed to be doing together." explained Roxy, showing the warp ring to Sally, "As for Lennox…you'll not believe what that psycho's done to me while I've been on the ship. He tied me up, had me wearing nothing but my underwear and he took it upon himself to abuse me physically and mentally at every available opportunity! He…he FORCED himself onto me against my will and because of that, it hurts between my legs every morning and I just look a ghastly sight! Have you see my bruises and hickeys?!" she exclaimed, pointing to them frantically.

"Yes I did." murmured Sally, "And it's terrible what you've been through Roxy. No woman in the world should ever have to go through what you did. I bet you've been traumatized by that horrible meerkat's actions for life…"

"I have! Because of that freak, I'm officially off dating forever now!" declared Roxy angrily, "I never want to have another man fawning over me as long as I live!"

"I understand very much dear." said Sally sadly, shaking her head and feeling nothing but sympathy for the raccoon, "Now then, let's get that bomb removed before anybody can set it off."

"And once that's done, you can help us save Tails!" suggested Sonic, "Give you a chance to redeem yourself if you wish."

"Oh thank you Sonic!" squealed Roxy excitedly, "I'd love to come on your mission with you!"

With that said, Sonic led Roxy over to the New Mobotropolis Hospital to get the bomb in her head removed…

After what felt like an eternity, Roxy the Raccoon slowly but steadily began to come to. She opened her eyes slowly, moaning sleepily as she began to regain consciousness.

Upon arriving at the hospital, Roxy was taken to a surgeon immediately and after a quick explanation about why Roxy was here and what the problem was, the doctors had seen to it that Roxy got her surgery as soon as possible. They had put the raccoon to sleep and worked carefully on removing the bomb from inside her head. The whole process had taken an hour and a half, most of it spent just carefully removing the bomb. To the doctor's relief, the bomb had been a little easier to remove than they had thought. They had expected the bomb to be fused to a piece of Roxy's brain but at the most, it was neatly attached there by a sticky substance under the bomb to keep it firmly in place. The removing of the bomb required the doctor's steady hands and a firm pair of tweezers. The bomb now lay on a counter just beside Roxy's bed, still blinking and soaked with fluids from Roxy's head. After the bomb had been removed, the raccoon's head was carefully stitched shut and the doctors left her to rest for another half hour. Two hours after the operation, Roxy was finally waking up. Her head felt like it was on fire as the mother of all headaches began flaring up in her skull. She didn't sit up, she remained lying down as she regained her consciousness. Sonic and Sally were standing beside her bed, watching her as the raccoon came to. They hadn't seen the actual operation going on, they had been requested to wait outside until the doctors had finished. Sonic eyed the stitches across Roxy's scalp. They would soon fade away and Roxy would have nothing but a scar hidden amongst her hair to indicate what had been done to it. Roxy's eyes fully opened and the groggy raccoon turned her head to one side. She saw Sonic and Sally beside her, looking pleased to see her awake.

"Oh…hi guys." she said weakly, "So…how did it go?"

"Ask your doctor." said Sonic, "I'm sure he can tell you everything."

Roxy turned her head to her other side and saw her doctor standing by her bedside. The doctor was a pigeon who was one of the most skilled surgeons in the NewMobotropolisHospital. It was said that nobody had more skilled hands than he did. He wore a name tag that indicated his name was "Crawford Coo". He looked down at his patient and gave her the good news.

"Well Madame, it was quite a nerve-racking operation but we managed to get the bomb out of your head." he explained, pointing to the device on the counter beside the bed, "I must say, I've never had a case like this before. Stitching a bomb inside somebody's head? I can't imagine who'd do something so evil!"

Roxy took a moment to beam delightedly at the sight of the bomb, now out of her head, before answering Crawford Coo's questions.

"Dr. Finitevus, the leader of the Dark Armada, did it to me." muttered Roxy, "He did it so that he could force me to work for him or my head will go kaboom. Thank you so much for getting it out."

"You're quite welcome love." said Coo briskly, "As for that bomb, I'd recommend disposing of it before this Finitevus fellow sets it off."

"I know exactly what to do with it." said Roxy, her expression suddenly becoming very dark and serious, "Sonic, Sally, you two can go save Tails on your own if you wish. I on the other hand am going to put the bomb to a much better use."

She sat up on the bed and grabbed the bomb quickly. Before she could do anything though, Sally put a hand on the raccoon's shoulder and gave her a firm look. Roxy stared back at Sally. She wasn't sure if she was going to like where this was going to go.

"Now Roxy, I hope you're not going to use that bomb on Lennox." said Sally sternly, "He's wronged you, that much is certain, but killing him won't make you any better. You'll actually feel worse for doing what I think you're going to do. Killing doesn't solve anything."

"Puh, try saying that when you're in my shoes sister." snorted Roxy, "Lennox is a demon and he needs to die. ONLY with his death will I ever be free! As long as he lives, I'll be plagued with the memories of my horrible experiences with him! I'm sorry you don't like this Queenie but I HAVE to do this! I'll never be content as long as that perverted freak lives!"

"Sorry to say this Sal, but I'm with Roxy on this." said Sonic tersely, "If we're OK to get rid of Finitevus then we shouldn't stop Roxy from getting rid of Lennox. Plus it's the fact we show our enemies mercy as to why they keep coming back to make our lives miserable. If Lennox lives, he has a chance to make Roxy's life miserable again."

"But Sonic, Finitevus is an entirely different monster altogether." protested Sally, "Silver and Blaze explicitly told us that he caused the end of the world! He HAS to be put down for exactly that reason! Lennox isn't that bad and if we can convince him we're telling the truth, he could…"

"Wait, what?!" shrieked Roxy suddenly, interrupting Sally and catching her attention, "Finitevus causes the world to end?! What do you mean?"

"Silver and Blaze are Mobians from the future and in their future, they found a book detailing Mobius's FINAL year." explained Sally, "Said final year is this year, 2144. The book describes a being called Enerjak being the one responsible and Enerjak's description in the book matches Finitevus's appearance, only with the Enerjak armour. This is more than enough proof that Finitevus's plan is to become Enerjak and the Synthetic Chaos Energy that he and the armada have been making must be the key element that helps him become Enerjak. That's why Finitevus in particular needs to be put down."

Roxy stared incredulously at Sally, taking in everything she'd said and thinking to herself for a minute.

"But...Finitevus told us that the plan had nothing to do with him..." murmured Roxy, "Then again, I shouldn't be surprised that he's lying. And Enerjak destroys the world...the armada's plan wasn't about destroying the world!"

"Face it Roxy, Finitevus played all of you for saps, every single one of the Dark Armada." said Sonic sadly, shaking his head as if almost pitying his enemies, "It's obvious that you're all just unwitting pawns in his big game. And I have a nasty feeling that Finitevus might actually sacrifice the armada once his plan's complete. I mean, what use will he have for the armada when he becomes Enerjak?"

"Oh my god...and I would have been slaughtered by him if I stayed in the armada!" gasped Roxy hoarsely, unable to believe what she'd heard "Oh thank goodness I got away when I could."

"You have no idea how lucky you are." said Sally solemnly, "But the rest of the armada likely won't be so lucky. Maybe we could persuade them into turning against Finitevus..."

"Don't bother, they believed Finitevus when he told them the plan wasn't about Enerjak." said Roxy dismissively, "They won't believe you. Better to just get rid of Finitevus before the plan is executed."

"Fair enough but we could still try." murmured Sally, "Speaking of which, I think now's a good time to get Tails de-roboticized."

"Got the rifle right here." said Sonic brightly, holding it up for Sally to see, "And you've got the warp ring. You ready to go?"

"I am." said Sally brightly, "Roxy, are you coming too?" she asked, "As Sonic said, you've got a chance to redeem yourself."

"I sure am." said Roxy, "But first, I'm gonna get rid of Lennox. Then I'm going to help you."

She took out her own warp ring and opened up a portal to Lennox's room on The Nefarious . The former treasure hunter began to wonder if Lennox was awake yet. If he was still knocked out than Roxy would be surprised. She'd head-butted him very hard after all. Sally tried to follow Roxy through the warp ring so she could stop the raccoon from going ahead with what was essentially murder but the warp ring closed up behind her. Sally couldn't stop Roxy now. The red-haired raccoon was going to kill Lennox. Sally admitted that after what Lennox had done to Roxy, the meerkat hardly deserved to live but murder was murder, no matter the reason. But if it was OK to kill Finitevus then it was hardly wrong to kill Lennox. Lennox had killed lots of people in the past and was very dangerous so maybe he deserved to die too. Sally decided to leave Roxy to her work and she turned to Sonic.

"Sonic, let's get your best friend back." she said happily.

"Hell yeah!" cried Sonic, "Tails, here we come!"

He then opened up his warp ring and jumped through it with Sally following closely behind. He had opened the warp ring up inside The Nefarious 's laboratory, a very good place to start looking. Now aboard, Sonic and Sally could put their plan into action...

On The Nefarious itself, Roxy was in her former dorm room with Lennox glaring straight at her. The meerkat had finally managed to wake up after being knocked out for so long, his wake-up call being a hard slap across the face from Roxy. Upon awakening, Lennox saw that his beloved Roxy had returned and to the gun-slinging treasure hunter's annoyance, she had that annoying little smirk on her face, a smirk that really pinched a nerve in him and made him go wild with anger. He struggled in his binds, trying to get free so he could deck Roxy for knocking him out. But the zip-tie held firm so he couldn't get away. Roxy just whipped out her trademark baton weapon and she walloped Lennox in the gut with it. How wonderful it felt to be hitting Lennox for once. She could do this forever. But instead of hitting him again, the voluptuous H.U.N.T. turncoat ripped the tape off of Lennox's mouth, making him wince in pain and leaving him with stinging lips.

"How does it feel to be hurt by me Lennox?" sneered Roxy.

"Roxy, set me free right now or your head goes kaboom!" snarled Lennox.

"Don't care." scoffed Roxy, "You won't do it anyway. You won't have your little plaything now will you?"

"If I don't set the bomb off than Finitevus will!" yelled Lennox, "Or Owen or Alistair! Now let me go!"

"No. You refused to let ME go when I begged you to so why should you be any different?" said Roxy coldly, "Like I say, I HATE hypocrites like you."

"Roxy, last warning! Release me now or you're dead!" bellowed Lennox.

"If I'm to die now, at least I get the satisfaction of rubbing it in your face how I outwitted you once again and knocked you out for the second time." taunted Roxy, grabbing Lennox's face and shaking it, "You think you're so smart and yet you fooled yourself into thinking I submitted to you. You're a great big IDIOT Lennox. You really are if you think I'd ever submit to you. Now if you'll excuse me, I'm going to walk out of this room and out of your life forever. Goodbye Lennox...you perverted freak!"

She then followed her sentence with a punch to the jaw. Lennox was more surprised than hurt by the punch. Roxy could punch a lot harder than she looked like she could. The punch had left Lennox with a bleeding lip and some teeth falling out onto the floor. Lennox spat out blood and teeth as Roxy gave him a sly, triumphant grin of pleasure. Then sure turned her back on Lennox and casually walked out of the room. Enraged, Lennox bellowed after her.

"That's it, you won't get away with this!" roared Lennox, "Bomb: SELF DESTRUCT!"

Roxy heard the explosion that finished off Lennox Meers for good as clear as daylight as she walked down the corridor hastily. The explosion was surprisingly loud for such a small bomb and it caused her ears to wince in protest against the noise. She imagined what must have been going through Lennox's head as the bomb she'd sneaked under his hat went off. She imagined Lennox must have been horrified to realize that once again, he'd been tricked, and by her no less. And that had led to his extremely grisly death, She daren't imagine the mess that Owen and Alistair would have to clean up in the dorm room. Just outside of Lennox's room, a huge spray of blood stained the walls and a trail of blood snaked across the floor as it leaving a trail that led to the wall. Smoke drifted out from the room. Roxy cringed, imagining that that could have been her had she not been able to get the bomb out of her head. She was thankful to Sonic and Sally for taking her to the hospital so it could be removed. And now she'd used it on Lennox and with the meerkat very much dead, the raccoon let out a cry of relief, relieved tears streaming down her face but she didn't sob. Her eyes did all the crying for her.

"Finally...I'm free, FREE!" she cried out ecstatically, "I live without fear of being shot by that scumbag at long last! That demon will never torment me again!"

She let out all her joy and relief for a moment before wiping her eyes dry and pulling out her warp ring.

"Now time to help Sonic and Sally de-roboticize a certain twin-tailed fox that tried to help me once...it's the most I owe him." she said softly to herself.

She flicked open the warp ring and allowed herself to step through it and into the room she expected to find Mecha Tails...the laboratory.

Roxy had been right to guess that Mecha Tails would be in the lab for down on the middle floor in The Nefarious 's laboratory, Mecha Tails was there studying the Synthetic Chaos Energy formula. He knew that the formula was ready to use and that there was nothing to worry about but he was double-checking to make doubly sure that the formula was perfect. His scans came out 100% positive. The formula was just right. Finitevus could still test it on somebody. Now who he wanted to test it on was beyond his realm of knowledge. He hoped that his master was going to test it on Sonic in particular. How he would love to see the blue-furred hedgehog become a test subject for Finitevus! Then suddenly, Mecha Tails found himself receiving a visitor. He turned to one side and stared in amazement as a warp ring opened up and out of it stepped not Dr. Finitevus, but Sonic and Sally. Mecha Tails dropped down into a battle-ready stance and prepared to fight. He failed to noticed that Sonic had a gun slung around his back. Most notably...the de-roboticizer rifle. He focused squarely on Sonic and nothing else.

"Intruders. You will be exterminated." droned Mecha Tails.

"Hey Tails, put your hands in the air!" yelled Sonic.

He pointed the de-roboticizer rifle at Mecha Tails and fired it at him. A yellow laser blast shot out of the rifle and struck Mecha Tails. The Robian fox straightened all over as he was hit by the blast and he let out a robotic wail of agony. The hedgehog and squirrel watched with baited breath as the blast did its work. They watched with glee as Mecha Tails's body began to transform from metal and circuitry to flesh and blood. His tails became soft, bushy and furry, his bangs were no longer sharp and metallic, his optics became eyes and his metallic muzzle became furry and now had a mouth again. His hands and feet became organic and his gloves and shoes were now back to being clothes as opposed to his actual hands and feet. The de-roboticization had worked! Tails was back to normal again! The de-roboticized fox fell down to his knees and fainted onto the floor, the blast having drained some of his strength momentarily and disorientated him. Sonic threw down the rifle and ran over to Tails's side. The young cub was breathing softly but steadily and his pulse was normal. He wouldn't be out for long. Sonic turned Tails onto his back and held his head up.

"Tails! Buddy! Are you OK?" asked Sonic worriedly, "Please be OK pal! I've been trying to save you for so long! Please wake up."

Tails lay still in Sonic's arms for a few seconds before he finally opened his eyes and turned his head to one side. Sonic's heart leapt with joy as Tails began to wake up. He'd missed his buddy so much, especially his kind, friendly, loveable face that could put anybody in a good frame of mind. He was delighted to see him back to normal, no longer a robot and with his own body back. He especially liked seeing Tails's eyes slowly open and what lay under his eyelids were his normal, sky blue eyes instead of cold, emotionless optics. Sally knelt down beside Sonic, her eyes flowing with happy tears as she stared at the de-roboticized body of Miles "Tails" Prower. How good it was to see him back to normal at long last! Tails fully opened his eyes and he stared at himself. He raised up his trembling hands and opened his mouth wide in shock.

"Oh…Oh my…oh my gosh! I'm…I'm not a robot anymore! I'm me again!" shrieked Tails, his voice a mixture of surprise and delight.

"Hey Tails! Buddy!" cried Sonic happily, his eyes now streaming with happy tears, "Look who's here for you!"

Tails turned his head to his right side and gasped as he saw who it was that was holding him in his arms and kneeling beside him. The fox burst into tears and threw his arms around his big brother figure, weeping hard into his shoulder and hugging him as if this was the last time they'd ever hug. Sally put her hands to her heart in awe as the hedgehog and fox shared their first brotherly hug in days. It felt like forever since Tails had been heartlessly yanked away from the Royal Fighters and now they had him back. Fate could be so kind when it wanted to be.

"Oh Sonic! Thank you so much!" sobbed Tails, "Thank you for de-roboticizing me! It was horrible being a robot working for Finitevus! He made me contribute to his plot to become Enerjak and while I was a robot, I said nasty things to you all and killed Mariah! I actually KILLED somebody while I was Mecha Tails! And Finitevus made me beat up Cosmo as well! It was horrible!"

"Oh Tails, you remember all that?" asked Sonic, horrified to hear that the heartbroken cub was reliving the events that had transpired upon him becoming a robot. He had hoped Tails wouldn't remember the horrors he'd done as Mecha Tails.

"I remember EVERYTHING!" howled Tails despairingly, "All the battles I had with you, the Royal Fighters I nearly killed, the fact I DID kill somebody, the times Finitevus made me beat up Cosmo and even all the contributions I made to his big plan! It's because of me the Synthetic Chaos Energy is even perfected! If only I didn't get kidnapped! I'm sorry Sonic! I'm so sorry! Sorry for everything I did as Mecha Tails and all the pain I caused! I'm so sorry…"

The twin-tailed genius lost any control he had over his sobbing and was unable to speak anymore. He just hugged Sonic even tighter and wailed uncontrollably into the hedgehog's shoulder, drenching his fur with his tears. It broke Sonic's heart to see his best friend like this. Finitevus had ruined Tails's childhood by doing this to him. The poor fox would be scarred for life and his innocence would never return. And he wasn't even a teenager yet. Sonic patted Tails affectionately on the back and shed some tears along with him. He wiped his eyes dry and put his hands firmly on Tails's shoulders. The snivelling fox stared into the hedgehog's eyes, still crying but sobbing more quietly now.

"Listen to me Tails. NONE of this is your fault. NONE OF IT." Sonic insisted, "It's all the fault of that albino freak Finitevus. He roboticized you, he made you do all this, he's responsible for your evil-doings. None of that was you, it was never you. It was always Finitevus. You getting kidnapped wasn't your fault, neither of us could have foreseen Finitevus coming. He kept us so much in the dark that we didn't know when he was going to show up. Do not blame yourself for this buddy. Mark my words, you're blameless in the entire thing. Finitevus is the one to blame for everything. And I promise you, he will pay for what he did to you. He'll pay for EVERYTHING. For now, I'm just very happy to have by best friend and my little brother figure back with me and all my friends again. I've missed you so much while you've been Finitevus's lackey."

"I've missed you too Sonic." whimpered Tails, wiping his eyes dry "I've missed all of you while I've been Finitevus's robot slave…I'm so glad to be back to normal now. I can't thank you enough for making that de-roboticizer rifle to restore me to normal."

"Tails, you have no idea how welcome you are." said Sonic kindly, "Now come on, let's get you home buddy. A certain alien plant is dying to see you again."

"Yes, please, get me away from this horrible place." begged Tails, "I just wanna go home and see my beautiful Cosmo and my loving sister again."

Sally was already on hand to open up a warp ring and create a portal that led from The Nefarious 's lab to New Mobotropolis. But just as the warp ring opened up, another warp ring opened up beside it and a hand shot out to grab the warp ring and yank it through the other one. Sonic, Tails and Sally gasped in horror as they saw Dr. Finitevus himself standing before them, putting his warp ring back onto his wrist. His face was contorting with rage. He had come to the lab to check on Mecha Tails only to see Sonic and Sally in the lab and Tails now fully organic and no longer a robot. He glared angrily at the trio.

"Well, well, well…it appears my glorious assistant is no longer a robot." growled Finitevus menacingly, "Too bad that your precious Tails will not live long enough to scorn my name and revile everything he's done."

"You stay away from Tails you creep!" snarled Sonic, pulling the terrified fox cub close to himself and hugging him tightly, "You've done enough damage to him already, I won't let you hurt him anymore!"

"I'd like to see you try." muttered Finitevus, "Now you don't have a warp ring anymore, you have no chance against me."

"Maybe not but we have an ace up our sleeves…" purred Sally confidently.

Finitevus dismissed the claim as a mere bluff and he prepared to attack the Royal Fighters. But then Sally's aforementioned ace-up-their-sleeve came into play. A warp ring opened up in front of Finitevus and a purple raccoon in a black bodysuit jumped out of it. Finitevus only just had enough time to register the fact it was Roxy who came out of the warp ring before he was walloped across the head by her trademark weapon. Finitevus cried out in pain and landed with a callous thump on the floor. Roxy bore over Finitevus and glared at him, pleased to have hit him at long last.

"That was for kidnapping me and forcing me to join your filthy army!" she snarled, "Now I've got the bomb out of my head, I leave you forever Finitevus! And don't bother sending Lennox after me…his brain's all splattered across the floor in his room now."

Finitevus slowly raised his head and got up on all fours as Roxy flicked open the warp ring and jumped through it. Sonic, Sally and Tails ran through the warp ring after Roxy from the other side, transporting themselves from The Nefarious and back into New Mobotropolis. Finitevus lunged for the warp ring but it closed shut just before he could grab it. Finitevus stayed deathly still for a few tense moments as he let it dawn on him on what had just happened. Mecha Tails had been taken away from him, Roxy had gotten the bomb out of her head so he couldn't keep her in the armada and as she indicated, Lennox was dead, which now left him with a very small army indeed. His beautiful armada was merely a shadow of its former self. Enraged, Finitevus grabbed the discarded de-roboticizer rifle that had spelt the death of Mecha Tails and he tore it in half with his bare hands. Throwing the pieces into a wall, he bellowed a thunderous roar of anger, filling the entire room with an ominous echo that tail-ended his roars of anger…

Meanwhile in New Mobotropolis, Cosmo and Sora were waiting just outside of Royal HQ. Cosmo had brought Sora to Royal HQ to greet Tails when Sonic and Sally returned home with him. Cosmo had told Sora all about the plan and the teenage super-spy was ecstatic with glee that the heroes finally had a way to save Tails and now Sonic and Sally were going ahead with it. The girls waited with baited breath for Sonic and Sally to return. As the minutes passed, Sora began to grow worried and doubtful. Would the two succeed in saving Tails? Would they come back with him safe and sound and no longer roboticized? Sora couldn't let herself be too doubtful. Like Cosmo, she tried her best to remain optimistic as they waited for the hedgehog and squirrel to return. Then suddenly, a warp ring opened up and startled Cosmo and Sora. Their surprise quickly disappeared though when they saw who it was that was coming out of the warp ring. Sonic, Sally and Roxy all emerged from the warp ring and greeted the two girls happily.

"Hey Cosmo, hey Sora!" cried Sonic cheerfully.

"It's good to see you three back." said Cosmo brightly.

"It's also good to hear that you're on our side again Roxy." added Sora brightly, looking over at Roxy "So how did the mission go?"

"Well I went over and killed Lennox." explained Roxy, showing nothing but pride in having done the deed, "I sneaked the bomb Finitevus put in my head under his hat and tricked him into setting it off. The psycho deserved it believe me."

"Given how he tortured me once and executed one of my friends, I can't say I'll attend his funeral." muttered Sora bitterly.

"And? Did you get Tails back?" asked Cosmo eagerly.

"We sure did sweetheart." said Sally happily.

She and Sonic stepped aside and allowed Tails to stand forward. His face beamed like the sunlight up above as he saw the two most special girls in his life standing before him. Cosmo and Sora put their hands to their mouths in pleasant surprise and they both began to cry happy tears. Their beloved Tails was back to normal at long last and was back on the team! To Cosmo and Sora, it had felt like a million years since they'd last seen him and now he was back! Tails looked as happy as they did.

"Hi Cosmo, hi Sora." he said, "I've been dying to see my girlfriend and my sister again for the first time in forever."

"Tails!" squealed Cosmo, throwing herself into the fox's arms and kissing him on the lips passionately as if they'd not kissed for a millennium or two, "My lovely little foxy! Oh it's so good to have you back!" she wailed delightedly after breaking up the kiss.

"We've missed you so much little brother!" cried Sora, hugging Tails along with Cosmo, "I've been praying day after day to have my cute, intelligent little brother back and now my prayers have been answered! Welcome home Tails!"

"Thanks girls." said Tails delightedly, "It's so good to be back. I've missed you both so much. And Cosmo, I'm sorry that beat you up while I was Mecha Tails." he added, looking sadly at Cosmo. He noticed with relief that her injuries had more or less gone now.

"Oh Tails, I don't care about that anymore. All I care about is the fact you're back to normal and back in my arms!" wailed Cosmo happily, "I'm never gonna lose you again my love!"

"Neither am I Cosmo, neither am I." said Tails brightly.

The two then shared another loving, passionate kiss that neither fox, nor Seedrian wanted to break up. Everybody watched the scene with awe as Tails hugged Cosmo lovingly, wrapping even his trademark twin-tails around her and kissing her as deeply as possible. They both cried tears of joy between each other as they kissed and hugged. Sonic found himself shedding a tear for his best friend. Tails's nightmare was over. He was back and the Dark Armada would never use him for evil ever again. It felt so great to have the fox back home and Sonic could hardly wait for Tails to join in with the battle against the Dark Armada. He had a feeling they wouldn't be around for much longer now their forces had been so heavily shortened and one of their biggest assets was back with them now. The armada would be defeated and Enerjak would never rise and destroy Mobius…

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Raccoon on the Run

---

Awwww! Tails is back to normal and is back home where he belongs! Aww! ^^

What will happen now Tails is no longer serving the armada? Join in next time for* "The Test" *...

Dark Armada Part 21: The Test Part 1

Story 221: The Test Part 1: A Shade of Chaos

The Dark Armada Chapter 21 of 25

The Dark Armada had been going through a terrible losing streak recently. This was a fact that humiliated Dr. Finitevus, the armada's founder, and it humiliated him so much that he was beginning to feel embarrassed just having to report the armada's recent failures to his disciples as they gathered around together in The Nefarious 's meeting room. But the most humiliating thing about all of this was that the Dark Armada had been constantly ahead of the Royal Fighters Service thanks to the unwilling help of Cosmo the Seedrian. Finitevus had blackmailed her into becoming an agent for him and because of her, he knew the Royal Fighters' every move before they made it. But it seemed that revealing Cosmo as the agent had been a costly mistake on Finitevus's part for since that day, the armada hadn't been on the winning streak it had once had. It all started with Finitevus testing his Synthetic Chaos Energy formula on Blizzard the Ice Witch. The formula had been flawed and the dark side of it hadn't kicked in at the right time so Blizzard ended up attacking Finitevus. Then she'd freed the Royal Fighters and albeit at the cost of Geoffrey St. John's life, the Royal Fighters had stopped him from destroying New Mobotropolis. Then after that, Finitevus had begun losing members of the Dark Armada one by one. The Raiju Clan had turned on him after figuring out what his plan was really about and thus, he'd been forced to kill them all just to make sure he made it out alive. He'd only spared Conquering Storm, the clan's leader, and due to the reckless actions of Scourge the Hedgehog, she'd become a Chaos-craving monster and during the fight, she'd infected Fiona Fox to which then led to Scourge's death. Fiona's fate was ambiguous although Finitevus greatly believed that the fox had gone and killed herself after being cured by Sonic and Sally what with the fact she'd ended up killing Scourge, the only one who gave her a reason to keep living after such a hard life. And now just today, he'd lost Lennox Meers the Meerkat to a treacherous Roxy the Raccoon and his glorious assistant Mecha Tails had been de-roboticized and was now back with the Royal Fighters as Miles "Tails" Prower once again. Finitevus could easily say that the Dark Armada was a shadow of its former self now. He only had Zira the Ruthless, Captain Metal, Ravage Bloodfang, Raphael the Cyber-Husky, Lord Sycorax and his two minions Vladek and Romeo, Cutthroat Jim, Owen Pounder and Alistair Drakken left. He also had Blizzard on his side thanks to the Chaos Energy's negative side corrupting her but the armada still seemed very puny and insignificant with such miniscule numbers now. Only twelve people now populated the armada. And to think the numbers were much bigger at first. Now Finitevus felt like the armada would barely handle even half of the Royal Fighters Service with their current numbers. True he could fight Sonic's entire team to a standstill and Zira would definitely keep many of the Royal Fighters on their toes and also Blizzard would send many of them flying but the Royal Fighters still had bigger numbers and the more powerful members such as himself, Zira and Blizzard would be dealt with by the psychic-powered Silver the Hedgehog. Just a simple psychokinetic hold would stop them dead in their tracks. If Finitevus's grand plan was to succeed, he had to move on with Operation: Enerjak Reborn and get a test subject for his Chaos Synth-En before the Royal Fighters defeated the armada and got them all incarcerated. At the moment, he was giving what remained of his armada some updates on their current situation. All that was left of the armada were present, excluding Blizzard who was still unconscious after passing out again. The Chaos Energy had caused her to pass out shortly after getting all the Royal Fighters off The Nefarious and now it had caused her to pass out before Finitevus could use her for a mission earlier today. It was inconvenient for Finitevus for Blizzard was by far his strongest member currently because of the Synthetic Chaos Energy he'd given to her himself. He'd see to it that Blizzard came to after this meeting was done.

"Well my disciples, you may have noticed that we have a few empty seats in this room." sighed Finitevus, looking very disappointed with how his beautiful armada had crumbled down to just twelve people, eleven plus himself, in the span of four days.

"We had a few empty seats yesterday doc but now we have even MORE empty seats." sighed Raphael in annoyance, "We all know what happened to poor Lennox..." he added, glancing over at a very gloomy Owen and Alistair who were seating quite near to him, "Poor dude had his head blown off and his brains spread out all over the room! How did that happen?!"

"Roxy ran to the Royal Fighters and in doing so, managed to get the bomb out of her head." explained Finitevus, "She told me so herself. She then used it to kill Lennox. And to think I actually trusted her and Lennox to carry out a simple task together..."

"No offence Dr. Finitevus but you were kinda asking for that." murmured Ravage with a frown, "You really should have known better than to give Roxy an opportunity like that."

"You say that as if he did that on purpose, KNOWING that Roxy would somehow get away from Lennox and get the bomb removed!" snapped Owen angrily, "Roxy's a master manipulator! It helps that she used to an actress before she came crying to H.U.N.T.! She obviously fooled us into thinking she'd given up all hope of getting free and because of that, she caught Lennox off-guard and...well, you know the rest."

"It was a very grisly sight in that room." muttered Alistair in his usual deep, growling voice, "Not that it bothered me as gruesome is my kind of thing. Although with Lennox gone and Roxy with those filthy Royal Fighters, Team Diamond really does feel incomplete now..." he sighed despairingly.

"You think your team's had it bad, what about our master?!" cried Zira frantically, "He's lost many members of the armada he worked so hard on formulating! I have no love for Conquering Storm but the rest are big losses for us all."

"Indeed Zira but none as big as Mecha Tails..." sighed Finitevus, frowning angrily to himself over the fact his greatest asset was now gone, "Tails is no longer a robot. He was de-roboticized moments ago thanks to Sonic getting away with the plans for the de-roboticizer rifle and making one to use on Tails. Now the little brat can help the team defeat us and as I've said before, Tails is a pretty dangerous opponent given his skills in technology and invention. Plus, he helped to make my Synthetic Chaos Energy! He can give those fools the information they require to make their own and use it against us!"

"Yaaargh, that be a big and unfortunate loss indeed matey." sighed Captain Metal, shaking his head sadly, "That and our shortened number of crew mates will make us easy opponents to defeat now."

"Outrageous! We can still defeat those stupid heroes!" declared Lord Sycorax, "I mean most of us are pretty powerful opponents! Finitevus himself is one for starters and then there's the great and glorious me, Zira, Captain Metal, Ravage, Raphael and Owen who are all very strong fighters in many different ways! And of course, a Chaos-powered Blizzard the Ice Witch is on our side too and she's powerful! We're far from defeated!"

"Yeah, that's real great that it is." muttered Raphael sarcastically, "Eight out of twelve people who can fight well. Big frickin' deal. The four who aren't as good are just annoying distractions are they?"

"The Royal Fighters outnumber us by a long shot!" cried Ravage, "Yes we've killed at least two Royal Fighters and two of them are still hospitalized but that's not saying much! We're never going to accomplish our goals now!"

"Wrong Ravage, there's still a chance that we can succeed." noted Finitevus matter-of-factly, "Once Blizzard wakes up, she'll make all our fights easier for us by simply freezing the Royal Fighters with a Chaos Control. We still have the advantage over them. That and my Synthetic Chaos Energy is still ready for testing. All I need is somebody to test it on and if the test goes well, we can get started with making the duplicate Chaos Emeralds to carry the power."

"Why do we need duplicate Chaos Emeralds?" asked Zira curiously, "We already have eight and a giant Chaos Emerald that once kept an entire island afloat! Why do we need anymore?"

"Because it won't be enough to make us unstoppable." replied Finitevus firmly, "Plus, more Chaos Emeralds means more power for us all. According to Ancient Echidna History, one man could become a god with a hundred Chaos Emeralds. Imagine how powerful all of us could be with a hundred Chaos Emeralds plus the eight we already have and the most powerful Chaos Emerald of them all, the Master Emerald, to power ourselves up with..." he purred delightedly.

"Aye, that would make us VERY powerful indeed!" cried Cutthroat Jim excitedly, "All of us could be god-powered and we could vanquish those Royal Fighters!"

"Indeed." said Finitevus, "Which is why if my formula works as it should on a Chaos Adept, I'll produce enough Synthetic Chaos Energy to make 100 Chaos Emeralds out of. And then we will accomplish our goals. Operation: Villains Rising will succeed, I know it will."

"Good to hear boss." said Owen grimly, "I hope Roxy's still alive when the plan is completed. I want to snap her neck for killing Lennox..." he growled, his fists trembling with rage as he gritted his teeth and fumed angrily.

"She'll pay for her treachery that much is certain." Finitevus swore, "I'm going to go over to New Mobotropolis and capture a Chaos Adept for testing. I'll go for whoever I come across first."

"I bet you'll pick your nephew." boomed Alistair, "Knuckles will be the perfect test subject. And given his arm's still broken from Zira's attack, I doubt he'll put up a very good fight."

"Knuckles will indeed make a very lovely test subject." crooned Finitevus wickedly, liking what Alistair was thinking right now, "But as I say, the first one I grab will do nicely. This meeting is over, remain on standby until further notice."

The armada members all obeyed and they left the meeting room to return to their duties. Finitevus on the other hand remained behind and opened up a warp ring to New Mobotropolis. He had four promising Mobians that he could kidnap for his test. Sonic, Shadow, Knuckles or Shade would suffice and either one of them would be great to test his Synthetic Chaos Energy on. Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles were full of the stuff and given how Shade had grown up with a Chaos Adept, his former master Imperator Ix, and had been guarding the Master Emerald with Knuckles, she'd have plenty in her to call herself a Chaos Adept. Finitevus stepped through the warp ring, already excited about his mission and whom he was going to kidnap...

Over in New Mobotropolis, the de-roboticized Tails the Fox had been met with a wave of happy faces and delighted greetings from all the Royal Fighters in the R.F.S. Everybody had been so happy to see him back in the team, no longer a robot and no longer working for Dr. Finitevus. The New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had been the most happy about Tails's return. The fox had gone to the New Mobotropolis Hospital to meet them for they were all there seeing how the still bed bound Amy Rose and Knuckles the Echidna were doing. Tails's presence seemed to have brightened Amy and Knuckles's days for the moment they saw him, back to normal and all, they greeted him enthusiastically. The New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were all gathered around in Amy's room and they listened as Tails told them what it had been like for him as a member of the Dark Armada. Sonic the Hedgehog and Sally Acorn were right behind him to help him keep his nerves under control for he could very easily break down at any moment. He described in great detail how horrible it felt to him inside, powerless to stop himself from following Finitevus's orders blindly and unable to stop his beloved Cosmo from forcibly working for Finitevus. Cosmo in particular looked stunned to hear Tails describe how he'd been screaming in his head not to hurt Cosmo when Finitevus ordered him to beat her up and yet was helpless to do so as his Robian body obeyed the orders of his master and not his own will. The Royal Fighters all shook their heads sadly, feeling the pain that Tails was feeling just having to explain all of this in heartbreaking detail.

"…and let me tell you, working for that monster is definitely the worst thing that's ever happened to me." Tails finished, trying not to break down into floods of tears again, "If I had to choose between spending an eternity locked in a room with my mistake of a cousin or be roboticized and work for Finitevus again, I would honestly pick the former. It was THAT horrible!"

"We all know how that feels kiddo." said Mandy Mouse sympathetically, "We really do. We've all been roboticized before too."

"And I can say, it's NOT a pleasant experience." said her husband Wilson the Dog in disgust, "Being roboticized, being ordered to do stuff against your will and fight against your own friends…"

"And being forced to hurt them too." muttered Sonic, remembering the time he'd been forced to torture Sally whilst he was a robot last year, "I know exactly how you feel bud and it's truly heartbreaking you had to go through all of this. And all at the age of ten no less."

"Ah bet ya'll will never forget about that…" said Bunnie Rabboh sadly.

"I won't indeed Bunnie." murmured Tails solemnly, "I feel like a part of me has died because of Finitevus. My innocence is gone and I have to live with the fact that as Mecha Tails, I killed somebody. I killed Mariah the Medicine Cat. It breaks my heart more than anybody else since she saved my life once. And I ended up depriving her of hers…"

"Mariah knew full well that you weren't yourself Tails." Cosmo insisted, "It wasn't you who killed her, it was the evil robot that Finitevus turned you into that did. I'm sure Mariah would be very glad to see you back to normal if she was still alive."

She put her arms around Tails and embraced him tenderly. Tails returned the embrace, delighted to be feeling Cosmo's arms around him.

"Thanks Cosmo." he said appreciatively, "As for Mr. St. John, my condolences for his passing Bunnie. At least, from what I heard as Mecha Tails, he died a hero."

"At least he died a hero indeed sugah." said Bunnie agreeably, "And ah'm sure he's lookin' down on us from heaven right now and is delighted ta see ya'll back ta normal Tails."

"Just like we are." said Ruben the Water Panther happily, "We've all missed you Tails, all of us. It's an honour to have you back with us."

"And now you're back, you can help us kick Finitevus's ugly backside!" declared Amy excitedly, "I just wish that I was well enough to jump back into the fight at the moment…" she muttered grumpily.

"Well Sonic and Sally showed me earlier that they got some Synthetic Chaos Energy out of Fiona after she got infected by Conquering Storm." explained Tails, "Maybe we could use that to use a Chaos Regeneration on you and Knuckles." he suggested.

"Good idea Tails. This broken arm of mine's really had to keep me sidelined." sighed Knuckles in annoyance, glaring at the cast around his healing but broken arm as if it was mocking him, "It'll be great to fight again."

"You and me both my handsome guardian." said Shade the Echidna who was sitting beside Knuckles with her arms gently around him, "But Tails, is the Chaos Energy safe enough to use?"

"Me and Nicole used two power rings already." explained Sally, "I got today's power ring just shortly before bringing Tails over to you and Nicole assures me that the formula is safe to use."

"Then what are we waiting for?! Let's heal me and Knuckles already!" cried Amy impatiently.

"I'd wait a minute first, just let it settle for a minute for the power ring's power is still mixing in with the formula." said Sally firmly, "We'll use it the moment it's ready."

"Understood ma'am." mused Knuckles, "You know…how ironic is it that we'll use Finitevus's own voodoo against him?"

"I can just see his face now…" said Shade in a rather devious tone of voice.

"It serves him right for making me help him create the formula." muttered Tails bitterly, "I swear that next time I meet Finitevus, I'm gonna make him sorry he did this to me!"

His sudden change of attitude caught everybody by surprise. He was suddenly angry and vengeful and the look on his face didn't quite look like his own. Sonic could hardly blame his best friend.

Finitevus had pretty much scarred him for life and ruined his childhood forever. Tails would grow up with the memories of what he'd done as Mecha Tails and it would be difficult for him to get over the events. Sonic patted the fox on the back affectionately.

"We all intend to make him pay." said Sonic grimly, "Especially since Finitevus causes the end of the world this year."

"He does?!" squeaked Tails worriedly.

"He does." put in Silver the Hedgehog, "It's all here in this book me and Blaze found." he added, handing over to Tails the book that had given him and Blaze the answer to their question on what had caused the end of the world.

Tails stared in horror at the title of the book. Mobius 2144: The FINAL Year. His heart sank just seeing the title. 2144 was this year and in his hands, he was holding a book detailing how it was the final year before Mobius became a dystopian future that Silver and Blaze lived it! Tails read through the book and upon reaching the end of it, he dropped it on the floor in shock. His face was ashen and he was clutching his chest as if he was about to have a violent heart-attack. Cosmo saw that Tails was horrifically shaken and she was on hand to run up behind him and put her arms around him just to make sure that he didn't suddenly collapse onto the floor. Tails's older sister Sora Prower ran up to Tails and hugged him comfortingly too to make sure he didn't faint. The girls could feel Tails trembling as they put their arms around him.

"No…No…" Tails squeaked, his voice very weak and quiet as if he couldn't speak properly anymore.

"We're sorry you had to read that Tails, but you needed the truth." said Blaze the Cat sympathetically, "Me and Silver are in a post apocalyptic world because of Enerjak and we have enough evidence to prove that Finitevus is the one responsible for Enerjak's rising.

"And…he used me…to make the Chaos Energy…for him!" whispered Tails hoarsely, "I not only served Finitevus, but I was contributing to the end of the world?!"

"Now you know how I feel kid." said a very bitter Roxy the Raccoon. She was standing beside Sonic and Sally and had remained mostly quiet aside from explaining to the others why she was here and no longer with the armada. To her relief, they had welcomed her with open arms and were happy to accept her as one of them now.

"I'm afraid so little buddy." said Sonic, shaking his head sadly, "It's horrible I know. And that's why we're trying to not only stop the Dark Armada, but we want to KILL Finitevus too. I know it's not morally right and we're the good guys and all…but sometimes, we HAVE to make an exception. Finitevus cannot be allowed to live. Him being alive just means there's a chance that Enerjak will be able to come back and then slaughter us all. Sometimes we can't always do what's morally right, even if we are the heroes."

"You're right Sonic…" murmured Tails, "And given that Finitevus not only scarred me for life and killed a part of me forever but also destroys Mobius as Enerjak…I'm up for him dead too! It won't be something I'll enjoy but it's for a good cause."

"Indeed. The world safe is more important than anything in the world. We have to do what we can to stop Finitevus from becoming Enerjak." declared Sally gravely, "And considering we have some Synthetic Chaos Energy to use against Finitevus, we have a sporting chance."

"If it makes us as powerful as it made Blizzard than I'd say Finitevus is dead meat." muttered Knuckles, "And when we get rid of him, me and Shade can find a new place to keep the Chaos and Master Emeralds safe and out of evil hands. Somewhere less conspicuous than Angel Island for starters."

"And when the emeralds are in their new place, they'll STAY there." Shade declared as if knowing this was a promise that would never be broken no matter what happened.

The Royal Fighters trusted Shade in her statement. They knew full well that she and Knuckles wouldn't slouch on a job involving hiding the Chaos Emeralds for their own good. They'd probably hide the emeralds so well that even they themselves wouldn't have any idea on where to start looking for them. But then the Royal Fighters had something other than Chaos Emeralds to worry about. Completely suddenly and out of nowhere, a warp ring opened up directly beside Shade and Knuckles, making the two echidnas jump in surprise. The Royal Fighters immediately managed to guess who was opening up the warp ring and they watched as Dr. Finitevus emerged through the warp ring. He had suspected that the Royal Fighters would all be in the New Mobotropolis Hospital because of Amy and Knuckles and it was a simple lucky guess that caused him to pick Amy's room as the one to open up a warp ring in. It was also extremely coincidental that he just happened to open it up beside Shade. A fortunate coincidence for him definitely. The echidna grabbed Shade by the arms, grinning deviously at his fortunate find and he pulled Shade towards the warp ring. Shade fought back, trying desperately to break free from the evil echidna.

"Get off me! Let go of me right now!" screamed Shade.

"Not a chance my child…I need you for a very important test right now!" growled Finitevus, giving Shade one final, definite yank that saw him winning the tug of war match and getting Shade through the warp ring.

Sonic spin-dashed towards Finitevus, hoping to hit him before he could make off with Shade but he reacted just a little too late. Finitevus and Shade disappeared through the warp ring and the warp ring closed, leaving Sonic to just scythe through thin air and crash into a nearby wall. Sonic picked himself up and shook his head as it began swimming from the crash into the wall he just ended up in. As he regained his senses, his face fell into despair. He felt bad that he'd failed to stop Finitevus and what made it worse was that Finitevus had gotten away with the girlfriend of one of his best friends. He could imagine how Knuckles was feeling right now, the very thought of his girlfriend being a test subject for Finitevus must be making him feel very worried indeed.

"Oh no…the doc's got Shade!" cried Sonic frantically.

"And he said he needs her for a "very important test"!" cried Knuckles worriedly, "He's going to test his Chaos Synth-En on her! We've gotta save her now before he tests it on her!"

"Indeed!" blurted Sonic, "Finitevus told me that he needs a Chaos Adept to test his formula on. Shade's gonna be full of the stuff, she's perfect for him to test the formula on! We need to get to it and quickly!"

"Hold it right there guys, I'll see if our Synthetic Chaos Energy is ready!" exclaimed Tails, "We'll have an advantage over the armada if we use it!"

"Just hurry up so we can save my girl Tails!" yelled Knuckles impatiently, "I don't want her to become my uncle's test subject!"

Tails wasted no time whatsoever. He turned to Roxy and quickly requested for the Dark Armada traitor to lend him the warp ring Finitevus had given her and the late Lennox Meers to use when he decided to recruit them for a mission. This had led to Roxy betraying the armada and Lennox's disturbing death. Roxy gave Tails the warp ring and the fox quickly flicked it open. It opened up a portal from the hospital to Royal HQ and the fox quickly dived through it. The warp ring closed up behind Tails as he jumped through it and Tails caught it in his hand before it could fall down onto the floor. He set it down on the work desk as he ran up to it and he grabbed the canister of Synthetic Chaos Energy. It was hard to believe that just a couple of days ago, they had gotten this small dose from Fiona Fox herself. In a way, a member of the Dark Armada was contributing to the downfall of the armada's schemes, something that made Tails smile grimly to himself. The twin-tailed child genius looked at the canister of green liquid he held in his hands. The liquid was fully settled and watery, just as it should be. The second power ring had fully dissolved and become a part of the liquid, its brilliant, positive energy making the formula more positive and safe to use than it would have been before. No turning into a Chaos craving zombie for anybody who used it now, the formula would just make them Chaos powered but not turn them evil as it had done to Blizzard. Tails felt sorry for Fiona that she had to become a monster and hoped that after Scourge's death, Fiona had found a way to get over it. As evil as she had been, Tails didn't really think she deserved to live in misery all her life, especially as she'd once been a Royal Fighter herself and had potential to be good again. He shook off all thoughts of Fiona and focused back on what he held in his hand. He picked up a syringe and he plunged it into the canister. The yellow coloured fox pressed down on the plunger and the syringe sucked up the entire canister of Chaos Energy. There was only half a syringe full of energy but the two power rings that had been used in the formula would make it powerful enough. Tails then had a thought provoking idea. He stared at the syringe for a moment and then he stared at his own arm. Could he use the formula on himself? Tails supposed that it would be a sheer case of irony if he did. He'd be using what he helped Finitevus create against him. Finitevus deserved nothing less. But Tails wasn't a Chaos Adept. It could be very risky using it on himself. But Tails also reasoned with himself that he'd be fine for he'd been in contact with the Chaos Emeralds on more than one occasion. Maybe his body would be used to Chaos Energy and he'd be fine if he used the Chaos Synth-En. It was risky but Tails knew it'd be worth it if he meant he could beat up Finitevus and make him cry. Holding his breath and closing his eyes, Tails stuck the needle into his arm and injected himself with the Chaos Energy. His entire body jolted sharply and his arms threw themselves out to the side without his brain telling them to. His head jerked backwards and he stared up at the ceiling as if shocked to see it suddenly. He could feel the Chaos Energy flowing through his veins, feeding strength to his body. The feeling was sensational but luckily, it wasn't feeling painful or overwhelming. It felt…good. Very good in fact. It was like he'd been given a miracle cure for a disease he'd never known he'd had. Tails's arms lowered down until they hung by his sides and his head flopped down, his head now staring at the floor. For a moment he was deathly still as if becoming a statue suddenly. Then he moved again and flexed his muscles. He felt amazing and the Chaos Energy was beginning to flow naturally through his bloodstream. He felt like he could flatten an entire army and be home in time for dinner. He looked no different aside from his eyes now glowing a brilliant Chaos green colour but he felt very different inside, and all in a good way no less.

"Wow…I feel…incredible…epic even!" cried Tails excitedly, "Oh man…I needed that! Finitevus is so dead now!"

Laughing delightedly to himself, he picked up the warp ring and opened up a portal back to the New Mobotropolis Hospital. He stepped through the warp ring and found himself transported from Royal HQ back to Amy's hospital room. The moment he emerged from the warp ring, all the Royal Fighters stared at him in amazement. The green eyes that Tails now sported had been what caught their attention and Tails could see from the looks on everybody's faces that they were amazed.

"Hey Tails! Your eyes…they're glowing green!" blurted Sonic.

"Did you…did you just inject yourself with the Synthetic Chaos Energy?" gasped Sally.

"I sure did guys." said Tails brightly, "But don't worry, Nicole assured us that the formula is safe to use. And I feel pretty amazing inside, I really do."

"But…you're not a Chaos Adept!" cried Knuckles, "The formula could have a nasty side effect on you!"

"I've been in contact with Chaos Emeralds before, I'm sure my body's used to it." said Tails reassuringly, "Now let's see if this'll work…"

He walked up to Knuckles and Amy and put a hand on each of them. He then yelled "Chaos Regeneration!" as loudly as he possibly could. As he yelled this, a bright flash shone between him, Knuckles and Amy and the entire room was engulfed in a bright light that caused everybody to shield their eyes from the dazzling light. The light lasted for a good few seconds before it eventually died down and everything returned to normal. For a moment, everybody was silent and still. Then suddenly, Amy got up out of her bed and started flexing her limbs as if this was the first time she'd ever got up and started moving in forever. The miraculous thing about this was that Amy was moving her body but she didn't appear to be in any pain as she did so! As for Knuckles, his arm no longer felt broken and because of this, he began to unwrap the cast from around it. Upon doing so, he flexed his arm and was amazed to feel no pain as he did so. His arm felt like it had never been broken! Amy and Knuckles both cried out in amazement.

"Wow! I feel great!" squealed Amy excitedly, "I don't feel hurt anymore!"

"My arm…it's fixed!" cried Knuckles, "The Chaos Regeneration worked!"

"Well what can I say? Tails is now a living Chaos Emerald." said Sonic with a smile, "All the better for us to use against Finitevus. With Tails now Chaos Powered, Finitevus is as good as dead!"

"Indeed Sonic." said Sally brightly, "Now Knuckles and Amy are better, we can see to carrying out a rescue mission for Shade. Sonic, you'll go of course and you can take a squadron of your choosing aboard The Nefarious. It wouldn't be wise for all of us to come incase Finitevus sends any of his minions to attack New Mobotropolis. If some of us remain behind, we can protect the city and you and your team won't be forced to abandon the mission to save it. I'll lead those who are left to protect the city."

"OK then Sally my girl." said Sonic, "Now then, I'll take Tails of course and I think Knuckles and Amy deserve to come too. Knuckles because it's his girlfriend we're saving and Amy because she has scores to settle with Captain Metal. I also think I'll take Silver and Blaze too. They wanna save their future so they deserve to take part in this."

"Why thank you Sonic." said Amy brightly, "I'd be delighted to take part in the mission. Especially since it means I get to flatten that Captain Metal for nearly killing me!"

"Me and you will have the pleasure of fighting him together." said Blaze grimly.

"I'm glad you're taking me and Blaze." said Silver appreciatively, "We'd love to play a part in the armada's downfall."

"That's why I'm bringing ya." said Sonic with a wink, "Amy, I'd get changed if I were you. A hospital gown's hardly the appropriate thing to go into battle with." he added, looking at Amy.

Tails handed the warp ring over to the pink hedgehog and she used it to warp herself back over to her house, most specifically, her bedroom. Upon arriving there, Amy took a moment to admire the sight of her own bedroom. She'd missed sleeping in there and it felt good to be in her own home once again. She put aside her sentimentality for the moment as she stripped off the hospital gown that she'd been wearing for the past few days and quickly changed herself into some suitable clothes. But what she was putting on was an entirely new outfit compared to what she used to wear. Amy dressed herself up in a red dress with three yellow buttons on that came down just above the knees. The dress looked more sensible than the one she used to wear. She also wore purple stockings, her usual white gloves with gold cuffs around the wrists and red shoes with pink soles and toes. She wrapped a Sarashi around her waist. Now fully dressed, Amy warped herself back over to the hospital to show everybody she was now ready for a fight. Her new attire caught everybody's attention the moment she appeared, much to Amy's delight.

"Say Amy, that's a good look for you." said Sonic approvingly, admiring the hedgehog's new outfit, "Really suits you. What made you decide to have a costume change?"

"Let's just say that a girl likes to have a change of clothes every now and then." snickered Amy, "And also I thought I'd look a little more mature to show just how serious I am about beating the Dark Armada into a pulp."

"I see." said Sonic, "Well then team, let's go save Shade and stop the armada!" cried Sonic.

Amy tossed the warp ring over to Sally, deciding that she and the others wouldn't need it since they had a way onboard The Nefarious without it. Tails could just as easily Chaos Control everybody on the ship. Also, the warp ring was too valuable to lose to Finitevus so it was best to leave it home instead of bringing it around everywhere. Sonic, Knuckles, Amy, Silver and Blaze gathered around Tails and the fox whisked everybody away in a bright flash of light as he initiated a Chaos Control. As they disappeared, Sally took a moment to hope for the Mobians. Hope that they would succeed in their mission and that Shade would be saved. And Finitevus would be defeated for good…

Meanwhile on The Nefarious , Dr. Finitevus had fully prepared the captured Shade for his Synthetic Chaos Energy formula test. The female echidna was lying against the restraint bed that he had already used for his other test subjects such as Blizzard, Conquering Storm and Sonic, the only one whom he'd actually formula on for Sally had managed to rescue him before he could do it. With laser binds wrapped tightly around her wrists and ankles, Shade was completely helpless before the evil scientist and despite struggling as much as possible, the lasers wouldn't release her. The former Procurator of the Nocturnus Clan fumed angrily at Finitevus after she finally stopped struggling. It was bad enough that she'd been kidnapped by the echidna who once worked for her horrible, abusive father Imperator Ix but she was going to be tested on and she couldn't get away from Finitevus! She hoped dearly that her friends would arrive in time to save her from becoming Finitevus's little lab rat but it didn't seem likely for Finitevus already had the syringe in hand and he was filling it up with Chaos Synth-En. He dipped the syringe into the canister and sucked up some of the gooey, viscous liquid that he had contained inside of it. Finitevus was considering himself extremely fortunate that neither Sonic, Sally, Tails or Roxy didn't destroy the canister and waste his glorious creation when they had the chance. They had just fled for it before he could unleash all hell on them, a mistake that was going to cost the Royal Fighters very dearly. After filling up his syringe, he closed the canister and turned to face Shade. The female echidna gulped nervously. She was going to have the evil liquid tested on her and she couldn't stop Finitevus from going ahead with it. Her only chance now was if the Royal Fighters came in to save her. The captive Shade dared to think what Finitevus had made the formula out of though she imagined that a lot of Chaos Energy had gone into it. Most notably, dark Chaos Energy. Finitevus leaned over to Shade and began to softly stroke her face. Shade cringed with disgust but she kept her cool.

"Well Shade, I bet you weren't expecting to be the lucky Chaos Adept that would end up being my little test subject did you?" sneered Finitevus, "Well just be glad that I didn't grab Knuckles, he could have easily been my test subject instead."

"I assure you when Knuckles gets here, he's going to leave you needing a new face." said Shade coldly, "He'll beat you up with just one arm if he has to!"

"Knuckles could barely beat me with BOTH arms so what chance does he have with one?" snorted Finitevus, "Now then, if I recall, you were once Imperator Ix's loyal servant and you once fought against Knuckles. Well my child, it looks like you're going to do it again. If all goes well, you'll be a loyal servant to me, only you'll have power greater than you can possibly imagine."

"Dare use that on me and you won't live to see another sunrise." Shade growled softly, "We know that you plan to become Enerjak and we'll do whatever it takes to stop you."

"Yes, the fact you know what my plan is about is a rather unfortunate inconvenience I admit, but you still won't succeed in stopping me." crowed Finitevus, "My lovely little test subject, you are the gateway to Enerjak's rising. If this test goes well then I will proceed with the next stage of my plan. All I need to do next is make a hundred Chaos Emeralds, all with this formula, and then Enerjak will rise. How does it feel to be the one who'll tell me if the formula is adequate or not?"

"Get fragged!" snarled Shade.

"Hardly." snorted Finitevus, "Now then, let us see if this works…"

He wasted no more time after that. He gripped Shade's face hard with one hand and aimed the syringe at her neck with his other hand. Shade tried to resist, squirming madly on the bed and trying to keep her neck from being exposed but Finitevus had an iron grip. He wasn't even TRYING to keep Shade's head to the side while he prepared to stick the needle into her neck. He was much too strong for Shade so try as she might, she couldn't move her head while Finitevus had hold of her. He inserted the needle into Shade's neck and injected her with the Synthetic Chaos Energy it contained. Shade winced as she felt the energy entering her bloodstream. Finitevus took the syringe out of Shade's neck and he put it back on the counter for in case he had to get rid of it. The last thing he wanted was a repeat of what Blizzard did to him. Shade writhed in pain as the formula swarmed through her body. She arched her back and let out a terrible scream as the energy began to take control of her body. She fought hard to resist the formula's power but the strength of the green liquid was too great for her. She fell victim to it immediately and stopped screaming. She collapsed back down against the bed, eyes closed and breathing heavily as the formula settled down inside her. It was beginning to seep into her brain and the echidna could actually feel the liquid taking over her brain as it entered. She couldn't fight it off anymore, it was inside her bloodstream and taking over her body. Shade remained still for a moment before opening her eyes. Her eyes were Chaos green and they glowed amazingly brightly. She had a cold, emotionless look on her face as she looked at Finitevus. Shade made no attempts to escape from the restraint bed holding her down, nor did she show any hostility towards Finitevus. She just lay there as if waiting for Finitevus to give her an order.

"Master." she mumbled in a zombie-like manner, "I await orders. Do I have permission to destroy your hated enemies?"

Finitevus could feel himself about ready to go crazy with excitement. He could practically feel himself ready to do a crazy dance of joy. His formula had worked! At long last, he'd had a successful test and he now knew his Synthetic Chaos Energy was ready for making Chaos Emeralds out of! Cackling maniacally, Finitevus let out all his joy and excitement in that single laugh. How cathartic it was for him to have finally succeeded in his test! He stopped laughing and quickly released Shade from her restraints. Shade had a look on her that was so blank, she didn't seem to realize that she had even been restrained a moment ago.

"Rise Shade, my glorious, Chaos powered servant!" cried Finitevus delightedly.

Shade stood up from the bed and bowed down to Finitevus.

"What is your wish my master?" she asked loyally.

"Well Shade, I want you to suit up and Chaos Control to New Mobotropolis." ordered Finitevus, "Then once you're there. I want you to destroy the city and lay waste to the Royal Fighters!"

"Understood, your word is law." droned Shade.

Shade took a moment to use the costume changing device that Tails had built for her last year to change her casual clothes into her Nocturnus battle armour. As she changed into her armour, Finitevus couldn't help but notice that the Chaos Energy in Shade's body had altered her armour slightly. The glowing pink areas on the armour now glowed green instead. Even the eyes on Shade's helmet glowed green. He imagined that Shade's blades would have glowing green parts too when she whipped them out for a battle. But before Shade could use a Chaos Control to warp away to New Mobotropolis, a green flash filled the room with light. Shade turned to face the light but did nothing to suggest that she was surprised to see it. Finitevus was surprised to see it though. Who could be using a Chaos Control right now? That was the first thing that ran through Finitevus's head. Certainly not Sonic or his friends for they didn't have the Chaos Emeralds on them right now. Was Blizzard finally away and had Chaos Controlled to the lab to meet him? That was likely but Finitevus quickly saw to his disappointment that it wasn't Blizzard who was Chaos Controlling into the lab. It was in fact Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Silver and Blaze. The flash died down, leaving just the six Mobians that had come to stop Dr. Finitevus once and for all. Shade quickly registered the new arrivals as hostile and she adopted a battle-ready stance. Knuckles saw what had been done to Shade immediately and he growled angrily in rage.

"Shade! Your eyes are green…we were too late!" wailed Knuckles angrily, "That fiend has tested his formula on her!"

"Well now we're here, we can remove it." declared Sonic, "Finitevus, your time is up! Surrender now or face the consequences!"

"Fie, I refuse to let you grave-eager morons get in my way now!" snarled Finitevus, "My formula is finally ready to use for my plan, you'll not stop me now! So tell me, how did you manage to use a Chaos Control?"

"Remember Fiona?" sneered Sonic, "You sent her to New Mobotropolis to attack me and my friends. Thank you for doing that for we got the Chaos Energy out of her and decided to use it ourselves."

"Only we've made the formula 100% positive! Not a trace of Dark Chaos Energy anywhere!" declared Tails, "And now it's in me! You're dead meat now Finitevus!"

"I think not you little brat…" retorted Finitevus angrily, "For I have two Chaos-powered minions under my control. Blizzard is sadly unavailable right now but I have Shade right here before you. She'll put a stop to you all before you can get anywhere near me." he crowed, motioning to the Chaos-powered Shade standing before him.

"You get that stuff outta Shade right now or I'll break all your bones Finitevus!" bellowed Knuckles angrily. Just seeing his beloved co-guardian with the Synthetic Chaos Energy inside her made him livid with rage.

"Now, now dear nephew, is this anyway to talk to your uncle?" sneered Finitevus.

"You're not my uncle Finitevus…you're no family of mine!" growled Knuckles, "You're a monster and you deserve to join Imperator Ix in the afterlife!"

Finitevus glared at Knuckles as if the fact Knuckles was declaring him as no family of his was a dishonourable label to be given. But he shrugged it off and continued as normal.

"Perhaps, but I have no interest in the afterlife right now." purred Finitevus, "I have too much to live for."

"Well too bad because you won't get a chance to live much longer!" yelled Tails angrily, "With the Chaos Energy invested in me, I'm gonna use them to put you down for good! You have caused many heinous crimes against my friends and all of Mobius! You corrupted me and used me in your mad scheme to destroy the world and kill us all! You are gonna pay for your evil, immoral actions you devil! What you're doing is unforgivable and you must suffer for it!"

"I have no use for forgiveness young man, especially from somebody who dares to use my own formula against me." said Finitevus coldly, "I'll give you and your vacuous friends one chance.

Leave. NOW." he growled sinisterly.

"Not a chance! You're going down!" growled Tails determinedly.

"So be it…" snarled Finitevus.

He then lunged towards Tails, growling angrily and baring his teeth. Tails lunged back, fists clenched as he let out a blood curdling battle cry. As the two engaged in combat, Shade ran towards Sonic, Knuckles, Amy, Silver and Blaze and prepared to slice them all to ribbons. Sonic and his friends lunged towards her. Like it or not, they had to fight Shade and they had to beat her so they could save her from the Chaos-powered monster Finitevus had made her into. The fore coming battle was going to be a fight to the bitter end and no prisoners would be taken in it…

Finitevus's test is a success! But will he get the chance to carry on with his plan? Find out in Part 2 for a very titanic battle...

Dark Armada Part 22: The Test Part 2

Story 222: The Test Part 2: Showdown of Chaos

The Dark Armada Chapter 22 of 25

The doomsday clock was ticking dangerously by. 2144 was the year that Mobius came to an end and the cause of the end of the world was the almighty Chaos Demi-god Enerjak. Enerjak had shown the world what he was capable of when he came rising a year ago*. In the course of a day, he'd turned an entire country into a bunch of crazy cultists all screaming and worshipping his name. He'd also come close to finishing off the Royal Fighters in a battle that saw him being defeated although on his dying breath, he'd left the heroes with a cryptic message: "I'll never be a memory…". Little had they realized was how true he was to his word. The nefarious Dr. Finitevus was planning on becoming Enerjak so that he could lay waste to the very world that he was born on. He saw Mobius as corrupt and he desired to purge it with fire so that Mobius could start all over and fit his image of a perfect world. With him as Enerjak, the world would be remade in his image and he'd rule over everything. No heroes would rise up against him for there wouldn't be any heroes in his world. His plan was going to be achieved by making over a hundred Chaos Emeralds to give himself the power to become Enerjak. In order to make more Chaos Emeralds, he had created some Synthetic Chaos Energy, Chaos Energy made from using the energy of the eight Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald, the only Chaos Emeralds that remained after Knuckles's late father had fused the rest together to make Chaos Clusters. The clusters themselves had been destroyed after Perfect Chaos had been risen by Scourge the Hedgehog accidentally. The Synthetic Chaos Energy had taken a while to perfect but Finitevus had finally perfected the formula and a successful attempt on an unwilling Shade the Echidna told him that the formula was ready for Phase 2 of his plan. He would begin making one-hundred duplicate Chaos Emeralds, each in the eight different colours of the eight Chaos Emeralds, and when they were made, he could become Enerjak at last and bring the end of all things for Mobius. 2144 was Mobius's final year and the very day Mobius ended was coming fast…

Luckily for Mobius, a team of five Royal Fighters had warped aboard The Nefarious to try and stop Finitevus from succeeding in his plan. Sonic the Hedgehog, Tails the Fox, Knuckles the Echidna, Amy Rose, Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat had come aboard Finitevus's insidious vessel in order to save the kidnapped Shade the Echidna from being used as a test subject, as well as to put an end to Finitevus before he could bring Mobius to its miserable end. Because of Finitevus, Silver and Blaze lived in a future where everything was decaying, dead and clinging onto life all at once and they were the only ones from the future who could prevent Finitevus from succeeding. They had already contributed greatly by warning Sonic and his friends of the coming apocalypse although that still hadn't stopped the Dark Armada from giving the heroes a hard time and putting them through hardships and tragedy. A few Royal Fighters had lost their lives in their crusade against the armada and Tails and Cosmo, two kids on the battlefield, had been corrupted and used against the Royal Fighters like pawns in Finitevus's deadly game. Tails had been roboticized and had helped Finitevus create the Synthetic Chaos Energy. Cosmo had been forced to be an agent for the echidna and had caused many of the hardships and tragedy that the Royal Fighters had had to go through such as the near death of Amy and the deaths of Taran the Lynx, Mariah the Medicine Cat and Geoffrey St. John. Tails was determined to make Finitevus pay for what he made him do as Mecha Tails and to do so, he had given himself a healthy dose of Synthetic Chaos Energy, the dose coming from an infected Fiona Fox that had gotten the Chaos Energy from a crazed and mutated Conquering Storm. The Chaos Energy had been given power rings to make it 100% positive Chaos Energy and Tails now had the entire dose in his bloodstream. He had Chaos Controlled the team aboard The Nefarious and was now in a battle with Dr. Finitevus while the rest fought against a Chaos-powered Shade. The battle would determine if Enerjak would rise later on or whether his resurrection would be cancelled before it could begin.

Tails and Finitevus lunged towards each other, growling and yelling angrily at each other as they sailed through the air. They collided into each other but Tails's crash was harder than Finitevus's. The two crashed down onto the floor with Finitevus beneath Tails. Finitevus swung his legs up and threw Tails off of himself. Tails cried out in surprise as he was suddenly hurled into the air and onto his face. The impact didn't hurt Tails as much as it should have done though. To the fox's delight, the Synthetic Chaos Energy made him more resistant to pain than he normally would have been. The twin-tailed fox picked himself up only to receive a slash across the face from Finitevus's cape blades as he swung them at him. The blades left a small cut on Tails's face as Finitevus slashed him and a trickle of blood mixed with Synthetic Chaos Energy began to trickle out of it. Tails however healed himself with a Chaos Regeneration. Finitevus watched as the cut disappeared and closed up on itself with Tails's Chaos Regeneration. The echidna frowned to himself. If he was to beat Tails, he had to knock him out and then get rid of the energy inside of him. He'd keep the energy for himself and then corrupt it so he could add it to his own formula. Finitevus charged at Tails and slugged him in the stomach. Tails however didn't seem awfully effected by the attack. The blow had barely even caused him to gasp. Tails retaliated with a punch to the gut on Finitevus. The echidna felt the fox's fist slam hard into his gut and knock all of the wind in his lungs out of him. Finitevus had a violent coughing fit before Tails lashed out and grabbed him by the shoulders. He then proceeded to spin around and slam Finitevus against a wall as hard as he could. Finitevus broke out of Tails's hold and he uppercut the fox in the chin, the attack causing Tails's head to swing hard backwards but the actual punch doing little harm to him. Tails swung his head forward and walloped Finitevus in the forehead, causing him to back away and clutch his head furiously in pain. The scientist lunged at Tails again but the twin-tailed fox caught the echidna's fist with his hand. Tails then squeezed the scientist's hand as if hoping to crush it. Finitevus let out a bloodcurdling, pained howl as Tails single-handedly began to crush his hand. He could practically feel the bones in his hand giving way as the Chaos-powered fox's fingers pressed down hard on it. Finitevus socked Tails in the face as hard as he could but much to his dismay, Tails took the blow with merely his head going backwards slightly due to the punch. He smirked at Finitevus smugly.

"Ha…that tickled." he gloated.

Finitevus's eyes opened wide with horror. That was his hardest punch and Tails thought that it tickled ?! He had to act fast before the fox overpowered him! Finitevus grabbed the edge of his cape and he stabbed Tails in the gut with it. The fox let go his hand as he cried out in pain, feeling the blade penetrating his stomach. Finitevus yanked the blade out but before he could attack Tails, the kid genius warped away from him. He reappeared away from Finitevus and used a Chaos Regeneration to heal himself. That was exactly what Finitevus wanted Tails to do. He grabbed the syringe on the work desk and filled it up with Synthetic Chaos Energy. Unfortunately for him, Tails saw what he was doing and he froze the echidna in time with a quick Chaos Control. Finitevus was helpless to do anything as everything crawled to a standstill around him. He was so frozen in time that even his own heart was still. Now frozen, Tails rushed over to Finitevus and he dropkicked him in the head. Finitevus cried out in surprise as he was whisked off his feet by a powerful kick from the Chaos powered fox. He hit the floor hard, pain flaring up his arm as he crashed down and the syringe smashed to pieces on the floor, spilling the energy everywhere. Just as he was standing back up, Tails summoned some Chaos Spears to his hands and threw them at Finitevus. The spears hit Finitevus, sending pain flaring through his body and making him bellow in agony. It felt like he was being pelted at with fireballs. Every hit the Chaos Spears landed on him felt like a burn and Finitevus knew that he couldn't keep getting hit by the spears. He had to finish the fight fast before he was too weak to carry on. Tails charged towards Finitevus but the echidna stepped to the side and waited for Tails to go past him before positioning himself swiftly behind the fox and slamming him against the wall. This earned him a grunt from his opponent as he slammed the ten-year old's body against the wall. Finitevus punched Tails in the back of his head as hard as he could and kneed him in the back. Tails took the blows and he managed to get free by kicking backwards. He hit Finitevus in the gut and made the echidna back away, giving him enough space to spin around and punch the albino scientist across the room. Finitevus cried out at the top of his voice was he was sent on a brief flight across the room and into the wall on the other side. Now Finitevus was down for the moment, Tails grabbed the canister of Chaos Synth-En that Finitevus had made. He raised it above his head but just as he threw it down onto the floor, Finitevus summoned a warp ring beneath where Tails was aiming. This caused him to simply chuck the canister down through the warp ring and into Finitevus's hands for the warp ring exit was right above them. Finitevus smirked at Tails and he used another warp ring to put the canister somewhere else. He inserted his hand through the warp ring and brought it back out minus the canister of Chaos Synth-En. He then closed the warp ring, eliminating any chance Tails had of getting the canister back.

"There Tails, now you will not destroy my precious formula." crooned Finitevus.

"But you just disposed of your only way of matching my power!" cried Tails.

"Who said anything about that canister being the ONLY power-up I have?" the caped scientist snorted in response to the fox's statement.

He then used a warp ring to open a portal to the room that he'd hidden the Chaos Emeralds in and he grabbed a Chaos Emerald. He had grabbed the purple Chaos Emerald, a fitting choice for the villainous scientist given the colour's often evil depiction in the media. Tails gasped in horror and realized that he'd forgotten a compulsory fact. Finitevus had the eight Chaos Emeralds and Master Emerald! He'd had them in his possession for an entire year and had gotten them due to him losing a Chaos Emerald to Captain Metal and then Captain Metal ending up in Finitevus's parlour! Finitevus now planned to use a Chaos Emerald against him. If he used the emerald than the already Chaos-powered Finitevus would be just as, if not more powerful than the fox himself and Tails would lose any chance he had of killing the evil scientist! Tails knew he had to get the Chaos Emerald away from Finitevus and he had to do it now. Unfortunately, Finitevus read his thoughts and he quickly initiated a Chaos Control to freeze Tails in place. Once Tails had been frozen, Finitevus rushed up towards Tails and pile-dived him in the head, throwing him off his feet and into the wall. Tails cried out as he hit the wall and he slid down to the floor. Finitevus cackled delightedly and then used another Chaos Control to teleport and reappear in front of Tails. Before the fox could do anything, Finitevus grabbed him by the neck and pinned him against the wall. Tails tried to break free of the echidna's iron grip but he held on surprisingly tight. Too tight for even him to get free. Finitevus was getting power from the Chaos Emerald he held in his hand and he was getting a lot of it. The Chaos Emeralds had been corrupted whilst in his care and were mostly full of Dark Chaos Energy. His body was full of Dark Chaos Energy, the very thing that made him such a formidable fighter, so the Chaos Emerald's power coalesced flawlessly with the Dark Chaos Energy in his body. Tails was now back to being weaker than the evil echidna, a turnabout that Tails had hoped wouldn't happen.

"How quickly things turn around…" purred Finitevus, "You were on top of the battle but now I have a Chaos Emerald in my hand, I have all the power. Yes…the emerald's power is making me stronger than ever before. I feel like I could punch a hole through a building!"

"Doesn't matter…how strong you are…gack…Finitevus!" choked Tails, trying his best to speak despite being strangled by Finitevus, "You'll…still lose! You won't…win!"

"Oh Tails, you're so obtuse…you really think that you can beat me while I have the genuine Chaos article in my hand?" snorted Finitevus, showing Tails the Chaos Emerald tauntingly, "The Synthetic Chaos Energy maybe powerful but a Chaos Emerald will always be stronger, especially when wielded by an actual Chaos Adept."

"Then…maybe…I could…ack…urk…take that emerald…for myself!" declared Tails.

The fox then proceeded to use a Chaos Control to warp out of Finitevus's grasp. But the echidna was already predicting where Tails would reappear so he waited until a flash shone behind him before kicking out backwards and slamming his foot directly into Tails's gut as he reappeared. Tails was thrown down onto his back by the kick and he coughed loudly as the wind was knocked out of him. He should have known better than to do something so predictable. He vowed not to make the same mistake again as he got back up onto his feet and threw some Chaos Spears at Finitevus. The Chaos Spears never hit home for Finitevus summoned a warp ring in front of himself and re-directed the spears right behind Tails. The fox let out a bloodcurdling scream of agony as the spears hit him hard in the back. Now he could imagine how Finitevus had felt when he threw the Chaos Spears at him. His back felt like it was on fire as the spears hit him. He winced in pain and tried his hardest to fight the pain off but he soon had more pain to fight off as Finitevus put the Chaos Emerald into his pocket and lunged at him. He punched downwards at Tails, throwing his head downwards as the punch hit him, and then uppercut the twin-tailed fox into the ceiling. Tails crashed directly into one of the lights and found himself on the receiving end of a brutal electrical shock as he broke the light. Tails eventually fell out of the ceiling but he was in agonizing pain from the shock the light had given him. He forced himself back onto his feet as Finitevus prepared to attack him again. The echidna sprang into the air towards Tails but the fox struck him down with a Chaos Spear to the face. The spear struck Finitevus and knocked him down flat onto his back on the floor. Before the echidna could recover from the blow, Tails pounced on him and pinned him down to the floor. What followed was a strangling match between the two as Tails's hands closed hard around Finitevus's throat and Finitevus's hands closed around his throat. The struggle was tense and hard with one opponent trying to get back up, the other trying to keep him pinned down as they throttled. Tails and Finitevus had to simultaneously fight for consciousness as they tried to throttle one another into unconsciousness. But then Finitevus Chaos-Controlled out of Tails's grip and reappeared behind him, stomping hard on his back and forcing him down flat onto the floor. Finitevus pushed down hard on Tails's back with his foot, applying enough pressure to keep the fox firmly pinned down. He smirked as he began to rub his foot vigorously on Tails's back and making the fox wince in agony, gritting his teeth hard and trying his best to keep the pain held in.

"What do you hope to gain from beating me Tails?" sneered Finitevus, "Do you think that getting rid of me will undo everything you've had to endure as Mecha Tails? Hardly. You'll not recover from the emotional trauma that I have put you through. It was like I told your impudent friends before attempting to destroy New Mobotropolis, you heroes fight for a forlorn cause. You're fighting for a cause that you'll never achieve. The scars I've left on you will be there forever, you'll never heal them."

"Maybe not…but my cause isn't just to make you pay for the emotional and mental trauma you've put me through!" retorted Tails, "My cause is to save my world and stop you from destroying it. And this isn't a forlorn cause for even 200 years in the future, we've got people trying to fix what you've done! Silver and Blaze have warned us in advanced about you becoming Enerjak and destroying Mobius so now we know what you're up to, we can stop you and save our world!"

Tails then Chaos-Controlled out from underneath Dr. Finitevus but instead of doing the most predictable option and reappearing behind him as he did earlier, he reappeared beside Finitevus instead. Finitevus didn't even have time to react as his twin-tailed opponent drove a powerful uppercut into his jaw. The attack took Finitevus clean off his feet and threw him straight into the wall just above the door. He crashed into the wall so hard that the young cub was amazed his evil adversary hadn't broken through it. Whipping out the Chaos Emerald from his cloak, Finitevus growled and he pushed himself off the wall, effectively sending himself flying towards Tails. Tails took flight with the aid of his namesakes and he hurled towards Finitevus, both opponents ready to cave each other's skulls in as the distance between them began to close…

Meanwhile, Sonic, Knuckles, Amy, Silver and Blaze were being kept well on their toes by Shade as they forcibly fought against their Chaos-Powered friend. Knuckles in particular could feel his heart wailing in protest as he threw punches at his co-guardian and girlfriend. He loved Shade more than he'd ever loved his duty as Guardian of the Master Emerald or Angel Island and he never wanted to fight against her again, especially since Shade had been a victim of abuse from her imprisoned father Imperator Ix and had been force to fight against him because of her undying loyalty to her abusive father. And now here he was, once again throwing punches at the echidna who used to be his enemy but was now his biggest love. Knuckles punched at Shade but the green-eyed, battle armoured echidna blocked his attack with ease. The Chaos Energy in her body made her reflexes much faster and sharper than before so she could block any blow Knuckles threw with ease. The red, spike-fisted echidna aimed a punch at Shade's helmeted face but the former Nocturnus Clan Procurator caught the blow with her own hand and proceeded to slug him hard in the gut with an enhanced punch that seemed to glow green as she threw the punch. Knuckles gasped as his girlfriend's fist slammed hard into his stomach. Shade could already punch hard, nearly as hard as himself but this punch felt more like a punch Finitevus would throw at him as opposed to Shade. The Synthetic Chaos Energy truly was a powerful force that his evil uncle had created. He could see why Finitevus needed it to become Enerjak. Knuckles tried to fight back but the pain in his gut that had been inflicted upon him by Shade made it hard for him to even stand up straight. Shade took advantage of this and spun around on her foot, swinging her other leg through the air and driving her heel into the side of Knuckles's face. The kick was so hard that Knuckles began hoping his jaw hadn't been broken by the attack. He was hurled down onto his side and he remained on the floor, wincing in pain and willing for his cheek to feel better before he could continue fighting. Shade whipped out her two blades and twirled through the air towards Knuckles. She landed the balls of her feet and twisted her body to the right so her right arm came swinging down swiftly towards Knuckles's face. This should have cleaved the echidna's head in two but Knuckles was saved by the well-timed arrival of Amy Rose. She held her Piko-Piko Hammer, which now had a new, sleeker but heavier design to match her new outfit, just above Knuckles's head and left Shade's blade to strike against it. Her blade embedded itself into the thick head of Amy's hammer but the hammer withstood most of the attack. Amy yanked on her hammer and tore Shade's blade from out of her grip. Amy then sharply pulled the blade out of her heavyweight weapon and she raised the meaty hammer above her head. She swung it down towards Shade but the echidna Chaos Controlled out of her way, leaving Amy to slam the hammer down hard on the floor. The blow was so hard that Amy left a large dent in it. Amy spun around, expecting Shade to reappear behind her but Shade didn't do this. She instead reappeared where she had been just seconds ago. Amy didn't realize this until Shade suddenly kicked her hard in the back, sending her hurling over onto her stomach. Shade picked up her second blade and prepared to cleave Amy into pieces but just as she was about to, Sonic spin-dashed straight into her and sent her crashing into the nearby work table. The impact caused a lot of glass jars, test tubes and science equipment to fall over on the table or even fall off onto the floor and break into pieces.

"I'm sorry Shade but we have to get that stuff outta your body!" cried Sonic, "So I'm afraid it'll have to be lights out for you."

He aimed a powerful punch at Shade's head and he threw it at her. But Sonic would soon regret the action for he punched Shade's head and merely gave himself a very sore fist. Shade's helmet was much too hard for him to simply knock her out with a punch to it. Sonic shook his hand furiously to get rid of the pain but that only ended up being futile as Shade jumped back up onto her feet and slashed Sonic across the chest and shoulders. She left heavy cuts across the hedgehog's chest and shoulders from the attack and just as Sonic winced in pain, Shade added more to it by punching Sonic directly where she'd slashed him. This made Sonic cry out loud with pain but he was swiftly silenced by Shade upper cutting him into the air. Sonic spiralled crazily across the room but he was spared the moment of impact by Silver quickly catching him with his psychokinesis. He lowered Sonic down onto the ground and turned his attention onto Shade. The Chaos-Powered echidna charged towards the two hedgehogs, blades ready for a slice but Silver stopped her dead in her tracks with his psychokinesis. A teal glow surrounded Shade as she was stopped and frozen by the psychic hold. But Silver didn't have Shade restrained for long. The Chaos power in her veins made her even stronger than before, strong enough to break out of a psychokinetic hold easily. Shade broke free, much to Silver's shock, and she swiped the air with her blades. A wave of Chaos Energy swept through the air and struck Sonic and Silver. The attack left them lying down on the floor, grunting in pain and trying hard to get back up. Shade advanced menacingly towards Sonic and Silver but before she could attack them, Blaze struck her in the back with a fiery kick. The attack caused Shade to cry out in pain as Blaze hit her and brought her down onto her stomach. Shade picked herself up but Blaze began to unleash all hell on the echidna, punching her and kicking her as hard as she could on as many places on Shade's body as humanly possible. Each punch and kick she threw was enhanced with fire, making her blows so much harder than they normally would have been. Shade took all the blows although as Blaze attacked her more and more, she began to feel the blows more and more. The Chaos-Powered echidna tried to fight back but the lavender cat was attacking her at a speed too fast for her to fight back. Blaze concluded her mad attacking spree with a punch to the chest that sent Shade hurling backwards into the lab door. She crashed into the door and tore it clean off its hinges, throwing it outside and sending it spinning into the wall outside the lab. Sonic, Silver, Knuckles and Amy all gathered around behind Blaze as Shade picked herself up and marched back into the lab.

"That Synthetic Chaos Energy's made Shade a tough little cookie hasn't it?" asked Sonic, rubbing the cut on his chest slightly as he spoke.

"I've given her all I got and she doesn't seem that fazed…" said Blaze in surprise, noticing how little Shade appeared to be actually hurt.

"She's too powerful for us…even I can't keep her down for long." murmured Silver.

"We'll have to get a needle and stick it into Shade so we can get that Synthetic Chaos Energy voodoo outta her!" declared Amy, brandishing her hammer and preparing to battle again.

"Just a damn pity that Finitevus's syringe broke while he and Tails were fighting…" muttered Knuckles, noticing the broken syringe from earlier in Tails and Finitevus's fight, "And I don't see anymore lying around." he added despairingly.

"Well maybe you could look for one Knuckles while we make sure Shade doesn't kill us!" suggested Sonic, "Finitevus could always have spares!"

"We'll cover for you." said Amy, "Just see if there's another syringe anywhere."

"Got it. Just don't hurt my girl too much!" protested Knuckles as he ran off to search for the work table for another syringe.

"I think you should worry about Shade hurting US more than us hurting her!" retorted Sonic, "At least if we hurt her, she can just Chaos Regenerate herself!"

Shade suddenly dashed towards the Mobians as Knuckles ran over to the work table. Silver reacted in just enough time to stop Shade dead in her tracks before she could attack anybody. Shade broke free of Silver's grasp just seconds after being stopped by him and she Blade-Rushed the team across the room. Sonic, Silver, Blaze and Amy were swept off their feet by the wave and slammed hard into a wall. Shade jumped into the air and did an amazing somersault that didn't seem humanly possible to accomplish as she spiralled down towards the team. Amy leapt into the air and walloped the brainwashed Royal Fighters with her hammer. Shade was lucky she had Synthetic Chaos Energy in her body otherwise the hammer blow would have been much worse. Even then, Amy hoped she didn't break anything in her friend's body. Shade hit the floor at a force that made Amy cringe, fearing that the attack had done more harm than she wanted to inflict. But the green eyed echidna got back up onto her feet as if nothing had happened and simply cricked her neck. To her, it was like the blow wasn't even enough to give her a headache. She didn't even feel all that hurt. All that she did feel was anger at her pink coloured opponent for hammering her across the room like she had done. Shade ran towards Amy and readied her blades for a slash. The pink she-hog prepared to attack Shade again but just as she swung the hammer at her, her mind-warped attacked jumped into the air and landed feet first on top of her hammer. Shade's weight atop the already heavy Piko-Piko Hammer was too much for Amy to carry so she forcibly dropped the hammer as her muscles winced in protest. Shade jumped off the hammer and dropkicked Amy in the head, throwing her down onto the floor and leaving her clutching her forehead furiously. Blaze threw a jet of fire into Shade's face, hoping to make her back off so Amy could get back up. But then Shade used a Chaos Control to freeze the fiery feline and the pink hedgehog into place. As Blaze and Amy were frozen in time, Shade walked up to them and prepared to slit their throats. It was a very easy moment for her. Her female opponents were frozen, they couldn't move or defend themselves. One simple slash and Amy and Blaze would be going to heaven with the angels. The echidna held her blades near their necks and prepared to slice them open. But because Silver and Sonic weren't frozen in time, Silver used his psychokinesis to grab Shade and throw him away from Blaze and Amy. Shade was thrown across the room and just as she was recovering from the blow, Sonic spin-dashed into her and knocked her back down again.

Because Shade had been distracted, Amy and Blaze were safe for long enough for the Chaos Control to wear off. They began to move again and they regained themselves from the unpleasant experience. Shaking themselves off, Amy and Blaze returned to the battle just as Shade slashed at Sonic and Silver.

As the fight went on, Knuckles searched frantically for a syringe to use on Shade and get rid of the Chaos Energy in her body. But no matter how hard he searched, he couldn't see any syringes amongst the broken jars, test-tubes and toppled over equipment that littered the whole tabletop. The red echidna was beginning to feel frustrated. Surely his horrible excuse for an actual relative would have spare syringes somewhere! Why couldn't he find any?! Knuckles assumed that there would be somewhere else to find a syringe so he looked in some of the drawers under the table top. But as he searched through all the drawers, he still couldn't find any syringes. This was because Finitevus had had most of his other ones broken previously and hadn't gotten any new ones yet. It made Knuckles frown as to how his uncle was one of the smartest Mobians on the planet and yet he didn't have a spare syringe. He supposed the evil echidna did it on purpose to make sure that they couldn't cure whoever he test his formula on. In his anger, Knuckles pulled out two drawers and he glanced over his shoulder. He saw Finitevus and Tails still fighting with each other and so far, equally matched. Knuckles threw the drawers at Finitevus just to give Tails an edge over him. The drawers smashed against Finitevus, breaking into fragments as they crashed against him. The Chaos Emerald had enhanced his body strength so throwing something as heavy and solid as a drawer was like throwing a glass at a brick wall. But the attack had been enough to distract Finitevus long enough for Tails to summon a Chaos Spear to his hand and whack him with it like a baseball bat. Finitevus staggered backwards as he was hit by the powerful spear and Tails then threw it straight at his chest, adding insult to injury on the echidna. Finitevus clutched his chest as the Chaos Spear struck him. He didn't get the time he needed to recover for Knuckles pounced on him from behind and grabbed him by the arms.

"OK uncle, where can I find a syringe on this ship?!" growled Knuckles.

"You can't. Tails caused me to break my last one." snorted Finitevus, "And even if I had anymore, I wouldn't let you have any."

"You get a syringe for us right now so we can sure Shade or I'll break your neck!" bellowed Knuckles furiously.

"Fie, you fools are displaying killer tendencies towards me so you'll kill me regardless." scoffed Finitevus, "And besides, you fail to realize that I hold all the cards in this struggle…"

He then closed his eyes and tapped into the Chaos Emerald's power. Knuckles and Tails both realized too late what Finitevus was about to do. The echidna threw his arms out to the side and unleashed a purple coloured Chaos Blast that blew Knuckles and Tails off their feet and slammed them into the walls of the lab. Both echidna and fox let out agonizing wails as the Chaos Blast hammered against them and trapped them against the wall. The blast kept them pinned there for a few moments before it died away, leaving a very much power-drained and weakened Knuckles to lay against a wall and an exhausted Tails to slump onto the floor, recovering much faster than Knuckles thanks to the Chaos Energy in his body. Finitevus smirked triumphantly at Tails as he held the Chaos Emerald before his face.

"As long as I have this gem, I have all the power and there's no chance of winning." sneered Finitevus.

"Try saying that when you DON'T have that Chaos Emerald anymore!" cried Tails.

He was about to do something but before he could do so, Finitevus used a Chaos Control to freeze him into place. The Chaos Control wouldn't last very long on Tails though so Finitevus quickly made his move. He rushed towards the twin-tailed fox and he slugged him in the gut as hard as he could. Then just as the Chaos Control wore off, Finitevus seized Tails by the arms and threw him across the room. Tails screamed at the top of his voice as he was thrown like a baseball. Sonic turned around upon hearing Tails's screams and he saw that the fox was heading straight towards him. Amy was beside Sonic and she saw Tails heading towards him too. Sonic cried out in shock, fully expecting a very heavy crash from Tails to knock him down onto his feet and send himself and Tails sprawling on the floor…but then Tails missed him completely and crashed into Amy instead. Sonic watched, relieved that Tails had missed him but feeling sorry for Amy that Tails had knocked her off her feet. He helped Amy and Tails get back up onto their feet.

"Hey Tails, I think you've got your work cut out for you!" cried Sonic, "I saw Finitevus use a Chaos Blast earlier…I bet he's using a Chaos Emeralds! We must get that Chaos Emerald away from him now!"

"I wish we could Sonic but he's too evasive…" muttered Tails, "I'll try what I can to get the emerald out of his hands!"

"One good idea would be to use a Chaos Control to freeze Finitevus in place and then swipe the Chaos Emerald from his hands." suggested Amy, "Though…he might be expecting that. He is a clever bastard after all…" she sighed in annoyance.

"We'll have to distract him long enough for Tails to freeze Finitevus in place." Blaze suggested, "That's got to stop him."

"And once we get that Chaos Emerald from him, we can use it to find the other seven and the Master Emerald so we can get them away from that maniac and ruin his Enerjak plan!" declared Silver, "Let's give it a shot!"

The Mobians nodded agreeably but just before they could do anything, Finitevus walked over to Shade and called to her, catching his minion's attention so he could speak to her. Shade stood loyally before Dr. Finitevus as the echidna gave her a command.

"Shade, go to New Mobotropolis and destroy the city. Leave NOBODY alive." he commanded.

"As you wish sir." droned Shade, "I will not fail you master."

The Royal Fighters all jaw dropped in unison upon hearing Finitevus give Shade the task. The wicked scientist was actually telling Shade to go to New Mobotropolis and destroy the entire city and kill everybody?! That was beyond sick, much sicker than anything Finitevus had ever done thus far. He had ordered Shade, a resident of New Mobotropolis, to go to the city itself and destroy it and kill everybody who lived there! These included all the other Royal Fighters in the R.F.S. and some of her own friends! Shade would never forgive herself if she carried out the task and was ever cured afterwards so she could realize what she'd done. They had to stop her before she did something she would forever regret! Sonic whizzed towards Shade but before he could get anywhere near her, Finitevus threw a warp ring in front of him and re-directed him directly above Knuckles, who was beginning to get back up from the earlier Chaos Blast. As hedgehog and echidna collided, Shade Chaos-Controlled away from The Nefarious and headed off to New Mobotropolis. The moment she disappeared, Finitevus smirked wickedly at his opponents.

"Well my ridiculous Royal Fighters…what a dilemma this is. You have two choices now." gloated Finitevus, "You can kill me now and prevent Enerjak from rising but leave New Mobotropolis to be destroyed and your friends slaughtered. Or you can let me go and stop Shade from committing the biggest sin of her life. What do you choose?"

Sonic and his team found themselves in complete and utter torment. Finitevus had given them one heck of a dilemma to deal with. They had the chance to get rid of Finitevus thanks to Tails being full of Synthetic Chaos Energy and yet Finitevus was giving them a good excuse to abandon that mission. Shade was going to bring ruination to the very city that was giving her a home after Finitevus caused the destruction of AngelIsland last year. Said ruination would include a gruesome death toll ranging from the youngest of children to the oldest of adults and all of the Royal Fighters still alive and active thus far. Shade was not only going to kill an entire city, she was killing her own friends and Mobius's greatest heroes as well. Sonic doubted that Shade would succeed since surely the Royal Fighters back home would be able to stop her. But they wouldn't stop her destroying the city. All she had to do was unleash a Chaos Blast and given how she was pretty much a living Chaos Emerald now thanks to Finitevus, she could easily unleash a powerful Chaos Blast. The blast would wreck everything and likely cause many deaths. Any who lived, Shade would just slaughter herself and nobody would have the power to stop her. Only Tails had a ghost of a chance matching up to Shade at this point in time. Sonic supposed Shadow the Hedgehog had a chance against Shade but even he would fall victim to her eventually. It was hopeless. Sonic just had to admit that they had no chance of killing Finitevus now and ending his attempts to become Enerjak. They could try and freeze him with a Chaos Control but Finitevus had a Chaos Emerald in his hand. He would probably do it before they could even utter the words and Finitevus also had warp rings so he'd just escape before the Chaos Control could take effect. Sonic had to admit it, his team's chances of stopping Finitevus were gone. He had to save New Mobotropolis before Shade destroyed it. He glared at Finitevus angrily.

"Fine then. We'll pick New Mobotropolis." he said angrily, "But don't think for a moment that we'll let you go this easily. We'll come back for you Finny, you know we will!"

"Indeed and because of that, I'll be expecting your next move already." sneered Finitevus.

"Aren't you always?" sighed Sonic, turning to Tails and looking at him grimly, "Come on buddy, get us outta here and back home. We'll kill Finitevus another time."

"I hope so." moaned Tails, very disappointed that he had to let Finitevus live this time. But he was more than happy to put his friends and home above Finitevus right now. What would be the point of stopping Finitevus if his home and friends were all slaughtered?

Tails held out his hands and Sonic, Knuckles, Silver and Blaze gathered around the fox, ready to be warped home with him. But then just as Tails was about to activate a Chaos Control, Finitevus held up the Chaos Emerald and suddenly activated one himself. He finished saying the words "Chaos Control" just as Tails was preparing to say it. The twin-tailed fox just managed to yell "Chaos…" before Finitevus's Chaos Control took effect. Tails's words slowed down until eventually his voice died in his throat and his body froze into place. So did everybody else around him. Time crawled to a deathly standstill around them and for the moment, they couldn't move. Not even an eyelid. Delighted, Finitevus marched over to the frozen Mobians and he reached into his cloak pocket. He then pulled out the one thing Knuckles had been looking for earlier… a spare syringe! As a contingency plan, Finitevus had decided to keep any spare syringes in his cloak. This one had a retractable needle so that it wouldn't accidentally poke him in the back when he landed down on it. Finitevus deployed the syringe's needle and he inserted it into the frozen Tails's neck. The Chaos Control made it impossible for Tails to resist. He was stuck where he was, allowing Finitevus to freely use the syringe to deprive him of all Synthetic Chaos Energy in his bloodstream. Finitevus pulled back on the plunger until he had half a syringe full of the green liquid that he had painstakingly worked hard onto create. He was surprised at the fact he only had half a syringe full when he finished. But he didn't let the matter be too much of a bother to him. As long as Tails couldn't use his formula against him anymore, he was content. Tails really thought that he had a chance of beating him and now Finitevus had snatched it away. He'd been through a train of defeats and embarrassments lately but all of that had come to an end. He was back on top of the game and he was closer to becoming Enerjak now. Cackling maniacally, Finitevus used a warp ring to open up a portal where he'd put his canister of Synthetic Chaos Energy and he simply put his hand through the warp ring and placed his syringe beside the canister. He'd work on that small bit of Synthetic Chaos Energy later. As he put the syringe away, he noticed that Tails's Chaos green eyes were now beginning to slowly change back to his normal blue colour. The Chaos Control was slowly beginning to wear off. Quickly, Finitevus opened up a warp ring to New Mobotropolis behind the Royal Fighters and he shoved them all through it one by one. As all six Mobians were sent tumbling through the warp ring, Finitevus closed it up and put it back on his arm.

"Let's see you save your worthless city and your equally as worthless friends without any of my formula…" crowed Finitevus, "Now to get back into the lab in Megapolis so I can begin Phase 2 of Operation: Enerjak Reborn…"

Cackling delightedly, Finitevus warped himself over to Megapolis, leaving The Nefarious entirely in the care of his armada while he prepared the next stage of his plan. He would tell the armada what was going on so they would understand. He knew full well that the Royal Fighters still had a warp ring, most notably the one he'd given Roxy the Raccoon to use before she turned on the armada. They knew The Nefarious too well so it would be illogical to take the ship back to Megapolis and thus, bring the heroes directly to where Phase 2 was being carried out. So The Nefarious was free to fly around as a means of keeping the heroes in the dark about his true whereabouts. He didn't really need the ship anymore, especially since he was so close to becoming Enerjak. It would take until tomorrow for the one-hundred Chaos Emeralds to be made but it would be worth the wait for his plan finally concluded and he finally became Enerjak…

Over in New Mobotropolis, Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Silver and Blaze were all dumped on top of each other in a heap as they fell out of Finitevus's warp ring. The Chaos Control wore off upon impact and the Mobians found themselves in a rather comical tangle of limbs and bodies as they realized what had happened. It took them a minute to get themselves untangled from each other and the moment they stood up, they saw that Shade was already in battle with the Royal Fighters. Sonic watched as Shadow the Hedgehog spin-dashed into the Chaos-powered echidna and sent her flying backwards across the battlefield. Shade wasn't down for long though. She was back on her feet in a millisecond and she struck Shadow in the face with a Chaos enhanced Blade Rush attack. Shadow cried out as he was hit by the wave and he winced as he hit the ground hard. Some of the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters charged towards Shade, hoping to bring her down so they could get the Chaos Energy out of her but the echidna swiped both blades and sent a wave of Chaos Energy sweeping towards them. The Royal Fighters were hit by the wave and thrown down onto their backs. Sonic watched in horror as Shade attacked her own friends. He turned to Tails quickly.

"Tails, freeze Shade with a Chaos Control now..."

His voice halted and he found himself unable to speak anymore after realizing something terrible. Tails's eyes were no longer glowing green! They were back to normal! Tails himself also realized that he now suddenly felt weaker and that he couldn't feel the Chaos Energy in his veins anymore. The fox went pale with shock as he realized what had happened. His one chance of subduing Shade the easiest way possible had been confiscated!

"Oh no...Finitevus must have taken the Synthetic Chaos Energy out of me!" exclaimed Tails in horror, "He must have done it after he Chaos-Controlled us!"

"Well that's fantastic!" whined Knuckles angrily, "How can we possibly beat Shade and stop her from destroying everything now?! She'll be too strong for either of us to defeat!"

"Well Finitevus made one big mistake." noted Amy with a sly smirk on her face, "We're back in New Mobotropolis right? And we have plenty of syringes in Royal HQ or the hospital. There's plenty of distractions to keep Shade busy so one of us has to get a syringe and use it on Shade while she's being kept busy."

"Wow Amy, that's a good observation." said Blaze in amazement.

"I have my moments." chuckled Amy.

"I'll get the syringe since I'm super fast." declared Sonic, "You five join the others in the fight. Hold on for me as best as you can!"

"We will do." Tails insisted.

With nothing left to say or do, Sonic whizzed off towards Royal HQ at top speed. Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Silver and Blaze ran over to help the Royal Fighters keep Shade busy. They ran over just in time to see their tomboy friend Mandy Mouse punch Shade and throw her up into the air thanks to her steel knuckle attachments. Tails beamed delightedly, pleased to see that his glorious invention for the purple-furred mouse still worked as potently as before. Shade crashed down onto the ground but she picked herself back up and prepared to defend herself as Queen Sally Acorn charged towards the peach-furred co-guardian. Shade summoned Chaos Energy around her blades and she and her royal foe clashed blades. The Chaos Energy around Shade's weapons kept Sally's absurdly sharp blades from cutting through them. Sally pushed back against Shade's blades and tried to force her away but Shade was much too strong for the squirrel. The armoured echidna pushed her arms forward and swiftly shoved Sally down onto her back. The Mobian A.I Nicole the Lynx materialized in front of Shade, her avatar carrying a shield thanks to Tails's upgrades to her last year allowing her to interact with the environment and use objects as if she was a normal person. Shade slashed at Nicole but she raised the shield and blocked her attacks. She then proceeded to throw the shield at Shade, hitting her squarely in the forehead and knocking her down onto her back. The echidna picked herself up but Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Silver and Blaze pile-dived their brainwashed friend in the back. Knuckles felt bad that he even had to do this to his own girlfriend but he knew that it was for a good cause so he let it slide. The New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters stared at the team as they tried their hardest to keep Shade pinned down.

"Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Silver, Blaze!" cried Sally, "Good to see you're all back! Where's Sonic?"

"Getting the one thing we need to get rid of Shade's Synthetic Chaos Energy corruption!" cried Tails, "He'll be back with a syringe in a moment!"

"That's good." said Nicole brightly, "And Dr. Finitevus?"

"We had to let him go so we could stop my girl from wiping you all out!" blustered Knuckles, using all the strength in his body to keep Shade down, "But he got rid of the energy Tails injected himself with so we can't use it against him anymore!"

"We still have a warp ring, we'll still be able to get aboard his ship and ambush him." noted Sally, "After we save Shade, we'll..."

Then suddenly, an explosion of green energy erupted from Shade's body and sent everybody flying through the air away from the corrupted Royal Fighter. In order to get back up, Shade had been forced to use a Chaos Blast to throw everybody off of her. Sally, Knuckles, Tails, Amy, Silver and Blaze all screeched in alarm as they were thrown away like an unwanted piece of litter and they all crashed down heavily onto the ground like a collapsing swarm of flies. Nicole hadn't been sent flying away thanks to Tails's programming causing her to become intangible the moment anybody attacked her. The formerly Mobian lynx had let her shield take the Chaos Blast for her. She was dismayed to see that the shield had been reduced to barely useful scrap by the powerful blast so she tossed it away and de-materialized away so she could get another weapon to use. Shade picked herself up, relieved that nobody had her pinned down anymore and she advanced towards the Royal Fighters her Chaos Blast had stricken. She didn't get close to them for Ruben the Water Panther jumped in and fired a jet of water at her to keep her back. The water hit Shade but Shade just walked through the wave Ruben was throwing at her as if nothing was happening. The water panther gulped nervously. Shade was too strong for his attack! He kept it up anyway for it would provide a good distraction, making sure he backed away slowly so Shade wouldn't get too close to him. While Shade's attention was diverted, Ruben's girlfriend and also Tails's sister, Sora Prower, ran in and jumped up into the air like a rabbit. She swung her foot outwards and kicked Shade hard in the side of her head. This caused her to loose her footing and thus, Ruben's water attack was able to finally push her away now she had no proper balance on her feet. Ruben sent Shade hurling backwards for a good distance and when Shade eventually landed down on to her back, she stopped just at the foot of the hill that proudly displayed Castle Acorn in all its majestic glory and Royal HQ just beside the castle. It was a good thing that had happened for Sonic came running out of Royal HQ with a syringe in hand and he quickly noticed that Shade was just getting back up. He quickly grabbed the echidna and stuck the syringe into her neck. Shade tensed up as she felt the sharp pinprick of a syringe needle jab into her neck but before she could do anything about it, the red-sneakered hedgehog pushed up the plunger and sucked out all the Synthetic Chaos Energy in Shade's body. The entire syringe was full of green liquid by the time he had finished and as Sonic removed the syringe from Shade's neck, the echidna fell onto her hands and knees and panted heavily. The glowing parts of her armour glowed pink instead of green now and the eyes on her helmet became white with pink outlines again. Shade's helmet retracted back into her headband, showing that the co-guardian's eyes were back to their normal lilac colour. Her eyes were brimming with tears. Sonic noticed this and he could tell that Shade was about ready to start crying. Knuckles ran up towards Shade and quickly embraced her to make her feel better. Shade wrapped her arms around Knuckles and began to sob. Guilty tears trickled down her face but her sobs were mostly quiet with just the occasional loud breathing between sobs. The spike-fisted echidna stroked Shade's back gently and hugged her warmly and tightly.

"I...attacked my friends...could have murdered you all...was ordered to destroy New Mobotropolis...and kill all of you." sobbed Shade, "Oh thank you for getting that stuff out of me before I could...! I'm so sorry I couldn't stop myself everyone! I'm so sorry..."

"Sssh, it's OK hon. You're OK now. You won't hurt any of us anymore." said Knuckles softly, running his fingers through his girlfriend's locks softly and kissing her forehead affectionately.

"And just like with Fiona, Finitevus has given us some Synthetic Chaos Energy to use against him again!" cried Sonic excitedly, looking at the syringe in his hand "We could take this, perfect it like before and then..."

"There's no time Sonic." said Shade sadly, "Finitevus tested it on me and it was a success. He'll be moving onto the next stage of his plan. We haven't go time to use that against him."

"Plus, we only made it positive because of a power ring." noted Tails, "Today's power ring has already been used. We have to wait until tomorrow before we can use one for that and even then, Finitevus's plan might conclude before we're ready for him. Shade's right, there's just no time."

"Oh man...that sucks." muttered Sonic, glaring at the syringe in his hand as if the Chaos Energy inside of it was mocking him on how he had no time left to make this particular dose positive.

"Finitevus may not get 100 Synthetic Chaos Emeralds made now but I'm sure he'll not be very long. Might even be tomorrow when it commences." thought Knuckles.

"You're right." said Silver glumly, "The book me and Blaze found stated specifically that the world ends on July the 21st 2144. I just remembered that the 21st is tomorrow."

Sonic's quills straightened in horror. The end of the world was tomorrow?! How had tomorrow sneaked up so fast!? Sonic began to feel like the past eight days had suddenly been a blur and now he was just realizing that Enerjak's rising and Mobius's doom was tomorrow! Eight days had gone by so fast, so fast that even somebody as fast moving as Sonic couldn't believe how quickly they'd gone by. Sonic felt a little stupid for forgetting that the 21st was tomorrow but now Silver reminded him, he wouldn't be forgetting again very soon. Sonic's expression suddenly feel into an expression darker than he'd ever expressed before.

"Then, we stop Finitevus dead in his tracks..." growled Sonic, "Before tomorrow comes. If not, then we stop him tomorrow."

"I hope we can." said Tails worriedly, "Otherwise tomorrow will be our LAST tomorrow..."

The Royal Fighters all nodded agreeably. The doomsday clock was now ticking dangerously away towards its last day. July the 21st 2144 was the doomsday date, the Day of Reckoning that Silver and Blaze had hoped to prevent. The Mobians only had one last chance to stop Finitevus before the world came to its end. If they failed then they'd never have another chance, ever, EVER again...

Footnotes:

See *The Terror of Enerjak

Holy crap...Mobius's doom is only a day away?! Will the heroes stop Finitevus in time?! 0_0

I hope so...tune in next time for* "Enerjak Rising Part 1: The Beginning Stage" *as the beginning of the end arrives...

Dark Armada Part 23: Enerjak Rising 1

Story 223: Enerjak Rising Part 1: The Beginning Stage

The Dark Armada Chapter 23 of 25

The Day of Reckoning. Also known as "Last Judgement". Many religious beliefs feared about such a day for the Day of Reckoning was when the last judgement would be made upon the world from almighty God himself. And when that judgement was made, the end of all things arrived. Many people often feared on when the supposed Day of Reckoning was going to be. Many doomsday theories had been made in light of this and year after year, there were always predictions on when the world would come to an end. It was something that plagued all of humanity, the very people that Dr. Eggman had once belonged to when he was alive.

Mobius was no different to Eggman's world of Earth. Mobius had many doomsday theories too. Most of them had been debunked over the years though Mobius had legitimately come close to ending full stop. The most notable time Mobius nearly ended was during the legendary multi-verse crisis. The Eraser, the former God of Existence, had tried to erase everything for he felt that the current existence of everything that had been created was a repulsive, abhorrent existence and he wanted to start everything over. The Royal Fighters had managed to stop him with moments to spare but then Dr. Eggman came close to ending Mobius afterwards with his Death Egg. The Death Egg had been equipped with a weapon known as the Egg Annihilator Beam. Only the untimely intervention of Dr. Finitevus had stopped Eggman dead in his tracks…quite literally. The Death Egg had been destroyed thanks to Finitevus's sabotage and Eggman had been killed. This had allowed Mobius to live for another whole year…

…but tomorrow, on July the 21st 2144, Mobius was about to have its Day of Reckoning. The end of the world was coming in a mere few hours. Dr. Finitevus, Mobius's new worst enemy after Dr. Eggman himself had bit the dust had formulated an army of villains all with one goal in mind: to achieve their desires and destroy the Royal Fighters. Some of the Dark Armada members had fallen so they would never live to see their ambitions come true but there were many other members still alive to have their goals achieved thanks to Finitevus's grand plan. But Finitevus's real motive was not anything of the sort. He wasn't interested in granting his armada's wishes. His plan was really to become Enerjak and destroy all of Mobius. He had become very nihilistic as time went by to the point he began to see the world as a "garden gone wild". He wanted nothing more than the world destroyed so that it could restart again. And as Enerjak, he would have the power to have the world the way he saw as perfect and no longer a garden gone wild. He was coming very close to achieving this goal. He had tested his Synthetic Chaos Energy on a Chaos Adept, namely Shade the Echidna and got the result he wanted. Now all he had to do was use the Synthetic Chaos Energy to create 100 Chaos Emeralds and then he could use them plus the emeralds he already had in his hands to become the mighty Enerjak. The Chaos Demigod had left his mark on Mobius the first time he had risen* and as Finitevus prepared to become the invincible entity that had nearly doomed Mobius last year, Enerjak would leave a new mark. A permanent mark that symbolized how Mobius came to its untimely end…

This was precisely why Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends were attempting to stop Dr. Finitevus before tomorrow came. As evening fell, the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had warped themselves aboard Dr. Finitevus's insidious ship The Nefarious with a warp ring that they had been given by a treacherous Roxy the Raccoon. They were hoping to ambush Finitevus in his own ship and stop him before tomorrow came. This was their best chance at preventing the world from ending. If they could stop Finitevus now than tomorrow would be a good day and no Enerjak apocalypse would happen. Just moments ago, they had been fighting against a Chaos-powered and brainwashed Shade, the unlucky Royal Fighter who had been picked by Finitevus to be his test subject for his Synthetic Chaos Energy. Finitevus had used Shade as a means of forcing Sonic and a team of Royal Fighters he had brought onboard The Nefarious with him earlier this day. Sonic's best friend Miles "Tails" Prower had pumped himself full of Chaos Energy that the heroes had gotten from an infected Fiona Fox and had used it against Finitevus but in order to get rid of the Royal Fighters so he could make a clean getaway, Finitevus had sent Shade to destroy New Mobotropolis and kill everybody. This had forced Sonic and his team to abandon the mission and stop Shade before she could destroy everything. Finitevus had also managed to get the Chaos Energy out of Tails, preventing the fox from using his precious formula against him anymore. This was why the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had come onboard The Nefarious with a warp ring, it was their only method of transportation and their only way on the ship currently.

All of the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were aboard the ship thanks to the marvellous device. Sonic the Hedgehog, Queen Sally Acorn, Tails the Fox, Knuckles the Echidna, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Bunnie Rabboh (formerly Rabbot), Wilson the Dog, Mandy the Mouse, Shade the Echidna, Ruben the Water Panther, Sora Prower, Abby the Squirrel, Mace the Elephant, Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon, Charmy Bee and even Roxy the Raccoon herself was among them as they prepared to infiltrate the ship. Roxy had come with the team because she fancied taking part in Finitevus's death as well as the others since Finitevus had done many terrible things to her and forced her to become part of the Dark Armada. The team also had future Mobians Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat joining them for they were the ones who had even alerted them about Mobius's Day of Reckoning in the first place. It only made sense that they helped to get rid of Finitevus too. Once everybody was onboard the ship, Sally stashed the warp ring away in her vest pocket and she turned to face her team. Her face had never looked so grave at any point in her life, something that Sonic picked up on immediately but he could hardly blame Sally for looking that way given what the Royal Fighters had been going through the past seven days, going on eight now. The past few days had been hell for the Royal Fighters with many hardships, shallow or bittersweet victories, tragedy, near losses and one of their own being forced to betray the team and work for Finitevus. They had been scoring more victories lately but it seemed their winning streak was dangerously close to ending. And now was the worst time for said streak to be ending for just tomorrow, Enerjak would rise and Mobius would be doomed.

"OK my fellow fighters, spread out and search this vessel."

commanded Sally, "Turn the place upside down if you have to. We're NOT leaving this ship until we find Dr. Finitevus. Leave NO place unturned or unsearched. You search everywhere and I mean literally "everywhere", even in a place you wouldn't normally look. Do I make myself clear?"

"Yes your majesty." replied all the Royal Fighters.

"Good. And when you find Finitevus…kill him." Sally ordered, her face and tone of voice eerily ominous, even for her, "It disgusts me to give you such a horrible order but we have no choice. We want Mobius to survive? Then Finitevus has to die. No Finitevus, no Enerjak. No Enerjak, no apocalypse. Simple as that. Make sure your ear pieces are switched on so that when one of you finds Finitevus, you can alert the others and we can all fight him together. Thanks to my good friend Nicole, we'll navigate this ship as if we own it." she added, proudly showing off the handheld computer device that Nicole the A.I. Lynx was housed in.

Blaze just smiled upon seeing Nicole, still feeling very proud that she had taken Captain Metal's head the other day for the head had contained the plans for The Nefarious and thus, given them a very effective map to use whilst aboard. It was all thanks to her that the Mobians wouldn't get lost onboard this ship.

"We got ya Queenie." said Sonic with a wink, "We'll have this place thoroughly searched before you can say "Royal Acorns".

"I hope I'm the one who finds that monster…" growled Shade angrily, "I really want to kill him for what he did to me and what he ordered me to do whilst his Chaos-powered minion…"

"I think all of us want the doctor dead hon." said Knuckles grimly, nodding his head agreeably, "But this isn't a contest to see who finds him first. No matter who finds him first, we will put that wild animal down. I bet if my dad knew what a monster his brother was, he'd be hunting him down like we are."

Shade nodded agreeably. Knowing Knuckles's late father Locke the Echidna, Shade suggested that Locke would refuse to acknowledge Finitevus as his brother just like how Knuckles refused to acknowledge Finitevus as his uncle. Knowing you're related to an evil monster is one of the worst feelings anybody in the world could feel. It was a feeling that could truly destroy a person inside. Shade pushed all thoughts of Locke and how he'd feel about Finitevus away as the Royal Fighters all spread out and began searching every inch of the ship they had sneaked aboard. Tails by far was the best Mobian out of the team to be searching the ship for he'd been a part of the armada for seven days as Mecha Tails. He had been everywhere on The Nefarious and knew all the hiding places. Sally was second best since she had a map of the ship on Nicole herself. The rest were just going to do as they had been ordered, search everywhere and even look in places that they wouldn't normally look in if this was another kind of mission. Some Royal Fighters stayed on the floor they had warped on, which was the middle floor where the laboratory was, while others searched on all the other floors. Soon every floor of The Nefarious had somebody searching in a room on it.

True to their orders, as the hours ticked slowly by, the Royal Fighters searched every inch of the evil vessel, leaving no corner unsearched and no object or furniture unturned. All of the rooms had been searched from the bridge to the prison cell to the laboratory and even all the armada's dorm rooms had been searched. During the search, Roxy had made very sure she didn't go anywhere near the late Lennox Meers's dorm room. The wicked, sadistic, perverted meerkat had imprisoned her in that room and had taken advantage of her, grooming and molesting her at every available opportunity. The raccoon still cringed just thinking about it and it was amazing to think that just earlier this very morning, she had managed to get away from Lennox and come to the Royal Fighters so they could free her from the armada's insidious grasp. Then Roxy had killed Lennox to make him pay for what he'd done to her. She still imagined the meerkat's head exploding into a cloud of blood as the bomb that had once been in her head exploded under his hat, the very place she'd smuggled the bomb in order to get rid of him. It was an image she'd cherish forever since Lennox had scarred her very badly. So badly that she insisted to herself she'd never be giving romance a try ever again. She was quite happy to stay single from now on. So on the search, Roxy had looked in any dorm room that wasn't Lennox's, leaving somebody else to search in Lennox's room.

Throughout the whole search, Tails and Cosmo had felt an overbearing sense of unease since the very appearance and atmosphere of The Nefarious gave them bad vibes. Tails was reminded of all the bad stuff he did as Mecha Tails and Cosmo was reminded of how she'd been a prisoner of the armada after her role as Finitevus's unwilling mole had been revealed. She still harboured feelings of overwhelming guilt despite being forgiven for what she'd done and welcomed back with open arms. The two had stayed close together on their search and as they inspected whatever room they had gone into, Tails had given Cosmo handy hints on where to search and where all the possible hiding places were. This had helped Cosmo very much and together, she and Tails had managed to search any room they looked in all over. But to their dismay, and to the dismay of all the Royal Fighters, they hadn't found Finitevus. He was nowhere to be seen aboard The Nefarious . He wasn't even in his own dorm room. Even the bridge was devoid of his presence, something that had surprised Bunnie for she had gone up there to search for him. She had really hoped that Fintievus was there. She still wanted to make Finitevus pay for being responsible for Geoffrey St. John's sacrifice. Geoffrey had been her boyfriend and his sacrifice had been hard on her so Bunnie wanted to make Finitevus pay for it. She would have to wait until they could find him though, much to the former cyborg rabbit's annoyance. It hadn't that surprising for the Royal Fighters that Finitevus wasn't in the lab for the lab was the most obvious room that he could be hiding in and as far as the Mobians knew, Finitevus was way too clever to pick such an obvious hiding place. The lab had been searched anyway but the Royal Fighters hadn't been surprised that they hadn't found him there.

After about three exhausting hours had been spent searching The Nefarious , the last hour spent searching everything a second, even a third time, the Royal Fighters all returned to the middle floor to give everybody their reports. Sally could see from the rather grim and disappointed faces of her Royal Fighters that nobody had had any success. That and the fact nobody had used their earpiece to tell them they'd found Finitevus had told the queen the bad news.

"I guess nobody had any luck finding Finitevus then?" asked Sally, her face looking very tired and very worried.

"Nada Sal, I searched the bottom floor three damn times and I couldn't find him." muttered Sonic, "And the agonizing part was that I had to do it SLOWLY just to make sure I didn't miss him!"

"He was in none of the dorm rooms your majesty." muttered Roxy, "And from what Sora told me since I didn't want to look in it, he wasn't even in Lennox's room." she added, looking over to the blue-furred vixen.

"I'm usually good at finding things but even I couldn't find any trace of her." sighed Sora, "If a spy like me can't find him then you know he's well hidden..."

"Me and Cosmo couldn't find him." sighed Tails, "And given how I know this ship better than anybody due to the fact I was WORKING for Finitevus as his Robian slave...you really can start worrying."

"If Tails can't find him anywhere than what chance do we have?" asked Cosmo worriedly.

"Ah was surprised that he wasn't in the bridge!" exclaimed Bunnie, "Though ah suppose it would'a been a little too obvious if he was up there..." she added thoughtfully.

"I probably would have been." murmured Amy, shaking her head, "I searched wherever I could though and me, Cream and Ruben had no luck."

"Me and the boys found nothing either. No Finitevus, not even the cape that he wears." sighed Vector disappointedly.

"And me, Nicole and Abby had no luck..." murmured Sally, "We searched high and low and neither of us could find him. Nicole couldn't even detect his heat signature! And here's a more disturbing fact..." she added, her face somehow looking more grave than before, "As a just in case, I used Nicole to find where the Chaos Emeralds were being kept. I cut open the wall that was hiding them and...they're gone too."

The Royal Fighters all gasped incredulously upon hearing this odd bit of news. They hadn't expected to hear that there were no Chaos Emeralds onboard the ship as well as no Finitevus.

"The Chaos Emeralds aren't onboard either?!" blurted Knuckles disbelievingly, "That is weird..."

"What's even weirder than that is the lack of presence of the Dark Armada itself onboard!" cried Mace in alarm, "Seriously, I didn't find ANY member of the Dark Armada throughout the whole search!"

"I don't think any of us did." said Sonic grimly, "I know I didn't and nobody else has reported any such findings. Which makes this even weirder...why would Finitevus and the armada not be onboard The Nefarious?"

"Maybe...they did that to trick us." thought Cosmo, "They probably knew we'd come gunning for them so they left us an empty ship while they hide away to continue with Finitevus's plan.

"I bet that's exactly what they damn well did!" Knuckles bellowed in rage. He punched the wall furiously just for stress relief and continued to rant. "After Finitevus sent me and the team back to New Mobotropolis to save Shade, he and the armada must have took the emeralds and ran for it, leaving us on a wild goose chase while he uses them and his synthetic energy for his plan! We were fools to think he'd still be here! He's outwitted us again!"

"That Finitevus...he's a very sly and cunning individual." said a very nervous Wilson, "Have you noticed most of the time, his plans seem to hinge on us doing what we expect him to do?"

"Indeed sweetie." said Mandy, putting a hand on Wilson's shoulder and looking as nervous as he was, "Most of this war, Finitevus makes up plans and strategies that involve us doing what he expects us to do. And every time, we keep playing into his hands..."

"It's like no matter what we do, he's always got a way of outsmarting us!" moaned Ruben, "That's why we can never get him! He's too darn clever for us!"

"And it's also why Enerjak rises tomorrow..." sighed Silver, "Finitevus keeps outsmarting us and outsmarting us until he becomes Enerjak."

"I'm scared Silver..." said Blaze anxiously, "What if we can't stop him in time? What if...what if..." she paused for a moment as she wrapped her arms around Silver to try and comfort herself, "What if we die along with the others when Enerjak rises?"

"We're from the future Blaze, it won't matter what happens to us." said Silver reassuringly, embracing the beautiful, pyrokenetic princess lovingly, "We'll still be born in the future and have the chance to come back and stop all of this."

"But you've changed history..." noted Abby, "You were never there when Enerjak rose right? You've changed history by coming back to the past to try and prevent the coming apocalypse. And Finitevus, from what I've heard, is fully aware of the fact you two know what he does. So when he becomes Enerjak, he might make sure that nobody in the future ever finds out how the world ends and thus, prevent his destruction from being halted!" she shrieked dramatically.

"Abby, you have an excellent point there!" gasped Sally, "So Silver and Blaze, you're in as much trouble as we are! Finitevus knows you're from the future and that there are still Mobians alive to tell about how he doomed the world! He'll probably make sure that NOBODY survives the apocalypse this time!"

"And if he does that...oh no...oh no! We won't exist!" exclaimed Silver, "Me and Blaze will be pretty much dead! If we die here and Enerjak kills everybody on Mobius, we'll never exist!"

"So we really do need to stop him!" cried Blaze, clutching Silver even harder over this worrying thought.

"Hang on a minute, if Enerjak dooms the world then how are there any survivors in the first place?" noted Sonic quizzically, "Like seriously, am I the only one wondering about that?"

"I guess Enerjak spared some of the Mobians just so he had somebody to kiss his ass." sniffed Tails, "Although how did nobody know about Enerjak 200 years later? He's a god isn't he so how did he just disappear? Shouldn't he be immortal?"

"I'm afraid even we can't answer that." said Silver disappointedly, "The book that told us how Mobius ended doesn't have that information. I guess the author didn't know what happened to Enerjak."

"I have one theory..." mused Shade, "Notice how the Synthetic Chaos Energy was unstable with Blizzard and it caused her to faint?"

"And when Scourge accidentally used it on Conquering Storm she became a monster and Fiona got infected by her..." murmured Tails, "But that was because they weren't Chaos Adepts."

"Indeed but what if even in a Chaos Adept, the formula's unstable?" suggested Shade, "Maybe the energy gets so much for Finitevus that...after dooming the world, it kills him."

"That's a plausible theory." murmured Knuckles, "Maybe the reason Enerjak disappeared from memory is because he died. And nobody was around to witness it so they kinda forgot about him."

"But since Silver and Blaze have given us the information we require and I was an idiot and told Finitevus about it...he'll make sure NOBODY lives to tell the tale." grumbled Sonic, "Man I could just kick myself! It's my own stupid fault Finitevus knows about Silver and Blaze telling us about his Enerjak plot!"

"It's alright Sonic, don't beat yourself up." said Sally comfortingly, "All we have to do now is make doubly sure that Finitevus doesn't succeed in his plot. It's obvious we won't find him or his armada on The Nefarious so we'll have to go home and prepare for tomorrow."

"The tomorrow that might well be the last..." said a very worried and teary-eyed Cream. She looked like she was well on the way to breaking down into floods of tears so Amy decided to hug Cream for comfort. It was the most that the little rabbit deserved for her kindness towards her while she had been in a hospital bed recovering from injuries inflicted on her by Captain Metal.

"It could well be the last." said Sally nervously, "Depending on if we can find Finitevus in time tomorrow. Silver, when's the official time of Enerjak's rising?" she asked quickly.

"According to the book...I believe it said 12:00 noon." thought Silver, "So we have the whole of tomorrow morning to find Finitevus in time and kill him before he becomes Enerjak."

"I can help with that." suggested Sora, "I'll leave an orb on this ship and listen out for in case Finitevus or the armada comes back onboard. I'll have the earpiece the orb contains on me so I can hear anything it picks up."

"That's a great idea precious!" cried Ruben excitedly, "We may find out where Finitevus is hiding or we may even find out if he comes back onboard the ship! And once Sora's orb confirms Finitevus is back or where he's hiding, we can use a warp ring to grab him or force the armada to spill the beans!"

"We are SOOOOO fortunate we have a spy on our team." said a very delighted Mandy.

Sora grinned with pleasure as she took an orb off her utility belt and took the ear piece off of the orb. She stuck the earpiece into her ear and left the orb to hover down the corridors of The Nefarious . The small silver orb would be hard to spot in the dimly lit corridors of The Nefarious so if Finitevus or the armada was to come back onboard, they'd likely not see it. Now Sora's plan was in motion, the Royal Fighters had no reason to stay onboard the ship. Sally opened up the warp ring and she along with the Royal Fighters all filed through the open golden portal. They were transported off The Nefarious and back into New Mobotropolis. With everybody back home, there was nothing left for them to do except get some sleep. Although with the many worries that tomorrow would be bringing, the Royal Fighters doubted very much that they would even get any sleep tonight. Tonight was going to be the longest night of their lives...and possibly the last...

The next day dawned bright and sunny. A glorious beginning to the end of the world. The Day of Reckoning was here at last. July the 21st 2144. The time was now 9:00 in the morning. Just five hours left until Mobius was obliterated by Enerjak. Such a glorious image was on the mind of the crazily working and still very maniacal Dr. Finitevus. He hadn't slept a wink last night for he had been far too excited to bother about something as useless and unnecessary as sleep. He didn't waste a single moment of last night setting up Phase 2 of Operation: Enerjak Reborn. After fleeing his own ship yesterday, he had come back to his favourite hiding place in the world, the old lab in Megapolis that he had taken refuge in since the day he began formulating the Dark Armada. He had first come to the lab after the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses had ended. Now the lab was being used once again for Operation: Enerjak Rising Phase 2. Finitevus had decided not to do it onboard The Nefarious itself for it was too dangerous and risky to try and create 100 custom made Chaos Emeralds on a ship that the Royal Fighters had an easy way onboard. They still had his warp ring so they could easily get on the ship and try to stop him. Thus as a contingency, he had installed his way of creating more Chaos Emeralds in the lab. He had known that he would need it in the lab since he already expected the Mobians to wise up enough to know the inside of his ship well enough to use a warp ring to get onboard. He had even expected at least to lose a warp ring or two during the whole conflict with the Royal Fighters which in turn had led to him creating this big contingency plan. The heroes that he longed to destroy had not been in the lab. They didn't even know about this lab. They would never know where to find him and thus, he could continue with Phase 2 of his plan in peace. And all night had been spent executing Phase 2. Finitevus had built himself a machine that was capable of duplicating his Synthetic Chaos Energy formula. It was also capable of creating a Chaos Emerald from any amount of Chaos Energy possible. Finitevus could have a drop of Chaos Energy and it would still make a Chaos Emerald, albeit a very small one. The machine was very large and bulky with a lot of switches, a conveyer belt for Chaos Emeralds to slide out on and a large container to hold them at the end of the belt. There was a large basin on one side to hold any Chaos Energy that was being created inside the marvellous invention. The machine was something Finitevus had invented during the days of Angel Island being on the ground. His machine hadn't been approved of unfortunately for the elders saw it as a device that could be used for very nefarious purposes. And now Finitevus had built it again in the period between Eggman's death and the Dark Armada's first move. The machine had been at work all night and by morning, Finitevus could see that it had produced enough Chaos Energy to create 100 Chaos Emeralds out of. The albino echidna cackled delightedly, pleased to see his beautiful work ready for the next stage. He set the machine so it would shape the Chaos Energy into Chaos Emeralds and he waited back excitedly as it whirred into life and began to commence with its work.

"Yes...so glorious...such a marvellous piece of science...and it's working beautifully!" cackled Finitevus maniacally.

He wasn't at all amazed at how well his machine was working. He was the kind of scientist who made something and it never went wrong. His Synthetic Chaos Energy was the exception but most of it had been a case of testing it on the wrong people more than the formula being straight up wrong. But nevertheless, he was very happy with the results his machine was producing. He had enough Chaos Energy for 100 Chaos Emeralds and now his machine was preparing to make all the Chaos Emeralds. He watched excitedly as his beautiful work continued.

"It's a pity that those emeralds won't be ready for a few hours but the wait will be worth it. MORE than worth it!" cried Finitevus gleefully, "It's taken me a year's worth of waiting before Operation Enerjak: Reborn could commence. And now it's coming to a close. With Phase 2 completed, I shall FINALLY become Enerjak!"

The echidna grinned delightedly to himself. He could already imagine himself in the Enerjak attire now. Just a few hours away and he would be wearing the Enerjak attire and also wielding his power to deadly and catastrophic effect. And as a result, he would achieve his ultimate goal, to wipe out all of Mobius and to start it anew in his image. A world that worshipped him as the almighty Enerjak would be perfect for him and being a god, he would rule it for all eternity. Finitevus turned his back on the machine and he walked out of the room, leaving the device to do its work while he went to do something else. Finitevus had decided that before he became Enerjak, he would have one last bout of fun as himself just to give himself some entertainment before his plan came to fruition. He wasn't the only one in the Megapolis laboratory. The entire Dark Armada was there with him too. Ravage Bloodfang, Raphael the Cyber Husky, Captain Metal, Zira the Ruthless, Owen Pounder, Alistair Drakken, Lord Sycorax, Vladek the Frill-Necked Lizard, Romeo the Chameleon, Cutthroat Jim and Blizzard the Ice Witch were all there, awake and alert and waiting for a task to do. Yesterday, Blizzard had fainted again thanks to the Synthetic Chaos Energy in her body but after a day's rest, she was now fully-rested and ready to fight again. Finitevus had realized what the problem with her was. The Chaos Energy was too much for her to control and because of this, a side effect of the formula was that Blizzard would "burn out" after many uses of Chaos Control and other Chaos Attacks and then fall unconscious. Finitevus had mitigated the problem last night by giving her a special serum that helped her natural energy balance out the Chaos Energy in her body. The serum had seemed to work for Blizzard looked very well as if she'd never fallen unconscious. The Dark Armada all bowed graciously to Dr. Finitevus as he entered the room. They had joined Finitevus in the lab instead of being onboard The Nefarious like they normally would have been as par Finitevus's gambit to make the Royal Fighters worried and anxious just to toy with their minds a little and maybe make them less prepared for the conclusion of Operation: Enerjak Reborn. With them not on the ship and in a place the Royal Fighters knew nothing about, the Royal Fighters were likely worrying their heads off on where they were now a feeling that made the armada feel great inside and that they were on top of the game once again.

"Good morning Dr. Finitevus." said Zira loyally, "Did you sleep pleasantly at all?"

"Oh Zira, I couldn't sleep last night due to how excited I am!" cried Finitevus ecstatically, "Our plan, Operation: Villains Rising, is nearly complete! Phase 2 is well underway as we speak and in a few hours, the plan can reach its conclusion!"

"That be great to hear me heartie!" cheered Captain Metal excitedly, "I'm so glad to hear that our plan is nearly complete! I bet those foolish Royal Fighters will not be prepared for us when we use yer Chaos Emeralds to make ourselves all powerful and destroy them all in one fell swoop!"

"I can just hear their dying screams now…" purred Ravage delightedly, "And I hope to hear Bunnie's most of all…"

"As I hope to hear Dark and Kiara's the most!" added Raphael, "It's a pity that not all of the armada's here to see the plan reaching its conclusion…"

"Scourge and Fiona likely would have turned on me anyway." said Finitevus casually, "And Conquering Storm brought her fate upon herself. Their deaths were a necessity for us in the grand scheme of things. Lennox is the only one who really should be missed, he was a good asset to our army."

"You do have a point." said Sycorax, shrugging, "So, what are we going to do until the plan is completed?"

"I have a job just for Blizzard." explained Finitevus, "I hope to break Sonic's heart. So much so that he'll not have the spirit or motivation left in him to try and stop me and thus, give us all an easy kill when his time comes."

Blizzard looked surprised, yet delighted that she was being given a task.

"Why Finitevus, I'm honoured that you have a task for me in particular." said Blizzard, preening with pleasure, "So what is it you want me to do oh glorious leader?"

"You my lovely little Ice Witch will go over to Castle Acorn." ordered Finitevus, "And when you get there…you will assassinate Queen Sally Acorn. Sonic is madly in love with her, killing her will break Sonic so much that he'll want to be put out of his misery. And we will be kind enough to oblige to that request."

"Oh master, thank you so much!" squealed Blizzard excitedly, "I've always wanted to kill that impudent squirrel! Especially after what her father did to me!"

"Well you can put your grudge with Sally to rest my dear." purred Finitevus wickedly, "Do NOT come back to me unless you kill Sally Acorn. And to prove to me that you have killed Sally…bring the body back with you."

"I will do." said Blizzard gleefully, "I'll have the squirrel dead before you can say "Villains Rising"!"

With that said, Blizzard warped out of the lab with a Chaos Control, heading over to Castle Acorn to carry out her wicked deed. The moment she left, the Dark Armada all bore eyes on Finitevus.

"And what are we going to do?" demanded Owen impatiently.

"You will all take The Nefarious and destroy Castle Acorn once Sally is dead." ordered Finitevus, "Come to New Mobotropolis with the ship invisible and de-cloak once you're ready to destroy the castle. Destroying New Mobotropolis's oldest and only remaining landmark from the first city will pour more salt onto a very big wound. With the queen dead and her iconic castle destroyed, the Royal Fighters will abandon all hope and fall into a despair so great that they'll not care when the time comes for us to end their lives."

"Great plan Finitevus! We'll get onto it immediately!" cried Alistair excitedly.

Finitevus smiled at his armada and he flicked a warp ring up into the air. The warp ring expanded to twice its size and opened up a portal to inside The Nefarious . The ship was still airborne, hovering just above Megapolis miles away from where Finitevus and the armada were hiding. Finitevus smiled wickedly over the thought of the Royal Fighters being closer to him than they initially thought only to miss him entirely as they came aboard his ship to search for him. The Dark Armada all filed through the warp ring onto the ship and as they all went through it, Finitevus closed up the warp ring and put it back onto his wrist. He began to cackle wickedly to himself as he walked back into the room where his machine was.

"Those fools…they really think I have their best interests at heart?" sneered Finitevus, "No…they were merely pawns in my big game. They'll be the first to die at Enerjak's hand as a reward for their cooperation. I can just see their faces now…"

He filled the room with a haunting, wicked cackle that could rival any evil laugh ever recorded and used in any entertainment media…

Over in New Mobotropolis, an anxiety ridden Sally Acorn sat in front of her vanity and tried her best to keep herself composed. Today was the day the world was supposed to end and the Royal Fighters were just beginning to wake up and get ready for their mission to stop the Dark Armada. But the trouble was, Sally still had no idea where to find Finitevus or his armada. It didn't help how last night, she hadn't slept a wink either. She looked extremely tired but her anxiety ridden body didn't make her feel very tired. It seemed to be the only thing keeping her awake at this moment in time. As she tried to control herself, Abby and Nicole stood behind her and tried their best to comfort their anxiety-fuelled friend.

"Take it easy Sally, we won't save Mobius from Enerjak if you act like that." said Nicole softly.

"We need you at your best Sally. We can't have you all worried like this. Please calm down." said Abby gently.

"Oh Abby, Nicole, I'm so sorry about this but today is doomsday for all of us!" shrieked Sally, her face a crazed expression of anxiety and fear, "It's impossible NOT to feel worried, especially since we don't really know where to start looking for Finitevus!"

"Well I'm sure Sora will pick up something." Nicole said matter-of-factly, "She left that orb on The Nefarious, it's got to pick something up eventually."

"And what if it doesn't?" asked Sally worriedly.

"Be realistic here cousin, the Dark Armada are always onboard that ship, they're never away from it permanently." said Abby softly, "I bet Finitevus and his gang were preparing the final stages of their plan and that's why they weren't on the ship. They'll be back on it now I bet."

"I sure hope they are." moaned Sally, "It's our only chance of finding Finitevus and stopping him from becoming Enerjak…"

"I know it is." said Nicole, her face looking grave and serious, "Maybe in case Sora doesn't find out where he is in time, I could use Mobius's satellites to…"

Then suddenly, a bright green flash appeared behind Sally, Abby and Nicole and the girls received the shock of their lives when they saw who it was that had appeared in said bright green flash. Blizzard the Ice Witch stood before them, grinning like a she-devil and brandishing an ice dagger in her hand. She twirled the dagger around in her hands and pointed it at Sally.

"Ah Sally Acorn. So glad to see you still looking so healthy and alive…" purred Blizzard wickedly, "Good. It'll make killing you feel more special!"

Sally's heart missed more than a beat. It missed two beats. Blizzard was here to kill her?! And all while Mobius's doom was on its way to becoming a thing?! Sally didn't understand one little bit. Why would Blizzard come to kill her now? Finitevus had sent her, that much she knew but she wondered why Finitevus couldn't just wait until he became Enerjak before he killed her. What was he hoping to gain when he pretty much was about to become Enerjak? Sally then had a terrible though. Was Finitevus doing this to stab at Sonic? She knew how much Sonic loved her and with her dead, she doubted the hedgehog would handle himself. She'd heard how horrified he'd been over the fact Eggman had made him strip and torture her as Mecha Sonic last year. Her actually being dead would cause Sonic's heart to shatter like glass. Sally couldn't let the possessed ice-witch kill her now. She had to knock Blizzard out and get the Chaos Energy out of her veins immediately. Sally clipped on her wristbands and deployed her wrist blades. She gave Blizzard a look of steel as she prepared to fight her.

"Blizzard, you cannot kill me." said Sally coldly, "If you do, you'll make my friends very angry and they'll be after you."

"Who cares if they do come after me?" crowed Blizzard, "I'll just kill them all and thanks to my Chaos powers, I'll be unstoppable! The Royal Fighters cannot stop me!"

"We'll see about that." snorted Sally. She then leaned over to Nicole and whispered to her. "Nicole, get a syringe."

Nicole nodded understandingly and she materialized out of the room. Blizzard just dismissed Nicole's leaving the room as mere cowardice and didn't bother about the holographic lynx. She instead focused squarely on Sally. She didn't really bother about the blonde-haired squirrel with Sally for she didn't really know who she was and she'd been ordered to kill Sally. The Ice Witch clenched her teeth as she and her red-haired opponent prepared to fight each other. Abby was ready to fight too, not having any weapons on her but preparing to fight using mere fisticuffs and her battle prowess that she had learnt from being raised in a jungle for a time.

"Now I'll get the chance to avenge my dead cult. Your father killed them and now you'll pay for them in his name." growled Blizzard angrily.

"I hope when we get the Chaos Energy out of you, you'll not be thinking that anymore…" murmured Sally grimly.

She and Blizzard charged at each other, weapons raised and ready to strike. Blizzard swung her dagger at Sally but the squirrel swung her energy blades down and sliced the dagger in two. Blizzard had only seen a blue blur sweep downwards and didn't realize what Sally had done until the dagger fell apart. Blizzard gasped in horror at her severed weapon but she didn't let that bother her. She summoned some Chaos powered icicles to her hands and she threw them at Sally. The squirrel moved her blades in as many directions as possible, slicing through all the icicles as they hurled towards her and preventing a single one from getting near to her. But Blizzard had use the icicles as a distraction. She rushed towards Sally and punched her in the gut, sending the queen hurling backwards across the room and straight into her vanity. Sally crashed into the vanity, breaking it and cracking the mirror into shards of glass. Blizzard summoned another ice dagger to her hands and she prepared to throw it at Sally. But the royal rodent picked up the broken mirror and threw it straight at Blizzard like a Frisbee. The mirror crashed into Blizzard and knocked her down onto her back. Just as she was getting up onto her feet, Abby slugged the Ice Witch in the gut. The snow-coloured hedgehog doubled over in pain and Abby unleashed some savage attacks on her that had a rather animalistic edge and motion to them. She clawed at Blizzard, kicked him, punched him and even head butted her in the chest. Every attack felt like a very hard blow that even a Chaos-Powered Mobian such as herself felt the brute strength and power of.

But Blizzard recovered very quickly and she used a Chaos Control to slow time around Abby as the squirrel threw another punch at her. Abby was now moving at the speed of a crawling snail. Blizzard manoeuvred herself around behind the former jungle girl and she pile-dived Abby in the back, throwing her down onto her stomach as the Chaos Control wore off. Abby winced as she hit the floor hard, her face feeling most of the impact. Sally rushed towards Blizzard but the Ice Witch ended up using a Chaos Control to stop time around her. She summoned a dagger to her hand, ready to plunge it into Sally's heart and finish her off. The frozen squirrel was helpless to defend herself. Stuck in a running pose before her icy opponent, she could only stand and watch as Blizzard prepared to kill her. But then Abby grabbed Blizzard's arm from behind and forced her to drop the dagger. Blizzard turned around and socked the squirrel in the face, sending her flying backwards across the room. She crashed into the door but the door withstood the impact and remained on its hinges. The blonde-haired squirrel rested for a moment to let the pain in her body subside. Cackling menacingly, Blizzard turned around to face Sally. But her Chaos Control had worn off so was met with a punch to the face from the Queen of New Mobotropolis. Blizzard's head jerked backwards in reaction to the punch that had been thrown at her. Sally then spun around on her heel and roundhouse kicked Blizzard in the face, knocking the snow-dwelling hedgehog onto her side. She then knelt down beside Blizzard and held her blades close to her throat.

"Don't make any moves Blizzard or it's bye-bye your head." said Sally coldly, "And don't bother using a Chaos Control. I'll behead you before you can say anything."

"Bah! You won't kill me!" snarled Blizzard, "You're too noble for that!"

"Am I really?" said Sally, feigning darkness in her attitude to try and convince Blizzard she wasn't kidding, "I plan to kill Dr. Finitevus. I can easily kill you as well."

"But you won't…" purred Blizzard wickedly, "Especially because of this!"

Sally suddenly felt an icicle slice past her arm, drawing a long cut across it and making her scream in pain. Sally sheathed her blades and clutched the cut on her arm as it began to sting furiously. Blizzard had summoned an icicle to her hand without Sally realizing it and with merely a thought, she'd commanded it to attack the queen. With her opponent now distracted, Blizzard leapt back up onto her feet and uppercut the squirrel into the air. Sally flew backwards in an arch and landed down with a heavy thump onto the hard tiled floor stomach first. She picked herself up and deployed her energy blades again. Blizzard summoned an Ice Sword to her hands and prepared to attack Sally with it. But just before she could do so, Abby attacked her from behind once again. She kicked Blizzard behind her knees and made the white-furred witch fall over onto her knees. She didn't have time to get back up before Abby made a lunge for her hands and tried to wrestle the sword out of her grasp. But Blizzard was too strong for Sally's loyal cousin. She yanked her hands effortlessly out of Abby's grasp and kicked her in the stomach. Abby coughed loudly as she was kicked and she doubled over, grasping her belly in pain. Blizzard then grabbed Abby by the throat and tossed her across the room as if she was a rag doll. Abby crashed into the wall and fell down onto the floor after crashing into it. She tried to get back up but the squirrel had no strength left in her. She felt too weak to fight anymore. Sally gasped, hoping that Abby wasn't too badly hurt. She couldn't check on her cousin yet though, she had her life to fight for. Sally charged towards Blizzard and slashed at her with her blades. She caught Blizzard across the chest but the ice witch healed herself with a Chaos Regeneration. She then retaliated with a slash across the belly on Sally with her own sword. Thankfully, the cut wasn't very deep but Sally still grimaced as the cut began to sting and blood trickled thinly from the corners of the cut. Blizzard took advantage of this and she punched Sally as hard as she could into the wall. Sally hit the wall hard and just before she could go anywhere, Blizzard whipped out her wand and used a spell to freeze Sally's hands and feet to the wall, trapping her and putting her effectively at her mercy. Sally struggled furiously in her icy binds, trying desperately to get free. Her heart was racing and she became very frightened. She was stuck and she couldn't get away! She was as good as dead now! Blizzard advanced menacingly towards Sally, sword pointed at her heart and she grinned wickedly.

"Now to kill you. I hope this hurts Sally Acorn! And now you can join your filthy father in hell for all eternity!" cackled Blizzard maniacally.

"No! Please! No!" whimpered Sally, "Please spare my life! I beg of you!"

Sally knew that begging was futile but she was mostly doing this to try and buy time for Nicole to return. It worked for Blizzard hesitated for a brief moment. But that was because she was getting ready to stab Sally's heart. The hesitation was enough for Abby to run up behind Blizzard and wrap her arms around her. She pulled Blizzard away, using all the strength she had in her body to keep her from stabbing Sally. Blizzard Chaos Controlled out of her grasp but Abby already knew where she was going to appear. Sally had taught her the very fundamental lesson of if somebody teleports, they will always teleport behind you so prepare for that. Abby turned around and just as Blizzard reappeared, she head-butted her directly above the bridge of her nose. Blizzard wailed in pain and staggered backwards, blood trickling from her nose and staining the fur above her lips red. Blizzard prepared to attack but just as the magical Mobian was about to attack, Nicole re-materialized into the room. The lynx had found a syringe at last and she quickly jammed it into Blizzard's neck before she could react. The Ice Witch cried out but her gasp of surprise died in her throat, causing her to merely make a choking sound as she comprehended what had happened. Nicole then used the syringe to get rid of the Chaos Energy in Blizzard's body. She had been brewing with the stuff for far too long so it was about time it was finally out of her. Sally smiled happily as Nicole got rid of Blizzard's Chaos Powers. Abby picked up Blizzard's Ice Sword and began seeing to getting her cousin free. She chipped at the shackles with the sword until eventually, she broke through all of them. Sally was now free again and she tightly embraced her cousin delightedly.

"Oh thank you for helping me fight off Blizzard cousin!" she cried,

"And double thank you for buying Nicole some time to arrive!"

"Oh Sally, you don't have to thank me." said Abby happily, "You're my cousin, it's my job to look out for you. Besides, it's doomsday today, I'd rather you were still alive beside me as we try to prevent it."

"That's a point." said Sally, nodding.

The two squirrels looked over at Blizzard as Nicole took the syringe out of her neck. She then materialized out of the room so she could dispose of the Chaos Energy. Blizzard collapsed onto her knees, her now normal icy blue eyes streaming with tears and her body trembling uncontrollably. Sally and Abby both pitied Blizzard. They imagined how terrible she must be feeling now having turned evil thanks to the Chaos Energy Finitevus had given her and all the bad things she had done. She had abdicated her evil ambitions to please her deceased family but she'd turned evil again. They imagined that Blizzard felt like she'd betrayed her family and the promise she'd made them. They both knelt down beside Blizzard and patted her back comfortingly.

"What have I done…?" she whimpered, "I…I almost killed Sally! And just after I got over my grudges with her! I also fought against the Royal Fighters…and contributed to the Dark Armada!"

"There, there Blizzard, it's OK." said Sally gently.

"No Sally, it's not OK!" wailed Blizzard, "I promised to be good for my beloved Iceberg and yet I ended up becoming evil again thanks to that energy in me! I should have had it removed immediately, I shouldn't have kept it in me! Oh Sally I'm so sorry! Please, please forgive me!"

She threw her arms around her former nemesis and wailed into her shoulder. Sally hugged Blizzard back, the squirrel feeling very sorry for the Ice Witch. She had worked so hard to be a good witch again and Finitevus had marred that very badly by doing this to her. Sally let Blizzard have a good cry before she patted her back gently and spoke to her.

"Blizzard, it's OK. I forgive you." she said, "I'm the one that should be sorry. I should have got the energy out of you when you fainted. But I didn't and I allowed this to happen to you. I should be asking for YOUR forgiveness Blizzard. I'm so sorry I caused this to happen to you."

"It's OK Sally…" snivelled Blizzard, wiping her eyes dry, "We all make mistakes, some very costly and others not so much. But now this mistake has been removed…I can join you again and fight against the Dark Armada, which is EXACTLY what I came to you for originally!"

"Yes indeed Blizzard." said Sally with a smile, "Oh and how's Iceberg and your kids?" she asked concernedly.

"I can hear their voices again." said Blizzard delightedly, "The Chaos Energy stopped them from communicating with me but now I hear them again. And they're so glad to have me back again!"

"Glad to hear that…I think." said Abby uneasily, "So Blizzard, can you tell us where Dr. Fini-Creep-Us is hiding? Surely you've been with him right?"

"Oh yes." said Blizzard, getting up onto her feet, "He's in a laboratory in Megapolis. Give me the warp ring and…"

She was interrupted by the bedroom doors bursting open and a very frantic looking Sora Prower rushing inside. The girls all stared incredulously into her direction as she ran up towards them, gasping and panting exhaustedly for breath.

"Sally! You'll…you'll not believe what…I've just heard!" shrieked Sora.

She paused for a moment as she suddenly registered the fact Blizzard, the Ice Witch who had nearly caused her an early death when she was still evil, was now in the room but she looked normal again and no longer had the glowing green eyes.

"Oh, Blizzard. This is a surprise." gasped Sora, "I guess you've been cured now since your eyes are normal again?"

"I am indeed dear child." said Blizzard happily, "Nicole got the Chaos Energy out of us. Now sweetheart, what's the emergency?"

"The armada's back on the ship!" cried Sora, "And they're going to destroy Castle Acorn once Blizzard here kills Queen Sally! But given you're not evil anymore Blizzard, that won't be happening anytime soon."

"Well in that case, we'll have to stop the armada from destroying my castle before we deal with Finitevus…" murmured Sally, "Come on girls, let's get all the Royal Fighters together and storm The Nefarious. We'll beat the armada into submission, destroy the ship and then find Finitevus."

Everybody nodded agreeably and they followed Sally as she ran out through the doors. It was coming close to the end of the world but now Blizzard was back, Sally didn't have to worry about not finding Finitevus in time. Blizzard could easily warp them all over to where Finitevus was since she knew where he was. There was a chance that the end of the world could be stopped after all…

Footnotes:

 See *The Terror of Enerjak

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales of Mobius Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm

This is it guys! We're on the official doomsday! The day Mobius ends! But there might be a chance it can be prevented! Will our heroes succeed? Or is there just no chance of that?

Find out in Part 2 next time...

Dark Armada Part 24: Enerjak Rising 2

Story 224: Enerjak Rising Part 2: The Final Stage

The Dark Armada Chapter 24 of 25

11:00 am

Only one whole hour left until the end of the world.

It was July the 21st 2144. On this very day, the terrifying Demi-god Enerjak came into existence thanks to the nefarious actions of Dr. Finitevus, the evil uncle of emerald guardian Knuckles the Echidna and Mobius's biggest enemy since the late Dr. Eggman. Finitevus had been preparing for this moment. Ever since the first Enerjak* and the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses, Finitevus had desired nothing more than to become the chaotic demon himself. He was hoping to achieve this by making 100 synthetic Chaos Emeralds to go with the eight Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald he already had. 109 Chaos emeralds would be more than enough to give him the power to become Enerjak. Enerjak was a demon made of Chaos Energy and he was one of the most, if not the most, powerful enemies the Royal Fighters had ever faced. He had corrupted many people, turned Chun-Nan into a cultist country that worshipped him and had attempted to use the heroes themselves as bodies for himself to pilot and he'd also come close to ending all of Mobius. Only Sonic had been able to stop him. And now Finitevus was hoping to resurrect the armoured Chaos god…by becoming the very entity himself. He had formulated an army of villains to help him achieve this goal and now he was just two hours away from completion. As of now, his machine had made 50 Chaos Emeralds. Just 50 more and he could become Enerjak. Then the end of the world could begin. And when Mobius was nothing more than a sorry wreck barely able to support life, the Mobian populace could restart and then Enerjak would rule supreme over all of Mobius.

Only one force on the whole of the planet knew about this and they were hoping very much to stop it from happening. The Royal Fighters Service. The R.F.S. had been formed the day Eggman invaded and attacked Mobius. It had been in service for the entirety of the war with Eggman and it was because of its long, loyal service to the world that Mobius was still intact. But now they were about to face their deadliest mission yet. They had to prevent the world from coming to an end yet again. But there was no Eraser behind it this time, no Dr. Eggman, no Perfect Chaos, no Solaris or anything of the sort. There was just Dr. Finitevus and his armada and Finitevus was on the way to becoming Enerjak. The armada knew nothing about this for Finitevus had assured them his plan had their best interests at heart and any ravings about Enerjak were quickly dismissed as just delusional thoughts, even though one of their own had believed it before dying at Fiona's hands. They would never be prepared for Enerjak's rising and unknown to them, Finitevus planned on sacrificing them after he became Enerjak. The Royal Fighters had received a very lucky break through on this very tense and adrenaline pumping day. Blizzard the Ice Witch, who had been pumped full of Synthetic Chaos Energy for a few days, had been sent to kill Queen Sally Acorn of New Mobotropolis but after a tense fight with her and her cousin Abby the Squirrel, Blizzard had been relived of the energy by Nicole the A.I. Lynx after she used a syringe to get rid of the energy that had corrupted her. This was fortunate for the Royal Fighters since Blizzard knew where Finitevus was hiding. And because she knew where he was hiding, she'd be able to provide them a simple portal to his hiding place with the warp ring that Roxy the Raccoon had given to them after betraying the armada. But the Royal Fighters had another problem to deal with. The Dark Armada itself was hoping to destroy Castle Acorn, the home of Queen Sally herself but they had to wait until Blizzard came back and showed them that she'd killed Sally first. This gave the heroes the time they needed to gather together and prepare for the fight of their lives.

In the centre of New Mobotropolis, all the Royal Fighters in the R.F.S. were gathered together in a crowd that stood before Sonic the Hedgehog and Sally Acorn. All the teams were there from Team Mobotropolis to Team Adabat to Team Chun-Nan to Team Nekronopolis and finally, Team Megapolis. There were even some who weren't technically Royal Fighters but still heroes nonetheless such as Shadow the Hedgehog, Rouge the Bat and the futuristic duo Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat. Silver and Blaze were the ones who had actually informed Sonic and friends about Enerjak being the one that dooms the entire world in the first place. If it wasn't for them, they wouldn't have known at all and would be completely in the dark about the entire thing. The teams all stood patiently together as Sonic and Sally made their announcements.

"Everybody in the R.F.S.! Today will be the biggest day of our lives!" announced Sally importantly, "For thanks to information from our future friends Silver and Blaze, we know when Enerjak rises. He is coming this very day! At exactly 12 o' clock noon today, Enerjak will rise and unleash his rampage that'll destroy our world…and have us all very much dead as a result."

There were nervous murmurings and gasps of horror as the other Royal Fighter teams took in the information. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters already knew about this so they didn't show any reactions to the announcement. Sonic and Sally both took in the reaction from the crowd before them. They knew it would have been hard to deliver such news to them but it had to be done.

"And we all know how to stop Enerjak from coming!" Sonic declared, "Finitevus is the one responsible! He becomes Enerjak and he destroys everything…and leaves Silver and Blaze living in a ruined future as a result. So we plan to kill Finitevus before he can become Enerjak!"

That statement seemed to gain approval from the Royal Fighters. They were all very much in on the idea of killing Finitevus, especially as it meant that Enerjak wouldn't destroy everything. Sonic was pleased to get such a reaction for he wanted the albino echidna dead more than anything too.

"And because Blizzard has been turned back to our side, she can help us find Finitevus." said Sally happily, "She'll use my warp ring to open a portal to where Finitevus is. I shall send three very trustworthy Royal Fighters to finish him off. Sonic, Tails and Knuckles will take care of the evil doctor." she said, looking at Sonic beside her.

"Nice choices Sal, especially since you picked me." snickered Sonic,

"Knuckles and Tails have very personal reasons for having Finitevus dead as well as me so they deserve to join me on the action."

"Indeed." said Sally, "And while those three send Finitevus to hell where he belongs, the rest of us are going to fight against the Dark Armada. A very reliable resource tells me they're plotting to destroy my castle." she said, winking at Sora in the crowed.

"But all of you won't let that happen of course." said Sonic brightly, "Sally here has been on The Nefarious enough times to visualize it perfectly. She can warp all of you on and then you can all beat the armada into submission. Whereas Finitevus has to die, the armada can do time for their actions instead and that's just be being generous, lucky for them."

"We must also consider the fact that the armada doesn't even know what Finitevus's plan is really about." noted Sally, "So after we beat the armada, we could maybe try and convince them that the plan's about Enerjak and not them at all and maybe get them to reform."

The Royal Fighters considered that option and began murmuring amongst one another. But Sonic didn't seem very convinced the idea was a good one and he made sure Sally knew about it.

"Uh Sal? Have you realized that sweet-talking the enemy rarely, if ever, works?" he noted, "I doubt the armada will believe you."

"It's still worth a shot." said Sally firmly, "Besides, the armada deserves some level of mercy since they're just pawns in Finitevus's wicked game."

"I can just imagine how they're all going to feel when they find that out." said Sonic, shrugging casually as if the thought was no big deal to him, "I kinda feel glad that Scourge, Fiona, Conquering Storm and Lennox had been spared of that revelation. Least Enerjak won't get them and all when he rises. The rest...they're pretty much doomed since I doubt Enerjak will spare them."

"All the more reason why it's worth seeing if we can turn them against Finitevus once we defeat them." said Sally with a smile, "I sure hope we succeed. Then when Finitevus is stopped and the threat of Enerjak is cancelled, we will finally have peace."

"That would be very nice Queenie." said Sonic agreeably, "Might be much to hope for but hey, that's what we're here for. Anybody threatens Mobius's peace, we fight to keep it."

"Agreed." said Sally with a nod.

She then turned to the crowd and ordered Blizzard to come to her. Blizzard stepped shyly forward out of the crowd and walked up to Sally. Sally took the warp ring out of her vest pocket and she handed it to Blizzard. The snow-coloured hedgehog stared at the small device she now held in her hands. Finitevus had a lot of these on him and it amazed her to be holding a warp ring in her hands. She remembered how Finitevus tried to stop the fleeing Royal Fighters with it but they had instead used it against him and got away with it. How fortunate that the Royal Fighters had one now! The device was also a fascination to Blizzard for she saw it as a magical device. She loved all things magic to so be actually holding a magical device in her hands made her feel giddy with joy.

"Just visualize where you want to go and flick it into the air." ordered Sally.

"Thank you." said Blizzard, "It shouldn't be hard to visualize the inside of a dingy laboratory..."

She closed her eyes and imagined herself back in the laboratory with Dr. Finitevus and his disciples. The image wasn't something she was happy to be picturing but she put up with it. Blizzard pictured the lab so well that she began feeling like she was back into it. That was sure to get the warp ring to work. Blizzard had only really seen the room she and the armada had slept in of the lab, nothing else so that was the only room she could imagine. It would make it easier for the three chosen Royal Fighters to get in unnoticed for she doubted Finitevus would be anywhere except where his supposed machine was. With the perfect image in her mind, Blizzard flicked the warp ring into the air. She gasped in amazement as the warp ring expanded to twice its size and a portal opened up in the middle of it. How wonderful it felt to be using a warp ring! With the portal open, Tails and Knuckles emerged from the crowd and ran over to Sonic.

"OK guys, you ready?" asked Sonic enthusiastically.

"Always!" cried Tails excitedly, "Let's make that monster pay for what he's done!"

"I'm with ya until the end Sonic!" declared Knuckles, "My uncle will not live to see another sunrise..."

"You said it." said Sonic agreeably, "Let's go get Finitevus!"

But just as he was about to leave, Sonic felt a familiar hand touch his shoulder lightly. He turned his head to see that Sally was beside him, a look of concern on her beautiful face.

"Good luck Sonic." she said softly.

"I don't think I need that much of it." said Sonic casually, "But thanks."

The two then shared a parting kiss before Sonic turned around to enter the warp ring. He, Tails and Knuckles eagerly charged through the open golden portal, transporting themselves over from New Mobotropolis to Fintievus's Megapolis laboratory hideout. The warp ring closed up but Sally grabbed it before it could disappear. Sonic, Tails and Knuckles would make their way back with the Chaos Emeralds when they got them back from Finitevus. The emeralds had to be with the mad doctor, they couldn't be anywhere else. Now the mission to kill Finitevus and stop his plan was well underway, Sally reopened the warp ring for herself and the others to storm The Nefarious and beat the armada. As she stepped through the warp ring, she hoped dearly that the armada could be turned. She didn't want them to keep serving a master who's plan didn't have their best interests at heart. Plus it would be nicer if they were all good people instead of evil people. Sally would just have to see what happened when she and her teams infiltrated the ship...

11:15 am

Over in Megapolis, Finitevus was watching as his brilliant machine continued making more and more synthetic Chaos Emeralds by the second. It was 11:15 now. Just 45 minutes and he'd have all one-hundred Chaos Emeralds ready for his ritual. He had 60 Chaos Emeralds currently made now. Only forty more Chaos Emeralds and he could begin. He was wishing dearly that the machine would hurry up and finish its job. He was getting impatient as he waited for his scheme to reach its terrifying conclusion. The white-furred echidna was so impatient that he was beginning to pace around the room aimlessly, glancing occasionally at the machine as if willing for it to go faster. He knew full well that he couldn't rush perfection. If he rushed it now, something could go catastrophically wrong and then the whole plan would end up being completely moot. He was not letting a year's worth of planning go to waste now. The caped scientist glance at the machine again, noticing that two more Chaos Emeralds had now been made. The Synthetic Chaos Emeralds were a dazzling bunch. The basket at the end of the machine contained them all and Finitevus noticed how brightly they all shone together. They all had the colours of the eight Chaos Emeralds that had been used to make all of this possible, making them look very colourful too. They were so much like actual Chaos Emeralds that Finitevus himself wasn't sure if he could tell the difference between the synthetic emeralds and the real ones. But it didn't matter to him, he'd use them all regardless. He planned to set up his Enerjak transformation ritual with the one-hundred Chaos Emeralds placed all around the Master Emerald in a big circle and then he would stand atop the giant green gem that had once kept Angel Island afloat to begin the transformation. A very beautiful image indeed for a nihilistic demon like Finitevus. He began pacing around the room again, leaving the machine to continue its work.

"What wouldn't give for all one-hundred emeralds to be ready now..." Finitevus muttered to himself, "But I suppose I shouldn't fret so much. The foolish Royal Fighters will never find me, I'm as safe as I can be here. I have all the time I need for my scheme to reach its conclusion. I do have to wonder how Blizzard and the armada is doing now? I do hope that..."

"Finitevus! Your tyranny ends now!" bellowed a voice he knew all to well.

Finitevus's dreadlocks straightened and he leaped a foot into the air. He felt like he was about to have a heart attack. He couldn't possibly be hearing the voice of his loathsome nephew! Finitevus turned around slowly as if dreading to see what he thought he was about to see. Finitevus's head snapped around and he gasped in incredulous shock. Sonic, Tails and Knuckles were right here in his lab and standing before him, teeth gritted and knuckles cracking as they were about to go to town on him! The echidna couldn't believe what he was seeing.

"WHAT?!" he shrieked in a rather comical tone of voice, "But...but...HOW DID YOU FIND ME?!" he demanded frantically.

"Blizzard got the warm and fuzzies and decided to switch sides." said Sonic coldly, "She used our warp ring to take us here."

"Now we can stop you from ending our world!" snarled Tails, his face losing any of the cuteness it usually displayed as he scowled angrily at Finitevus, "You're dead Finitevus! When were done with you, you'll be buried underground with nothing but a gravestone to mark where your rotting carcass lies!"

"In the name of Angel Island and everybody who used to inhabit it, I'll see you dead Finitevus!" snarled Knuckles.

No you can't!" begged Finitevus pathetically, "Don't you see you flaccid minded fools? I'm about to achieve a miracle of science! With the aid of all these Chaos Emeralds, I'm about to transform myself into a god of unstoppable power! Surely you wouldn't sully such an ambitious science project such as this?!"

"Of course we would because your "project" destroys our world!" growled Sonic, "Me and my friends have been fighting for far too long to keep Mobius safe and existing! We won't let you undermine our work Dr. Fini-Dork-Us!"

"OK stop calling me that, it's getting VERY irritating and it's NOT. FUNNY. AY ALL!" snarled Finitevus angrily, "And you really are hubristic, vacuous morons if you think you can just traipse in here and destroy my experiments! I have all the power! I have more Chaos Emeralds than you've ever seen in your worthless lives! Do you really think you can stop me from achieving my goals?"

"We've stopped way bigger threats than you, you creep!" declared Tails matter-of-factly, "We stopped guys like the Devatrons, the Black Arms, Solaris and heck, THE ERASER HIMSELF! We actually defeated the God of Existence! We can stop you easily!"

"Well then, let us see how accurate your claim is..." growled Finitevus, "You trio of idiots will not leave this room alive!"

"Neither will you Finitevus!" growled Knuckles.

"This will be a fight to the death...for all of us." said Sonic coldly, "Tails, Knuckles, show him no mercy!" the hedgehog commanded.

"We won't." both Tails and Knuckles replied at once, sounding as equally as cold as Sonic himself did.

"Don't expect any from me either..." said Finitevus sinisterly, gripping the blades sown into the edges of his cape and preparing to attack.

The echidna let out an animalistic, savage roar of rage as he thundered towards his enemies like an angry lion. Sonic, Tails and Knuckles both cried out in unison as they charged towards their deadliest enemy yet. This was it. The battle that would determine the fate of everything. If Finitevus won then Enerjak was as good as risen. If Sonic, Tails and Knuckles won than Mobius would breathe a sigh of relief today, glad to once again avoid certain death at the hands of a mad person or creature.

Finitevus jumped into the air and twirled around in an amazing somersault that made the three heroes gasp in amazement. They were used to Finitevus's fighting style mostly but his gymnastic abilities still amazed them no matter how many times they saw him doing it. Finitevus landed directly before his mesmerized opponents but him landing on the floor had snapped them out of it just in time to duck as the echidna swung his blades at them in a scissor like manner. Sonic sprang up as Finitevus's blades missed him and he threw a punch at the echinda's head. The caped villain bent over backwards to dodge the attack, amazed he had even managed to react fast enough to do so, and he grabbed Sonic's arm with both hands. The hedgehog pulled on his arm, trying desperately to get free. But Fintievus's grip was too strong, he refused to let go of his blue-furred nemesis. Finitevus then kicked Sonic's legs out from underneath him but he still held onto his arm, causing Sonic to fall over onto the floor from the waist down. Now Sonic couldn't pull back, Finitevus swung him around and walloped Tails and Knuckles with the Mobian hedgehog. Both Tails and Knuckles cried out as their friend was swung into them like a baton. Sonic seemed the most hurt for he'd been swung into two opponents at once. Finitevus then spun Sonic around until eventually, he let go and sent the Hero of Mobius flying across the room. He missed the impact of his attack as he turned around to see how Tails and Knuckles were doing.

He was met with a solid punch to the face from Knuckles. So solid that he was taken clean off his feet and thrown down hard onto the floor. Finitevus never ceased to be amazed on how hard his nephew could really punch. His late brother Locke had taught Knuckles well, very well in the art of fisticuffs. The scientist got back up onto his feet, only to then be uppercut in the face by the red-furred brawler. Finitevus's head snapped backwards so hard that he nearly lost his balance. He didn't keep it for long for Knuckles slugged him in the gut and knocked him down onto his bottom again. The spike-fisted echidna than pounced on Finitevus, taking advantage of his uncle being down on the floor, but as he landed on him, Finitevus swung his legs up and threw Knuckles over onto his back. The echidna than pounced back up onto his feet and quickly ducked just as Tails threw a punch at him. The fox, who was flying in the air and trying to attack the echidna, seemed more keen to beat up Finitevus than even Sonic and Knuckles. The echidna noticed this from the look in Tails's face and how heavily he was throwing his attacks. Tails threw a punch hard enough to break a jaw bone at Finitevus but he missed, much to his annoyance, as the echidna bent over backwards. The twin-tailed genius really wanted to land a good punch on Finitevus since the echidna had kidnapped him and roboticized him, forcing him to work for the evil scientist and even contribute to his overall scheme. Finitevus threw a punch at Tails, slugging him hard in the stomach and knocking him down onto his back. Tails lay on the floor, his eyes trickling with tears of rage as Finitevus gripped his blades and held them close to his throat.

"You really shouldn't be so vengeful little boy." he sneered, "You won't fare very well if you let blind rage motivate you."

"I'm not motivated by rage! I'm motivated by love, the love I have for my friends and my world!" retorted Tails angrily, any trace of his childlike innocence completely gone on his angry face, "Something you have no concept for because you're such a soulless, heartless monster!"

"And you say that as if I'm supposed to care." sneered Finitevus, "Love is a pathetic emotion and loving something only leads to heartbreak and trauma when you lose it. Why even have that emotion?"

"Because love gives us something to fight for...and we have MANY things to fight for!" declared Tails, "What do you have to fight for?! A world of ruination?!"

"No, I fight for a better Mobius!" snarled Finitevus, "I am razing this stupid planet to ashes so that life on Mobius can start all over! And in my image no less..."

"And for what?! Just so Silver and Blaze can be born in the future and then come to the past to stop you?!" yelled Tails, "And you think we fight for a forlorn cause...your cause is the epitome of forlorn!"

This seemed to offend Finitevus very much for he gritted his teeth and aimed the blades for a killer slash across Tails's neck. The fox covered his eyes in fright, worried that the end was coming for him. But then Finitevus was suddenly whisked off his feet and slammed into the wall by a very furious Sonic the Hedgehog. As the echidna was violently slammed into the wall, the hedgehog made sure his spin-dash hurt as much as possible as he continued spinning away into Finitevus's back, ripping his cape to shreds as he did so. The echidna screamed in agony as Sonic inflicted unbearable pain onto his back.

"Don't! Ever! Threaten! My! Best! Friend!" bellowed Sonic angrily.

He then uncurled from the spin-dash and tossed Finitevus across the room like a child throwing away an unwanted doll. Finitevus let out a terrible cry as he was thrown across the room and he crashed into the wall, falling down onto the floor and grimacing in pain. Sonic took a moment out of the battle to check on Tails, leaving Knuckles to be the one that killed Finitevus. Knuckles grabbed one of the blades that Finitevus had sown into his cape. Sonic had ripped it to shreds, leaving on the shoulder section and a tattered piece of the back left that barely came down Finitevus's shoulders. The blades lay on the floor, uncovered now they were out of the cape. Knuckles intended to stab Finitevus with the blade, preferably in the chest for a stab to the heart guaranteed that he would be dead. As Knuckles walked over to the echidna to do the horrible deed, Sonic helped Tails up onto his feet.

"You OK buddy?" he asked concernedly."

"I-I'm fine Sonic." said Tails shakily, "I though I was dead for a minute. Thanks for saving me."

"I just got you back yesterday buddy, I can't lose you again." said Sonic, hugging his best friend affectionately, "I'll always save you, you know I will."

"And that's why we're best friends forever." Tails beamed delightedly.

Sonic smiled tenderly at his little brother figure. He then looked up and watched as Knuckles prepared to stab the momentarily distorted Finitevus. The hedgehog's heart leapt. This was it! Finitevus was going to die! And Knuckles was going to do it! They'd succeeded, Mobius wasn't going to end! But then Sonic's face fell as Knuckles stabbed down at Finitevus. The echidna caught Knuckles's wrist and squeezed on it as hard as possible, making the echidna cry out in pain as his hand numbed and the blade fell out of it. Finitevus kicked the blade away from Knuckles and then threw him onto the floor. He gritted his teeth so hard that Sonic wondered if he would end up with a killer toothache afterwards. His eyes were crazed and maniacal as he glared at his enemies.

"You destroyed my cape...how droll." he growled, "I liked that cape..."

"Too bad, you won't live to buy a new one Fini-Creepy-us!" retorted Sonic.

Angered, Finitevus charged towards Sonic and Tails, ready to fight them some more. Sonic and Tails charged towards him, ready to put him down once and for all...

11:30 am

The Dark Armada had lost track on how long they had been sitting on the ship waiting for Blizzard to kill Sally. They had gotten onboard a couple of hours ago and they were still waiting for Blizzard to come to Finitevus with the good news that Sally was dead. The armada consisted only of Zira the Ruthless, Captain Metal, Ravage Bloodfang, Raphael the Cyber Husky, Lord Sycorax and his henchmen Vladek and Romeo, Cutthroat Jim, Owen Pounder and Alistair Drakken. There used to be more members but the armada had decreased in numbers over the past few days.

The lost members had been the Bride of the Conquering Storm and her clan, Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox and Lennox Meers. She had turned traitor after getting the crazy idea that the plan was about some god named "Enerjak" and attempted to kill Finitevus. Instead, her clan had been warped inside a volcano by Finitevus himself and the lynx had been taken prisoner. She had been experimented on but the experiment had gone wrong and the result had ended up corrupting Fiona which then led to Scourge's death. Lennox had died at the hands of the only member of the Dark Armada who had been forced to join the army instead of being recruited, Roxy the Raccoon. She had gotten the bomb that Finitevus had stitched inside her head out by going to the Royal Fighters so they could take her to a doctor's to have it removed. Then she'd put the bomb under Lennox's hat and tricked him into setting it off. The result had been extremely messy and Owen and Alistair ached to kill Roxy in return to avenge their fallen leader and friend.

The armada was much smaller than it used to be, a fact that really bothered the remaining members. Before they felt like they were big enough and powerful enough to take on the entire Royal Fighters Service. Now they felt they could barely handle the whole of Team Mobotropolis. But that fact would soon be mitigated when Finitevus finished creating the 100 synthetic Chaos Emeralds he was creating for the armada to use. Finitevus had told the whole armada how powerful one Chaos Emerald was and they had heard about how people like Sonic could turn super with the emeralds. They could all imagine how powerful they would be with 108 Chaos Emeralds plus the Master Emerald to use as a power source for them. They could probably flatten the entire R.F.S. with merely a wave of their hands. Just thinking about how powerful the emeralds could make them made the armada feel giddy with excitement. As they waited for Blizzard, they began wondering how Finitevus's work was coming along. They imagined he must be close to finished now. There was only half an hour left until his machine had completed its work.

"I bet Finitevus has nearly got the 100 emeralds he be making right now." purred Captain Metal.

"I can hardly wait to start using them..." said Ravage excitedly, "I bet they'll give me more power than the Sceptre of Fates back in Adabat did!"

"Finitevus tells us that Sonic and his friends have used them to defeat gods." said Zira grimly, her face serious and bleak, "They must be powerful."

"They will be." said Owen, "It's a pity instead of waiting to see Finitevus's plan come to fruition, we're stuck here waiting for that idiot Blizzard to kill that stupid queen what's-her-name person. What is taking that witch so long?!"

"I bet she's under heavy resistance from the Royal Fighters." boomed Alistair, "Those fools wouldn't leave their queen ungarded after all."

"Well I'm telling you scrubs now, if she doesn't hurry up and kill the royal bitch, we're firing on Castle Acorn anyway!" declared Raphael angrily, "I'm getting sick of this stupid waiting!"

"I'm sure Finitevus won't mind if we end up killing Blizzard as well when we destroy the castle." said Lord Sycorax casually, "After all, sacrifices must be made."

"Aye laddie, they must." agreed Cutthroat Jim, "You know what, I say we attack now!"

"I second that Jim lad!" cried Captain Metal, "Let's destroy tharr castle! We might kill Sally by doing that, making Blizzard's entire mission moot and showing we're more competent!"

"Dare destroy my castle and you'll pay the price for it." said a very cold, feminine voice that the armada recognized but not as one of their own.

The gobsmacked armada turned around and stared incredulously at what was behind them. Sally Acorn herself was standing before them all with the all the other Royal Fighters with her. The huge group made the Dark Armada feel even smaller now they were looking at them all together. It was true that at least two Royal Fighters were dead but the group still looked enormous. The armada began doubting if they would fare well against the huge group of Royal Fighters. But they knew that they couldn't let the Royal Fighters stop them now or take over The Nefarious so the villainous group took up battle-ready positions and prepared to fight. They all noticed that Blizzard was among the Royal Fighters but she didn't have the green eyes anymore. That meant she had been power-drained and was back on the Royal Fighters's side, something that really made the armada feel like Finitevus had completely botched up the plan by sending her.

"Sally Acorn...in the flesh again." purred Captain Metal, "How delightful."

"If you think you can take this ship then you have another thing coming!" growled Zira, "We'll defend it to the bitter end and none of you will be left alive!"

"I sincerely doubt that considering how miniscule your numbers are." sneered Sally, "Seriously, with no Scourge, Fiona, Conquering Storm, Raiju Clan and Lennox, you're all pale shadows of your former selves. You barely have enough numbers to take on even half this group."

"Please, do us all a favour." said Princess Matilda of Team Chun-Nan firmly, "Surrender now and we'll spare you a needless beating."

"No chance of that morons..." said Owen coldly, cracking his knuckles, "We have scores to settle with you finks!"

"Well so do we." said Scott the Lynx of Team Adabat bitterly, "Like I owe Ravage a migraine for killing my brother!"

"And Captain Metal owes me big time for nearly killing me the other day!" snarled Amy Rose, brandishing her hammer menacingly and getting ready to fight.

"So what if I do ya pink wench?" snorted Captain Metal, "I'll just kill ye for real this time! And Blaze will be joinin' ye shortly afterwards!"

"Just try it scum..." growled Blaze angrily, summoning fire to her hands.

"Royal Fighters, ATTACK!" commanded Sally.

The Royal Fighters sprung into action immediately. Team Chun-Nan went straight for Zira the Ruthless since out of all the Royal Fighters, they were the ones that stood the best chance at fighting her. Zira went for Team Chun-Nan even though she knew that without Conquering Storm to help her, she likely had no chance of beating Matilda and her comrades. Zira threw a mighty punch at Matilda but the mongoose dodged it by stepping aside. Once Zira's arm shot past Matilda's the princess grabbed it and twisted it sharply to one side. The kung-fu leopard let out a terrible scream of pain as her arm was twisted by Matilda. The yellow-furred kung-fu master then threw Zira's arm back and kicked her sharply in the gut, throwing her across the room. Bladefeather the Falcon and Mushu the Iguana, Matilda's husband and good friend respectively, ran towards Zira and just as the leopard got back up to her feet, they both grabbed her arms and forced her against the wall. Matilda's best friend Li Moon the Vixen ran towards the pinned Zira the Ruthless and rammed her in the gut as hard as she could. Zira doubled over in pain but being a kung-fu master, the pain didn't bother her for very long. She growled in annoyance and yanked her arms sharply out of Bladefeather and Mushu's grips. The enraged mistress had been humiliated enough times already, she refused to be humiliated again. She vowed to beat Matilda and her friends if it was the last thing she did. The snarling leopard charged at Matilda and let her have it with a powerful punch to the face. The mongoose stumbled backwards in pain and then Zira kicked her in the gut, causing Matilda to bend over and clutch it, grimacing tensely as she did so. Zira then slammed both fists down on Matilda's back, knocking her down onto the floor. But Matilda wasn't down for long. Zira aimed a claw attack at her royal nemesis but Matilda rolled out of the way, leaving the evil leopard to stick her claws into the floor. The black-haired mongoose then picked herself up and elbowed Zira in the neck, forcing her down on the floor and leaving her gasping for breath. Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon then pinned Zira down be kneeling atop her arms and legs and the read feathered falcon held a dagger just above Zira's neck. The leopard didn't dare move as Team Chun-Nan subdued her in case she caused her own head to be cut off by Bladefeather's dagger. Matilda smiled triumphantly, pleased that her team had beaten Zira again.

Team Chaotix had chosen to fight Lord Sycorax and his henchmen once again. It came off as no surprise given how personal the rivalry between the two trios was. Sycorax and Vector were father and son respectively and they hated each other more than anything on Mobius. Sycorax thundered towards Vector with his toothy jaws wide open and ready to chomp down on his loathsome son. Vector however gave Sycorax something very unpleasant to chew on instead. His fist. He swung a mean uppercut into Sycorax's jaw and sent him tumbling over onto his back. The punch felt harder than any punch Sycorax had received in his life. Vector truly was a strong opponent and worthy of being his rival. Sycorax leaped back onto his feet and he socked Vector in the nose. Vector clutched his nose and willed for the pain to go away. It always hurt when he was punched in the nose. The evil crocodile then prepared for another punch on Vector but the crocodile recovered from the nose punch in enough time to dodge the attack. He bent over backwards, amazed that despite his top-heaviness that he had managed to keep his balance. Then he grabbed Sycorax's arm and bit on it once again. It was something that Vector never tired of. The reaction of seeing his dad cry out in pain as he bit his arm was the best reaction he could ever receive. Vector then pounded Sycorax on the head, knocking him down flat onto the floor. As Sycorax lay on the floor dazed and confused, Vladek and Romeo fought hard against Espio and Charmy. Espio and Romeo threw a barrage of punches at each other but Espio's were much harder and faster. Romeo was barely able to block any of his punches as the chameleon threw them. To the Chaotix ninja, it was like Romeo was in slow motion. Espio then punched Romeo in the gut and brought him down on to his side, clutching it in agony and willing for the pain to stop. Espio kicked upwards, sending Romeo hurling into the air and crashing down on top of Sycorax. Vladek kept clawing at Charmy but the bee was too fast for him. He flew out of Vladek's way every time the frill-necked lizard clawed at him. Charmy then booted Vladek in the face and stung him sharply on the shoulder. The reptilian henchmen winced in pain and clutched his shoulder, swearing he could feel a sore sport forming already. Laughing childishly, Charmy kicked Vladek into Romeo and Sycorax, leaving him to lay against the two and wince in pain. Three more armada members down for the count now.

Raphael had chosen his opponents very easily. He ran towards Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx and Kiara the Cheetah, the Megapolis Royal Fighters. He still very much had scores to settle with the two felines after they had trashed his camp and escaped being converted into cyborgs by him last year*. The cybernetic canine deployed his hand blades and he slashed at Dark and Kiara. Both Royal Fighters dodged his attack and Dark deployed his own arm blades. He clashed weapons with Raphael, the two blade-wielding Mobians crossing their weapons and growling furiously at each other as they pushed on each other's arms. Kiara ran around behind Raphael and elbowed him in the back, making sure her attack hurt as much as possible. She drove her elbow as far into the cyborg's back as possible, making Raphael wince in pain. Dark took advantage of this by kneeing Raphael in the groin. His body had some tough cybernetics but his groin wasn't cybernetic and still very much vulnerable. Raphael gritted his teeth and held in his pain as best he could. That became redundant as Dark and Kiara both took his legs out from underneath him with a swift kick behind his ankles. Raphael landed hard onto the floor but he was back on his feet very quickly. He fired his sonic wave emitter at Dark and Kiara and blew them both off their feet. The blast slammed the leo-lynx and cheetah against the wall and Raphael kept the waves going to keep them pinned against it. But Dark and Kiara received some assistance in the form of Wilson the Dog and Mandy the Mouse. Mandy ran up behind Raphael and punched him in the back, her fist throwing the cyborg off his feet thanks to her steel knuckle attachments enhancing her punch. Raphael hurled towards Dark and Kiara, crying out loud as he hurled at them. Dark and Kiara both kicked Raphael away and sent him crashing down onto his back. He was about to get up but Wilson pinned him down with his foot and then pointed his double-bladed pole weapon at the husky's throat. Raphael thought about using his sonic wave emitter to blow Wilson away but Mandy punched his forehead apparatus, breaking it and rendering his weapon useless. Raphael was spared unconsciousness thanks to his forehead apparatus being very strong and resilient enough to cushion most blows to the head but he was very much trapped and unable to keep fighting. Dark and Kiara smirked triumphantly, pleased to have beaten the Cyber-Husky again.

Owen and Alistair, the only remaining members of Team Diamond, found themselves in a battle they had no chance of winning. The Team Diamond traitor Roxy was fighting against them but she was backed up by Shadow and Rouge. Rouge had scores to settle with Team Diamond's only remaining members and Shadow, being Rouge's friend, wanted to join in for her. Roxy was allowed first dibs on the duo. She batted Alistair and Owen both on the heads, whacking them as hard as she could with her black baton. The rabbit and bat growled furiously and Owen punched at Roxy. His punch never hit home for Rouge screw-kicked Owen in the face and sent him staggering backwards. It felt strange for the bat to be defending a member of Team Diamond but she knew that Roxy was no longer a villain. She had heard all about her heel turn from Sonic himself. Alistair took to the air and dropkicked Rouge in the back, knocking her down onto the floor. He flew towards Rouge but the bat turned onto her back and kangaroo kicked him in the face before the mask-wearing villain could grab her. Alistair groaned in pain and he felt his mask to see if it had been damaged or not. That gave Roxy the opportunity to wallop him on the head and knock him out with her baton. Owen lumbered towards the two girls angrily, hoping to break them both in two for knocking Alistair out. Shadow spin-dashed the heavyweight bunny in the back and knocked him down onto his stomach. Owen grimaced in pain but the black and red hedgehog didn't relent. He slammed his heel down onto Owen's head, knocking him out too. Rouge and Roxy both high-fived each other, gleeful that their hated enemies were beaten. It felt good for the two that they, the traitors of Team Diamond, had worked together with Shadow to beat them.

Ravage found himself against a double dose of arch-enemies. He was fighting his local enemies Team Adabat and his former friend Bunnie Rabboh, former cyborg fighter who was still a tough opponent despite having no cybernetics anymore. Bunnie punched Ravage in the jaw with her metal glove weapon. The solid weapon was so hard that Ravage was whisked off his feet and sent hurling backwards through the air. Scott and his girlfriend Jessica both gave the rabbit a thumbs up. They were impressed with her new weapon and they liked how she was able to fight well despite not having any cybernetics. Ravage picked himself up and scampered towards Bunnie, his jaws streaming hungrily with saliva as he pictured himself eating the leotard wearing rabbit for dinner after the fight was over. Bunnie scowled at her former friend and blasted him with the hand cannon. The blast hit Ravage and knocked him down hard onto his back. Ravage stood back up but he had no time to fight back as Scott and Jessica bombarded him with energy spears. Ravage had killed Taran the Lynx, Team Adabat's fourth member and Scott's brother so they really wanted to make the wolf pay for what he'd done. Ravage cried in frustration as he was relentlessly pounded by the spears. The onslaughts left him no opportunity to defend himself or fight back. Felix the Peacock then dive bombed towards Ravage and clawed at him with his talons. Ravage roared furiously in pain and he clawed back at Felix. The peacock dodged and then grabbed two tail feathers from his bottom. He stiffened them into clubs and walloped the wolf with them. The blows left Ravage with a killer headache that kept him distracted long enough for Scott and Jessica to punch him in the face with an energy enhanced punch together. The caped wolf was tossed backwards and he slammed down hard against the wall. Bunnie stood before him and pointed her cannon at him, giving him a cold glare that said to him, "Move and you get blasted.". Ravage decided to surrender, feeling that trying to fight still was not a good idea at this moment.

Team Adabat cheered for joy, delighted to have avenged Taran by beating Ravage once again.

Finally, Captain Metal and Cutthroat Jim were left. Amy and Blaze had instantly nabbed Captain Metal for Blaze hated the robotic pirate more than anybody she knew and Amy wanted to make Captain Metal suffer for nearly killing her. Cutthroat Jim was fighting anybody he dared. Captain Metal blasted Amy in the gut, the hedgehog crying loudly as she was hit and she was brought down onto her back. The metal marauder was about to stab Amy with the cutlass blade at the end of his gun arm but Blade threw fire into his face. Being heatproof, Captain Metal didn't feel the flames. He cleaved his way through them and lunged at Blaze. The pyrokenetic princess of the future Fire Cat Kingdom retaliated quickly with a fiery punch to the gut that took Captain Metal for a brief flight across the room. The robotic rapscallion got back onto his feet only to be hammered on top of his head by Amy. Amy's face contorted with rage as she walloped the evil robot on the head. She was making sure every blow of the hammer hurt as she hit Captain Metal. She used her hammer to pole-vault up and kick Captain Metal in the face and just as he stumbled backwards, she landed feet first onto the floor in front of him and then she swung the hammer upwards, walloping Captain Metal up into the ceiling. He crashed hard into the ceiling and as he fell down towards the floor, Blaze leaped into the air and roundhouse kicked him across the room. Captain Metal sailed towards Silver. The psychic hedgehog grabbed the robot pirate/Metal Sonic hybrid with a psychic grab and he used his psychokinesis to crush Captain Metal's limbs. This left Captain Metal unable to move anymore. Silver tossed his limbless body onto the floor before Blaze and Amy. He sighed in annoyance as he was unable to continue fighting. Blaze and Amy smiled at each other, pleased they both beat up Captain Metal together. As for Cutthroat Jim, he swung his sword wildly at Sora, Ruben and Shade but he didn't land a blow on either of them. Unimpressed, Ruben just drenched Jim with water and then he, Sora and Shade all kicked him down onto the floor. Seeing as he had no chance of winning this fight, Cutthroat Jim surrendered instantly.

Sally, Abby, Cream, Cosmo, Blizzard and Team Nekronopolis hadn't done any fighting. They had watched the others do the dirty work, content with the fact that they were all that was needed although Thunder and Bolt the Chipmunks couldn't resist the urge to let all the armada have an electric shock each. Pleased to see the armada defeated, Sally stood before the beaten members. Her face was a mask of triumph and smugness, something that annoyed the armada greatly.

"And we win. What a shocker." sneered Sally.

"Oh don't tell me you're gonna start gloating!" moaned Raphael, "We can do without the extra salt on the wound!"

"I wouldn't talk to my cousin like that." sneered Abby, "She might get very angry an you won't like Sally when she's angry."

"Indeed." said Sally, "Now then Dark Armada, we have an announcement to make."

"I suppose it's something we should care about?" sniffed Ravage.

"It is." said Sally grimly, "Finitevus has manipulated all of you. He has used you in a scheme to become a powerful demi-god known as Enerjak. His goal is to destroy all of Mobius and apparently, he succeeds. Silver and Blaze come from a ruined future and Enerjak is the cause of it. Finitevus is the one who becomes Enerjak and we have to stop him before we can do so."

"And before anybody dismisses it as lies, here's the evidence you need." announced Silver, using Sally's warp ring to open up a portal to where he'd left the book "Mobius 2144: The FINAL Year".

He stuck his hand through the portal and he grabbed the book. He took his hand out of the warp ring and then opened up the book. He held it out for the Dark Armada to read. The armada read the book in silence and as they went through the pages, their faces all became the embodiment of horror and shock. By the time Silver had finished, everybody except Captain Metal had pale faces. They couldn't believe what they had just read. Some were ready to deny it but they took in the fact that the book was about Mobius's final year and it was from the future. The book wasn't a lie, it was all real. The armada stared at the Mobians in horror.

"Finitevus...becomes...Enerjak...and...destroys...Mobius?!" gasped Zira.

"And he kills many people, leaving very few survivors?!" blurted Captain Metal.

"I cannot believe we allowed that caped monster to deceive us like this!" moaned Lord Sycorax angrily, "We've been tricked! Duped! Maniuplated! Played for saps! He was using us to become a demon and then he goes on to destroy the world!"

"We didn't sign up for this!" shrieked Owen, "Neither of us want the world destroyed!"

"We must stop Finitevus now before he succeeds in his plot!" cried Alistair frantically.

"Conquering Storm was right to betray Finitevus all along...she wasn't crazy! Finitevus had lied to us!" snarled Zira, "I am going to break his neck for this!"

"We all want Finitevus dead." said Sally stoically, "So Dark Armada, please will you relinquish your ties with Finitevus and contribute in stopping his plan? I have sent Sonic, Tails and Knuckles to kill him but we'll go over in case they haven't succeeded yet. Will you join us?"

"Aye lassie, we be on yer side now!" declared Cutthroat Jim, "We did not join his side to have tharr world destroyed! Death to that landlubber Finitevus!"

"DEATH TO FINITEVUS!" bellowed the Dark Armada.

"Well, looks like sweet-talking the villain CAN work after all." snickered Sally, "Now then Blizzard, if you please."

"It'll be my pleasure Sally." said Blizzard delightedly.

Silver handed the warp ring to the Ice Witch and she quickly opened up a portal to Finitevus's lab. Once the warp ring was opened up, the Royal Fighters and the Dark Armada charged through the warp ring frantically, leaving The Nefarious behind, completely deserted and doing nothing but hovering around in the sky above. As the Mobians headed over to stop Finitevus, Sally hoped dearly that the job had already been done...

11:57 am

Three minutes left until Phase 2 of Operation Enerjak Reborn was complete.

To Sonic, Tails and Knuckles's annoyance, they still hadn't beaten Finitevus yet. The relentless echidna refused to back down throughout the entire fight and just continued fighting harder and harder against the trio. Finitevus somersaulted into the air and spiralled towards Tails. The fox was airborne again, spinning his tails around fast as he flew through the air. Tails flew towards Finitevus but the echidna struck him down and sent him dive bombing into the floor. Tails grimaced in pain as he hit the floor hard. Sonic spin-dashed towards the echidna but Finitevus did something impressive. He stood firmly on his own two feet, held up his hands at arm's length and caught Sonic like somebody catching a basketball. The spin-dash pushed Finitevus back a little but he managed to hold on. He then threw his arms to the sides and sent Sonic rushing straight into the wall. The spin-dash left a deep, hard dent in the wall but Sonic was otherwise unhurt from the attack. Chuckling confidently, Finitevus used a warp ring to warp himself in front of Sonic. He leapt out of the warp ring like a jack-in-the back tipped forwards and he slammed straight into the blue hedgehog. He slammed Sonic against the wall and punched him in the face. He punched Sonic so hard that the hedgehog's lip began to bleed. Sonic retaliated with a callous headbutt to the face on Finitevus. The white echidna backed off, clutching his face in pain and Sonic spin-dashed him in the torso. He sent Finitevus flying backwards across the room and the echidna headed straight for Knuckles. Knuckles jumped out, grabbed Finitevus and slammed him down onto the floor. The red bruiser of an echidna then grabbed Finitevus into a crippling headlock and tried to strangle Finitevus to death. The scientist broke out of his nephew's grip by stomping on his foot and kicking his shins. Knuckles let go of Finitevus and then got socked in the face by his uncle. Knuckles fell down onto his side, angry that Finitevus was being so hard to subdue. It irritated him endlessly as to how his uncle was so hard to even touch, let alone land a blow on. Finitevus laughed at Knuckles as he kicked upwards and sent his abhorrent relative hurling upwards and crashing down a few feet away from him. Tails flew behind Finitevus and stomp-kicked him from behind, knocking him down onto his hands and knees. Finitevus fought off the pain that flared up in his skull before Sonic charged up to him at stop speed and grabbed him by the shoulders. He took Finitevus for a quick ride around the room and then threw him into his Chaos Emerald making machine. To Finitevus's luck, the machine withstood the impact. Finitevus picked himself up, glaring angrily as Sonic, Tails and Knuckles prepared to attack him again.

"Give it up Finny! You can't fight us forever! We're too tough for you!" boasted Sonic.

"Stand down and face your demise like a proper Mobian!" snarled Knuckles.

"We might make your death quick and painless if you comply!" yelled Tails.

But then things started to take a turn for the worst. The machine suddenly stopped whirring and the words "Emerald Creation Process: Complete" flashed on a digital screen on the machine. It had finished. All 100 synthetic Chaos Emerlads had been made. Phase 2 was complete. Now Phase 3 could begin...the transformation to Enerjak. Finitevus smiled wickedly and he opened up a warp ring just above the basket of 100 Chaos Emeralds at the end of the machine's conveyor belt. The eight Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald had been stored in another room until this moment and Finitevus now brought them atop the basket of Chaos Emeralds. All 109 emeralds were now together and they glowed in unison, filling the room with a dazzling, majestic glow that made Sonic, Tails and Knuckles cover their eyes. The Master Emerald glowed brightest of all. Laughing crazily, Finitevus back flipped on top of the Master Emerald and threw his arms up in triumph.

"You're too late! YOU'RE TOO LATE! AH, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA! AT LAST! I CAN BECOME ENERJAK!" he crowed, sounding very berserk as he prepared to begin his transformation.

Finitevus held his arms out to the side and began the incantation that he needed to become Enerjak.

"The servants are the seven Chaos. Chaos is power enriched by my will. The server exists to enslave the Chaos! Mighty Chaos Emeralds, give me your power! I demand to be a Chaos god! Make me invincible! Make me...ENERJAK!"

The Chaos Emeralds glowed a dark black that shrouded the entire lab in shadows. Then the Dark Chaos Energy that had been infused with the Chaos Emeralds and the formula that had been used to create the Synthetic Chaos Emeralds began to feed into Finitevus's body. The echidna cackled maniacally as he felt himself growing in power. He was feeling an epic sensation as he was being fed the power he needed. It was the most marvellous, incredible feeling he had every felt in his life. Sonic, Tails and Knuckles watched despairingly as their enemy began the transformation to the doomsday monster himself. They had failed. Mobius was doomed. They couldn't stop Finitevus now. The Dark Chaos Energy surrounded the maniacal, crazed echidna in a shadowy energy bubble that obscured any view of him. For a moment nobody could see Finitevus anymore. At precisely this moment, a warp ring opened up and out of it filed the Royal Fighters and the Dark Armada. They all ran up behind Sonic, Tails and Knuckles and stared in indescribable horror. They were too late. Enerjak was rising! Everybody watched, horrified as the transformation concluded. The energy bubble faded away and a floating echidna loomed above the Mobians. Still baring Finitevus's white fur, the figure was glad in brilliant golden armour. He wore a helmet with a slight Egyptian look to it that had horns protruding from above and a face plate that covered the eyes and nose. The figure's eyes were a blood red colour and they glowed ominously. The dreadlocks were still visible, floating around beside the echidna's head gracefully. The armoured figure also had spiked knuckles and a golden tunic around the waist that flowed beautifully. It also had a sword in its hands, baring all eight colours of the eight Chaos Emeralds. It was large and had a curved blade that could slice through even atoms. The creature cackled delightedly, earning horrified stares and gasps from the audience it had before it.

"I am Enerjak! I am the mightiest being in all of existence! I am reborn...AND I WILL LAY WASTE TO EVERY LAST INCH OF THIS TAINTED WORLD!"

Footnotes:

 See *The Terror of Enerjak

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm

 See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 4: Trouble in Adabat

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 24: Terror of the Cyber Husky

This is the end...the end of all things...Enerjak has risen! The Mobians are doomed! HOW WILL THEY STOP THE MIGHTY WRATH OF ENERJAK?!

Find out in the milestone epic, Chapter 225, as our heroes end up in the biggest battle of their lives! Next time truly is the FINAL battle...

Dark Armada Part 25: The Chaos Storm

Well folks, this it, the milestone epic that is Chapter 225, my NINTH milestone! :D This is also the FINAL chapter! Yeah, where the fuck has three years and ten months of my life gone?! This is it! This is the end! The final chapter! Read on my friends!

Story 225: The Chaos Storm

The Dark Armada Chapter 25 of 25

A whole year had been spent building up for this moment.

The evil Dr. Finitevus had been hard at work for over a year, gathering together an army of villains to provide help in his schemes and plotting to get rid of Dr. Eggman. He had succeeded in both and over the past nine days, he had been in battle with the Royal Fighters in hopes of breaking their spirits and preventing anybody from standing in his way. That hadn't been a success for no matter what hardships he put the heroes through, they still fought back and refused to give up. But their efforts had ultimately been futile. Finitevus had outsmarted them time and time again until finally, he achieved what he wanted. He had created 100 synthetic Chaos Emeralds to go along with the nine he already had. Using their power, he had become the almighty, invincible and terrifying Demi-god of chaotic power…Enerjak. There had been an Enerjak before*. He had done terrible things to Mobius and had proven to be quite a challenge. He had come close to total destruction and Sonic had only just managed to take him down. Now Finitevus was donning the Enerjak armour. He hovered above the terrified Royal Fighters, his huge black cloak billowing out behind him gracefully despite there being no wind. His fearsome red eyes seemed to petrify his victims. They were momentarily frozen to the spot with fear. The Royal Fighters were all in various teams and all the teams were here. Team Mobotropolis, Team Chun-Nan, Team Megapolis, Team Nekronopolis and Team Adabat as well as some Mobians that weren't even part of any particular team. The Dark Armada was with the Royal Fighters for they had realized that Finitevus had manipulated them all into helping him become Enerjak. They were equally as terrified as the Royal Fighters were. Enerjak grinned wickedly, his mouth the only part of his face that was visible under the helmet. He was pleased to see that his victims were terrified of him. They had every right to be, he was going to end the entire world and lay waste to all Mobians, male and female, young and old and short and tall. Enerjak let out a terrifying laugh that filled the entire lab. The power he felt was grand and made him feel like he could do anything and the impossible would be possible with him.

"Fear me hero scum…I am the ultimate power! I am Enerjak and I will destroy everything in sight!" bellowed Enerjak, "I shall demonstrate my power by laying waste to the entire city of Megapolis !"

The crazed, demonic Demi-god rocketed up through the ceiling of the lab, leaving the Dark Armada and the Royal Fighters behind as he prepared to destroy the city. Enerjak was the size of an average Mobian and yet just rocketing through the ceiling was enough to destroy the entire ceiling and send it crumbling down towards the Mobians below. The terrified Royal Fighters and Dark Armada quickly ran for their lives and exited the lab as the ceiling caved in. A huge slab of metal crashed down on Finitevus's emerald machine, destroying it instantly. The basket full of Chaos Emeralds was untouched though, leaving the 108 Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald behind to just glow to themselves. The huge crowd of heroes and villains ran outside the lab and watched with horror as Enerjak cackled demonically and thrust his sword up at the sky. The tip of the sword glowed very brightly and he pointed it down onto the lab below. Huge bolts of lightening erupted from the sword and blasted at the lab, vaporising it into atoms in mere seconds. All that was left of the lab after her was finished was the floor and the debris from the broken ceiling. Enerjak cackled gleefully, pleased to see what power he wielded. He could vaporize a building in seconds so destroying Mobius would be a breeze for him. His goal was as good as achieved.

"Yes…the power…the absolute PO WER!" cried Enerjak delightedly, "And it's all mine to command and control! Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

As Enerjak relished in his glory, the Royal Fighters all looked at each other nervously. They felt like that they had met their match. Despite all hardships they had battled against and survived, they truly felt that this was the end for all of them. Enerjak had power greater than they could possibly imagine. He was quite possibly their most powerful foe ever and they were powerless against him. What could they do to save Mobius now?

"And I thought Finitevus was bad enough as himself…as Enerjak, he's a nightmare!" exclaimed Sonic the Hedgehog in terror, "He can vaporize a building with a mere bolt of lightening!"

"I'm scared Sonic…I think we're all finished." whimpered his best friend Tails the Fox, clutching his girlfriend Cosmo the Seedrian as if knowing this would be their last hug ever.

"I've lost my home world…now I'm going to lose my new home world…and my life." said Cosmo fearfully, clutching Tails back.

"We're all dead Cosmo!" shrieked Amy Rose, her eyes streaming with terrors and her hands over her mouth in despair, "Enerjak's gonna kill us all! We don't stand a chance!"

"Well…this is it guys…the end of the world." said Queen Sally Acorn fearfully.

"We were too late…Enerjak has risen! Now we have no hope of saving Mobius now!" wailed the future Mobian Silver the Hedgehog.

"We should have gone back to an earlier time!" moaned Blaze the Cat, another Mobian from the future. "We should have gone back to before Finitevus even formulated the armada! We would have had a better chance of stopping him then!"

"I'm afraid that wasn't the case though…" said a very grim Shadow the Hedgehog, "I have failed my purpose. I was to protect Mobius after deciding that it was home to me. Now it's gonna be destroyed…and we're all gonna be dead. I have failed…"

"Shadow…if we're to die now…" said Rouge the Bat worriedly, putting her arms around Shadow for comfort, "Just know that…that I always kinda "liked" you. Really, REALLY liked you…if you know what I mean."

Shadow was surprised to hear that from the bat. He hadn't suspected that the treasure-hunting Mobian had feelings for him that were greater than just like. He knew what Rouge was trying to say to him. She loved him. Shadow wasn't sure if he returned Rouge's love but he would happily give Rouge some comfort for their final moments before Enerjak killed them all. Shadow embraced Rouge affectionately, feeling the bat trembling against him as she hugged him.

"I know what you mean Rouge…and I'll be by your side as we die." Shadow promised.

"Thank you." whispered Rouge, letting a tear of fear escape from her eye as she buried her head into Shadow's chest fur.

"Oh Bladefeather…I think we're finished." said Princess Matilda worriedly, "Enerjak's original terror nearly cost our lives…now his new terror will really cost our lives!"

"And me and you only just got married my adoring flower…" said Bladefeather the Falcon sadly, hugging his kung-fu wife worriedly. They had gotten married a few days ago and already their lives were coming to an end. A short union if ever there was one. Both Bladefeather and Matilda cried tears of fright as they waited for the end to come for them.

"What are we gonna do to stop that maniac?!" cried Knuckles the Echidna frantically, "How can we stop Enerjak now?!"

"I don't think we can…" said his girlfriend Shade the Echidna worriedly, "We're doomed Knuckles, all of us. We can't stop Enerjak. We may as well dig our own graves for him."

"Enerjak maybe here and we may have no chance against him…but that isn't gonna stop ME!" declared Sonic, "We've taken on many big threats in our lives and we've survived them all! I am not letting Enerjak take away our lives now! We're gonna stop that demon in the golden underpants…or die trying! We brought a year of peace to Mobius after finally being rid of Eggman, now let's get it back!"

"Sonic, are you insane?!" shrieked Sally, "We can't stop Enerjak! He's a Chaos Demi-god! He's quite literally a living Chaos Emerald with the power to lay waste to the world! WE CAN'T STOP HIM!"

"No such word as "can't" my queen." declared Sonic, "We stopped the Devatrons, we stopped the Martians, we stopped the Black Arms, we stopped Solaris, we stopped The Eraser, the God of Existence himself! We will stop Enerjak, that much I assure you! As long as we live, we still have a chance!"

"If the blue dude's not losing hope then neither am I!" declared MandyMouse hotly, "I'm with him until the end! Besides, I owe that bastard a migraine for when the first Enerjak possessed me!"

"If my wife won't give up then I won't either." said Wilson the Dog, "We may have no chance…but there's no harm in trying."

"There's no honour in surrendering now and accepting our fates… we decide our own fates. And our fates will NOT be to die at Enerjak's hands!" cried Ruben the Water Panther, "We'll fight for our lives and we'll end Enerjak's destruction before it begins!"

The Royal Fighters were beginning to feel much more hopeful now thanks to Sonic remaining as enthusiastic as ever. They maybe did have a chance of stopping Enerjak now that they thought about it. Silver and Blaze may have shown them a book detailing how Mobius came to an end on this very day in this very year but history still had a chance to be changed. The only reason Enerjak had succeeded the first time was because nobody knew he was coming. They had been unprepared for Enerjak's arrival. But Silver and Blaze had warned them in advanced so they were ready for Enerjak and could now plan on how to defeat him. There was a little bit of a chance for the heroes after all. But before anything could be done, the remaining members of the Dark Armada all ran towards Enerjak. Sonic saw them and he cried out in horror.

"No, don't charge straight at him! We need a plan!" he cried frantically.

The villains all ignored him and continued to charge towards Enerjak. The demonic entity glared down at the armada down below with his fearsome red eyes. What fools they were to dare to challenge him like this. He was invincible! He had power greater than anything the world had ever known! How could his former allies possibly hope to stop him? Enerjak shrugged it off and supposed that if the armada wanted an early grave, he could give it to them. Let them join Conquering Storm, Scourge, Lennox and possibly Fiona in the afterlife so the Dark Armada could be reunited…in death that is. Enerjak lowered down to the ground, a fiendish grin spread out on his helmeted face as his armada confronted him. Their faces were full of rage and they were ready to attack without hesitation.

"Finitevus! You have deceived us!" snarled Zira the Ruthless, "You used us in your demonic plan to destroy the world!"

"We didn't want the world destroyed so now we're gonna have to destroy you to save it!" declared Ravage Bloodfang.

"You'll pay for yer manipulation scurvy landlubber!" barked Captain Metal, "We will give you a slow but painful demise!"

"Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! You fools…you cannot possibly stop me!" gloated Enerjak, "You're up against a god! What chance do you have of beating me?"

"God, schmod. We'll make you wish you'd never become Enerjak Finitevus!" roared Lord Sycorax.

"You will refer to me as Enerjak…and you will bow to me!" thundered Enerjak, his voice like an earthquake as he shouted at the armada.

"Make us!" snapped Raphael the Cyber-Husky.

"We will never bow to you!" growled Owen Pounder the Rabbit.

"So like it or not, we will defy you and take you down Ener-germ!"

declared Alistair Drakken the Bat.

"Face it Jacky, you won't get us to serve you like you did as Finitevus!" gloated Sycorax.

Enerjak's smiled died away into a down-turned, teeth gritted expression as anger flowed through his godly body. He was livid that the armada dared to stand up to him, even while he had all this power. He would make them feel sorry that they didn't bow to him. His sword crackling, he glared at the Dark Armada.

"Fine then you vacuous mortals…you will bow to me…AS PILES OF ASHES!" bellowed Enerjak.

He pointed his sword at Lord Sycorax and fired a jolt of chaotic energy at the crocodile. Sycorax was mincemeat. The whole thing had happened so fast that Sycorax hadn't even had the time to scream as the energy struck his body, spread all over his veins and tore him apart atom by atom. All that remained of the egotistical, anarchistic reptile was a pile of ashes where he once stood. He had been completely vaporized just as the Megapolis lab had been. The armada gasped in horror at what had happened. But despite this, they weren't going to let Sycorax's death be in vain. Vladek and Romeo charged towards the evil being, a look of murder and both their eyes as they charged towards their leader's killer. Laughing confidently, Enerjak vaporized them too, reducing them to piles of ash in seconds. After that had happened, Zira pounced onto Enerjak and began clawing at him furiously, hoping to tear him apart. But every slash attack she threw was futile for Enerjak's armour was resilient to any mortal attack. Zira couldn't even scratch the echidna god. Zira could see that her attacks weren't working so the kung-fu mistress grabbed Enerjak by the neck. She sharply twisted his head to one side and snapped his neck, a horrible breaking sound echoing through the sky as she did it. But Enerjak merely put his hands to the side of his head and snapped his neck back into place. He looked unharmed and still very much alive. It was as if nothing had happened to him. The armoured echidna sneered at the kung-fu mistress as her jaw dropped and her eyes widened in horror. She'd snapped his neck and it didn't kill him?! Zira began to feel very worried. How could she stop Enerjak if she couldn't kill him. Enerjak lashed out at Zira and slashed her across the chest with the golden spikes on his knuckles. Zira let out a scream of pain and she clutched her chest.

"I am immortal…you cannot kill me. " gloated Enerjak, "That is why you were a fool to stand up to me…now then my armada, you shall all receive your rewards for helping me get this power. Your ETERNAL reward…"

He pointed his sword at Zira and vaporized the evil leopard with a jolt of Chaos Energy. Zira was decimated into a pile of ash just like Sycorax had been moments ago. Raphael lumbered forward and slashed at Enerjak with his hand blades. Enerjak stood where he was, the attacks having no effect on him as he was hit. As far as he was concerned, nothing was actually happening to him. He couldn't even FEEL the slashes as Raphael kept attacking him and trying to cut him to pieces! Enerjak punched Raphael in the face, the punch feeling like being hit by a car to the husky was he was thrown across the battlefield and sent crashing down onto his back. Enerjak then disintegrated Raphael. Captain Metal and Cutthroat Jim charged at Enerjak and swung their swords at the Chaos god. Their swords hit Enerjak's body…and shattered into shards of metal. The two pirates gasped in horror at their broken weapons, gobsmacked to see how strong Enerjak was. No wonder the Royal Fighters had been trying so hard to stop Finitevus from becoming the invincible demon! Captain Metal shook off the shock of his broken weapon and he blasted at Enerjak with his gun arm. He considered himself lucky that Silver had used his psychokinesis to fix his limbs a moment ago so he could use them. He blasted as furiously as he could but the shots had no effect on Enerjak whatsoever. The robot rapscallion's attempts were futile, the shots bouncing harmlessly off of Enerjak's body as they hit him. Cackling triumphantly, Enerjak pointed his sword at Captain Metal and vaporized him. He did the same to Cutthroat Jim just seconds after. Ravage, Owen and Alistair all charged towards Enerjak together but the unstoppable Chaos powerhouse disintegrated them before they could even get close to him. The Dark Armada was completely obliterated. No more would the armada function in its insidious goal to achieve their life's desires. Enerjak just laughed heartlessly, showing no sympathy towards the army of villains that he had recruited to help him gain the power he currently wielded.

The Royal Fighters had watched Enerjak disintegrate the armada with ease and were amazed at how efficiently they did it. But they knew full well that they wouldn't let that happen to them. They knew what Enerjak could do so they knew how to avoid him and what was the one thing they shouldn't do, charge straight into him. They also had a few things that could stop Enerjak from killing them. They had a warp ring to shield themselves and dodge the killer strikes and Silver's psychokinesis could deflect anything, no matter how powerful the attack was. They would be safer than the armada had been. Sonic stood forward, fists clenched and teeth gritted. He had never been so determined to put an end to a threat in all his life. This fight was going to be bigger than any fight he'd ever fought. Even bigger than his last battle with Dr. Eggman. But Sonic didn't care. All he wanted was Enerjak dead and his world saved. With the Royal Fighters marching behind the determined Sonic, they all headed towards Enerjak. They were all sharing the hedgehog's determination to put an end to the evil demi-god before he could end them. They had saved the world many times before, they refused to let Enerjak undermine their hard work now. Enerjak stared at the Royal Fighters incredulously. How could they still be coming up towards him with determined faces after displaying just a sample of his power?! What did he have to do to break the heroes already?! As Finitevus, he'd tried and tried endlessly to break the will of the Royal Fighters and hadn't succeeded! He was now Enerjak and they STILL refused to give up! They still dared to come at him! Killing them would definitely be the most fun he'd ever have in his destruction of Mobius. Enerjak pointed his sword at the Royal Fighters.

"Just like I said...you heroes fight for a forlorn cause." gloated Enerjak, "Look at me now...I have become Enerjak himself! Your efforts have failed! You tried vailiantly to stop me from becoming Enerjak and you failed! You now fight for a cause more forlorn than ever! You haven't a hope against me so why do you still fight? Why not just surrender and let me put you all out of your misery?"

"We'll NEVER stop fighting Ener-jackass!" Sonic announced at the top of his voice, "We've fought long and hard to fight off many threats who have come close to conquering or destroying our world!

Multiple times even! And we fight because we have something to fight for...our lives and our world! As long as we live, we'll never give up! We'll fight no matter what the threat is! Silver and Blaze may come from a wrecked future but now we know what we're up against, we have a chance of changing that! We'll stop you and give Mobius a brighter future and no god-like monster like you is gonna stop me or my friends!"

"Noble words hedgehog...noble LAST words." sneered Enerjak.

"No actually, I have some more. I'm not done yet." said Sonic, smirking at the demon before him.

"Go on then..." purred Enerjak mockingly as if expecting Sonic's last words to be something incredibly stupid.

Sonic took a deep breath, held it in for a moment and then he spoke.

"Jumping-Jak, Ener-Tube, Flap-jak, Ener-State, Ener-Jak-In-The-Box. And come to think of it, "Enerjak" sounds like some kind of sports drink. Now I'm done." snickered Sonic, his trademark cheeky grin spreading out across his face in mockery at the invincible monster he was mocking.

The Royal Fighters gasped in pleasant but amused surprise. Only Sonic could stare death right in the face and still make a joke about it. One would think that being so close to the end of the world would cause Sonic to lose his humorous streak. They were glad he hadn't though. It was nice that he was giving them something to laugh at one last time before Enerjak vaporized them. Enerjak himself was not amused at Sonic's bantering. The enraged echidna in the golden Enerjak armour was livid to hear his name being used as bad-puns for Sonic to joke about. How dare he mock his name as he was about to destroy the world! Enerjak decided that Sonic would die first just for that. He raised his sword but just as he pointed it at Sonic, the hedgehog spin-dashed him in the head and bounced off of him. The attack distracted Enerjak long enough for the Royal Fighters to jump in and make their move.

"Everybody attack! And don't hold back!" commanded Sonic, "This is the fight of our lives and we're gonna win!"

All the Royal Fighters cried back in agreement. Enerjak wouldn't take their lives today. They would take his. Sally deployed her twin energy blades and she began furiously cutting away at Enerjak, hoping to tear him apart piece by piece. But the Chaos demon blocked all her attacks with his own sword and his sword was indestructible. Even Sally's energy blades couldn't cut through it. The two clashed weapons until Enerjak summoned a Chaos Spear to his hands and threw it at Sally's stomach. The attack felt like a colossal punch, knocking all the wind out of the royal rodent and throwing her backwards across the battlefield.

Enerjak prepared to kill Sally with a Chaos Lightening strike but Sonic and Shadow both spin-dashed him together, hitting him squarely in the head and knocking him backwards. The god kept his balance but Sonic and Shadow didn't relent. The two hedgehogs spin-dashed him again, hitting him squarely in the torso and knocking him down off his feet. Enerjak wasn't down for long though. Not only was he immortal, he was heavily resilient. The blows he'd received from Shadow and Sonic barely slowed him down at all. He smiled wickedly as he raised his sword over his shoulder and cleaved through the air with it. This caused an enormous, arrow shaped energy attack to whoosh out of the sword and hurtle towards the Royal Fighters. Sonic and Shadow were hit for they were in the way of it but Silver used his psychokinesis to carry everybody up and out of the way so the attack swept under their feet and missed them. The attack had left Sonic and Shadow feeling horribly weakened and unable to move for a moment as the nerves went numb from the attack. Enerjak cackled with glee. He was enjoying himself. He was relishing he heroes' futile attempts to stop him. How foolish they all were to try and fight against him! They should have known better than to attempt to stop a god such as himself!

Enerjak pointed his sword at Sonic and Shadow but the effects of his earlier attack wore off in time for Shadow to throw some Chaos Spears at him. The spears struck Enerjak but did no harm. The arrogant, omniscient creature fired a killer lightening attack at Shadow but the black and red ultimate life form warped out of his way to avoid getting hit. He reappeared in front of Finitevus and unleashed a flurry of attacks on him that made him back off, flipping, kicking and punching constantly at the evil monster in the armour, helmet and cape. Shadow then kangaroo kicked Enerjak in the face and sent him staggering backwards. He didn't fall onto the ground

"I am the ultimate life form! You will fall at my hands Enerjak!" bellowed Shadow.

"You still call yourself the ultimate life form when you know full well that you're up against an actual ultimate life form?" sneered Enerjak, "You're NOTHING Shadow! You're beneath me! You're no ultimate life form anymore! I am the true ultimate now!"

Enerjak then threw a trio of Chaos Spears directly at Shadow, throwing him backwards as the spears struck him. Shadow hurled backwards a very long distance before he eventually came down with a crash onto the ground. Shadow winced in agonizing pain. The hedgehog had never felt anything so painful in his life. Enerjak truly was a powerhouse to behold. Just a Chaos Spear made him feel like he'd been hit by a nuclear bomb. He dreaded to think what else Enerjak could do. Rouge was livid to see Enerjak hurt her beloved Shadow like this so the enraged femme fetale flew straight at Enerjak and screw-kicked him in the shoulder. Enerjak shrugged off the blow despite Rouge using all the strength she had in her body to hurt him. He swatted Rouge down onto the ground and prepared to kill her with his deadly sword. The bat cowered in fright, fearing that her life was about to end. But the bat was saved just in time by Roxy the Raccoon, the Team Diamond traitor, rushing in and clubbing him in the face with her baton. All the blow had done was annoy Enerjak slightly and focus his attention on her instead. Roxy clubbed furiously at Enerjak, hoping to hurt him or at the most, dent his helmet. She felt more anger at Enerjak's presence than anybody for she had been forced to help Finitevus and his armada get this far. Also the fact Enerjak slaughtered the armada despite them helping him get this powerful made her angry for Enerjak could have done so to her had she not gotten away from him and learned the truth in time.

"You monster! You forced me to work for you so you could become this! I'm gonna give you a broken skull!" screamed Roxy angrily with every wallop of the baton she threw.

Enerjak took every single blow as if it was nothing and Roxy was hitting him as hard as possible. Enerjak swatted Roxy onto the ground and pointed his sword at her. The raccoon lay flat against the ground, terrified at what she was facing. She was going to join Lennox, Owen and Alistair in the afterlife now. Trembling, Roxy gulped as Enerjak's sword crackled menacingly.

"You betrayed me..." growled Enerjak, "I'll make sure your death is more painful. I won't vaporize you...I'll just electrocute you until you beg for the pain to stop!"

"NO! NO! Please, no!" whimpered Roxy.

Enerjak ignored her and fired a crippling jolt of electricity at Roxy. The bodacious raccoon let out an agonized howl as electricity coursed through her body. Already she wanted the pain to stop but she was so much in agony that she couldn't even form the words in her mouth. Her voice was focused only on screaming in pain. Luckily, the raccoon was spared anymore pain by Bunnie Rabboh thundering towards Enerjak and giving him an uppercut with her metal glove. To her amazement, she took Enerjak clean off his feet and sent him hurling into a nearby building on the edge of Megapolis city! Roxy lay on the ground, breathing heavily and smiling with relief as the pain stopped. She hoped never to experience it again. Enerjak picked himself up and he flew towards Bunnie. The former cyborg blasted at him with her handheld cannon weapon but Enerjak ploughed straight through the blast as if it was nothing. he landed in front of Bunnie and uppercut her into the air. Bunnie let out a squeal as she hurled through the air and crashed down heavily onto the ground. The rabbit cringed in pain, wondering if any bones in her body had been broken. Enerjak flew towards Bunnie and touched down in front of her. He pointed his sword at the Southern Belle, grinning sadistically with joy as Bunnie stared up at him in terror.

"Bunnie...I bet you miss your beloved Geoffrey." purred Enerjak in a voice feigning sympathy, "Do you want to reunite with him? I'll be happy to oblige..."

"Ah'm missin' mah man alright but Geoffrey wouldn't want me to just let you kill me!" declared Bunnie, "He'd want me to fight against ya'll and that's what ah'm gonna do...for the sake of our world!"

She jumped back up onto her feet and walloped Enerjak in the face with her metal glove. Enerjak stumbled backwards, wincing from the punch Bunnie had thrown at him. While he was distracted, Tails, Knuckles and Shade all teamed up on him. Tails flew behind Enerjak and kicked him in the back of his head, focusing all his strength and energy into the attack he threw at the god that Finitevus had made him help to create. Tails felt partially responsible for Enerjak's rising since Finitevus had roboticized him and used him as his personal assistant. As Mecha Tails, he'd created the Synthetic Chaos Energy with Finitevus and Finitevus had used it to become Enerjak. The enraged, angered twin-tailed fox wanted nothing more than Enerjak defeated so that he could undo what Finitevus had made him do. Enerjak bent over slightly under Tails's attack but spun around and slashed him across the face with his sword. The fox let out a pained howl and he clutched his face as a deep cut formed and began to sting in pain. Knuckles threw as many hard punches as he could at his uncle-turned-killer-god, making sure every punch was harder than the last one he threw. The spiked-fists that Knuckles was well-known for slammed callously into Enerjak's body but they did no harm to the god aside from irritating him slightly. Enerjak punched at Knuckles, knocking him down flat with just the one punch but Shade ran in and slashed his hands with her blades. She did manage to leave a cut on Enerjak's hands but the god merely healed them with a Chaos Regeneration. Shade Blade-Rushed at Enerjak, hitting him harmlessly in the face with a pink energy wave that barely did anything to the powerful Chaos monster. Laughing conceitedly, he punched Shade and sent her flying backwards. Just one punch and Shade felt like she'd been hit by a sack of rocks. Maybe even a boulder. Angered, Knuckles ran up to Enerjak and uppercut him into the air but he didn't send him flying quite as high as Bunnie had done earlier. Enerjak just simply somersaulted in the air and landed down on his feet. Cackling deviously, he surrounded himself with Chaos Energy and rocketed towards Knuckles and Shade. He struck them both and sent them spiralling away from him and crashing down a few yards either side of him. This was a Chaos Charge, one of Enerjak's strongest attacks and by far one of his deadliest. He was pleased to see how well the attack had worked and he decided to use it again, charging straight into an advancing Team Nekronopolis and sending all four of its members hurling backwards.

Team Nekronopolis wasn't down for long though. Miranda Mongoose, Kari the Rat, Thunder and Bolt the Chipmunks got back up onto their feet and prepared to attack. Thunder and Bolt both held hands and gave Enerjak a terrific electrical shock that despite not doing much harm to Enerjak, provided a great distraction for anybody else hoping to attack. As he was being electrocuted, Enerjak was unprepared for Kari and Miranda as they came running towards him. Thunder and Bolt stopped the electrical attack so Kari could whack him with her spanner and Miranda could taser him in the gut with her electric prod weapon. Both attacks did nothing and Enerjak simply swatted both girls away from himself. He prepared to disintegrate the four Mobians but Wilson and Mandy charged in to attack the omnipotent god. Mandy threw her hardest punch ever straight between Enerjak's eyes. Enerjak was invincible but the mouse's steel knuckle attachments still enhanced her punches by a great amount. The punch took Enerjak clean off his feet and threw him onto his back. Mandy punched the air excitedly, pleased that her attack had worked. She had just punched a god and actually took him down onto his back. This was a moment she'd never forget in a hurry. Enerjak picked himself up and he fired an electrical attack at Mandy. The mouse quickly dodged and Wilson stepped in, throwing his spinning blade weapon at him and also firing the one on the arm gauntlet Tails had built specially for him last year. Both blades shattered to pieces upon hitting Enerjak's armour. Wilson gulped worriedly. He had no weapons left now. He felt very weak and vulnerable now he had no weapons. Enerjak prepared to kill him but Mandy dragged Wilson down onto the ground out of his way. They both picked themselves up and Mandy ran towards Enerjak, hoping to throw another punch at him. Instead, she was struck by a Chaos Spear and brought down onto the ground. The purple-furred tomboy winced in agony as the Chaos Spear's effects took hold. Wilson ran over to his wife to see if she was OK and Enerjak prepared to vaporize them both.

Team Chun-Nan decided to step in and try their hand at defeating Enerjak. Matilda charged towards the omnipotent warrior. She leapt into the air and unleashed her most powerful kung-fu move on Enerjak, the Six Dragon Strike. She had taken Zira out with it and she hoped to do the same for Enerjak. She landed in front of Enerjak and punched downwards on his head, then uppercut him in the chin, then spun around and elbowed him in the gut, then unleashed a left and right hook each on either side of his face and then finally punched him squarely in the chest. Enerjak hurled backwards and crashed down on to the ground back first. He bounced back up into the air but her somersaulted onto his feet and sneered. Matilda's strongest move hadn't done any harm to him whatsoever aside from leaving the princess with sore fists given she had punched a hard helmet and a hard chest plate. The mongoose rubbed her fists tensely, hoping that her attack had done a number on Enerjak. But Enerjak just simply marched towards Matilda, grinning wickedly as if nothing had happened to him.

"Ha, ha, ha...that tickled." he crowed.

Matilda's heart sank in despair. Her strongest attack and Enerjak dismissed it as a mere tickle?! How could she hope to bring Enerjak down if her strongest attack had no effect on him?! The Princess of Chun-Nan began to feel that she was not the kind of opponent to fight a god since her strongest attack had no effect on him. Bladefeather, Mushu and Li Moon charged towards Enerjak, hoping they could harm him in some way but Enerjak swung his sword and took Team Chun-Nan all off their feet and sent them on a brief flight across the terrain with a wave of Chaos Energy. Team Adabat charged towards Enerjak with Scott the Lynx and Jessica the Cougar throwing energy spears furiously at the armoured echidna. Felix the Peacock flew in and clubbed Enerjak's head with his tail-feather clubs. But all the attacks were futile. Enerjak took them all as if they were nothing. Enerjak then held out his arms and swung them upwards. He sent curved blades of energy sweeping towards Team Adabat, striking them callously and knocking them down onto their backs.

Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx and Kiara the Cheetah came charging towards Enerjak, the leo-lynx drawing out his arm blades and Kiara the Cheetah drawing out her broadsword. Dark pounced towards Enerjak and slashed at him as furiously as he could. His attacks were in vain for Enerjak took the blows and slugged Dark in the gut, flinging him upwards and sending him crashing down hard onto his back. Kiara swung her sword at Enerjak only for it to break as Enerjak held up his own sword and blocked the attack. Worried, Kiara began unleashing a round of rapid fisticuffs at Enerjak. The golden armoured god laughed at Kiara's pitiful attempts and he punched her away. Kiara cried out as she flew backwards and she landed down hard onto her back.

Seeing Dark and Kiara failing to do anything against Enerjak, Team Rose decided to have a shot at Enerjak themselves even though they knew they wouldn't fare very well against him. At least trying to beat Enerjak would be better than doing nothing at all. Amy thundered towards Enerjak and she swung her Piko-Piko Hammer straight up into Enerjak's chin. The blow was surprisingly hard enough to knock the godly entity down onto his back, something Amy hadn't expected. The pink hedgehog then proceeded to hammer down on Enerjak as hard as she possibly could. She slammed the beefy hammer down on Enerjak, raised it above her head and slammed it down on him again. Enerjak took about six blows before he eventually held up his hand and caught Amy's hammer just as she was about to hammer him again. Enerjak picked himself up and yanked the hammer out of the female hedgehog's hands. Frightened, Amy tried to run away but was blasted in the back by a Chaos Spear. Pained, Amy fell onto her knees and grimaced, willing the pain to go away. Cream and Cosmo both threw their disc weapons at Enerjak but the feeble weapons didn't make any impact at all. Enerjak didn't even FEEL them. Cheese the Chao, Cream's pet and best friend, flew straight towards Enerjak in an attempt to punch him in the eye but Enerjak grabbed Cheese and threw him back at Cream, hitting her between the eyes and just above her nose. Cream was knocked down flat onto her back by the Chao. Cosmo backed away nervously but Enerjak rushed up to her and grabbed her by the neck. He hoisted the terrified Seedrian up to his eyeline and he smiled wickedly at her.

"You know, you did make an excellent agent for me Cosmo..." purred Enerjak wickedly, "Maybe as a reward, I'll let you live as my little pet. It'll be a shame to waste a good agent like you."

"I'd rather spend an eternity with Marik the Martian than you Enerjak!" spat Cosmo defiantly.

"Then you shall die with the others. But since I'm so generous, I'll put you unconscious and kill you in your sleep. You won't feel anything then." said Enerjak coldly.

Cosmo began to shake fearfully as Enerjak tightened his grip on her neck. The Seedrian gagged loudly and tried to get free as Enerjak's hand denied her lungs any access to air. Cosmo could see black dots in front of her eyes threatening to coalesce together and send her to darkness. The Seedrian had no hope of staying awake. She was going to fall unconscious and then Enerjak would kill her. But just as Cosmo's lights were about to go out, Tails flew in behind Enerjak and dropkicked him in the head, causing him to drop the Seedrian onto the ground.

"Leave her alone!" screamed Tails, "Don't you think you've hurt her enough already?!"

"No. There's no such thing as "hurting somebody enough" you impudent little brat." snorted Enerjak, "I intend to hurt all of you as much as I wish!"

He turned around and let Tails have it in the face with a powerful blast of Chaos Energy form his hand. The blast sent Tails careening down into the ground in agonizing pain. He had his hands tightly clenching his face and for a moment, they seemed fixed to it due to how hard her was clutching it. Horrified, Cosmo ran over to Tails to see if he was OK. The fox was alive but he along with the rest of the Royal Fighters wouldn't be alive for long. Enerjak would finish them off unless they could do something about him. And there were still some Royal Fighters to try their hand at stopping Enerjak.

The only ones left who hadn't yet attacked Enerjak yet were Silver, Blaze, Ruben, Sora, Mace, Abby, Blizzard and Team Chaotix. Ruben ran forward and let Enerjak have a powerful jet of water to the face. While that kept him distracted, Mace the Elephant and Vector the Crocodile stampeded towards Enerjak and grabbed him by his arms. The two heavyweight Mobians brought Enerjak down onto his back and began to punch him as hard as they could. Mace even walloped Enerjak in the face with his mace but despite the powerful weapon slamming down hard on the god's face, no harm or even damage was done to him. Even the face plate had survived the blow. Enerjak teleported out from underneath Mace and Vector and he punched them both in the back. Ruben and Espio jumped into let Enerjak have it with a bunch of martial arts skills they wielded but their attacks did no harm to the evil Chaos monster. Enerjak spun around and kicked Ruben and Espio away from them, bringing them down hard onto their sides. Blizzard whipped out her ice wand and fired a powerful, magical attack at Enerjak but he stood there and let the blow hit him. It slammed against him like a glass being thrown into a wall but he didn't even flinch. Enerjak summoned a Chaos Spear to his hand and he threw it at Blizzard, striking her in the stomach and knocking her down. Abby and Sora ran towards Enerjak but they quickly ran for cover as he attempted to vaporize them. The terrified Mobians fled as a Chaos Lightening struck at the spot where they had been momentarily. Charmy Bee flew towards Enerjak, aiming to sting him but the bee didn't get the chance for Enerjak blasted him with a Chaos Spear and brought him down onto his back. Only Silver and Blaze were left. The two future Mobians looked nervous as Enerjak drew out his sword and pointed it at them. Enerjak had a look on his face that could bring certain death as he pointed the sword at Silver and Blaze.

"You two...you came back in time to try and prevent me from becoming the demon that you see before you!" snarled Enerjak, "Too bad. I succeeded! I have become Enerjak and to make sure you two do NOT exist in the future, I'll make sure that no Mobian survives my apocalypse! A whole new generation of Mobius will evolve in your places and they'll all be loyal to me!"

"Some future..." muttered Silver, "And besides, big heads up for you. Me and Blaze spent a long time learning about you. Nobody in the future knows who you are and nobody has ever seen you!"

"That must mean you succeed in destroying Mobius but then you die afterwards!" declared Blaze, "So you're pretty much doomed if we beat you or not! You don't live forever!"

The lavender furred cat noticed with great satisfaction that Enerjak looked horrified to hear this from her. Enerjak was having trouble comprehending what he'd heard. He didn't exist in the future and nobody knew who he was, nor ever heard of him?! How was this possible?! He was immortal! He couldn't die so why didn't he exist in the future?! Enerjak wondered if somebody miraculously ended up beating him and everybody just happened to forget about him after he was gone. This made the omnipotent demon more determined than ever to lay waste to the world and also make sure that he survived so he was still around in the future, whatever it was that killed him or put a stop to him. He kept his sword pointed at his psychic and fire powered foes.

"I shall see to it that I do exist in the future!" declared Enerjak, "Thank you for the heads up so now I may make sure that I do not die..."

He then fired a Chaos Lightening attack at Silver and Blaze. Yelping in fright, Silver quickly used his psychokinesis to stop the attack dead in its tracks. The tip of the lightening froze stiff just inches away from his face. How close he had been to being vaporized! Blaze growled menacingly at Enerjak and she scampered up to him, hands alit with flames and her face full of fury. She socked Enerjak as hard as she could in the face, hoping that the attack hurt Enerjak very badly. The attack didn't seem to have done much to Enerjak much to the cat's disappointment. She let Enerjak have in the face with a jet of blazing flames, hoping to incinerate the immortal villain into ashes. But the flames didn't do any harm to Enerjak whatsoever. It was like he couldn't even feel the fire as it rushed over his face. He didn't even feel hot, let alone feel any burns from the fire attack! Enerjak laughed at Blaze's pitiful efforts as she tried in vain to hurt him. Enerjak slugged Blaze in the stomach and then spun around on his heel, swinging his other foot directly into the cat's face and knocking her down onto her side. Cackling manically, Enerjak then kicked Blaze up into the air and sent her crashing down in front of Silver. Silver as furious to see Enerjak beating up his girlfriend like this and he swiped his arm, sending a wave of psychic energy rushing towards Enerjak. Enerjak cleaved through it with his sword and scythed through the air with it, sending a chaotic wave hurling towards Silver. The psychic hedgehog held up his hands frantically, hoping to stop the wave before it hit him but the attack was too strong and he reacted too late. The wave hit him and threw him backwards across the battlefield. He crashed down hard onto his back and winced in pain, unable to move for the moment. Enerjak prepared to finish off Silver but he was then spin-dashed in the face by Sonic. He staggered backwards from the attack and Sonic proceeded to trip him up with a kick to the legs. He jumped on top of Enerjak and glowered at him angrily. He was now face-to-face literally with the most powerful foe he'd ever faced in his life. But the fact didn't scare him one little bit. To Sonic, Enerjak was just another villain who needed to die.

"Why are you doing this Ener-Joke?!" demanded Sonic furiously, "What do you hope to gain from destroying everything?!"

"A new improved Mobius!" bellowed Enerjak, "This world is like a garden gone wild and it needs to be purged with fire! I only wish to make Mobius a better world...by giving it the chance to start all over again and become better than it is now!"

"Well you do a damn good job at it!" snapped Sonic, "Mobius is a wreck and for over 200 years from now, it's STILL a wreck! You really improved Mobius a lot there Ener-chump! Silver and Blaze tell us that Mobius barely has any life left after your apocalypse so you're not really much of a saviour are you?!"

"You don't have any reason to care...you won't live to see the future!" roared Enerjak.

He then teleported out from underneath Sonic and reappeared behind him. He slashed Sonic across the back with his sword, leaving a long, deep cut across his back. Sonic screamed in agony and he put his hands over his back, screaming pained screams and willing the pain to go away. Enerjak was about to kill Sonic. He raised his sword and prepared to cut Sonic to pieces but just as he prepared to make the killing strike, all of the Royal Fighters cam charging towards him. They were hoping to pile on top of Enerjak and pin him down onto the ground to keep him from killing anybody. Enerjak saw them all coming and he laughed mockingly. He almost pitied his enemies. How desperate they were to stop him and yet their efforts were consistently futile. Why did they persist in such a hopeless case? They could never beat him and he'd beaten them all into the dirt moments ago. Shaking his head in faux pity, Enerjak smiled demonically and held up his arms.

"Chaos...BLAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA
he bellowed at the top of his voice.

An explosion of Chaos Energy erupted from Enerjak's body and rushed into the Royal Fighters. The explosion ploughed through all of them and sent them all hurling about hundred yards backwards away from him. They all crashed down in a circle spanning a wide distance all around Enerjak. They all lay where they were, weakened and unable to get back up again. The Chaos Blast had drained much of their strength, something that delighted Enerjak immensely. He laughed crazily in triumph as he admired his downed enemies. He had won and the Royal Fighters had lost. There was no way he could possibly fail now.

"Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! I win!" crowed Enerjak, "Now to begin the end of this world and the dawning of a new Mobius...I shall now unleash my Chaos Storm!"

He took off into the air and prepared to unleash his world-ending attack. The Chaos Storm was Enerjak's most powerful attack. It was an attack that formed storm clouds and had them constantly unleashing strikes of Chaos Energy that would disintegrate anything it hit. Nobody could stop Enerjak now as he raised his sword above his head and prepared to begin the Chaos Storm. Down below, Sonic began to sit up slowly, ignoring the pain in his body as he opened his eyes. He was lying next to Tails and Sally and they were struggling to get back up. Tails opened one eye and grunted. They stared up at Enerjak helplessly and watched as the storm clouds began to form together in the afternoon sky. They would all be dead soon and that thought made Sally and Tails feel very despaired.

"Sonic...it's no use. We can't defeat him!" Tails coughed.

"It's ridiculous how powerful this Ener-Germ is!" moaned Sonic, "He takes all our blows as if they're not happening!"

"He's like a living Chaos Emerald..." murmured Sally, "He's just borderline invincible! We haven't a hope against him!"

"Wait a minute...wait a minute!" cried Tails, snapping his fingers in realization, "That's it! Chaos Emeralds! Finitevus used them to become Enerjak! We can use the Chaos Emeralds against him!"

"But Tails, Finitevus might have corrupted them." noted Sally, "And he made one-hundred of them with Synthetic Chaos Energy, a formula that's very corrupted. We might turn evil ourselves if we use it."

"Nah, ah, ah Sal, we can cleanse the emeralds of their dark powers." noted Sonic, "Knuckles's Master Emerald chant's good at this stuff and I bet if all of us do it at once, it'll cleanse the emeralds of all the dark energy in them! Remember that Chaos Emeralds are fuelled by emotions. Our positive aura will make the Chaos Emeralds more positive and make them safe for us to use!"

"Brilliant, just brilliant!" cried Tails excitedly, "And if Enerjak tries to stop us, we can just send out some distractions like...maybe Shadow! He could Chaos Blast Enerjak and keep him at bay and Silver's psychokinesis will slow him down too!"

"It's a risky gambit and it could go horribly wrong...it might not even be enough to stop Enerjak..." murmured Sally worriedly, "But what choice do we have? The end of the world is coming. At this stage, I'm ready to try ANYTHING as long as it means we save the world."

"I am too Sal...I am too." said Sonic, forcing himself onto his feet.

He held Sally and Tails stand back up and the trio noticed that the other Royal Fighters were getting back up too. They had been spread out a fair distance thanks to Enerjak's Chaos Blast but they soon closed the distance between then. Some were looking up at the sky nervously as it began to turn dark with black thunderclouds looming above them. Enerjak was still pointing his sword up at the sky and forming the thunderclouds. His Chaos Storm was ready to crackle and boom all over Mobius. He planned to use it to kill all the Royal Fighters and then he'd vaporize all of the nearby Megapolis City. It would be the first of many other cities in the world to fall at Enerjak's sword. The Royal Fighters gathered around together and Tails explained his plan to them all. They listened very closely, eager to hear if the plan would stop Enerjak once and for all.

"OK guys, I think I know how to stop Enerjak." announced Tails, "We'll go over to the Chaos and Master Emeralds and we'll use Knuckles's chant and our positive emotions to cleanse the emeralds of Finitevus's corruption. Then Sonic will use them to defeat Enerjak.

I have no idea what will happen to Sonic if he uses 109 Chaos Emeralds but if Finitevus can use them just fine then so can he. Shadow and Silver will distract Enerjak while we prepare Sonic for the emeralds."

"It's risky little boy but it's the only plan we have that can possibly stop him." said a very worried and concerned Princess Matilda.

"You bet it is." said Scott the Lynx agreeably, "We don't know how else we can stop the asshole so we've gotta try it."

"All of us showing positive emotions and using the emerald chant will definitely work." said Knuckles, "The more people chanting and the more emotions displayed positively, the stronger the cleansing will be. Even Finitevus's dark corruption won't survive it."

That filled the Royal Fighters up with a lot of hope, a positive emotion already being displayed inside them.

"I greatly approve of being chosen as the distraction." said Shadow with his arms folded, "I'd love to show that creep what a REAL Chaos Blast can do."

"And I'll be able to slow him down enough. Maybe even take him for a ride." said Silver approvingly, "This plan's got merit."

"Then let us do it to it. For the sake of all of Mobius." said Sonic, "The apocalypse will NOT happen today!"

The Royal Fighters punched the air and yelled along with Sonic. They had a plan and it was guaranteed to work. They had to move quickly though as a mauve streak of lightening shot down from the dark skies above and headed towards them. The Chaos Storm had begun! Streaks of lightening began crackling through the sky and striking down at the ground, singing any spots strike and vaporising any building hit by the lightening. The noise that the lightening made was deafening and the sight of the streaks destroying buildings was terrifying. Dark and Kiara were the most horrified to watch as the City of Megapolis was decimated building by building as colourful streaks of chaotic lightening struck down on it. Their headquarters was quickly vaporized by a strike of lightening and the horrified felines watched as the building was reduced to ashes. The Royal Fighters wasted no time in getting a move on. They all ran quickly over to the pile of Chaos Emeralds that had granted Dr. Finitevus the power and image of Enerjak. Silver used his psychokinesis to carry Shadow up towards the demonic creature that was commanding the storm up above. Enerjak didn't notice the Royal Fighters. He was too busy cackling delightedly as he watched his Chaos Storm destroy the land and the city down below him. This was the staring phase of Mobius's destruction. He would spread his terror to all other countries in the world and reduced everything to ashes and dust. Shadow and Silver sneaked up behind Enerjak, avoiding the chaotic lightening strikes as the psychic hedgehog carried the ultimate life form up to the caped destroyer. Upon reaching Enerjak, Silver eased some of his psychic grip so Shadow could move his limbs. Shadow summoned a Chaos Spear to his hands and he threw it at Enerjak, striking him directly in the small of his back. Enerjak cried out in surprise as he was hit and he turned around, surprised to see Shadow and Silver behind him. He clenched his teeth angrily.

"You dare to strike a god?! You dare?!" bellowed Enerjak.

"I'm the ultimate life form, of course I dare." sniffed Shadow, "Now then, you showed us your Chaos Blast? Let me show you mine..."

"I do not think so..." growled Enerjak furiously.

He pointed his deadly sword at Silver and Shadow and prepared to decimate them but Silver grabbed him with a psychic hold and held him into place. He threw Enerjak downwards before he could break free, sending him near crashing down into the ground. Enerjak saved himself from the impact before he could crash into it and he boosted back up into the sky. He raised his sword above his head and prepared to cleave Shadow and Silver in two. But Shadow had removed his inhibitor rings and was preparing to unleash a Chaos Blast. He was glowing red as he prepared to unleash all the energy in his body. Silver released him from his hold and held onto his rings, leaving Shadow to let Enerjak have it. The armoured echidna came close to stopping Shadow dead in his tracks but Silver quickly deterred him with his psychokinesis, sending him careening to the left. Enerjak rushed towards Shadow after the slight detour Silver had sent him on but he was too late. Shadow unleashed his Chaos Blast and pounded Enerjak with a huge explosion of raw energy. Enerjak held up his hands to block the blow but the blast sent him hurling backwards through the sky and Shadow kept it up for so long that Enerjak was sent flying a very long distance away. Even to a god like Enerjak, the Chaos Blast felt like being hit by an explosion. The blast was so powerful that Enerjak had been thrown straight into the Golden Caverns, a very long distance away from the city and a long way to walk back from. With the Chaos Blast now over, Silver caught Shadow before he could fall to the ground with a psychic bubble. Then he handed the hedgehog his inhibitor rings so he could power back up and prepare for Enerjak's inevitable return. He'd be gunning for them now, he wouldn't care about the others. They'd be safe and they'd take all the danger themselves. Perfect for the plan Tails had come up with.

Meanwhile, the Royal Fighters had all gathered around the stash of 109 Chaos Emeralds. They were mesmerized by the sheer beauty of the emeralds and amazed to see so many of them. Finitevus was truly a genius, creating so many synthetic Chaos Emeralds to build up the number to this amount. Sonic couldn't tell which Emeralds were the eight real Chaos Emeralds for the Synthetic Chaos Emeralds were that convincing in appearance. As Knuckles lay eyes on the Master Emerald, he felt himself feeling much happier all of the sudden. It was like seeing an old friend for the first time in forever. He hadn't seen the Master Emerald in a year. It had once kept Angel Island, his birthplace, afloat but Finitevus had destroyed it by stealing the Master Emerald and leaving the island to crash down onto the ground and break into rubble. He'd take the Master Emerald back and this time, he wouldn't lose it.

"OK everybody, I'll start the chant and you all have to repeat after me." ordered Knuckles.

"Got it." said the crowd of heroes behind him.

Knuckles grinned approvingly and he stepped towards the pile of Chaos Emeralds. He held out his arms and closed his eyes. The Royal Fighters copied him, supposing that doing what he did would also work too. They all begin to think positively and think of positive emotions like happiness, hope, joy, laughter and above all, love. The positive emotions made them feel grand inside and the emeralds seemed to glow in response to this. It was like they could sense the positive emotions inside the Royal Fighters themselves. Chaos was an amazing force that reacted greatly in many ways to many emotions. Knuckles knew this and that was why he knew the cleansing would work.

"The servers are the seven Chaos...Chaos is power enriched by the heart...the sever exists to unify the Chaos!" chanted Knuckles.

"The servers are the seven Chaos...Chaos is power enriched by the heart...the sever exists to unify the Chaos!" chanted the Royal Fighters, repeating Knuckles word for word as he spoke.

"Mighty Chaos Emeralds, cleanse yourselves of the dark energy inside of you! Chaos is not a force for evil, it's a force for good! We want to use you for good! Oh mighty Chaos, give us your power, help us defeat the dark villains who threaten our peace and sanctuary!" Knuckles chanted again.

"Mighty Chaos Emeralds, cleanse yourselves of the dark energy inside of you! Chaos is not a force for evil, it's a force for good! We want to use you for good! Oh mighty Chaos, give us your power, help us defeat the dark villains who threaten our peace and sanctuary!" repeated the Royal Fighters.

"All together now..." murmured Knuckles, "Chaos Emeralds...embrace the light...BANISH THE DARKNESS!" he cried out as loudly as he could.

"Chaos Emeralds...embrace the light...BANISH THE DARKNESS!" cried the Royal Fighters in unison.

The positive emotions combined with the chanting was all that the Master and Chaos Emeralds needed. The combined forces of all the Royal Fighters thinking so positively and wishing for something so good gave the emeralds the strength they needed to destroy the dark energy that Finitevus had infected them with. A trail of black Chaos Energy whooshed out of the Chaos Emeralds and formed a huge energy bubble into the sky. The energy came out of every emerald, including the 100 synthetic emeralds. The energy bubble loomed into the air for a moment before disappearing into nothing. It had been done. The Chaos Emeralds had been cleansed. No Dark Chaos Energy infected them anymore. The Royal Fighters cheered delightedly, earning a bright glow of appeal from the emeralds in reaction to their joy.

"It worked!" cried Knuckles excitedly, "I can't believe it! It worked!"

"Well done everybody!" shrieked Sally ecstatically.

"Now for Step 2!" cried Sonic, jumping onto the Master Emerald eagerly, "Time to see what happens when I use 109 Chaos Emeralds against an omnipotent crime against nature!"

"Go get him Sonic! Beat that Enerjak!" cried Tails eagerly, "Show him why you don't mess with us Royal Fighters!"

"Will do little buddy." said Sonic with a wink, "Wish me luck everybody!"

"Good luck Sonic!" the crowd replied happily.

"Time to bring light to our darkest hour..." murmured Sonic, smirking confidently as he looked up at Enerjak who was still fighting against Shadow and Silver.

Sonic closed his eyes and focused on the emeralds he stood upon. He could feel the energy beneath his feet. So much power and so much glory they all contained. He had never used more than eight Chaos Emeralds before so he was very excited but also nervous at the same time about using them. The blue hedgehog imagined that the emeralds would give him an amazing super form, one greater than he'd ever experienced before. Sonic held out his arms and willed for the emeralds to lend him his power. The Chaos Emeralds all obliged, feeding him trains of energy as he tapped into them. Sonic felt a glorious sensation that made him feel like he was on top of the world as he embraced the energy of the many Chaos Emeralds. This was the most amazing feeling he'd ever felt in his life! And all positive energy too! The Royal Fighters watched in amazement as Sonic was surrounded by a white ball of energy. He was completely lost within the white void of the ball for the moment but he emerged after a few seconds, now looking very different. His fur was golden as usual but his spines had increased in length and he wore pieces of armour around his torso, shoulders, pelvis, shins, feet and lower arms. The armour was a brighter gold than Sonic's fur was and he, like Enerjak, also wielded a huge sword with a curved blade. A cloak billowed out from Sonic's waist. His eyes were red and he wore a face plate that covered all of his face except his mouth. He looked a little like a hedgehog version of Enerjak only he was completely good and full of positive energy. His presence even had a rather pleasant, friendly image to it. The Royal Fighters all gaped in amazement at Sonic, unable to believe what they were seeing. A chorus of gasps was all any of them needed to express their dumbfounded amazement at the majestic, beautiful sight before them. They were well impressed at what Sonic had become as a result of the emerald's energy. Sonic admired himself all over and grinned approvingly at what he was wearing.

"Ha, I always said I had a "golden" personality..." he chuckled, "And I've always wanted a sword too!" he added, admiring with delight the sword he now held in his hands. "This is epic! I feel more than super I do! I feel like...like...HYPER Sonic!"

"You look amazing!" cried Tails gleefully.

"I never thought a hyper form would be possible..." gasped Knuckles, unable to comprehend what he was looking at, "Dad would have been so amazed..."

"Even Imperator Ix never had that kind of power..." whispered Shade in amazement.

"Oh Sonic, you look wonderful." said Sally approvingly, "You really are our "golden boy" now."

"Thanks everyone." said Hyper Sonic happily, "Now let's beat down that Enerjak and save our world!"

Hyper Sonic rocketed up into the air in the blink of an eye. As he headed up towards Enerjak, it started to rain. Heavy, fat drops of water poured down onto the ground below, soaking anybody around and drenching the ground. Hyper Sonic barely felt the rain as it hammered down over his body. He fixed his eyes firmly on Enerjak up above and he grinned confidently to himself. Finitevus had wanted to become Enerjak, now he'd wish that he hadn't. Hyper Sonic would make sure that Enerjak had a very, VERY painful send off when he was finished with him. Shadow and Silver saw Hyper Sonic coming towards Enerjak and they quickly left the scene, leaving Enerjak all for the hyper-powered hedgehog. Enerjak watched in confusion, wondering why Shadow and Silver were leaving. The demi-god soon realized why they had left after a colossal spin-dash slammed into his back and sent him spiralling crazily through the air. Enerjak had no idea what had hit him but he didn't take long to find out. He turned around and saw the most shocking sight he could ever see. Sonic the Hedgehog was before him and he was all hyper-powered with glorious armour and amazing power in his body! Enerjak's jaw dropped in astonishment.

"No! Impossible! How did you manage to turn hyper?!" he bellowed in bewilderment.

"You left the emeralds wide open for us to use..." sneered Hyper Sonic, "And we cleansed them of your filth Ener-joke! I've now used them to become Hyper Sonic and I am gonna use these powers to turn you into a memory!"

"You dare to use my emeralds against me?!" snarled Enerjak in a voice that sounded more animal than human, "You disgust me...you will pay for this insolence!"

"And you will pay for everything you've ever done and the fact you want to destroy Mobius!" shouted Hyper Sonic, "This is a fight to the death Cracker-Jacks!"

"Indeed you abhorrent little hedgehog..." growled Enerjak angrily, brandishing his sword and preparing to unleash all his power, "This will be...our LAST stand..."

Hyper Sonic was reminded instantly of his final battle with Dr. Eggman last year. He had declared the exact same thing before going to battle him. He was now in another last stand, this one with a god of chaotic power who used to be a scientist with great fighting abilities and an amazing brain. Hyper Sonic and Enerjak hovered for a moment, staring each other down and preparing to make their first move. Rain trickled down their bodies as they waited. Hyper Sonic could feel the rain pitter-pattering on his helmet in the tense standoff he was in. Enerjak could feel the same. This was the battle of their lives, the battle to end all battles and most importantly, the battle to determine the fate of the world. Then suddenly, after a few tense seconds passed, both god-powered Mobians raised their swords and charged at each other like fighter jets. Bellowing at the top of their voices, the armoured beings swung their swords at each other. Their swords clashed together, making a sound louder than the thunder in the sky that accompanied the rain throwing down around them. Hyper Sonic felt Enerjak's strength pressing hard against his own sword. He was strong but Hyper Sonic's arms didn't bend in the slightest. He grinned to himself. He was on par with Enerjak! His hyper form was just what he needed to combat the evil echidna! As the two pressed on each other's swords, Hyper Sonic suddenly Chaos Controlled out of Enerjak's way and reappeared behind him. He spin-dashed into Enerjak's back, still holding his sword so he ended up churning into the echidna's cape with his sword. Unlike before, Hyper Sonic's attack was actually inflicting harm upon Enerjak! The hyper hedgehog listened with great delight as his attack caused Enerjak to bellow thunderously in pain. Only a god could hurt him and Sonic had come a god when so he could damage him! Hyper Sonic uncurled from his spin-dash and drop-kicked Enerjak down into the ground as hard as he could. Enerjak crashed into the ground, leaving a huge crater where he landed. Enerjak boosted back up into the sky and swung his sword at Hyper Sonic. The echidna's sword sent a wave of paralyzing energy towards Hyper Sonic but the hedgehog flew out of the wave's way and swung his own sword. A wave of energy hurled towards his evil opponent from the blade tip but Enerjak swung his sword down and cleaved through the wave, slicing it in two and saving himself the impact of the hit. Enerjak swung his sword upwards and sent a vertical wave of energy hurling towards Hyper Sonic. Hyper Sonic blocked the blow by sending a horizontal wave crashing into it. The hedgehog was enjoying himself immensely. He had amazing power, he had a sword and he was going toe-to-toe with Enerjak! This was the best day of his life hands down and he would cherish it for years to come. Hyper Sonic rocketed towards Enerjak and Enerjak rocketed towards him. Both opponents clashed swords as they flew by each other and they turned around to stare each other down. Enerjak looked less cocky and more angry as this fight went on, something that made Hyper Sonic feel very pleased. He was beginning to get to the demi-god. He would win the fight! Enerjak raised his sword and prepared to make another attack.

"Grrr...impressive. Why waste all this amazing power you have to save this stupid world?" cried Enerjak angrily, "You sicken me Sonic! You have the power I wield and you waste it all on your stupid friends and your pathetic world! You're a god! Use your power to its full potential! Don't waste it on the good, use it like I am! It'll be more enjoyable, I promise you..." he purred, hoping that his weasel words would tempt Hyper Sonic to turn on his friends.

"I will admit, this is kinda fun, being a god and having amazing powers and all." said Hyper Sonic grimly, "But I use my power for one thing...to beat the crap out of freaks like you! You're the one wasting all his power on something as nihilistic and pointless as wonton destruction! You sicken me Ener-Jerk! And when I put you down, we'll make this a day of celebration and every July 21st, we'll celebrate YOUR death!"

He then swung his sword and sent another Chaos Wave cleaving through the air towards his golden-armoured foe. Enerjak roared in rage and he sliced through the wave with ease with his own sword. Hyper Sonic charged towards Enerjak and slashed him clean across the torso with a hefty swing of his huge bladed weapon. Enerjak winced in pain but he recovered quickly and slashed Hyper Sonic across his helmet. The blow didn't do much damage to Hyper Sonic. The hedgehog shrugged off the blow and he spin-dashed into Enerjak. He began churning away at his armour, leaving heavy scratches as he spin-dashed him. Enerjak bellowed angrily in annoyance and he punched Hyper Sonic through the sky with a powerful, Chaos enhanced punch. Hyper Sonic hurled backwards though the sky, unable to believe that Enerjak had managed to punch him so hard. Hyper Sonic shook himself off and sent another energy wave towards Enerjak with a swish of his sword. Enerjak did the same and both attacks cancelled each other out. Then both godly Mobians rocketed towards each other and began clashing swords heavily, both opponents feeling the weight of each other's attacks on each other as they fought. They clashed and clashed several times until Enerjak suddenly caught Hyper Sonic sharply across the shoulder. Hyper Sonic winced in pain and clutched his arm, using a Chaos Regeneration to heal the wound. Enerjak sneered at him, brandishing his weapon for another strike.

"Heal yourself all you like...you'll still die Sonic." gloated Enerjak.

"The same could be said to you, you monster!" snapped Hyper Sonic, "With the power I have inside me, I'll NEVER stop fighting until you're gone forever!"

Enerjak didn't approve of what Hyper Sonic had said to him. He swung the sword viciously at Sonic and slashed him across the helmet, leaving a deep gash in it. Hyper Sonic winced, feeling the slash across his forehead as the sword struck his helmet just above the eyes. Angered, Hyper Sonic retaliated by cleaving his sword upwards, slashing Enerjak vertically up his helmet and leaving an equally as deep gash on Enerjak's glorious, golden head armour. Enerjak's head jolted backwards from the attack, throwing his balance off for long enough for Hyper Sonic to draw his leg up until his knee was touching his chest and kick outwards at Enerjak, throwing him backwards across the sky. Enerjak hurled backwards a fair distance before he regained himself and came charging back towards Hyper Sonic. A clap of thunder boomed in the stormy, rainy skies and lightening flashed as the two gods clashed weapons with each other once again. The swords made a loud noise as their blades came into contact with each other. Both Hyper Sonic and Enerjak grunted furiously as they pushed onto each other's weapons. Hyper Sonic however did something that Enerjak didn't. He took advantage of the situation and backhanded Enerjak across the face, sending him spiralling through the air in a dizzy spin that had him momentarily distorted. Hyper Sonic took advantage of this again by summoning a bunch of Chaos Spears to his free hand and throwing them at Enerjak. The hyper-powered hero of Mobius watched delightedly as the spears pierced through Enerjak's armour and inflicted grievous pain on him. The armoured Chaos god winced in pain as the Chaos Spears inflicted a lot of damage on him. He felt like he was being burnt as they whooshed past over him and pierced through his armour. Enraged, Enerjak spun around and threw Chaos Spears at Hyper Sonic. The spears hit Hyper Sonic and left a few holes in his armour. The Chaos-powered hedgehog grimaced as the spears inflicted pain onto him. Hyper Sonic gritted his teeth angrily and he swung his sword, sending another Chaos wave at Enerjak. Enerjak sneered at his opponent's pitiful attack and he ploughed straight through it as he charged at Hyper Sonic with his sword held out. He soared towards Hyper Sonic until he was directly in front of him and he slashed at the hedgehog's chest plate. The attack left a deep gash on Hyper Sonic's chest plate but Enerjak wasn't done yet. He sheathed his sword and unleashed a hail of punches on Hyper Sonic, punching his opponent at a speed even the super sonic hedgehog was having trouble keeping up with. Hyper Sonic did his best to deflect his enemy's blows but Enerjak struck him too hard and too fast repeatedly all over his body. The blows felt heavy and callous and Hyper Sonic was having trouble resisting them. Enerjak then slugged Hyper Sonic in the stomach and bashed him on his head. The attack didn't really do much to Sonic for his helmet protected him from most of the impact. Then Enerjak spun round, raised his leg above Hyper Sonic and slammed his foot down on his opponent's head, throwing Hyper Sonic down into the ground below. Enerjak cackled manically as he flew down after Hyper Sonic and slammed down into his back, pushing him quickly downwards and slamming him into the ground as hard as he could. The impact left an enormous crater that sent a lot of wet gravel flying across the terrain. The Royal Fighters watched worriedly, hoping that Hyper Sonic was OK. In the crater, Enerjak stood up and Hyper Sonic lay down on the ground, panting and grunting as he tried to get back up. Enerjak grinned smugly and he drew out his sword, ready to kill Sonic and claim victory once and for all.

"An admirable effort Sonic…but you fall to the might of Enerjak!" declared Enerjak triumphantly.

He raised the sword above his head and swung it down towards Hyper Sonic. But the hedgehog turned over onto his back and blocked the blow with his own sword. He smirked at Enerjak cockily as he saw the echidna's surprised face.

"Like I asked before…do you EVER stop gloating?" snickered Hyper Sonic.

Hyper Sonic then warped out from underneath Enerjak and he reappeared behind him. Enerjak had already been expecting it so he quickly spun around and slashed Hyper Sonic across the face. Hyper Sonic ignored the pain in his face that had been inflicted on him by Enerjak's sword. He struck back, spin-dashing Enerjak into the edge of the crater. He cleaved away at Enerjak's armour, tearing away bits of armour as he attacked him. Furious, Enerjak pushed Hyper Sonic away and sent an energy wave hurling towards him. Hyper Sonic quickly blocked the attack, slashing through the energy wave with his own sword. He knew that he couldn't keep the battle going forever. If the fight was allowed to prolong, it could potentially threaten Mobius and the two would end up doing grievous damage to the planet. He had to end it now. But how could he kill an immortal being like Enerjak? That was a question that began to worry the hedgehog. Then suddenly Hyper Sonic realized something. He was a god so surely he could kill Enerjak, who was also a god? Hyper Sonic knew just what to do. He and Enerjak charged towards each other and clashed swords violently with each other. The heavy blades whacked against each other, creating a loud noise that rang in their eyes. They could feel the weight of their attacks as they clashed swords. Heavy attacks indeed. The two Chaos gods clashed swords together callously and swiftly, each blow striking hard and making the two wince as the clash noises rang loudly in their ears. Then Hyper Sonic unleashed his plan. He threw a Chaos Spear directly into Enerjak's eyes, blinding him for the moment and leaving him in terrible pain. Enerjak clutched his eyes and willed for the pain to go away. Hyper Sonic laughed to himself. He could dispose of Enerjak easily now. He teleported behind Enerjak once again, this time the echidna Demi-god completely unaware that Hyper Sonic was behind him. Enerjak realized it after getting his vision back…much too late. He didn't have time to react before Hyper Sonic grabbed his shoulder and suddenly plunged the sword straight through Enerjak's back, the blade emerging through his chest as the blade entered through his back. Enerjak let out a horrified gasp as he was suddenly impaled by Hyper Sonic. Hyper Sonic then added more pain to Enerjak by twisting the sword sharply while it was in his back. The god tried to resist but he could feel his strength fading him. Only a god could kill another god and Hyper Sonic had just done so. His beautiful plan had failed. Hyper Sonic had beaten him. Enerjak would not destroy Mobius now. Hyper Sonic yanked the blade out from Enerjak's back, watching delightedly as trickles of green coloured blood poured out of Enerjak's chest, forming a grotesque, green puddle around his feet. Enerjak fell down to his knees and clutched the wound in his chest as if hoping that he could some how mend the wound. But he couldn't. His Chaos Energy was pouring out of his body. He was losing his strength. He couldn't find the strength to use a Chaos Regeneration and heal himself. He coughed loudly, blood pouring out of his mouth.

"No…impossible…you've…ruined…everything!" he spluttered hoarsely, hoping he still had any breath left after the fatal attack.

"Guilty as charged Enerjak." snorted Hyper Sonic, "You've lost Enerjak, you're dead and you can't destroy Mobius now."

"If…I'm to…die…then…I'm taking you…with me!" bellowed Enerjak.

The wounded Chaos god then forced himself onto his feet and initiated picked up his sword. He pointed it at Hyper Sonic and fired a Chaos Lightening attack, hoping to vaporize him and kill him so he could die a happy god. The strike hit Hyper Sonic squarely in the chest and the hedgehog screamed in agony as it began to eat away at his armour. He was a Chaos god thanks to the 109 Chaos Emeralds but even he couldn't stop Enerjak from vaporizing him. His immortality just slowed down the process that was all. Hyper Sonic could feel the strike tear apart his armour, digging away furiously to get at the body that lay underneath. Chunks of armour flew everywhere as the attack ploughed through it. In a matter of moments, Hyper Sonic's body would be touched by the lightening and he would be decimated. Hyper Sonic was very frightened. Enerjak was going to kill him if he didn't do something and fast! Hyper Sonic knew exactly what to do to save himself a violent death. Gritting his teeth, Hyper Sonic unleashed a Chaos Blast, using all the strength he had left in his body to initiate the powerful attack. It was his only chance of survival even though the blast could potentially drain his energy and he'd end up finishing the job for Enerjak. The echidna Chaos God stared in horror as green energy erupted from Hyper Sonic and punched straight into him like a speeding lorry. The blast tore through the dying Enerjak, vaporizing his armour and churning away at his skin and bones. Hyper Sonic was pleased to see that his attack was working. He knew how gods worked. If they were dying, their power diminished dramatically to the point where they were easier to kill now. His stab to the back on Enerjak had been enough to weaken him enough for the Chaos Blast finish the job. Enerjak's limbs began disintegrating as the blast continued to rip him apart. He was in agony, a gaping sword wound leaking with blood in his chest and a Chaos Blast ripping him to pieces. Enerjak knew that his time had come. He only had enough energy left in him to let out his final breath.

"NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO
he bellowed in one final, loud, grating, dying bellow.

And then Enerjak was vaporized, reduced to nothing more than atoms by the Chaos Blast. There was nothing left of him after that killing attack. Every inch of him was gone from his helmet to even his sword. Enerjak, and also Dr. Finitevus, was no more. Mobius was safe. The end of the world had been prevented. Once again, Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends were triumphant. The Royal Fighters had watched Hyper Sonic finish off Enerjak in a spectacular fashion and they all exploded into applause. The feeling that went through them was nothing short of ecstasy. They had been so worried that the world was going to end. And Hyper Sonic had just prevented it from doing so. The cheering that followed Enerjak's death went on for several minutes.

"YES!" shrieked Tails gleefully, "We beat him! WE BEAT HIM! Enerjak is no more!"

"Mobius is saved! We're not gonna die and the world's not gonna end!" cheered Knuckles, punching the air excitedly, "Yahoo! Thank the guardians!"

"I can't believe it! I'm really glad we won but still, I can't believe it!" cried Amy happily, "It's a miracle! We won!"

"Praise the ancestors!" shrieked Silver ecstatically, "We've stopped Enerjak and saved the world!"

"Our future is going to be perfect at last!" cried Blaze, hugging Silver delightedly, "We've saved Mobius and beat Enerjak!"

"Yes….we did!" said Sally, her eyes streaming with happy tears, "My beloved hero of Mobius has saved us all again. At last, Finitevus is gone so Enerjak's threat will never return…and we can have peace on Mobius again."

"Hang on everybody, where's the blue dude himself?" asked Mandy quickly, feeling bad about having to interrupt the happy mood.

"Still in the crater I suppose." said Wilson.

"Knuckles, get a Chaos Emerald." ordered Sally, "Just in case he needs a Chaos Regeneration."

Knuckles obeyed and he left to get the one Chaos Emerald that he had been placed in charge of for many years. The Master Emerald. He hoisted it above his head and carried it off, following the Royal Fighters as they ran towards the crater. The happy mood had quickly turned to a mood of intensity. The Royal Fighters were hoping that Sonic was all right as they approached the crater. Enerjak had come close to killing him just before Hyper Sonic finished him off. He might be hurt or dying, something that worried Tails and Sally very much. Everybody else was deeply concerned, hoping that Sonic wasn't too bad. Tails and Sally leaped down into the crater and stared in horror at what they saw lying in the middle of it. There, lying still in the middle of the crater was Sonic the Hedgehog. He was no longer Hyper Sonic. He had been too weak to stay Chaos powered so he powered down and fainted onto his side. He looked seriously hurt and as Sally and Tails turned him over to inspect him, they saw that a huge red mark stained Sonic's chest. It wasn't blood, it was merely a huge burn from the lightening strike that had nearly killed him. His eyes were closed and he was deathly still. Rain trickled down his body, some raindrops trickling down the corners of his eyes, making him look like he was crying in his sleep. Sally couldn't even hear him breathing. Tails felt his pulse. He found it, but it was very weak. Sonic was on death's door thanks to Enerjak and it was quite possible that he would end up dying from his injuries. Sally shook Sonic nervously, her eyes brimming with tears.

"Sonic? Sonic?!" she cried out, "Please…please be alive! You've beaten Enerjak! We don't want to celebrate his death without you! Please don't be dead!"

She received no response. Sonic just remained still and silent, seemingly dead. The squirrel fought hard to contain herself, holding onto some hope that Sonic was still alive. She wouldn't give up on him yet. Sonic had survived much worse injuries before, surely he would survive this one.

"Knuckles! Master Emerald! Now!" cried Tails, his eyes already streaming with tears and mixing in with his soaking white muzzle.

Knuckles climbed down into the crater and he held the Master Emerald just above the dying Sonic. He closed his eyes and activated a Chaos Regeneration. As the emerald glowed brightly, Knuckles spoke over to Sally.

"If he doesn't wake up after this then he's dead!" cried Knuckles, "A Chaos Regeneration won't bring him back alive, it'll just heal his dead body! Chaos Regeneration heals people, not revives the dead!"

"Fingers crossed that we used it in time then…" said Sally, letting a few tears escape from her eyes as the Chaos Regeneration did its magic on Sonic.

She watched as the emerald's power healed the nasty burn mark on Sonic's chest and restored his body to normal. She clenched her fists tensely as the regeneration healed and the Master Emerald stopped glowing. Knuckles set it down beside himself and stared at Sonic, hoping that his friend was alive and the regeneration had healed him. Sally and Tails stared at Sonic too, both shedding tears and praying that Sonic was still alive. The Royal Fighters all shared Sally, Tails and Knuckles intense feelings. The Chaos Regeneration had healed his body but was that all it had done? Was Sonic dead and the regeneration had come too late to save him? It was possible but nobody wanted to think that. They wanted to think positively for they felt it would help Sonic come back. A few tense seconds passed. Sonic still didn't move. Knuckles shook his head sadly. It appeared that Sonic was dead. The regeneration was too late. They had failed to save him. Tails put his hands over his eyes and sobbed loudly. He had only just gotten de-roboticized yesterday and now Sonic was gone. He would never recover from this terrible passing. Sally wrapped her arms around Sonic's body and began to cry harder. She wasn't believing that Sonic would be OK. She was convinced that her beloved hedgehog was dead. She was feeling hysterical. Her body trembled and she was drowning in tears.

"NO! Sonic…no…please no!" whimpered Sally, "Please don't leave me! Don't leave us Royal Fighters! We love you! I love you…" she whispered into her boyfriend's ear, knowing that he probably wouldn't hear her but nevertheless, she hoped that that was the last thing he would ever hear.

With her grief spilled out in a single sentence, Sally buried her head into Sonic's chest and cried, feeling for all the world she would never stop. The Royal Fighters all began to cry too, fearing that their bravest, noblest, adventurous, most big-hearted hero and Royal Fighter was dead. Poor Sonic the Hedgehog. He would never live to see Enerjak's death celebrated and a brand new day to open up on Mobius, a day that shouldn't even be coming. Boyfriends and husbands hugged their howling girlfriends and wives, creating a very sad and depressing atmosphere. How swiftly a cheer of victory had died out into one of the saddest days of Mobius history. It would probably even go down as the legitimately saddest day in the history of Mobius's universe. After a few miserable seconds passed, something amazing happened. Sonic's hand began to move! His hand reached up to Sally's face and lightly stroked the damp, wet fur that had been soaked by the still pouring rain. Sally ignored it, dismissing it as somebody else's hand and refusing to let go of her boyfriend. Then Sonic turned his head to one side and opened his eyes slowly. The Chaos Regeneration had worked after all. His injuries had been so bad that the regeneration just required him to lie still for longer just to full fix him up. Sonic's face curled into a smile as Sally lifted her head up from his chest and stared into his eyes. Her tear-soaked eyes shot open and her jaw dropped.

"Hey…I love you too my beautiful queen." Sonic whispered hoarsely.

"OH SONIC!" shrieked Sally ecstatically.

She hugged Sonic tightly and pulled the hedgehog into a deep, passionate kiss that made the hedgehog feel like a new Mobian. Sonic returned the hug and kissed his beautiful girlfriend back. The Royal Fighters saw what was happening and they all cheered delightedly. The atmosphere around them was no longer sorrowful and bleak. It was now the happiest kind of atmosphere they could possibly imagine. The Hero of Mobius was still alive! What a miracle it was! And how happy and grateful the Royal Fighters were that their biggest hero was still alive. Now he could celebrate Enerjak's death along with them.

"HE'S ALIVE! YES! SONIC'S ALIVE!" hollered Tails.

"Yes I am." said Sonic brightly, "Thanks for the Chaos Regeneration Knuckie, I really needed that." he added, winking at the echidna.

Knuckles just smiled with pleasure. He had saved Sonic's life. This was the proudest moment of his life and his father would be so, so proud of his son if he could see him now. Tails threw himself at Sonic and hugged him along with Sally, earning a chuckle of pleasure from the fox.

"I'm so glad you're alive Sonic!" cried Tails.

"Thanks buddy." said Sonic, "I thought I was dead too. I tell ya, Enerjak got pretty damn close! That Chaos Blast I used saved me! I'm glad it did too for I promised you a great day between us to help you recover from Finitevus's evil." he added, smiling heart-warmingly at his brother figure.

"Oh Sonic…thank you so much!" said Tails delightedly, "That sounds wonderful!"

"Indeed." said Sally, her eyes trickling with happy tears now, "And now Sonic's alive, he can still give you that grand day Tails."

"Indeed I can." said Sonic brightly, "For now though. One more thing to say…WE BEAT ENERJAK!" he hollered at the top of his voice,

"MOBIUS IS SAVED! IT'S NOT THE END OF THE WORLD FOR US! WE DID IT! HOORAAAAAAAAAAY!"

He punched the air triumphantly, earning a tumultuous applause from his friends as they cheered with him. This applause would go on for many, many minutes and the Royal Fighters intended for it to go on for as long as they wanted it to. This was the happiest day of their lives and Sonic being alive had just made it happier. Sonic relished the cheering and the happiness that was carried all around his friends. The clouds up in the sky parted and the sun came back out as if nature itself was smiling at the heroes and their efforts to save the world. Mobius would live on for many more days. And the future would be brilliant and wonderful. And Sonic would enjoy every last moment he spent in it. After all, he had plenty of life left in him to have more adventures. And he already had an idea on his next adventure…

Footnotes:

See *The Terror of Enerjak

What...an...epic...finale!

Well here you go folks, the final chapter of Heroes of Mobius! Hope you enjoyed reading it as much as I've enjoyed writing it! But it's not QUITE over yet...tune in next time, for the FINAL time, as we get an epilogue to the entire series. You'll love it. ;)

Epilogue: After the Storm

Epilogue: After The Storm

Dark Armada Epilogue

It was late afternoon after the Royal Fighters had stopped celebrating the demise of Enerjak and gone back home to NewMobotropolis. The other Royal Fighter teams had gone home to their respective countries via the warp ring that the Dark Armada traitor Roxy the Raccoon had given to the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters. Being as the threat of Enerjak was over, the Royal Fighters didn't all need to be together anymore. So now the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were left in New Mobotropolis to gather around and think back about the events of today.

Today should have been the day the world ended. The nefarious Chaos scientist Dr. Finitevus became Enerjak and destroyed the world, leaving few survivors and the world in a state of decay. It was a future that Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat lived in and they had tried time and again to find out what doomed Mobius and how they could stop it. They had been the ones to find out about the world ending because of Enerjak and they had warned Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends in advance. This vital information had played a key part in their survival of Enerjak's wrath. Because they knew what they were up against, they had put their all into surviving the battle with Enerjak whilst also trying to stop him. Thanks to the 109 Chaos Emeralds that Finitevus had used to become Enerjak, Sonic became hyper-powered and had defeated the evil god although it had nearly cost him his life. The Royal Fighters had celebrated the demise of Enerjak before returning home and now the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were back together at home, there was one thing left to do. Silver and Blaze needed a trip home but Blaze's Sol Emeralds had been destroyed so they couldn't go home with them. Knuckles the Echidna had used the Master Emerald to super-charge the warp ring they got from Roxy, the only surviving relic of Dr. Finitevus now. Thanks to the Master Emerald, Silver and Blaze now had a Super Warp Ring. They could use it to go back home. As for the Master Emerald itself, the Royal Fighters had seen to bringing it and the 108 Chaos Emeralds home with them so they could figure out what to do with the emeralds. Silver took the warp ring from Knuckles, noticing how warm it felt after the super charge and he smiled at him.

"Thanks." he said graciously, "Me and Blaze can go home now."

"You're welcome." said Knuckles brightly.

"Thank you Silver and Blaze, for everything you've done for us." said Queen Sally Acorn, shaking both their hands graciously.

"You're the heroes of Mobius." said Sonic, "Without you, we would NEVER have prepared for Enerjak's coming. Because of you two, we survived and now we're here to celebrate a day that was supposed to be the doom of us all."

"You're very, VERY welcome." said Blaze, hugging Sonic and Sally each, "It was our pleasure. We wanted Mobius to have a better future so a better future is what we've helped to bring."

"When you go home, can you keep the warp ring open so we can see what Mobius looks like in the future?" asked Tails the Fox curiously.

"Sure." said Silver brightly.

He flicked open the Super Warp Ring, the ring expanding to about five times its normal size and opening up a portal to Mobius 200 years in the future. The Super WarpRing was now the size of a huge window. As far as Sonic was concerned, it was like looking through a window to the future. Silver and Blaze stepped through the warp ring hand in hand and warped back into their future.

As they emerged from the warp ring, they both gasped in surprise and amazement. Their future was completely fixed! Nothing was a wreck anymore! Cities were standing tall and displaying amazing architecture and sky scrapers, forests flourished all around, grass covered the ground and beautiful water streamed through the rivers and into the fast blue ocean! The sky was a beautiful blue and healthy, happy Mobians roamed around without a care in the world, going about their daily lives and enjoying themselves. Vehicles roamed through the roads and skies. It looked very much like Mobius back in 2144. The silver hedgehog and purple cat both burst into tears of joy. They'd finally done it! Their future was no longer a wreck! Enerjak had been the missing link in the chain of events that led to Mobius's destruction! They had finally got it right! Silver picked Blaze up and twirled her around, earning a giggle from his feline love interest.

"YESSSSS! FINALLY! Our future's perfect!" cried Silver ecstatically, "We prevented the end of the world and gave Mobius a perfect future!"

"Oh Silver…it's…it's wonderful!" sobbed Blaze happily, hugging the hedgehog tightly, "It's what I've always dreamed of! I'm so happy right now that I could just…just…"

"I'm happy too Blaze!" cried Silver delightedly, "All our hard work… and we've been rewarded with this! I hope this isn't a dream!"

"It's no dream Silver…it's the beautiful truth." said Blaze breathlessly.

Delighted, she and Silver shared a loving kiss with each other. Sonic watched the whole scene with awe, pleased to see that Silver and Blaze's future was finally what they wanted. There was a happy ending for everybody today. And how grand it felt indeed. Silver and Blaze broke up their kiss and waved goodbye to the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters.

"Goodbye everyone!" cried Silver, "Enjoy the present! You can all rest knowing that the future is glorious now!"

"We'll see you again soon my friends! Bye!" called Blaze.

"See ya around future heroes!" cried Sonic, "And thank you!"

Beaming delightedly, Silver and Blaze closed up the Super Warp Ring, leaving Sonic and friends alone to enjoy their lives while they were happening. Now that Silver and Blaze were taken care of, Sonic turned to his friends.

"How about that then guys?" he asked, "Finitevus really thought we were fighting for something we couldn't achieve. Well look at us! We have a glorious future that Silver and Blaze now live in and we're all still alive to enjoy everything!"

"Not all of us ah'm afraid…" said Bunnie Rabboh sadly, "Ah wish Geoffrey was still here to see this."

Sonic knew what Bunnie meant. Geoffrey St. John was a good soldier and Bunnie's boyfriend. He'd been a credit to the Royal Fighters but sadly, had tragically lost his life to the Dark Armada a few days ago. Sonic patted Bunnie on the back gently.

"I'm sure Geoffrey's looking down on us right now." he said, pointing up to the heavens above, "And he'll be joyful about the fact Mobius is at peace at last."

"Indeed sugah hog…" said Bunnie, crying tears of happiness, "We finally did it mah sweet Geoffrey. Mobius is peaceful again and no threats are around to end the world anymore!"

In her mind, she imagined that Geoffrey was expressing his joy to her. He would be so happy to see Mobius peaceful again if he was still alive now. Pleased that Bunnie was feeling better, Sonic turned back to his friends.

"So who knows what the future holds for us?" asked Sonic delightedly.

"Indeed blue dude." said MandyMouse with a pretty smile on her face, "We can live our lives to the fullest now we're still alive to enjoy them."

"We don't have to worry about any threats anymore." beamed Wilson the Dog brightly.

"What an honour it is to be at peace again! This time, for good!" squealed Ruben the Water Panther excitedly.

"You bet my loveable water boy!" cried Sora Prower, hugging her watery boyfriend gleefully.

"We've fought hard for a good few years to get Mobius the way it used to be…and we've succeeded." beamed a very happy Amy Rose, "Oh I'm so happy! I just wanna throw a party and dance all night!"

"Please can me and Cosmo come to the party if you throw one Miss Rose?" asked Cream the Rabbit sweetly.

"Of course!" cried Amy, hugging her two best friends delightedly, "I'd be happy to invite you two! Heck, I'll throw a celebration party first thing tonight and I'll invite everybody!" she added, grinning widely at the thought.

"And I'll dance the night away with my sweet little Tails." said Cosmo the Seedrian happily, walking back over to Tails and hugging him.

"Me too my little flower." said Tails brightly, hugging Cosmo back.

"It's gonna be a fun party that's for sure." agreed Vector the Crocodile, smiling widely with his big, toothy jaws.

"Wheeeeee! Partyyyyyyyyyyy! Yahoo, yahoo, yahoo!" squealed Charmy Bee ecstatically, "I'm gonna enjoy tonight!"

"I'm sure you will." said Espio with a dry smile on his normally serious face.

"It'll be the party of a life time." said Shade the Echidna, standing beside Knuckles and holding his arm, "Me and you may not be the biggest party animals, but we'll have fun too right handsome?"

"You bet gorgeous." said Knuckles agreeably.

"Me, Sally and Nicole could provide all the food for the party if you want Amy." offered Abby the Squirrel, "I love to cook and make food, especially for a party."

"Sure, you girls have my express permission to provide the food for the party." said Amy happily.

"I can hardly wait to taste it." said Mace the Elephant hungrily, "I bet you'll all make good food for the party."

"Well tonight, we'll make as much as you can eat." giggled Nicole the A.I. Lynx, her holographic avatar winking at the elephant, "And you'll enjoy every mouthful." she added, making Mace beam delightedly.

"Am I invited too?" asked Roxy nervously. Being a former villain and how she'd once played Amy for a fool during her times as a member of Team Diamond, she wasn't sure if the hedgehog would let her in.

"Roxy, you came to us and betrayed the bad guys. That deserves an invitation in my books." said Amy with a wink.

Roxy smiled, touched by Amy's kind words. She hugged the hedgehog graciously, shedding a tear of gratitude.

"Oh thank you…" she whispered delightedly.

"No problem Roxy. You're one of us now." said Amy cheerfully.

"I agree." said Sonic, "Roxy deserves a place among us after all she's done for us. With her help, I was able to get my best buddy back." he added, stroking Tails's head playfully.

"Indeed." said Sally, "So Sonic, will you attend Amy's party tonight?" she asked curiously.

"Is the sky blue? Is grass green? Is water wet?" snickered Sonic, putting his arms around Sally, "I'll be there and me and you can dance until our feet fall off."

"I hope your dancing's better than our first date." chuckled Sally teasingly.

"Oh I've been practicing." said Sonic, winking at his girlfriend and making her feel weak at the knee, "And Sally…I've got something for you."

Sally was intrigued. What would Sonic have specially for her? The hedgehog then took Sally's hands into his own and looked lovingly into her eyes. How beautiful the queen's eyes were. He could stare at them all day. Sonic then bent down on one knee, giving many of the Royal Fighters an idea on what Sonic was doing. Sally's heart began to beat excitedly. Was Sonic about to do what it looked like he was going to do? She contained herself as Sonic smiled lovingly at his girlfriend.

"Queen Sally Acorn…will you marry me?" he asked.

The pleasant shock that Sally received from the proposal made her feel giddy with joy. She hadn't expected Sonic to finally pop the question at last. Sonic wanted to marry her! Her dreams had come true at last! Sally broke down hysterically, her face the embodiment of happiness as she threw her arms around the Hero of Mobius and hugged him tightly. The Royal Fighters all cheered, happy to see that Sonic had proposed to their beloved queen. The two were going to be very happy together, that much was certain.

"YES! Yes, yes, yes! I will marry you!" cried Sally, "Oh Sonic, you've made my dreams come true! I thought you'd never ask!"

"This hedgehog loves to surprise after all." said Sonic with a wink, "I'm ready to try marriage and you're the girl I want to spend my life with from now till forever."

"I'm glad you feel that way." said Sally happily, "And while you're my husband Sonic, you don't have to take on the title of king if you don't want. You can still be the free-spirited adventurer that we all know and love. That was the man I fell for."

"Sweet! Thanks Sally." said Sonic graciously, "I think we're going to be very happy together."

Sally nodded agreeably and the two kissed happily. Tonight the Royal Fighters would party. And later on, Sonic and Sally would be married. This was one event that nobody could possibly miss…

A month had passed since Sonic's proposal to Sally and now the blue hedgehog and the brown squirrel were standing before a crowd of happy, teary-eyed Mobians as a vicar stood before the couple, ready to wed the two. The whole month had been spent preparing for Sonic and Sally's wedding and now the wedding was here. All the Royal Fighters had been invited to the wedding and they were all in the front row seats, watching as Sonic and Sally were about to become husband and wife. Sally was a sight to behold, wearing a beautiful white wedding dress with shoulder straps, a sash around her waist and a pretend flowers around the hem of the dress. Her hair was styled into a neat ponytail and she had bracelets around her wrists. Sonic wore a tuxedo with a white shirt, a red bow-tie and golden cufflinks. He had surprisingly been allowed to keep his trademark red sneakers. Sonic had given the excuse that he felt more comfortable wearing them no matter what the situation was. Sonic looked very smart, something that made Sally feel happy to be standing beside him on the podium as their knot was about to be tied. They held hands and smiled lovingly at each other. Both were very excited about the marriage. As the vicar finished the grand speeches, he looked delightedly over to the beautiful bride standing before him. How beautiful the Queen of New Mobotropolis looked as a bride he was going to wed with the lucky man beside her.

"Do you Queen Sally Alicia Acorn take Sonic the Hedgehog to be your lawfully wedded husband to have and to hold?" asked the vicar.

"I do." said Sally with a smile.

The vicar then looked over to Sonic. This wedding would easily be the best wedding he'd been a vicar for. He was marrying the queen with the hero of Mobius himself, Sonic the Hedgehog! What could possibly be a better couple for him to wed?

"Do you Sonic the Hedgehog take her majesty Queen Sally Alicia Acorn to be your lawfully wedded wife to have and to hold?" he asked.

Sonic held Sally's hand and smiled brightly at her.

"I do." said Sonic, "It's gonna be the start of a new adventure."

Sally glowed. The fact Sonic was seeing his marriage to her this way made her feel even more pleased she was getting married to him.

"I now pronounce you husband and wife. You may kiss the bride." said the vicar delightedly.

Sonic and Sally embraced each other lovingly and they kissed quite possibly the best kiss of their lives. They were married and they could spend the rest of their lives together. The crowd watching them erupted into a mixture of excited cheers and sobs of joy as the newly weds kissed. The two were going to be a very happy couple together. And as life went on for Sonic the Hedgehog and Sally Acorn, they knew that there would be many amazing things in store for them. And with Mobius at peace and no more threats, they could enjoy them to the fullest. Their marriage was the beginning of a new adventure. And it was an adventure that both of them couldn't wait to begin…

THE END

Aaaaaaaand that's it for Heroes of Mobius my friends!

It's been a thrill ride and a great pleasure writing this epic series for you all to enjoy. Three years and ten months of my life has been well spent writing this thing. :D

A big thank you to all who read, favourited, commented, followed and enjoyed the story and gave me great feedback over the years. I couldn't have got this far without you guys. ^^

It's a shame that this story's over now...I think I'm gonna cry...sniff...excuse me...

Again, thank you all for reading and I hope you enjoyed the story!